
Admitting that the restrictions imposed must be clearly specified, still the phrases 'security of the State', 'friendly relations with foreign States' and 'public order' in S. 9 are, however phrases, which are well understood and whose connotation and meaning are not in doubt. There can hardly be two opinions as to the 'reasonableness' of restrictions imposed on speech, statement, rumour or report which tends to undermine the security of the State, to imperil friendly relations with foreign States, or to disturb public order. But the words 'decency' or 'morality' are not equally well understood. There may be wide difference of opinion as to the precise meaning of these words 'decency or 'morality'. If the Legislature intended to impose any restrictions on the freedom of speech and expression in the interest of decency and morality those prohibited acts and restrictions should be clearly specified so that it could be decided whether the restrictions were reasonable or not. Hence, the restriction imposed with regard to decency or morality is both vague and unreasonable and to the extent Section 9 is invalid. 1956 AMLJ 4: 1956 Cr LJ 658: AIR 1956 Ajmer 52 (52) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——S. 9 (as applied to Ajmer under S. R. O. 379, dated 31st January, 1954) — 'Speech', statement, etc., amounts to contempt of Court, etc., — Interpretation and reasonableness of — (Constitution of India, Preamble and Article 19 (2)).

Since there is a presumption as to the validity of the laws, the Legislature should be taken to have intended in Section 9 only to make such speeches, statements, rumours or reports as amount to contempt of Court prejudicial to the security of the State, etc., defamation prejudicial to the security, of the State, etc., or incitement to an offence prejudicial to the security of the State, etc., punishable. In that view the restrictions will not be unreasonable or even vague. 1956 AMLJ 4: 1956 Cr LJ 658: AIR 1956 Ajmer 52 (53) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——S. 9 — Applicability — Conditions.

Even if the words amount to a contempt of Court, that alone is not sufficient for bringing the case within the mischief of Section 9. The law requires that the words amounting to contempt of Court should further be prejudicial to the security of the State or to the maintenance of public order. 60 Pun LR 266: ILR (1958) Punj 1319: 1959 Cr LJ 1022: AIR 1959 Punj 379 (380) (P A) (Pr 6).

——S. 9 — Undermining of decency or morality.

In its general sense, decency means propriety or seemliness of action, speech, etc., conforming to the standards in vogue among civilized people. But the words 'decency or morality' used in the context of S. 9 do not refer to vague or general standards of appropriateness in conformity with what is becoming or considered to be in good taste. The use of the words 'decency or morality', suggest that the language that the law penalizes must be obscene signifying lewd or lustful ideas offensive to modesty and forbidden by delicacy, purity or chastity. A language which is otherwise scurrilous, insulting or abusive need not be obscene, suggestive of depravity and such as is calculated to corrupt minds open to moral influences. 60 Pun LR 266: ILR (1958) Punj 1319: 1959 Cr LJ 1022: AIR 1959 Punj 379 (380) (Pt B) (Pr 11).

——S. 9 — Applicability.

The objectionable speech by the accused was as follows:

'This despicable and mean Magistrate does not know that he is drawing his pay from our treasury. Does the despicable person not know that if his mother, sister, father or brother were to remain hungry for two days, then he would feel the pain? The Magistrate is most contemptible and mean. If Socialist Party were in power, then such a contemptible and mean Magistrate would be stripped and flogged. This bastard does not know that he is drawing his salary from our treasury'. While the case under Section 9 of the Punjab Security of State Act, 1953, for the speech was pending in the Court the accused raised objectionable slogans within the hearing of the Magistrate 'Goonda, Magistrate ki goonda gardi nahin chalegi. Ise jail ki kotheri men band kar do'.

Held, that the words used in this case with respect to the Magistrate deserved severe censure but the accused could not be convicted as his utterances did not transgress the statutory inhibitions. 60 Pun LR 266: ILR (1958) Punj 1319: 1959 Cr LJ 1022: AIR 1959 Punj 379 (381) (Pt D) (Pr 19).

——S. 9 — Constitution of India, Articles 246, 254, Sch. 7, List II, Item 1 and List III, Item 14 — Section 9, Punjab Security of the State Act is valid — No conflict between Punjab Security of the State Act (12 of 1953), Section 9 and Contempt of Courts Act (1952), Sections 3, 4. See Constitution of India, Article 246. 1956 Cri LJ 1015: AIR 1956 Punj 169 (DB).

—RAJASTHAN PUBLIC SAFETY ORDINANCE (9 of 1948)

SECTION 3

——S. 3 (1) — "Good faith' in Section 44 — Meaning — Order of detention merely reproducing grounds mentioned in Section 3 (1) — Order held not passed in good faith within Section 44. See Public Safety — Rajasthan Public Safety Ordinance (9 of 1948), Section 44. AIR 1961 Raj 64 (DB).

——S. 3 (1) — Suit against Government for compensation for act of Commissioner in ordering wrongful detention under delegated powers — Not maintainable — Maxim 'Respondeat Superior' — Law of Principal and Agent — Applicability. See Constitution of India, Article 300. AIR 1961 Raj 64 (DB).

SECTION 43

——S. 43 — Suit against Government for compensation for act of Commissioner in ordering wrongful detention under delegated powers — Not maintainable — Maxim "Respondeat Superior" — Law of Principal and Agent — Applicability. See Constitution of India, Article 300. AIR 1961 Raj 64 (DB).

SECTION 44

——S. 44 — 'Person' — Meaning — Includes Government — Suit against Rajasthan State Government for tortious act of Commissioner — Right of Government to claim protection under Sec. 44 — Kotah General Clauses Act (11 of 1945), Section 3 (34) — Rajasthan Administration Ordinance (1 of 1948), S. 3.

The Government is included in the term 'person' in Section 44 of the Public Safety Ordinance. The General Clauses Act of Kotah is applicable to the interpretation of the Public Safety Ordinance by virtue of Section 3 of Ordinance No. 1 of 1948. The definition of 'person' as per Kotah General Clauses Act is wide enough to include Government also. AIR 1956 All 383, Rel. on.

Where, therefore, a suit is brought against the Rajasthan Government for compensation for wrongful detention under the Public Safety Ordinance under an order passed by the Commissioner, the Government is entitled to claim protection under Section 44 of the Public Safety Ordinance if the other conditions laid down in Section 44 are satisfied.

Moreover, if the Commissioner is protected under S. 44, the vicarious liability of the State would also not arise for the simple reason that such liability is co-extensive with the liability incurred by the servant. 1960 Raj LW 225: ILR (1960) 10 Raj 784: AIR 1961 Raj 64 (69) (Pt C) (Pr 17) (DB).

——Ss. 44, 3 (1) — "Good faith" in Section 44 — Meaning — Order of detention merely reproducing grounds mentioned in Section 3 (1) — Order held not passed in good faith within S. 44.

Though the Central General Clauses Act and the definition given in the Indian Penal Code do not directly apply in the matter of interpretation of the term "good faith" appearing in Section 44 of the Rajasthan Public Safety Ordinance, the meaning of the term can be gathered with reference to those definitions. Any thing done honestly notwithstanding some negligence is deemed to be done in good faith.

Held, on facts that in order that Section 3 of the Ordinance may be attracted, the Commissioner had to be satisfied that the detenu was likely to commit an act prejudicial to the public safety, the maintenance of public order and Government's relations with the Government of India. 1960 Raj LW 225: ILR (1960) 10 Raj 784: AIR 1961 Raj 64 (70) (Pt D) (Pr 18) (DB).

—RAJASTHAN PUBLIC SECURITY ORDINANCE (26 of 1949)

PREAMBLE

——Pre. — Scope of Ordinance — Relation to other laws.

The provisions of the Rajasthan Public Safety Ordinance are in addition to and not in derogation of any other law for the time being in force in the whole or any part of Rajasthan. 1950 RLW 37: 51 Cr LJ 1160: AIR 1950 Raj 40 (43) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

SECTION 1

——Ss. 1, 69 — Force and operation of Ordinance.

The Ordinance came into force on 9th September, 1949, when it was made and promulgated by the Rajpramukh. Under Section 69 (1) it remained in force for a period of two years and expired on the 9th September, 1951.

[Note :— His Lordship referred to S. 5-A, General Clauses Act, in this judgment but it was subsequently held by his Lordship in a subsequent case, Atmaram v. Madanlal, D. B. Misc. Writ No. 90 of 1951, dated 27-10-1952, that reference to Section 5-A, General Clauses Act, in this was due to mistake. His Lordship observed in the subsequent case : "We now find that Section 5-A had been repealed by the India (Adaptation of Existing Indian Laws Order, 1947). This mistake took place because the copy of the General Clauses Act, 1897, then before us did not mention the repeal. However, we are of opinion that this makes no difference, because the material words of Section 5-A of the General Clauses Act are exactly the same in Section 5 (1)]. ILR (1952) 2 Raj 951: 1953 Raj LW 144: AIR 1953 Raj 78 (80) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3, 64 — Satisfaction — Powers of Court to question.

The Court cannot consider the adequacy of the reasons of information available to the Government which led to its satisfaction before the order of detention was passed. But the detenu can be allowed to show that the order was not made bona fide or was made without sufficient application of the mind of the detaining authority to the facts or requirements of the law.

Where as soon as the previous period of six months' detention expired, the Government rearrested and detained the detenu for another period of six months the order of detention is mala fide. 1950 Raj LW 37: 51 Cri LJ 1160: AIR 1950 Raj 40 (41, 45) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 11) (DB).

SECTION 5

——S. 5 — Non-compliance — Effect.

Non-compliance with the provisions of Sec. 5 only makes further detention improper and does not make the initial order of detention void ab initio. 1950 Raj LW 37: 51 Cri LJ 1160: AIR 1950 Raj 40 (44, 45) (Pt C) (Pr 9).

——S. 5 — Grounds — Sufficiency of.

The grounds communicated to the detenu must not be vague, indefinite or incomplete and must convey sufficient information to him to enable him to make the representation. If in the opinion of the Court the grounds are vague, indefinite and insufficient, further detention is illegal or improper. The ground that the detenu was an active Communist and as an agitator had been fomenting and organizing industrial strikes is vague. 1950 Raj LW 37: 51 Cri LJ 1160: AIR 1950 Raj 40 (44 to 46) (Pt D) (Prs 9, 12) (DB).

SECTION 33

——S. 33 (1) (a) and (b) — Order under Section 33 (1) (a) before expiry of Ordinance — Disobedience after expiry — Action under Section 33 (1) (d) cannot be taken after expiry as it amounts to deprivation of property of the owner against whom the order is passed, within the meaning of Article 31 (1) of the Constitution. (State was ordered to restore the property). ILR (1952) 2 Raj 951: 1953 Raj LW 144: AIR 1953 Raj 78 (80, 83) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 18) (DB).

SECTION 62

——S. 62 — Scope of Ordinance — Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 491.

The provisions of Rajasthan Public Security Ordinance are in addition to and not in derogation of any other law for the time being in force in the whole or in part of Rajasthan such as the provisions of Section 491, Criminal P. C. 1950 Raj LW 37: 51 Cri LJ 1160: AIR 1950 Raj 40 (43) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

SECTION 64

——S. 64 — Satisfaction of detaining authority — Province of Court.

The sufficiency of the material on which the satisfaction of the detaining authority was based cannot be the subject of scrutiny by the Courts. But the detenu can be allowed to show that the order was not bona fide or was made without sufficient application of the mind of the detaining authority to the fact or requirements of law. 1950 RLW 37: 51 Cr LJ 1160: AIR 1950 Raj 40 (41, 45) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 11) (DB).

SECTION 69

——Ss. 69, 1 — Ordinance came into force when it was made and promulgated by the Rajpramukh, i.e., on 9th September 1949 — Under Section 69 (1), it remained in force for period of two years and expired on 9th September 1951. See Rajasthan Public Security Ordinance (1949), Section 1. AIR 1953 Raj 78 (DB).

—SAURASHTRA STATE PUBLIC SAFETY MEASURES ORDINANCE (9 of 1948)

PREAMBLE

——Pre. — Satisfaction of Magistrate.

Unless there is any internal evidence to show that the District Magistrate has not applied his mind to the question, the High Court would have no power to interfere with an order of detention made by the District Magistrate. 3 Sau LR 48: AIR 1950 Sau 12 (13) (Pt A) (Pr 1) (DB).

——Pre. — Grounds for detention — Supply of, to detenu without delay.

Even if the District Magistrate is in correspondence with the Government for considering the release of the detenu that is no reason at all why, once he receives an application from the detenu for furnishing grounds he should not send those grounds to him even through the Home Department as expeditiously as possible. 3 Sau LR 48: AIR 1950 Sau 12 (13) (Pt B) (Pr 2) (DB).

SECTION 6-A

——S. 6-A (as modified by Ordinance 38 of 1948 and by Act 7 of 1950) — Section 6-A if ultra vires — Constitution of India, Art. 19 (2).

Unless the security of the State is endangered there can be no restriction on the freedom of expression under Article 19 of the Constitution of India. Section 6-A, Ordinance 9 of 1948 would be ultra vires because the words 'Security of State' are not there. Hence, a precensorship order passed under Section 6-A would be bad as well as ultra vires. ('50) 3 Sau LR 267: AIR 1951 Sau 9 (10) (Prs 4, 5) (DB).

—SAURASHTRA STATE PUBLIC SAFETY MEASURES (THIRD AMENDMENT) ORDINANCE (66 of 1949)

SECTION 9

——Ss. 9, 10 and 11 — If offend against principle of delegatus non potest delegare.

The legislation contained in Sections 9, 10 and 11 of the Saurashtra State Public Safety Measures (Third Amendment) Ordinance is valid and is not obnoxious to the principle of delegatus non potest delegare. 52 Cr LJ 1300: AIR 1951 Sau 69 (70) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

SECTION 10

——S. 10 — Validity — Constitution of India, Article 14.

The Legislative Authority in promulgating the Ordinance has not made any distinction between any person or any class of persons or denied equal protection of laws. What has been done is to constitute Special Courts for the trial of certain cases. So far as the procedure is concerned, it is bound to vary from place to place as exigencies and peculiar circumstances of society vary. This does not mean that the State is denying equality before the law. No person has any vested right in any particular procedure. It is for the State to legislate about the forum and procedure of seeking remedies for infringement of substantial rights and such forum and procedure are bound to vary. Hence the Constitution of the Special Court under Section 10 of the Ordinance is not in contravention of Article 14. AIR 1951 Hyderabad 11, Rel. on. 52 Cri LJ 1300: AIR 1951 Sau 69 (70) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——S. 10 — Valid and not obnoxious to the principle of delegatus non potest delegare. 52 Cri LJ 1300: AIR 1951 Sau 69 (73) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

SECTION 11

●——S. 11 — Ordinance is intra vires and constitutional — Constitution of India, Article 14.

Per Patanjali Sastri C. J. and Fazl Ali, B. K. Mukherjea and Das JJ,; (Mahajan,, Chandrasekhara Aiyar and Vivian Bose JJ. Contra) — The Saurashtra State Public Safety Measures (Third Amendment) Ordinance, 1949, is not unconstitutional. Section 11 of the Saurashtra Ordinance in so far as it authorises the State Government to direct offences or classes of offences or classes of cases to be tried by the Special Court does not offend against the equal protection clause of the Constitution of India, and the notification No. II 35-5 C. D/- 9-2-1950 which has been issued by the Saurashtra Government under that part of the Section cannot be held to be invalid or ultra vires. AIR 1952 SC 75, Disting.

Per Patanjali Sastri C. J.: — The impugned Ordinance having been passed to combat the increasing tempo of certain types of regional crime, the twofold classification on the lines of type and territory adopted in the impugned Ordinance, read with the notification issued thereunder, is reasonable and valid, and the degree of disparity of treatment involved is in no way in excess of what the situation demanded.

Per Fazl Ali J.:— The clear recital of a definite objective furnishes a tangible and rational basis of classification to the State Government for the purpose of applying the provisions of the Ordinance and for choosing only such offences or cases as affect public safety, maintenance of public order and preservation of peace and tranquillity. Thus, under Section 11, the State Government is expected to select only such offences or class of offences or class of cases for being tried by the Special Court in accordance with the special procedure, as are calculated to affect public safety, maintenance of public order etc., and under Section 9, the use of the special procedure must necessarily be confined to only disturbed areas or those areas where adoption of public safety measures is necessary. This is in plain language the rational of the Ordinance, and it will be going too far to say that in no case and under no circumstances can a legislature lay down a special procedure for the trial of a particular class of offences, and that recourse to a simplified and less combrous procedure for the trial of those offences, even when abnormal conditions prevail, will amount to a violation of Article 14 of the Constitution.

Per Das J.— Section 11 of the Saurashtra Ordinance, like Section 5 (1) of the West Bengal Special Courts Act, refers to four distinct categories, namely, "offences" "classes of offences", "cases", and "classes of cases" and empowers the State Government to direct any one or more of these categories to be tried by the Special Court constituted under the Act. The expressions "offences", "classes of offences" and "classes of cases" clearly indicate and obviously imply a process of classification of offences or cases. Prima facie those words do not contemplate any particular offender or any particular accused in any particular case. The emphasis is on "offences", "Classes of offences" or "classes of cases". The classification of offence by itself is not calculated to touch any individual as such, although it may, after the classification is made, affect all individuals who may commit the particular offence. In short, the classification implied in this part of the sub-section has no reference, to and is not directed towards the singling out of any particular person as an object of hostile State action but is concerned only with grouping of "offences", "classes of offences" and "classes of cases" for the purpose of the particular legislation as recited in its preamble. Section 11 of the Ordinance properly construed and understood, does not confer an uncontrolled and unguided power on the State Government. On the contrary, this power is controlled by the necessity for making a proper classification which is to be guided by the preamble in the sense that the classification must have a rational relation to the object of the Act as recited in the preamble. It is, therefore, not an arbitrary power. The Legislature has left it to the State Government to classify offences or classes of offences or classes of cases for the purpose of the Ordinance, for the State Government is in better position to judge the needs and exigencies of the State and the Court will not lightly interfere with the decision of the State Government. If at any time, however, the State Government classifies offences arbitrarily and not on any reasonable basis having a relation to the object of the Act, its action will be either an abuse of its power if it is purposeful or in excess of its powers even if it is done in good faith and in either case the resulting discrimination will encounter the challenge of the Constitution and the Court will strike down, not the law which is good but, the abuse or misuse or the unconstitutional administration of the law creating or resulting in unconstitutional discrimination.

Per Mahajan J. (Dissenting) — Section 11 of the Ordinance, like Section 5 (1) of the West Bengal Act (10 of 1950), suggests no reasonable basis or classification either in respect of offences or in respect of cases. It has laid down no measure for the grouping either of persons or of cases or of offences by which measure these groups could be distinguished from those outside the purview of the Special Act. The State Government can choose a case of a person similarly situate and hand it over to the special tribunal and leave the case of another person in the same circumstances to be tried by the procedure laid down in the Criminal Procedure Code. It can direct that the offences of simple hurt be tried by the special tribunal, while a more serious offence be tried in the ordinary way. Section 11 of the Ordinance offends against Article 14 of the Constitution and is, therefore, unconstitutional. Raning Rawat v. State of Saurashtra, 1952 Mad WN 762: 1952 Mad WN (Crl) 210: (1952) SCA 245: 1952 SCJ 168: 1952 SCR 435: 1952 Cri LJ 805: AIR 1952 SC 123 (126, 128, 129, 133, 136, 137, 138) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 20, 22, 23, 36, 47, 48, 54, 57).

●——S. 11 — Validity — Delegated legislation— Constitution of India, Article 245.

Per Mukherjea and Das JJ.:— Section 11 of the Saurashtra Ordinance is not a case of a delegated legislation at all but is an instance of conditional legislation coming within the rule of Queen v. Burah (AIR 1945 PC 48) and is not illegal on that ground.

Per Patanjali Sastri C. J.— Legislature in India have plenary authority to delegate their power to make laws to subordinate agencies of their choice and such delegation, however inexpedient or undesirable politically, is constitutionally competent. AIR 1951 SC 332, Ref. Raning Rawat v. State of Saurashtra, 1952 Mad WN 762: 1952 Mad WN (Crl) 210: (1952) SCA 245: 1952 SCJ 168: 1952 Cri LJ 805: 1952 SCR 435: AIR 1952 SC 123 (126) (Pt C) (Pr 9).

——S. 11 — Sch. 11 is valid and not obnoxious to the principle of delegatus non potest delegare. 52 Cri LJ 1300: AIR 1951 Sau 69 (73) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

—TRAVANCORE-COCHIN PUBLIC SAFETY MEASURES ACT (5 OF 1950)

PREAMBLE

——Pre. — Validity of Act — State Legislature's competency to pass Act — State Legislature was competent to pass the Act. See Constitution of India (1950), Art. 246 (3). 1953 Cri LJ 1786: AIR 1953 Trav-Co. 540.

——Pre. — Repeal of Act — Effect of — Paddy (Acquisition and Movement) Control Order, 1950 kept alive after 17th August 1950. See Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act, 1946, as amended in 1950, S. 17 (4), Proviso. AIR 1952 Trav-Co 455 (DB).

——Pre. — Act if invalid as not having been assented to by the President.

Quaere.—Whether the Travancore-Cochin Public Safety Measures Act is not validly passed by the State Government because the President has not given his assent to it or whether it is authorised under Art. 246 (2) of the Constitution of India? ILR (1951) Trav-Co 655: AIR 1952 Trav-Co 455 (458) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Pre. — Act if ultra vires—The Act and Paddy (Acquisition and Movement) Control Order (1950) promulgated thereunder are not ultra vires. 1951 Ker LT 268: ILR (1951) Trav-Co 691: AIR 1951 Trav-Co 241 (244) (Pt D) (Pr 7) (DB).

SECTION 3

——S. 3 — Constitution of India, Arts. 304 (b), Proviso, 246, Seventh Schedule, List I, Entry 48; List II, Entries 26, 27 — Validity — Section is ultra vires for lack of sanction of President under Article 304 (b), Proviso — Art. 304 controls Art. 246 — Art. 304 (b), Proviso does not affect validity of repeal under S. 73 of the Act of 1950 — Repeal under S. 73 of Act 5 of 1950 is valid — As S. 3 of the Act is void, notifications issued under it are also invalid and cannot continue under S. 73 (2) — Suit contracts entered into in February 1952 not affected by notification under Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946) also. See Constitution of India, Art. 304 (b), Proviso. AIR 1964 Ker 92 (DB).

●——S. 3 — 'Not bill or amendment shall be introduced or moved' — Meaning of — S. 3, Travancore-Cochin Public Safety Measures Act, 1950, is ultra vires of the Constitution for lack of Presidential sanction prescribed by Art. 304. See Constitution of India, Art. 304, Proviso. 1955 Cri LJ 844: AIR 1955 Trav-Co 82 (FB).

——S. 3 — Validity — (Constitution of India, Art. 304 (b).

Section 3 of the Travancore-Cochin Public Security Measures Act, 1950, is void and inoperative for lack of Presidential sanction insisted upon by the proviso to Art. 304 (b) of the Constitution. Since the invalid portion of S. 3 is not separable from rest of the portions of S. 3 which deals only with transport and manufacture, the whole of S. 3 must be declared ultra vires and invalid. 1953 Ker LT 863: 1954 Cri LJ 669: ILR (1954) Trav-Co 139: AIR 1954 Trav-Co 257 (257, 258) (Pt B) (Prs 3, 8) (DB).

——S. 3—Is ultra vires being without the previous sanction of the President and therefore illegal. See Constitution of India, Art. 246 (3). 1954 Cri LJ 63: AIR 1954 Trav-Co 34 (DB). —

——S. 3 — Scope — Travancore-Cochin Paddy (Acquisition and Movement) Control Order, 1950—

Scope — If ultra vires — Locus standi to impeach Act and Order.

It cannot be said that the Travancore-Cochin Public Safety Measures Act, 1950, and the Paddy (Acquisition and Movement) Control Order, 1950, made under the former Act are ultra vires. Where a party himself applies for reliefs under that Act and the order made thereunder, it is not open to him on failing to obtain the reliefs provided therein to turn round and raise the contention that the Act and the Order are ultra vires. ILR (1951) Trav-Co 691: 1951 Ker LT 268: AIR 1951 Trav-Co. 241 (244) (Pt D) (Pr 7) (DB).

SECTION 4

——Ss. 4 and 11 — Construction — 'On account of water used for purposes of irrigation' — Meaning of — Demand notices relating to dewatering charges for Kole cultivation—Provisions of Revenue Recovery Act cannot be invoked exercising powers under Ss. 4 and 7 of the Public Measures Act under R. 12. See Travancore-Cochin Revenue Recovery Act (7 of 1951), S. 2 (a). 1957 Ker LJ 386: 1957 Ker LT 431.

——Ss. 4, 5, 6, 14 (part relating to S. 4) and 15— Part of the Act relating to requisitioning of property — Validity — (Constitution of India, Arts. 31 (3), 200).

Sections 4, 5, 6, 14 (part relating to S. 4) and 15 are the parts of Act 5 of 1950 having reference to the subject of requisitioning of property and they would have no effect as a law for purposes of Clause 2 of Article 31.

Act 5 of 1950 not having been reserved for the consideration of the President and not having received his assent, has no effect and would not constitute "law" within the meaning of Clause 2 of Article 31. Act 5 of 1950 is an Act providing for requisitioning of property and several other matters unconnected with and separable from requisitioning. Article 31 prescribes the necessity for reservation of a law regarding requisitioning or acquisition of property for the consideration of the President and that part of Act 5 of 1950 pertaining to the requisitioning of property cannot have effect as the requirements of Clause 3 of Article 31 have not been complied with. That part is severable from other parts of that Act and the defect attaching to the part relating to the requisitioning of property will not affect the other parts of that Act.

The contention that the expression having been reserved for the consideration of the President, has received his assent "should be construed as meaning". If it has been reserved for the consideration of the President, has received his assent "based on Article 200, is clearly and obviously untenable. The reservation that has to be made under Cl. 3, of Art. 31, for the consideration of the President is of a Law". A Bill passed by the Legislative Assembly or in a case where there is a Legislative Council also, by both the Houses, would continue to be a Bill even after its passage by the House or Houses. It becomes law on assent being accorded to it by the Governor. Article 200 refers only to Bills which have not become law by assent thereto declared by the Governor. That article cannot, therefore, be relied upon as giving any guidance to the construction of Clause 3 of Article 31 which relates to the reservation of a 'Law' for the consideration of the President. The language of Clause 3 is clear. The words used are "having been reserved for the consideration of the President has received his assent" clearly indicating that there should have been a reservation for the consideration of the President and there must have been his assent. 1952 Ker LT 372: 1954 Cri LJ 274: ILR (1952) Trav-Co 519: AIR 1954 Trav-Co 145 (148, 150) (Pt A) (Prs 10, 12).

——S. 4 — Scope of.

Section 4 gives the Government wide powers. The use of the discretion by the Government is absolute and no further question can arise upon it unless it is shown that the requisitioning was actuated by mala fides or manifest fraud upon the statute or the power conferred by the statute was utilised for some indirect purpose not connected with the object of the Act.

The High Court will not, therefore, interfere in such matters in the absence of any invalidating circumstances. 1950 Ker LT 689: AIR 1951 Trav-Co 221 (224) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

SECTION 5

——S. 5 — Sections 4, 5, 6, 14 (part relating to S. 4) and 15 are the parts of Act (5 of 1950) having reference to the subject of requisitioning of property and they would have no effect as a law for the purposes of Clause 2 of Art. 31, the Act not having been reserved for the consideration of the President and not having received his assent. See Public Safety — Travancore-Cochin Public Safety Measures Act (5 of 1950), S. 4. 1954 Cri LJ 274: AIR 1954 Trav-Co 145.

SECTION 6

——S. 6 — Sections 4, 5, 6, 14 (part relating to S. 4) and 15 are the parts of Act 5 of 1950 having reference to the subject of requisitioning of property and they would have no effect as a law for the purpose of Cl. 2 of Art. 31; the Act not having been reserved for the consideration of the President and not having received his assent. See Public Safety — Travancore-Cochin Public Saftey Measures Act (5 of 1950), S. 4. 1954 Cri LJ 274: AIR 1954 Trav-Co 145.

SECTION 7

——S. 7 — Scope and effect of — Neither S. 4 nor S. 7 empowers Kole Cultivation Authority to invoke provisions of Revenue Recovery Act. 1957 Ker LJ 386: 1957 Ker LT 431.

SECTION 13

——Ss. 13 and 22 — Scope and object of.

Obiter—Although the wording of S. 22 of the Public Safety Measures Act is wide enough to take in a power conferred on an officer by an order made under S. 13, the real purpose of S. 22 is to provide for an appeal from the decision of an officer in exercise of powers conferred by the Act itself, (for example by S. 8) as also from the decision of an officer in exercise of powers delegated to him by the Government under S. 15, in other words, of powers conferred under the Act. 1957 Ker LJ 380: 1957 Ker LT 411: AIR 1957 Ker 109 (111) (Pt D) (Pr 5).

——S. 13 — Scope — Refund of rent recovered in excess of fair rent — The Executive Government have not overstepped the limits of their authority under S. 13 of the Act in enacting the provisions for refund or adjustment under S. 6, Cl. (c) of Cochin Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Proclamation 4 of 1922. See Houses and Rents — Travancore-Cochin Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Order (1950), S. 6(c). AIR 1957 Ker 59.

——S. 13 — Travancore-Cochin Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Order (1950), R. 16 — Rule 16 is ultra vires — The Act 5 of 1950 contemplates only two tribunals whereas the rules provide for three tribunals and, therefore, the provision in R. 16 constituting the Government a revisional Court is ultra vires. See Houses and Rents—Travancore-Cochin Buildings (Lease and Rent) Control Order (1950), R. 16. AIR 1954 Trav-Co 465.

SECTION 14

——S. 14 — Sections 4, 5, 6, 14 (part relating to S. 4) and 15 are parts of Act 5 of 1950 having reference to the subject of requisitioning of property and they would have no effect as a law for the purposes of Clause 2 of Article 31, the Act not having been reserved for the consideration of the President and not having received his assent. See Public Safety — Travancore-Cochin Public Safety Measures Act (5 of 1950), S. 4. 1954 Cri LJ 274: AIR 1954 Trav-Co. 145.

SECTION 15

——Ss. 15 and 22 — Non-mention of Sections in Preamble to Rent Control Order — Effect — (Houses and Rents — Travancore-Cochin (Lease and Rent Control) Order (1950), Cls. 15 and 16)— (Interpretation of Statutes).

The intention to provide for an appeal and a revision is clear from the provisions made in the Rent Control Order in that behalf, and if the Government had the power to make provisions for these matters under Ss. 15 and 22 of the Publice Safety Measures Act, they must be presumed to have exercised that power notwithstanding that these sections are not expressly mentioned in the preamble to the Order. Whatever a preamble to a statutory order or notification might say, the presumption is that it is made in exercise of all the powers conferred by the statute in question. 1957 Ker LJ 380: 1957 Ker LT 411: AIR 1957 Ker 109 (111) (Pt E) (Pr 6).

——S. 15 — Travancore-Cochin Buildings (Lease) and Rent Control) Order (1950), Cl. 15 — Appointment of District Magistrate as appellate authority is valid as is clear from Ss. 22 and 15 of the Travancore-Cochin Public Safety Measures Act 5 of 1950. AIR 1955 NUC (Trav-Co) 1162 (DB).

——S. 15 — Travancore-Cochin Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Order (1950), Cl. 16 — Clause is intra vires as S. 15 of the Act confers on the Government the power to impose the conditions mentioned in the clause. AIR 1955 NUC (Trav-Co) 1162 (DB).

——S. 15 — Travancore-Cochin Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Order (1950), R. 16 — Rule 16 is ultra vires — From the language of S. 15 empowering the Government to delegate its right to hear appeals 'under such conditions', it cannot be held that the delegation of power to hear appeals to the District Magistrate would imply the power of Government to revise the orders passed by the District Magistrate in appeal. Rule 16 passed under S. 13 of Act 5 of 1950 is, therefore, ultra vires. See Houses and Rents — Travancore-Cochin Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Order (1950), R. 16. AIR 1954 Trav-Co 465.

——S. 15 — Part of the Act relating to requisitioning of property and they would have no effect as a law for the purposes of Clause 2, Art. 31, the Act not having been reserved for the consideration of the president and not having received his assent. See Public Safety — Travancore-Cochin Public Safety Measures Act (5 of 1950), S. 4. AIR 1954 Trav-Co. 145.

SECTION 21

——S. 21 — 'Order' — Includes 'notified order' such as the T. C. Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Order, 1950. AIR 1955 NUC (Trav-Co.) 1162 (DB).

SECTION 22

——S. 22 — Object of — Obiter — Although the wording of Sec. 22 of the Act 5 of 1950 is wide enough to take in a power conferred on an officer by an order made under Sec. 13 the real purpose of Sec. 22 is to provide for an appeal from the decision of an officer in exercise of powers conferred by the Act itself as also from the decision of an officer in exercise of the powers delegated to him by the Government under S. 15, in other words, of powers conferred under the Act. See Public Safety — Travancore-Cochin Public Safety Measures Act (5 of 1950), S. 13. AIR 1957 Ker 109.

——S. 22 — Non-mention of Sections in Preamble to Rent Control Order — Effect — Presumption from the provisions of appeal and revision made in Rent Control order in that behalf and as the power to make provision is under Ss. 15 and 22 of the Act the presumption is that the powers were exercised under Ss. 15 and 22 though they were not mentioned in the preamble. See Public Safety — Travancore-Cochin Public Safety Measures Act (5 of 1950), S. 15. AIR 1957 Ker 109.

——S. 22 — T. C. Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Order (1950), Cl. 15 — Appointment of District Magistrate as appellate authority is valid as is clear from S. 22 and S. 15 of the T. C. Public Safety Measures Act (5 of 1950). AIR 1955 NUC (Trav-Co.) 1162 (DB).

SECTION 23

——S. 23 — Validity — (Constitution of India (1950), Art. 19 (4)).

The Travancore-Cochin Safety Measures Act contains no privision for a judicial review of the declaration nor does it provide for a reference to any advisory board. Section 23 of the Act which is nothing but a reproduction of Sec. 16, Indian Criminal Law Amendment Act with words added to widen its scope and amplitude and contains restrictions which are not in any sense reasonable within the meaning of Art. 19 (4) of the Constitution. Therefore the section and the notification issued under the same declaring the Cochin Communist Party unlawful are ultra vires the Constitution. AIR 1952 SC 196, Rel. on. 1953 Cr LJ 915: 1952 Ker LT 530: AIR 1953 Trav-Co 174 (174, 175) (Prs 2, 3) (DB).

SECTION 31

——S. 31 (5) — Not ultra vires Art. 19 (1) (a) of Constitution. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (a). 1964 (1) Cri LJ 400: AIR 1964 Ker 104 (DB).

——S. 31 — Validity — (Constitution of India (1950), Art. 19 (2)).

The restriction imposed by the section is of the nature permitted by Art. 19 (2) of the Constitution and is not ultra vires of the Constitution. 1953 Cr LJ 1786: 1953 Ker LT 482: AIR 1953 Trav-Co 540 (541) (Pt C) (Pr 5).

SECTION 71

——S. 71 — Procedure to be followed by police.

Observations by Court: "Since investigation under Chapter XIV of the Criminal P. C. is the normal procedure to be followed in the case of cognizable offences and when the new Ss. 173 (4) and 251-A are introduced in the Criminal P. C., it is desirable that the police would follow that normal procedure when dealing with offences made cognizable by Sec. 71 of the Public Safety Measures Act." 1960 Ker LT 217: 1960 Ker LJ 271: (1960) 1 Ker LR 357: (1960) Mad LJ (Cr) 313: ILR (1960) Ker 708: 1960 Cri LJ 1334: AIR 1960 Ker 315 (317) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

SECTION 73

——Ss. 73, 3 — Validity — Section is ultra vires for lack of sanction of President under Art. 304 (b), Proviso — Art. 304, controls Article 246 — Art. 304 (b), Proviso does not affect validity of repeal under Sec. 73 of the Act — Repeal under Sec. 73 is valid — As Sec. 3 of the Act is void notification issued under it are also invalid and cannot continue under Sec. 73 (2) — Suit contracts entered into February, 52 not affected by Notification under Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946) also. See Constitution of India, Art. 304 (b), Proviso. AIR 1964 Ker 92 (DB).

—TRAVANCORE-COCHIN PUBLIC SAFETY MEASURES ORDINANCE (5 OF 1125 M. E.)

SECTION 19

●——S. 19 — Order under for requisition of land — Quashing of — Constitution of India, Art. 226.

An order for requisition of land passed under Sec. 19 of the Ordinance being an executive order in the absolute discretion of the Government cannot be challenged on the ground that the opinion of the Government that the land is required for purposes specified in Sec. 19 was not based on proper grounds. Where the order specifically states that the requisition is made in furtherance of a housing scheme for the homeless and destitute there can be no objection to the opinion of the Government on the merits as there is no purpose so essential for the life of the community and as such it cannot be quashed by a writ of certiorari. LR 1942 AC 206, Rel. on; AIR 1949 Bom 277, Disting. Aiyam Perumal v. Chief Secretary to Government U.S.T.C., 1950 Ker LT 675 (FB).

—TRAVANCORE EMERGENCY POWERS ACT (1 OF 1122 M. E.)

SECTION 29

——Ss. 29 (1) and 34 — Order of detention under S. 29 (1) — Court's power to examine propriety of order — Extent of — Travancore Criminal P. C. Sec. 402 — Criminal P. C.(1898), S. 491.

Section 34 (1), Travancore Emergency Powers Act does not operate as a complete ouster of the High Court's jurisdiction to entertain an application under Sec. 402, Travancore Criminal P. C. in respect of a person purporting to have been detained under Sec. 29 of the Act. At the same time the Court's jurisdiction to examine propriety of an order passed under S. 29 of the Emergency Powers Act has been very much restricted and limited in its scope by Sec. 34 (1).

Under Sec. 34 (1), Emergency Powers Act, the Court is debarred from examining the validity of an order made or deemed to be made in exercise of the powers conferred by the Emergency Powers Act. But there is nothing in the clause to suggest that the Court has no jurisdiction even to consider the question whether an order purporting to have been passed under the Act has really been passed in strict conformity with the provisions of the Act. 1949 TCLR 156: 1950 Ker LT 544 (DB).

——S. 29 — Antecedent conduct of detenu if relevant.

The power given under Cl. (1) of Sec. 29 is to prevent the commission of acts prejudicial to public safety and that object would be defeated if the officer concerned is to wait until the actual commission of any such act. The language of Cl. (1) of Sec. 29 certainly warrants the entertainment of a reasonable suspicion on the strength of the antecedents of a person just prior to his arrest that on his release he would continue to act as before in a manner prejudicial to public safety. The expression "about to act" must necessarily refer to the possible contingency of acting within a reasonably short space of time. 1949 TCLR 156: 1950 Ker LT 544 (DB).

——S. 29 — Satisfaction of Government — Omission to mention in order if fatal.

Section 29 (1) of the Act does not require the arresting officer to be satisfied that the person sought to be arrested has acted or is acting, or is about to act in a manner prejudicial to the public safety. It is enough if the officer reasonably suspects the person of having acted, or of acting, or of being about to act in a manner prejudicial to the public safety.

Clause (2) of Sec. 29 does not insist that the detention order should be passed only after the Government have come to a final and independent conclusion that justifiable grounds as stated in the report of the arresting officer do really exist. Hence the non-mention of such satisfaction in the order of detention cannot be said to be a fatal defect.

Where the order passed by Government shows that Government's attention was directed to the several grounds mentioned in the arresting officer's report and on which he came to the conclusion that the person concerned was acting in a manner prejudicial to the public safety and that his detention was necessary to prevent his subversive activities the detention order must be held to be in strict compliance with the requirements of the Act. 1949 TCLR 156: 1950 Ker LT 544 (DB).

——S. 29 (2) — Order of detention under by Government — Minor defects or irregularities in procedure adopted at earlier stage cannot affect validity or legality of order passed by Government. AIR 1945 FC 18, Rel. on. 1949 Trav-Co LR 156: 1950 Ker LT 544 (DB).

——S. 29 — Order under — Validity — Test to determine — Bona fides of Government — Burden of proof.

In determining the validity of an order of detention one of the tests to be considered is whether the detention order is lacking in bona fides or, in other words, whether it amounts to an abuse of the powers given to the executive by the Legislature. When a duly authenticated order of detention is produced, it carries with it a presumption that the order was properly and validly made. No doubt it is a rebuttable presumption and the burden is on the party challenging the order to make out that the order is unwarranted, defective or otherwise invalid. It will undoubtedly be a difficult job to attempt to prove that the detention order is lacking in good faith. The informations and materials on the basis of which the detention of the individual concerned was thought necessary, will have an important bearing in determining the question of the bona fides of the action taken. In most instances such informations and materials may be of a highly confidential nature and the disclosing of the same may be against public interest. The detaining authority cannot also be compelled to disclose such informations and materials. Hence the petitioner will have to rely mainly on the circumstances which he may be in a position to allege and prove by way of discharging this onus to make out that the detention order is lacking in bona fides and is an abuse of the power conferred on the detaining authority. 1949 Trav-Co LR 156: 1950 Ker LT 544 (DB).

——S. 29 — Prejudicial act — Vulgar abuse of Government. Vulgar abuse against the Government need not necessarily always amount to sedition or to the commission of a prejudicial act. Many an objectionable word or phrase have come to lose their real meanings as one of them have long become the stock-in-trade of the damagogue: AIR 1942 FC 22, Rel. on. 1949 Trav-Co LR 23 (DB).

SECTION 34

——Ss. 34, 29 (1) — Section 34 (1), Travancore Emergency Powers Act does not operate as a complete ouster of the High Court's jurisdiction to entertain an application under S. 402, Criminal P. C. in respect of a person purporting to have been detained under Sec. 29 of the Act. At the same time the Court's jurisdiction is to examine propriety of an order passed under Sec. 29 of the Emergency Powers Act has been very much restricted and limited in its scope by S. 34 (1). 1950 Ker LT 544 (DB).

—U. P. GOONDAS ACT (1 OF 1932)

SECTION 5

——S. 5 (as modified and extended to the State of Delhi) — Section 5 and consequently the whole Act is ultra vires being in violation of the fundamental rights set out in Arts. 19 (1) (d) ond (e) and (5) and 22 (1) and (3) of Constitution of India). 54 Pun LR 312: ILR (1952) Punj 362: 1953 Cri LJ 421: AIR 1953 Punj 52 (54, 55) (Pt C) (Prs 5, 7, 9) (DB).

SECTION 6

——S. 6 (1) — S. 6 (1) is not a law providing for preventive Detention — [Preventive detention and externment or banishment — Distinction]. See Constitution of India, Art. 22 (3). AIR 1953 Punj 52 (DB).

—U. P. MAINTENANCE OF PUBLIC ORDER (AMENDMENT AND PROCEEDINGS VALIDATION) ACT (11 OF 1940)

SECTION 8

——S. 8 — Section not only validates proceedings after 1st March 1948 under U. P. Maintenance of Public Order (Temporary) Act 1947 but also other orders and proceedings. See Public Safety — U. P Maintenance of Public Order (Temporary) Act (4 of 1947), S. 5, Proviso. 51 Cri LJ 432: AIR 1950 All 132.

——S. 8 — Scope and object of — Section not only validates proceedings after 1st March 1948 but also other orders and proceedings.

The purpose of Sec. 8 is no doubt to validate all proceedings that may have taken place under the U. P. Maintenance of Public Order (Temporary) Act, 1947, after it had expired on 1st March 1948 and before the U. P. Maintenance of Public Order (Proceedings Validation) Ordinance, 1949 was promulgated. But a perusal of the whole of the Amendment Act shows that the purpose of S. 8 is also to validate other orders and proceedings as well. The section itself is very comprehensive and it is not possible to put any limitation upon its scope or interpretation. 51 Cri LJ 432: 1949 All LJ 518: 1950 All WR 20: 1950 All Cri Cas 2: AIR 1950 All 132 (134) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

—U. P. MAINTENANCE OF PUBLIC ORDER (PROCEEDINGS VALIDATION) ORDINANCE (2 OF 1949)

PREAMBLE

——Pre. — The Ordinance 2 of 1949 is intra vires. 1951 All LJ 9.

SECTION 3

——S. 3 — Effect of.

The effect of the provisions of S. 3 of the U. P Maintenance of Public Order (Proceedings Validation) Ordinance, 1949, is to keep alive the U. P. Maintenance of Public Order (Temporary) Act, 1947, after the 29th February, 1948. In view of S. 3, the Courts are precluded from holding that the Act had expired in February, 1948 and consequently from holding that the Ordinance tries to amend something which was non-existent and was already dead. 1951 All LJ 9.

—U. P. MAINTENANCE OF PUBLIC ORDER (TEMPORARY) ACT (4 OF 1947)

PREAMBLE

——Pre. — U. P. Ordinance 2 of 1949 validated the continued enforcement of U. P. Act 4 of 1947 which originally expired on 29-2-1948. 52 Cri LJ 1282: ILR (1952) 1 All 8: AIR 1950 All 562 (565) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

SECTION 1

——S. 1 (4), Proviso — If ultra vires.

Per Malik, J. :— I am inclined to hold that the proviso to sub-sec. (4) of Sec. 1 of the U. P. Maintenance of Public Order Act was ultra vires, though I do not want to express any definite opinion as it does not appear to be necessary in this case.

Per Wanchoo, J. :— Proviso to sub-sec. (4) of Sec. 1 of the U. P. Maintenance of Public Order (Temporary) Act, 1947, is ultra vires the powers of the Provinicial Legislature. 1951 All LJ 9.

SECTION 3

——S. 3 — Contingent or prospective order is not contemplated by Sec. 3 — District Magistrate cannot direct that period of fifteen days of detention is to commence from date of arrest. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 2782.

——S. 3 — Duration of order — Order must terminate after 15 days of order — It cannot stay longer because person in respect of whose detention order has been made is not apprehended. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 2782.

——S. 3 — Order against person outside jurisdiction — Detention under Sec. 123-A (U. P.), Criminal P. C. — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 123-A (U. P.)

An order under Sec. 3 (3) cannot be passed by a District Magistrate against a person who is not within his jurisdiction. When the order under Sec. 3 (3) is illegal having been passed against a person outside the jurisdiction, order under Section 123-A, Criminal P. C., ordering detention in jail for failure of furnishing the required security is also illegal. 1950 All LJ 350: 51 Cri LJ 1342: 1950 All WR 412: 1950 All Cri Cas 126: ILR (1952) 1 All 1: AIR 1950 All 500 (500) (Pr 3) (DB).

——S. 3 (1) — Detention or restriction for period longer than six months.

The Provincial Government after passing an order under Sec. 3 (1) (a) detaining a person for a period of six months can direct his release earlier and pass an order restraining or regulating his movements under one of the Cls. (c) to (f) of Sec. 3 (1) but this must be for the remaining part of the period of six months only and not beyond that. 1950 All WR 123: 1950 All LJ 176: 1950 All Cri Cas 65: 51 Cri LJ 1020: AIR 1950 All 370 (377) (Pr 3) (DB).

——S. 3 (7) — Failure to furnish security ordered — Applicability of S. 3 (7) — Criminal P. C. (1898) (as amended by U. P. Act 46 of 1948), S. 123-A.

Sub-sec. (7) to S. 3 provides for penalty in case the orders passed under the various clauses of S. 3, Sub-sec. (1), are contravened. Failure to furnish security cannot be said to be a contravention of the order demanding it. It is simply a non-compliance of the order. To such a case, S. 123-A, Criminal P. C. (U. P. Amendment) would apply. 1950 All LJ 126: 1950 All WR 127: 1950 All Cri Cas 67: 51 Cri LJ 605: ILR (1951) 1 All 626: AIR 1950 All 307 (307) (Pr 2) (DB).

——S. 3 — Order under, issued under instructions of Police Minister and authenticated by Home Secretary — Order stating that 'Governor' was 'satisfied' — Order is perfectly valid — Validity of order cannot be challenged on ground that it was not made by Governor — Whether authority concerned was satisfied or not may however be enquired into.

An order of detention under Sec. 3 of the Act issued under instructions from the Hon'ble Police Minister, and authenticated by the Home secretary to the U. P. Government who was empowered to authenticate under Rules framed under Sec. 59 (3), Government of India Act, stating that the Governor was satisfied of the necessity of the action contemplated by Sec. 3 is perfectly valid and in view of Sec. 59 (2), Government of India Act, it is not permissible to call into question the validity of the order on the ground that it was not made by the Governor. So also it is not permissible to enquire into the question whether it was the person holding the office of Governor that was satisfied or not though an enquiry may be made to determine whether the authority concerned was 'satisfied' or not: AIR 1945 PC 156 and AIR 1949 Pat 1 (FB), Rel. on. 1949 All LJ 501: 51 Cri LJ 337: AIR 1950 All 69 (71, 72) (Pt A) (Prs 10, 11, 14).

——S. 3 — Detention under — Court will interfere only when there is absence of honest satisfaction.

Where an order of detention of is passed under Section 3 of the Act, it is only if the material at the disposal of the Government is such that no reasonable person could be satisfied that the detenu would act in a manner prejudicial to public safety, public order or communal harmony that the Court will interfere and will hold the detention to be illegal: AIR 1949 All 148 (FB) and Cr. Misc. Appln. No. 47 of 1948 (Mad), Foll. 1949 All LJ 501: 51 Cri LJ 337: AIR 1950 All 69 (74) (Pt C) (Pr 25).

——S. 3 — Detention under — Actions of detenu though affecting only private property in past may indicate that he will act in a manner prejudicial to public safety in future — Satisfaction of Government — Court will not enter into question whether actions of detenu will have a prejudicial effect on public safety.

Section 3 does not authorise the detention of any person who has acted in a manner prejudicial to public safety etc., but only of a person who is to be prevented from acting in a prejudicial manner. The enactment is not penal but preventive and the past conduct of a person is only to be considered in so far as it provides a clue to what is expected of him in the future. If the authority to be satisfied is convinced that the actions of the detenu, though they relate to private property in the past, give an indication that he will so conduct himself in the future as to cause prejudice to public safety or public order, it is not for the Court to sit in judgment over this. The satisfcation may depend upon materials available to the detaining authority which may not be legal evi dence at all. Thus it might well be that the Gov ernment has in its archives materials for showing what the repercussions of actions such as those complained of will be upon the economic stability of the State and might form its opinion upon material, upon which Courts of law are not expected to act: AIR 1949 All 148 (FB) and (1942) 1 All ER 373, Rel. on; AIR 1942 Mad 735, Disting. 1949 All LJ 501: 51 Cri LJ 337: AIR 1950 All 69 (74) (Pt D) (Prs 26, 27).

——S. 3 (1) and (7) — Failure of Government to take action under Sec. 3 (7) does not preclude it from taking action under Sec. 3 (1).

The mere fact that action could be taken under Sec. 3 (7) of the Act against the detenu for a substantive offence committed by him but has not been taken—either because the evidence is of such a nature as to exclude its consideration by a Court of law or for any other reason does not take away the power of taking action under S. 3 (1) of the Act. 1949 All LJ 501: 51 Cri LJ 337: AIR 1950 All 69 (76) (Pt F) (Pr 33).

SECTION 4

——S. 4, Proviso (as amended by U. P. Act 11 of 1949) — Proviso as amended applies to all orders passed under Sec. 3 (1) and not merely to orders under Sec. 3 (1) (a) — Sec. 4 as amended has enlarged the powers of Provincial Government which it could exercise previously. 52 Cri LJ 1282: ILR (1952) 1 All 8: AIR 1950 All 562 (565) (Pt B) (Pr 12) (DB).

——S. 4 (as amended by U. P. Act 11 of 1949) — Scope.

The words "an order under Sec. 3" in Sec. 4 mean in effect all the orders which are passed against a person imposing restrictions on him, and all such orders would be valid for a period of six months of the date of service of the first order under that section. In view of the proviso to Sec. 4, this period can be enlarged upto another 12 months. 52 Cri LJ 1282: ILR (1952) 1 All 8: AIR 1950 All 562 (566) (Pt C) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Ss. 4, 11 — Delegation of powers by Provincial Government under Sec. 11 to District Magistrate—Fresh delegation not necessary after amendment of Sec. 4 by U. P. Act 11 of 1949. See U. P. Maintenance of Public Order (Temporary) Act (1947), S. 11. 52 Cri LJ 1282: AIR 1950 All 562 (DB).

——S. 4, Second Proviso — First order of detention revoked — Subsequent order of detention — Proviso does not apply — Order cannot be held illegal merely because total period of detention exceeds 6 months.

The second proviso to Sec. 4 does not take away the effect of the first proviso which enables the Government to issue a fresh order after revoking a previous order. In such a case the Government must serve a fresh notice under Sec. 5 and must furnish fresh materials for detention in order not to render illusory the detenu's right of making a representation. Further, the time limit imposed is only on an extension and does not relate to a fresh order passed after a revocation of a previous order. If the order challenged is merely an extension of the previous order, then of course the proviso will forbid the detention of the petitioner beyond the period of six months. If, however, the order is a fresh order altogether then the proviso cannot apply. 1949 All LJ 501: 51 Cri LJ 337: AIR 1950 All 69 (76) (Pt G) (Pr 36).

SECTION 5

——S. 5, Proviso (as amended by U. P. Act 11 of 1949) — Court cannot hold detention illegal on ground of any defect, vagueness or insufficiency of communication made to detenu under Sec. 5 — U. P. Maintenance of Public Order (Amendment and Proceedings Validation) Act (11 of 1949), S. 8.

By virtue of the provisions of Sec. 8 of Amending Act of 1949, the grounds of detention supplied to the detenu under Sec. 5 of the principal Act will be deemed to be 'as good and valid in law as if such action had been duly taken under the Act as amended by the Amending Act' and under the proviso to Sec. 5 of the principal Act as amended it will not be open to the High Court to hold that the detention is 'invalid or unlawful or improper' on the ground of any defect, vagueness or insufficiency of the communication made under Sec. 5 of the principal Act. 51 Cri LJ 432: 1949 All LJ 518: 1950 All WR 20: 1950 All Cri Cas 2: AIR 1950 All 132 (134) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7).

——S. 5 — Grounds of detention communicated to detenu need not contain all materials available — If they contain sufficient particulars to enable detenu to make representation that is sufficient.

The fact that the date, time and place of all the particulars are not given would not make the order defective provided that sufficient particulars were given in order to enable the petitioner to make an adequate representation against his detention. Even if one or two grounds are vague, that would not affect the validity of the order if some of the grounds are clear, definite and precise. There is nothing in law which compels the Government to give all the materials available if the grounds are such as to enable the detenu to make his representation. Even a charge-sheet in a criminal case does not narrate all the materials on the record of the Court: AIR 1949 All 148 and AIR 1949 All 406, Rel. on; AIR 1949 All 37, Ref. 1949 All LJ 501: 51 Cri LJ 337: AIR 1950 All 69 (75) (Pt E) (Pr 31).

SECTION 11

——Ss. 11 and 4 — Delegation of powers by Provincial Government under Sec. 11 to District Magistrate — Fresh delegation not necessary after amendment of Sec. 4 by U. P. Act 11 of 1949.

The Provincial Government by an order dated 13th April 1948 passed under Sec. 11 delegated its powers exercisable under the Act to all District Magistrate within their respective jurisdictions. Subsequently the powers of the Provincial Government were enlarged by amendment of Sec. 4 by U. P. Act 11 of 1949. Subsequent to the amendment the District Magistrate passed an order under Sec. 3 (1) (d) and (f):

Held, that the order of delegation dated 13th April 1948 would continue in force in spite of the amendments made in the Act and no fresh notification or delegation of powers by the Provincial Government was necessary. A change of order and a fresh notification should be necessary only when the delegating authority does not want to delegate to the other person the additional powers it gets under the amended provision. If it does not want to curtail the power delegated, it should not be incumbent on the authority to pass a second order delegating its powers: AIR 1944 Bom 259, Disting. 52 Cri LJ 1282: ILR (1952) 1 All 8: AIR 1950 All 562 (567, 568) (Pt D) (Prs 17, 18) (DB).

—U. P. PREVENTION OF CRIMES (SPECIAL POWERS) (TEMPORARY) ACT (1948) (5 OF 1949)

PREAMBLE

——Pre. — Act is not ultra vires of Legislature — Government of India Act (1935), Sch. 7, List II, Item 1, List III, Part I, Item 2.

The whole of the U. P. Prevention of Crimes (Special Powers) (Temporary) Act (5 of 1949) is intra vires of the Provincial Legislature (as regards subject-matter).

The Act was passed when the Government of India Act, 1935 was in force. The matters dealt with by it do not fall under any item of Federal Legislative List (1); on the other hand, they fall under item 1 of the Provincial Legislative List II and under Item 2 of the Concurrent Legislative List III, Part 1, or either of them.

Taking measures to check the activities of bad characters comes under "public order", (Item 1 in Provincial List) which is a most comprehensive term. An order of imprisonment for failure to give security does not cease to be an order of detention merely because an option is given to the person to escape it by offering security. As the detention is for preventive and not punitive purposes, it is preventive detention.

The pith and substance of the Act is prevention of offences, a matter expressly included in the Code of Criminal Procedure on 2nd August 1935; its enactment is therefore justified under Item 2 of List III. Taking security from a likely offender is not the only way of preventing the commission of an offence by him; detaining him in a prison, expelling him and ordering him to make reports about his movements are other ways. It does not matter if expulsion and the ordering to make reports of movements are not dealt with in the Code; they are intimately connected with the prevention of offences, a matter included in the Code. Similarly the provision regarding the keepers of gambling dens and habitual manufacturers and smugglers of illicit liquor would be covered by Item 2 of List III.

Even if it be conceded that provision in Sec. 3 (2) of the Act is not covered by Item 2 of List III, the only effect of it would be that sub-sec. (2) of Sec. 3 which is severable from sub-sec. (1) would be ultra vires. The validity of sub-sec. (1) and of an order passed under it would not be affected. 52 Cri LJ 1251: ILR (1951) 2 All 745: AIR 1951 All 718 (724 to 726) (Pt A) (Prs 14, 15, 17) (DB).

SECTION 3

——S. 3 (1) (a) (i), (b) and (c) and S. 3 (2) — Provisions if contravene Article 14 of the Constitution — Constitution of India, Art. 14.

It was open to the Legislature of Uttar Pradesh to make a special law regarding habitual criminals or offenders. Making one law for habitual criminals and another law for other criminals would not, by itself, contravene Art. 14. But the law regarding habitual criminals must apply to all habitual criminals alike and should not discriminate between some and others. The impugned Act, however, discriminates between habitual criminals who have acquired a bad reputation and others who have not and the difference in the treatments meted out to them has no intelligible connection with the acquisition or non-acquisition, of a reputation as bad character. Even within the class of habitual criminals who have acquired a bad reputation, the Act makes an unconstitutional discrimination between some and others. The discrimination lies in the fact that some are left to be prosecuted under Sec. 110 of the Criminal P. C. while others are prosecuted under the Act. The Act has laid down no standard to guide the Magistrate's choice of one of the two procedures and no standard can even be imagined by the Court. The discretion (if it at all is a discretion) that is conferred upon the Magistrate is naked and arbitrary; there is absolutely nothing to guide him. It is Sec. 3 (1) (a) (i), (b) and (c) which makes this irrational and arbitrary discrimination and it must be held to be a piece of legislative despotism. Sec. 3 (1) (a) (i), (b) and (c) is unconstitutional. The provision in Sec. 3 (1) (a) (iii) is, on the other hand, not unconstitutional; it applies equally to all keepers of gambling dens who are by repute bad characters. They are all liable to be proceeded against under the Act and under no other provision. When S. 3 (1) (a) (i), (b) and (c) is found to be unconstitutional, S. 3 (2) also must be held to be unconstitutional along with it. An order under Sec. 3 (2) is to be passed in addition to the order under Sec. 3 (1); if no order under sub-section (1) is passed, no order under sub-section (2) can be passed. The order under sub-section (2) is in addition to that under sub-section (1) and not in addition to it or in lieu of it according to the discretion of the Judge.

Hence orders passed after the coming into force of the Constitution would be void. 52 Cri LJ 1251: ILR (1951) 2 All 745: AIR 1951 All 718 (731, 732) (Pt C) (Prs 28, 29) (DB).

——S. 3 (2) — Provision if imposes unreasonable restriction — Constitution of India, Art. 19.

The restrictions imposed under the Act on free movement and the right to reside and settle anywhere in India are not unreasonable. There is nothing unreasonable either in the procedural law or in the substantive law. Externment in the interests of the State and public order is resorted to by all Governments. The order of expulsion may be irrevocable but the period of expulsion is limited to one year, Vide S. 15. Hence the Act is not obnoxious to Art. 19 of the Constitution. Even if it is obnoxious, only that part of Section 3 (2) that is obnoxious would be invalid because it is admittedly severable from the rest of the Act.

(Meaning and test of reasonable restriction considered). 52 Cri LJ 1251: ILR (1951) 2 All 745: AIR 1951 All 718 (733) (Pt I) (Pr 33) (DB).

——S. 3 (1) — Notice fixing period longer than two years instead of two — Effect.

The provision that the notice should mention the period is directory and not mandatory. The notice would not become invalid because it fixes a period longer than two years. Even though a longer period is mentioned the Judge is not bound by it and it is open to him to bind down the applicants for any period less than that given in the notice. It would not be sufficient for the applicants simply to say in reply to the notice that they can not legally be bound down for a longer period. If they do not show cause why they should not be bound down at all, they would render themselves liable to be bound down for a period that would be legal. 52 Cri 1251: ILR (1951) 2 All 745: AIR 1951 All 718 (735) (Pt K) (Pr 37) (DB).

——Ss. 3 (1) and 14, Proviso — Order passed by the Judge for a period longer than that mentioned in the notice issued by Magistrate — Order is illegal and should be set aside. 52 Cri LJ 1251: ILR (1951) 2 All 745: AIR 1951 All 718 (735) (Pt L) (Pr 39) (DB).

——Ss. 3 (1), 5 (1) — Column of particulars in the notice left blank — Defect is fatal as applicant would not be in a position to make representation to the Magistrate — Proceedings before the Magistrate and Judge held null and void. 52 Cri LJ 1251: ILR (1951) 2 All 745: AIR 1951 All 718 (735, 736) (Pt M) (Pr 41) (DB).

SECTION 4

——S. 4 — Warrant to the police directing them to take security from the applicants and to take them in custody only on their default — Police taking them into custody first and then releasing them on security, thinking that it was warrant for arrest and that the security to be taken from the applicants was for their appearance before the Magistrate and not for being of good behaviour and keeping the peace — Arrest could not be said to be under the Act which was held to be one for preventive detention — Hence Art. 22 (3) did not apply to rob them of the right of defence by a legal practitioner. See Constitution of India, Art. 22 (1). 52 Cri LJ 1251: AIR 1951 All 718 (DB).

——S. 4 — Omission by the Magistrate to record reasons for his satisfaction that immediate action is necessary is only an irregularity not vitiating the proceedings and the orders. 52 Cri LJ 1251: ILR (1951) 2 All 745: AIR 1951 All 718 (735) (Pt N) (Pr 40) (DB).

SECTION 5

——Ss. 5 (1), 3 (1) — Column of particulars in the notice left blank — Defect is fatal as applicant would not be in a position to make representation to the Magistrate — Proceedings before the Magistrate and Judge held null and void. See Public Safety — U. P. Prevention of Crimes (Special Powers) (Temporary) Act (1949), S. 3 (1). 52 Cri LJ 1251: AIR 1951 All 718 (DB).

SECTION 12-A

——S. 12-A — Judge under the Act if inferior criminal Court and his orders if revisable — Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 435 and 439.

Per Desai J.; Dayal J. Contra:— Judge under the Act is an inferior criminal Court and his orders are, therefore, liable to be revised by the High Court in the exercise of revisional powers under Ss. 435 and 439, Criminal P. C. AIR 1943 Pat 18 (FB), Commented. 52 Cri LJ 1251: ILR (1951) 2 All 745: AIR 1951 All 718 (734, 741) (Pt J) (Prs 36, 45) (DB).

SECTION 14

——Ss. 14, Proviso, 3 (1) — Order passed by the Judge for a period longer than that mentioned in the notice issued by Magistrate—Order is illegal and should be set aside. See Public Safety — U. P. Prevention of Crimes (Special Powers) (Temporary) Act (1949), S. 3 (1). 52 Cri LJ 1251: AIR 1951 All 718 (DB).

—VINDHYA PRADESH CRIMINAL LAW AMENDMENT (SPECIAL COURTS) ORDINANCE (5 OF 1949)

SECTION 5

●——S. 5 (2) — Right of appeal from decision of Special Judge — (Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 410, 417).

Sub-section (2) of Sec. 5 of the Vindhya Pradesh Ordinance is an express provision conferring a right of appeal to the aggrieved party, whether an accused or the State, against the judgment of the Special Judge. The only limitation in Sec. 5 (a) on the application of the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code to the proceedings of the special Court is the one arising from the existence of any inconsistent provisions in the Ordinance and not with reference to the conduct of the proceedings before that very Court. Once the special Court is to be deemed a Court of Session the normal right of appeal provided by Sec. 410 or Sec. 417, Criminal P. C., as the case may be, must be taken to have been expressly provided by reference and not as arising by mere implication. Shiv Bahadur Singh v. State of V. P., 1953 SCR 1188: 1953 SCJ 563: 1953 Cri LJ 1480: AIR 1953 SC 394 (396, 397) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

—WEST BENGAL CRIMINAL LAW AMENDMENT ACT (6 OF 1930)

See also Public Safety — Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act (6 of 1930).

PREAMBLE

●——Preamble — West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act (6 of 1930) and West Bengal Security Ordinance (1949) are inconsistent with the provisions of Constitution and hence became void from the midnight of 25th January 1950 when the Constitution came into force — They cannot be continued by the President by the Adaptation of Laws Order — Courts cannot give effect to the Adaptation of Laws Order (1950). See Adaptation of Laws Order (1950), R. 28. 51 Cri LJ 1110: AIR 1950 Cal 274 (SB).

—WEST BENGAL CRIMINAL LAW AMENDMENT (SPECIAL COURTS) ACT (21 OF 1949)

SECTION 2

——Ss. 2 and 9 (1) (as amended by Act 12 of 1952) — Appointment of Additional District and Sessions Judge by name as Special Court — Quali- fication under Sec. 2 (2) (b) wanting — As the officer was appointed by name and as he was otherwise qualified to be appointed as a special Judge and he became qualified under S. 2 (2) (b) also afterwards, he was under the circumstances held competent to try the case —Competency to try case. 1958 Cr LJ 1178: AIR 1958 Cal 517 (519) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Ss. 2 (2) and (3) and 4 (2) (as amended by Act 12 of 1952) — Effect of amendment — Cases triable by special Courts only — Power of State Government to distribute cases includes power to cancel distribution — No question of transfer arises — (Bengal General Clauses Act (I of 1899), S. 22). 1957 Cr LJ 54: AIR 1957 Cal 25 (32, 33) (Pt C) (Prs 34, 36, 39, 40).

——S. 2 — Applicability — Criminal breach of trust by company appointed as carrier for whole year by Government Department—Nature of offence —S. 409 and not S. 407, Penal Code applies—Special Court set up under S. 2 of W.B.C. Law Amendment Act has sole jurisdiction to try — Penal Code, Ss. 407 and 409 — Applicability. See Penal Code (1860). S. 407. 1957 Cr LJ 124 (Cal).

SECTION 4

●——S. 4 (2) (as amended by W. B. Act 12 of 1952) — Scope and object — Trial in respect of certain offence pending before Magistrate on 9th April, 1952 — Trial has to continue and no fresh allotment in respect of same offence can be made to Special Judge under Sec. 4 (2). See West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) Act (21 of 1949), S. 12. 1966 Cri LJ 805: 1963 Mad LJ (Cri) 613: (1963) Supp (2) SCR 542: (1963) 2 SCJ 680: AIR 1966 SC 1061.

●——Ss. 4 and 12 — Jurisdiction of Special Court — Cognizance of offence duly taken by Chief Presidency Magistrate on a charge-sheet filed by police — Subsequent allotment of case to Special Court by Notification under Sec. 4 — Order of allotment quashed by High Court on 4th December, 1952 — Effect of—Magistrate issuing process against accused — Order set aside by High Court — Fresh allotment of same case to Special Court — Jurisdiction of Special Court to try.

A charge-sheet was filed by the police before the Chief Presidency Magistrate who had jurisdiction to entertain the complaint and proceed with the enquiry and trial. He took cognizance of the offence and thus became seized of the proceedings. It was at that stage that the Government issued the notification under Sec. 4 of the West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) Act, 1949 allotting the case to the Special Judge at Alipore and directed a trial by him. In pursuance of this Notification the Chief Presidency Magistrate by his order, dated 16th February, 1951 sent the records of this case to the Special Judge. But before any proceedings could be commenced S. 4 (1) of the Act and the order of allotment thereunder to the Special Judge was struck down as unconstitutional by the High Court on 4th April, 1952. After the promulgation of West Bengal Ordinance VIII of 1952 on 9th April, 1952 a charge-sheet was refiled before the Special Judge but the allotment was set aside by the High Court on 24th March, 1953 on the ground that on its strength the proceeding could not be continued after the lapse of the Ordinance thus leaving the position as before the allotment. Thereafter the Government again allotted the case to the Special Judge and a fresh charge-sheet was submitted to the Court on 18th June, 1953. The legality of this allotment was upheld by the High Court by its order, dated 12th January, 1956 and a special leave petition against that order was also dismissed by the Supreme Court. When the matter went back before the Special Judge an objection to his jurisdiction based on Sec. 12 of Act was made and the Judge upheld it and directed the discharge of the accused by its order, dated 22nd February, 1956. This order was not challenged by the State in revision and thus it became final superseding the High Court's order, dated 12th January, 1956. Therefore, the proceedings against the accused before the Chief Presidency Magistrate were revived by the issue of a process to the accused. The accused again filed a revision before the High Court objecting to the jurisdiction of the Magistrate and the High Court quashed the proceedings before the Magistrate by its order, dated 19th December, 1956. On a fresh allotment to the Special Judge being made under Sec. 4, the accused objected to the jurisdiction of the Special Judge. The objection being overruled the matter was again taken to the High Court by a revision petition. The revision was accepted and the proceedings before the Special Judge were quashed. On appeal to the Supreme Court:

Held, (1) that when the order under Sec. 4 of the Act was quashed by the High Court on 4th April, 1952 its effect in law was to restore the position as it was before the allotment, namely, the revival of the jurisdiction of the Chief Presidency Magistrate over the case of which he had in compliance with law taken cognizance. Therefore, on the terms of S. 12, the proceeding against the respondent was pending in the Court of the Chief Presidency Magistrate on 9th April, 1952 the date of the commencement of the Ordinance, (2) that though the effect of the order of the High Court, dated 4th April, 1952, was to leave the proceedings against the accused pending before the Chief Presidency Magistrate, so as to attract the ban enacted by S. 12 of the Act, still by the decision of the High Court, dated 19th December, 1956 which is binding as between the parties, the special Court had been held to have jurisdiction over the case, Sec. 12 being held not to be in the way. There was thus no escape from the position that effect had to be given to this state of affairs and that the accused could derive no advantage by canvassing the correct result of the order of the High Court, dated 4th April, 1952 unhampered by the subsequent decisions which were binding on him. Therefore, the Special Court must be deemed to have jurisdiction over the case and that the High Court was in error in reversing the order of the Special Judge. State of West Bengal v. Hemant Kumar, (1963) 2 SCJ 680: 1963 Mad LJ (Cri) 613: (1963) Supp 2 SCR 542: 1966 Cri LJ 805: AIR 1966 SC 1061 (1066, 1067) (Pt B) (Prs 17, 20).

●——S. 4 (2) and Schedule — Offence under S. 420, I. P. C. by public servant — When committed while purporting to act as such — Presentation and encashment of false bill as clerk of certain office — Offence covered by Schedule.

Presentation of a false bill for encashment may not be in the discharge of official duty of a public servant, but the question under the Schedule to the W. B. Act is different and is as to whether the presentation of a false bill was made by the public servant purporting to do so in the discharge of his duties. Thus where the accused presents a false bill purporting to present it in the discharge of his duties as a clerk of the Office of the Sub-Divisional Health Officer who was duly authorised to present bills and cash them, and the bank pays him the cash as a messenger of that office duly authorised to receive payment in cash, it follows that the offence under Sec. 420, I. P. C. committed by the accused would be committed by him as a public servant purporting to act as such within the meaning of the expression in the schedule. Sunil Kumar Paul v. State of W. B., 1964 Mad WN 581: (1965) 1 SCJ 414: 1965 Mad LJ (Cri) 217: (1964) 7 SCR 70: 1964 All LR (Cri) 107: 1964 SCD 701: 1965 (1) Cri LJ 630: AIR 1965 SC 706 (109) (Pt A) (Prs 11, 13).

●——S. 4 (1) proviso — Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 236, 237, 537 — Public servant charged under Sec. 409, I. P. C. — Facts in charge sheet also supporting charge under Sec. 420, I. P. C. — Special Judge or appellate Court can convict accused under Sec. 420, I. P. C. instead of Sec. 409, I. P. C. — Scope of Ss. 236, 237, Criminal P. C. — Accused not prejudiced by not framing charge under Sec. 420, I. P. C. — Conviction not invalid.

The framing of a charge under Sec. 236, Criminal P. C. is, in the nature of things, earlier than the stage when it can be said what facts have been proved, a stage which is reached when the Court delivers its judgment. The power of the Court to frame various charges contemplated by Sec. 236 therefore arises when it cannot be said with any definiteness, either by the prosecutor or by the Court, that such and such facts would be proved. The Court had at the time of framing the charges, therfore to consider what different offences could be made out on the basis of the allegations made by the prosecution in the complaint or in the charge submitted by the investigating agency or by the allegations made by the various prosecution witnesses examined prior to the framing of the charge. All such possible offences could be charged in view of the provisions of Sec. 236, Criminal P. C.

Where a public servant was charged and tried by the special Court for an offence under S. 409, I. P. C. but a charge under Sec. 420, I. P. C. could have been framed by the Special Court under Sec. 236, Criminal P. C. on the basis of the allegations in the charge-sheet, the trial Court or the appellate Court can, in law convict the accused of that offence instead of an offence under S. 409, I. P. C. if it be of the view that the offence of cheating had been established. This would be in accordance with the provisions of Sec. 237, Criminal P. C. AIR 1925 PC 130 and AIR 1958 SC 56 and AIR 1961 SC 1241, Rel. on; AIR 1955 SC 274, Distinguished. Further held, on facts, that accused could not be said to be prejudiced in his conviction under Sec. 420, I. P. C. on account of the non-framing of the charge, and consequent non-trial, under Sec. 420, I. P. C. In fact, in the circumstances of the case, question of irregularity in the trial did not arise. The framing of the charge under Sec. 420, I. P. C. was not essential and Section 237, Criminal P. C. itself validates his conviction of the offence under Sec. 420 if that be proved on the findings on the record. Sunil Kumar Paul v. State of W. B., 1964 All LR (Cri) 107: 1964 Mad WN 581: (1965) 1 SCJ 414: 1965 Mad LJ (Cri) 217: (1964) 7 SCR 70: 1964 SCD 701: 1965 (1) Cri LJ 630: AIR 1965 SC 706 (709, 710, 711, 712) (Pt B) (Prs 15, 16, 20, 27).

●——S. 4 (1) proviso — Powers of Special Court — Accused charged with one offence — Proviso does not prohibit trial and conviction of accused for different offences if permitted by Criminal P. C. and other provisions of the Act — Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 236, 237.

The contention that under the proviso to S. 4 of the Act, the Special Court can try any other offence only when the accused is specifically charged with that offence is not correct. The language of the proviso does not lead to such a conclusion. It provides for the trial of the accused for any other offence provided the accused could be charged with that offence at the same trial under the provisions of the Criminal P. C. The proviso does not say that the charge must be framed, though of course, if the trial Court itself tries the accused for a certain offence, it will ordinarily frame a charge. The proviso has nothing to do with the power of the Trial Court or of the appellate Court to record a conviction for any other offence when an accused is being tried with respect to an offence mentioned in Schedule. That power depends on other provisions of the Criminal P. C. and of the Act. Sunil Kumar Paul v. State of W. B., 1964 Mad WN 581: (1965) 1 SCJ 414: 1965 Mad LJ (Cri) 217: (1964) 7 SCR 70: 1964 All LR (Cri) 107: 1964 SCD 701: 1965 (1) Cri LJ 630: AIR 1965 SC 706 (711) (Pt C) (Pr 21).

●——S. 4 and Schedule (as amended by W. B. Act 12 of 1952 and W. B. Act 15 of 1953) — Scope of — Case under S. 161/116, Penal Code, distributed to Special Judge — Charge and conviction under Sec. 165-A — Legality — Special Judge whether Court of competent jurisdiction — S. 529, Criminal P. C. — If can cure defect. — (Criminal Law, Amendment Act (1952), S. 3 — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 529 (e)) — (Penal Code (1860), Ss. 161, 116 and 165-A).

Held, (1) that Sec. 165-A is not merely a restatement of the offence of abetment under Sec. 116 of the Penal Code and therefore it could not be said that merely because the abetment of an offence under Sec. 161 was specified in the Schedule of the West Bengal Act of 1949, Sec. 165-A which did not then exist in the Penal Code, must be deemed to have been specified therein. (2) That Sec. 529 applies to Magistrates and would not apply to a Special Judge whose jurisdiction arises not on his taking cognizance under Sec. 190 of the Code of Criminal Procedure but on the case for an offence specified in the Schedule being distributed to him by the State Government by notification. The defect of jurisdiction therefore could not be cured by Sec. 529 (e) of the Code of Criminal Procedure. AIR 1956 Cal 385, Reversed. Bhajahari Mondal v. State of W. B., 1959 All Cri R 192: 1959 Cr LJ 98: 1959 All WR 192: 1959 SCJ 191: 1959 Mad LJ (Cr) 59: 1959 All WR (Sup) 47: 1959 SCR 1276: AIR 1959 SC 8 (12) (Pr 12).

●——Ss. 4 and 9 (1) — S. 4 does not violate Art. 14 of the Constitution and is constitutional— Sentence under S. 9 (1) being in violation of Art. 20 of the Constitution set aside — Constitution of India, Arts. 14 and 20. AIR 1952 Cal 644 (FB), Overruled.

The equal protection of the laws guaranteed by Art. 14 of the Constitution does not mean that all laws must be general in character and universal in application and that the State is no longer to have the power of distinguishing and classifying persons or things for the purposes of legislation. To put it simply, all that is required in class or special legislation is that the legislative classification must not be arbitrary but should be based on an intelligible principle having a reasonable relation to the object which the Legislature seeks to attain. If the classification on which the legislation is founded fulfils this requirement, then the differentiation which the legislation makes between, the class of persons or things to which it applies and other persons or things left outside the purview of the legislation cannot be regarded as a denial of the equal protection of the law, for, if the legislation were all-embracing in its scope, no question could arise of classification being based on intelligible differentia having a reasonable relation to the legislative purpose.

Article 14 does not insist that legislative classification should be scientifically perfect or logically complete.

There are cases where the Legislature itself makes a complete classification of persons or things and applies to them the law which it enacts, and others where the Legislature merely lays down the law to be applied to persons or things answering to a given description or exhibiting certain common characteristics, but being unable to make a precise and complete classification, leaves it to an administrative authority to make a selective application of the law to persons or things within the defined group, while laying down the standards or at least indicating in clear terms the underlying policy and purpose, in accordance with, and in fulfilment of, which the administrative authority is expected to select the persons or things to be brought under the operation of the law.

Whether an enactment providing for special procedure for the trial of certain offences is or is not discriminatory, and violative of Art. 14, must be determined in each case as it arises, for, no general rule applicable to all cases can safely be laid down.

In order to see whether S. 4 of the West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) Act, 1949 violates Art. 14, the real issue to be considered is whether having regard to the underlying purpose and policy of the Act as disclosed by its title, preamble and provisions, the classification of the offences, for the trial of which the Special Court is set up and a special procedure is laid down, can be said to be unreasonable or arbitrary and, therefore, violative of the equal protection clause.

(Held, after considering the background of the legislation and its preamble, purpose and the provisions that the system of Special Courts to deal with the special types of offences under a shortened and simplified procedure was devised, to meet the situation and that the legislation in question was based on a perfectly intelligible principle of classification having a clear and reasonable relation to the object sought to be attained.)

Section 4 of the Act, therefore, is constitutionally valid and the Special Court had jurisdiction to try and convict the accused. AIR 1952 SC 75, Discussed and Distinguished. AIR 1952 SC 123; 1952 SCR 435, Discussed and Applied.

Sentence of compensatory fine under S. 9 (1) was set aside being in violation of Art. 20 of the Constitution.

Per Bose, J.: (Dissentient).

In so far as the Act makes provision for the setting up of Special Courts and of Special Judges, and in so far as it selects classes of offences which can be tried by them, it is good. Where, it is bad is, in Sec. 4 (1), where it empowers the Provincial Government to pick out cases from among the specified classes and to send them to Special Courts and thus discriminate between man and man in the same class.

On the question of punishment also there is discrimination but that is severable and would in any event be covered by Article 20. Kedar Nath Bajoria v. State of West Bengal, (1954) SCR 30: 1953 SCA 835: 1953 SCJ 580: 1953 Cri LJ 1621: AIR 1953 SC 404 (406, 407, 408, 409, 410) (Prs 6, 7, 9, 10, 16, 17, 23, 25).

——Ss. 4 (2) and 7 — Power of Government to transfer cases — Case already referred to Special Court under S. 4 (2) — Special Court acquires jurisdiction — Government has no power of transferring or redistributing case from one Special Court to another.

Under sub-section (2) of Section 4 of the West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) Act (21 of 1949), the State Government can distribute cases amongst the Special Courts which have been constituted under S. 2. Once, however, there has been such an allotment, the Special Court gets jurisdiction and there is no provision in the said Act for transfer of the cases or redistribution thereof from one Special Court to another. There is a special provision in Section 7 that no Court shall have jurisdiction to transfer any case from a Special Court and the High Court's power to do so has been taken away or not conferred by the said Act. Therefore, the framers of the Act did not contemplate transfer of a case, once it is referred to a particular Special Court. AIR 1958 SC 1018, Rel. on. (1965) 69 Cal WN 119, ●——Ss. 4 (2), 5 (1) and (2) — Special Court — taking cognizance — Mode of — Petition of complaint — Necessity — Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 190, 193 — Applicability — West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) (Amending) Act (24 of 1960), Ss. 2 and 3 — Effect of.

Per majority (Das Gupta, J., contra): The Special Court under the West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) Act, 1949, can take cognizance, on receiving the Government order of distribution under S. 4 (2) of the Act and on the record of the case from the Court of the Magistrate, by applying his mind to the facts of the case for the purpose of trying the offence under the Act. The Special Court must look at whatever records it has or can get before it and apply its mind to proceed under the Act in order to take cognizance. AIR 1951 SC 207 and AIR 1959 SC 8, Rel. on; Criminal Revision Cases Nos. 1545 to 1548 of 1959, dated 22-12-1959 (Cal), Overruled. The Special Court is not confined to the statutory methods recognised and prescribed under S. 190 (1), Criminal P. C. and by reason of S. 5 (1) of the special statute, is not dependent on an order of commitment as prescribed under S. 193, Criminal P. C.

The amendment introduced to the Act of 1949 by West Bengal Act (24 of 1960) does not alter the legal position where the Special Court has already taken cognizance.

Per Das Gupta, J., contra: The Special Court under the West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) Act, 1949, does not take cognizance of an offence on the order of distribution made by the State Government under S. 4 (2) of the Act, but needs either a petition of complaint or a report in writing of facts constituting the offence made by a police officer, for taking cognizance. If there be distribution of a case by Government involving an offence under S. 417, Penal Code, where there has been no investigation by the police, the Special Court would require a complaint to take cognizance. Ajit Kumar Palit v. The State, 1961 (2) Cri LJ 617: 65 Cal WN 977: ILR (1962) 1 Cal 357: AIR 1961 Cal 560 (565, 567, 576, 578) (Pt A) (Prs 13, 14, 15, 23, 76, 79) (FB).

——S. 4 (1), Proviso and (2) — Applicability — Case not specifically allotted for trial to Special Court — Trial with other cases specifically allotted for trial to Special Court — Legality.

The jurisdiction of the Judge of the Special Court to try the case only arises on an allotment of the case by the State Government. Where, after framing of charges under S. 420, Penal Code, in the two cases which were specifically allotted for trial by the Special Court, a case of a third offence of a similar nature committed within the course of a year and which was not allotted for trial was included in the charge of the other two cases, the trial of the third case is without jurisdiction. The Proviso to S. 4 (1) does not justify the framing of a charge in respect of a scheduled offence committed on a different occasion, that is, an offence which was not a part of the same transaction as the offences specifically allotted for trial to the Special Court. ILR (1961) 2 Cal 764: 1961 (2) Cr LJ 218 (221, 222) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 11) (DB) (Cal).

——Ss. 4 (2), 2 (2) and (3) (as amended by Act 12 of 1951) — Effect of amendment — Cases triable by Special Courts only — Power of State Government to distribute cases between Special Courts includes power to cancel such distribution — No question of transfer arises — (Bengal General Clauses Act (1 of 1899), S. 22). See Public Safety — West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) Act (21 of 1949), S. 2 (2). 1957 Cri LJ 54: AIR 1957 Cal 25.

——Ss. 4 and 5—Meaning of word "cases" occurring in S. 4, indicated — Prosecution which it is proposed to launch — Allotment of such prosecution to Special Judge — Complaint can be filed in Court of Special Judge who can take cognizance and proceed with cases. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 832 (DB).

——S. 4 (as amended by West Bengal Act 12 of 1952) — Special Judge — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 268).

Where a public servant is charged with an offence which is triable by a Special Judge along with an offence which is ordinarily triable by a Court of Session, both the charges can be tried by a Special Court under the provisions of Sec. 4 of West Bengal Act 21 of 1949, as amended by West Bengal Act 12 of 1952. 57 Cal WN 678: 1953 Cri LJ 1523: AIR 1953 Cal 681 (682) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

●——S. 4 (1) — Section gives discretionary power to Government and is, therefore, ultra vires — Constitution of India, Art. 14.

A discretionary power is given to the State to allot cases to the Special Judge or not as the State Government feel inclined. The State Government do not regard S. 4 as compelling them to allot all cases of crimes set out in the schedule to the Act to Special Judges. If S. 4 (1) was mandatory, then the Government would be bound to allot each and every one of these cases to a Special Judge and this they do not do and never have done since the Act came into force. The Government have a discretion in the matter and that being so, even assuming that the Act creates a valid class or classes of offence, there is discrimination between persons charged with any offence falling within such class or classes. For these reasons S. 4 (1) is ultra vires. Art. 14 of the Constitution. Misc. Case No. 288 of 1951 (Cal), Followed. Gupta, J. K. v. State, (1952) 56 Cal WN 701: 1952 Cri LJ 1447: AIR 1952 Cal 644 (645) (Pr 17) (FB).

[Overruled in AIR 1953 SC 404.]

SECTION 5

●——S. 5 — Prior to its amendment by West Bengal Act (24 of 1960) — Cognizance of offences by Special Court — Mode of — Cognizance — When taken — Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 190 (1) and 193 (1) — Applicability.

As soon as a Special Judge appointed under S. 2 of the West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) Act, 1949, receives the orders of allotment of the case passed by the State Government under S. 4, he becomes vested with jurisdiction to try the case and, when he receives the record from the Government he can apply his mind and issue notice to the accused and thus start trial of the proceedings assigned to him by the State Government. AIR 1961 Cal 560 (FB), Affirmed.

The provisions of Ss. 190, 191, 192 and 194 show that there is no statutory requirement under the Criminal Procedure Code as to the class or character of material that must be before a Special Judge before he can assume and exercise jurisdiction over a case. The same is not a requirement of the Special Courts Act either. The Judge of the Special Court appointed under S. 2 of the Act is not within the class of Magistrates designated by S. 190 (1) and hence there can be no question of such a Judge having to comply with its requirements before he can "take cognizance of an offence".

The word "cognizance merely means become aware of and when used with reference to a Court or Judge, to take notice of judicially. Taking cognizance does not involve any formal action; or indeed action of any kind, but occurs as soon as a Magistrate, as such, applies his mind to the suspected commission of an offence. Where the statute prescribes the materials on which alone the judicial mind shall operate before any step is taken, obviously the statutory requirement must be fulfilled. But statutory provision apart, there is no set material which must exist before the judicial mind can operate.

(Editorial Note: The Calcutta Full Bench overruled the following decisions: Criminal Appeals Nos. 377 of 1958 and 393 of 1959 (Cal.) and Cri. Revn. Cases Nos. 1545 to 1548 of 1959 (Cal.). The Supreme Court by affirming the Calcutta Full Bench decision must be deemed to have impliedly overruled the above decisions). Ajit Kumar Palit v. State of West Bengal, 1964 Mad LJ (Cri) 12: (1963) Supp 1 SCR 953: 1963 (1) Cri LJ 797: (1964) 1 SCJ 75: AIR 1963 SC 765 (768, 769, 770) (Pt A) (Prs 13, 14, 19).

●——S. 5 (1) — Effect of amendment by West Bengal Act (26 of 1956).

The insertion of the words 'otherwise than on a police report' in S. 5 (1) by the Amending Act was merely to ensure the inapplicability of S. 251-A, Criminal P. C., to the procedure to be followed by the Special Courts and has no further significance. Ajit Kumar Palit v. State of West Bengal, 1964 Mad LJ (Cri) 12: (1963) Supp 1 SCR 953: (1963) (1) Cri LJ 797: (1964) 1 SCJ 75: AIR 1963 SC 765 (768) (Pt B) (Pr 10).

●——S. 5 (1) (as amended by West Bengal Act 24 of 1960) — Effect of — Whether retrospective and applies to pending proceedings.

The amending Act does not purport to be declaratory but seeks in terms to carry out an amendment, in other words, to effect a change. The mere fact that the change effected conforms to a particular interpretation which the word which previously existed might bear and which found acceptance at the hands of the Courts in a few cases, is a wholly insufficient foundation to base an argument that it is declaratory and further that it must be taken to have declared the law from the commencement of the parent Act so as to invalidate all proceedings validly taken on a proper construction of the law as it then stood. Ajit Kumar Palit v. State of West Bengal, 1964 Mad LJ (Cri) 12: 1963 Supp 1 SCR 953: 1963 (1) Cri LJ 797: (1964) 1 SCJ 75: AIR 1963 SC 765 (771) (Pt C) (Pr 22).

●——S. 5 (1) and (2) (as it stood prior to its amendment by the Amending Act of 1960) — Special Court — Taking cognizance — Mode of — Petition of complaint not necessary — Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 190, 193 — Not applicable but can take cognizance on a complaint under S. 190, Criminal P. C. — Material on which Special Court will take cognizance — West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) (Amending) Act (24 of 1960), Ss. 2 and 3 — Effect of amendment — Does not vitiate the cognizance already taken. See Public Safety — West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) Act (21 of 1949), S. 4 (2). 1961 (2) Cri LJ 617: AIR 1961 Cal 560 (FB).

——S. 5 (1)—Taking cognizance — What amounts to — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 190 (1) (a).

The Public Prosecutor filed a petition of complaint against the accused after the case had been allotted to the Special Court under the Act by a notification of the Government. The first information report and the charge-sheet were filed as annexures to the petition of complaint, and the details appeared in them. On taking cognizance the Judge ordered that copies of the statements under S. 161, Criminal P. C., and other relevant papers should be supplied to the accused.

Held, that the cognizance was taken on the petition of complaint filed by the Public Prosecutor and not on the police report or charge-sheet. There was no illegality in taking cognizance. ILR (1961) 2 Cal 764: 1961 (2) Cri LJ 218 (Cal).

——S. 5 (as amended by Act 26 of 1956) — Amendment is retrospective — Special Courts should follow the altered procedure laid down by the amending Act (W. B. Act 26 of 1956) — The amendment to S. 5 has retrospective effect — (Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 251 and 251-A). ILR (1960) 2 Cal 268 (DB).

——S. 5 — Meaning of word 'cases' occurring in S. 4 is wide and includes prosecution which it is proposed to launch — Allotment of such prosecution to Special Judge is an allotment of a case and complaint can be filed in the Court of the Special Judge. See Public Safety — West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) Act (21 of 1949), S. 4. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 832 (DB).

SECTION 9

●——S. 9 — Section 4 does not violate Art. 14 of the Constitution and is constitutional — Sentence under S. 9 (1) being in violation of Art. 20 of the Constitution, set aside. See Public Safety —West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) Act (21 of 1949), S. 4. 1953 Cri LJ 1621: AIR 1953 SC 404.

——S. 9 (1) (as amended by Act 12 of 1952) — Appointment of Additional District and Sessions Judge by name as Special Court — Qualification under S. 2 (2) (b) wanting — As the Judge was appointed by name and as he was otherwise qualified under S. 2 (2) (b) within a year—Under the circumstances he was held competent to try the case. See Public Safety — West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) Act (21 of 1949), S. 2. 1958 Cri LJ 1178: AIR 1958 Cal 517 (DB).

SECTION 12

●——S. 12 — Jurisdiction of Special Court — Cognizance of offence duly taken by Chief Presidency Magistrate on a charge-sheet filed by police —Subsequent allotment of case to Special Court by notification under S. 4 — Order of allotment quashed by High Court on 4-12-1952—Effect was revival of jurisdiction of Chief Presidency Magistrate — Magistrate issuing process against accused — Order set aside by High Court—Fresh allotment of same cases to Special Court—High Court upholding this order. The order was binding as between the parties — The accused could not derive any advantage by canvassing the correctness of the High Court's order of 4-12-52 unhampered by subsequent decisions which were binding on him — Jurisdiction of Special Court to try is upheld. See Public Safety — West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) Act (21 of 1949), S. 4. (1963) 2 SCJ 680: 1966 Cri LJ 805: AIR 1966 SC 1061.

●——Ss. 12 and 4 (2) (as amended by W. B. Act 12 of 1952) — Scope and object — Trial in respect of certain offence pending before Magistrate on 9th April, 1952 — Trial has to continue and no fresh allotment in respect of same offence can be made to Special Judge under S. 4 (2).

The manifest object of S. 12 appears to be that where a proceeding is pending in the ordinary Courts on 9th April, 1952, the power of the Government to allot the trial for that offence to a Special Court constituted under S. 2 of the Amending Act and the allotment to the Judge of that Court under S. 4 shall not be affected, but that those proceedings shall continue and be concluded before the ordinary Courts. To hold that notwithstanding the prohibition enacted in S. 12, the State Government could still allot a case which deals with the same offence, arising out of identical facts against the same accused to a Special Judge would be a patent infringement of the term of S. 12 and in derogation of the protection which that provision was meant to confer. State of West Bengal v. Hemant Kumar, (1963) 2 SCJ 680: 1963 Mad LJ (Cri) 613: (1963) Supp 2 SCR 542: 1966 Cri LJ 805: AIR 1966 SC 1061 (1068) (Pt C) (Pr 24).

——S. 12 (as amended by W. B. Act 12 of 1952) —Applicability of Act — Trial by Special Judge of Special Court and conviction — Appeal to High Court — Pending appeal — W. B. Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) Amending Ordinance, 1952, coming into force — Retrial ordered —Special Courts Act held did not apply—Proceeding held could not be tried by Special Court — Position could not be changed by fresh complaint. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 1196 (DB).

——S. 12 (as amended in 1952) — "Proceedings pending before a Court".

The words "proceedings pending before a Court" in S. 12 mean judicial proceedings which started with the submission of a charge-sheet or a complaint or taking cognizance thereon. It cannot be argued that since the accused is produced before the ordinary Magistrate and the question of bail is considered, there is a proceeding before the Court and, therefore, S. 12 bars the jurisdiction of the Special Court. 1953 Cri LJ 1540: 57 Cal WN 581: AIR 1953 Cal 661 (663) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

SCHEDULE

●——Schedule and S. 4 (as amended by W. B. Act (12 of 1952) and W. B. Act 15 of 1953)— S. 165-A, Penal Code, not a mere restatement of S. 116 of Code — Case under Ss. 161, 116, Penal Code, included in the schedule distributed to Special Judge — S. 165-A not included in schedule at time Judge took cognizance of case — Charge and conviction under S. 165-A — Special Judge was not a Court of competent jurisdiction—Defect of jurisdiction could not be cured by S. 529, Criminal P. C., as it did not apply to Special Judge— (Criminal Law Amendment Act (1952), S. 3) — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 529 (e)) — Penal Code (1860), Ss. 161, 116 and 165-A — AIR 1956 Cal 385, Reversed. See Public Safety — West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) Act (21 of 1949), S. 4. 1959 Cri LJ 98: AIR 1959 SC 8.

SCHEDULE, ITEM 3

——Schedule, Item 3 — Applicability — Offence by public servant while purporting to act as public servant.

Where the accused, a laboratory technician of a T. B. Hospital, was officially permitted to go to Calcutta to obtain blood from the Blood Bank, Calcutta Medical College, both for paying and non-paying patients, and used to draw travelling allowance for such visits, the fact that the paying patients paid tip to him does not indicate that the job fell outside the public duty of the accused. If he committed an offence under S. 420, Penal Code, in connection with the supply of blood to the paying patients, the offence would be triable by the Special Court under the Act. ILR (1961) 2 Cal 764: 1961 (2) Cri LJ 218 (Cal).

——Schedule, Item 3 (as amended by Act 12 of 1952) — Offence committed by person as agent of Government — (Penal Code (1860), S. 420).

The prosecution case was that the accused who supplied dhenki rice to the Government procurement godown submitted bills claiming the procurement price as well as appropriate bonus in respect of stocks so delivered. It was alleged that the accused in fact supplied this quantity of rice from old stocks purchased prior to the date with effect from which bonus was payable, and had thus to pay no bonus money to any one. The real allegation on which the accused was said to have committed an offence under S. 420, Penal Code, was that by making a false representation that he had obtained this quantity of rice between the 3rd and 7th October, 1951, the accused induced Government to pay to him certain amounts on account of bonus.

Held, that the accused, when procuring rice and delivering rice to Government, was not dealing with property belonging to Government. It was only after the procurement agent delivered the property to Government that the paddy or rice became Government property. Prior to that it was not Government property. Consequently, when he was dealing with rice, he was not dealing with property belonging to Government as an agent of Government.

It should, however, be held that in accepting from Government the money paid by way of bonus and in keeping it with him or in paying it to any person, the accused must be held to be dealing with a property belonging to Government as agent of Government. It was equally clear, however, that the offence under S. 420, Penal Code, if committed by the accused, could not be said to have been committed by him while purporting to act as agent of Government dealing with Government property. If, as a result of deception, Government was dishonestly induced to pay certain amount of money to the accused, the offence under S. 420, Penal Code, was complete before any dealing by the accused with that Government money was started. The offence under S. 420, Penal Code, could not, therefore, be said to have been committed by the accused while purporting to act as agent of Government. It was not, therefore, triable by a Special Court. 93 Cal LJ 289: 1954 Cri LJ 1435: ILR (1956) 1 Cal 130: AIR 1954 Cal 505 (505, 506) (Prs 4, 5, 6) (DB).

——Sch., Items 3 and 8 — Private person conspiring with public servants to cheat — (Penal Code (1860), S. 420).

It is true that if there is a charge against a person who is neither a public servant nor a person dealing with property belonging to Government as an agent of Government, under S. 420, I.P.C., and no other section, the Special Court has, under Item 3 of the Schedule, no jurisdiction to try the case. But if the offence under S. 420 is committed by the public servants, then the offence is cognizable by the Special Court and if the petitioner though not a public servant is concerned in the offence of conspiracy to cheat with such public servants, he is triable by the Special Court in view of item 8 of the Schedule. 57 Cal WN 581: 1953 Cri LJ 1540: AIR 1953 Cal 661 (663) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (DB).

SCHEDULE, ITEM 8

——Sch., Item 8 — Private person conspiring with public servants to cheat — Offence under S. 420, I.P.C — The case is triable by the Special Court in view of item 8 of the Schedule—(Penal Code (1860), S. 420). See Public Safety — West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) Act (21 of 1949), Sch., Item 3. 1953 Cri LJ 1540: AIR 1953 Cal 661 (DB).

——Sch., Item 8 — Jurisdiction to try offence of cheating — (Penal Code (1860), S. 420).

The Special Court has jurisdiction to try an offence under S. 420, I.P.C., if committed by a public servant. It is not necessary that he should be taking Government money by the offence of cheating. 57 Cal WN 581: 1953 Cri LJ 1540: AIR 1953 Cal 661 (663) (Pt D) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Sch., Item 8 — Cheating with respect to Government money.

Where there is cheating in respect of the sum included in an award given by the Land Acquisition Officer, it is an offence committed in respect of the Government money. 57 Cal WN 581: 1953 Cri LJ 1540: AIR 1953 Cal 661 (663) (Pt E) (Pr 7) (DB).

—WEST BENGAL CRIMINAL LAW AMENDMENT (SPECIAL COURTS) AMENDING ACT (12 OF 1952)

SECTION 11

——S. 11 — Proceeding pending in Court — Proceeding begins with submission of charge-sheet — Submission of charge-sheet after coming into force of Act — It is not proceeding pending in Court. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 1208.

SECTION 12

●——S. 12 — Section has no application to pending appeals — Appeal against judgment of First Special Tribunal, Calcutta, under Central Ordinance (29 of 1943) — Judgment set aside — Constitution of Tribunal being held void under Art. 14, Constitution of India — Case remanded for retrial by competent Court — Only Court having jurisdiction to try held was special Court under West Bengal Act (12 of 1952) — Jurisdiction held was not ousted by S. 12.

The object of the Legislature in enacting S. 12 of West Bengal Act 12 of 1952 was that cases pending before an ordinary or a non-special Court at the date when the West Bengal Ordinance 8 of 1952 came into existence and which were being tried in the ordinary way, should not be brought on to or tried by the Special Courts in spite of the provision of the new S. 4 (1) introduced by the Ordinance into the Act. This reason manifestly could have no application to appellate proceedings, for there could be no question of cases pending in appeals being allotted to special Courts for trial.

To attract the operation of S. 12, it is necessary to show that the proceedings were pending before a Court other than a Special Court on the 9th April, 1952. The expression "proceedings in a Court other than a Special Court" occurring in S. 12 means and refers to proceedings relating to trial of a case in the original Court and not to proceedings in appeal.

How the case pending in the appellate Court is to proceed further if the appellate Court directs a rehearing would depend entirely on the order which the appellate Court passes and is competent in law to pass. If the appeal Court directs retrial by an ordinary Court, as the Court competent to try the case or that is the implication of the order, the jurisdiction of the Special Court would be barred not by reason of S. 12 of the Special Act but by reason of the order made by the appeal Court. The pendency of the appeal before the High Court on the relevant date (9th April, 1952) could not attract the operation of S. 12, but where the appeals were taken to the High Court from the decision of a Court other than a Special Court as contemplated by Act 12 of 1952, whether the retrial directed by the High Court could be held by a Court under Act 12 of 1952, would depend on the nature and effect of the order which the High Court has made.

The High Court in an appeal against the judgment of the First Special Tribunal, Calcutta, constituted under the Central Ordinance 29 of 1943 did not acquit the accused, nor make any order of discharge in their favour but set aside the conviction and sentence and directed the retrial of the accused by a competent Court in accordance with law if the Government chose to proceed against them. The High Court set aside the proceedings of the Special Court on the ground that the trial held by it became void on and from the 26th January, 1950, as S. 5 (1) of the Ordinance under which the allotment of the case was made and the Tribunal acquired jurisdiction to try it became void and inoperative as soon as the Constitution came into force, by reason of its being in conflict with Art. 14 of the Constitution.

Held, that the Special Tribunal, from which the appeals came to the High Court must be held according to the decision of the High Court itself to have lost seisin of these cases after the 26th January, 1950, and they had no jurisdiction to proceed with the trial. As the High Court directed these cases to be tried by a competent Court, they could not possibly be sent back for trial to the Special Tribunal assuming that any such Tribunal existed or could be constituted by the Central Government. The only Court which was competent to try these cases would be the Special Court under Act 12 of 1952 and its jurisdiction could not be ousted as the order of the High Court itself proceeded on the footing that no trial could be held by the Tribunal constituted under the Central Ordinance 29 of 1943. The jurisdiction of the Special Court not being ousted by S. 12 of the Act or by the order of the High Court, the proceedings before it could not be quashed. Edward Ezra v. State of West Bengal, 1955 Cri LJ 342: 1955 SCA 215: 1955 SCJ 228: (1955) 1 SCR 1025: AIR 1955 SC 155 (159) (Prs 10, 11).

——S. 12 — Scope and applicability — Appropriation of funds of Union Board by President of Union Board — He is liable to be tried by Special Court. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 1208.

—WEST BENGAL CRIMINAL LAW AMENDMENT (SPECIAL COURTS) (AMENDING) ACT (24 OF 1960)

SECTION 2

●——Ss. 2, 3 (as it stood prior to its amendment by the Amending Act of 1960) — Special Court — Taking cognizance — Mode of — Petition of complaint not necessary — Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 190, 193 — Not applicable but can take cognizance on a complaint under Sec. 190, Criminal P. C. — Material on which Special Court will take cognizance — Effect of amendment — Does not vitiate the cognizance already taken — Where cognizance has not been taken Ss. 2 and 3 of the Amending Act is to be applied and the proper mode of taking cognizance would be as indicated in S. 190, Criminal P. C. See Public Safety — West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment (Special Courts) Act (21 of 1949), S. 4 (2). AIR 1961 Cal 560 (FB).

—WEST BENGAL SECURITY ACT (3 OF 1948)

PREAMBLE

——Preamble — Interpretation of Act. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 577 (DB).

——Preamble — Validity of Act — Effect of Full Bench decision in 53 CWN 27 — Division Bench cannot entertain plea of invalidity of Act. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 577 (DB).

SECTION 6

——Ss. 6 (3), 38 — Scope — S. 38 is ultra vires — Delegation under S. 38 is invalid — Orders by delegate under S. 6 (3) — Contravention of — Conviction for, is illegal. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 2056.

SECTION 16

——S. 16 — Rule under S. 491, Criminal P. C. pending — Another valid order under S. 16 — Relief under S. 491, in respect of pending rule cannot be granted — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 491). AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 577 (DB).

SECTION 18

——S. 18 — Grounds — High Court cannot examine grounds with meticulous care. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 577 (DB).

SECTION 30

——S. 30 — Satisfaction of Court regarding grounds is essential. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 577 (DB).

—WEST BENGAL SECURITY ACT (19 OF 1950)

PREAMBLE

——Preamble — Act if ultra vires.

The W. B. Security Act, 1950, cannot be held ultra vires merely because there is no section expressly allowing the person externed to make a representation to the Government. Nor can it be held ultra vires on the ground that it gives power to extern persons from the districts in which they are ordinarily resident. 55 CWN 53: AIR 1951 Cal 3 (5) (Pt B) (Prs 18, 19, 20) (DB).

SECTION 2

●——Ss. 2 (9) (e) and 11 — Applicability — Conciliation proceedings between a public utility concern and one union — Settlement binds all its workers—Strike by some of its workers belonging to other union illegal — Strikers are guilty of offence punishable under S. 11, West Bengal Security Act as the illegal strike amounts to a subversive act within the meaning of S. 2 (9) (e) of the W. B. Security Act. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 18 (3) (d). 1960 Cr LJ 1384: AIR 1960 SC 1012.

——Ss. 2 (3), 20 and 38 — Essential commodity — Notification of, in Gazette is essential — No publication in Gazette — Contravention of District Magistrate's order under S. 20 (1) read with S. 38 — Conviction under S. 20 (3) held bad. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 5562 (DB).

——S. 2 (9) (a) (i) — Endangering "communal harmony" — Constitution of India, Arts. 19, 132.

A person who speaks in favour of the interest of the inhabitants of one particular province or State as against the interest of the inhabitants of another province or State, cannot be regarded as endangering "communal harmony" irrespective of the question whether such an act is proper or desirable. The order of externment passed against the person under Sec. 21 in such a case is therefore illegal. 55 Cal WN 101: AIR 1951 Cal 424 (426) (Prs 14, 19) (DB).

——S. 2 (9) — Instigating Muslims to boycott the Hindus — If subversive act.

Instigating local Muslims to boycott the Hindus is a subversive act and cannot be deemed to be either indefinite or vague or outside the scope of the provisions of the Act. 55 Cal WN 94: 52 Cri LJ 327: AIR 1951 Cal 322 (326) (Pt C) (Pr 38) (DB).

SECTION 6

——S. 6 (6) — Loitering in vicinity — If punishable.

Although sub-sec. (2) of Sec. 6 forbids loitering in the vicinity, yet the provisions of sub-sec. (6) of that section are not sufficiently comprehensive to punish such loitering. To be in a protected place is indeed very much different from being merely in the vicinity of it. Sub-sec. (6) cannot, therefore, be held to be sufficiently wide to cover all cases of infraction contemplated in sub-sec. (2); the former is not co-extensive with the latter which presumably covers a much wider field. 59 Cal WN 999: 1955 Cr LJ 1336: ILR (1957) 2 Cal 351: AIR 1955 Cal 513 (514) (Pt B) (Pr 16) (DB).

——Ss. 6 (3) and 38 — Delegation under S. 38— Orders by delegate under S. 6 (3) — Contravention of — Conviction for — Not sustainable. See Public Safety — W. B. Security Act (19 of 1950), S. 38. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 2056.

SECTION 11

——Ss. 11, 18 (3) (d), 22 (1) (d) — Conciliation proceedings between a public utility concern and one union — Settlement binds all its workers — Strike by some of its workers belonging to other union is illegal — Strikers are guilty of offence under S. 11 of W. B. Security Act. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 18 (3) (d). 1960 Cri LJ 1384: AIR 1960 SC 1012.

——Ss. 11, 40 — Prejudicial speech made on 26th June, 1949 — Prosecution started under S. 11 (3), W. B. Security Ordinance — Conviction under S. 11, W. B. Security Act—Conviction held offended Art. 20 of the Constitution — (Constitution of India, Art. 20) — (Public Safety — W. B. Security Ordinance (2 of 1949), S. 11). AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 5590 (DB).

——Ss. 11 (3), 40 — Conviction for offence alleged to have been committed after expiry of West Bengal Security Act, 1948 and promulgation of West Bengal Security Ordinance, 1949 — Legality.

Section 1 (3) of the West Bengal Security Ordinance of 1949 cannot in law support the conviction for an alleged offence or act said to have been committed between the date on which the W. B. Security Act, 1948, expired and the date on which the Ordinance in question was enacted, by reason of Art. 20 (1) of the Constitution. Consequently, the conviction for such an offence under S. 11 (3), W. B. S. Act, 1950 is illegal notwithstanding S. 40 of the said Act.

The W. B. Security Ordinance of 1949 and the W. B. Security Act of 1950, so far as they purport to make acts done in the intervening period, namely, the period between 12-3-1949, and 8-7-1949, offences under the law, are ultra vires by reason of Art. 13 (1), Constitution of India. 52 Cri LJ 1087: AIR 1951 Cal 505 (506) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 7) (DB).

SECTION 20

——S. 20 — Essential commodity — Notification of, in Gazette is essential — No publication in Gazette — Contravention of District Magistrate's order under S. 20 (1) read with S. 38 — Conviction under S. 20 (3) held bad. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 5562 (DB).

SECTION 21

——S. 21 (1) — Order under — Validity.

Before an order can come within S. 21 (1) (a) the authority's satisfaction that the person against whom the order is made is doing or is about to do or is likely to do an act must be stated. Without a recital of that satisfaction the order is not in accordance with the Act. ('51) 55 Cal WN 45: 1952 Cri LJ 1662: AIR 1952 Cal 798 (799) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——S. 21 — Subversive act — Specification of.

The order under S. 21 should contain a statement as to what the subversive act was, and a mere recital that a man was doing a subversive act is not enough. ('51) 87 Cal LJ 1: 55 Cal WN 104: AIR 1951 Cal 404 (404) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——S. 21 — Nature of order to be passed.

Where under an order passed under S. 21 a person is prohibited from associating or corresponding with any person "who is known or believed to be a member of unlawful association" such an order cannot be complied with and is not one contemplated by the Act. ('51) 87 C LJ 1: 55 Cal WN 104: AIR 1951 Cal 404 (404) (Pt C) (Pr 5).

——Ss. 21 and 22 — Sections, if ultra vires Constitution — Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (d) and (a).

Sections 21 and 22 of the West Bengal Security Act, 1950, impose unreasonable restrictions on the exercise of the fundamental rights of a citizen of India secured by Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) of the Constitution of India. Those two sections of the said Act are therefore ultra vires the Constitution of India. 55 Cal WN 94: 52 Cri LJ 327: AIR 1951 Cal 322 (326) (Pt B) (Pr 34) (DB).

——S. 21 (1) — Externment order under — Contents regarding subversive act.

Section 21 clearly contemplated that in the externment order under that section it should be stated what the subversive act was, because in Sec. 2 (9) of the Act a very comprehensive definition of the term "subversive act" is given. It is essential that an externment order under Sec. 21 should correctly state upon what matter the person making the order is satisfied. An externment order merely stating that the person served was committing a subversive act does not contain such a statement and therefore, is not an order made under the Act and hence not binding upon the person served. 55 Cal WN 53: AIR 1951 Cal 3 (5, 7) (Pt A) (Prs 15, 16, 17, 32) (DB).

——S. 21 — Want of provision in Act for stating grounds for making order and making representation — Act if ultra vires on that ground.

The Act cannot be held to be ultra vires merely on the ground that there is nothing in the Act requiring the grounds for making the order to be stated. Nor can the Act be held to be ultra vires merely because there is no section expressly allowing representation to be made. 55 Cal WN 53: AIR 1951 Cal 3 (5) (Pt B) (Prs 18, 19, 20) (DB).

——S. 21 (1) and (4) — Order under S. 21 (1) — Satisfaction of authority — Nature.

No order can be made under S. 21 (1) unless there is satisfaction of authority that the person is actually doing or is about to do or is likely to do an act falling within S. 2 (9). It is not enough to say that the authority was satisfied that an order of externment is necessary with a view to preventing a person from doing a subversive act. Unless there is first a satisfaction upon the point that the person is doing or is about to do or is likely to do a subversive act an order made with a view to preventing a person from doing a subversive act is not one made under S. 21 (1), and there can be no conviction under Sec. 21 (4) for disobeying that order. 54 Cal WN 823: AIR 1950 Cal 543 (544) (Prs 8, 9) (DB).

SECTION 22

——Ss. 22, 21 — Ss. 21 and 22 of the West Bengal Security Act 1950 impose unreasonable restrictions on the exercise of the fundamental rights of a citizen of India secured by Art. 19 (1) (d) and (e) of the Constitution of India. These two sections of the said Act are therefore ultra vires the Constitution of India. See Public Safety — West Bengal Security Act (19 of 1950), S. 21. 52 Cri LJ 327: AIR 1951 Cal 322 (DB).

SECTION 38

——S. 38 — Essential commodity — Notification of, in Gazette is essential — No publication in Gazette — Contravention of District Magistrate's order under S. 20 (1) read with S. 38 — Conviction under S. 20 (3) held bad. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 5562 (DB).

——S. 38 — Delegation under — Orders by delegate under S. 6 (3) — Contravention of — Conviction for — Not sustainable as S. 38 is declared ultra vires — Delegation under it is invalid and the notice issued by the delegate under S. 6 (3) has no force in law. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 2056.

——S. 38 — Ultra vires.

The power of delegation contained in S. 38 of the Act is 'ultra vires' inasmuch as the power may be delegated to an officer of the lowest rank who may be wholly unfitted to exercise the power so delegated. 87 C LJ 1: 55 Cal WN 104: AIR 1951 Cal 404 (404) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——S. 38 — Power to delegate to any authority — Section if ultra vires on that ground — Constitution of India, Art. 19 (5).

Section 38 which entitles Government to delegate its powers under the Act to any officer subordinate to it irrespective of whether that officer is fit to make such orders is a procedure which is wholly unreasonable and that being so, S. 38 must be held to be ultra vires as being beyond the powers given to the State by Cl. (5) of Art. 19 of the Constitution.

Quaere—If Sec. 38 is ultra vires, whether S. 35 (1) and (3) would also have to be held to be ultra vires.

Once Sec. 38 is held ultra vires, there is no longer any power in the Act to delegate and externment order unless made by the State Government itself would be invalid. 55 Cal WN 53: AIR 1951 Cal 3 (6, 7) (Pt C) (Prs 26, 28, 30) (DB).

SECTION 40

——S. 40 — Prejudicial speech made on 26th June 1949 — Prosecution started under S. 11 (3) — W. B. Security Ordinance — Ordinance coming to an end on 26-1-1950 — Speech of 26-6-1949 could never be regarded as offence under the Act of 1950 it being not retrospective — Conviction under S. 11, W. B. Security Act (1950) — Conviction offended against Art. 20 — Section 40 of the Act cannot be availed of which applied only to proceedings under Act of 1950 — AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 5590 (DB).

——S. 40 — S. 11 (3) of the W. B. Security Ordinance of 1949 cannot in law support the conviction for an alleged offence or act said to have been committed between the date on which the W. B. Security Act 1948 expired and the date on which the W. B. Security Ordinance was enacted by reason of Art. 20 (1) of the Constitution. Consequently the conviction for such an offence under Sec. 11 of W. B. S. Act 1950 is illegal notwithstanding Sec. 40 of the said Act. W. B. S. Ordinance 1949 and W. B. S. Act 1950 so far as they purport to make acts done in intervening period between 12-3-1949 and 8-7-1949 offences under the law are ultra vires by reason of Art. 13 (1) of the Constitution. See Public Safety — West Bengal Security Act (1950), S. 11 (3). 52 Cri LJ 1087: AIR 1951 Cal 505 (DB).

—WEST BENGAL SECURITY ORDINANCE (2 OF 1949)

●——Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act (1930) and West Bengal Security Ordinance (1949) became void as soon as the Constitution came into force by reason of Art. 13 of the Constitution — Constitution of India, Arts. 22 (7) and 373—Public Safety — Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act (1930) and West Bengal Security Ordinance (1949) cannot be revived by subsequent order of the President passed in exercise of the powers conferred by Art. 22 (7) (a) read with Art. 373 See Public Safety — Preventive Detention (Extension of Duration) Order (1950). 51 Cri LJ 1110: AIR 1950 Cal 274 (SB).

●——Adaptation of Laws Order (1950), R. 28 — Validity — Constitution of India, Art. 372 — West Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act (6 of 1930) and West Bengal Security Ordinance (1949) became void when the Constitution came into force and the President cannot revive them by Adaptation of Laws Order, 1950 — Apart from this R. 28 of the order itself directing a Court to interpret to construe the law in a particular manner cannot be given effect to — The W. B. S. Ordinance is also void being inconsistent with the provisions of the Constitution. Sunil Kumar Bose v. The Chief Secretary to the Government of W. B., 54 Cal WN 394: 51 Cri LJ 1110: AIR 1950 Cal 274 (285, 286) (Pt J) (Prs 29, 30) (SB).

SECTION 11

——S. 11 — Prejudicial speech made on 26-6-1949 — Prosecution started under S. 11 (3), W. B. Security Ordinance — Conviction under S. 11, W. B. Security Act — Conviction held offended Art. 20 of the Constitution. See Public Safety — W. B. Security Act (19 of 1950), S. 11. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 5590 (DB).

——S. 11 (3) — Validity of Ordinance — AIR 1950 Cal 274 held did not express any opinion on validity of of S. 11 or any other section of ordinance. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 826 (DB).

SECTION 22

●——S. 22 — Validity of Ordinance — Constitution of India, Arts. 13 and 22 (4).

The Ordinance is clearly an Ordinance providing for preventive detention, but the Ordinance is void because it is inconsistent with the provisions of the Constitution Act.

The West Bengal Security Ordinance, 1949, does not provide for any Advisory Board of the nature contemplated by Art. 22 (4), Constitution Act.

Further, the Ordinance does not impose restrictions which are reasonable and are in the interests of the general public. Sunil Kumar Bose v. The Chief Secretary to the Government of W. B., 54 Cal WN 394: 51 Cri LJ 1110: AIR 1950 Cal 274 (283) (Pt G) (Prs 21, 22) (SB).

SECTION 31

——S. 31 — Scope — Requisition order to rehabilitate refugee from Pakistan — Validity.

The Governor when he enacted Ordinance 2 of 1949 merely had in mind persons in the State of West Bengal who had lost their residence by reason of the serious communal disturbances which occurred in that State since the year 1946. The clause must be confined to such persons and that being so, an order of requisition which on the face of it was made to rehabilitate a refugee from East Bengal driven out of Pakistan by political disturbances is not contemplated by cl. 31 of the Ordinance of 1949 though the disturbances were tinged with communalism, and is not an order made under the Ordinance at all and therefore must be regarded as invalid. 55 Cal WN 297: ILR (1952) 1 Cal 168: AIR 1951 Cal 346 (349) (Pt B) (Pr 19) (DB).

—WEST BENGAL SECURITY (SECOND AMENDMENT) ORDINANCE (14 OF 1950)

PREAMBLE

——Pre. — Validity of Ordinance — Previous instructions of President not obtained — Effect — Constitution of India, Art. 213 (1), Proviso (c).

State Legislation on an item included in List III, Sch. 7 of the Constitution without the President's assent is only invalid in so far as it is repugnant to Central Legislation or existing law. A State may legislate on an item in List III and such legislation will be perfectly valid if it does not conflict with a piece of legislation of Parliament or with existing law as defined by the Constitution.

There is no piece of existing law which can be said to be repugnant to the provisions of Ordinance 14 of 1950. Therefore that Ordinance is valid, though the previous instructions of the President were not obtained. The fact that a subsequent Act (W. B. Security Act (61 of 1950)) required and obtained the assent of the President is by no means conclusive because the subsequent Act deals with many matters which were not covered by the Ordinance and some of those matters undoubtedly required the assent of the President to make the legislation valid. 55 Cal WN 297: ILR (1952) 1 Cal 168: AIR 1951 Cal 346 (348) (Pt A) (Prs 12, 13) (DB).

—WEST BENGAL SPECIAL COURTS ACT (10 OF 1950)

SECTION 5

●——S. 5 (1) — Validity — Discrimination in criminal trials — Classification based on speedier trial of offences — Applicability of Art. 14, Constitution of India, to rule of procedure — Provision offends Art. 14 of the Constitution and is ultra vires — Constitution of India, Arts. 14 and 13.

Per Fazl Ali, Mahajan, Mukherjea, Chandrasekhara Aiyar and Bose, JJ., Sastri, C. J. Contra.— The provisions of Sec. 5 (1) are ultra vires the Constitution by reason of their being in conflict with Art. 14 of the Constitution.

Per Das J. :— The provision of S. 5 (1) is ultra vires the Constitution only so far as it allows the State Government to direct any case to be tried by the Special Court. The rest of Sec. 5 (1) is valid.

Per Sastri, C. J. :— It is difficult to hold that S. 5 (1) in whole or in part is discriminatory. AIR 1952 Cal 150 (FB), Affirmed; Case-law discussed. State of West Bengal v. Anwar Ali, 1952 Mad WN 460: 1952 SCJ 55: 1952 SCR 284: 1952 Mad WN (Cr) 124: 1952 Cr LJ 510: AIR 1952 SC 75 (81, 84, 86, 89, 91, 92, 93, 96, 97, 101) (Prs 15, 24, 27, 37, 38, 45, 46, 50, 51, 52, 63, 64, 76).

●——S. 5 (1) — Provision is discriminatory between persons and offends against Art. 14 of the Constitution in so far as they empower State to direct trial of any case by Special Judge and therefore is ultra vires — (Constitution of India, Articles 14 and 13 (2)).

[Editorial Note—This decision has been confirmed on 11-1-1952 by the Supreme Court (See AIR 1952 SC 52), which held that the whole Act was ultra vires]. Anwar Ali Sarkar v. State of W. B., 1952 Cri LJ 450: AIR 1952 Cal 150 (157 to 170) (Pt B) (Prs 51, 62, 63, 73, 74, 78, 88, 92, 103 to 104, 109, 117, 122) (FB).

●——S. 5 (1) — Word "cases" does not mean "cases requiring speedier trials" — Preamble cannot be looked into. See Interpretation of Statutes Preamble. 1952 Cri LJ 450: AIR 1952 Cal 150 (FB).

—WEST BENGAL TRIBUNALS OF CRIMINAL JURISDICTION ACT (14 OF 1952)

PREAMBLE

——Pre. and Sch., Items 1 to 3 — Act applies to offences under item 3 committed before the Act came into force. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 2876 (DB).

SECTION 2

●——S. 2 (b), S. 4 (1), Proviso — Validity of— — If contravene Art. 14 of Constitution.

The Court should apply the dual test in examining the validity of the impugned statute. Is the classification rational and based on intelligible differentia; and, has the basis of differentiation any rational nexus with its avowed policy and object? If both these tests are satisfied, the statute must be held to be valid. If either of the two tests is not satisfied, the statute must be struck down as violative of Art. 14. If any state of facts can reasonably be conceived to sustain a classification, the existence of that state of facts must be assumed. AIR 1951 SC 41 and AIR 1953 SC 404, Foll.

The West Bengal Tribunals of Criminal Jurisdiction Act (14 of 1952) was passed because the Legislature thought it expedient, in the interest of the security of the State, the maintenance of public peace and tranquillity and the due safeguarding of industry and business, to provide for the speedy trial of the offences specified in the schedule.

Held, by the majority (Sinha, C. J., Gajendragadkar and Shah, JJ.; Sarkar and Subba Rao, JJ., contra), that the impugned provisions contained in S. 2 (b) and the proviso in S. 4 (1) could not be said to contravene Art. 14. But if in issuing the notification authorised by S. 2 (b) the State Government acted mala fide or exercised its power in colourable way that could always be effectively challenged.

Per Sarkar and Subba Rao, JJ., Dissenting: S. 2 (b) of the Act in so far as it permits an area which was a disturbed area in the past to be declared a disturbed area for the purposes of the Act, offends Art. 14 of the Constitution and is, therefore, unconstitutional and void. Kangshari Haldar v. State of West Bengal, (1960) 2 SCR 646: 1960 Mad LJ (Cri) 448: 1960 SCJ 629: 1960 Cri LJ 654: AIR 1960 SC 457 (459, 461, 464, 467) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 9, 19, 40).

SECTION 4

●——Ss. 4 (1), Proviso and 2 (b) — Special Courts and special procedure — S. 2 (b) and S. 4 (1), Proviso, held did not contravene Art. 14 of Constitution — Tests for application of Art. 14. See Public Safety — West Bengal Tribunal of Crl. Jurisdiction Act (14 of 1952), S. 2 (b). AIR 1960 SC 457.

——S. 4 and Schedule — 'Scheduled offences' — Offences punishable under S. 397, Penal Code — (Penal Code (1860), S. 397).

It may be reasonably said that a proper description of an offence punishable under S. 397, I. P. Code, would be given by the words "an offence of robbery or dacoity for which the offender is liable to punishment under S. 397, I. P. Code". The omission to use these words cannot, however, take away the fact that something definite is understood when the schedule speaks of an offence 'punishable under S. 397, I. P. Code'. One understands by these words an offence or robbery or dacoity in which the offender uses any deadly weapon or causes grievous hurt to any person or attempts to cause death or grievous hurt to any person. The Legislature did not think it right to include every offence of robbery in the schedule for the special procedure of trial laid down in the Act, but thought proper to include only certain kinds of robbery, the robbery for which the offender is liable to the minimum punishment under S. 397, I. P. Code. There is, therefore, no substance in the contention that the words used in S. 397, I. P. Code, do not indicate an offence and that, therefore, when the schedule mentions an "offence punishable under S. 397, I. P. Code", it means nothing at all and there is no scheduled offence. 1955 Cri LJ 657: 59 Cal WN 312: AIR 1955 Cal 177 (179) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Ss. 4, 5 and 10 — Offence under S. 397, Penal Code, taken cognizance of — Legality of trial for offence under S. 394, Penal Code — (Penal Code (1860), Ss. 397 and 394) — (Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 236 and 238).

There can be no doubt that a person accused of an offence under S. 397, Penal Code, which is a scheduled offence, can at the same trial be, by reason of S. 236. Criminal P. C., tried for an offence under S. 394, Penal Code. Where the Acts are obviously of such a nature that if certain facts could be proved, the offence would be punishable under S. 397, Penal Code, whereas if certain lesser facts could be proved, the offence would be punishable under S. 394, Penal Code, the Tribunal acts rightly as regards the accused persons against whom it had already taken cognizance of an offence under S. 397, Penal Code, on the charge-sheet submitted by the Police, in trying them also for the non-scheduled offence under S. 394, Penal Code.

The argument that as S. 5 of the Act provides for cognizance being taken by the Tribunal only of scheduled offences and the Act contains no provision for cognizance being taken by the Tribunal of non-scheduled offences, the Tribunal has no power in law to take cognizance of non-scheduled offences and could not try an offence under S. 394, Penal Code, and so it could not be said that the accused could under the Criminal Procedure Code, be charged at the same trial for an offence of which it has taken cognizance is not well founded in law. Section 10 of the Act has made all the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure so far as they are not inconsistent with the provisions of the Act applicable to all matters, upon a trial by a Tribunal as if the Tribunal were a Court of Sessions exercising original jurisdiction. Therefore, the contention that the accused could not be charged under S. 394, Penal Code, at the same trial for an offence under S. 397, Penal Code, must be rejected.

For the same reasons the objection to the trial of the accused for offences under the Explosive Substances Act based on the assumption that as cognizance could not be taken by the Tribunal of those offences they could not try the accused for these offences must also fail. 1955 Cri LJ 657: 59 Cal WN 312: AIR 1955 Cal 177 (179, 180) (Pt B) (Prs 10 to 12, 14 to 16) (DB).

——S. 4 — Joint trial — Some accused charged with scheduled offence and others not — Effect— (Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 530 and 239).

The Tribunal has no jurisdiction to try persons in the absence of allegation in the charge-sheet that they had committed any scheduled offence. But the fact that the Tribunal had acted without jurisdiction in respect of some of the accused because there was no charge of scheduled offences against them has no effect on the legality of the trial of the other accused to try whom the Tribunal had jurisdiction. 1955 Cri LJ 657: 59 Cal WN 312: AIR 1955 Cal 177 (180) (Pt C) (Pr 18) (DB).

——S. 4 (1), Proviso — Not void as offending Art. 14 — Special Courts and special procedure. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 2876 (DB).

——S. 4 (1), Proviso — Taking cognizance of scheduled as well as non-scheduled offences at same time — Trial in respect of scheduled offences does not become illegal. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 2876 (DB).

——Ss. 4 (2) and 5 — Conditions for assumption of jurisdiction by Special Tribunal — Special Tribunal can assume jurisdiction to try scheduled offences only when case in respect of it is distributed to the Tribunal by State Government and Tribunal has taken cognizance either on petition of complaint or police report. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 2876 (DB).

SECTION 5

——Ss. 5, 8 — Tribunal constituted under Act— Competency to try offence committed prior to enactment of the statute.

The Tribunals of Criminal Jurisdiction Act, 1952, did not create any new offences nor did it provide for enhanced punishment for any old offence. Apart from S. 8, which provides for an appeal to the High Court by a person convicted by the Tribunal, the provisions of this Act relate to the procedure for trial of offences and consequently must be held to be retrospective in their operation. Section 8 giving a right of appeal is no doubt a provision of substantive law, but as it gives the right of appeal to any person convicted on a trial held by a Tribunal, it applies whenever The trial itself is held after the Act was passed. Hence, the provisions relating to a trial by a Special Tribunal constituted under the Act are applicable to offences committed before the Act was passed. 1955 Cri LJ 1348: AIR 1955 Cal 535 (538) (Pt A) (Pr 11) (DB).

——S. 5 — Offence under S. 397, Penal Code, taken cognizance of — Legality of trial for offence under S. 394, Penal Code. See Public Safety — West Bengal Tribunals of Criminal Jurisdiction Act (14 of 1952), S. 4. AIR 1955 Cal 177 (DB).

——S. 5 — Conditions for assumption of jurisdiction by Special Tribunal. See Public Safety — West Bengal Tribunals of Criminal Jurisdiction Act (14 of 1952), S. 4 (2). AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 2876 (DB).

SECTION 8

——Ss. 8 and 5 — Tribunal constituted under Act is competent to try offences committed prior to enactment of the statute. See Public Safety — West Bengal Tribunals of Criminal Jurisdiction Act (14 of 1952), S. 5. 1955 Cri LJ 1348: AIR 1955 Cal 535 (DB).

SECTION 10

——Ss. 10, 12 — Ppwer and jurisdiction of Special Tribunals of tendering pardon — (Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 193, 338).

The Tribunals of Criminal Jurisdiction Act, 1952, was enacted in place of the West Bengal Special Courts Act, 1950, which is repealed by S. 12 of the present Act. In enacting this new Act, the Legislature in its wisdom has omitted any provision similar to what had been enacted in the third sub-section of S. 6. In this view it is impossible to escape any conclusion that the Legislature decided to take away the power and jurisdiction of tendering pardon from the Special Tribunals.

The conclusion that necessarily follows from this is that the Special Judge presiding over the Special Tribunal acts without jurisdiction in tendering pardon to one of the accused and that consequently the evidence as recorded by him of such accused cannot be taken into consideration for the purpose of the trial. 1955 Cri LJ 1348: AIR 1955 Cal 535 (538) (Pt B) (Pr 13) (DB).

——S. 10 — Offence under S. 397, Penal Code, taken cognizance of — Legality of trial for offence under S. 394, Penal Code. See Public Safety — West Bengal Tribunals of Criminal Jurisdiction Act (14 of 1952), S. 4. AIR 1955 Cal 177 (DB).

SECTION 12

——Ss. 12 and 10 — Special Tribunal has no power of tendering pardon. See Public Safety — West Bengal Tribunals of Criminal Jurisdiction Act (14 of 1952), S. 10. 1955 Cri LJ 1348: AIR 1955 Cal 535 (DB).

SCHEDULE

——Sch. — Offence punishable under S. 397, I. P. Code — Meaning. See Public Safety — West Bengal Tribunals of Criminal Jurisdiction Act (14 of 1952), S. 4. AIR 1955 Cal 177 (DB).

——Sch., Items 1 to 3 — Applicability of Act to offences committed before Act came into force. See Public Safety — West Bengal Tribunals of Criminal Jurisdiction Act (14 of 1952), Preamble. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 2876 (DB).

PUBLIC SERVANT

See (1) Civil P. C. (1908), Ss. 2 (17), 80 and O. 27.
(2) Constitution of India, Arts. 284, 309, 311.
(3) Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 195, 197, 476.
(4) Judicial Officers' Protection Act (1850).
(5) Penal Code (1860), Ss. 21 and 161-171.
(6) Prevention of Corruption Act (1947).
(7) Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (1850).
(9) Statutory cross-references under "Criminal law".

Allowing prisoner to escape
See Penal Code (1860), S. 129.

Defined.
See Penal Code (1860), S. 21.

Defamation of —Prosecution for.
See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 198-B

Disobedience of order promulgated by
See Penal Code (1860), S. 188.

Escape from custody, negligently allowing.
See Penal Code (1860), S. 223.

Furnishing false information to See Penal Code (1860), Ss. 177, 182.

High Court employees.
See Allahabad High Court (Conditions of Service Staff) Rules (1946), R. 12.

Incorrect record, framing of
See Penal Code (1860), S. 218.

Obstruction in discharge of public duties
See Penal Code (1860), S. 186.
Omission to give notice or information to
See Penal Code (1860), S. 176.
Taking illegal gratification by.
See (1) Penal Code (1860), Ss. 161, 162, 165, 165-A.
(2) Prevention of Corruption Act (1947).

PUBLIC SERVANTS (INQUIRIES) ACT (37 OF 1850)

PREAMBLE

●——Pre. — 'Removable from his appointment' — Interpretation — I. C. S. Officer serving with State Government — State Government is competent to initiate inquiry against such officer under S. 2 — The preamble of the Act shows that the intention was that there should be a uniform law regulating inquiries into the behaviour of public servants not removable without sanction of Government and the inquiry was to be made by either the Central Government or the State Government — (Words and Phrases) — Remove — See Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (37 of 1950), S. 2. AIR 1964 SC 295.

——Pre. — Right to claim salary from Crown — Contractual right — There is no contract, within the meaning of Contract Act, by the Crown to pay any salary to a public servant — U. P. Rules are meant as guidance only and do not form the terms of the contract between the Crown and the Civil Servant — U. P. Civil Service (Executive Branch) Rules, 1941, R. 25. AIR 1951 All 205 (209, 218, 223) (Pt B) (Prs 13, 29, 56) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1955 SC 600].

——Pre. — Non-selection posts — Promotion — Position as to — Position in Eastern Railway is that promotion is to be by order of seniority and not in order of merit — This does not, however, mean that the seniormost man must be promoted to higher post even if unsuitable—(Master and Servant). See Railway Establishment Code, Vol. 1 (1951), Appendix 2-A. AIR 1956 Cal 465.

——Pre. — The Public Servants (Inquiries) Act 1977 Smt., is an optional measure and it is not possible to treat the provisions of that Act as constituting any restriction upon the power of dismissal which his Highness or his Government may possess independently of that Act. See Kashmir Regulation 1 of 1991. AIR 1951 J and K 1 (DB).

——Pre. — Nature of Act — Not repealed pro tanto by the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947.

The Public Servants (Inquiries) Act, 1850 is not a penal Act and its object is not to provide punishment for an officer guilty of misconduct. The Act merely provides for an inquiry into the conduct of a Government servant and the only thing that can be done as a consequence of the inquiry is the dismissal or removal of the Government servant. The Act and the Prevention of Corruption Act lie in entirely different fields and there is no question of either Act being repealed pro tanto by the other. AIR 1954 SC 375, Rel. on. ILR (1956) Punj 236: AIR 1956 Punj 58 (70) (Pt I) (Prs 36, 37) (DB).

SECTION 2

SYNOPSIS

(Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (1850), S. 2.)

1. Applicability.
2. Enquiry — Nature, purpose and object of.
3. Validity.
4. Applicability of Criminal P. C.
5. Appointment — Meaning of.
6. Misbehaviour — Meaning of.
7. Jurisdiction of Civil Court.
8. Suspension.

1. Applicability.

●——Ss. 2, 23 — Applicability — I. C. S. Officer employed under State — State Government's power to direct inquiry against him.

Where an I. C. S. Officer is employed under the State Government, there is nothing in the Constitution which abrogates the authority of the State Government to direct an enquiry against him under S. 2 of the Act. AIR 1956 Punj 58, Affirmed.

The special method of recruitment of the officer to the service does not warrant the view that the officer is not employed under the Government of the State, in connection with the affairs of which he was serving. S. Kapur Singh v. Union of India, 1960 SCJ 487: (1960) 1 Mad LJ (SC) 116: (1960) 1 Andh WR (SC) 116: (1960) 1 SCA 680: 1960 Mad LJ (Cr) 406: ILR (1960) 1 Punj 824: (1960) 2 SCR 569: AIR 1960 SC 493 (496) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

●——S. 2 — Applicability — Disciplinary proceedings against members of I. C. S. — Enquiry — Obligation to hold enquiry under R. 55, Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules.

Members of the Indian Civil Service are not liable to be dismissed from their appointment without the sanction of the Government under which they are serving and are not excluded from the purview of the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act, 1850.

Rule 55 of the Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules means that an order of dismissal, removal or reduction in rank shall not be passed without an enquiry either according to the procedure prescribed by the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act, 1850, or the procedure prescribed by the Rule. The Rule does not mean that even if an enquiry be held under the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act, 1850, before an order of dismissal of removal or reduction is passed against a member of the civil service, another enquiry expressly directed under R. 55 shall be made. AIR 1954 SC 375, Rel. on.

By Art. 314, to civil servants appointed by the Secretary of State the same rights in disciplinary matters as were available before the Constitution (including a right to enquiry under R. 55 of the Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules) are guaranteed. But the guarantee being one of an enquiry directed under one of two alternative powers conferred either under the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act or under R. 55 of the Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, the exercise of authority under one of the two alternatives is not prima facie illegal.

The procedure prescribed by Act 37 of 1850 and the procedure to be followed under R. 55 are in substance not materially different. No discrimination is practised merely because resort is had to one of two alternative sources of authority, unless it is shown that the procedure adopted operated to the prejudice of the public servant concerned. On a plea of inequality before the law, the enquiry held by the Enquiry Commissioner is not liable to be declared void because it was held in a manner though permissible in law, not in the manner, the public servant says it might have been held. S. Kapur

Singh v. Union of India, 1960 SCJ 487: (1960) 1 MLJ (SC) 116: (1960) 1 An WR (SC) 116: (1960) 1 SCA 680: 1960 Mad LJ (Cr) 406: ILR (1960) 1 Punj 824: (1960) 2 SCR 569: AIR 1960 SC 493 (497 to 500) (Pt C) (Prs 8, 10, 13, 14, 16).

●——S. 2 — Applicability.

The Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (Kashmir) is applicable in cases of suspension or removal from service. It does not apply in the case of demotion. Gulam Rasul v. State of Jammu and Kashmir, AIR 1956 J and K 17 (22) (Pt E) (Pr 27) (FB).

(Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 SC 1301].

——S. 2 — Applicability — Satisfaction of Government is foundation of enquiry. See Travancore Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (10 of 1122), S. 2. AIR 1958 Ker 374 (DB).

——Ss. 2, 23 — Member of I. C. S. employed under Punjab Government — Punjab State Government is competent to direct inquiry under the Act against him — Appointment of a Judge of Punjab High Court as Commission of Inquiry by Governor with approval of Government of India is valid — Constitution of India, Art. 217. AIR 1960 SC 493, Foll. (1961) 63 Pun LR 780.

——Ss. 2, 23 — Civil Servant employed under State Government — Power of State Government to order public enquiry — Irregularity in ordering inquiry — Effect — (Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, Rr. 52, 55).

S. 2 read with S. 23 makes it quite clear that a public enquiry into the conduct of an officer holding a particular post can be ordered only by the Government, Central or Provincial, which is clothed with the power of ordering his removal from the said post.

Thus in the case of a civil servant employed under a State Government, the State Government which has power to appoint him to the post of Deputy Commissioner has power also to order his removal from the said post. It follows as a consequence that, in view of the provisions of S. 2, the State Government has full power to order an inquiry into charges brought against such civil servant although its power to award a punishment to him is strictly limited by the provisions of R. 52 of the Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules.

Even assuming that the State Government had no power to order such an inquiry against a civil servant under the Act, such an irregularity entitles the public servant to claim that the entire proceedings should be quashed and that the order which is based on those proceedings should be set aside. The provisions of the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act, 1850, or of R. 55, of the Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules are fully satisfied if the officer conducting the removal proceedings observes the fundamental rules of a fair and impartial trial even though he does not comply with the technical rules of evidence and procedure. Proceedings of this kind cannot be rendered void when they are conducted in accordance with the rules of natural justice and they cannot be set aside for non-compliance with the legal formalities unless the failure to observe the said formalities has brought about a miscarriage of justice. ILR (1956) Punj 236: AIR 1956 Punj 58 (62) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

2. Enquiry — Nature, purpose and object of.

●——S. 2 — Enquiry under Act is neither prosecution nor punishment — In an enquiry under the Act there is neither any question of investigating an offence in the sense of an act or omission punishable by the law for the time being in force, nor is there any question of imposing punishment prescribed by law which makes that act or omission an offence. See Constitution of India, Art. 20 (2). 1954 Cri LJ 993: AIR 1954 SC 375.

●——S. 2 — Scope — Civil servant — Dismissal of — Purpose of enquiry under Public Servants (Inquiries) Act — The purpose of inquiry under the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act, 1850, is to help Government to come to a definite conclusion regarding the misbehaviour of a public servant and thus enable it to determine provisionally the punishment which should be imposed upon him, prior to giving him reasonable opportunity of showing cause as is required by Art. 311 (2) of the Constitution. See Constitution of India, Art. 311 (2). 1954 Cri LJ 993: AIR 1954 SC 375.

——S. 2 — Object of inquiry.

As the law stands at present, the only purpose for which an enquiry under Act 37 of 1850 could be made is to help the Government to come to a definite conclusion regarding the misbehaviour of a public servant and thus enable it to determine provisionally the punishment which should be imposed upon him, prior to giving him a reasonable opportunity of showing cause, as is required under Art. 311 (2) of the Constitution. An enquiry under the Act is not at all compulsory and it is quite open to the Government to adopt any other method if it so chooses. It is a matter of convenience merely and nothing else. AIR 1956 Pat 384 (395) (Pt F) (Pr 29) (DB).

●——S. 2 — Proceedings under the Act — Dismissal order — Writ Petition — Appeal under Article 133, Constitution of India — Proceedings, if civil — Any proceeding in a Court of law brought to vindicate or enforce a civil right would fall within the word 'sue' and if a writ of certiorari to quash an order of Government requisitioning a flat can fall within the word "sue", it would be difficult to contest that a writ directed against proceedings under Act 37 of 1850, or to challenge the order made as a consequence of those proceedings is not within the words "civil proceedings". See Constitution of India, Art. 133. AIR 1957 Punj 173 (FB).

3. Validity.

●——S. 2 — Procedure and provisions of Public Servants (Inquiries) Act are not more drastic and less advantageous than those of the 1955 rules — Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (1850), does not violate Art. 14. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. 1963 Cur LJ (SC) 105: 1964 SCD 1: (1964) 1 SCA 313: (1964) 4 SCR 204: 1964 (1) Cri LJ 224 (SC).

——Ss. 2, 3 and 4 — Procedure — Civil Services Rules are mere administrative rules and they have no statutory force — Compliance with the said Rules is not essential for enquiry against a public servant — Procedure under Public Servants (Inquiries) Act followed — Constitutional guarantee is satisfied. See Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, Rule 55. AIR 1960 Pat 116 (DB).

——Ss. 2, 11, 15 and 19 — Public servant subject to All India Services (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1955 — Member of Indian Civil Service — Enquiry against him under Act — No violation of Art. 14. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. (1961) 63 Pun LR 780.

——S. 2 — Validity of Act — Does not contravene Art. 14 of Constitution — (Constitution of India, Art. 14).

The Public Servants Inquiries Act, 1850 is an empowering Act and it vests the Government with power to proceed against a Government servant who has been guilty of misconduct. The fact that it is not obligatory on the Government to proceed against every Government servant against whom an imputation may be made is scarcely a violation of the provisions of Art. 14. There is no question of any classification. To give such discretion to Government is not only lawful but essential. There is therefore nothing in this Act which offends against the provisions of Art. 14. ILR (1956) Punj 236: AIR 1956 Punj 58 (70) (Pt H) (Pr 35) (DB).

——S. 2 — Inquiry under by High Court Judge — No request by President — Validity of inquiry — (Constitution of India, Sch. II, Pt. D, Para 11 (b) (i)).

Paragraph 11 (b) (i) of Part D of the Second Schedule of the Constitution deals merely with the remuneration of Judges. There is nothing to preclude a Judge from undertaking an inquiry of a public servant under the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act, 1850, at the request of a State Government and the inquiry does not become invalid merely because it was not undertaken at the request of the President. ILR (1956) Punj 236: AIR 1956 Punj 58 (70) (Pt J) (Pr 38) (DB).

——S. 2 — Reasonable classification — Enquiry of public servants — Power of Government to appoint anyone for enquiry — Cannot come under Article 14, Constitution of India — The Central Act and the Punjab Rules are made for different class of persons and there is reasonable classification between them — See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1955 Punj 3.

——S. 2 — Procedure — Public servant proceeded against under Appendix 24 of Punjab Civil Services Rules and not under Public Servants (Inquiries) Act — There is no contravention of Art. 14 of the Constitution. See Punjab Civil Services Rules, Appendix XXIV. AIR 1955 Punj 1.

4. Applicability of Criminal P. C.

●——S. 2 — Government servant — Information under S. 154, Criminal P. C. lodged against — Investigation by police pending — No legal bar to Government ordering departmental enquiry.

Where a first information report under Section 154, Criminal P. C. has been recorded against a Government servant that he has committed a cognizable offence, the truth of the same should be ascertained only in an inquiry or trial by the criminal Court when a prima facie case is found by the investigation and a chargesheet is submitted. If the police on investigation finds that no case is made out for submission of a chargesheet the allegations should be held to be untrue, or doubtful and in such a case there is no need for any further inquiry in the same matter. In most cases it would be proper and reasonable for Government to await the result of the police investigation and where the investigation is followed by an inquiry or trial, the result of such inquiry or trial, before deciding to take any disciplinary action against any of its servants. It would be proper and reasonable also, generally, for Government not to take action against a Government servant when on investigation by the police, it is found that no prima facie case has been made out. Even though this appears to be a reasonable course which is and will ordinarily be followed by Government there is no legal bar to the Government ordering a departmental enquiry even in a case where a first information report under Section 154 having been lodged an investigation will follow. R. P. Kapur v. S. Pratap Singh Kairon. 1963 Cur LJ (SC) 105: 1964 SCD 1: (1964) 1 SCA 313: 1964 (1) Cri LJ 224 (228) (Pt B) (Pr 13) (SC).

——S. 2 — Inquiry under — Joinder of charges — Applicability of provision of Cr. P. Code — (Cr. P. Code (1898), S. 233).

The provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code relating to the misjoinder of charges do not apply to the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act and the inquiry cannot be held to be bad merely on the ground that more than three charges were made the subject-matter of one inquiry. ILR (1956) Punj 236: AIR 1956 Punj 58 (71) (Pt L) (Pr 41) (DB).

5. Appointment — Meaning of ●——Ss. 2 and 23, Preamble — 'Removable from his appointment' — Interpretation — I. C. S. Officer serving with State Government — State Government is competent to initiate inquiry against such officer under S. 2 — Words and Phrases — Remove.

Per Majority (Wanchoo, Das Gupta and Ayyangar, JJ., contra) — One of the conditions which has to be satisfied, before an enquiry under Section 2 can be directed to be made into the truth of the imputations of misbehaviour by a person in the service of the Government, is that the person should not be 'removable from his appointment' without the sanction of that Government. The words 'removable from his appointment' do not indicate 'removable from service' but merely 'removable from the appointment in the sense of office or post held by the officer'. In this sense, an I. C. S. or other such officer, serving with the State Government, satisfies the condition of 'removability', although he is not capable of being dismissed or removed from service by that Government, and so falls within those public servants against whom the State Government can initiate proceedings under Section 2.

It will be seen from the Preamble to the Act that ever since 1850, the intention was that there should be a uniform law for regulating inquiries into the behaviour of public servants not removable without the sanction of Government and the inquiry was to be made either by the Central Government or by the Governments of the Presidencies (later, of the Provinces and now of the States) and the provisions of Sections 2 and 23 between them pointed out which Government it was to be. At every stage of the Inquiries Act, 1850, right from the beginning till to-day, there has always been a key furnished by S. 23 to the solution of the question which Government should take action and it has not been necessary to go to other statutes.

The original Inquiries Act as also the amendments made in it from time to time was designed to bifurcate the power of inquiry between the Central Government and the local Government and the word 'remove' simpliciter which might have had the restricted meaning was never so used. It was first qualified by the words 'from office' and is now qualified by the words from his 'appointment. The word 'remove' cannot therefore be defined without the qualifying words.

Construing the phrase 'removable from appointment' occurring in S. 2 with the help of the key furnished by S. 23 which is merely a definition of the words 'the Government' wherever used in the Act, the words 'in the service of' in the expression 'in the service of the Government' mean 'while serving with' and do not convey the sense of 'employment by'. The word 'appointment' can thus only mean a 'post', 'station' or 'office' and does not refer to the whole service as such. Removal, therefore, cannot be the equivalent of loss of service but the loss of 'post', 'station' or 'office'. S. 2 is intended to apply only to an officer whose 'post', 'station or 'office' can only be lost under orders of appropriate Government and not any lesser authority. In this sense, the action of the State Government is clearly exercisable in the case of an I. C. S. Officer serving with the State Government. To be able to say that the inquiry could be made by the other Government, one would have to discard altogether S. 23 as a key and the interpretation placed on the section by the Supreme Court in Sardar Kapur Singh's case, AIR 1960 SC 493.

Per Wanchoo, Das Gupta and Ayyangar, JJ., contra:— The word 'removable' in the words 'not removable from his appointment' without the sanction of the Government occurring in S. 2, means removable from his appointment in the sense of terminating his appointment and signifies the penalty numbered 6 in R. 3 of All India Services (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1955, where the expression is expanded to mean 'removal from the service which shall not disqualify for future employment'. The State Government therefore is not the appropriate Government to direct an inquiry under S. 2 of the Act against an I. C. S. Officer in the service of that State Government. The condition that the officer against whom proceedings are taken must be one who is amenable to the disciplinary control of the Government which initiates the inquiry and is competent to inflict upon him the punishment of removal has been the basic ratio and purpose of the Act of 1850 ever since it was enacted. The change effected by the amendment brought in 1897 retained this characteristic, though it gave an overriding power to the Governor-General to initiate proceedings in all cases whether or not the officer was serving a local Government or the Central Government. It could not, therefore, be that by reason of an adaptation which was effected in 1937, in order to bring the Act into line with the Constitution, the Government of India Act, 1935, a vital change was made which upset this basic feature and conferred a power upon a Provincial Government to institute an inquiry even when such a Government had not the power to punish him by way of removal. The definition of 'the Government' in S. 23 of the Act as it now stands would not in terms apply to that word in the preamble. The result would be that the word 'Government' as used in the preamble would continue to retain the same meaning as it had when the Act was originally enacted in 1850 when the word which S. 23 defined was 'Government' and not 'the Government' as it has done since 1897. If the preamble and the operative provisions have to be reasonably and harmoniously construed, one must posit as a condition for the availability of the power to institute the enquiry under S. 2, that the officer must be one over whom the Government that initiates the proceedings has disciplinary powers extending to his removal from service.

There is practically a parallel provision for conducting an inquiry into the misconduct of an officer under the All India Services (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1955 — a proceeding which could be initiated by the State Government where the officer were in the employ of the State Government. Nor is this the only remedy because an officer in the All India Services could be called over to the Union Government and then proceedings even under this Act could be launched against him. In the circumstances the supposed anomaly which is brought in by reason of a definition in S. 23 which does not entirely fit into the provisions of S. 2 of the Act, is no ground at all for adopting a forced construction of S. 2 by reading the word 'removal' in an unusual, if not an unnatural sense. R. P. Kapur v. S. Pratap Singh Kairon, (1964) 4 SCR 224: AIR 1964 SC 295 (300, 301, 302, 312) (Pt A) (Prs 13, 17, 18, 22, 51).

——S. 2 — Appointment — Meaning of — Not synonymous with service — (Words and Phrases).

The expression "appointment" appearing in S. 2 has been used not in the sense of designation of a person to discharge the duties of a particular office but meaning only the office or post to which one is appointed. It is not synonymous with the expression "service". A person may be appointed to a service by the Central Government but if he is employed under a State Government he may be appointed to a post by the State Government. ILR (1956) Punj 236: AIR 1956 Punj 58 (61) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

6. Misbehaviour — Meaning of.

——S. 2 — 'Misbehaviour' — Meaning of.

The word 'misbehaviour' by a Government servant in S. 2 of the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act, 1850, means a lapse by him from the proper standard of conduct in the discharge of his functions as a Government servant. That word is not vague. Even in the absence of any detailed instructions or directions as to how a Government servant should act and conduct himself there cannot be any manner of doubt that Government servant is expected and required to act honestly and not to use his position as a Government servant for enriching himself or others. Every dishonest act of a Government servant, including acts by which he uses his position for enriching himself or others would clearly amount to 'misbehaviour'.

The argument that at the date of the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act in 1850 no ascertainable standard of conduct for Government servants had been laid is not available to one against whose conduct an order is made in 1961 and who is governed by the All India Services Conduct Rules, 1954. R. P. Kapur v. S. Pratap Singh Kairon, 1963 Cur LJ (SC) 105: 1964 SCD 1: (1964) 1 SCA 313: 1964 (1) Cri LJ 224 (229) (Pt C) (Prs 14, 15) (SC).

——S. 2 — Applicability — Enquiry cannot be ordered in case of 'irregularities' — "Misconduct" of a servant comprises positive acts and not mere neglects or failures — See Travancore Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (11 of 1122), S. 2. AIR 1958 Ker 374 (DB).

——S. 2 — 'Misbehaviour' — Meaning — Constitution of India, Arts. 124, 148, 217, 317 and 324.

The word 'misbehaviour' when employed in respect of holders of high offices has a well understood and well-defined meaning according to the tradition and standards maintained by the members of a particular service or office. (1961) 63 Pun LR 780.

7. Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

——S. 2 — Enquiry officer following correct procedure — Jurisdiction of Civil Court — Civil Court cannot question findings on appraisal of evidence — All that the court has to see in such cases is whether the constitutional requirements have been satisfied. See Civil Services (Classification Control and Appeal) Rules, R. 55. AIR 1960 Pat 116 (DB).

S. Suspension.

——S. 2 — Suspension during pendency of enquiry into conduct — R. 12 (1) (a) of Kerala Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules empowers the Government to suspend a public servant pending enquiry into his conduct. See Kerala Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules (1957), R. 12 (1) (a). AIR 1958 Ker 374 (DB).

SECTION 3

●——Ss. 3, 8, 21 and 22 — 'Court', meaning of — Tests to determine — Commissioner appointed under Act 37 of 1850 is not a Court within the meaning of the term as used in the Contempt of Courts Act — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 3) — (Penal Code (1860), Ss. 19 and 20) — (Words and Phrases — 'Court') — AIR 1954 Pat 289, Reversed — AIR 1951 Punj 49, Overruled — See Contempt of Courts Act (1952), S. 3. 1956 Cri LJ 156: AIR 1956 SC 66.

——S. 3 — Scope — Purpose of inquiry under the Act — Procedure — The only purpose for which an inquiry under the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act could be made, is to help Government to come to a definite conclusion regarding the misbehaviour of a public servant and thus enable it to determine provisionally the punishment which should be imposed on him prior to giving him a reasonable opportunity of showing cause as is required by Art. 311 (2) of the Constitution — See Constitution of India, Art. 227. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 497 (DB).

——Ss. 3, 21 — Scope — Fundamental Rules and Assam Subsidiary Rules, R. 6.

The fundamental rules have been framed by the State of Assam in the exercise of the powers vesting in it under the Government of India Act. It has provided for the delegation of its powers for administrative efficiency and needs. The Public Servants (Enquiries) Act does not provide for any such delegation. But as the Government acting under the provisions of the Government of India Act could delegate its authority there is no essential conflict between R. 6 of the Fundamental Rules and the provisions of the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act, 1850.

It is true that the Act merely provides for an inquiry and report and not for final decision. But the Fundamental Rules which are complementary complete the picture in this respect by providing that the final decision may be given by any authority exercising delegated powers. The Government when framing the rules has given this power of delegation to itself and in doing so it has not exceeded its rule making power.

Held, that the authority of the Government having been validly delegated, the Deputy Commissioner was virtually exercising powers of the State Government when suspending and directing the compulsory retirement of the petitioner. ILR (1955) 7 Assam 410: AIR 1956 Assam 12 (14) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

SECTION 8

●——Ss. 8, 3, 21, 22 — 'Court', meaning of — Tests to determine—Commissioner appointed under Act 37 of 1850 is not a Court within the meaning of the term as used in Section 3 of Contempt of Courts Act — (Evidence Act (1872), Section 3) — (Penal Code (1860), Sections 19 and 20) — (Words and Phrases — 'Court') — AIR 1954 Pat 289, Reversed — AIR 1951 Punj 49, Overruled. See Contempt of Courts Act (1952), Section 3. 1956 Cri LJ 156: AIR 1956 SC 66.

——S. 8 — Commissioner under Act is 'Court' subordinate to High Court within the meaning of Section 3 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1952. See Contempt of Courts Act (1952), Section 3 1954 Cri LJ 942: AIR 1954 Pat 289 (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1956 SC 66.]

——S. 8 — Contempt of Courts Act (1926), Section 2 — Commissioner acting under Public Servants Inquiries Act is a Court — Evidence Act (1872), Section 3. See Contempt of Courts Act (1926), Section 2. 52 Cri LJ 950 : AIR 1951 Punj 49 (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1956 SC 66.]

——S. 8 — 'Protection', meaning of.

The word 'protection' as used in Section 8 of the Act cannot be construed in the wider sense of protection by the H. C. from contempts. In using that word the legislature had in mind the meaning of that word as used in the Judicial Officers Protection Act passed previously in the same year. 53 Pun LR 178: 52 Cri LJ 950: ILR (1951) Punj 362: AIR 1951 Punj 49 (50) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1956 SC 66.]

SECTION 11

——S. 11 — Public servant subject to All India Services (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1955 — Member of Indian Civil Service — Enquiry against him under the Act — No violation of Art. 14 of the Constitution. See Constitution of India, Article 14. (1961) 63 Pun LR 780.

——Ss. 11, 15, 16, and 19 — Inquiry under Act against public servant accused of offence — No violation of Article 20 (3). See Constitution of India, Article 20 (3). (1961) 63 Pun LR 780.

SECTION 13

——S. 13 — Scope — Compliance — Documents admitted without objection by accused — (Evidence Act (1872), Section 167).

If a formal proof was waived and some of the documents were taken in evidence when their proper custody was proved, there was no such violation of the rules of evidence as would justify the Court to hold that the enquiry was not in conformity with the provisions of the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act, 1850. AIR 1956 Pat 384 (396) (Pt H) (Pr 31) (DB).

SECTION 15

●——S. 15 — Section 15 does not contravene Article 20 (3). See Constitution of India, Art. 20 (3). 1963 Cur LJ (SC) 105: 1964 SCD 1: (1964) 1 SCA 313: (1964) 4 SCR 204: 1964 (1) Cri LJ 224 (SC).

——S. 15 — Public Servant subject to All India Services (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1955 — Member of Indian Civil Service — Enquiry against him under the Act — No violation of Article 14 of the Constitution. See Constitution of India, Article 14. (1961) 63 Pun LR 780.

——S. 15 — Inquiry under Act against public servant accused of offence — No violation of Article 20 (3) of the Constitution. See Constitution of India, Article 20 (3). (1961) 63 Pun LR 780.

SECTION 16

——S. 16 — Accused examining himself as witness — If illegal — (Oaths Act (1873), Sec. 5.)

Per Das, C. J.—None of the provisions of the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act, 1850, say anything as to whether the accused person can examine himself as a witness or not. There was no violation of the provisions of the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act, 1850 when the accused came and was examined as defence witness nor were the provisions of Section 5, of the Oaths Act violated in such a case. AIR 1956 Pat 384 (395) (Pt C) (Pr 30) (DB).

——S. 16 — Inquiry under the Act against public servant accused of offence — No violation of Article 20 (3) of the Constitution. See Constitution of India, Article 20 (3). (1961) 63 Pun LR 780.

——S. 16 — Scope of — No objection to examine every item of evidence.

There is nothing in the wording of Section 16, to warrant such an assumption, that the enquiry Commissioner is obliged to examine every item of evidence which the defence wishes to call. Every Court, tribunal or enquiry officer has the discretion of disallowing irrelevant or unnecessary evidence. ILR (1956) Punj 236: AIR 1956 Punj 58 (70) (Pt K) (Pr 40) (DB).

SECTION 17

——Ss. 17 (1) (b), 49 — Document merely evidencing severance of status and fixing shares of coparceners in joint property — No partition of property by metes and bounds effected thereunder — Document is no compulsorily registrable and would not come within the mischief of Section 49. AIR 1958 SC 706, Followed. (1964) 30 Cut LT 168 (Orissa).

SECTION 19

——S. 19 — Public servant subject to All India Services (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1955 — Member of Indian Civil Service — Enquiry against him under the Act — No violation of Art. 14 of the Constitution. See Constitution of India, Article 14. (1961) 63 Pun LR 780.

SECTION 21

●——Ss. 21, 3, 8, 22 — 'Court', meaning of — Tests to determine — Commissioner appointed under Act 37 of 1850 is not a Court within the meaning of the term in Section 3 of Contempt of Courts Act, 1952 — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 3) — (Penal Code (1860), Sections 19 and 20) — (Words and Phrases — 'Court') — AIR 1954 Pat 289, Reversed — AIR 1951 Punj 49, Overruled. See Contempt of Courts Act (1952), Section 3. 1956 Cri LJ 156: AIR 1956 SC 66.

——Ss. 21 and 3 — Scope — Fundamental Rules and Assam Subsidiary Rules, R. 6.

The Fundamental Rules (Assam) have been framed by the State of Assam in the exercise of powers vesting in it under the Government of India Act. It has provided for the delegation of its powers for administrative efficiency and needs. The Public Servants (Inquiries) Act does not provide for any such delegation. But as the Government acting under the provisions of the Government of India Act could delegate its authority there is no essential conflict between Rule 6 of the Fundamental Rules and the provisions of the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act, 1850). See Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (37 of 1850), Section 3. AIR 1956 Assam 12 (DB).

——S. 21 — Bias — Personal interest of Judge — Proof of bias — Bias alleged against Commissioner appointed under Public Servants (Inquiries) Act — No one is allowed to be a judge in his own cause. The rule applies and has been asserted not only in the case of Courts of justice in the proper sense but also in the case of administrative tribunals who are required to act judicially.

But there is a sharp distinction between a case of pecuniary interest and a case of non-pecuniary interest.

A mere possibility of bias is not enough to disqualify a judge however. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1955 Pat 131 (DB).

SECTION 22

●——Ss. 22, 3, 8 and 21 — 'Court meaning of — Tests to determine — Commissioner appointed under Act 37 of 1850 is not a Court within the meaning of Section 3 of Contempt of Courts Act, 1952 — (Evidence Act (1872), Section 3) — (Penal Code (1860), Sections 19 and 20) — (Words and Phrases — 'Court') — AIR 1954 Pat 289, Reversed — AIR 1951 Punj 49, Overruled. See Contempt of Courts Act (1952), Section 3. 1956 Cri LJ 156: AIR 1956 SC 66.

——S. 22 — Commission — Nature of.

It is apparent from Section 22 of Act (37 of 1850), that the Commission is in the nature of an advisory body and not a Court or Tribunal in the strict sense of the term and his report is not binding on the parties or even on the Government. It is open to the Government to direct the Commission to take further evidence or to ask for further explanation. ILR (1958) 8 Assam 91: AIR 1957 Assam 77 (82) (Pt H) (Pr 15) (DB).

SECTION 23

●——Ss. 23, 2 and Preamble — 'Removable from his appointment' — Interpretation — I. C. S. Officer serving with State Government — State Government is competent to initiate inquiry against such officer under Section 2 read with Sec. 23 — There has always been a key furnished by Section 23, to the solution of the question which government should take action and it has not been necessary to go to other statutes. — (Words and Phrases — Remove). See Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (37 of 1850), Section 2. AIR 1964 SC 295.

●——Ss. 23 and 2 — I. C. S. Officer employed under State — State Government can direct enquiry against him under Section 2.

Where an I. C. S. officer is employed under the State Government there is nothing in the Constitution which abrogates the authority of the State Government to direct an inquiry against him under S. 2. The special method of recruitment of the Officer to the service does not warrant the view that the officer is not employed under the State Government, in connection with the affairs of which he was serving. See Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (37 of 1850), Section 2. AIR 1960 SC 493.

——S. 23 — Member of I. C. S. employed under Punjab Government — Punjab State Government is competent to direct inquiry under the Act against him — Appointment of a Judge of Punjab High Court as Commission of Inquiry by Governor with approval of Government of India is valid. See Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (1850), Section 2. (1961) 63 Pun LR 780.

——S. 23 — Dismissal of public servant — Petition under Article 226 — Scope of enquiry — (Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, Rule 55). See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1956 Punj 58 (DB).

——Ss. 23 and 2 — Civil servant employed under State Government — Power of State Government to order public enquiry — Irregularity in ordering inquiry — Effect — Such an irregularity entitles the public servant to claim that the entire proceedings should be quashed and that the order which is based on those proceedings should be quashed — (Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, Rules 52, 55). See Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (37 of 1850), Section 2. AIR 1956 Punj 58 (DB).

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

See (1) Bengal Public Service Commission Regulation (1937).
(2) Constitution of India, Articles 316, 323 and 378.
(3) Pepsu Public Service Commission (Limitation of Functions) Regulation (1951).
(4) Pepsu Public Services Commission Ordinance (6 of 2006 Smvt.), and
(5) Statutory cross-references under "Constitutional Law — Services."

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION CONSULTATION REGULATION (1952)

——Case arising after promulgation of the Regulation — Consultation — Necessity.

There is no force in the contention that because these Regulations had not come into force at the time of commencement of the inquiry against the petitioner, consultation with the Commission was necessary, for it is only when the Government is satisfied that disciplinary action is necessary that such consultation has to be made. In this case the stage was reached long after the Regulation were promulgated. These Regulations must therefore govern the case. See Constitution of India, Art. 320 (3). AIR 1956 Trav-Co 158 (159) (Pt B).

REGULATION 7

——Regn. 7 and Annexure III, Cl. 6 — Validity Powers of Rajpramukh to make regulations — 'Other services and posts' — Construction of — (Words and Phrases — 'Other services and posts') See Constitution of India, Article 320 (3) (e), Proviso. AIR 1956 Trav-Co 158.

ANNEXURE III, CLAUSE 6

——Annexure III, Cl. 6 and Regn. 7 — Validity — Powers of Rajpramukh to make regulations — 'Other services and posts' — Construction of — The expression 'other services and posts' cannot mean services and posts other than civil services. See Constitution of India, Article 320 (3) (e), Proviso. AIR 1956 Trav-Co 158.

PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLES

Defined
See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 2 (25).

PUBLIC TEMPLE

See (1) Bombay Harijan Temple Entry Act (1947)
(2) C. P. and Berar Temple Entry (Authorisation) Act (41 of 1947).
(3) Civil P. C. (1908), S. 92.
(4) Hindu Law — Religious Endowment.
(5) Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (1951).
(6) Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act (2 of 1927).
(7) Madras Temple Entry Authorisation Act (5 of 1947).
(8) (Orissa) Puri Jagannath Temple Administration Act (14 of 1952).
(9) (Orissa) Shri Jagannath Temple Act (11 of 1955).
(10) Religious and Charitable Endowments.
(11) Religious Endowments Act (1863).
(12) Untouchability (Offences) Act (1955), S. 3.

PUBLIC THOROUGHFARE

See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 91.

PUBLIC TRUST

See (1) Civil P. C. (1908), S. 92.
(2) Hindu Law — Religious Endowments.
(3) Income-tax Act (1922), S. 4.
(4) Madhya Pradesh Public Trusts Act (30 of 1951).
(5) Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (1951).
(6) Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act (1927).
(7) Mahomedan Law — Wakf.
(8) Religious and Charitable Endowments.
(9) Religious Endowments Act (1863).
(10) Trusts Act (1882).

PUBLIC UTILITY SERVICE

Defined.
See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 2 (n).

PUBLIC WAKFS (EXTENSION OF LIMITATION) ACT (29 of 1959)

SECTION 3

——S. 3 — Hyderabad Limitation Act (2 of 1322 F), Section 29 (c) — Part B. State Laws Act (1951), Section 30 — Pre-existing rights relating to wakfs — Scope — Applicability and effect of Public Wakfs (Extension of Limitation) Act — Recovery of wakf property — Limitation applicable. See Hyderabad Limitation Act (2 of 1322 F), Section 29 (c). (1963) 1 Andh LT 465.

PUBLIC WAY

See (1) Civil P. C. (1908), S. 91.
(2) Tort.

Danger or obstruction to
See (1) Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 133.
(2) Penal Code (1860), S. 283.

Procession, right to take out.
See Statutory cross-references under "Procession".

Rash driving on
See (1) Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 116 and 117.
(2) Penal Code (1860), Ss. 279, 304-A.

PUBLIC WORSHIP

See (1) Civil P. C. (1908), Ss. 9, 92 and
(2) Statutory cross-references under "Public temple".

PUCCA ADITHIYA OR ARHATIA

See Contract Act (1872), Ss. 30, 182, 211, 219.

PUDUKOTTAI VILLAGE PANCHAYAT REGULATION (3 of 1925)

See under Panchayats.

PUERPERAL INSANITY

See Penal Code (1860), S. 84.

PUNISHMENT

See (1) Constitution of India, Arts. 30, 310-311.
(2) Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 31-35, 562.
(3) Penal Code (1860), Ss. 53, 55, 57, 59, 60, 64, 65, 67, 70, 71, 74 and 75 and
(4) Statutory cross-references under "Criminal Trial — Sentence".

PUNITIVE POLICE

See Police Act (1861), S. 15.

PUNJAB AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE MARKETS ACT (5 of 1939)

SECTION 2

——Ss. 2 and 4 — 'Market' — Meaning of — Notified market area — Distinction.

The expression "market" as defined in Sec. 2 means a building, block of buildings, enclosure or other area which may be so notified in accordance with the rules made under this Act. A market is clearly distinguishable from a "Notified market area," that is an area notified under the provisions of Section 4. (1957) 59 Pun LR 628: ILR (1958) Punj 286.

SECTION 4

——S. 4 — 'Market' — Meaning of — Notified market area — Distinction.

Market is clearly distinguishable from a "notified market area" that is an area notified under the provisions of S. 4. (1957) 59 Pun LR 628.

SECTION 9

——S. 9 — Object of Act — Power of market committee to restrict place of sale.

The Act was enacted to provide for the better regulation of the purchase and sale of agricultural produce in the Punjab and for that purpose to establish markets and to make rules and bye-laws for their proper administration. It would be defeating the object of the Act if Courts were to hold that market committees have no power to restrict the place in which transactions of sales and purchases should be entered into. (1957) 59 Pun LR 628: ILR (1958) Punj 286.

SECTION 19

——Ss. 19, 23, 27 and 31 — Suit for injunction against Market Committee restraining it from recovering market fees on ground that levy was illegal and ultra vires — Jurisdiction of Civil Court not barred — Rule 51 is ultra vires of Section 31. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9. AIR 1962 Punj 426 (DB).

SECTION 23

——Ss. 23, 19, 27, 31 — Civil P. C. S. 9 — 'Expressly or impliedly barred' — Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Rules (1940), Rr. 19A (4) and 51 — Suit for injunction against Market Committee restraining it from recovering market fees on ground that levy was illegal and ultra vires — Jurisdiction of Civil Court not barred — Rule 51 is ultra vires of Section 31. See Civil P. C. (1908), Section 9. AIR 1962 Punj 426.

SECTION 27

——Ss. 27, 19, 23 and 31 — Civil P. C., S. 9 — 'Expressly or impliedly barred' — Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Rules (1940), Rr. 19A (4) and 51 — Suit for injunction against Market Committee restraining it from recovering market fees on ground that levy was illegal and ultra vires — Jurisdiction of civil Court not barred — Rule 51 is ultra vires of Section 31. See Civil P. C. (1908), Section 9. AIR 1962 Punj 426.

——Ss. 27, 28 — Construction as to scope — Bye-law 9-A, framed by Tarn Taran Market Committee — Validity — (Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Rules (1940), R. 31) — (Interpretation of Statutes).

The principle of interpretation that the express mention of one thing implies the exclusion of another is not a rule of law but a rule of construction. If the rejection of the maxim will serve the purpose for which the statute was enacted or will accomplish beneficial results, the maxim must be rejected. Thus the State Government may have empowered, under Rule 31 of the Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Rules, 1940, market committees to prescribe the places at which tobacco may be sold and declared that other agricultural produce may be weighed and measured anywhere in the notified market area, but they have imposed no restriction on the power of market committee to make bye-laws under S. 27, or to make any bye-laws concerning the regulation of business or the conditions of trading under Section 28. The expressions 'regulation of business' and 'conditions of trading' are wide enough to embrace a bye-law of the nature of the bye-law No. 9-A, which the market committee of Tarn Taran had framed, restricting the sales of cotton to markets alone and not allowing sales in the premises of the ginning factories as, in its view it was necessary for the protection of the interests of the traders that the sales of cotton should be made only within the limits of the market. The bye-law therefore could not be said to be inconsistent with the Act or with the rules framed thereunder. (1957) 59 Pun LR 628: ILR (1958) Punj 286.

SECTION 28

——S. 28 — The State Govt. have not imposed restrictions on the powers of the market committee to make bye-laws under S. 27 or to make a bye-law concerning the regulation of business or the conditions of trading under Section 28. See Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Act (5 of 1939), Section 27. (1957) 59 Punj LR 628: ILR (1958) Punj 286.

SECTION 31

——Ss. 31, 19, 23 and 27 — Civil P. C., S. 9 — — 'Expressly or impliedly barred' — Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Rules (1940), Rr. 19A (4) and 51 — Suit for injunction against Market Committee restraining it from recovering market fees on ground that levy was illegal and ultra vires — Jurisdiction of civil Court not barred — Rule 51 is ultra vires of Section 31. See Civil P. C. (1908), Section 9. AIR 1962 Punj 426.

PUNJAB AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE MARKETS ACT (23 of 1961)

PREAMBLE

——Preamble, S. 43 — Exclusion of use of hand-scales as provided by Section 43 (2) (x) is not inconsistent with object of Act as disclosed in preamble. 66 Punj LR 836: ILR (1964) 2 Punj 523: AIR 1965 Punj 33 (36) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3 (5), 15 and 47 — Removal of member for misconduct under Section 11 of the repealed

Punjab Act 5 of 1939 — Removal is deemed to be one under Section 15 of the present Act so as to amount to a disqualification under S. 3 (5) See Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Act (23 of 1961), Section 15. (1965) 67 Pun LR 914: AIR 1966 Punj 139 (DB).

SECTION 10

——S. 10 (2) — Notice under Section 10 (2) — Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Act 1961 by Chairman — Market Committee suspending licence of petitioner for period of fifteen days — Writ petition against order — Expiry of period of suspension — Writ petition becomes infructuous. See Constitution of India, Article 226. (1965) 67 Pun LR 66.

——S. 10 (2) — Mere show cause notice why license of petitioner should not be suspended — No final orders passed — Writ petition is premature. See Constitution of India, Article 226. (1965) 67 Pun LR 66.

——S. 10 — Petition for setting aside election to Market Committee under Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Act (23 of 1961) — Grounds vague — Election will not be set aside. See Constitution of India, Article 226. (1964) 66 Pun LR 1000.

——S. 10 — Quo warranto — Delay — Rejection of nomination paper of one of candidates to election — Other candidates acquiescing in order and taking part in election — Declaration of result of election — Defeated candidate applying for writ of quo warranto — Discretion to issue writ refused. See Constitution of India, Article 226. (1964) 66 Pun LR 1000.

SECTION 13

——Ss. 13, 37, 40 — Writ in election dispute — Exercise of jurisdiction by High Court — Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets (General) Rules (1962), Rule 21 — Rule is directory and not mandatory — Renewal of licence after prescribed period does not invalidate licence — Writ petition against acceptance of nomination paper of a candidate on ground that he was not a valid licence holder — Interference by High Court. See Constitution of India, Article 226. 67 Pun LR 665: 1965 Cur LJ 488: ILR (1965) 2 Punj 65.

SECTION 15

——S. 15 — Constitution of India, Article 14 — Election of Members — Disqualification on ground of misconduct — Provision disqualifying member permanently though severe is not unconstitutional — Interpretation of Statutes — Section being plain, cannot be construed to limit disqualification to particular period. See Constitution of India, Article 14. (1965) 67 Pun LR 914: AIR 1966 Punj 139 (DB).

——S. 15 — Constitution of India, Art. 14 — Discrimination — Discrimination alleged on ground that only members of Market Committees under the Act incur permanent disqalification for misconduct unlike members of other local bodies like Municipal Committees — Held that offices of members under two Acts cannot be equated and no discrimination can be alleged. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. (1965) 67 Pun LR 914: AIR 1966 Punj 139 (DB).

——Ss. 15 and 47 and 3 (5) — Removal of member for misconduct under Section 11 of the repealed Punjab Act V of 1939 — Removal is deemed to be one under Section 15 so as to amount to a disqualification under Section 3 (5). Decision in Civil Writ No. 1563 of 1963, dated 5th January, 1965 (Punj), Affirmed. 67 Pun LR 914: AIR 1966 Punj 139 (140) (Pt C) (Pr 2) (DB).

SECTION 43

——S. 43 and Preamble —Exclusion of use of handscales not inconsistent with object of Act as disclosed in Preamble. See Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Act (1961), Preamble. AIR 1965 Punj 33 (DB).

SECTION 44

——S. 44 — Bye-laws under — Validity — Bye-laws to be valid must be made strictly in accordance with Section 44.

In the sphere of delegation of legislative power, the manner prescribed for exercising the delegated power can be presumed to be directory, and indeed, such delegated power must be exercised strictly as directed or not at all. There is close connection between delegated legislation and Rule of law. Bye-laws having been made under the delegated power of legislation under Section 44, in order to be valid and to have the force of law, must be made strictly in accordance with the said section and in pursuance of the authority delegated thereby. Where the Chairman of the Board merely complied with the provisions of S. 44 (3) (a) and sub-sections (b), (c), (d) and (e) were clearly ignored by him, the bye-laws must be held not to have been made in accordance with law delegating the power so as to be of binding effect. 66 Pun LR 836: ILR (1964) 2 Punj 523: AIR 1965 Punj 33 (38, 39) (Pt C) (Prs 12, 13, 14, 15) (DB).

SECTION 47

——S. 47 — Removal of member for misconduct under Section 11 of repealed Punjab Act 5 of 1939 — Removal is deemed to be one under Section 15 of the new Act by virtue of Section 47 of the new Act. See Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Act (23 of 1961), Section 15. (1965) 67 Pun LR 914: AIR 1966 Punj 139 (DB).

PUNJAB AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE MARKETS (ELECTION TO MARKET COMMITTEES) RULES (1961)

RULE 8

——R. 8 — Requirement of attaching deposit receipt to nomination papers — Requirement is only directory — Actual deposit of security is substantial compliance with rule — AIR 1956 SC 140, Rel. on. 1965 Cur LJ 398: ILR (1965) 2 Punj 270: AIR 1965 Punj 505 (506) (Pr 3).

RULE 9

——R. 9 — Quo warranto — Delay — Rejection of nomination paper of one of candidates to election — Other candidate acquiescing in order and taking part in election — Declaration of result of election — Defeated candidate applying for writ of quo warranto — Discretion to issue writ refused. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. (1964) 66 Pun LR 1000.

PUNJAB AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE MARKETS (CENTRAL) RULES (1962)

RULE 21

——R. 21 — Rule is directory and not mandatory — Renewal of licence after prescribed period does not invalidate licence. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. 1965 Cur LJ 488: (1965) 67 Punj LR 665.

RULE 24

——R. 24 (12) and (14) — Bye-laws of Market Committee (Kurali), Bye-law 13 (1) — Rule and the bye-law forcing dealer who was a kutcha Arhatiya to charge commission from the buyer rather than the seller — Rule cannot be considered as restriction on arhatia's right to carry on his trade — Even if it be held that sub-rules (12) and (14) impose any restrictions on fundamental right to carry on his trade, these restrictions are reasonable and are therefore protected under Cl. (6) of Art. 19 of the Constitution — Restrictions imposed by the sub-rules moreover advance the objects of the legislation under which they are framed and as such must be regarded as reasonable in the circumstances — (Constitution of India, Art. 19 (6)). AIR 1959 SC 300 and AIR 1962 SC 97, Foll. 65 Punj LR 887: ILR (1963) 2 Punj 765 (DB).

RULE 25

——Rr. 25 and 26 — Validity — Does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (f) of Constitution. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1965 Punj 33 (DB).

RULE 26

——R. 26 — Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g), (6) — Validity — Does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (g) — See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1)(g). AIR 1965 Punj 33 (DB).

PUNJAB AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE MARKETS RULES (1940)

RULE 19-A

——Rr. 19-A (4) and 51 — Suit for injunction against Market Committee restraining it from recovering market-fees on ground that levy was illegal and ultra vires — Jurisdiction of civil Court not barred — Rule 51 is ultra vires of S. 31. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9. AIR 1962 Punj 426 (DB).

RULE 31

——R. 31 — Has not imposed restrictions on the power of Market Committee to make bye-laws under S. 27 and S. 28 — Constitution and scope of — Bye-law 9-A framed by Tarn Taran Market Committee restricting the sales of cotton to market alone — Validity — Not ultra vires. See Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Act (5 of 1939), S. 27. (1957) 59 Punj LR 638.

RULE 51

——Rr. 51 and 19-A (4) — Civil P. C., S. 9 — 'Expressly or impliedly barred' — Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Act (5 of 1939), Ss. 19, 23, 27 and 31 — Suit for injunction against Market Committee, restraining it from recovering market fees on ground that levy was illegal and ultra vires — Jurisdiction of civil Court not barred — Rule 51 is ultra vires of S. 31 — See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9. AIR 1962 Punj 426.

PUNJAB AGRICULTURAL UNIVERSITY ACT, (32 of 1961)

SECTION 6

——Ss. 6 (13), 30 (1), 29, Cl. (1)—Statutes framed in exercise of powers conferred by S. 30 (1) read with S. 29, Cl. (1) — R. 2 — 'Requirements of discipline' means 'maintenance of discipline' — Not necessary to prescribe certain acts amounting to indiscipline. (1965) 67 Pun LR 830.

PUNJAB ALIENATION OF LAND ACT (CENTRAL ACT 13 of 1900)

SECTION 2

●——Ss. 2 (5), 14 and 6 (1) (a) — Sale by agriculturist to non-agriculturist when Act was in force — Sanction under S. 14 not obtained — Sale not liable to be treated as mortgage after repeal of the Act — Risaldar Major Amar Singh v. R. L. Aggarwal, 62 Punj LR 115: ILR (1960) 1 Punj 791: AIR 1960 Punj 312 (315) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (FB).

——S. 2 (3) — Agricultural land diverted to non-agricultural purposes prior to sale for a period exceeding one and a half year — Cannot be treated as land defined in sub-sec. (3) of S. 2, Punjab Land Alienation Act — Right of pre-emption — Material date to determine nature of land. See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 3. (1959) 61 Punj LR 716.

SECTION 3-A

——S. 3-A — Jurisdiction of Deputy Commissioner — Deputy Commissioner held had no jurisdiction to decide the case. AIR 1953 NUC (Punj) 1379.

——S. 3-A — Jurisdiction of Deputy Commissioner and Civil Court — (Constitution of India, Art. 226).

Under S. 3-A three things seem to be necessary to give to the Deputy Commissioner the jurisdiction. There should be a (1) a debtor, (2) a creditor and (3) that the effect of the transaction should be to pass the beneficial interest to such creditor. Before the Deputy Commissioner can give a decision it has to be determined whether the above three conditions have been fulfilled and if they are not fulfilled the jurisdiction of the Deputy Commissioner does not arise and, in any case, it is for the courts of general jurisdiction to decide as to whether the conditions for giving jurisdiction to the Deputy Commissioner have arisen or not.

In any case, the High Court has jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution to quash orders passed by judicial or quasi-judicial bodies which are contrary to law and even if the Deputy Commissioner were to decide the matter would be subject to the jurisdiction of the High Court and no amount of taking away the jurisdiction of Civil Courts can deprive the High Court of its jurisdiction under the Constitution which was framed by the Constituent Assembly representing the people of this country.

The Punjab Alienation of Land Act has now been repealed by Presidential order. There is no Deputy Commissioner within the Act at the present moment and therefore there is no officer who can decide within the provisions of the Act and it cannot therefore be argued that if it is held that an order is not a decision of the Deputy Commissioner the High Court should not decide the matter and should leave it to the Deputy Commissioner to adjudicate upon the point. ILR (1953) Punj 446: AIR 1954 Punj 139 (140) (Prs 6 to 10) (DB).

●——Ss. 3-A and 21 — Order under S. 3-A — Civil Court, if can challenge.

A Civil Court is competent to challenge an order passed by a Deputy Commissioner under S. 3-A on the ground that the alinee was not a creditor. AIR 1951 Simla 213 (214) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

SECTION 4

——S. 4 — Jurisdiction of civil Court — Question whether vendees belong to agricultural tribe arising in case under S. 14, Punjab Pre-emption Act — Jurisdiction not barred by provisions in Punjab Alienation of Land Act — Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 14 — See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9. AIR 1950 East Punj 246

SECTION 5

——S. 5 — Notification under S. 5 — Notification has no retrospective operation — Mortgage by person before notification notifying him as agriculturist — Mortgaged property can be sold in execution of mortgage decree obtained subsequent to notification — See Punjab Alienation of Land Act (13 of 1900), S. 16. AIR 1950 East Punj 282 (DB).

SECTION 6

●——Ss. 6 (1) (a) and 14, 2 (5) — Sale by agriculturist to non-agriculturist effected when Act was in force — Sanction under Section 14 not obtained — Sale not liable to be treated as mortgage after repeal — See Punjab Alienation of Land Act (13 of 1900), S. 2 (5). AIR 1960 Punj 312 (FB).

SECTION 14

●——Ss. 14, 2 (5) and 6 (1) (a) — Sale by agriculturist to non-agriculturist effected when Act was in force — Sanction under Section 14 not obtained — Sale not liable to be treated as mortgage after repeal — See Punjab Alienation of Land Act (13 of 1900), Section 2 (5). AIR 1960 Punj 312 (FB).

SECTION 16

——S. 16 (as amended by Punjab Act 1 of 1931) — Applicability — Material date.

The date which is material and relevant for the purpose of deciding whether the amending Act 1 of 1931 could apply or not is the date of the order of the executing Court and not of any subsequent mutation made by the revenue authorities pursuant to that order. AIR 1933 Lah 924, Followed. (1959) 61 Punj LR 443.

——S. 16 — Scope — Alienation in contravention of the Act is not void but can be avoided by authorities mentioned in the Act. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4974.

●——S. 16 — Repeal of by the Adaptations of Laws (Third Amendment) Order, 1951 — Effect— Only Ss. 3 (4), 14, 13, 24, 29 and the concluding Clause of S. 9 are rendered void — These provisions are severable—Hence the constitutionality of the Act is not affected — See Punjab Pre-emption Act (I of 1913), Preamble. AIR 1954 Punj 55 (FB).

[Overruled in AIR 1962 SC 1476].

——S. 16 — Notification under S. 5 — Notification has no retrospective operation — Mortgage by person before notification notifying him as agriculturist — Mortgaged property can be sold in execution of mortgage decree obtained subsequent to notification — Punjab Alienation of Land Act (13 of 1900), S. 5.

It is a well-known rule of construction of statutes that statutes are not be held to act retrospectively unless a clear intention to that effect is manifested. 1905 AC 369, Foll.; Case law Referred.

The notification issued under S. 5 of the Act has no retrospective operation and cannot be given a retrospective effect. Therefore, the notification notifying a person or a tribe as members of a notified agricultural tribe will not confer rights which would prevent mortgages entered into by such persons to be enforced in Courts of law and mortgaged properties sold in execution of decrees so obtained, if the mortgages are of a date prior to the notification: First Appeal No. 195 of 1942 (Lah), Rel. on. AIR 1950 East Punj 282: (283, 284) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 7) (DB).

SECTION 21

——Ss. 21 and 3-A — Order passed by a Deputy Commissioner under S. 3-A — Civil Court, can challenge on the ground that the alienee was not a creditor — See Punjab Alienation of Land Act (13 of 1900), S. 3-A. AIR 1951 Punj 213.

PUNJAB CAPITAL (DEVELOPMENT AND REGULATION) BUILDING RULES (1952)

RULE 2

——Rr. 2 (10), 2 (16), 2 (38) — Petrol pump installed in public or open space — Neither a public building nor an amenity as a public utility service. See Capital of Punjab (Development and Regulation) Act (27 of 1952), S. 2 (b). AIR 1964 Punj 533 (DB).

RULE 7

——Rr. 7 and 117 — Administrative agencies created by statutes — Powers of — Have no arbitrary and uncontrolled powers — Powers of Chief Administrator under Building Rules — Not absolute or uncontrolled or immune from judicial scrutiny. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1964 Punj 533 (DB).

RULE 117

——Rr. 117 and 7 — Constitution of India, Art. 226 — Administrative agencies created by statutes — Powers of — Have no arbitrary and uncontrolled powers — Powers of Chief Administrator under Building Rules — Not absolute or uncontrolled or immune from judicial scrutiny — See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1964 Punj 533 (DB).

PUNJAB CINEMAS (REGULATION) ACT (11 of 1952)

SECTION 5

——S. 5 — Application for licence under — Licensing authority has power to grant or refuse — Power cannot be withdrawn and assumed by Government — Approval granted by licensing authority — Government rejecting application — Order held void — Words and Phrases — 'Control'. 63 Pun LR 580: ILR (1961) 2 Punj 831.

PUNJAB CIVIL SERVICE (EXECUTIVE BRANCH) RULES (1930)

PREAMBLE

——Pre. — Applicability of Rules—Essential conditions — Officer on probation — Reversion to substantive rank — It is merely a transfer and not a demotion — Failure to consult Public Service Commission — Consultation not necessary — The exercise of the discretion of the transferring authority cannot be controlled by Courts of law. See Constitution of India, Art. 311. AIR 1957 Punj 191 (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1958 SC 36; Reversed in AIR 1962 SC 1711].

RULE 5

——Rr. 5, 17 and 22 — Scope — Probation compulsory — Governor has no power to dispense with probation — Failure to designate appointment as on probation — Probationary condition must be implied as a matter of law — Completion of probationary period itself cannot confer permanent status in the absence of positive or affirmative act on the part of the competent authority. See Constitution of India, Art. 309. AIR 1957 Punj 191 (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1958 SC 36; Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 SC 1711].

RULE 17

——Rule 17 — Scope — Probation — Compulsory — Governor has no power to dispense with probation — Failure to designate appointment as on probation — Probationary condition must be implied as a matter of law — Completion of probationary period by itself cannot confer permanent status in the absence of positive or affirmative act on the part of the competent authority — Effect — See Constitution of India, Art. 309. AIR 1957 Punj 191.

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1958 SC 36; Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 SC 1711].

RULE 22

——Rule 22 — Scope — Probation — Compulsory — Governor has no power to dispense with probation — Failure to designate appointment as on probation — Probationary condition must be implied as a matter of law — Completion of probationary period by itself cannot confer permanent status in the absence of positive or affirmative act on the part of the competent authority — Effect — See Constitution of India, Art. 309. AIR 1957 Punj 191.

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1958 SC 36; Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 SC 1711].

RULE 23

●——Rr. 23 ad 24 — Probationer — Does not automatically acquire status of permanent member after expiry of probationary period — He merely qualifies for substantive permanent appointment. See Constitution of India, Art. 309. AIR 1962 SC 1711.

——R. 23 read with Rules 21, 22 and 24 — Termination of services of a probationer within the meaning of R. 9 of Punjab Civil Services (Punishment and Appeal) Rules and not merely of person on probation — Probationer must be given an opportunity to show cause against the termination of his services — R. 23 does not apply to the case of a probationer and he cannot be removed under that Rule read with Rr. 21. 22 and 24 — See Constitution of India, Art. 310. 1965 Pun LR (Sup) 586.

PUNJAB CIVIL MEDICAL SERVICES CLASS 1 (RECRUITMENT AND CONDITIONS OF SERVICE) RULES (1950)

RULE 13

●——Rr. 13 and 17—Applicability—Government servant joining Class I, Medical Service in 1947. Rule 13 not applicable — Rule 17 applied:- By virtue of R. 17 the latest general rule R. 3.26 (d) applied to the Government servant in matters of retirement. See Punjab Civil Services Rules (1959), R. 3.26 (d). AIR 1964 SC 72.

RULE 17

●——R. 17 — Applicability — Government servant joining Class I Medical Service in 1947 — From rule 17 it was clear that in the matter of retirement the Government servant would be governed by such general rules as might have been made by the Government at the time the Medical rules were made or as would be made by the Government subsequently — Latest general rule governing retirement of Government servant is R. 3.26 (d) — That rule would therefore apply to this case. See Punjab Civil Services Rules (1959), R. 3.26 (d). AIR 1964 SC 72.

——R. 17 — Effect — Under this rule a member entered service accepting that rules in his case could be altered and when altered he would be governed by the altered or new rules — AIR 1958 Cal 407; (1898) 1 QB 71 and (1927) 43 TLR 375 and (1927) 43 TLR 712 and (1960) 1 All ER 631, Rel. on. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 642: AIR 1963 Punj 298 (307) (Pt E) (Pr 15) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 72].

PUNJAB CIVIL SERVICES (PUNISHMENT AND APPEAL) RULES (1952)

●——Government servant on leave preparatory to retirement — Leave revoked by Government, Government servant suspended and departmental enquiry ordered against him — Held, no breach of service rules — Petition under Art. 226 by such Government servant alleging mala fides on part of Minister in charge — No counter affidavit by Minister concerned but affidavit filed by Secretary in the Department having no personal knowledge regarding allegations against Minister — Mala fides held proved — Orders set aside. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1964 SC 72.

RULE 4

——R. 4 (v) — In the case of suspension, explanation of the Government servant is not required. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 642: AIR 1963 Punj 298 (310) (Pt P) (Pr 21) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 72].

——Rr. 4 (vi) and (vii) — Removal and dismissal — Distinction. See Municipalities — Punjab Municipal Act (3 of 1911), S. 39. (1961) 63 Punj LR 870.

RULE 7

●——R. 7 — 'Charge' — Meaning of — Does not necessarily mean formal charge framed and communicated to the Government servant. See Punjab Civil Services Rules (1959), R. 3.26 (d). AIR 1964 SC 72.

●——R. 7 — Order suspending Government servant on charge of misconduct is partly administrative — Government servant's explanation to charge before suspending him pending enquiry not necessary. See Punjab Civil Services Rules (1959), R. 3.26 (d). AIR 1964 SC 72.

——R. 7 (5) — Personal hearing not necessary — Permission to be represented by counsel is discretionary. See Constitution of India, Art. 311. ILR (1965) Punj 651: (1965) 67 Pun LR 404: AIR 1966 Punj 175.

——R. 7 (2) — Departmental enquiry under — Plaintiff afforded opportunity to challenge evidence adduced by Department — Plaintiff not availing of it cannot find fault with Enquiry Officer's report on ground that it was not based on evidence but on affidavits. See Constitution of India, Art. 311. (1963) 65 Pun LR 945.

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1965 SC 1153].

——R. 7 (2) — Omission to strictly follow rule — Art. 311 of Constitution not affected — Denial of reasonable opportunity — Constitution of India, Art. 311.

The mere omission to strictly follow R. 7 (2) cannot be deemed as enough to offend Art. 311 of the Constitution where it has not brought about a miscarriage of justice. AIR 1956 SC 58, Rel. on. Where the charge itself proves to be a detailed document which furnished all the particulars that the plaintiff could have required to submit her explanation and she had in fact furnished her reply thereto without feeling any impediment it cannot be said that the failure of a Government Department to furnish the plaintiff, who has been dismissed from Government service, with the statement of allegations contemplated by R. 7 (2) amounts to a denial of reasonable opportunity of showing cause against the action proposed to be taken against the plaintiff. (1963) 65 Pun LR 945.

RULE 9

——R. 9 and R. 2.49 — Probationer and person on probation distinguished — Protection of R. 9 not available to the latter. 67 Punj LR 111: (1965) 2 Lab LJ 392: AIR 1965 Punj 94 (97) (Pt B) (Pr 11).

——R. 9 — Termination of service of a probationer within the meaning of R. 9 of Punjab Civil Services (Punishment and Appeal) Rules and not merely of person on probation — Probationer must be given an opportunity to show cause against the termination of his services — Rule 23 does not apply to the case of a probationer and he cannot be removed under that Rule read with Rr. 21, 22 and 24. See Constitution of India, Art. 310. 1965 Pun LR (Supp) 586.

RULE 14

——R. 14 — Penalty inflicted upon public servant by subordinate authority — Government or Head of Department has power to enhance it, after giving public servant opportunity to be heard against it.

Where, in a departmental enquiry against a public servant penalty is imposed by competent authority, the Government or the Head of Department, under Rule 14 of the Punjab Civil Services (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, is competent to increase the penalty and pass an order of dismissal without holding a de novo enquiry and giving a fresh charge-sheet to the persons concerned. No penalty can, however be increased, unless opportunity is given to him to show cause against such increase. Where notice to show cause against increase of penalty was given and moreover the petitioner did not claim in de novo enquiry in the explanation that he submitted in reply to the notice, the order enhancing the penalty was not bad. (1965) 67 Pun LR 404: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 651: AIR 1966 Punj 175 (178) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——R. 14 — Validity.

Rule 14 is not in any way in conflict with Article 311 of the Constitution. (1965) 67 Pun LR 404: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 651: AIR 1966 Punj 175 (178) (Pt E) (Pr 8).

——R. 14 — Departmental enquiry and punishment against Government servant — Power of Government to hold fresh enquiry — Principle of double jeopardy not applicable — (Constitution of India, Art. 20 (2) — (Cr. P. Code (1898), S. 403).

Where a punishment has been given to a Government servant after holding a departmental inquiry, it is open to the Government under R. 14 Punjab Civil Services (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, to call for the records of the case and if in its opinion the punishment is inadequate it can order a fresh enquiry and impose adequate punishment. To such a case neither Article 20 (2) of the Constitution nor the doctrine of double jeopardy underlying it can have application. AIR 1953 SC 325 and AIR 1954 SC 375 Rel. on. Rule 14 as amended in 1954, has only cleared up what was meant by the old rule. ILR (1956) Punj 94: 57 Punj LR 502: AIR 1956 Punj 81 (82) (Pt A) (Pr 11).

——R. 14 — Departmental enquiry — Re-opening of — Principle of staleness does not apply.

Where the Government in exercise of its powers under Rule 14 re-opened a departmental enquiry against a Government servant nearly one year after the previous enquiry:

Held, that although the Government may have taken more time than it might have, the action of the Government is not barred on the principle of staleness which does not apply to public or departmental enquiry. ILR (1956) Punj 94: 57 Punj LR 502: AIR 1956 Punj 81 (82, 83) (Pt B) (Prs 12, 15).

PUNJAB CIVIL SERVICES RULES (1941)

——Adaptation of Laws Order (1950), Para 27 — 'Existing law' — Civil Services Rules (Punjab) (1941) are not covered by the expression — See Adaptation of Laws Order (1950), Para 27. AIR 1963 Punj 298 (DB).

——Constitution of India Arts. 309, 313, 372 (1) — Not legislature alone, but until Legislature acts in this behalf the Governor also has the power of making 'other provision' within the scope of Article 313 and of alteration or repeal or amendment under Article 372 (1) and thus can change the rules — Rules of 1941 could only continue till Punjab Civil Services Rules (1959) were made. See Constitution of India, Art. 309. AIR 1963 Punj 298 (DB).

——Rules are justiciable only so long as they remain in force. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 642: AIR 1963 Punj 298 (307) (Pt H) (Pr 16) (DB).

——Punjab Municipal Act, S. 40, does not apply where a Municipal empolyee is only reduced in rank not for misconduct or incompetence. Punjab Civil Service Rules as applicable to reduction to a lower post were also not made applicable to Municipal employees. See Municipalities — Punjab Municipal Act (3 of 1911), Section 240. AIR 1956 Punj 220.

RULE 1.4

——R. 1.4 and R. 2.14 — Dismissal of Tahsildar from service — Order passed by Financial Commissioner in 1953 — Order held valid. See Punjab Land Revenue Act (17 of 1887), S. 9. AIR 1962 SC 219.

RULE 1.6

——Rr. 1.6 (d), 3.26 — Vested right to retire at the age of 55 years — Rules of 1941 were subject to alteration — Government servant taking service subject to express condition that rules relating to his conditions of service were liable to change and alteration — Rules of 1941 abrogated by Rules of 1959 — No vested right in the age of superannuation was created in the Government servant by the Rules of 1941 — Section 6 of General Clauses Act (1897) does not extend to such rules. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 642: AIR 1963 Punj 298 (307) (Pt G) (Pr 16) (DB).

RULE 1.8

——R. 1.8 Vol. 1, Part 1, Note 2 — Persons on the staff of High Court — Power to interpret change or relax the rule vests in the Chief Justice and not in the Finance Department of Punjab Government — High Court Establishment (Appointment and Condition of Service) Rules (Punjab) 1952, R. 29. See Constitution of India, Article 229 (2). AIR 1964 Punj 285 (DB).

RULE 2.2

●——R. 2.2 (b) — Scope — Action under rule can be taken only in case of grave misconduct and not simple misconduct.

Per Raghubar Dayal and Mudholkar, JJ.—The mere fact that the Government took action under Rule 7 of the Punjab Civil Services (Punishment and Appeal) Rules (1952) and under Rule 3.26 (d) of the Punjab Civil Services Rules (1959), which was open to them and not under Rule 2.2 (b) of 1941 Rules is no ground to hold the Government's action mala fide. Further, resort to Rule 2.2 (b) could have been taken only if the Government servant was found guilty of grave misconduct and it would have been always a debatable point whether the charges made out against him established grave misconduct or simple misconduct. Action under that rule can be taken only in limited circumstances. S. Pratap Singh v. State of Punjab, (1964) 4 SCR 733: (1965) 1 SCA 259: AIR 1964 SC 72 (107) (Pt I) (Pr 103).

RULE 2.14

●——R. 2.14 — Punjab Land Revenue Act, Sections 9 and 28 — Rules under — Punjab Tehsildari Rules (1932) — Rules continued to remain in force even after Act was amended by Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937 — Dismissal of Tehsildar from service — Order passed by Financial Commissioner in 1953 — Order held valid. See Punjab Land Revenue Act (17 of 1887), Section 9. AIR 1962 SC 219.

RULE 3.26

——Rr. 3.26 and 1.6 (d) — Vested right to retire at the age of 55 years — Rules of 1941 were subject to alteration — Government servant taking service subject to express condition that rules relating to his conditions of service were liable to change and alteration — Rules of 1941 abrogated by Rules of 1959 — No vested right in the age of superannuation was created in the Government servant by the Rules of 1941 — S. 6 of General Clauses Act (1897) does not extend to such rules. See Punjab Civil Services Rules (1941), Rule 1.6 (d). AIR 1963 Punj 298 (DB).

RULE 5

——Vol. II, Rr. 5 and 32 — Right of civil servant to continue in service — Power to retire compulsorily — Proof of Power by State not necessary. See Constitution of India, Art. 310. (1962) 64 Punj LR 469.

——Vol. II, Rr. 5 and 32, Appendix II — New pension rules in Appendix II are whole body of rules connected with subject of pension.

The new pension rules contained in Appendix II at page 245 of Vol. II of Punjab Court Service Rules are the whole body of rules connected with the subject of pension as contained in Vol. II. That this is so finds support from the fact that the Appendix II has to be read in conjunction with R. 12 (b) and so read, these new pension rules apply to Government servants who entered Government service from 10-6-1951. (1962) 64 Punj LR 469.

RULE 5.28

●——R. 5.28 — Right to retire under the rule, if any, is subject to R. 3.26 (d) of 1959 rules.

Per Raghubar Dayal and Mudholkar, JJ. — There is nothing corresponding to R. 5.28 of Vol. II of the 1941 rules in Vol. II of the 1959 rules. When the retirement of the Government servant is governed by the 1959 rules and not by the 1941 rules, the right, if any, given by the 1941 rules to the Government servant to opt for retirement could not be said to be a right which comes within Rule 1.6 of the 1959 rules as R. 1.6 preserves such right to which the Government servant be entitled by or under any law or by the terms of his agreement. It contemplates such rights which the law in force gives to the Government servant at the time the 1959 rules are in force. When the 1941 rules do not govern him, it cannot be said that he has a right to opt for retirement on attaining the age of 55. Rule 5.28 is in Vol. II of the 1941 rules which embodies the rules relating to pensions and provident fund and therefore the proper interpretation of that rule would be that it provides for and permits the grant of superannuation to a Government servant who has opted to retire after attaining the age of 55 years on being required by the Government, in the exercise of its powers under R. 3.26 of Vol. I, to continue in service. Assuming however that the Government servant had a right to retire on attaining the age of 55 years in view of this rule or R. 3.26 (a), that right is subject to Rule 3.26 (d) in so far as this rule provides that no Government servant would be permitted to retire on his reaching the date of compulsory retirement if he be under suspension on a charge of misconduct. S. Pratap Singh v. State of Punjab. (1964) 4 SCR 733: (1965) 1 SCA 259: AIR 1964 SC 72 (99) (Pt P) (Prs 62, 63, 64).

RULE 5.32

——Vol. II, R. 5.32 — Right of civil servant to continue in service — Power to retire compulsorily — Proof of power by State not necessary. See Constitution of India, Arts. 309 and 310. (1962) 64 Pun LR 469.

——Vol. II R. 5.32 — New pension rules in Appendix II are whole body of Rules connected with subject of pension.

The new pension rules contained in Appendix II at page 245 of Vol. II of Punjab Civil Services Rules are the whole body of rules connected with the subject of pension as contained in Vol. II. That this is so finds support from the fact that the Appendix II has to be read in conjunction with R. 12 (b) and so read, these new pension rules apply to Government servants who entered Government service from 10-6-1951. (1962) 64 Punj LR 469.

——R. 5.32 — Scope — Amendment of — Absence of publication cannot bind the public servants. See Constitution of India, Art. 309. AIR 1957 Punj 140.

RULE 7.5

●——R. 7.5 — Punjab Civil Service Rules 1959, Rr. 7.5, 7.6 — Scope — Rules do not invest Government with power of suspension. AIR 1964 SC 72.

RULE 10

——Vol. I, Part I, Rules 10, 13 and 14 — Constitution of India, Article 226 — Writ of Mandamus — Permanent Municipal servant — Bye-law 62 of Simla Municipality and rules 1 to 4 framed under Section 240 (n), Punjab Municipal Act — Discharge from service for alleged misconduct — Procedure prescribed by rules framed under Act not followed — Writ held should be issued — (Municipalities — Punjab Municipal Act (3 of 1911), Sections 31 (1) and 240 (n)). See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1953 Punj 88 (DB).

RULE 14

——Rr. 14 and 10 — Discharge —Meaning of.

The word "discharge" does not occur either in Article 311 of the Constitution or in the Civil Services Rules (Punjab) in regard to penalties, but the definition of this word given in the Punjab Rules shows that it only applies to those cases where a person's service is terminated for reasons given in (a), (b) and (c) of the Explanation under Rules 14, 10 of the Civil Services Rules (Punjab). 8 LT 278, Relied on. 54 Punj LR 100: ILR (1954) Punj 528: AIR 1953 Punj 88 (93) (Pt B) (Pr 35) (DB).

APPENDIX 24

——Appendix 24 — Classification of Government servants into (1) liable to be dismissed with the sanction of the Government and (2) subordinate services, is a reasonable classification — Enquiry of public servants — Power of Government to appoint anyone for enquiry is also not hit by Art. 14 of the Constitution. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1955 Punj 3.

——Appendix 24 — Rules in Appendix are in consonance with concept of natural justice. AIR 1955 Punj 1 (2, 3) (Pt A) (Pr 9).

——Appendix 24 — Public servant proceeded against under Appendix 24 and not under Public Servants (Inquiries) Act —There is no contravention of Art. 14 of Constitution — (Constitution of India, Art. 14) — (Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (1850), S. 2). AIR 1955 Punj 1 (2, 3) (Pt B) (Pr 9).

——Vol. I, Part II, Appendix 24 — Civil servant — Punishment of withholding an increment is not reduction in rank. See Constitution of India, Art. 311. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4999.

PUNJAB CIVIL SERVICES RULES (1959)

——Both in Rules of 1941 and 1959 the expressions 'compulsory retirement' and 'superannuation' are used as synonyms. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 642: AIR 1963 Punj 298 (308) (Pt J) (Pr 18) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 72.]

●——Vol. 1 — Notes to Rules — Effect — Have force of law.

The position of the notes to rules in 1959 Rules is somewhat different than notes subsequently added to the rules as instances of decision taken by the executive authorities under the rules. In the case of 1959 Rules notes have appeared as part of the rules as illustrations as much as illustrations appearing sometimes as of a statutory provision. It cannot be said in such a case that notes to rules as decisions of the Government interpreting the rules have no force in law. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 642: AIR 1963 Punj 298 (313) (Pt W) (Pr 25) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 72.]

RULE 1.6

●——R. 1.6 and R. 3.2 (d) — Punjab Civil Services Rules (1941), Rule 5.28 — Right to retire under the rule is subject to Rule 3.26 (d) of 1959 rules. See Punjab Civil Services Rules (1941), Rule 5.28. AIR 1964 SC 72.

RULE 2.2

●——Rr. 2.2 (b), 3.26 (d) (Vol. II) — Order suspending Government servant on charge of misconduct is partly administrative — Government servant's explanation to charges before suspending him pending enquiry not necessary. See Punjab Civil Services Rules (1959), Rules 3.26 (d). AIR 1964 SC 72.

RULE 3.13

●——R. 3.13 — Government servant on leave preparatory to retirement — Can be suspended.

Per Raghubar Dayal and Mudholkar, JJ. — A Government servant is in service till his service terminates and the service can terminate only by dismissal, removal or retirement. The date from which a Government servant is on leave preparatory to retirement cannot be treated as the date of his retirement from service. When a Government servant proceeds on leave preparatory to retirement, he does not cease to hold office and to be in the employment of Government. Suspension of a Government servant, during the course of his service, simply means that no work is to be taken from him during the period of suspension. If he is actually discharging the duty of a certain office prior to suspension the order of suspension would mean that he would cease to work on and discharge the duties of that post. If at that time he is not working on any post but is on leave, no question of his actually ceasing to work or giving up the discharge of duty arises, but that does not mean that the order of suspension would be ineffective. The Government servant, during suspension or on leave, holds a lien on his permanent post in view of Rule 3.13 unless his lien is suspended or is transferred under the appropriate rule and so has a title to hold that post when under suspension or on leave. A Government servant on leave preparatory to retirement can therefore be suspended. AIR 1963 SC 687, Rel. on. S Pratap Singh v. State of Punjab, (1964) 4 SCR 733: (1965) 1 SCA 259: AIR 1964 SC 72 (95) (Pt B) (Prs 44, 45).

——R. 3.13 (e) Vol. 1 — Rule applies to leave Preparatory to retirement. See Punjab Civil Services Rules (1959), Vol. 1, Rule 3.26 (d). AIR 1963 Punj 298 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 72.]

RULE 3.26 (d)

●——R. 3.26 (d) — Validity — Does not contravene Article 14 or Article 23 of Constitution. See Constitution of India, Article 19. AIR 1964 SC 72.

●——R. 3. 26 (d) — Applicability — Government servant joining Class I Medical Service in 1947.

Per Raghubar Dayal and Mudholkar, JJ.— The Government servant joined the Punjab Civil Medical Service, Class I, in 1947. At that time the Punjab Civil Medical Services, Class I (Recruitment and Conditions of Service) Rules 1940 were in force. The Punjab Civil Services Rules (1941) were also in force when he joined service. Rule 3.26 (d) of the 1959 Rules did not find place in 1940 rules:

Held, that the question of retirement of a Government servant on superannuation or otherwise is not matter cognate to pensions. Pension follows retirement and may be said to be incidental to it. Rule 13 of the Medical Rules therefore did not govern the terms of retirement of the Government servant. It was Rule 17 of the Medical Rules which would govern the matter of his retirement. It was clear from this rule that in the matter of retirement the Government servant would be governed by such general rules as might have been made by the Government at the time the Medical rules were made or as would be made by the Government subsequently. The latest general rules governing the retirement of Government servants would govern the retirement of the Government servant even if it be assumed that the Medical rules still governed his conditions of service. Rule 3.26 (d) was therefore applicable to the Government servant. S. Pratap Singh v. State of Punjab, (1964) 4 SCR 733: (1965) 1 SCA 259: AIR 1964 SC 72 (97) (Pt L) (Prs 51, 52).

●——R. 3.26 (d) — 'Charge' — Meaning of —Does not necessarily mean formal charge framed and communicated to the Government servant.

Per Raghubar Dayal and Mudholkar, JJ.— Rule 7 of the Punjab Civil Services (Punishment and Appeal) Rules (1962) comes into play only after a prima facie case is made out against a Government servant and not at the stage of a preliminary investigation into accusation made against a Government servant. But it does not follow that suspension is not permissible till this stage of making a formal charge arrives. Rule 3.26 (d) of the Punjab Civil Services Rules is of general application and therefore the expression 'charge of misconduct' in this rule is not to be interpreted narrowly as meaning 'the charges formally framed and communicated to the Government servant concerned' with the intimation that a formal departmental enquiry had been initiated against him on those charges. Of course the enquiry would be into the charges of misconduct on account of which the Government servant has been suspended and the suspension will continue till a final order is passed on those charges. The requirements of the last portion of this rule do not in any way lead to the conclusion that the enquiry into the charges refers to a formal departmental enquiry into the charges framed and communicated to the Government servant in accordance with Rule 7 of the Punishment and Appeal Rules. Whenever any charge of misconduct is under enquiry by the Government, be it informally or formally, the Government is competent to suspend the Government servant and, if the requirements of the case require, to take action under R. 3.26 (d). S. Pratap Singh v. State of Punjab, (1965) 1 SCA 259: (1964) 4 SCR 733: AIR 1964 SC 72 (98) (Pt M) (Pr 54).

●——Rr. 3.26 (d), 2.2 (b), (Vol. II) — Order suspending Government servant on charge of misconduct is partly administrative — Government servant's explanation to charges before suspending him pending enquiry not necessary. AIR 1963 SC 395, Disting. S. Pratap Singh v. State of Punjab, (1964) 4 SCR 733: (1965) 1 SCA 259: AIR 1964 SC 72 (98) (Pt N) (Prs 55, 56).

●——R. 3.26 (d) — Date of compulsory retirement — Meaning — Does not mean date on which Government servant can be retired or permitted to retire before actual date of superannuation.

Per Raghubar Dayal and Mudholkar, JJ.— The expression 'date of compulsory retirement' in Rule 3.26 (d) must really refer to the dates mentioned in the earlier clauses of Rule 3.26 (d) and they are those on which the Government servant attains the age of 55 years or any of the ages mentioned in Clauses (b) and (c) of that rule. The expression 'required to retire' would certainly refer to those officers whose cases come within the previous clauses of Rule 3.26 and may also be applicable to Government servants who may be required to retire under any other rule in particular circumstances. The expression 'permitted to retire', again would refer to cases where the Government servant opts to retire in view of certain rules providing for his exercising such an option. AIR 1957 SC 892, Distinguished. S. Pratap Singh v. State of Punjab, (1964) 4 SCR 733: (1965) 1 SCA 259: AIR 1964 SC 72 (99) (Pt Q) (Prs 65, 66).

——Vol. 1, Rule 3.26 (d) — Validity — Government servant has no absolute right to retire at a particular date and the Government has the power to continue him in service in the circumstances as given in R. 3.26 (d) — Petitioner entering into service with express condition that he was to be governed by rules of service made from time to time — It cannot be held that on attaining the age of 55 years he was to become a free man on retirement with restoration of full freedom to exercise all his fundamental rights under Art. 19 and by retention of him in service beyond that date under R. 3.26 (d), all such rights are curtailed so that the rule is bad as conflicting with fundamental rights and thus void under Art. 13. See Constitution of India, Art. 13. AIR 1963 Punj 298 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 72].

——Vol. 1, R. 3.26 (d) — Validity — Rule does not offend Art. 14. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1963 Punj 298 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 72].

——Vol. 1, R. 3.26 (d) — Validity — Rule does not contravene Art. 23. See Constitution of India, Art. 23. AIR 1963 Punj 298 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 72].

——Vol. 1, R. 3.26 (d) — Applicability — Rule can be applied even after the Government servant went on leave preparatory to retirement. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 642: AIR 1963 Punj 298 (308) (Pt I) (Pr 18) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 72].

——Vol. 1, R. 3.26 (d) — Scope — Rule does not require that charge of misconduct should be communicated to the Government servant with the order of suspension — All that it means is that at the time the suspension is made there is to exist 'a charge of misconduct' against the Government servant, and if this condition is fulfilled, the requirements of the rule are satisfied. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 642: AIR 1963 Punj 298 (308) (Pt K) (Pr 18) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 72].

——Vol. 1, R. 3.26 (d) — 'Permitted to retire' — Meaning of — The words mean that a Government servant against whom there is a charge of misconduct shall not be allowed to retire on the date of reaching the normal age of compulsory retirement or superannuation — The words are not used with limited meaning given in R. 5.32(a) (Vol. 2) which deals with retiring pension to a Government servant permitted to retire after completing qualifying superior service for 25 years. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 642: AIR 1963 Punj 298 (308) (Pt L) (Pr 18) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 72].

——Vol. 1, R. 3.26 (d) — Petitioner in medical service due to retire on 15th June, 1961 — Letter from Secretary to Director of Health Service to the petitioner under Rule 3.26 (d) stating that he was to retire on 16th June, 1961 — Gazetted Notification published on 10th June, 1961, however stating that he was to be retained in service on his reaching date of compulsory retirement till the result of the enquiry against him — It cannot be said in such a case that he had retired before the order under R. 3.26 (d) was made operative. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 642: AIR 1963 Punj 298 (310) (Pt M) (Pr 20) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 72].

——Vol. 1, R. 3.26 (d) — Scope — Order of suspension and retention in service need not be made on public grounds. AIR 1961 Cal 1. Disting. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 642: AIR 1963 Punj 298 (311) (Pt T) (Pr 23) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 72].

——Vol. 1, R. 3.26 (d) — Suspension under — Suspension does not mean suspension of the Government servant from contract of service but merely suspension from office — His connection with the Government as employer has not ceased and further he holds the office under the direction that he is not to attend to his duty until order is made in accordance with R. 3.26 (d). ILR 10 All 459 and AIR 1961 All 580, Disting. AIR 1958 Cal 239 and AIR 1957 Punj 130 and (1888) 39 Ch. D 339, Rel. on. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 642: AIR 1963 Punj 298 (312) (Pt U) (Pr 24) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 72].

——Vol. 1, Rr. 3.26 (d), 3.13 (e), 8.21, 8.15, 8.44-A, 8.42 — Leave preparatory to retirement — Effect — There can be recall from such leave and suspension for enquiry.

While leave preparatory to retirement has to be on different basis in some respects, it does not cease to be leave. And if it is leave which is subject to the general provisions relating to leave such as the provision of R. 8.15, Vol. 1, of 1959 Rules, that leave cannot be claimed as of right and when the exigencies of public service so require, discretion to refuse or revoke leave of any description is reserved to the authority empowered to grant it. All leave including leave preparatory to retirement is apparently subject to this rule. Although R. 8.44-A deals with recall of a Government servant who has proceeded on leave preparatory to retirement to duty with his consent, the power of recall in regard to all leave is to be found in R. 8.42 and leave preparatory to retirement is not excepted from this rule. It is clear from note 10 to R. 8.21 that there can be compulsory recall from leave preparatory to retirement in which case the balance of the unenjoyed leave is treated as leave refused under that rule.

There is nothing exceptional in the order cancelling the leave preparatory to retirement of the Government servant and recalling him for the purposes of enquiry while suspending him at the same time when he was recalled. If the Government servant has retained lien on the post from which he proceeded on leave, he cannot say that he cannot be suspended from that post and his leave preparatory to retirement cannot be cancelled so as to recall him to duty while simultaneously suspending him. AIR 1954 SC 584, Disting. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 642: AIR 1963 Punj 298 (313) (Pt V) (Pr 25) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 72].

——R. 3.26 (d) — Applicability and effect — Public servant on leave prior to retirement — Order of suspension passed, reaching him subsequent to his retirement — Effect.

An order passed under Rr. 3.26 (d) of Punjab Civil Services Rules takes effect from the date when it is served on the Government servant concerned or when it comes to his knowledge. If by the time it comes to his knowledge he has retired from service, such an order will not have any effect qua him. AIR 1963 Punj 298, Followed.

The services of the respondent, a Punjab Co-operative Department servant were lent to the Himachal Pradesh Government on 1st May, 1954. The duration of his deputation was extended with the concurrence of the Government of India to 4th August, 1958 on which date he was to retire. The H. P. Government on his request granted him leave prior to retirement by a notification. The Punjab Government asked the H. P. Government to cancel the leave and issue reversion orders to the respondent. In compliance with this direction of Punjab Government the H. P. Government cancelled the leave prior to retirement and granted the respondent earned leave from 17th July, 1958 to 2nd August, 1958, instead. The Punjab Government by a telegram addressed to the respondent suspended him with effect from 2nd August, 1958. The respondent was asked to report himself to the Registrar, Co-operative Societies, Punjab, on 4th August, 1958, positively. In his letter the respondent specifically contended that as he had already proceeded on leave prior to retirement on 17th July, 1958, till 4th August, 1958, when he attained the age of superannuation and as no orders regarding his suspension were received by the respondent till then, the orders made by the relevant Department of the Punjab Government were invalid and ineffective as against him. The contention of the respondent was accepted by the Single Judge in writ petition filed by him challenging his subsesquent dismissal from service after an inquiry in which he had participated under protest. In appeal against the grant of writ:

Held, that the finding that neither any order had been served on the respondent before 4th August, 1958, intimating that he had been reverted to the parent State nor had he been informed that he had been placed under suspension on charges of misconduct, based as it was on documents which had been placed on the record, coupled with the well-known fact that there was no telegraphic office near village Batahar where the respondent resided left little room for doubt that the conclusion of the learned Single Judge was unassailable, with the result that the decision of the learned Single Judge must be upheld. (1963) 65 Pun LR 975: 1963 Cur LJ 466: (1964) 1 Lab LJ 655.

RULE 7.2

——Vol. 1, R. 7.2 — Scope — Language of rule is imperative — Subsistence allowance admissible under the Rule can be enforced as a right. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 642: AIR 1963 Punj 298 (316) (Pt Z2) (Pr 27) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 72].

RULE 7.5

——Rr. 7.5, 7.6 — Scope — Rules do not invest Government with power of suspension.

Per Raghubar Dayal and Mudholkar, JJ. — R. 7.5 of the 1941 Rules, or Rr. 7.5 and 7.6 of the 1959 rules do not invest the Government with the power of suspension, but only provide either for certain periods during a Government servant's service to be deemed to be periods during which he was under suspension or during which he be placed under suspension in view of the various exigencies mentioned in those rules. No such formal rule is to be found in any of these rules. The power of suspending a Government servant is vested in the authority which appoints the Government servant in view of S. 16 of the General Clauses Act, 1897. S. Pratap Singh v. State of Punjab, (1964) 4 SCR 733: (1965) 1 SCA 259: AIR 1964 SC 72 (98) (Pt O) (Pr 58).

RULE 8

●——R. 8 — Government Servant on leave preparatory to retirement — Leave revoked by Gov ernment, Government servant suspended and departmental enquiry ordered against him — Held, no breach of service rules — Petition under Art. 226 by such Government servant alleging mala fides on part of Minister in charge — No counter affidavit by Minister concerned but affidavit filed by Secretary in the Department having no personal knowledge regarding allegations against Minister — Mala fides held proved — Order set aside. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1964 SC 72.

RULE 8.15

●——Rr. 8.15, 8.3, 8.42 — Scope — Leave can be revoked even after officer has proceeded on leave. S. Pratap Singh v. State of Punjab (1965) 1 SCA 259: (1964) 4 SCR 733: AIR 1964 SC 72 (95) (Pt F) (Pr 43).

●——R. 8.15 — Government servant on leave preparatory to retirement — Orders of suspension and revocation of leave passed on same date — Order of suspension bearing an earlier number than order of revocation of leave — Held, the order in which the two orders were issued did not affect in substance the validity of the two orders so long as the Governor had the power to suspend the Government servant and revoke his leave — Orders may be issued in any sequence. S. Pratap Singh v. State of Punjab, (1964) 4 SCR 733: (1965) 1 SCA 259: AIR 1964 SC 72 (95) (Pt J) (Pr 47).

●——R. 8.15 — Government servant on leave preparatory to retirement and to retire on 16th June, 1961 — Orders of revocation of his leave and suspension passed on 3rd June, 1961 but actually communicated to the Government servant on 19th June, 1961 owing to his wrong address — Government not having received acknowledgment of receipt of orders from Government servant publishing in the Gazette, Extraordinary, dated 10th June, 1961 — Held, the orders of the Government ordinarily take effect from the moment they are issued except when they cannot be effective due to their nature — An order of suspension of the Government servant when he was on leave could be effective from the moment it was issued — The Government servant was on leave and was not discharging any official functions — If he had been actually on duty, the order of suspension would have taken effect from the moment it reached him and from which moment alone he could have complied with that order by ceasing to work any further in the discharge of his duties — It was therefore immaterial whether the publication of the orders in the Gazette, Extraordinary amounted to sufficient notice to the Government servant of the various orders and whether the letters communicating to him the order reached him after the due date of retirement — In the present cases the orders were effective from 3rd June, 1961 and their validity and effect did not depend on the date of communication to the Government servant — They were final orders — Of course, the Governor could, at any time, pass further orders superseding those orders — The possibility of a change in the order was not the main basis for considering whether a certain order was effective or not. AIR 1963 SC 395 and AIR 1961 SC 493, Distinguished. S. Pratap Singh v. State of Punjab, (1964) 4 SCR 733: (1965) 1 SCA 259: AIR 1964 SC 72 (95, 96) (Pt K) (Prs 48, 49, 50).

——Vol. 1, Rr. 8.15, 8.21, 8.41-A and 8.42 — Leave preparatory to retirement — Effect — There can be recall from such leave and suspension for enquiry. See Punjab Civil Services Rules (1959), Vol. 1, R. 3.26 (d). AIR 1963 Punj 298 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 72].

RULE 8.19

●——R. 8.19 — Applicability — Government not in a position to form any opinion about dismissal, etc. of Government servant — Leave not to be refused by resort to R. 8.19. S. Pratap Singh v. State of Punjab, (1965) 1 SCA 259: (1964) 4 SCR 733: AIR 1964 SC 72 (107) (Pt H) (Pr 101).

PUNJAB COAL CONTROL ORDER (1955)

CLAUSE 2

——Cls. 2 (i), 9 and 10 — Instruction that a certain person should be accepted as partner by a depot-holder is not justified.

The word 'instructions' as employed in Cl. 9 (c) surely has reference to such instructions as can be issued under the Order and not to any other kind of direction, however whimsical or arbitrary it may be which the District Magistrate may choose to issue. There is nothing in the Order which authorises or justifies the issuing of an instruction that a particular person should be accepted as partner by a depot-holder who has already been appointed by the District Magistrate within the meaning of Cl. 2 (i). ILR (1961) 2 Punj 595: 63 Pun LR 593: AIR 1962 Punj 32 (37) (Pt D) (Pr 9) (DB).

CLAUSE 9

——Cls. 9, 2 (i) and 10 — Instruction that certain person should be accepted as partner by a depot-holder is not justisfied. See Punjab Coal Control Order (1955), Clause 2 (i). AIR 1962 Punj 32 (DB).

——Cls. 9, 10 — Order cancelling coal depot on ground of failure of depot-holder to disclose source from which he obtained copies of certain office notes — Order held illegal. ILR (1961) 2 Punj 595: 63 Punj LR 593: AIR 1962 Punj 32 (37) (Pt E) (Pr 10) (DB).

CLAUSE 10

——Cl. 10 — Order issued under Clause 10 of Punjab Coal Control Order (1955) being illegal and ultra vires and affecting fundamental right of a person to carry on his trade or business under Article 19 (1) (g) — Held writ under Article 226 should issue. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1962 Punj 32 (DB).

——Cls. 10, 9 and 2 (i) — Instruction that a certain person should be accepted as partner by a depot-holder is not justified. See Punjab Coal Control Order (1955), Cl. 2 (i). AIR 1962 Punj 32 (DB).

——Cls. 10, 9 — Order cancelling coal depot on ground of failure of depot-holder to disclose source from which he obtained copies of certain office notes — Order held illegal. See Punjab Coal Control Order (1955), Cl. 9. AIR 1962 Punj 32 (DB).

——Cl. 10 — Order of cancellation on various grounds some of which are ultra vires — Order becomes void in its entirety.

When an order under Cl. 10 is made in which various grounds are given for cancellation of the depot and only one of them is sustainable and the others are ultra vires and outside the provisions of the order, the order becomes void in its entirety. In such circumstances it cannot be said which ground or reason affected the mind of the authorities and what punishment would have been inflicted if the other grounds or reasons had not existed. ILR (1961) 2 Punj 595: 63 Pun LR 593: AIR 1962 Punj 32 (37) (Pt F) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Cls. 10 and 11 — Scope — Government failing to perform duty imposed on it by law — Mandamus — Issue of remedy — Petitioner has a right to the enforcement of the said duty by the issue of a writ of mandamus. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. 59 Punj LR 647: ILR (1958) Punj 547.

——Cls. 10 and 11 — Scope — If exhaustive — Cancellation of depots on grounds not mentioned in cls. 10 and 11 — Legality.

Where a coal depot was cancelled on the ground that Government had decided to revoke the policy concerning allotment of depots which was being followed in the past and had adopted a policy of giving out depots on merit;

Held, that the express words mentioned in Clauses 10 and 11 of the Coal Control Order of the fact that a coal depot may be cancelled only under certain circumstances implies that it may not be cancelled under any other circumstances. It was therefore, not within the competence of the State Government to cancel the depot on any ground other than a ground mentioned in Clause 10 or Clause 11 of the Order. 59 Punj LR 647: ILR (1958) Punj 547.

PUNJAB COLONIZATION OF GOVERNMENT LANDS ACT (5 of 1912)

SECTION 15

——Ss. 15, 19 — Scope of S. 19 — Tenant of colony land acquiring proprietary rights in that land — Subsequent transfer of that land without Commissioner's consent is valid — Restrictions on alienation under S. 19 are against transfer of tenancy rights and not against transfer of proprietary rights — See Punjab Colonization of Government Lands Act (1912), S. 19. AIR 1965 Punj 225 (DB).

SECTION 19

——Ss. 19, 15 — Scope of S. 19 — Tenant of colony land acquiring proprietary rights in that land — Subsequent transfer of that land without Commissioner's consent is valid — Restrictions on alienation under S. 19 are against transfer of tenancy rights and not against transfer of proprietary rights.

There is no restriction on the power of alienation once proprietary rights have been acquired by a tenant of colony land. The restrictions under S. 19 are apparently meant against the transfer of tenancy rights because of the Government's interest in realizing the lease-money and also in making the scheme of colonization successful. Therefore, the restriction under S. 19 of prior written consent of the Commissioner, has no application where a tenant of colony land transfers the colony land after acquiring its proprietorship: AIR 1926 Lah 14, Disting.

Where according to the recital in the registered sale-deed itself, the whole purchase money has been received by the vendors (original tenants) and the zar-i-malkana asserted by them to have been deposited and possession also given to the vendees with an undertaking that the necessary mutation would also be got entered by the vendors, no basic principle of public policy would be violated if the deed is given full effect, even though there is no direct affirmative proof in the form of receipt of actual deposit of the price and of the requisite consent of the Commissioner or other duly empowered officer. 67 Pun LR 178: AIR 1965 Punj 225 (229) (Pt B) (Pr 13) (DB).

PUNJAB COMMODITIES PRICE MARKING AND DISPLAY ORDER (1962).

CLAUSE 3

——Cl. 3 (a) — Power of superintendence — Comparison with powers under Art. 226 — No interference under Art. 227 merely on technical ground. See Constitution of India, Art. 227. (1964) Cur LJ 324 (Punj).

CLAUSE 4

——Cl. 4 — Violation of — Conviction cannot be challenged on ground that 'essential commodity' has not been defined by Defence of India Rules or Order itself. See Defence of India Rules (1962), R. 125 (2). 1965 (1) Cr LJ 205: AIR 1965 Punj 86.

CLAUSE 6

——Cl. 6 — Order published in official gazette — Accused cannot contend ignorance of its provisions — It is open to the prosecution to prove that the accused was aware of the order in question — Omission on part of prosecution to prove that issuing authority had decided to so publish the Order, not material. See Defence of India Rules (1962), R. 141. 1965 (1) Cr LJ 205: AIR 1965 Punj 86.

PUNJAB COMMUNIST DETENUS RULES (1950)

See under Public Safety.

PUNJAB CONSOLIDATION OF LAND PROCEEDINGS (VALIDATION) ACT (6 of 1957)

See under Tenancy laws.

PUNJAB CONTROL OF BRICKS SUPPLIES ORDER (1956)

CLAUSE 4

——Cl. 4 (iii) — Refusal of licence on ground that applicant indulges in anti-national activities which tend to cause disharmony likely to result in breach of peace between different communities — Held refusal of licence on this ground was illegal. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 546.

PUNJAB CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES ACT (14 of 1955)

See under Co-operative Societies.

PUNJAB CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES ACT (25 of 1961)

See under Co-operative Societies.

PUNJAB COURT OF WARDS ACT (2 of 1903)

SECTION 5

——S. 5 (2) (d) — Scope — Not invalid as being an unreasonable restriction. See Constitution of India, Art. 19. AIR 1954 Punj 247 (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 Punj 9].

——S. 5 (2) (d) — Scope and effect of — Property taken under superintendence of Court of

Wards — Property is not 'acquired'. See Constitution of India, Art. 31. AIR 1954 Punj 247 (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 Punj 9].

——S. 5 (2) (d) — Constitution of India, Art. 13 — Retrospective effect — Order passed by Government under S. 5 (2) (d) of the Punjab Court of Wards Act passed before the Constitution cannot be interfered with by the High Court merely on the ground that by subsequent enactment or by Constitution some rights have been conferred on the petitioner, which according to him have made the Act ultra vires. See Constitution of India, Art. 13. AIR 1953 Punj 30 (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 Punj 9].

——S. 5 — Constitution of India, Art. 14 — Reasonable classification — Validity — It cannot be said that the classification for purposes of protections of land revenue is not a reasonable classification — See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1953 Punj 30 (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 Punj 9].

——S. 5 (2) (d) — Constitution of India, Art. 226 — Order under S. 5 (2) (d) is not a judicial or quasi-judicial order — No writ of certiorari or mandamus can be issued — See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1953 Punj 30 (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 Punj 9].

——S. 5 — Validity.

Howsoever undesirable it may be to pass a law like Punjab Court of Wards Act, S. 5, it is not hit by Art. 15 of the Constitution. 55 Pun LR 279: ILR (1953) Punjab 279: AIR 1953 Punjab 30 (35) (Pt D) (Pr 35) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 Punj 9].

SECTION 12

——S. 12 — Power of High Court — Superintendence of property assumed under S. 5 (2) (d) — Evidence — Sufficiency of — (Constitution of India, Art. 226).

It is not within the competence of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution to examine the evidence on the basis of which the State Government came to the conclusion that the conditions set out in S. 5 (2) have been complied with. The High Court cannot constitute itself into a Court of appeal in cases of this kind and it is not within the province of the High Court to express an opinion on the adequacy or otherwise of the material on which the conclusion of a Deputy Commissioner is based. 56 Punj LR 403: ILR (1955) Punj 331: AIR 1954 Punj 247 (250) (Pt E) (Pr 15) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 Punj 9].

SECTION 13

——S. 13 — Reasonable restrictions.

It is for the purposes of protection of the revenues of the State and for seeing that there is no discontent amongst the tenants, laws of the kind such as Punjab Court of Wards Act are passed by the Government. It cannot be said that they are unreasonable interference with the fundamental rights of persons — See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1953 Punj 30.

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 Punj 9].

SECTION 15

——S. 15 — Reasonable restrictions.

It is for the purpose of protection of the revenue of the State and for seeing that there is no discontent amongst the tenants, laws of the kind such as Punjab Courts of Wards Act are passed by Government. It cannot be said that they are unreasonable interference with the fundamental rights of persons — See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1953 Punj 30.

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 Punj 9].

SECTION 17

——S. 17 — Reasonable restrictions.

It is for the purpose of protection of the revenues of the State and for seeing that there is no discontent amongst the tenants, laws of the kind such as Punjab Courts of Wards Act are passed by the Government. It cannot be said that they are unreasonable interference with the fundamental rights of persons. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1953 Punj 30.

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 Punj 9].

SECTION 25

——S. 25 — Reasonable restrictions.

It is for the purposes of protection of the revenues of the State and for seeing that there is no discontent amongst the tenants, laws of the kind such as Punjab Courts of Wards Act are passed by the Government. It cannot therefore be said that they are unreasonable interference with the fundamental rights of persons — See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1953 Punj 30.

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 Punj 9].

SECTION 48

——S. 48 — S. 48 of the Punjab Act 2 of 1903 does not define interpleader suit or gives procedure governing interpleader suit. But in view of the definition of the expression 'interpleader suit and the procedure governing such suits given in S. 88 of C. P. C., the Court of Wards can institute interpleader suit against several claimants when on the death of any person of whose property the Court of Wards has assumed jurisdiction the succession to his property is disputed. Such a suit falls within S. 88, C. P. C. and is not barred by S. 48 of the Punjab Act II of 1903. See Civil P. C. (1908), Order 35, Rule 5. AIR 1954 Punj 103 (DB).

——S. 48 — Scope — C. P. Code (1908), S. 88.

Section 48 of the Punjab Act 2 of 1903 does not define an interpleader suit or gives the procedure governing interpleader suits. But in view of the definition of the expression 'interpleader suit' and the procedure governing such suits given in S. 88, C. P. Code, the Court of Wards can institute an interpleader suit against several claimants, when on the death of any person of whose property the Court of Wards has assumed jurisdiction, the succession to his property is disputed. Such a suit falls prima facie within S. 88, C. P. Code, and is not barred by S. 48 of the Punjab Act II of 1903. AIR 1931 Oudh 177, Relied on. 56 Punj LR 63: ILR (1954) Punj 769: AIR 1954 Punj 103 (104) (Pt B) (Prs 12, 18) (DB).

APPENDIX, CLAUSE 3

——Appendix C, Cl. (3) — Power of attorney — Authorisation by Deputy Commissioner.

Under Cl. (3) it is the Deputy Commissioner who must sign the power of attorney of the advocate who acts on behalf of the Court of Wards. Where there is no such authorisation the appeal is not effective. 55 Pun LR 375: AIR 1953 Punj 273 (274) (Pr 6) (DB).

PUNJAB COURTS ACT (6 of 1918)

SECTION 3

●——S. 3 (4) and S. 39 (1) (a) — Suit for pre-emption of agricultural land — Value for jurisdiction in appeal — Direction to deposit market value — No effect on valuation for jurisdiction See Suits Valuation Act (1887), S. 3. AIR 1960 Punj 467 (FB).

SECTION 18

●——Ss. 18, 22, 26, 27, 33, 34 and 39 (3) — High Court Notification No. 4 dated, 3rd January, 1923 — Court of Senior Subordinate Judge — If same as Court of subordinate Judge, First Class — (High Court Rules and Orders — Punjab High Court Rules, Vol. I, Chap. 20-B — Notification, dated 16th May, 1935, as amended on 23rd February, 1940).

Held, on a consideration of the relevant provisions of the Punjab Courts Act and the High Court notification No. 4, dated 3rd January, 1923 that the Court of the Senior Subordinate Judge is not the same Court as the Court of the Subordinate Judge of the first class. The senior Subordinate Judge does not appear to be vested with either administrative or judicial control over any other Subordinate Judge except in so far as he is a Court of appeal in certain specified classes of cases.

The Punjab High Court Notification, dated 16th May, 1935, as amended on 23rd February, 1940, reproduced in Vol. 1, Ch. 20-B of the High Court Rules and Orders also appears to regard each Senior Subordinate Judge as a Court in itself and not merely as the presiding officer of the Court of the Subordinate Judge.

S. 39 (3) permits an appeal from one Subordinate Judge to another and the words the "Court of such other Subordinate Judge" indicate that the Subordinate Judge to whom the appeal is preferred is a separate and distinct Court. Kuldip Singh v. State of Punjab, 1956 Mad WN 465 (2): 1956 SCR 125: 1956 SCA 809: 1956 All LJ 434: 1956 Cr LJ 781: 1956 SCJ 387: 1956 SCC 455: 58 Punj LR 595: ILR (1956) Punj 1075: AIR 1956 SC 391 (396, 397, 398) (Pt B) (Prs 23, 30, 32, 33).

●——Ss. 18, 21 — Court of Additional Judge — If a division Court of the Court of District Judge.

Under Section 18, the Court of the Additional Judge is constituted a distinct class of Court; the Act speaks of the Court of the Additional Judge and not of the Additional District Judge as is the case with certain other Acts in other parts of India. The Punjab Courts Act nowhere speaks of an Additional District Judge or of an Additional Judge to the District Court; also, the Additional Judge is not a Judge of co-ordinate judicial authority with the District Judge. But these Judges cannot discharge all the judicial functions of the District Judge. Their jurisdiction is a limited one and is limited to the discharge of such functions as may be entrusted to them by the District Judge under Section 21 (2). Thus, if his functions are confined to the hearing of appeals he cannot exercise original jurisdiction and vice versa. But if he is invested with the functions of an appellate tribunal at the District Court level, then he can exercise all the powers of the District Judge in dealing with appeals which the District Judge is competent to entertain. This is a very different thing from the administrative distribution of work among the Judges of a single Court entitled to divide itself into sections and sit as division Courts. As the Punjab Courts Act does not contemplate the appointment of Additional Judges to the District Court, none can be appointed. The Court contemplated is the Court of the Additional Judge which is in the nature of a special tribunal set up for a special purpose and invested with the powers of a District Judge when dealing with the matters specially entrusted to its jurisdiction. Therefore the Court of the Additional Judge is not a division Court of the Court of the District Judge but a separate and distinct Court of its own. Kuldip Singh v. State of Punjab. 1956 Mad WN 465 (2): 1956 SCR 125: 1956 SCA 809: 1956 All LJ 434: 1956 Cr LJ 781: 1956 SCC 455: 58 Punj LR 595: ILR (1956) Punj 1075: 1956 SCJ 387: AIR 1956 SC 391 (398, 399) (Pt C) (Prs 36, 37).

——Ss. 18 and 21 — Additional District Judge is not principal Civil Court of original Civil jurisdiction — District judge cannot transfer the petition under Hindu Marriage Act to him. See Hindu Marriage Act (1955), S. 19. AIR 1959 Punj 50 (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1965 Punj 472.]

SECTION 20

——S. 20 (as it stood in 1957) — District Judge, meaning of — The Court of Additional District Judge was not recognied under the provisions of the Punjab Courts Act as it stood in 1957 and there could be only one District Judge in the District who could be nominated under proviso to Section 9 of the Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act. Subsequent amendment of the Act was not retrospective. See Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act (1954), Section 9 Proviso. 1965 Pun LR (Supp) 371.

SECTION 21

●——Ss. 21 and 18 — Court of Additional Judge is not a Division Court of the Court of District Judge — It is a separate and distinct court of its own — (Special Tribunal). See Punjab Courts Act (6 of 1918), Section 18. 1956 Cri LJ 781: AIR 1956 SC 391.

●——S. 21 — Principal Civil Court of original civil jurisdiction — Suit under Section 92 instituted in Court of District Judge — District judge transferring it to Additional District Judge — Latter has jurisdiction to dispose it. See Civil P. C. (1908), Section 24. AIR 1965 Punj 472 (FB).

——S. 21 — Principal Civil Court of original civil jurisdiction — Additional District Judges in the Punjab is not — Jurisdiction to hear petitions under Hindu Marriage Act — Power of District Judge to transfer petition to Additional District Judge — District Judge has no power. See Hindu Marriage Act (1955), Section 19. AIR 1959 Punj 50 (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1965 Punj 472 (FB).]

——S. 21 (2) — Houses and Rents — E. P. Urban Rent Restriction Act (1949), Section 15 — District Judge acting as appellate auothority not a Court — He has no power to assign appeal to Additional District Judge under Section 21 (2) of the Act. See Houses and Rents — E. P. Urban Rent Restriction Act (3 of 1949), Section 15. AIR 1951 Punj 415.

——S. 21 (2) — East Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act, Section 15 (1) and (4) — Appellate authority whether can assign appeal to another under — Appellate authority hearing appeal from an order of the Rent Controller does so as a 'persona designata' and not as a Court — District Judge hearing such appeal has no jurisdiction under Section 21 (2), Punjab Courts Act 1918 to assign the appeal to the Additional District Judge. See Houses and Rents — East Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act (3 of 1949), Section 15 (1). AIR 1951 Punj 355.

SECTION 22

●——Ss. 22, 18, 26, 27, 33, 34 and 39 (3) — Punjab High Court Notification No. 4 D/- 3-1-1923 — Court of Senior Subordinate Judge is not same court as Court of subordinate Judge First Class — (High Court Rules and Orders — Punjab High Court Rules, Vol. 1, Ch. 20B — Notification dated 16-5-1935 as amended on 23-2-1940) See Punjab Courts Act (6 of 1918), Section 18. 1956 Cri LJ 781: AIR 1956 SC 391.

SECTION 24

——S. 24 — Plaint filed in Court of principal Civil jurisdiction with application for transfer to subordinate court — Plaint transferred to subordinate court and registered there — Date of filing suit held to be date when plaint was filed before court of principal civil jurisdiction. See Limitation Act (1908), Section 3. AIR 1963 Punj 208 (DB).

SECTION 26

●——Ss. 26, 18, 22, 27, 33, 34 and 39 (3) — Punjab High Court Notification No. 4 D/- 3-1-1923 — Court of Senior Subordinate Judge is not same court as Court of subordinate Judge First Class — (High Court Rules and Orders — Punjab High Court Rules, Vol. 1, Ch. 20-B — Notification dated 16-5-1935 as amended on 23-2-1940). See Punjab Courts Act (6 of 1918), S. 18. 1956 Cri LJ 781: AIR 1956 SC 391.

SECTION 30

——S. 30 (1) — Notification — Jurisdiction — Revocation of probate — Senior Subordinate Judge in Punjab is competent. See Succession Act (1925), Section 263. AIR 1964 Punj 485.

SECTION 31

——S. 31 (1) (a) — Suit for pre-emption of agricultural land — Value for jurisdiction in appeal is 30 times the land revenue. See Suits Valuation Act (1887), Section 8. 1965 Cur LJ 450 (Punj).

SECTION 33

●——Ss. 33, 18, 22, 26, 27, 34 and 39 (3) — Punjab High Court Notification No. 4 D/- 3-1-1923 — Court of Senior Subordinate Judge is not same court as Court of subordinate Judge First Class — (High Court Rules and Orders — Punjab High Court Rules, Vol. 1, Ch. 20-B — Notification dated 16-5-1935 as amended on 23-2-1940). See Punjab Courts Act (6 of 1918), Section 18. 1956 Cri LJ 781: AIR 1956 SC 391.

SECTION 34

——Ss. 34 and 37 — Civil P. C., Ss. 15, 26, Order 4, Rules 1 and 2 — Presentation of plaints —Law as to — Date of institution of suits — At the headquarters the date of institution is the date when it is presented to the senior subordinate judge of the district. At other places the date of institution is the date when it is presented to the proper court — (High Court Rules and Orders — Punjab High Court Rules, Vol. 1, Chap. 1-B, Rules 2 and 3). See Civil P. C. (1908), Sec 15. AIR 1956 Punj. 30.

SECTION 37

——S. 37 — Section 37 permits the District Judge to delegate powers of transfer of appeals to the subordinate Judge. ILR (1959) Punj 1237: 61 Pun LR 730: AIR 1959 Punj 586 (589) (Pt C) (Pr 12) (DB)

——Ss. 37 and 34 — Civil P. C., Sections 15, 26, Order 4, Rules 1 and 2 — Presentation of plaints — Law as to — Date of institution of suits — At the headquarters the date of institution is the date when it is presented to the senior subordinate Judge of the district. In other places the date of institution is the date when it is presented to the proper Court—(High Court Rules and Orders — Punjab High Court Rules, Vol. I, Chap. 1-B, Rr. 2 and 3). See Civil P. C. (1908), Section 15. AIR 1956 Punj 30.

SECTION 38

——Ss. 38 and 39 — Appeal from order upon an application under Section 10 passed by Subordinate Judge, Ist class lies to the High Court and not District Court. See Hindu Marriage Act (1955), Section 28. AIR 1961 Punj 480 (DB).

SECTION 39

●——S. 39 — Criminal P. C., Ss. 195 (3), 476A and 476B — Subordination of Courts — "Court to which appeals ordinarily lie' — Guiding principles — Court of Subordinate Judge is not subordinate to Senior Subordinate Judge but to District Court for purposes of Section 195 (3) — (Words and Phrases — 'Court to which appeals ordinarily lie') — AIR 1931 Sind 163, Not approved. See Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 195(3). 1956 Cri LJ 781: AIR 1956 SC 391.

●——Ss. 39 (3) and 18, 22, 26. 27, 33, 34 — Punjab High Court Notification No. 4 D/- 3-1-1923 — Court of Senior Subordinate Judge is not same court as Court of subordinate Judge First Class — (High Court Rules and Orders — Punjab High Court Rules, Vol. 1, Ch. 20B — Notification dated 16-5-1935 as amended on 23-2-1940). See Punjab Courts Act (6 of 1918), S. 18. 1956 Cri LJ 781: AIR 1956 SC 391.

——S. 39 — Leave to sue in forma pauperis — 'Sufficient means' — Property subject-matter of suit — Cannot be taken into consideration in deciding pauperism — Interference with order refusing leave — Revision — Maintainable under Section 39 of Punjab Courts Act. See Civil Procedure Code (1908), Order 33, Rule 1. AIR 1966 Punj 86.

●——S. 39 (1) (a) — Rules under, Rule 2 — Suit for pre-emption of agricultural land — Value for jurisdiction in appeal — Direction to deposit market value — No effect on valuation for jurisdiction — 16 Pun Re 1908: 146 Pun LR 1908 (FB), Overruled. See Suits Valuation Act (1887), Section 3. AIR 1960 Punj 467 (FB).

——S. 39 (1) — Suit for redemption — Valuation for jurisdiction is to be determined under R. 9 framed under Suits Valuation Act — Forum of appeal — Value of the original suit not exceeding Rs. 5,000 — Appeal from the decree would lie to the District Judge under Section 39 (1) of the Punjab Courts Act even if the decretal amount exceeds Rs. 5,000. See Suits Valuation Act (1887), Section 3. AIR 1960 Punj 357 (DB)

——S. 39 — Jurisdiction — Appeal in redemption suit — Forum is determined not by original jurisdictional value of the suit but by the amount which is found by the Court to be due. See Suits Valuation Act (1887), Section 8, AIR 1954 Punj 36 (DB).

——S. 39 — Punjab Pre-emption Act (I of 1913), Section 22 — Failure of plaintiff to deposit one-fifth amount — Trial Court rejecting plaint — Appeal — Discretion of trial Court — Power of appellate Court.

Where it can be shown that the trial Court has acted under a misapprehension of fact in that it either gave weight to irrelevant or unproved matters or omitted to take into account matters that are relevant, the exercise of discretion by the trial Court may be impeached in such a case as it has been exercised on wrong or inadequate materials: 1937 AC 473 and 1943 AC 517, Rel. on.

Thus, where in a suit for pre-emption under the Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1913, an order to deposit one fifth of the probable value of land in suit is passed in the absence of the plaintiff or his counsel, and it is not communicated to them and on failure of the plaintiff to deposit the amount on the date, the trial Court rejects the plaint under Section 22 (4), relying on certain practice of the Court, of which there is no evidence and taking into consideration certain documents which were not proved or exhibited, the appellate Court is empowered to set aside the order of rejection of plaint. ILR (1950) Punj 243: AIR 1950 East Punj 264 (265) (Prs 12, 13) (DB).

SECTION 41

——S. 41 — Civil P. C., Sections 100-101 — Finding about ancestral character of land is one of fact and is not open to challenge in second appeal — Where the finding is based upon the perusal, construction, and piercing together of a large number of revenue records that finding cannot be regarded as a finding of fact. See Civil P. C. (1908), Sections 100-101. AIR 1951 Punj 358.

——S. 41 — Finding of fact — Finding that land is not ancestral land based on perusal and construction of revenue records is no finding of fact. — Civil P. C. (1908), Section 100. AIR 1949 PC 87, Rel. on. AIR 1950 East Punj 179 (180) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB)

SECTION 44

——S. 44 — Petition under Section 115, Civil P. C. and Article 227 of Constitution challenging order of Authority under Payment of Wages Act — Authority not being subordinate to High Court, Section 115 Civil P. C. or Section 44 Punjab Courts Act not applicable. See Civil P. C. (1908). Section 115. AIR 1964 Punj 242 (DB).

——S 44 — Nature of — Proper Court-fee payable is in accordance with Schedule II, Article 1. See Court-fees Act (1870), Schedule II, Art. 1. AIR 1962 Punj 378 (DB).

——S. 44 — Authority under Payment of Wages Act, is not Court subordinate to High Court — Decision of Authority — When can be interfered with under Article 227. See Civil P. C. (1908), Section 115. AIR 1961 Punj 154.

SECTION 46-A

●——S. 46-A — Punjab High Court Rules and Orders, Vol. 1, Chap. 17-B, Rules 5 (ii) 6, 37 — Petitioner granted petition-writer's licence under Rule 5 (ii) on personal ground under order of Chief Justice — Grant is contrary to Rule 5 — Resolution by Full Court at its administrative meeting held subsequently not to renew licence — Resolution not open to question under Article 226 of the Constitution, as resolution only rectified an obvious case of mistake — Constitution of India, Article 226, Debi Ram Sharma v. High Court of Judicature, Punjab. 64 Punj LR 1136: AIR 1963 Punj 46 (47, 48) (Prs 6, 7) (FB).

SECTION 70

——S. 70 (1) (b) — Remand in appeal to Dist. Judge — Revision.

Where the Dist. Judge on an appeal from the decision of the custodian of evacuee property passed an order for remand:

Held, that there was no occasion for the High Court to interfere with the order of remand at that stage; there would be time enough for the petitioner to come to the High Court again if and when the Dist. Judge decided the case against him after the Custodian dealt with the case in accordance with the order of remand. AIR 1951 Punj 423 (424) (Pr 6).

PUNJAB CRIMINAL LAW (AMENDMENT) ACT (30 of 1960)

See under Public Safety.

PUNJAB CRIMINAL LAW (AMENDMENT) ORDINANCE (2 of 1960)

See under Public Safety.

PUNJAB CUSTOM (POWER TO CONTEST) ACT (2 of 1920)

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3 and 6 — 'Alienation' — Testamentary disposition is alienation. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4974.

SECTION 6

●——S. 6 — Defendant must specifically allege ancestral nature of property and his relationship — Mere framing of issues or leading evidence not sufficient — Civil P. C. (1908), O. 8, R. 2.

Under Section 6 it is necessary that a person objecting to the validity of the appointment of an heir to the property on the ground of custom must plead and prove that the land in suit is ancestral and that he comes within five degrees of the common ancestor The mere fact that the defendants contended in the written statement that the plaintiff could not be adopted according to the custom does not tantamount to making the requisite pleas.

Similarly the mere fact that the issues as framed did involve the consideration of the validity of the adoption and the ancestral nature of the land in suit will not clothe the vague allegation in the written statement with the definiteness of the requisite pleadings.

Where a claim has been never made in the defence presented, no amount of evidence can be looked into upon a plea which was never put forward.: AIR 1930 PC 57, Rel. on; ILR 39 Bom 399, Disting., Bhagat Singh v. Jaswant Singh, (1962) 1 SCJ 162: (1961) 1 Ker LR 539: 1961 SCD 709: AIR 1966 SC 1861 (1862, 1863) (Prs 6, 7, 9).

——S. 6 — Alienation by widow of A's brother after commencement of Act — Gift by A of his property challenged by appellants, his collaterals — Property found to be ancestral, though not in hands of common ancestors of A and the appellants — Widow of A's brother claiming property on A's death as his natural heir — Unchallenged continued possession even after the Act — Widow becomes absolute owner — Alienation valid — Provisions of Punjab Limitation (Custom) Acts I and II of 1920 not attracted. See Hindu Succession Act (1956), Section 14. AIR 1962 Punj 481.

●——S. 6 — Right to contest alienation — Transferee from competent person — Right to continue contest after his death.

When an alienation of ancestral immovable property is in fact contested by the person competent to contest it, the transferees from him can continue the contest after his death. By the transfer the person is not merely transferring his personal right to challenge the alienation but the property itself with all its rights appertaining to it, which property at that time had vested in him. When treating the alienation as nullity and having obtained an order in his favour from the revenue authorities he obtained possession of the property and remained in possession of it till he transferred it, he must be held to have contested it. AIR 1929 Lah 295 and 16 Ind Cas 634 (Cal), Rel. on; 66 Punj Re 1897 (FB), Dist.; 67 Punj Re 1909, Diss. from. Harcharan Singh v. Isher Singh, ILR (1960) 2 Punj 999: 62 Punj LR 875: AIR 1961 Punj 55 (56, 57) (Prs 3, 4, 5) (FB).

PUNJAB DAMAGED AREAS ACT (11 of 1947)

SECTION 3

●——S. 3 — Scheme in respect of area declared to be "damaged area" under 1947 Act but not so declared under 1951 or 1949 Act is without jurisdiction — Conclusiveness of scheme under S. 5 (4) of 1951 Act does not apply where there is total lack of jurisdiction — Punjab General Clauses Act (1 of 1898), S. 22 — Implied repeal — 1947 Act not repealed but lapsing and re-enacted by 1949 Act — Notification under 1947 Act cannot be deemed to be one under 1949 Act — Interpretation of Statutes — Implied repeal — There must be inconsistency between two Acts. See Punjab Development and Damaged Areas Act (10 of 1951), S. 2 (d). AIR 1963 SC 976.

PUNJAB DEBTORS' PROTECTION ACT (2 OF 1936)

See under Debt Laws.

PUNJAB DEVELOPMENT OF DAMAGED AREAS ACT (10 OF 1951)

SECTION 1

—S. 1 — Validity of Act — Contravention of Art. 14 — (Constitution of India, Art. 14).

There is nothing in the Act which involves the denial of equality or equal protection of laws to any individual. The Constitution contemplates compulsory acquisition of property and, therefore, the mere compulsory acquisition of property provided for by the Act cannot be held to connote unequal treatment and thus offend the provisions of Art. 14. 55 Punj LR 488: AIR 1954 Punj 110 (111) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Ss. 7, 13 (1) — Validity — Absence of time-limit for award — Effect.

The fact that no time-limit for giving an award is mentioned does not make the Act ultra vires. The time within which an award may be made will depend on particular facts of the case and the Act contemplates the award being made within a reasonable time. If the Collector or the authority concerned delays the making of the award, the aggrieved person has a remedy by way of applying for a writ of mandamus. 55 Punj LR 488: AIR 1954 Punj 110 (112) (Pt C) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Ss. 1, 11 and 12 — Validity of Act — Constitution of India, Arts. 31, 14.

There is nothing in S. 12 (1) to say that the execution of the scheme must come before the award or computation of compensation. In fact, under S. 11, the compensation has to be computed by the Collector before the demolition of the buildings takes place and before the scheme is put into effect. There is, therefore, nothing in the Act which contravenes Art. 31 or Art. 14 of the Constitution. 55 Punj LR 488: AIR 1954 Punj 110 (112) (Pt D) (Prs 8, 9) (DB).

SECTION 2

●——Ss. 2 (d), 5 (4) — East Punjab Damaged Areas Act (10 of 1949), S. 1 (2) — Punjab Damaged Areas Act (11 of 1947), S. 3 — Scheme in respect of areas declared to be 'damaged area' under 1947 Act but not so declared under 1951 or 1949 Act is without jurisdiction — Conclusiveness of scheme under S. 5 (4) of 1951 Act does not apply where there is total lack of jurisdiction — Punjab General Clauses Act (1 of 1898), S. 22 — Implied repeal — 1947 Act not repealed but lapsing and re-enacted by 1949 Act — Notification under 1947 Act cannot be deemed to be one under 1949 Act — Interpretation of Statutes — Implied repeal — There must be inconsistency between two Acts — Civil Writ No. 460 of 1961, dated 20th April, 1961 (Punj.), Reversed. Trust Mai Lachhmi Sialkoti Bradari v. Chairman, Amritsar Improvement Trust, (1963) 1 SCR 242: 1962 SCD 1016: AIR 1963 SC 976 (978, 979, 980) (Prs 6, 7, 8, 9, 10).

SECTION 4

——S. 4 — Certain schemes prepared under Punjab Development of Damaged Areas Act (10 of 1951) struck down as invalid on technical grounds — Subsequent legislation to validate the schemes — Right of filing objections in respect of validated schemes not given afresh — Such right available to other persons in respect of schemes framed after Validating Act was passed — No discrimination as regards right of filing objections against earlier and new schemes. See Constitution of India, Art 14. AIR 1965 Punj 212 (DB).

SECTION 5

●——Ss. 5 (4) and 2 (d)—East Punjab Damaged Areas Act (10 of 1949), S. 1 (3)—Punjab Damaged Areas Act (11 of 1947), S. 3 — Scheme in respect of areas declared to be "damaged area" under 1947 Act but not so declared under 1951 or 1949 Act is without jurisdiction — Conclusiveness of scheme under S. 5 (4) of 1951 Act does not apply where there is total lack of jurisdiction — Punjab General Clauses Act (1 of 1898), S. 22 — Implied repeal — 1947 Act not repealed but lapsing and re-enacted by 1949 Act — Notification under 1947 Act cannot be deemed to be one under 1949 Act—Interpretation of Statutes — Implied repeal—There must be inconsistency between two Acts. See

Punjab Development of Damaged Areas Act (10 of 1951), S. 2 (d). AIR 1963 SC 976.

——S. 5 — Objector not heard in person — Effect.

That the petitioners were not heard in person in support of their objections is scarcely a matter which makes the notification of the scheme in any way illegal as the subject does not possess the right to be personally heard on every occasion.

The important point is that objections were invited. They were submitted by the petitioners and they were considered before the final scheme was sanctioned. 55 Punj LR 488: AIR 1954 Punj 110 (112) (Pt E) (Pr 10) (DB).

SECTION 11

——Ss. 11, 1 and 12 — Validity of — There is nothing in S. 12 (1) to say that the execution of the scheme must come before the award or computation of compensation. In fact, under S. 11, the compensation has to be computed by the Collector before the demolition of the buildings takes place and before the scheme is put into effect. Therefore, there is nothing in the Act which contravenes Art. 31 or 14 — (Constitution of India, Arts. 31, 14). AIR 1954 Punj 110 (Pt D) (DB).

SECTION 12

——Ss. 12, 13 — Validity — Just compensation for damaged property — (Constitution of India, Art. 31).

All that is required under Art. 31 is that compensation should not be illusory. It should be just and proper and it should represent an equivalent of the market value. But the equivalent does not mean the exact figure of the market value.

To say that in assessing the compensation which must be paid in compulsorily acquiring property damaged in riots, no deduction should be made for removing the material would be saying that the owners should be paid more than the market value. For a case of this type, the market value is the price of the land plus the price of the material minus the cost of removing it.

Where, therefore, the Punjab Act lays down in S. 13, that the cost of demolition and removal may be deducted from the market value as determined under S. 12, the provisions of Art. 31 of the Constitution are in no way contravened. 55 Punj LR 488: AIR 1954 Punj 110 (111) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Ss. 12, 1, 11 — Validity of — There is nothing in S. 12 (1) to say that the execution of the scheme must come before the award or computation of compensation. In fact, under S. 11, the compensation has to be computed by the Collector before the demolition of the buildings takes place and before the scheme is put into effect. Therefore, there is nothing in the Act which contravenes Art. 14 or 31 of the Constitution — (Constitution of India, Arts. 31, 14). 55 Punj LR 488: AIR 1954 Punj 110 (DB).

SECTION 13

——Ss. 13 and 12 — Validity — Just compensation for damaged property — All that is required under Art. 31 is that compensation should not be illusory. It should be just and proper and it should represent an equivalent of the market value. But the equivalent does not mean the market value.

Where, therefore, the Punjab Act lays down in S. 13 that the cost of demolition and removal may be deducted from the market value as determined under S. 12, the provisions of Art. 31 are not contravened — (Constitution of India, Art. 31). 55 Punj LR 488: AIR 1954 Punj 110 (DB).

——Ss. 13 (1) and 1 — Validity — Absence of time-limit for award — The fact that time-limit for giving an award is mentioned does not make the Act ultra vires. If the Collector or the authority concerned delays the making of an award, the aggrieved person has a remedy by way of applying for a writ of mandamus. 55 Punj LR 488: AIR 1954 Punj 110 (DB).

PUNJAB DEVELOPMENT OF DAMAGED AREAS (VALIDATION) ACT (8 OF 1963)

SECTION 2

——S. 2 — Schemes prepared under Punjab Development of Damaged Areas Act (10 of 1951) struck down as invalid on technical grounds — Subsequent legislation to validate the schemes — Right of filing objections in respect of validated schemes not given afresh — Such right available to other persons in respect of schemes framed after validating Act was passed — No discrimination as regards right of filing objections against earlier and new schemes. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1965 Punj 212 (DB).

——S. 2 — Certain schemes struck down by Supreme Court as illegal and invalid — Defect found not fundamental or against constitutional provisions — State Legislature can pass appropriate legislation to remedy defect. See Constitution of India, Art. 141. AIR 1965 Punj 212 (DB).

——S. 2 — Validated provisions made effective retrospectively — Validating enactment cannot be held to be void on this account. See Constitution of India, Art. 245. AIR 1965 Punj 212 (DB).

PUNJAB DISTILLERY RULES (1932)

RULE 9.36

——R. 9.36 — Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), Ss. 80 (2), 36 and 21—Validity of S. 80 (2) and last part of R. 9.36 — Both provisions are not ultra vires. See Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), S. 80 (2). ILR (1965) 1 Punj 189.

RULE 37

——R. 37 — Powers under — Commissioner of Excise and Taxation has power to direct distillery to cover its uncovered storage tank and impose penalty for disobedience thereof — But penalty imposed cannot be recovered as arrears of land revenue. See Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), S. 36 (c). 1964 Cur LJ 519 (Punj).

PUNJAB DISTRICT BOARDS ACT (CENTRAL ACT 20 OF 1883)

SECTION 5

——S. 5 — Tax on profession whether in respect of any property within S. 30 (b) — A tax on profession levied under notification in respect of profits made by a person by taking on lease a large area of land and sub-letting the same to various tenants cannot be regarded to be a tax in respect of any property within the meaning of S. 30 (b). See Punjab District Boards Act (20 of 1883), S. 30 (b). (1959) 61 Punj LR 309.

SECTION 10

——Ss. 10 (3) and 30 — Legislation dealing with revenue in Social Welfare State — Subject cannot be taxed unless language clearly applies to him— Employees ordered by employer to check buses within jurisdiction of District Board — Employees residing in different district — Distrct Board cannot make them liable to pay profession tax—(Interpretation of Statutes).

Legislation dealing with revenue in a social welfare State should not be too rigidly construed against the State. At the same time, a subject cannot be taxed unless the language of the statute clearly and indubitably applies to him. A construction which would have the effect of making a person liable to pay the same tax twice in respect of the same subject-matter would not be adopted unless the words were very clear and precise to that effect. In a case of reasonable doubt the construction most beneficial to the subject is to be adopted. Still less is the language of a section to be strained in order to tax a transaction which, had the Legislature thought of it, would have been covered by appropriate words.

A profession tax was payable by every person carrying on a trade, profession, calling or employment in the area subject to the authority of the District Board, Kangra. The plaintiffs who were employees of a company were ordered to check or supervise buses on a road the major portion of which was in the Kangra district. The plaintiffs resided at Pathankot and the head office of the company was also at that place.

Held, that merely because the plaintiffs were ordered by their employer to check or supervise the various buses plying on the road within the jurisdiction of the District Board would not make them liable to be taxed by the Board.

Held further, that tax being payable on the basis of income, the place of its accrual can also be legitimately taken into account for the purpose of determining the place of assessment, unless of course the statute suggests a contrary legislative intent; and that place was obviously Pathankot. ILR (1959) Punj 2041.

SECTION 30

——S. 30 — Punjab Government Notification No. 11992/LD-58/13577-A, dated 23-4-1959 — Permission to District Board to levy tax on sleepers — 'Imported into the area' — Sleepers brought into the area in course of transportation, not liable to tax — 'Imported into the area' — Meaning of — Interpretation of Statutes — Notification — Reference to previous background. AIR 1958 SC 578, Rel. on. AIR 1965 Punj 97 (99, 100) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 3).

●——S. 30 — District Board imposing tax under S. 30 of the Punjab District Boards Act on timber carried on two specified roads — Classification of roads if rational and was supported by sound reason. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1962 Punj 350 (FB).

●——S. 30 — Validity — Section is not invalid on ground of abdication by State Legislature of its essential legislative function. See Constitution of India, Art. 246. AIR 1962 Punj 350 (FB).

●——S. 30 — Colourable legislation — Tax on goods carried over certain roads — Tax is valid under Seventh Sch., List II, Item 56 — Fact that part of tax is expended on improvement of roads does not make tax illegal. See Constitution of India, Art. 246. AIR 1962 Punj 350 (FB).

●——S. 30 — Previous sanction of State Government — All that S. 30 says is that the District Board may with the previous sanction of the State Government impose any tax and meaning obviously is that previous to the imposition of the tax there must be the State Government's sanction in existence — It cannot be said that sanction has to be obtained at two stages, first before the District Board considers the proposal and secondly, after the proposal is adopted by the District Board. Mangat Ram Roshan Lal v. Punjab State, ILR (1962) 2 Punj 118: 64 Punj LR 342: AIR 1962 Punj 350 (353) (Pt D) (Pr 7) (FB).

●——S. 30 — Powers of District Board — The District Board was fully competent to drop the proposal for a tax at one time and equally competent to reconsider the matter and impose the same or a similar tax on a subsequent occasion. Mangat Ram Roshan Lal v. Punjab State, ILR (1962) 2 Punj 118: 64 Punj LR 342: AIR 1962 Punj 350 (354) (Pt E) (Pr 8) (FB).

——S. 30 — Legislation dealing with revenue in social welfare State — Subject cannot be taxed unless language clearly applies to him — Employees ordered by employer to check buses within jurisdiction of Dist. Board—Employees residing in different district—Dist. Board cannot make them liable to pay profession tax. See Punjab District Boards Act (20 of 1883), S. 10 (3). ILR (1959) Punj 2041.

——S. 30 — Notification under, D/-16-2-1947 — Appellant taking on lease large area of land — Land sub-let to various tenants — Appellant, whether carrying on trade, profession or business.

Where the appellant took on lease a large area of land consisting of about 4,000 bighas and as he could not carry on the cultivation himself, created sub-leases in favour of various tenants and the District Board sought to levy professional tax on the appellant under notification dated 16-12-1947:

Held, that the acivitiy which the appellant was carrying on would certainly fall within the purview of the notification whether it was treated as a trade, which would include business, or a calling, which would include avocation or vocation. It might even be brought within the meaning of the word "profession" as the appellant did carry on the profession of a thekedar by systematically taking large areas of land on lease and subletting the same to various tenants or cultivators and thus reaping profits. (1959) 61 Punj LR 309.

——Ss. 30 (b) and 5—Tax on profession whether in respect of any property within S. 30 (b)—(Constitution of India, Sch. VII, List II, Entries 49 and 60).

Section 30 (b) obviously has reference to taxation on the property itself as such, and does not debar the imposition of tax on profession, trade, calling or employment which fall under a separate item. The item in List II (State List) under which taxes can be imposed on lands and buildings is 49; whereas taxes on profession, trade, calling and employment fall within Item 60. Therefore, a tax on profession levied under Notification dated 16-12-1947 in respect of profits made by a person by taking on lease a large area of land and subletting the same to various tenants cannot be regarded to be a tax in respect of any property within the meaning of S. 30 (b). (1959) 61 Punj LR 309.

SECTION 31

●——Ss. 31 and 56 — Levy imposed under S. 31 (6) of the Punjab District Boards Act by notification, dated 17th September, 1954 — Validity — Levy is tax and not fee and is invalid. See Constitution of India, Art. 265. AIR 1962 Punj 267 (FB).

——S. 31 (6) — Government of India Act (1935), S. 142-A — Profession tax — The objection that profession tax imposed by East Punjab Government by Notification No. 458-LG-49/20921, dated 9-4-1949, in pursuance of S. 31 (6), Punjab District Boards Act, was tax on income, has no validity under S. 142-A. See Government of India Act (1935), S. 142-A. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4995.

——S. 31 (6) — Notification by Government No. 458-L.G.-49/20921, dated 9th April, 1949 imposing tax on every person carrying on a trade, profession, calling or employment in the area subject to the authority of the Rohtak District Board — List of persons given in the Schedule is merely illustrative of the rule given in the notification itself that a tax at the rates given in the schedule will be levied on every person carrying on trade, profession or calling in the area subject to the authority of the Board — Person is said to carry on business or profession at a place where he actually carries on business or profession and not where he lives. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4995.

SECTION 56

●——S. 56 — Constitution of India, Art. 265 — Levy imposed under S. 31 (6) of Punjab District Boards Act by notification dated 17-9-1954 — Validity — Levy is tax and not fee and is invalid — AIR 1957 Punj 45, Overruled. See Constitution of India, Art. 265. AIR 1962 Punj 267 (FB).

PUNJAB DISTRICT BOARDS (TAX VALIDATING) ACT (27 OF 1955)

SECTION 2

——S. 2 —Validity — S. 2 of the Punjab Act purports to validate three notifications mentioned in the schedule the first of which is issued by the District Board of Karnal. Even assuming that the validating of the other two notifications in the schedule would offend the rule against ex post facto legislation contained in Art. 20 (1), the validity of the first notification cannot be impugned on that ground because the notification contains no penal provisions. The first and other two notifications are not so inextricably bound up that, if the other two are declared to continue to be invalid and not to have been validated retrospectively, the first one cannot independently survive. The impugned Act minus the other two notifications can remain unaffected and the omission of the other two notifications would not change the nature or the structure of the legislation. See Constitution of India, Art. 13. AIR 1959 Punj 318.

PUNJAB DISTURBED AREAS ACT (1 OF 1947)

See under Public Safety.

PUNJAB EDUCATIONAL SERVICE (CLASS I) RULES (1931)

RULE 7

●——R. 7 — Application of — Must be consistent with Art. 16 of the Constitution.

Rule 7 of the Punjab Educational Service (Class I) Rules, 1931, which provides for promotion by strict selection and rules out claim as of right to such promotion, has to be harmonized with Art. 16 of the Constitution and is not to be construed in such a way as to make it inconsistent or violative of that Article because the inevitable effect of that would be to strike down that rule. Brijlal v. State of Punjab, 1965 Cur LJ 232: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 423: AIR 1965 Punj 401 (405) (Pt C) (Pr 22) (FB).

PUNJAB EDUCATIONAL SERVICE (PROVINCIALISED CADRE) CLASS III RULES (1961)

RULE 2

●——Rr. 2 (d) and 2 (e) — Public servants — Equality of opportunity in matters of promotion— Validity—District Board and Municipal Board teachers taken over by Punjab Government and given same scales and grades of pay as were applicable to teachers in Government employment — Service Rules discriminating them in matters of promotion — Not violative of Art. 14 or 16. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1963 SC 913.

RULE 3

●——R. 3 — If violates Art. 14 or 16 of the Constitution — Held it is not violative of Art. 14 or 16. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1963 SC 913.

RULE 6

——R. 6 — Service of a teacher, taken over by State and he continued to hold post beyond maximum period of probation prescribed under Rules — Services terminated after giving one month's notice and stating that it was in accordance with terms of his employment — Held, order was illegal as it amounted to punishment and removal from service which was not permissible without proper enquiry — After period of probation teacher must be taken to have confirmed. See Constitution of India, Art. 311. (1965) 67 Punj LR 312: 1965 Cur LJ 149: AIR 1966 Punj 468 (DB).

PUNJAB EDUCATION CODE

——Constitution of India, Art. 226 — Writ against educational institution — Expulsion of school-boy for alleged misconduct and refusal to allow him to appear at annual examination — Principles of natural justice — Applicability — Order of expulsion passed without giving opportunity of hearing — Order quashed. See Constitution of India, Arts. 226 and 32. AIR 1965 Punj 507 (DB).

PUNJAB EMPLOYEES' STATE INSURANCE COURT RULES (1949)

RULE 17

——R. 17 — Rule is intra vires — Limitation for recovery of employees' contribution.

Rule 17 of the Punjab Employees' Insurance Courts Rules, 1949, is intra vires. AIR 1963 Punj 422. Foll.

The period of limitation for recovery of employees' contribution starts from the date the claim became due. Section 39 (3) lays down that a week shall be the unit in respect of which all contributions shall be payable under the Act. Where under Reg. 31 of the Employees' State Insurance (General) Regulations, 1950, the Corporation's claim became due within 21 days of the last day of the wage period in which contribution fell due, such a claim for a period of one year and 28 days only is within limitation. When the petition was instituted on 16th May, 1961, and the employee contribution has been claimed on the amount of wages paid for the period from 1st October, 1958 to 30th June, 1960, the claim is in time for the period from 18th April, 1960 to 30th June, 1960 only. (1963-64) 25 FJR 203: (1964) 1 Lab LJ 669: AIR 1963 Punj 426 (427) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——R. 17 (1), Proviso — Permanent partial disablement of employee — Right of State Insurance Corporation to recover damages from employer in respect of — Cause of action and starting point — Premature application by Corporation dismissed — Second application — Delay in filing same — Condonation of — 'Sufficient reasons for not making the application — Interpretation of — Held that there were no sufficient reasons shown for condoning delay. See Employees' State Insurance Act (1948), S. 66. AIR 1962 Punj 308 (DB).

PUNJAB EMPLOYEES' STATE INSURANCE RULES (1951)

RULE 17

——R. 17 — Employees State Insurance Act (1948), Ss. 75, 80, 82 and 96 — Vires — Rule 17 is not inconsistent with the Act, and is intra vires. See Employees' State Insurance Act (1948), S. 75. AIR 1963 Punj 422 (DB).

PUNJAB ENTERTAINMENTS DUTY ACT (16 OF 1955)

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3 (1), 13, 15 and 17 — Validity of — Object of Act — Provisions under R. 17 carry out the object — Rule 17 is intra vires S. 20 (1) — Power to make best judgment assessment under R. 17 on evasion of duty — Power is inherent in general power of assessment and no separate provision therefor is necessary — Alternative remedy of prosecution for evasion of duty, under S. 15 — Remedy no bar for proceeding under R. 17. See Punjab Entertainments Duty Act (16 of 1955), S. 20 (1). ILR (1965) 1 Punj 567.

SECTION 12

——S. 12 — Punjab Entertainments Duty Rules (1956), Rules 17, 36 and 38 — Revision under S. 12 against best judgment assessment order under Rule 17 — Revision decided by Joint Commissioner and not by Commissioner — Joint Commissioner empowered by State Government by notification under Sec. 12, to decide revision — Rr. 36 and 38 though refer to Commissioner as authority competent to decide revision, rules cannot undo effect of enacted provision. ILR (1965) 1 Punj 567.

——Ss. 12 and 20 (1) — Punjab Entertainments Duty Rules (1956), R. 36 (3) (a) — Validity — Rule ultra vires being beyond the statutory power granted under S. 20(1)—Not warranted by provisions of S. 12. See Punjab Entertainments Duty Rules (1956), R. 36 (3) (a). AIR 1963 Punj 116.

SECTION 13

——Ss. 13, 15, 17, 3 and 20 — Punjab Entertainments Duty Rules (1956), R. 17 — Validity of — Object of Act — Provisions under R. 17 carry out the object —R. 17 is intra vires S. 20 (1) — Power to make best judgment assessment under R. 17 on evasion of duty — Power is inherent in general power of assessment and no separate provision therefor is necessary — Alternative remedy of prosecution for evasion of duty, under S. 15 — Remedy no bar for proceeding under R. 17. ILR (1965) 1 Punj 567.

SECTION 15

——Ss. 15, 3, 13, 17 and 20 — Punjab Entertainments Duty Rules (1956), R. 17 — Validity of — Object of Act — Provisions under R. 17 carry out the object — R. 17 is intra vires S. 20 (1)—Power to make best judgment assessment under R. 17 on evasion of duty — Power is inherent in general power of assessment and no separate provision therefor is necessary — Alternative remedy of prosecution for evasion of duty, under S. 15 — Remedy no bar for proceeding under R. 17. ILR (1965) 1 Punj 567.

SECTION 17

——Ss. 17, 3, 15, 13, 17 and 20—Punjab Entertainments Duty Rules (1956), R. 17 — Validity of — Object of Act — Provisions under R. 17 carry out the object — R. 17 is intra vires S. 20 (1)—Power to make best judgment assessment under R. 17 on evasion of duty — Power is inherent in general power of assessment and no separate provision therefor is necessary — Alternative remedy of prosecution for evasion of duty, under S. 15 — Remedy no bar for proceeding under R. 17. ILR (1965) 1 Punj 567.

——

SECTION 20

——Ss. 20 (1), 15, 3 (1), 13, 17—Punjab Entertainments Duty Rules (1956), R. 17 — Validity of — Object of Act — Provisions under R. 17 carry out the object — R. 17 is intra vires S. 20 (1)—Power to make best judgment assessment under R. 17 on evasion of duty — Power is inherent in general power of assessment and no separate provision therefor is necessary — Alternative remedy of prosecution for evasion of duty, under S. 15 — Remedy no bar for proceeding under R. 17. ILR (1965) 1 Punj 567.

——S. 20 (1) — Punjab Entertainments Duty Act (1956), Rule 36 (3) (a) — Validity — Rule ultra vires being beyond the statutory power granted under S. 20 (1) — Not warranted by provisions of S. 12. See Punjab Entertainments Duty Act (1956), Rule 36 (3) (a). AIR 1963 Punj 116.

PUNJAB ENTERTAINMENTS DUTY RULES (1956)

RULE 17

——R. 17 — Provisions under R. 17 carry out the object — R. 17 is intra vires S. 20 (1) — Power to make best judgment assessment under R. 17 on evasion of duty — Power is inherent in general power of assessment and no separate provision therefor is necessary — Alternative remedy of prosecution for evasion of duty, under S. 15 — Remedy no bar for proceeding under R. 17. See Punjab Entertainments Duty Act (16 of 1955), S. 20 (1). ILR (1965) 1 Punj 567.

——Rr. 17, 36 and 38 — Revision under S. 12 against best judgment assessment order under R. 17 — Revision decided by Joint Commissioner and not by Commissioner — Joint Commissioner empowered by State Government by notification under S. 12 to decide revision — Rr. 36 and 38 though refer to Commissioner as authority competent to decide revision, rules cannot undo effect of enacted provision. See Punjab Entertainments Duty Act (16 of 1955), S. 12. ILR (1965) 1 Punj 567.

RULE 36

——R. 36 (3) (a) — Validity — Rule ultra vires being beyond the statutory power granted under S. 20 (1) — Nor warranted by provisions of S. 12 — Punjab Entertainments Duty Act (16 of 1955), S. 20 (1) and S. 12.

No rules can be made, under the rule-making power granted by a statute, by which a right conferred by the statute itself can be abridged or restricted. Rule 36 (3) (a), in that it requires the deposit of entire amount of duty levied to be made before a revision petition is entertained, is ultra vires the provisions respecting rule-making contained in Sec. 20 (1) of the Act. Sec. 12 or the Act which provides the only remedy against either assessment or imposition of duty, does not contain any provision under which such a rule could be sustained. The rule restricts and makes burdensome the right to revision conferred on a party by S. 12 of the Statute. AIR 1954 SC 403 & (1958) 60 Punj LR 205, Rel. on; (1898) 2 QB 340 and (1937) AC 139, Applied. 64 Punj LR 596: ILR (1962) 2 Punj 495: AIR 1963 Punj 116 (117, 118) (Prs 5, 6, 7).

PUNJAB ENTERTAINMENTS TAX (CINEMATOGRAPH SHOWS) ACT (8 OF 1954)

SECTION 6

——S. 6 — Power to grant exemption — Its effect on power to levy tax.

The power to grant exemption does not affect the power to levy a tax and there is nothing in Sec. 6 (2) which invalidates the rest of the Act nor the notification whereby the petitioners have been held liable to pay tax. 58 Punj LR 226: AIR 1956 Punj 203 (204) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

PUNJAB EXCISE ACT (1 OF 1914)

SECTION 1

——S. 1 — Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g) — Excise Act is valid. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1956 Punj 97 (DB).

[Reversed on facts in AIR 1959 SC 65.]

SECTION 3

●——Ss. 3 (14) and 58 — Notification under — Notification and Rules are saved from operation of Art. 301 of the Constitution. See Constitution of India, Art. 301. 1965 Pun LR (Supp) 183: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 775: AIR 1966 Punj 4 (FB).

●——S. 3 (14) (as in force in Delhi) — Notification under, not specifying date of enforcement — Second notification specifying date of enforcement the first notification — Mistake in publication of second notification — Effect.

A notification declaring all spirituous preparations with content of more than 20 per cent. proof alcohol to be liquor for the purposes of the Act was issued under Sec. 3 (14) on 7th December, 1961. Apparently it came into force, as nothing else was said in it, on the date of its own publication. A second notification of 13th December, 1961, was issued saying that the notification of 7th December, 1961, shall come into force with effect from 13th December, 1961. This second notification was published in Gazette, dated 9th December, 1961. But the Gazette came to be dated 9th Dec., 1961 instead of 13th Dec., 1961, due to genuine printing mistake. The Delhi Intoxicating Spirituous Preparations, Import, Export, Transport, Possession and Sale Rules (1952) (as amended upto 13th December, 1961) framed under S. 58 of the Act were promulgated on 13th December, 1961.

Held, the printing mistake did not invalidate either the second notification or the first notification and, in any case, not the first notification. Pritpal Singh v. Chief Commr. of Delhi, 1965 Pun LR (Supp) 183: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 775: AIR 1966 Punj 4 (8) (Pt A) (Pr 9) (FB).

●——S. 3 (14) — 'Liquor' — Definition of — Last part of definition is positive enactment conferring power.

Interpretation clauses are not to be construed as positive enactments; there is, however, nothing to prevent the declaration of particular meaning to a word in an interpretation clause also containing in its positive enactment. A definition may be in part declaratory of specific and stated meaning and in the remaining part may be a positive enactment conferring power.

Held, that the last part of S. 3 (14) of the Punjab Excise Act is a positive enactment conferring power on the Chief Commissioner to declare any substance to be liquor for the purposes of the Act. Pritpal Singh v. Chief Commr. of Delhi, 1965 Pun LR (Supp) 183: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 775: AIR 1966 Punj 4 (9) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (FB).

●——S. 3 (14) — Notification under — Notification declaring spirituous preparations with 20 per cent proof alcoholic content to be liquor — Medicinal preparations that are fatal to health cannot be considered as intoxicants — Validity of notification challenged on ground that it included even such non-intoxicants — Held, that listing preparations which are or are not capable of being consumed as ordinary alcoholic beverages being impractical, notification was neither vague nor ultra vires S. 3 (14). Pritpal Singh v. Chief Commr. of Delhi, 1965 Pun LR (Supp) 183: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 775: AIR 1966 Punj 4 (10) (Pt C) (Pr 11) (FB).

●——Ss. 3 (14) and 58 — Notification under S. 3 (14) — Validity — Delhi Intoxicating Spirituous Preparations, Import, Export, Transport, Possession and Sale Rules (1952) (as amended upto 13-12-1961) — Validity — Notification and Rules are consistent with object of Act and do not impose unreasonable restrictions on trade, medical practitioners or general public — Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g). Pritpal Singh v. Chief Commr. of Delhi, 1965 Pun LR (Supp) 183: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 775: AIR 1966 Punj 4 (13) (Pt I) (Pr 15) (FB).

——Ss. 3 (9), 58 and 60 — Deficiency in price on re-sale of excise shop is excise revenue — It can be recovered under S. 60.

Under R. 21 of Order 34, Rules framed under S. 58 of the Punjab Excise Act a defaulting auction purchaser of a liquor shop is liable for the deficiency in price resulting from the re-sale of a shop. This liability to pay for the short fall comes within the definition of 'excise revenue' in Sec. 3 (9) of the Act and its recovery can be made by means of distress and sale under Sec. 60 of the Act. (1952) 53 Pun LR 424: AIR 1953 Punj 274 (278) (Pt C) (Pr 21).

——S. 3 (14) — Validity — (Constitution of India, Art. 13).

The definition of liquor in Sec. 3 (14) does not contravene the provisions of Art. 13 of the Constitution. 1951 SCR 682, Foll. 1953 Cr LJ 549: 55 Punj LR 187: ILR (1953) Punj 618: AIR 1953 Punj 77 (78) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (DB).

——S. 3 (14) — Validity — Constitution of India, Art. 245.

In the Punjab Excise Act the rules are issued under the provisions of Ss. 5, 6, 16, 17, 18, 24 and 58. These sections enable the Government to issue the rules and these rules have been issued by the State Government. No question of delegated legislation arises in this case. 1953 Cri LJ 549: 55 Pun LR 187: ILR (1953) Punj 618: AIR 1953 Punj 77 (DB).

SECTION 5

●——S. 5 — Delhi Intoxicating Spirituous Preparations, Import, Export, Transport, Possession and Sale Rules (1952) (as amended upto 13-12-1961), Rr. 3, 3-A, 12 and 13 — Exercise of power under S. 5—Rules under Act leaving limitation on sale to be governed by prescription of registered medical practitioner — Such provision does not militate against provision of S. 5. Pritpal Singh v. Chief Commr. of Delhi, 1965 Pun LR (Supp) 183: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 775: AIR 1966 Punj 4 (12) (Pt F) (Pr 13) (FB).

——S. 5 — Notifications issued under Sec. 5 permitting to keep one bottle of Punjab distilled liquor or of foreign liquor imported or made in India. Accused found in possession of one bottle of liquor — Liquor proved different from Punjab distillery spirits — Burden to establish that liquor was illicit does not shift to accused on that count —Burden lies entirely on prosecution. 1965 Cur LJ 577: (1965) 67 Punj LR 1044.

——Ss. 5, 6, 16, 17, 18 and 24 — Validity — Constitution of India, Article 245 — In the Punjab Excise Act the rules are issued under the provisions of Ss. 5, 6, 16, 17, 18, 24 and 58. These sections enable the State Government to issue the rules and these rules have been issued by the State Government. No question of delegated legislation arises in this case. 1953 Cri LJ 549: AIR 1953 Punj 77 (DB).

SECTION 6

——S. 6 — Validity of Punjab Intoxicating Spirituous Preparations, Import, Export, Transport, Possession and Sale Rules (1952) — Constitution of India, Article 245 — In the Punjab Excise Act the rules are issued under the provisions of Sections 5, 6, 16, 17, 18, 24 and 58 of the Act. These sections enable the State Government to issue the rules and these rules have been issued by the State Government. No question of delegated legislation arises in this case. AIR 1953 Punj 77 (DB).

SECTION 8

——Ss. 8 (2), 21 (b) — Scope of State Government's superintendence power — Notice of determination of licence by excise authority—Abeyance or revival of notice when matters of policy fall within scope of superintendence — Independent judgment of authorities is not required. 1965 Cus LJ 3: 67 Punj LR 144: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 358: AIR 1965 Punj 217 (219) (Pt D) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Ss. 8, 9, 14, 15-A, 36, 40, 41, 44, 58 — Punjab Liquor Licence Rules (1956), R. 36 — Auction sale of excise licence — Highest bid accepted by Collector and approved by Excise and Taxation Commissioner — Deposit of one-sixth license fee as required by rules — Highest bidder acquires legal status of licensee even though no formal licence is granted — Re-auction by Government without notice to such licensee and without giving any reasons — Legality — Action of State Government if can be justified under Ss. 8, 36 or 41.

Held, on facts, (i) that having regard to the provisions of the Act and the Rules thereunder the Respondent had acquired the legal status of grantee of a licence even though no formal instrument of licence was prepared and granted to him and he could invoke his rights and was subject to the obligations under the Act and was within the protection of the statute. After the proposal had been accepted by the Financial Commissioner and the requisite fee deposited by the licensee, he was entitled to receive the licence as a matter of routine. It cannot be contended on the basis of explanation to S. 44 that the holder of a licence must necessarily be understood as the possessor of the certificate or licence and not the person in whose favour the licence had been ordered to be granted by the highest authority though the document had not been issued so far. (ii) that the impugned act of re-auctioning could not be justified with reference to Sec. 41 the provisions of which neither applied nor were relied upon. Before an action for 'withdrawal' of licence is taken under S. 41, the Collector has to weigh the appropriateness of, the reason or the motive, justifying the withdrawal, and such a ground for action has to be de hors the matters specified under Sec. 36. No material had been placed upon the record indicating the circumstances of the so-called withdrawal, if there had been one, on the part of the authority granting the licences. 1960 MPLJ 323, Dist. (iii) that the action of the State Government in re-auctioning the licences could not be supported on the basis of Sec. 8 of the Act as the State Government did not purport to exercise any power under S. 8. Having regard to the commonly accepted meaning of the word 'control', and also in the background of the context, it cannot connote a command or a direction justifying interference by the State Government. Sec. 8, however liberally construed, cannot lend itself to the construction that the State Government is given an absolute and unfettered discretion. AIR 1954 SC 592 and AIR 1954 SC 224 and 63 Pun LR 580 and 62 Pun LR 520, Rel. on; AIR 1956 All 99, Dissented from. ILR (1963) 1 Punj 148: AIR 1963 Punj 76 (80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 11, 13, 16, 17, 22, 23, 27) (DB).

——S. 8 — Cancellation of licence validly sold — Jurisdiction of State Government.

Section 8 does not confer any jurisdiction on the State Government, after the licence has been validly sold, to cancel the same. It is only that power of the Financial Commissioner which is subject to the control of the State Government which the Financial Commissioner possesses under the Act. The Financial Commissioner has no power of revision qua the confirmation of the sale of licences under the Act except in the case of a sale by an officer subordinate to the Collector where that sale is required to be confirmed by the Collector, or, in other words, where the sale is under Cl. (18) of Rule 36. Where the sale is by the Collector, the confirmation or approval has to be by the Financial Commissioner, but there is no provision for revision in such a case. (1962) 64 Punj LR 719.

——S. 8 — Auction of liquor shops — Condition that bids are subject to Chief Commissioner's sanction — Contract, when complete.

Where one of the conditions of auction sale of liquor shops is that all bids are subject to the sanction of the Chief Commissioner, the auction sale is not complete until the bid is finally approved by the Chief Commissioner. If, therefore, the bid is withdrawn before the Chief Commissioner gives his assent, there is no completed contract between the parties. 53 PLR 424: AIR 1953 Punj 274 (277, 278) (Pt B) (Prs 14, 18).

SECTION 9

——S. 9 — Licence granted by Financial Commissioner — Notification delegating all powers of Financial Commissioner to Excise and Taxation Commissioner — Notice cancelling licence by latter held valid. See Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), S. 39. AIR 1965 Punj 217 (DB).

——Ss. 9, 8, 14, 15-A, 36, 40, 41, 44, 58 — Punjab Liquor Licence Rules (1956), Rule 36 — Auction sale of excise licence — Highest bid accepted by Collector and approved by Excise and Taxation Commissioner — Deposit of one sixth licence fee as required by rules — Highest bidder acquires legal status of licensee even though no formal licence is granted — Reauction by Government without notice to such licensee and without giving any reasons — Legality — Action of State Government is not justified under Ss. 8, 36 or 41. See Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), S. 8. AIR 1963 Punj 76 (DB).

SECTION 14

——Ss. 14, 8, 9, 15-A, 36, 40, 41, 44, 58 — Punjab Liquor Licence Rules (1956), R. 36 — Auction sale of excise licence — Highest bid accepted by Collector and approved by Excise and Taxation Commissioner — Deposit of one-sixth licence fee as required by rules — Highest bidder acquires legal status of licensee even though no formal licence is granted — Reauction by Government without notice to such licensee and without giving any reasons — Legality — Action of State Government is not justified under Ss. 8, 36 or 41. See Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), S. 8. AIR 1963 Punj 76 (DB).

SECTION 15-A

——Ss. 15-A, 8, 9, 14, 36, 40, 41, 44, 58 — Punjab Liquor Licence Rules (1956), R. 36—Auction sale of excise licence — Highest bid accepted by Collector and approved by Excise and Taxation Commissioner — Deposit of one-sixth licence fee as required by rules — Highest bidder acquires legal status of licensee even though no formal licence is granted — Reauction by Government without notice to such licensee and without giving any reasons — Legality — Action of State Government is not justified under Ss. 8, 36 or 41. See Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), S. 8. AIR 1963 Punj 76 (DB).

SECTION 16

——S. 16 — Validity of Punjab Intoxicating Spirituous Preparations Import, Export, Transport, Possession and Sale Rules (1952) — Constitution of India, Art. 245 — In the Punjab Excise Act the rules are issued under the provisions of Ss. 5, 6, 16, 17, 18, 24 and 58. These sections enable the State Government to issue the rules and these rules have been issued by the State Government. No question of delegated legislation arises in this case. AIR 1953 Punj 77 (DB).

SECTION 17

——S. 17 — Validity of Punjab Intoxicating Spirituous Preparations Import, Export, Transport, Possession and Sale Rules (1952) — Constitution of India, Art. 245 — In the Punjab Excise Act the rules are issued under the provisions of Ss. 5, 6, 16, 17, 18, 24 and 58. These sections enable the State Government to issue the rules and these rules have been issued by the State Government. No question of delegated legislation arises in this case. AIR 1953 Punj 77 (DB).

SECTION 18

——S. 18, Proviso I — Delhi Intoxicating Spirituous Preparations, Import, Export, Transport, Possession and Sale Rules (1952) (as amended upto 13-12-1961) — Notification under Proviso I not issued — Issuance of notification is discretionary and non-issuance does not render Rules ultra vires of the section. Pritpal Singh v. Chief Commr. of Delhi, 1965 Pun LR (Supp) 183: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 775: AIR 1966 Punj 4 (12) (Pt G) (Pr 13) (FB).

——S. 18 — Validity of Punjab Intoxicating Spirituous Preparations Import, Export, Transport, Possession and Sale Rules (1952) — Constitution of India, Art. 245 — In the Punjab Excise Act the rules are issued under the provisions of Ss. 5, 6, 16, 17, 18, 24 and 58. These sections enable the State Government to issue the rules and these rules have been issued by the State Government. No question of delegated legislation arises in this case. (1953) Cr LJ 549: AIR 1953 Punj 77 (DB).

[Reversed on facts in AIR 1959 SC 65.]

SECTION 21

——S. 21 (b) —Notice of determination of licence by excise authority — Abeyance or revival of notice when matters of policy fall within scope of superintendence — Independent judgment of authorities is not required. See Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), S. 8 (2). AIR 1965 Punj 217 (DB).

——S. 21 (b) — Distillery licence containing condition for determining licence by Excise authorities on notice — Notice issued under S. 21 (b) and under licence condition — Notice kept in abeyance for some years — Its subsequent revival with shorter notice period is illegal — Principle of Ss. 111 (h) and 113 of T. P. Act is applicable. 1965 Cur LJ 3: 67 Punj LR 144: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 358: AIR 1965 Punj 217 (218) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 10) (DB).

——Ss. 21, 80 (2), 36 — Punjab Distillery Rules (1932), R. 9.36 — Validity of S. 80 (2) and last part of R. 9.36 — Both provisions are not ultra vires. See Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), S. 80 (2) ILR (1965) 1 Punj 189.

SECTION 24

——S. 24 — Possession of intoxicant in transit by person on behalf of another, for purposes of transit, whether illegal.

It is a matter of common occurrence that intoxicants are in possession of various persons in the course of transit from one place to another, e. g., cartmen, ship-owners, coolies and so forth. Such persons cannot, of course, be said to be persons in possession within Sec. 24 of the Act. It is therefore reasonable to hold that the person in possession contemplated by that provision is one who is in possession of the intoxicant on his own behalf, and not one who is in temporary custody or charge of the same on behalf of another in the course, and for purposes of transit. What is such temporary custody or charge depends upon the facts and circumstances of each case, so that what is temporary custody or charge on behalf of another person initially may be converted into illegal possession at a subsequent stage. This may, for instance, take place where a person initially in change of the intoxicant on behalf of another person in course, and for the purpose, of transit detains the consignment longer than necessary for transmission or for a purpose uncomnected with the transmission. 9 Cal 223, Relied on.

Possession of intoxicant in transit by a person not on his behalf but for the purposes of transit to its destination for ten days was held not unreasonable, considering the tardy nature of communication and the long distance to be covered. The possession did not therefore become illegal merely because of the long period. 1952 Cri LJ 1350: AIR 1952 Him Pra 61 (62) (Prs 5, 6).

——S. 24 (4) — Notification introducing prohibition in social clubs — Validity. It does not constitute a direct interference with the liberty of the subject or violate the fundamental rights guaranteed by Art. 19. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f) (g) and (6). AIR 1957 Punj 20 (DB).

——S. 24 — Validity of Punjab Intoxicating Spirituous Preparations Import, Export, Transport, Possession and Sale Rules (1952) — Constitution of India, Art. 245 — In the Punjab Excise Act the rules are issued under the provisions of Ss. 5, 6, 16, 17, 18, 24 and 58. These sections enable the State Government to issue the rules and these rules have been issued by the State Government. No question of delegated legislation arises in this case. 1963 Cr LJ 549: AIR 1953 Punj 77 (79) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

SECTION 25

——S. 25 — Guilty knowledge — Necessity for conviction under S. 61 (1) (a) — The offence punishable under Sec. 61 (1) (a) clearly relates back to the provisions of S. 25 and therefore for anybody to be convicted under S. 61 (1) (a) there must be two ingredients, namely the possession of illicit liquor and the knowledge that for one of the reasons mentioned in S. 25 the liquor is illicit. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 342. AIR 1957 Punj 75 (DB).

SECTION 26

——Ss. 26 and 2 (18) — 'Sale' — Supply of liquor by club to its members.

The supply of intoxicating liquor by a club to its members, as a mere incident of the general purposes of the club, constitutes a sale within the meaning of S. 26. This is clear from the fact that the expression "sale" as defined in Sec. 2 (18) includes any transfer otherwise than by way of gift. 58 Punj LR 426: ILR (1957) Punj 166: AIR 1957 Punj 20 (22) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——S. 26 — Constitution of India, Art. 47 — Right to sell liquor and Government control — None has a legal right to sell liquor. From the earliest times it has been found expedient to control the use and traffic in liquor and this control embraces both regulatory and prohibitory measures. This doctrine has been recognised by the Directive principles of State policy in Art. 47. (Excise Law — Liqour). AIR 1956 Punj 97 (DB).

[Reversed on facts in AIR 1959 SC 65.]

——S. 26 — Excise Law — Liquor — Issue of licence to sell liquor is a matter of grace — (Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g)).

A licence to vend liquor is a merely personal and a temporary permit or privilege to be enjoyed as long as its terms are complied with. It follows therefore, that the issue of a licence is a matter of grace granted by the Government and is not a matter of right. Hence, no person can demand such a license as of right and cannot carry on the trade under the law of the land without first obtaining the required approval of the licensing authority. ILR (1956) Punj 390: AIR 1956 Punj 97 (98, 99) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

[Reversed on facts in AIR 1959 SC 65.]

——S. 26 — Delhi Excise Rules, R. 5 (17) — Words 'proved respectability' in R. 5 (17) do not contemplate any enquiry — (Words and Phrases).

The Word 'proved' in R. 5 (17) is not used to show that it raises a justiciable issue, but in the sense that the licensing authority is satisfied of the applicant's respectability and that satisfaction need not necessarily be the result of any enquiry or evidence produced by the parties. Thus the word 'proved' in this Rule does not contemplate any kind of enquiry. ILR (1956) Punj 390: AIR 1956 Punj 97 (100) (Pt H) (Pr 10) (DB).

[Reversed on facts in AIR 1959 SC 65.]

——S. 26 — Delhi Excise Rules, R. 5 (1) — Licence to vend liquor — No enquiry by authority granting licence is required.

Taking into consideration the nature of trade involved and the Delhi Excise Rules framed under the Punjab Excise Act, the enquiry by the authority granting a licence is not required. The matters involved do not reveal a justiciable issue. No judicial or quasi-judicial duty is imposed on the Chief Commissioner by the Excise Act or by the rules framed under it. The rules do not prescribe any steps which must be taken to decide the matters. The object of the rules is to get information with a view to decide whether a licence should be issued or not and, if so, to whom. The object of the collection of information is not to decide any issues. 1948 AC 87, Rel. on. AIR 1955 Pat 345, Disting. ILR (1956) Punj 390: AIR 1956 Punj 97 (100) (Pt I) (Pr 10).

[Reversed on facts in AIR 1959 SC 65.]

SECTION 32

——Ss. 32, 34, 58 and 59 — Rules under S. 58 cannot be varied by those framed under Ss. 32 and 34 — Conditions of sale announced at auction inconsistent with those framed under S. 58—Validity — Auction purchaser is not estopped from challenging their validity — Evidence Act (1872), S. 115.

Rules made by the Chief Commissioner under Sections 32 and 34 of Punjab Excise Act cannot vary those made by the Provincial Government under Section 58 of the Act.

The rule-making power for purposes of carrying out the auction of Excise shops is contained in S. 58 of the Punjab Excise Act and this power is exercisable by the Provincial Governments. Sections 34 and 59 deal with the power of the Financial Commissioner in the Punjab and Chief Commissioner in Delhi but these sections do not concern the power of making rules for auction. The two powers are exercised by two different authorities though it may be that in Delhi it is the Chief Commissioner who may have combined in him the powers of the Provincial Government and the Financial Commissioner. Besides the rules made have to be notified in the official Gazette.

Where the modified conditions of sale announced at the time of sale are inconsistent with the rules contained in 5.34, Rules framed under S. 58 of the Act and were not notified in the official Gazette, they cannot have the force of statutory rules and will not be binding on the auction-purchaser and he would not be estopped from challenging the legality of those conditions in spite of his making a bid knowing that they were different from those contained in R. 34 of the Rules. The reason is that there cannot be an estoppel against statute. If rules made under a statute or byelaws framed under the rules are in excess of the provisions of the statute or are inconsistent with such provisions, then these rules or bye-laws must be regarded as ultra vires of the statute and they cannot be given effect to. AIR 1934 Cal 537, ILR 1947 Mad 366, Rel. on. ('52) 53 Pun LR 424: AIR 1953 Punj 274 (277, 279) (Pt A) (Prs 10, 12, 22).

SECTION 34

——Ss. 34, 32, 58 and 59 — Rules under S. 58 cannot be varied by those framed under Ss. 32 and 34 — Conditions of sale announced at auction inconsistent with those framed under S. 58 — Validity — Auction-purchaser is not estopped from challenging their validity — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 115). See Punjab Excise Act (1914), S. 32. AIR 1953 Punj 274.

SECTION 35

——S. 35 — Punjab Liquor Licence Rules (1956), Rr. 36-B, 36-A — R. 36-G taking away in fact and in substance power of grant vested in Collector under S. 35 — Rr. 36-A and 36-B being integral, both are ultra vires.

S. 35 indicates that the grant of country liquor vend licence has to be made by the Collector subject to rules made by the Financial Commissioner. Therefore, any rule made by the Financial Commissioner cannot derogate in any manner the statutory power vested in the Collector in the matter to grant of licences. The power to grant licences vests in the Collector and he alone can exercise it. The rules can only regulate the manner in which and the circumstances under which it can be exercised.

Sending of the applications for licences to the Deputy Commissioner of the district concerned their scrutiny by him and their transmission to Government by him with his recommendations under Rule 36-B virtually put at naught the discretion vested in the Collector by the Act in the matter of grant of country liquor vend licences. The matter of grant, though technically left with the Collector, is, in fact and in substance, taken away from him. Rule 36-B, therefore, is ultra vires S. 35. Rule 36-A will also go along with it because both the rules are an integral part of each other. ILR (1965) 1 Punj 57: AIR 1965 Punj 284 (288) (Pt A) (Pr 13) (DB).

——S. 35 — Allotments of country liquor vends — District Excise and Taxation Officer vested with authority to grant allotments — Officer not acting independently but on directions of higher authorities in making allotments — Allotments are not in accordance with law.

If any authority has been vested with the power to grant a licence, it is that authority which must exercise that power, and if power is exercised by some other authority, the exercise of that power will be wholly void: AIR 1952 SC 16, Foll.

Where the allotments of country liquor vends could only be made by the District Excise and Taxation Officer who was the competent authority under the Act and that authority had not exercised its independent mind in the matter but had made the allotments in accordance with the directions issued to it by the higher authorities, the grant of country liquor vend licences was not in accordance with law. ILR (1964) 1 Punj 57: AIR 1965 Punj 284 (290) (Pt B) (Pr 15) (DB).

——S. 35 — Restriction on sale of liquor — Discretion of executive authority to grant or refuse licence — How to be exercised stated — Discrimination in issuing licences — Held on facts that there was no warrant for unjust discrimination between these two sets of associations and the order refusing to grant a licence to petitioner contravened Art. 14 and must, therefore, be deemed to be void and of no effect. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (6). AIR 1957 Punj 20 (DB).

SECTION 36

——Ss. 36, 21 and 80 (2)—Punjab Distillery Rules (1932), R. 9.36 — Validity of S. 80 (2) and last part of R. 9.36 — Both provisions are not ultra vires. See Punjab Excise Act (1914), S. 80 (2). ILR (1965) 1 Punj 189.

——Ss. 36 (c) and 80 (2) — Notice by Excise authorities to petitioner (distillery company) to carry out certain directions — Date fixed for giving company personal hearing — Company praying for change of date twice which was granted — Company failing to present case on those dates — It cannot be said that no sufficient opportunity to be heard was given to company—Order against company cannot be quashed on that ground. 1964 Cur LJ 519 (Punj).

——Ss. 36 (c), 80 (2) — Punjab Distillery Rules (1922), R. 37 — Powers under — Commissioner of Excise and Taxation has power to direct Distillery to cover its uncovered storage tank and impose penalty for disobedience thereof — But Penalty imposed cannot be recovered as arrears of land revenue.

Rule 37 clearly contemplates that the gur, molasses or mahua store, which has to be maintained by the distillery, has to be approved by the Financial Commissioner. In view of the above rule the Excise and Taxation Commissioner, who was vested with the power of Financial Commissioner, could issue a direction for covering the uncovered molasses storage tank. As there was non-compliance with such a direction, the Commissioner could cancel or suspend the licence of the petitioner by virtue of the powers vested in him under Cl. (c) of S. 36 of the Act. Instead of cancelling or suspending the licence, the Commissioner was entitled to impose the penalty by virtue of powers under S. 80 (2). Therefore, the order of the Commissioner, imposing the penalty upon the petitioner company under S. 36 (c) read with S. 80 (2) should be deemed to be in accordance with law.

But proceedings taken to recover the amount of penalty as arrears of land revenue is contrary to provisions of Ss. 36 (c) and 80 (2) and contrary to operative part of the order. The fact that the licence of the petitioner has since been cancelled for another default cannot alter the legal position contemplated by S. 80 (2) of the Act and entitle authorities to recover the penalty as arrears of land revenue. 1964 Cur LJ 519 (Punj).

——S. 36 — Licence — When revocable — Excise licence and bare licence — Distinction between — Licence granted under statutory provision — Right of revocation or cancellation by Government to be confined within statutory limits and not de hors statute. See Easements Act (1882), S. 60. AIR 1963 Punj 76 (DB).

——Ss. 36, 8, 9, 14, 15-A, 40, 41, 44, 58 — Punjab Liquor Licence Rules (1956), R. 36—Auction sale of excise licence — Highest bid accepted by Collector and approved by Excise and Taxation Commissioner — Deposit of one-sixth licence fee as required by rules — Highest bidder acquires legal status of licensee even though no formal licence is granted—Reauction by Government without notice to such licensee and without giving any reasons — Legality — Action of State Government cannot be justified under Ss. 8, 36 or 41. See Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), S. 8. AIR 1963 Punj 76 (DB).

SECTION 39

——Ss. 39, 9 — Licence granted by Financial Commissioner — Notification delegating all powers of Financial Commissioner to Excise and Taxation Commissioner — Notice cancelling licence by latter held valid. AIR 1963 SC 1503, Rel. on. 1965 Cur LJ 3: 67 Punj LR 144: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 358: AIR 1965 Punj 217 (219) (Pt B) (Pr 12) (DB).

SECTION 40

——S. 40 — Notice to Government — Construction of — Notice to be construed reasonably and not to be interpreted pedantically — Substantial information of claim against Government should be conveyed — Held part of claim was barred under S. 40 of the Punjab Excise Act and whole suit was barred by S. 80, Civil P. C., as there was non-compliance with requisites of S. 80. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 80. AIR 1963 SC 424.

——Ss. 40, 41, 8, 9, 14, 15-A, 36, 44, 58 — Punjab Liquor Licence Rules (1956), R. 36—Auction sale of excise licence — Highest bid accepted by Collector and approved by Excise and Taxation Commissioner — Deposit of one-sixth licence fee as required by rules — Highest bidder acquires legal status of licensee even though no formal licence is granted — Reauction by Government without notice to such licensee and without giving any reasons — Legality — Action of State Government cannot be justified under Ss. 8, 36 or 41. See Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), S. 8. AIR 1963 Punj 76 (DB).

SECTION 44

——Ss. 44, 8, 9, 14, 15-A, 36, 40, 41, 58 — Punjab Liquor Licence Rules (1956), R. 36 — Auction sale of excise licence — Highest bid accepted by Collector and approved by Excise and Taxation Commissioner — Deposit of one-sixth licence fee as required by rules — Highest bidder acquires legal status of licensee even though no formal licence is granted — Reauction by Government without notice to such licensee and without giving any reasons — Legality — Action of State Govt. cannot be justified under Ss. 8, 36 or 41. See Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), S. 8. AIR 1963 Punj 76 (DB).

SECTION 50

——S. 50 — Search witness — Excise case — A.S.I. raiding house of accused with witnesses two of whom were brought from town 25 miles away — Both those witnesses also appearing as witnesses for prosecution in other cases — One of remaining witnesses found on inimical terms with accused not relied on by trying Magistrate — — Head constable not mentioned as witness in case present at the time of recovery of impugned article — Evidence on record that relations between his father and accused were not very happy — Recovery of article held could not be said to have been satisfactorily proved. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 103. (1963) 65 Punj LR 823.

SECTION 54

——S. 54 — Notification introducing prohibition in social clubs — Validity — It does not constitute a direct interference with the liberty of the subject or violate the fundamental rights guaranteed by Art. 19. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g), (5) and (6). AIR 1957 Punj 20 (DB).

SECTION 58

●——Ss. 58, 59 — Rule-making power of Chief Commissioner under S. 58 — Power not controlled by that of Excise Commissioner under S. 59.

Section 58, after empowering the Chief Commissioner to make rules for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the Act, proceeds to give him further power to make rules for the purpose of any other law for the time being in force relating to excise revenue. This general power is not restricted or controlled by the rule-making power conferred on the Excise Commissioner by S. 59. The rule-making power of the Excise Commissioner is subject to action taken by the Chief Commissioner in making rules under S. 58 and the other sections of the Act. Pritpal Singh v. Chief Commr. of Delhi, 1965 Pun LR (Supp) 183: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 775: AIR 1966 Punj 4 (13) (Pt D) (Pr 14) (FB).

——Ss. 58, 8, 9, 14, 15-A, 36, 40, 41, 44— Punjab Liquor Licence Rules (1956), R. 36—Auction sale of excise licence — Highest bid accepted by Collector and approved by Excise and Taxation Commissioner — Deposit of one-sixth licence fee as required by rules — Highest bidder acquires legal status of licensee even though no formal licence is granted — Reauction by Government without notice to such licensee and without giving any reasons — Legality — Action of State Government cannot be justified under Ss. 8, 36 or 41. See Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), S. 8. AIR 1963 Punj 76 (DB).

——S. 58 (2) (f) (as extended to Delhi) — Rules under — Delhi Liquor Licence Rules, R. 5.34 (21), —Sale of licence—Confirmation by Chief Commissioner not necessary — Failure of purchaser to deposit one-sixth of purchase price — Effect.

The question of confirmation by the Chief Commissioner of the sale of any licence is against the plain language of sub-rule (21) of Rule 5.34. If the purchaser fails to deposit one-sixth of the price within the specified period or if he refuses to take up the licence, the authorities are entitled to enforce the provision of sub-rule (21) of R. 5.34, which permits the resale of the licence and the loss, if any, can be recovered from the defaulting purchaser. AIR 1953 Punj 274, Not foll. (1960) 62 Punj LR 717.

——Ss. 58 and 3 (9), 60 — Deficiency in price on resale of excise shop in excise revenue — It can be recovered under S. 60. See Punjab Excise Act (1914), S. 3 (9). AIR 1953 Punj 274.

——Ss. 58, 32, 34 and 59 — Rules under S. 58 cannot be varied by those framed under Ss. 32 and 34 — Conditions of sale announced at auction inconsistent with those framed under S. 58— Validity — Auction-purchaser is not estopped from challenging their validity — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 115). See Punjab Excise Act (1914), S. 32. AIR 1953 Punj 274.

——S. 58 — Rules under — Conditions of auction — Power of Chief Commissioner to vary.

The Chief Commissioner cannot vary the conditions of auction of liquor shops laid down by the rules framed by the Provincial Government under S. 58 of the Punjab Excise Act.

Rules made by the Chief Commissioner under Ss. 32 and 34 of the Act cannot vary those made by the Provincial Government under S. 58 of the Act. 53 Punj LR 424: AIR 1953 Punj 274 (278) (Pt C) (Pr 21).

——S. 58 — Validity of Punjab Intoxicating Spirituous Preparations Import, Export, Transport, Possession and Sale Rules (1952) — Constitution of India, Art. 245 — In the Punjab Excise Act the rules are issued under the provisions of Ss. 5, 6, 16, 17, 18, 24 and 58. These sections enable the State Government to issue the rules and these rules have been issued by the State Government. No question of delegated legislation arises in this case. 1953 Cri LJ 549: AIR 1953 Punj 77 (79) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

[Reversed on facts in AIR 1959 SC 65.]

SECTION 59

●——S. 59 — Rules under — Delhi Liquor Licence Rules, 1935, Chap. 5, R. 1 — Chief Commissioner of Delhi is competent authority to grant licence in Delhi. Ghaio Mal & Sons v. State of Delhi, 1959 SCJ 105: ILR (1959) Punj 277: 1959 SCR 424: AIR 1959 SC 65 (70) (Pt B) (Pr 9).

——S. 59 — Government of Part C States Act (1951), S. 38 — Delhi Excise Rules, Rule 5.1 — Scope of S. 38 of the Act of 1951 — Powers of Chief Commissioner under Excise Act — Powers conferred under the statutory rules framed under the Punjab Excise Act on the Chief Commissioner cannot be said to be powers which the Chief Commissioner exercises by virtue of S. 38, Government of Part C States Act. See Government of Part C States Act (1951), S. 38. AIR 1956 Punj 97 (DB).

[Reversed on facts in AIR 1959 SC 65.]

——Ss. 59, 32, 34 and 58 — Rules under S. 58 cannot be varied by those framed under Ss. 32 and 34 — Conditions of sale announced at auction inconsistent with those framed under S. 58— Validity — Auction-purchaser is not estopped from challenging their validity — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 115). See Punjab Excise Act (1914), S. 32. AIR 1953 Punj 274.

SECTION 60

——Ss. 60, 3 (9) and 58 — Deficiency in price on resale of excise shop is excise revenue — It can be recovered under S. 60. See Punjab Excise Act (1914), S. 3 (9). AIR 1953 Punj 274.

SECTION 61

——S. 61 — Penal Code (1860), S. 53 — Proper sentence — Held that the facts that the accused was a refugee and that he had confessed his guilt were not, by themselves, extenuating circumstances and his sentence was enhanced. See Penal Code (1860), S. 53. 1953 Cri LJ 1261: AIR 1953 Pepsu 118.

——Ss. 61 and 5 — Notifications issued under S. 5 permitting to keep one bottle of Punjab-distilled liquor or of foreign liquor imported or made in India — Accused found in possession of one bottle of liquor — Liquor proved different from Punjab distillery spirits — Burden to establish that liquor was illicit does not shift to accused on that account — Burden to prove that liquor was of illicit origin lies entirely on prosecution. 1965 Cur LJ 577: (1965) 67 Punj LR 1044.

——Ss. 61 (1) (a), 68-A (added by Punjab Excise Amendment Act (35 of 1956) — Recovery of charas from accused after raid by police officers — Value of associating independent persons as witnesses — Witnesses of Police department — Effect—Material discrepancies in evidence led by prosecution — Recovery of charas not proved beyond doubt— Accused is entitled to benefit of doubt — Criminal trial — Raid by police officers — Importance of associating non-officials as witnesses. 1965 Cur LJ 71: (1965) 67 Punj LR 128.

——S. 61 (1) (a) — Possession of illicit liquor — Proof — Accused living jointly with four brothers —Mere knowledge of existence of illicit liquor is not sufficient.

Where the 'haveli' from where the illicit liquor was recovered was owned and possessed by the accused and his four brothers, the fact that the accused knew that the illicit liquor was there in the haveli alone was not enough to say that he was in possession thereof. (1962) 64 Punj LR 91.

——S. 61 (1) (a) — Essentials for conviction — Guilty knowledge — The offence punishable under S. 61 (1) (a) clearly relates back to the provisions of S. 25 and, therefore, for anybody to be convicted under S. 61 (1) (a), there must be two ingredients, namely the possession of illicit liquor and the knowledge that for one of the reasons mentioned in S. 25, the liquor is illicit. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 342. 1957 Cri LJ 473: AIR 1957 Punj 75 (DB).

——S. 61 (1) (c) — 'Possession of liquor'—Proof.

B was found drinking with a bottle of liquor and a glass lying near him in the house of S. The inmates of the house were S, his daughter G and his wife T. B was a stranger from another village. S stated that the liquor was in his possession and that nobody else in the house or B had any connection with it. B's defence was that he had been to S to get his shoes repaired. Accused S, G and T were acquitted and B was convicted under S. 61.

Held, that on the evidence B could not be convicted as the possession of liquor by B had not been proved. 1957 Cri LJ 476 (1) (476) (Pr 3) (Punj).

——S. 61 (1) (a) — 'Lahan' — Offence.

If all the ingredients of Lahan were present mixed in the vessels recovered from the accused, or in other words, the mixture was ready for the fermentation which would inevitably follow, it is immaterial whether the ingredients had been mixed sufficiently long for the process of fermentation to have advanced very far or not, at the time of the recovery. Where the mixture consisted of water, gur and some fermenting agent, it does not matter how recently the mixture had been made before it was recovered and the substance is lahan and so amounts to liquor within the meaning of the definition contained in paras 1, 2, Chap. I of the Punjab Excise Liquor Definitions in Vol. II of the Excise Manual. The accused is, therefore, guilty under S. 61 (1) (a). ILR (1956) Punj 1187: 58 Punj LR 359: 1957 Cri LJ 291 (Punj).

——S. 61 (1) (a) — Lahan, possession of — Offence.

Lahan is the substance out of which alcohol is distilled and if the person who possesses any quantity of this substance, has no licence for distilling alcohol, its possession is a criminal offence under the Excise Act, although lahan may not in itself be an intoxicating substance, particularly if it is recovered before the process of fermentation has had time to take effect. It is quite open to the Government to include lahan as such as falling within the term 'liquor' and thereby to make its possession without a licence an offence under the Excise Act. "Lahan" is lahan once the ingredients have been mixed whatever stage the process of fermentation may have reached. ILR (1957) Punj 238.

——S. 61 (1) (a) — Proof essential for conviction — No proof that bottles found in godown of accused contained Tincture Zingiberis — Conviction held could not be sustained. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4957.

——S. 61 — Sentence — Sentence of fine should be imposed — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 32). AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 2520.

——S. 61 (1) (a) — Possession of illicit liquor— Accused stating that they themselves had buried the pitchers of lahan under trees in their family fields — Pitchers discovered in consequence of these statements — This was held sufficient to establish their conscious possession of the incriminating article to justify conviction under S. 61 (1) (a). 55 Punj LR 474: 1954 Cri LJ 554: AIR 1954 Punj 83 (83) (Pr 3) (DB).

——S. 61 (1) (a) — Evidence not satisfactory — Not safe to convict.

Where in a prosecution under S. 61 (1) (a) there was no satisfactory evidence produced by the prosecution regarding the discovery of pitchers containing the offensive matter from the premises ot the accused and the testimony in favour of the accused given by two lambardars of the village was discarded by the lower Court on the ground that being the co-villagers of the accused they gave evidence to oblige him:

Held, taking into consideration the provisions of Ss. 52 and 68 and the fact that there was no evidence on the record showing any connection whatsoever between the accused on the one side and the two lambardars on the other, the lower Court was not justified in discarding the evidence given by them and that it was not safe to act on the evidence given by witnesses for prosecution. 55 Punj LR 345: 1953 Cri LJ 1825: AIR 1953 Punj 266 (267) (Pr 12).

——S. 61 (1) — Illicit liquor — Possession — Meaning.

In order to decide whether a quantity of illicit liquor or illicit arm is or is not in possession of the accused person, the Courts have to consider not merely whether the article is lying at the house of the accused person or at a place accessible to others, but a number of other circumstances, the proof of which will persuade the Court to come to the conclusion that the article was in fact under the control and absolute dominion of the person concerned.

Recovery of illicit liquor from field of another on information supplied by the accused. Several persons distilling liquor in that village and this fact known to almost all villagers — Held that it was probable that accused gave information relating to liquor belonging to someone else and, therefore, accused could not be said to be in possession of that discovered liquor.

The fact that a man buries an article in his own kotha shows that he retained control over it and. therefore, the article must be said to have continued in his possession. 52 Cri LJ 108: AIR 1951 Simla 185 (185, 186) (Prs 3, 4, 6) (DB).

SECTION 68-A

——Ss. 68-A (added by Punjab Excise Amendment Act (35 of 1956) and 61 (1) — Recovery of charas from accused after raid by Police officers—Value of associating independent persons as witnesses—Witnesses of Police department — Effect—Material discrepancies in evidence led by prosecution—Recovery of charas not proved beyond doubt — Accused is entitled to benefit of doubt — Criminal trial — Raid by Police officers — Importance of associating non-officials. 1965 Cur LJ 71: (1965) 67 Punj LR 128.

SECTION 69-A

——S. 69-A (added by E. P. Act (9 of 1948)— Applicability.

S. 69-A does not apply to Patiala or Pepsu State as the amendment inserting that section in the Punjab Excise Act after 1925 was not enforced in these States. 1953 Cri LJ 1261: ILR (1953) Patiala 139: AIR 1953 Pepsu 118 (118) (Pt B) (Pr 2).

——S. 69-A — Procedure — Order to furnish security — Standard practice — The standard sentence for working an illicit still has been one year's imprisonment, and since the introduction of S. 69-A it has also been almost a standard practice to require convicted persons to furnish security covering a period after their release from prison. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 32. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4973.

SECTION 80

——Ss. 80 (2), 36 and 21 — Punjab Distillery Rules (1932), R. 9.36 — Validity of S. 80 (2) and last part of R. 9.36—Both provisions are not ultra vires. ILR (1965) 1 Punj 189.

——Ss. 80 (2) and 36 (c)—Notice by Excise authorities to petitioner (distillery company) to carry out certain directions — Date fixed for giving company personal hearing — Company praying for change of date twice which was granted — Company failing to present case on those dates—It cannot be said that no sufficient opportunity to be heard was given to the company — Order against company cannot be quashed on that ground. 1964 Cur LJ 519 (Punj).

PUNJAB FINANCIAL RULES

●——Responsibility of head of office for pay drawn on bill signed by him.

Under the Punjab Financial Rules the head of an office is personally responsible for every pay drawn on a bill signed by him or on his behalf until he has paid it to the person entitled to receive it and obtained his receipt, duly stamped where necessary on the office copy of the pay-bill. This responsibility is a serious one and a disclaimer thereof is not lightly to be accepted. Bhagat Ram v. State of Punjab, 1954 Cri LJ 1645: AIR 1954 SC 621 (624) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

PUNJAB FORWARD CONTRACTS TAX ACT (7 OF 1951)

SECTION 2

●——S. 2 — Validity of Act. See Constitution of India, Sch. 7, List II, Entry 62. AIR 1961 SC 268.

PUNJAB GENERAL CLAUSES ACT (1 OF 1898)

SECTION 2

——S. 2 (40) — Profession tax — Tax to be borne by partnership as such and not individually by every partner. See Municipalities — Punjab Municipal Act (3 of 1911), Section 61 (1) (b). AIR 1965 Punj 168.

——S. 2 (40) — Own occupation — Meaning of — Occupation may be by a human being or a juristic person like Trust. See Houses and Rents — East Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act (3 of 1949), Section 13 (3) (a) (i). (1962) 64 Pun LR 1141.

——S. 2 (36) — Notification — Publication in Gazette — Necessity of.

Clause (36) does not say that the notification shall have effect only from the date when it is published in the Official Gazette. All that it requires is such publication, and according to the routine in Government Offices the notification takes effect from the date it is issued which must usually be some time before it can be actually printed in the Gazette: AIR 1954 Pat 393, Doubted. ILR (1958) Punj 1884: AIR 1958 Punj 402 (405) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3, 27 — Ordinance stated to come into operation "at once" — Ordinance whether comes into operation on particular day.

An ordinance published in Delhi under the authority of the President on a particular day comes into force on that day as the words "at once" used in the Ordinance read with the date which appears above the title of the Ordinance as published in the Gazette of India can only mean that the Ordinance was expressed to come into force on the day it was published. The provisions of the Punjab General Clauses Act are applicable to an Ordinance published under Article 213 of the Constitution, for in Section 27 of the Act as now adapted express provision for such application is made. 54 Pun LR 11: ILR (1951) Punj 480: AIR 1952 Punj 55 (57) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

SECTION 4

——S. 4 — Scope of — Repeal and fresh legislation — Duty of Court.

Whenever there is repeal of an enactment, the consequences laid down in Section 4 will follow unless, as the section itself says, a different intention appears. In the case of a simple repeal there is scarcely any room for expression of a contrary opinion. But when the repeal is followed by a fresh legislation on the same subject, the Court would undoubtedly have to look to the provisions of the new Act: but only for the purpose of determining whether they indicate a different intention. The line of enquiry in such cases would be not whether the new Act expressly keeps alive old rights and liabilities, but whether it manifests an intention to destroy them. 60 Punj LR 332: ILR (1958) Punj 1553.

SECTION 6

——S. 6 — 'Instrument' — Meaning — Order of detention under Public Safety Act — The order of Chief Commissioner extending the period of detention of a person detained under S. 3 (1) of the Punjab Public Safety Act or of the East Punjab Public Safety Act is not an instrument within the meaning of Section 6. 52 PLR 60: 52 Cri LJ 3: AIR 1951 Punj 216 (219) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

——S. 6 — Enactments and instruments coming into existence after repealing Act — Section 6 was not intended to apply to enactments and instruments coming into existence after the passing of the repealing and modifying Act. Even if an order extending a period of detention under the Public Safety Act were to be deemed to be an instrument a mistaken reference to the repealed Punjab Public Safety Act after the enactment of East Punjab Public Safety Act would not be saved by Section 6. AIR 1951 Punj 216 (219) (Pt C) (Pr 10) (DB).

SECTION 11

——Ss. 11 and 12 — East Punjab Utilization of Lands Act (38 of 1949), Ss. 3, 5, proviso and 7 (1) — Lease of lands under S. 5 for 7 years —Renewal of lease for balance of 20 years — Renewal is within scope of provisions. See East Punjab Utilization of Lands Act (38 of 1949), Section 3. 1964 Cur LJ 495: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 1:

SECTION 12

——S. 12 — Lease of land under Section 5 for 7 years — Renewal of lease for balance of 20 years — Renewal is within scope of provisions. See East Punjab Utilization of Lands Act (38 of 1949), Section 3. 1964 Cur LJ 495: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 1.

——S. 12 — Government creating Improvement Trust for municipal area during suspension of Municipal Committee — Fresh election of committee of July 1961 — Government dissolving trust on 30th August, 1961 and later on informing its reconstitution on 9th November, 1962 — Municipality at its meeting on 9th November, 1962 unanimously deciding and requesting Government not to reconstitute trust — Government persisting with its intention and appointing a chairman of trust — Act of Government held invalid — Section 12 of the Act held inapplicable, since even when power is exercised on a second or subsequent occasion it is to be exercised in accordance with provisions of law granting power. See Punjab Town Improvement Act (4 of 1922), Section 1 (3). 1965 Cur LJ 669: (1965) 67 Pun LR 1050.

SECTION 14

——S. 14 — Scope — Government has power to suspend a Government servant appointed by it See General Clauses Act (1897), Section 16. AIR 1963 Punj 298 (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1964 SC 72].

SECTION 19

●——S. 19 — Power to cancel notification — S. 19 of the P. G. Clauses Act embodies a rule of construction, the nature and extent of the application of which must inevitably be governed by the relevant provisions of the statute. The power to cancel the notification can be easily conceded to the competent authority and so also to modify or vary it be likewise conceded but the said power must inevitably be exercised within the limits prescribed by the provision conferring the said power. See Public Safety — East Punjab Public Safety Act (5 of 1959), Section 36 (1) 1959 Cri LJ 782: AIR 1959 SC 609.

SECTION 22

●——S. 22 — Punjab Development and Damaged Areas Act (10 of 1951), Sections 2 (d), 5 (4) — East Punjab Damaged Areas Act (10 of 1949), Punjab Damaged Areas Act (XI of 1947), S. 3 — Scheme in respect of area declared to be 'damaged area' under 1947 Act but not so declared under 1951 or 1949 Act is without jurisdiction — Conclusiveness of scheme under Section 5 (4) of 1951 Act does not apply where there is total lack of jurisdiction — Punjab General Clauses Act (I of 1898), Section 22 — Implied repeal — 1947 Act not repealed but lapsing and re-enacted by 1949 Act — Notification under 1947 Act cannot be deemed to be one under 1949 Act — Interpretation of Statutes — Implied repeal — There must be inconsistency between two Acts. See Punjab Development and Damaged Areas Act (10 of 1951), Section 2 (d). AIR 1963 SC 976.

——S. 22 read with Section 27 — Punjab Gram (Regulation of Distribution) Order (1964), Cl. 3 — Permit granted under old clause on 21st September 1964—Petitioner loading wagons on 21st and 22nd September 1964—Old Clause 3 replaced by new clause 3 on 21st September 1964 — District Magistrate acting under new clause not allowing wagons to proceed to destination — Held, action of District Magistrate was unjustified — Permit not being revoked was good under new Cl. 3 — ILR (1965) 1 Punj 610.

●——S. 22 — Acquisition of land — Passing of Punjab Act of 1955 during pendency of proceedings — Effect in determination of compensation. There is nothing in the Act of 1953 or in S. 22 which can be construed to imply that it was to affect any suits or other legal proceedings which were actually pending when it came into force and consequently in the facts and circumstances of the present case the compensation payable to the appellant must be paid in accordance with provisions of the Act of 1948 and in accordance with the provisions of the Act of 1953. See East Punjab Requisitioning of Immovable Property (Temporary Powers) Act (XLVIII of 1948), S. 5. AIR 1957 Punj 209 (FB).

——S. 22 — East Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act (3 of 1949), Section 17 — Order passed under Act of 1947 — Execution after Act of 1949 — General Clauses Act (1897), Section 8. See Houses and Rents — East Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act (3 of 1949), Section 17. AIR 1951 Punj 329.

SECTION 27

——Ss. 27 and 3 — Ordinance stated to come into operation "at once" — Ordinance whether comes into operation on particular day.

An ordinance published in Delhi under the authority of the President on a particular day comes into force on that day as the words 'at once' used in the ordinance read with the date which appears above the title of ordinance as published in the Gazette can only mean that the ordinance was expressed to come into force on the day it was published. See Punjab General Clauses Act (1898), Section 3. AIR 1952 Punj 55 (DB).

PUNJAB GENERAL SALES TAX ACT (46 of 1948)

See under Sales Tax.

PUNJAB GRAM PANCHAYAT ACT, 1952 (4 of 1953)

See under Panchayats.

PUNJAB GRAM PANCHAYATS (AMENDMENT) ACT (26 of 1960)

See under Panchayats.

PUNJAB GRAM PANCHAYAT ELECTION RULES (1953)

See under Panchayats.

PUNJAB GRAM PANCHAYAT ELECTION RULES (1960)

See under Panchayats.

PUNJAB GRAM (REGULATION OF DISTRIBUTION) ORDER (1964)

CLAUSE 3

——Cl. 3 (old and new) — Permit granted under old clause on 21st September 1964 — Petitioner loading wagons on 21st and 22nd September 1964 — Old Clause 3 replaced by new Clause 3 on 21st September, 1964 — District Magistrate acting under new clause not allowing wagons to proceed to destination — Held, action of District Magistrate was unjustified — Permit not being revoked was good under new Clause 3 — Punjab General Clauses Act (1 of 1898), S. 22 read with Section 27. ILR (1965) 1 Punj 610.

PUNJAB HIGH COURT RULES AND ORDERS

See under High Court Rules and Orders.

PUNJAB HOLDINGS (CONSOLIDATION AND PREVENTION OF FRAGMENTATION) ACT (50 of 1948)

See under Tenancy Laws — East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (50 of 1948).

PUNJAB INTOXICATING SPIRITUOUS PREPARATION, IMPORT, EXPORT, TRANSPORT, POSSESSION AND SALE RULES (1952)

See under Prohibition.

PUNJAB INSTRUMENTS (CONTROL OF NOISES) ACT (36 of 1956)

SECTION 3

——S. 3 —'Premises' — Open piece of land. Held, after considering the context and the object of the Act, that the word 'premises' occurring in Section 3 covers an open piece of land. Criminal Revn. No. 1084 of 1959, dated 5th November, 1959 (Punj) and ILR 34 Bom 593 and AIR 1950 Mad 38 and ILR 4 Bom 168 (FB), Disting. 1960 Cri LJ 1371: ILR (1960) 2 Punj 814: AIR 1960 Punj 538 (542) (Pt C) (Pr 14) (DB).

PUNJAB JAIL MANUAL

PARA 571

●——Paras 571 to 575 — Constitution of India, Article 14 — Prisons Act (1894), Section 59 — Rules under Punjab Jail Manual Paras 571 to 575 — Separation of prisoners for maintenance of jail discipline — Para 575 not violative of Article 14 — Power under Para 575 held exercised with mala fides and separate confinement of petitioner held illegal. See Constitution of India, Article 14. AIR 1962 SC 510.

——Paras 571 to 575 — Constitution of India, Articles 14, 20 — Provisions for separation of prisoners for jail management — Not unconstitutional. See Constitution of India, Article 14. 1961 (2) Cri LJ 687 (2): AIR 1961 Punj 524.

PARA 572

——Paras 572 to 575 and 571 — Constitution of India, Articles 14, 20 — Provisions for separation of prisoners for jail management — Not unconstitutional. See Constitution of India, Article 14. 1961 (2) Cri LJ 687 (2): AIR 1961 Punj 524.

PARA 573

——Paras 573 to 575 and 571, 572 — Constitution of India, Articles 14, 20 — Provisions for separation of prisoners for jail management — Not unconstitutional. See Constitution of India, Article 14. 1961 (2) Cri LJ 687 (2): AIR 1961 Punj 524.

PARA 574

— Paras. 574, 571 to 573 and 575 — Constitution of India, Artciles 14, 20 — Provisions for separation of prisoners for jail management — Not unconstitutional. See Constitution of India, Article 14. 1961 (2) Cri LJ 687 (2): AIR 1961 Punj 524.

PARA 575

——Paras 575 and 571 to 574 — Constitution of India, Articles 14, 20 — Provisions for separation of prisoners for jail management — Not unconstitutional. See Constitution of India, Article 14 1961 (2) Cri LJ 687 (2): AIR 1961 Punj 524.

PUNJAB KHANDSARI AND GUR DEALERS LICENSING ORDER (1963)

——Rights under Art. 19 of Constitution are suspended during emergency — Order cannot be challenged as being violative of Art. 19. See Constitution of India, Art. 358. AIR 1965 Punj 74 (DB).

——Validity of Order can be challenged on score of being outside scope of under Art. 19 of Constitution — Order is within scope of S. 3 of Essential Commodities Act. See Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3. AIR 1965 Punj 74 (DB).

PUNJAB LAND REVENUE ACT (CENTRAL ACT 17 of 1887)

SECTION 3

●——S. 3 (2) — Ejectment of tenant at will by lessee landlord — Latter admittedly not an allottee or lessee under Cls. (b) and (c) of S. 2 of East Punjab Displaced Persons (Land Re-settlement) Act 30 of 1949 or a mortgagee with possession — Lessee holding land subject to liability to pay to owner of land rent equal to lease money — He is only a tenant within S. 4 (5) of Punjab Tenancy Act (16 of 1887) and not a landowner within the definition in the Act — Hence he is not entitled to benefit under S. 14-A (1) and his application for ejecting his tenant at will has to be dismissed. See Tenancy Laws — Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act (10 of 1953), S. 14-A (1). 1962 Supp (3) SCR 386.

●——S. 3 — Constitution of India, Art. 31-A (1) (a) — "Any estate or of any rights therein" — Meaning — Portions of estate whether included — Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act (10 of 1953 as amended by Act 11 of 1955) — If comes within purview of Art. 31-A — Act whether extinguishes or modifies any rights in any estate within Art. 31-A (1) (a) — (Tenancy Laws — Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act (10 of 1953 as amended by Act 11 of 1955) — Constitutional validity) — AIR 1959 Punj 8 (FB), Overruled — See Constitution of India, Art. 31-A (1) (a). AIR 1959 SC 519.

——S. 3 (1) — Right of pre-emption — Requisites of — Pre-emptor must be co-sharer — Right must subsist up to date of decree — Burden of proof is on plaintiff — Each and every land-owner in estate is not co-sharer. See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 15 (b), Fourthly. (1964) 66 Punj LR 1063.

——Ss. 3 (1), 158 (2), 4, 48 and 141 — Jurisdiction of Civil Court — The Act does not exclude the jurisdiction of civil Courts in regard to lands on which houses, shops and factories have been built — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9). AIR 1953 Punj 250. (251, 252) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 15).

SECTION 4

——Ss. 4, 158 (2), 3 (1), 48 and 141 — Jurisdiction of Civil Court — The Act does not exclude the jurisdiction of civil courts in regard to lands on which houses, shops and factories have been built — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9). AIR 1953 Punj 250 (251, 252) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 15).

SECTION 9

●——Ss. 9 and 28 — Rules under — Punjab Tahsildari Rules (1932) — Rules continued to remain in force even after Act was amended by Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937 — Dismissal of Tahsildar from service — Order passed by Financial Commissioner in 1953 — Order held valid — AIR 1960 Punj 168, Affirmed. Gian Singh v. State of Punjab, (1962) 3 SCR 515: (1962) 1 SCJ 641: AIR 1962 SC 219 (222 to 223; 226, 227, 231, 232) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7, 9, 10, 27, 29, 31, 47, 48, 49).

——S. 9 — Adaptation Order, 1937 — Effect on validity of Tahsildari Rules, 1932 — Powers of Financial Commissioner not affected.

The Punjab Tahsildari Rules, 1932 have either been made in exercise of the powers conferred by the Government of India Act, 1919, or in exercise of the powers conferred by S. 9 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887. If they have been made in exercise of the powers conferred by the Government of India Act, 1919, they continue in force under S. 276 of the Government of India Act, 1935 and Art. 313 of the Constitution of India. These rules purport to have been framed under the provisions of S. 9 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887 and although this section was amended by the Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937, the rules continue in force by virtue of paragraphs 9 and 10 of the said Order and the Financial Commissioner who had power to appoint and to dismiss the Tahsildars, continues to exercise these powers. These powers have not been abrogated or withdrawn 61 Pun LR 370: ILR (1959) Punj 96: AIR 1960 Punj 168 (169) (Prs 8 to 10) (DB).

SECTION 16

——S. 16 — Constitution of India, Art. 226 — Exercise of discretion — Art. 226 makes the issue of directions, orders or writs discretionary and it cannot be urged that any party has a right to any form of an order as a matter of course. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1953 Him Pra 74.

SECTION 28

●——Ss. 28 and 9 — Rules under — Punjab Tehsildari Rules (1932) — Rules continued to remain in force even after Act was amended by Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937 — Dismissal of Tehsildar from service — Order passed by Financial Commissioner in 1953 — Order held valid — See Punjab Land Revenue Act (17 of 1887), S. 9. AIR 1962 SC 219.

——Ss. 28 and 158 — Remuneration of Patwaris — Suit for recovery.

No statutory rule gives to the Patwari, who is a village servant under the S. 28, an exceptional right of recovering arrears of pay by bringing a suit. Para 14 of the Standing Orders makes no such provision. 54 Punj LR 472: AIR 1953 Punj 174 (174) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

SECTION 31

●——Ss. 31, 44 — Entries in Wajib-ul-arz — Effect and value of—(Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 35, 114, 101 to 104).

Whether the statutory presumption attaching to an entry in the Wajib-ul-arz has been properly displaced or not must depend on the facts of each case. Under S. 31 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, Wajib-ul-arz is a part of the record of rights, and entries made therein in accordance with law and the provisions of Ch. IV of the Act and the rules thereunder, shall be presumed to be true. The Wajib-ul-arz or village administration paper is a record of existing customs regarding rights and liabilities in the estate; it is not to be used for the creation of new rights or liabilities. ILR 2 Mad 128 (PC) and AIR 1918 PC 4 and AIR 1922 Lah 234, Rel. on. Raja Rajinder Chand v. Mst. Sukhi. 1957 SCJ 119: 1957 SCA 251: 1956 SCR 889: ILR (1957) Punj 819: AIR 1957 SC 286 (294 to 296) (Pt E) (Prs 19, 20, 22).

●——Ss. 31, 44 — Jamabandi entries — Authenticity.

The entries in Jamabandies fall within the purview of the record of rights under S. 31 and are to be presumed to be true under S. 44 until the contrary is proved. Chhote Khan v. Mal Khan 1955 SCR 60: 1954 SCJ 577: AIR 1954 SC 575 (578) (Pt D) (Pr 20).

——Ss. 31 (2) (d) and 44 — Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 35, 90 and 114 — Settlement pedigree-tables — Presumption of truth of relationship — Burden to prove that entry in such tables is wrong. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 35. AIR 1961 Punj 251.

SECTION 32

——S. 32 — Jurisdiction of civil Courts. The correctness of a record of rights can be challenged in civil Courts. The jurisdiction of Civil Courts is not either expressly or impliedly framed — See East Punjab Holding (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (50 of 1948), S. 22. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 3439.

SECTION 34

——S. 34 — Mutation — Cancellation—Power of Tahsildar.

A Tahsildar has no jurisdiction or authority to cancel a mutation that had been properly sanctioned by another revenue officer. ILR (1954) Pepsu 433: AIR 1953 Pepsu 161 (177) (Pt J) (Pr 46) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 SC 222].

——S. 34 — Mutation — Mutation proceedings — Inferences from, as to conduct of party.

Inferences as to conduct of a party to the mutation proceedings can legally be drawn in spite of the fact that mutation proceedings are concerned only with fiscal purposes. 62 Pun LR 29: ILR (1959) Punj 1269.

——Ss. 34 and 44 — Mutation does not create new title or determine existing title — (Mutation — Effect) — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 35). AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 5725 (DB).

SECTION 37

●——S. 37 — Vendor's admission as to correctness of new entry or agreement to have old entry corrected after parting with his interest in property cannot bind purchaser — But where Revenue Officer makes the entry on the facts proved before him and not on the basis of the admission alone the provisions of S. 37 (a) are satisfied and hence there is a presumption of the correctness of the entry. See Punjab Land Revenue Act (17 of 1887), S. 44. AIR 1963 SC 1917.

SECTION 42

●——Ss. 42 (1) (2) (4), 155 — Presumption under S. 42 (2) when can be raised — Presumption can be raised when record of rights is produced in court — Document not produced — Presumption neither under S. 42 (1) nor under S. 42 (2) can be raised — Application for permit under Delhi Minor Mineral Rules (1938) would constitute admission that person applying is not owner of minerals.

Sub-s. (4) of S. 42 is not applicable to the presumption raised in favour of the land owner by sub-s. (2) S. 42. S. 42 (2) raises a presumption against the Government when in any record-of-rights completed after November, 18, 1871 it is not expressly provided that any quarry belongs to the Government, but this presumption arises only when the record-of-rights is before the Court and flows from the contents of the produced document. The sub-section is no authority whatsoever for raising a presumption as to the contents of a record-of-rights which is not produced and is not before the Court. No presumption against the Government can be drawn from the non-production of the record-of-rights in court by the Government because the record-of-rights is a public document and therefore, available to the land owner or a person claiming through him as well who can obtain a cretified copy and file it if it supports his case. A jamabandi account however is not a document on the basis of which the presumption in S. 42 (2) can be invoked. But though the relevant record-of-rights not being before the court the presumption raised either by S. 42 (1) or by S. 42 (2) cannot be invoked in favour of the Government or the owner, the application for grant of permit under Delhi Minor Mineral Rules (1938) framed under S. 155 (1) of the Punjab Land Revenue Act (1887) by a person would constitute an admission and would prima facie show that the person was not the owner of the minerals. Possession of the minerals under the permit would negative the ownership of the person in the minerals having regard to the scheme of the Minor Mineral Rules. Amar Iyoti Stone Crushing Co. v. Union of India, 1962 (3) SCR 62: AIR 1967 SC 46 (47, 48) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5).

——S. 42 — Auction of bushes and trees on Government land — Auction price is revenue payable to Government and recoverable as arrears of land revenue — Dispute as to area — Remedy open in ordinary court — Petition under Art. 226 of Constitution held not maintainable as requiring hearing of evidence — Constitution of India, Art. 226.

Held, on facts that the auction price of thorny bushes and trees was revenue due to Government on account of rights described in S. 42 of the Land Revenue Act and was, therefore, recoverable as arrears of land revenue. Held, further that the real dispute whether the sale was only of trees and bushes in Ss. 7 and 7-E, or whether the sale covered such bushes and trees standing in the whole of the capital area was a dispute which could be settled properly in an ordinary court and A must seek his remedy in such Court. Petition under Art. 226 was not maintainable. 64 Punj LR 602: ILR (1962) 2 Punj 508.

——S. 42 — Trees — Ownership — Kangra District — Spontaneous growth on waste land — Waste land assessed — Rule.

In the District of Kangra, ownership of trees of spontaneous growth, on the waste land which was assessed to land revenue and was in possession of the proprietors, is in the Government ILR (1957) Punj 479.

SECTION 44

●——Ss. 44 and 37 — Vendor's admission as to correctness of new entry or agreement to have old entry corrected after parting with his interest in property cannot bind purchaser — But where Revenue Officer makes the entry on the facts proved before him and not on the basis of the admission alone the provisions of S. 37 (a) are satisfied and hence there is a presumption of the correctness of the entry. Gurbaksh Singh v Nikka Singh, 1963 SCD 403: (1963) 2 SCJ 285: (1963) Supp I SCR 55: AIR 1963 SC 1917 (1920) (Pt C) (Pr 9).

●——Ss. 44 and 31 — Entries in wajib-ul-arz — Under S. 31 of the Punjab Act wajib-ul-arz is a part of the record of rights and entries made therein in acordance with law and the provisions of chapter IV of the Act and the Rules thereunder shall be presumed to be true. The Wajib-ul-arz is a record of existing customs regarding rights and liabilities in the estate: it is not to be used for the creation of new rights or liabilities — (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 35, 114, 101 to 104) — See Punjab Land Revenue Act (17 of 1887), S. 31. AIR 1957 SC 286.

●——Ss. 44, 31—Jamabandi entries—Authentictiy — The entries in Jamabandi fall within the purview of the record of rights under S. 31 and are to be presumped to be true under S. 44 until the contrary is proved. AIR 1954 SC 575 (575) (Pt D) (Pr 20).

——S. 44 — Jamabandi entries — Presumption — Onus of proof.

Ghair-maorosi means tenant-at-will, and when a defendant is so recorded along with the original tenants-at-will the entry in his favour can only be interpreted as a sub-tenancy, and it is incorrect not to give the entries their natural meaning on the ground that it was never the plaintiff's case that the defendant held the land as his/her sub-tenant. The entries being presumed under section 44 to be true, it is for the defendant to prove that they were erroneous. AIR 1939 PC 114, Ref. AIR 1951 Him Pra 65 (66) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 9).

——Ss. 44 and 31 (2) (d) — Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 35, 90 and 114 — Settlement pedigree-tables — Presumption of truth of relationship — Burden to prove that entry in such tables is wrong — See Evidence Act (1872), S. 35. AIR 1961 Punj 251.

——S. 44 — Mutation — Effect of — Mutation does not create new title or determine existing title. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 5725 (DB).

——S. 44 — Jurisdiction of civil Courts — The correctness of record-of-rights can be challenged in Civil Courts. The jurisdiction of Civil Courts is not barred. See Tenancy Laws — East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (50 of 1948), S. 22. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 3439.

——S. 44 — Presumption under—Rebuttal — Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101 to 103.

Section 44 raises a rebuttable presumption of law. Where the Jamabandi shows that the plaintiffs entered on the land in suit as tenants-at-will on payment of the land revenue and cesses to the defendants-occupancy tenants and the proprietors the onus is on the plaintiff to show that they were not tenants-at-will under the defendants. That onus is not discharged by proof of the fact that the amount which the plaintiffs paid to the defendants did not exceed the amount of revenue and cesses. The fact that the plaintiffs have come to Court pleading that they are in adverse possession of the land in suit does not affect the initial presumption. L. P. A. No. 5 of 1949, Disting. AIR 1952 Punj 114 (115) (Prs 10, 12).

SECTION 45

——Ss. 45, 158 (2) (vi) — Suit not under S. 158 (2) (vi) but under S. 45 is cognizable by civil Court — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9). — See Punjab Land Revenue Act (1887), S. 158 (2) (vi). AIR 1952 Him Pra and Bilaspur 51 (52) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——S. 45 — Jurisdiction of Civil Courts — The correctness of a record-of-rights can be challenged in a civil Court. The jurisdiction of civil Courts is not barred — See Tenancy Laws — East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (50 of 1948), S. 22. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 3439.

SECTION 48

——Ss. 48, 158 (2), 3 (1), 4 and 141 — Jurisdiction of Civil Court—The Act does not exclude jurisdiction of Civil Courts in regard to lands on which Shops, houses and factories have been built — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9). 55 Pun LR 326: ILR (1954) Punj 372: AIR 1953 Punj 250 (251, 252) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 15).

SECTION 66

——Ss. 66, 67, 98 (e) — Loan advanced by State to principal debtor recoverable from him as arrears of land revenue — It can also be so recovered from surety. See Contract Act (1872), S. 128. (1962) 64 Punj LR 416.

SECTION 67

——Ss. 67, 70 and 158 (2) (14) and (15) — Collection of land revenue — Property ex facie belonging not to defaulter but to some body else — Bar of suit — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9).

There is no doubt that the Land Revenue Act would expressly and impliedly bar matters concerning the collection of land revenue where the property from which the land revenue is to be had ex facie belongs to the defaulter, but there is no express or implied bar of such a nature regarding property which ex facie belongs to some body else.

Where, therefore, in pursuance of a certificate under S. 46 (2), Income-tax Act, forwarded to him the Collector attached the properties of a firm which thereupon brought a suit contesting the liability of the properties for attachment and sale on the ground that the assessee in respect of whom the certificate was issued was not a partner of the firm.

Held that the civil court had jurisdiction to entertain the suit. 54 Pun LR 429: AIR 1952 Punj 340 (342, 343) (Pt B) (Prs 5, 7).

SECTION 69

——S. 69 — Default in payment of loan — Death of borrower — His son cannot be proceeded against personally — Such action not justified even under S. 69 of Punjab Land Revenue Act See Land Improvement Loans Act (19 of 1883), S. 7. 1964 (1) Cri LJ 71: AIR 1964 Punj 31.

●——S. 69 — Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act (1954), Ss. 30, 2 (d), 10, 21, 40 — Rules under S. 40, Rr. 72 and 73 — Land Improvement Loans Act (19 of 1883), S. 7 — Agriculturists' Loans Act (12 of 1884), S. 5 — Rural loans advanced to displaced persons who were granted agricultural lands out of compensation pool, under 1883 and 1884 Acts — Default in payment — Loans if can be recovered as arrears of land revenue by arrest of debtors — "Sums due under this act" in S. 30 (1) of 1954 Act — Interpretation — Loans, if "Sums due under this Act" within the meaning of S. 30 (1)

— C. W. 216/D of 1955 (Punj), Overruled — See Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act (1954), S. 30. AIR 1961 Punj 34 (FB).

——S. 69 — Applicability — Joint Hindu family — Arrest — (Income-tax Act (1922), Ss. 2 (9), 46 (2)).

The scheme of S. 69 shows that it is meant to apply only to natural persons and not to artificial persons. A Hindu undivided family cannot be arrested and brought before the Revenue Officer as laid down in S. 69 (1). Moreover under S. 69 (4) of the Punjab Act, a minor or a female, a lunatic or idiot, cannot be arrested and detained. If a Hindu undivided family consists of minors also, then the family as a whole cannot be arrested and detained, or confined in jail. Obviously some of the members of the Hindu undivided family cannot be picked out and chosen for arrest and detention as a defaulter under S. 69, as the entire family is one entity and cannot be split up for the purposes of arrest and detention. Under S. 2, sub-cl. (9) of the Income-tax Act, a person includes a Hindu undivided family. Accordingly a Hindu undivided family is an entity for assessment. The amount mentioned in a certificate sent under S. 46 (2) of the Indian Income-tax Act for recovery of the amount due from the joint Hindu family as arrears of land revenue cannot be recovered from the individual coparceners by arrest and detention. (1958) 34 ITR 164: ILR (1958) Punj 1540: AIR 1958 Punj 244 (245, 246) (Prs 2, 3, 6) (DB).

SECTION 70

——S. 70 — Constitution of India, Art. 226 — Mandamus — Writ of, against ministerial officers cannot be granted — Forest Act (1927), S. 82 — See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1952 Him Pra 16.

——Ss. 70, 67 and 158 (2) (xiv) and (xv) — Collection of land revenue — Property 'ex facie' belonging not to defaulter but to some body else —Bar of suit—Where in pursuance of a certificate under S. 46 (2), Income-tax Act, forwarded to him the collector attached the properties of a firm which thereupon brought a suit contesting the liability of the properties for attachment and sale on the ground that the assessee in respect of whom the certificate was issued was not a partner of the firm — Held that the Civil Court had jurisdiction to entertain the suit — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9) — See Punjab Land Revenue Act (1887), S. 67. AIR 1952 Punj 340 (Pt B).

SECTION 97

——Ss. 97, 98 and 70 — Constitution of India, Art. 226 — Mandamus — Writ of, against ministerial officers cannot be granted — Forest Act (1927), S. 82 — See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1952 Him Pra 16.

SECTION 98

——Ss. 98, 97 and 70 — Constitution of India, Art. 226 — Mandamus — Writ of, against ministerial officers cannot be granted — Forest Act (1927), S. 82 — See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1952 Him Pra 16.

SECTION 111

——Ss. 111 and 158 — Applicability — Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

The right to partition of lands is governed by S. 111 of the Act and the Civil Court's jurisdiction to entertain a partition suit in respect of lands is ousted by S. 158. 55 Punj LR 237: ILR (1953) Punj 659: AIR 1953 Punj 264 (265, 266) (Pt C) (Prs 11, 13) (DB).

SECTION 116

——S. 116 (b) — Qestion relating to mode of making partition — Jurisdiction of Civil Court — Ownership of land on which trees are planted.

When in the course of partition proceedings a question arises whether the land on which the trees are standing should be allotted to one co-sharer or another the question falls within the ambit of the expression 'the mode of making the partition' and must be decided by a revenue officer and not by a Civil Court. 57 Punj LR 6: AIR 1955 Punj 63 (64, 65) (Pt C) (Prs 14, 15) (DB).

SECTION 117

——S. 117 — Consolidation proceedings — Question of title, can be determined only by the civil Court as contemplated by S. 117. See Tenancy Laws — East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (50 of 1948), S. 16-A. (1965) 67 Punj LR 1102: ILR (1966) 1 Punj 627.

——Ss. 117, 158 (2) — Partition Suit — Question of title — Direction by Revenue Officer to institute suit in his Court — Suit instituted in Civil Court — Civil Court has jurisdiction under S. 158 (2) — S. 10, C. P. Code not applicable — Civil P. C. (1908), Ss. 10, 9.

A suit for partition would lie in the Civil Court in spite of a direction by the revenue officer to file it in his Court to enable him to determine the question of title: AIR 1936 Lah 589, AIR 1931 Lah 664, Followed; 1902 PLR 633, Distinguished.

Sub-s. (2) of S. 158 was an independent sub-section and was in no way controlled by sub-s. (1). By virtue of the aforesaid clause the civil Courts would have jurisdiction to try the question of title to the property of which partition was sought in spite of a determination by a revenue officer to decide the question himself. AIR 1936 Lah 589, Followed.

Similarly S. 10, of the Civil P. C. would have no application where the proceedings relating to partition had been ordered to be consigned to the record-room and it could not be said that any suit or proceedings were pending before the revenue officer. 1902 PLR 633, Disting. 63 Punj LR 777: ILR (1962) 1 Punj 279.

SECTION 141

——Ss. 141, 158 (2), 3 (1), 4 and 48 — Jurisdiction of Civil Court — The Act does not exclude the jurisdiction of Civil Courts in regard to lands on which Shops, Houses and Factories have been built — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9). AIR 1953 Punj 250 (251, 252) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 15).

SECTION 155

——S. 155 — Presumption under S. 42 (2) when can be raised — Presumption can be raised when record-of-rights is produced in court — Document not produced — Presumption neither under S. 42 (1) nor under S. 42 (2) can be raised — Application for permit under Delhi Minor Mineral Rules (1938) would constitute admission that person applying is not owner of minerals. See Punjab Land Revenue Act (17 of 1887), S. 42 (1). 1962 (3) SCR 62: AIR 1967 SC 46.

——S. 155 (1) (c) and (g) — Rules under — Delhi Minor Minerals Rules (1938), Rr. 3, 7, 8, 9, 18 (iv) — Plaintiff carrying on quarrying operations under yearly permits issued to him from time to time — Refusal by Government to issue further permit — Suit for declaration and injunction — Ad interim injunction restraining Government from interfering with plaintiff's right to quarry — Suit dismissed — Effect of — Quarrying operations during interim period are unauthorised under Rules — Plaintiff held liable for penalty under R. 18 (iv).

Held, on facts (i) that as under the Rules a fresh permit had to be obtained in the prescribed form on every occasion and the permit was to be issued for a period not exceeding one year, the injunction order could not have the effect in law of fresh permits having been issued to the petitioner. Technically, therefore, the petitioner was quarrying stone without a permit which would render him liable to action under R 18 (iv); (ii) that though it was not open to the respondent Government to take any action under R. 18 (iv) so long as the interim injunction stood, once that hurdle was removed and the suit was dismissed, the plaintiff could not avoid the liability to pay five times the royalty by way of penalty; (iii) that though the previous order of the Chief Commissioner under S. 13, Punjab Land Revenue Act, holding that the quarry operation was not illegal during the existence of injunction, had finality and could not be now re-opened so far as the penalty which was sought to be levied at that stage was concerned, it could have no finality in respect of the penalty which is now sought to be levied by the impugned order and it was certainly open to the Chief Commissioner to decide afresh whether it should be imposed or not, particularly for the period which was not covered by the first order 65 Pun LR 33: AIR 1963 Punj 158 (161, 162) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 11, 12, 13).

SECTION 158

——Ss. 158 (2) (vi), 45 — Suit not under S. 158 (2) (vi) but under S. 45 is cognizable by civil Court — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9).

Where the suit was not a suit for mere correction of any entry in a record of rights annual record or register of mutations, as provided by Section 158 (2) (vi), but a suit under Section 45, by a person considering himself aggrieved as to a right, of which he professed to be in possession, by an entry in a record of rights, for a declaration of his right under Chapter VI of the Specific Relief Act, 1877, the suit was cognizable by a civil Court. AIR 1952 Him Pra and Bilaspur 51 (52) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Ss. 158 (2) and 117 — Partition suit — Question of title — Direction by Revenue Officer to institute suit in his Court — Suit instituted in Civil Court — Civil Court has jurisdiction under S. 158 (2) — S. 10 C. P. Code not applicable. 63 Punj LR 777: ILR (1962) 1 Punj 279.

——S. 158 (2) (xiv) — Recovery of income-tax — Attachment of property by Collector — Suit by owner for declaration that properties attached belonged to him and not to defendant and were not attachable is not barred — (Income-tax Act (1922), S. 46 (2)).

Section 158 (2) (xiv) was intended to oust the jurisdiction of Civil Courts with respect to matters dealt with in Chapters VI and VII of the Act dealing with 'collection' of land-revenue or the enforcement of any 'process' for the recovery of land-revenue.

The claims referred to in S. 158 (2) (xiv) of the Act are claims which are connected with or arise out of proceedings for the enforcement of any process for the recovery of land-revenue or any sum recoverable as an arrear of land-revenue.

It was not the intention of the Legislature that the prohibition contained in S. 158 (2) (xiv) of the Act should apply to the claims of persons other than the defaulter. In the Act there is no provision corresponding to Rr. 58, 89 and 81 of O. 21, C. P. Code. The Act does not give the person other than a defaulter 'a right' to object to the attachment and sale for the recovery of arrears of land revenue.

Powers conferred on the Collector by the proviso to S. 46 (2), Income-tax Act, are to be used by the Collector in proceedings which are permitted under Chapters VI and VII of the Land Revenue Act for the recovery of arrears of land revenue.

Ss. 78 and 158 (2) (xiv) of the Act apply to that person alone against whom the 'writs' of demand for the arrears of land revenue realizable as such are issued. S. 158 (2) (xiv) of the Act does not refer to claims which may have a connection with the collection of revenue but are made by persons other than the defaulter. S. 158 (2) (xiv) cannot be interpreted to bar a suit instituted by a person other than the defaulter to establish that the property proceeded against was not the property of the defaulter from whom land revenue was due.

Consequently a suit by the owner of the property attached by the Collector under S. 46 (2), Income-tax Act, for arrears of income-tax for a declaration that the property attached did not belong to the defaulter and was not attachable is not barred. (1954) 26 ITR 602: 56 Punj LR 488: ILR (1954) Punj 440: AIR 1954 Punj 271 (273, 274) (Pt A) (Prs 20, 23, 29 to 32, 34, 35) (DB).

——Ss. 158 and 111 — Scope — Partition suits in respect of land — The right to partition of the lands is governed by S. 111 of the Act and the Civil Court's jurisdiction to entertain a partition suit in respect of lands is ousted by S. 158. AIR 1953 Punj 264 (DB).

——Ss. 158 (2), 3 (1), 4, 48 and 141 — Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

The Punjab Land Revenue Act does not exclude the jurisdiction of Civil Courts in regard to lands on which houses, shops and factories have been built. 55 Punj LR 326: ILR (1954) Punj 372: AIR 1953 Punj 250 (251) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 15).

——Ss. 158 and 28 — Remuneration of Patwaris — Suit for recovery — No statutory rule gives to the Patwaris, who is a village Servant under S. 28, an exceptional right of recovering arrears of pay by bringing the suit—Para 14 of the Standing Orders makes no such provision. 54 Pun LR 472: AIR 1953 Punj 174 (174) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Ss. 158 (2) (xiv) and (xv), 67, 70 — Collection of land revenue — Property 'ex facie' belonging not to defaulter but to some body else — Bar of suit—Where, in pursuance of a certificate under S. 46 (2) Income-tax Act forwarded to him the Collector attached the properties of a firm which thereupon brought a suit contesting the liability of the properties for attachment and sale on ground that the assessee in respect of whom the certificate was issued was not a partner of the firm.

Held, that the Civil Court had jurisdiction to entertain the suit — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9). See Punjab Land Revenue Act (1887), S. 67. AIR 1952 Punj 340.

PUNJAB LAND REVENUE (SPECIAL ASSESSMENTS) ACT (6 of 1956)

SECTION 10

——S. 10 — Jurisdiction of civil Court — Question of title as to whether tenants are entitled to get possession of any area of land and if so how much — Civil Court alone has jurisdiction to decide. See Tenancy Laws — East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentations) Act (50 of 1948), S. 44. AIR 1965 Punj 372.

PUNJAB LAND REVENUE (SPECIAL CHARGES) ACT (6 of 1958)

SECTION 3

——S. 3 — Validity of — Expression customary rent in S. 12 (1) of Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act — Meaning of — Rent fixed in 1908 could not become customary rent — Remedies for enhancement of rent and for recovery thereof available — Provisions held valid. See Tenancy Laws — Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act (10 of 1953), S. 12. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 903.

PUNJAB LAWS ACT (CENTRAL ACT 4 of 1872)

SECTION 2

——S. 2 — Adoption — Customary law of Punjab — Applicability to Himachal Pradesh — Effect of enforcement of the Act. The enforcement of the Punjab Laws Act has not the effect of introducing Punjab Customary laws into Himachal Pradesh. Hence adoption cannot be interpreted as a means of transferring property, according to customary law prevalent, amongst Punjab Agricultural tribes. And this principle is applicable to the areas comprised in the District of Mohasu in Himachal Pradesh. AIR 1955 NUC (Him Pra) 4304.

SECTION 5

●——S. 5 — Custom — Customary law at variance with Hindu law — Proof — When pleaded must be proved. See Hindu Law — Succession. AIR 1961 SC 1374.

●——S. 5 (b) — Applicability — Claim to property on basis of special custom — Failure to prove — Plaintiff can fall back on personal law — (Hindu Law). Ujagar Singh v. Mt. Jeo. ILR (1959) Punj 1735: (1959) Supp (2) SCR 781: 1960 SCJ 16: AIR 1959 SC 1041 (1048) (Pt F) (Pr 38).

——S. 5 — Applicability — Both parties must belong to Punjab.

In the Punjab, the basis of application of customary law is S. 5 of the Punjab Laws Act of 1872, under which in questions relating to succession, adoption or any religious usage, the rule of decision shall be the custom applicable to the parties concerned, and the Hindu Law in cases where the parties are Hindus. However, this Punjab Law can only be applied if both parties are men of the Punjab. In cases where the parties belong to two different States that law does not apply. AIR 1960 Cal 597 (601, 602) (Pt C) (Prs 14, 16) (DB).

●——S. 5 — Succession Act (1925), S. 29 (2) — 'Any other law for the time being in force' — Expression covers Punjab Laws Act — (Words and Phrases — "Any other law for the time being in force") — See Succession Act (1925), S. 29 (2). AIR 1956 Him Pra 17 (FB).

SECTION 6

——S. 6 — Transfer of Property Act (1882), Ss. 111 (g), 117 — Agricultural land — Tenant repudiating tenancy by claiming title in himself — Forfeiture of tenancy — Rule of equity — In the absence of any law, usage or custom to the contrary, the principles of chapter V of the Transfer of Property Act are applicable to leases for agricultural purposes as rule of justice, equity and good conscience. Therefore tenancy of agricultural land is forfeited by repudiation by the tenant the tenancy by claiming in himself the title to the land. See T. P. Act (1882), S. 111 (g). AIR 1952 Punj 52.

PUNJAB LAWS (EXTENSION NO. 2) ACT (7 of 1957)

SECTION 4

——S. 4 — Punjab Act 17 of 1940 — Extension of to former Pepsu areas by Section 4 of Punjab Act (VII of 1957), is according to law. See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act (17 of 1940), S. 1. AIR 1963 Punj 354 (DB).

PUNJAB LAWS (EXTENSION NO. 4) ACT (18 of 1958)

SECTION 6

——S. 6 — Res judicata — Principle of — Applicability to proceedings for fixation of fair rent under Rent Acts — Fixation of fair rent in transferred territories prior to merger — No change in circumstances of tenancy — Proceeding for refixation in merged State barred. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11. AIR 1963 Punj 163.

——S. 6 — Fair rent fixed under Pepsu Urban Rent Restriction Ordinance — Fresh application for fixation of fair rent after extension of East Punjab Rent Restriction Act to Pepsu territory — Not competent. See Houses and Rents — East Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act (3 of 1949), S. 4. (1962) 64 Punj LR 1034.

PUNJAB LIMITATION (CUSTOM) ACT (1 of 1920)

PREAMBLE

——Pre. — Applicability of Act.

Act has no application to cases not governed by the customary law of the Punjab. ILR (1953) Patiala 368: AIR 1954 Pepsu 62 (64) (Pt C) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Pre. — Applicability of Act to Nabha State — Date of application—Notification of Nabha Government making Act applicable — Interpretation of.

As the notification of the Nabha Government making the Punjab Limitation (Custom) Act (No. 1 of 1920) applicable to the State and published in the Nabha Government Gazette of 27th March, 1946 recognises the fact that the Act in question as also the other Acts mentioned in the notification, had been followed in Nabha State even though they were not expressly made applicable and says that the Acts should be deemed to have been in force, then although it is not stated from when they should be deemed to have been in force, reading the entire notification it must be held that what was meant was that they should be deemed to have been in force from the respective dates on which they were first enacted by the Punjab Government. ILR (1952) Patiala 142: AIR 1952 Pepsu 85 (86) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Pre. — Limitation Act (1908), Art. 141 — Gift by Hindu widow of non-ancestral land — Death of widow — Suit by reversioners for possession against donees — Art. 141 is applicable and not Punjab Limitation (Custom) Act. See Limitation Act (1908), Art. 141. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 5723.

SECTION 6

——S. 6 — Suit filed within one year of the date of Gazette enumerating enactments which were already in force — Fact that name of Punjab Limitation (Custom) Act also appears in such list does not mean that the Act came into force for the first time on the date of Gazette — Benefit of S. 6 cannot be claimed by plaintiff and as such suit cannot be deemed to be filed within prescribed period of limitation. AIR 1952 Bilaspur 12 (12, 13) (Pt D) (Prs 4, 6).

SECTION 7

——Ss. 7, 8 and Art. 2 of Schedule — Rules of customary law — Alienation of ancestral immovable property — Descendants and reversioners not consenting can impeach such alienation — Two brothers jointly selling ancestral property — Reversioners obtaining declaratory decree — Right to sue for possession — Accrues only after death of both brothers.

Ancestral immovable property is ordinarily inalienable except for necessity or with the consent of male descendants or, in the case of a sonless proprietor, with the consent of his male collaterals.

If, one or some only out of the descendants of the alienor have consented to the alienation, then it cannot have the effect of making the alienation indefeasible or absolutely unassailable; the other or remoter descendants being fully competent to sue to set it aside. Unless, the consent or concurrence of the descendants and reversioners, who have not sued, has the effect of validating the alienation or making it unassailable and completely immune from challenge, the right of the other descendants or remoter collaterals to attack the alienation cannot be defeated. It is not necessary that consent should be given before or at the time of the alienation. This rule provides the substantive provision of customary law as prevailing in the Punjab.

The proper person to object to an alienation is the next reversionary heir. The mere assent of the next reversioner or of one of several reversioners will not by itself debar other reversioners from suing to set aside the alienation.

Held, on facts that participation of one of the two brothers in the sale could not validate the transaction or make it indefeasible as against the reversioners who had successfully impugned the sale and obtained a declaratory decree. The declaratory decree gave the right of possession to the reversioners only after the death of both the brothers. Possession of the estate could only be claimed by those who happened to be the actual heirs, according to the law of succession governing them, on death of the brothers, the alienors. 63 Punj LR 308: ILR (1960) 2 Punj 468.

——S. 7 and Arts. 1 and 2 — Suit by after-born son for possession of property given in will — Limitation — (Limitation Act (1908), S. 6).

So far as the after-born reversioners are concerned, they are not altogether unfettered by the law of limitation, and cannot exercise their rights at any time they choose. In their case, limitation would be judged from the point of view of the rightful claimant, whose existence at the material time enables them to raise the suit. The existence of a reversioner with a subsisting right does therefore affect the question of limitation and the limitation for an after-born son suing under the Punjab Customary Law on his own account and not in conjunction with any existing reversioner, to challenge an alienation made by his father or a previous maleholder, is the same as laid down in Art. 1 or Art. 2, Punjab Limitation (Custom) Act, as the case may be, for the reversioner in existence at the time of the alienation. AIR 1943 Lah 281, Foll. (1958) 60 Punj LR 492.

——S. 7, First Sch., Arts. 3, 4 — Applicability.

Suit for possession of property alleged to be ancestral immovable property on the ground that defendant was never in fact appointed an heir when no declaratory decree of the nature referred to in Art. 3 had been obtained would obviously be governed by the six years' period of limitation and the terminus a quo for the said period will be the date on which the alleged appointment of defendant became known to the plaintiff. It is for the plaintiff to allege and prove as to when the appointment became known to him. (1958) 60 Punj LR 132.

SECTION 8

——S. 8 — Alienation by widow after commencement of Act — Gift by A of his property challenged by appellants, his collaterals — Property found to be ancestral, though not in hands of common ancestors of A and the appellants — Widow of A's brother claiming property on A's death as his natural heir — Unchallenged continued possession even after the Act — Widow becomes absolute owner — Alienation valid — Provisions of Punjab Acts I and II of 1920 not attracted. See Hindu Succession Act (1956), S. 14. AIR 1962 Punj 481.

——Ss. 8 and 7 — Rules of customary law — Alienation of ancestral immovable property — Descendants and reversioners not consenting can impeach such alienations — Two brothers jointly selling ancestral property — Reversioners obtaining declaratory decree — Right to sue for possession — Accrues only after death of both brothers. 63 Punj LR 308: ILR (1960) 2 Punj 468.

——S. 8 — 'Entitled to impeach the alienation' — Meaning of.

S. 8 cannot be held to take in its scope those persons who have their own conduct, e. g., by joining in the alienation itself or by expressly consenting to the alienation itself, precluded themselves from challenging the particular alienation. Those persons must be deemed to have lost all their rights, title and interest in the property and if they are the only persons in existence at the time of the alienor's death the alienation will become indefeasible. 'Entitled to impeach the alienation' in S. 8 was intended to include those persons only who possessed in presenti any right to challenge the alienation and to exclude those who either possessed no such title or having possessed it had lost it by their own act or by the operation of law before the passing of the declaratory decree. 60 Pun LR 605: ILR (1958) Punj 1688.

ARTICLE 1

——Art. 1 — Suit by after-born son for possession of property given in will — Limitation. The limitation would be judged from the point of view of the rightful claimant where existence of the material time enables them to raise the suit. The existence of reversioner with a subsisting right does therefore affect the question of limitation and the limitation for an after-born son suing under the Punjab Customary law on his own account and not in conjunction with any existing reversioner to challenge an alienation made by his father or a previous maleholder, is the same as laid down in Art. 1 or Art. 2 of the Act, as the case may be, for the reversioner in existence at the time of the alienation. (1958) 60 Punj LR 492.

——Arts. 1 and 2 — Applicability — Articles apply to cases where reversioner seeks to avoid alienation binding on alienor — Plaintiff's case that last maleholder never executed will — Act does not apply. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4020.

ARTICLE 2

——Art. 2 — Suit by reversioner challenging alienation of ancestral land by a female owner having limited interest on allegation that she was not entitled under law and custom to sell the property — Suit is governed by Art. 2, Punjab Limitation (Custom) Act — Mere fact that law was also alleged cannot take away from the fact that sale was challenged on ground of custom as well. 133 IC 880, Ref.; AIR 1933 Lah 369, Disting. AIR 1952 Bilaspur 12 (13) (Pt C) (Prs 5, 7).

——Art. 2 of Schedule and Ss. 7 and 8 — Rules of customary law — Alienation of ancestral immovable property — Descendants and reversioners not consenting can impeach such alienation — Two brothers jointly selling ancestral property — Reversioners obtaining declaratory decree — Right to sue for possession — Accures only after death of both brothers — See Punjab Limitation (Custom) Act (1920), S. 7. 63 Punj LR 308: ILR (1960) 2 Punj 468.

——Art. 2, Sch. — Ancestral property — Alienation by last male holder with consent of next presumptive reversioner — Decree for declaration — Consenting reversioner outliving donor assailing alienation obtained by remote reversioners — Suit for possession by remoter reversioners on death of consenting reversioner — Starting point of limitation.

N, the last male holder of the suit land, made a gift of it in favour of his daughter on 25-10-29 D, the next nearest presumptive reversioner consented to the gift. The plaintiffs as remoter reversioners, thereupon instituted the usual declaratory suit impeaching the gift so far as their reversionray right was concerned. This suit was decreed on 3rd of April 1930, the declaration granted being that the alienation would not affect the plaintiffs' reversionary rights after the death of N. In 1941 N, the donor, died. The plaintiffs filed a suit for possession of the gifted land but the same was dismissed in default on 8-10-42 under Order IX, Rule 8, Code of Civil Procedure. On 8-2-50 D also died. Thereafter, the instant suit was instituted by the plaintiffs for possession of the suit land. Held that the suit was barred by time.

The right to sue accrued to the plaintiffs on the death of N. As D the next presumptive reversioner was not entitled to take advantage of the declaratory decree, having consented to the gift in question and thus disentitled himself from challenging the alienation, the plaintiff had a right to institute a suit for possession even during the life-time of D. AIR 1946 Lah 180 (FB); AIR 1938 Lah 571, Ref.

There was also another way of considering the matter. The declaratory decree passed would mean that as soon as N died the reversioners would be entitled to exercise their right as N's heirs as if no gift had been made to their detriment or prejudice. If D had, by giving his consent to the gift, waived, given up or signed away his rights in the gifted property by being disentitled to challenge the gift, then, obviously right to claim possession of this property would immediately accrue to the present plaintiffs. N having thus died in 1941 the present suit for possession would clearly be barred under article 2 (b) of schedule 1 of Punjab Act, I of 1920.

Even assuming, for the sake of argument, that D had a right to succeed to the property in question on N's death because of the declaratory decree secured by the other reversioners in 1930, then that decree would become wholly infructuous, inoperative and useless so far as the present plaintiffs were concerned, because immediately on N's death the property in suit would vest in D, who being in fact the next heir would be the male holder of the property in suit. This decree would thus have become wholly ineffective on the vesting of N's estate in D. On D's death the question would have to be determined as to who is his next heir, and succession to D's estate could not possibly be determined by a reference to the declaratory decree obtained by the other reversioners in 1930 with respect to the gift made by N as the last male holder in favour of his daughter, ILR (1959) Punj 2242.

——Art. 2 — Suit by after-born son for possession of property given in will.

The limitation would be judged from the point of view of the rightful claimant whose existence on the material time enables them to raise the suit. The existence of a reversioner with a subsisting right does therefore affect the question of limitation and the limitation for an after-born son suing under the Punjab Customary law on his own account and not in conjunction with any existing reversioner to challenge an alienation made by his father or a previous male holder is the same as laid down in Art. 1 or Art. 2 of the Act as the case may be, for the reversioner in existence at the time of alienation. (1958) 60 Punj LR 492.

——Arts. 2 and 1 — Applicability — Articles apply to cases where reversioner seeks to avoid alienation binding on alienor — Plaintiff's case that last male holder never executed will — Act does not apply — See Punjab Limitation (Custom) Act (1 of 1920), Art. 1. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4020.

ARTICLE 3

——Art. 3 and First Sch. — Suit for possession of property alleged to be ancestral on the ground that defendant was never in fact appointed an heir when the declaratory decree of the nature referred to in Art. 3 had been obtained would obviously be governed by the six years' period of limitation and the terminus a quo for the said period will be the date on which the alleged appointment of defendant became known to the plaintiff — See Punjab Limitation (Custom) Act (1920), S. 7. (1958) 60 Punj LR 132.

ARTICLE 4

——Art. 4, First Sch. — Suit for possession of property alleged to be ancestral on the ground that defendant was never in fact appointed an heir when no declaratory decree of the nature referred to in Art. 3 had been obtained would obviously be governed by six years' period of limitation and the terminus a quo for the said period will be the date on which the alleged appointment of defendant became known to the plaintiff. See Punjab Limitation (Custom) Act (1920), S. 7. (1958) 60 Punj LR 132.

PUNJAB LIQUOR LICENCE RULES (1956)

RULE 36

——R. 36 — Auction sale of excise licence — Highest bid accepted by Collector and approved by Excise and Taxation Commissioner — Deposit of one-sixth licence fee as required by rules — Highest bidder acquires legal status of licensee even though no formal licence is granted — Re-auction by Government without notice to such licensee and without giving any reasons — Legality — Action of State Government, if can be justified under Ss. 8, 36 or 41. See Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), S. 8. AIR 1963 Punj 76 (DB).

RULE 36-A

——R. 36-A and S. 35 — R. 36-B taking away in fact and in substance power of grant vested in Collector under S. 35 — Rr. 36-A and 36-B being integral both are ultra vires — See Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), S. 35. AIR 1965 Punj 284 (DB).

RULE 36-B

——R. 36-B and S. 35 — R. 36-B taking away in fact and in substance power of grant vested in Collector under S. 35 — Rr. 36-A and 36-B being integral both are ultra vires. See Punjab Excise Act (1 of 1914), S. 35. AIR 1965 Punj 284 (DB).

PUNJAB LOCAL BODIES (VALIDATION OF CONTRACTS) ORDINANCE (1 of 1951)
See under Municipalities.

PUNJAB MAIZE AND MAIZE PRODUCTS PRICE CONTROL ORDER (1948)

——Contravention of — Trial after order was cancelled — Court's right to punish. A court has power to punish an offence under the provisions of S. 7 of the Act as long as the offence was committed where the order was in force in spite of the fact that the order had been cancelled before the case was brought to trial. 55 Cr LJ 1836: AIR 1954 Punj 285 (DB).

PUNJAB MANUFACTURED DRUGS RULES (1932)

RULE 27

——Rr. 27 and 30 — Scope — Validity — Renewal of licence — Discretion of authority — Authority not bound to state or give reasons for refusal — Power is arbitrary — Reasonableness — Rule violates fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g) and Art. 19 (6). See Dangerous Drugs Act (1930), S. 8 (2). AIR 1959 Punj 526.

RULE 30

——Rr. 30 and 27 — Dangerous Drugs Act (2 of 1930), S. 8 (2) — Renewal of licence at discretion of authority — Authority not bound to state or give reasons for refusal — Power is arbitrary — Reasonableness — Rule violates fundamental right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (g) and Art. 19 (6) of Constitution — (Constitution of India, Arts. 19 (1) (g) and 19 (6)) — See Dangerous Drugs Act (2 of 1930), S. 8 (2). AIR 1959 Punj 526.

PUNJAB MINIMUM WAGES RULES (1950)

RULE 9

——R. 9 — Non-compliance — Effect.
Rules under S. 30 have been framed to regulate the meeting of the Committee. These rules provide for quorum and method of voting and enable decision to be taken by majority. It follows that the Committee may give its report even when all the members of the Committee have not attended all its meetings. It is also unnecessary that all the members of the Committee should sign the report. In any case these irregularities do not vitiate the fixation of minimum wages by the Government after taking into consideration the advice given by the Advisory Committee. AIR 1955 SC 25, Foll. AIR 1958 Punj 425 (427) (Pt C) (Pr 9).

RULE 24

——R. 24 (1) — Appointed authority allowing overtime charges to employees of Municipal Committee on basis of calculating normal working hours at 8 hours instead of 9 hours in a day — Held there is an error of law apparent on face of record and hence order must be set aside — Normal working day is of 9 hours under R. 24 (1) and not of 8 hours as the case is covered under R. 25 (2) — R. 25 (1) has no application as the Committee is not governed by provisions of Factories Act though its employees are in a scheduled employment. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. (1965-66) 28 FJR 472: ILR (1965) 2 Punj 837 (DB).

RULE 25

——R. 25 — Appointed authority allowing overtime charges to employees of Municipal Committee on basis of calculating normal working hours at 8 hours instead of 9 hours in a day — Held there is an error of law apparent on face of record and hence order must be set aside — Normal working day is of 9 hours under R. 24 (1) and not of 8 hours as the case is covered under R. 25 (2) — R. 25 (1) has no application as the Committee is not governed by provisions of Factories Act though its employees are in a scheduled employment. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. (1965-66) 28 FJR 472: ILR (1965) 2 Punj 837 (DB).

RULE 26-A

——R. 26-A — Not ultra vires of Sec. 30 of the Minimum Wages Act. 63 Punj LR 132: ILR (1961) 1 Punj 266: 1961 (2) Cr LJ 398 (Punj).

PUNJAB MOTOR VEHICLES RULES (1940)
See under Motor Vehicles Rules (1940), (Punjab).

PUNJAB MOTOR VEHICLES TAXATION ACT (4 of 1924)

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3 and 8—A selling truck and giving permit to transferee but license remaining in his name —

Till transfer of licence in accordance with law, tax liability remains on A — Proper declaration and correct particulars submitted by transferor — No duty cast on transferor to notify transfer to registering authority — No penalty can be imposed under S. 8 — 1957 M. W N. 429, Disting. 1965 Cur LJ 117: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 584.

SECTION 8

——Ss. 8 and 3 — A selling truck and giving permit to transferee but licence remaining in his name — Till the transfer of licence in accordance with law, tax liability remains on A—Proper declaration and correct particulars submitted by transferor — No duty cast on transferor to notify transfer to registering authority — No penalty can be impeached under S. 8. 1965 Cur LJ 117: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 584.

PUNJAB MUNICIPAL ACCOUNT CODE

See under Municipalities.

PUNJAB MUNICIPAL ACT (3 of 1911).

See under Municipalities.

PUNJAB MUNICIPAL ELECTION RULES, (1952)

See under Municipalities.

PUNJAB MUNICIPAL (EXECUTIVE OFFICER) ACT (2 OF 1931)

See under Municipalities.

PUNJAB NEW CAPITAL (PERIPHERY) CONTROL ACT (1 OF 1953)

SECTION 12

——S. 12 (1) and (2) — Scope — Notice under sub-sec. (2) when could be served — Sub-sections (1) and (2) not independent of each other. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 371, Disting. 1963 Cur LJ 550: 65 Pun LR 1080: ILR (1964) 1 Punj 431.

PUNJAB OCCUPANCY TENANTS (VESTING OF PROPRIETARY RIGHTS) ACT, 1952 (8 OF 1953)

See under Tenancy Laws.

PUNJAB OCCUPANCY TENANTS (VESTING OF PROPRIETARY RIGHTS) (AMENDMENT) ORDINANCE (4 OF 1958)

See under Tenancy Laws.

PUNJAB OFFICIAL LANGUAGES ACT (28 OF 1960)

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3, 4 — Punjab Gram Panchayat Act (4 of 1953) as amended in 1962, Sec. 8 — Election Petition — Prescribed Authority under, is a Court within Sec. 4 of Act 28 of 1960 — Illaqa Magistrate entertaining petition in English language does not act in excess of jurisdiction. 67 Punj LR 387: ILR(1965) 1 Punj 452.

SECTION 4

——S. 4 — Punjab Gram Panchayat Act 1953 (as amended in 1962) Sec. 8 — Election petition — Prescribed authority under, is a Court within S. 4 of Act 28 of 1960 — Illaqa Magistrate entertaining petition in English language does not act in excess of jurisdiction. See Punjab Official Languages Act (1960), S. 3. (1965) 67 Pun LR 378: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 452.

PUNJAB OPIUM ORDERS (1956)

ORDER 1

——O. 1 (d) and O. 5 — Possession of opium — Prohibition as to — Applies to possession of crushed poppy seeds. See Opium Act (1878), S. 9 (a). 1962 (1) Cr LJ 840 (Punj).

ORDER 59

——O. 59 (1) (a) — Contract Act, S. 23 — Excise contracts — Partnership agreement by licensee under Opium Act with third person in consideration of money contributed by latter, to share profits and losses of his business — Agreement does not contravene O. 59, Punjab Opium Orders or S. 23, Contract Act — Partnership is valid under Partnership Act — Opium Act (1878), S. 5 — Punjab Opium Orders (1956), O. 59 (1) (a), Rules under — Partnership Act (1932), S. 4. See Contract Act (1872), S. 23. AIR 1961 Punj 405 (DB).

PUNJAB OPIUM ORDERS (1957)

ORDER 21

——O. 21.5 — Opium extracted poppy-heads can be possessed in any quantity. ILR (1959) 1870: 1959 Cr LJ 1207: AIR 1959 Punj 497 (498) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——O. 21.5 — Order capable of two constructions — Court will adopt construction which is in favour of accused. ILR (1959) Punj 1870: 1959 Cr LJ 1207: AIR 1959 Punj 497 (498) (Pt D) (Pr 4) (DB).

PUNJAB OPIUM (RESTRICTION ON ORAL CONSUMPTION) RULES (1957)

——Validity — If inconsistent with S. 5, Opium Act, 1878 — Regulation — Meaning — Total prohibition.

The Rules, which in effect introduced rationing leading to complete prohibition of opium, are not inconsistent, with the provisions of the Opium Act, 1878, under which they were promulgated, nor are their provisions beyond the scope of the Act. Whether or not "Regulation" of an activity includes its total prohibition, depends upon the nature of activity sought to be regulated and also on the facts and circumstances of each case. 1950 AC 235 and (1888) 13 AC 446, Ref.

In the context the term 'regulation' in S. 5 includes restriction and also prohibition, of the opium trade. The Legislature in Sec. 4 of the Act has declared its decision of prohibiting sale and possession of opium. Art. 47 of the Constitution also lays down that the Government shall endeavour to bring about prohibition of consumption of intoxicating things and drugs which are injurious to health. Obviously opium is a drug which is injurious to health. It must, therefore, be held that in the context of the present case "regulations" and "conditions" include prohibition of the opium trade. ILR (1958) Punj 1332: AIR 1958 Punj 400 (401) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——Constitutional validity — Unreasonable restrictions on trade — (Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g) — Opium trade — Restrictions on) — (Opium Act (1878), S. 5).

The regulations and restrictions on the noxious trade of opium imposed by the Rules cannot be considered to be unreasonable. There is nothing improper or illegal in these rules, once it is held that the limitation of supply to addicits is legal. It is true arbitrary discretion has been given to the Excise and Taxation Officer to decide whether a particular person should be allowed to consume opium or not. But such a provision does not contravene Art. 19 of the Constitution, howsoever the trader may be affected by the decision of the officer. AIR 1957 Punj 20 and AIR 1956 Punj 97, Ref. ILR (1958) Punj 1332: AIR 1958 Punj 400 (402) (Pt B) (Prs 7, 8).

PUNJAB PANCHAYAT SAMITIS AND ZILLA PARISHADS ACT (3 OF 1961)

See under Panchayats.

PUNJAB PANCHAYAT SAMITIS AND ZILLA PARISHADS CHAIRMAN AND VICE-CHAIRMAN (ELECTIONS) RULES (1961)

See under Panchayats.

PUNJAB PANCHAYAT SAMITIS AND ZILLA PARISHADS (ELECTION) RULES (1961)

See under Panchayats.

PUNJAB PANCHAYAT SAMITIS (PRIMARY MEMBERS) ELECTION RULES (1961)

See under Panchayats.

PUNJAB PARTITION (CONTRACTS) ORDER (1947)

ARTICLE 6

——Art. 6 — Land acquired before partition of Punjab — Costs awarded — Liability to pay costs is determined not by Art. 9, Indian Independence (Rights, Property and Liabilities) Order (1947) but by Punjab Partition (Contracts) Order (1947). See Indian Independence (Rights, Property and Liabilities) Order (1947), Art. 9. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4978 (DB).

PUNJAB PASSENGERS AND GOODS TAXATION ACT (16 OF 1952)

PREAMBLE

——Pre. — Validity — Act does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (g) of Constitution of India. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 1887 (DB).

——Pre. — Validity — Act does not place restriction on inter-State trade. See Constitution of India, Art. 301. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 1887 (DB).

——Pre. — Validity — Delegation of authority. There is no delegation of legislative powers — It is really no delegation if the choice of the prescribed authority is left entirely to the State Government. See Constitution of India, Art. 245. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 1887 (DB).

SECTION 3

——S. 3 — Purchase of taxation stamps by company — Deduction in.

It was contended on behalf of the assessee that once it had been proved that the stamps worth Rs. 27,393 had been purchased during the relevant period, it should have been presumed that they had been utilised by affixation on the tickets. The assessee company, however, failed to produce the necessary evidence in this behalf.

Held, that in the circumstances of the case, the Assessing Authority had justification to find that deduction of only Rs. 10,000 should be allowed with regard to these stamps. (1965) 67 Pun LR 651.

——S. 3 (3) — Start of journey, for carrying goods in one State, termination in another and part of journey lying over road in Punjab State — Case is not covered by sub-section (3).

Where the trucks are used for the carriage of goods from places in the State of Rajasthan to Delhi, and for the purpose of travelling between Rajasthan and Delhi it is necessary to pass for some distance through the territory of the State of Punjab, such cases are not covered by sub-section (3) of Section 3. (1965) 67 Pun LR 208: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 540.

——S. 3 (3), Proviso — Person transporting goods from place outside Punjab to place also outside Punjab — Such person passing through Punjab is liable to tax under S. 3 (3).

A person who carries on goods from a place outside the territory of Punjab State to a place again outside the territory of Punjab State, but passes through the territory of the State of Punjab incurs the liability to tax under the provisions of Sec. 3 (3). He is liable to tax because in the very nature of things he first transports the goods from a place outside the Punjab to a place inside the Punjab and then transports them from a place inside the Punjab to a place outside the Punjab. There is no escape from this conclusion. Both ends are covered by the provisions of sub-sec. (3) of Sec. 3 of the Act. Further, the Proviso to Sec. 3 (3) is meant to cover a different contingency and does not in any manner restrict the provisions of Sec. 3 (3) which fastens the liability on the person the moment he enters the territory of the State of Punjab and transports the goods within that territory. (1964) 66 Pun LR 477.

——Ss. 3, 4, 8, 9 and 10 (as amended by Punjab Act II of 1952) — Act is not 'ultra vires' — Ss. 3, 4, 8 and 9 are valid — S. 10 is invalid. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 1887 (DB).

——S. 3 (3) — Locus standi to challenge validity of the Act. The persons plying their vehicles cannot challenge the validity of the Act because they are not the persons who pay the tax. The tax is paid by the passengers who are carried or the owners of goods which are transported. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1954 Punj 264 (DB).

——S. 3 (3), Proviso — Validity — (Constitution of India, Arts. 245, 246 (3), Sch. VII, Entry 56).

Prima facie the jurisdiction of a State is territorial for States can legislate effectively only for their own territories. AIR 1933 PC 16, Relied on

But a tax can also be levied by a State if the real object intended to be taxed (whether the object is a person, some species of property or some business) is within or associated with the State. The relation may consist in presence within the territory, residence, domicil, carrying on business there, or even remoter connection. If a connection exists, it is for the Legislature to decide how far it should go in the exercise of its powers. 56 CLR 337; AIR 1953 SC 252; 1953-1 MLJ 743; 1953 SCJ 373; AIR 1953 SC 274; 1953 SCJ 369; (1953) 1 MLJ 739, Relied on.

If the tax is otherwise valid, the mere fact that the State has decided to charge a heavy tax when it could as easily have charged a lighter one would not detract from the validity of the tax. A Court should endeavour to uphold the validity of a measure unless it finds clearly that the Legislature has exceeded the authority conferred upon it by the Constitution.

Held, that it was within the legislative and territorial competence of the State to enact the Punjab Act 16 of 1952. The mere fact that the Act has imposed a tax on the full amount of the fare or freight payable in respect of the entire journey of 56 miles, only five miles of which passed through the State of Punjab and the remaining 51 miles through the territories of other States shows only that the State Legislature has adopted a particular method for the assessment of the tax (1955) 6 STC (Supp) 1: ILR (1955) Punj 58: AIR 1954 Punj 264 (266) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

SECTION 4

——S. 4 (as amended by Punjab 21 of 1952) — S. 4 is neither illegal nor 'ultra vires'. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 1887 (DB).

——Ss. 4, 3, 8, 9 and 10 (as amended by Punjab Act 21 of 1952) — Act is not 'ultra vires' — Sections 3, 4, 8 and 9 are valid — S. 10 is invalid. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 1887 (DB).

——S. 4 — Locus standi to challenge validity of the Act. The persons plying their vehicles cannot challenge the validity of the Act because they are not the persons who pay the tax. The tax is paid by the passengers who are carried or the owners of goods transported. They can challenge the validity of the Act. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1954 Punj 264 (DB).

SECTION 6

——S. 6 — Evasion by assessee of payment of tax —Power of Assessing Authority to add amount in estimated income of company.

Where the Assessing Authority thinks that a transport company must have evaded payment of tax due to the Government or that tickets have been issued without affixation of Transport Tax Stamps in large numbers, assessing authority has no power under the Act to include, for these reasons, any additional amounts in the estimate of income of the company once he has determined the highest possible income which could have accrued. The only course open to the Assessing Authority is to start criminal prosecution against the transport company as provided in Sec. 17. (1965) 67 Pun LR 651.

——S. 6 (4) — Constitutionality — Section not ultra vires on ground that it confers uncontrolled or unregulated power to reopen past assessment. 66 Pun LR 683: ILR (1964) 2 Punj 181: AIR 1964 Punj 438 (441, 442) (Pt B) (Prs 11, 12) (DB).

SECTION 8

——Ss. 8 and 17 (1) (e) — Word 'ply' in S. 8 in regard to transport vehicle — It means to load and unload goods for carriage for reward — Decision in Civil Writ No. 22 of 1964, D/-27-7-1964 (Punj), Reversed. See Punjab Passengers and Goods Taxation Act (16 of 1952), S. 17 (1) (e). AIR 1966 Punj 261 (DB).

——Ss. 8 and 9 (as amended by Punjab Act 21 of 1952) — Ss. 8 and 9 are valid — S. 10 is invalid. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 1887 (DB).

SECTION 10

——S. 10 (as amended by Punjab Act 21 of 1952) — S. 10 is invalid. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 1887 (DB).

SECTION 15

——S. 15 — Revision under S. 16 — Cannot be dismissed on ground that petitioner has not paid assessed tax. See Punjab Passengers and Goods Taxation Act (1952), S. 16. (1964) 66 Pun LR 1177.

SECTION 16

——Ss. 16, 15 and 22 (2) (g) — Revision under S. 16 — Cannot be dismissed on ground that petitioner has not paid assessed tax. (1964) 66 Punj LR 1177: 1964 Cur LJ 526: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 44.

SECTION 17

——Ss. 17 (1) (e) and 8 — Word 'ply' in S. 8 in regard to transport vehicle — It means to load and unload goods for carriage for reward—Decision in Civil Writ No. 22 of 1964, dated 27-7-1964 (Punj), Reversed.

The appellant was a truck owner firm in Rajasthan State. It had a permit for its vehicle in Rajasthan State and was countersigned by the R. T., as of Delhi and Punjab States. The appellant was passing through the areas of Punjab State while transporting goods without loading and unloading in areas of Punjab State.

Held, that the appellant firm could not be prosecuted for the offence under Sec. 17 (1) (e). Decision in Civil Writ No. 22 of 1964, dated 27-7-1964 (Punjab), Reversed. (1965) 67 Punj LR 208, Foll. 1965 Cur LJ 831: 68 Pun LR 100: ILR (1966) 1 Punj 757: AIR 1966 Punj 261 (262) (Prs 3, 4) (DB).

SECTION 22

——S. 22 (2) (g) — Revision under S. 16 — Cannot be dismissed on ground that petitioner has not paid assessed tax. See Punjab Passengers and Goods Taxation Act (1952), S. 16. (1964) 66 Pun LR 1177.

PUNJAB PASSENGERS AND GOODS TAXATION RULES (1952)

RULE 21

——Rr. 21 and 29 — Applicability and Scope— Rule 29 covers all cases of under-assessment or escaped assessment while R. 21 deals with assessment and is meant for a purpose entirely different from the one for which R. 29 has been framed — Rule 29 would apply to a case where passenger tax has been paid in advance by way of adhesive stamps and there is an order imposing additional tax. 66 Pun LR 683: ILR (1964) 2 Punj 181: AIR 1964 Punj 438 (442) (Pt C) (Pr 13) (DB).

RULE 29

——R. 29 — Validity — Best judgment assessment provided under Rule — Provision is not unconstitutional.

Without assessment of tax the prescribed authority cannot carry out the duty with which it is charged under Sec. 6 (4) and, therefore, not only that Rule 29 would be directly connected with the aforesaid provision but it could also validly be promulgated under the general and wide powers conferred by Sec. 22 (1) and it is not possible to understand how any omission in sub-sec. (2) of Sec. 22 of a particular head under which R. 29 could be brought would render that rule void. Rule 29 is essentially meant for securing the payment of tax and for carrying into effect the provisions of the Act.

Per Dua, J. :— A statutory provision conferring, in general terms, power and imposing duty to make assessment includes by implication, in the absence of limitation, the incidental and necessary power and duty of making an assessment on best judgment basis, if circumstances so warrant, for, it means no more than power to construct procedural machinery to make assessment; of course it must not violate rules of natural justice. When a valid statute, otherwise complete in itself, enacts the general outline of a legislative scheme, policy or purpose, and confers upon the executive wing, charged with the duty of assisting in administering the law, authority within defined intelligible limits to make rules, such conferment of authority may not be unconstitutional delegation or abdication of legislative power.

Rule 29 is intended to include within its purview making an assessment to the best of the assessing Authority judgment when the owner declines assistance by producing all the relevant material with him; in other words, when he obstructs the assessment by, what may be described as, non-co-operation. AIR 1964 Punj 438, Distinguished. ILR (1965) 1 Punj 487.

——Rr. 29 and 21 — Rule 29 covers all cases of under-assessment or escaped assessment while R. 21 deals with assessment and is meant for a purpose entirely different from the one for which R. 29 has been framed — Rule 29 would apply to a case where passenger tax has been paid in advance by way of adhesive stamps and there is an order imposing additional tax. See Punjab Passengers and Goods Taxation Rules (1952), R. 21. AIR 1964 Punj 438 (DB).

PUNJAB POLICE RULES (1934)

RULE 10.70 (2)

——Vol. I, R. 10.70 (2) and Vol. II, Rr. 16.17 and 16.19 — Suspension of Police Officer — Honourable acquittal by Court — Reinstatement — Rule 10.70 (2) applies — Period of suspension to be treated as duty — Full salary during such period payable. AIR 1959 SC 1342, Discussed and Rel. on; AIR 1938 Cal 759 and AIR 1954 Punj 298, Dist. ILR (1962) 1 Punj 171: AIR 1961 Punj 558 (559) (Pr 5) (DB).

RULE 13.18

——Rr. 13.18, 16.4 (as applied to Himachal Pradesh) — Reduction in rank — When amounts to punishment — Police Sub-Inspector promoted to selection grade — Misconduct in investigation — Reversion with retrospective effect, during period of probation — Order amounts to punishment only so far as it was retrospective — Order quashed only to that extent. See Constitution of India, Art. 311 (2). 1962 (1) Cri LJ 721: AIR 1962 Him Pra 35.

——R. 13.18 — Constitution of India, Art. 311— — Respondent's name placed on List E under polic Rules — Promotion to officiate on higher post — Reversion and name removed from list — Held, in the cricumstances, it was by way of punishment and it was in contravention of Art. 311. See Constitution of India, Art. 311. ILR (1964) 1 Punj 84.

RULE 16.3

——Vol. II, R. 16.3 (1) (c) — Departmental inquiry upon evidence cited in criminal case — Suspicion of guilt — Judgment of criminal Court held, did not suggest acquittal on technical ground or suspicion resting upon Police Officer — Departmental proceedings, held not sustainable under Cl. 1 (c). 1965 Cur LJ 509 (Punj).

——R. 16.3 (1) (d) — Departmental inquiry upon evidence cited in criminal case — Charge different from one in criminal case — Facts forming basis of departmental inquiry found not unconnected with charge in criminal case — Same facts held, could not be subject-matter of departmental inquiry — Provisions of sub-cl. (d) held, negative effect of Cl. (1). 1965 Cur LJ 509 (Punj).

RULE 16.4

——Rr. 16.4, 13.18 (as applied to Himachal Pradesh) — Reduction in rank — When amounts to punishment — Police Sub-Inspector promoted to selection grade — Misconduct in investigation — Reversion with retrospective effect, during period of probation — Order amounts to punishment only so far as it was retrospective — Order quashed only to that extent. See Constitution of India,

Art. 311 (2). 1962 (1) Cri LJ 721: AIR 1962 Him Pra 35.

RULE 16.17

——Vol. 2, Rr. 16.17 and 16.19 and Vol. 1, R. 10.70 (2) — Suspension of Police Officer — Honourable acquittal by Court — Reinstatement — Rule 10.70 (2) applies — Period of suspension to be treated as duty — Full salary during such period payable. See Punjab Police Rules (1934), Vol. 1, R. 10.70 (2). AIR 1961 Punj 558 (DB).

RULE 16.19

——Vol. 2, Rr. 16.19 and 16.17 and Vol. 1, Rule 10.70 (2) — Suspension of Police Officer — Honourable acquittal by Court — Reinstatement — R. 10.70 (2) applies — Period of suspension to be treated as duty — Full salary during such period payable. See Punjab Police Rules (1934), Vol. 1, R. 10.70 (2). AIR 1961 Punj 558 (DB).

RULE 16.23

——R. 16.23 — Vigilance Department conducting investigation of complaint against Police Officer —District Magistrate according necessary permission as recommended by Superintendent of Police — No reasons recorded for same — Rule 16.38 held contravened — Case held not covered by R. 16.23. See Punjab Police Rules (1934), R. 16.38. 1964 Cur LJ 150 (Punj).

RULE 16.24

——R. 16.24, Ch. 16 — Contravention — No right of action. See Police Act (1861), S. 7. AIR 1955 Punj 118.

RULE 16.38

——R. 16.38 (1) and (2) — Provisions are mandatory — Non-compliance — Departmental enquiry is illegal.

Sub-rules (1) and (2) of Rule 16.38 must be held to be mandatory in so far as whenever any complaint is made against a police officer of a criminal offence in connection with his official relations with the public they enjoin that the Superintendent of Police must forward the complaint to the District Magistrate who will decide whether the investigation should be conducted by a police officer or made over to a Magistrate and then after examining the result of such investigation the District Magistrate has to decide and has to give reasons in his decision for proceeding against the police officer departmentally and not prosecuting him judicially if the investigation establishes a prima facie case.

Held, on facts that as the mandatory provisions of the police R. 16.38 were not followed, it must be held that the departmental enquiry which was being conducted against the petitioner was altogether illegal and invalid. AIR 1961 SC 751, Rel. on. 63 Pun LR 860: AIR 1962 Punj 38 (39, 40) (Prs 4, 5).

——Rr. 16.38 (1) and (2) and 16.23 — Vigilance Department conducting investigation of complaint against Police Officer — District Magistrate according necessary permission as recommended by Superintendent of Police — No reasons recorded for same — Rule 16.38 held contravened — Case held not covered by R. 16.23 — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 4 (1) (h) and (1). AIR 1962 SC 195 and 65 Punj LR 802, Disting. 1964 Cur LJ 150 (Punj).

——R. 16.38 — Submission of complaint papers to District Magistrate — Superintendent of Police is required to submit papers only when complaint is received directly by him.

The Superintendent of Police is enjoined under Cl. (1) of Rule 16.38 of the Police Rules to submit the papers to the District Magistrate only when the complaint is received directly by him. This is obviously because the head of the police force in a district is subordinate to the District Magistrate who has to give directions on such matters. (1965) 67 Punj LR 763.

——Vol. II, Rr. 16.38 and 16.23 — Police Act (1861), S. 7 — Constitution of India, Arts. 310, 311 and 226 — Held, on facts that there had been full and substantial compliance with the statutory rules and the constitutional requirements — There had been no denial of the principles of natural justice in the enquiry which had been conducted by the appropriate authority. (1963) 65 Pun LR 802: 1963 Cur LJ 473.

RULE 17.1

——Chap. 17, R. 17.1 — Foot-constable performing duties of drill instructor in accordance with R. 17 (1) — Disobedience to lawful order of superior authority to perform guard duty—Offence under S. 29, Police Act, is committed. See Police Act (1861), S. 29. 1955 Cri LJ 944: AIR 1955 Him Pra 29.

RULE 26.2

——Vol. 3, Chap. 26, R. 26.2 — Punjab Police Act, S. 4 — Scope — The rules made under the Police Act do not override the Criminal Procedure Code. See Police Act (1861), S. 4. AIR 1953 Punj 149.

PUNJAB POLICE RULES (1959)

RULE 16.25

——R. 16.25 (2) — Charge of failing to reach and maintain reasonable standard of efficiency — Held, not vague — Efficiency includes honesty so far as Police officer is concerned. AIR 1960 All 543 and AIR 1953 Nag 138, Dist. 64 Pun LR 1157: 1962 Cur LJ 577: AIR 1963 Punj 503 (505) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

RULE 16.38

——Vol. II, R. 16.38 — District Magistrate sanctioning initiation of departmental enquiry into conduct of Police officer, at suggestion of Superintendent of Police—No reasons given for sanction —

Rule 16.38 is contravened — Dismissal of Police officer as result of inquiry set aside — 1964 Cur LJ 146 (Punj) and 1964 Cur LJ 150 (Punj), Foll. Government servant — Dismissal, discharge and suspension — Departmental inquiry in contravention of Rules. 1965 Cur LJ 1: 67 Pun LR 523.

——R. 16.38 — Scope and interpretation — Rule is confined only to departmental inquiries and Court cannot interpret it so as to apply it to trials in Courts — Prior sanction of District Magistrate for trials in Court not required — Interpretation of Statutes — Interpretation of rules under Act— Court cannot interpret rules so as to make, modify or amend them — Civil P. C. (1908), Preamble— Interpretation of Statutes.

The court cannot make law, it can merely interpret or construe it, and not modify or amend it under the cloak or guise of interpretation, though in this process of construction it may give the law shape, but this is permissible only within the strict limits of discernible legislative scheme or intent.

The Police Act enacted for the regulation of police is designed to reorganise the police and to make it a more efficient instrument for the prevention and detection of crime. There is no provision in the Act which deals with the subject of trial of the Police officers in the ordinary Criminal Courts for the offences of corruption alleged to have been committed by them.

After considering the purpose and object of rules in the opening part of Chapter 16 headed 'Punishments' as also of parent Act (Act No. 5 of 1861) empowering the framing of these rules, it is somewhat difficult to construe them in a manner which would add to the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure or the Prevention of Corruption Act or any other statute dealing with or regulating the prosecution of offences in the ordinary Courts of law so as to make the sanction or order by the District Magistrate under Rule 16.38, Punjab Police Rules (1959) to be a mandatory condition precedent for such a prosecution.

Therefore, the language of R. 16.38 of the rules has to be confined only to departmental enquiries. The investigation for establishing a prima facie case is merely meant to guide the District Magistrate, uncontrolled by the opinion of the Superintendent of Police, whether or not a departmental proceeding should be initiated against the guilty party, and it is the procedure and the punishment controlling the departmental proceedings alone, which have been prescribed by this rule. (1965) 67 Pun LR 438: ILR (1964) 2 Punj 605.

——R. 16.38 — Scope.

Rule 16.38 relates to a criminal offence committed by a Police officer in connection with the official business of the public. An enquiry against Police officer involving a charge of misconduct, impertinence and refusal to answer questions of the superior officer is not covered by the rule. ILR (1956) Punj 361: AIR 1956 Punj 102 (104) (Pt C) (Pr 9).

RULE 23.4

——R. 23.4 — Surveillance Register No. 10 — Keeping of — If unconstitutional — (Police Act (1861), Ss. 12 and 23) — (Constitution of India, Arts. 14 and 19 (1) (d)).

Surveillance Register kept under Police Rules is no more than a confidential Police record which enables the Police to perform its duties more efficiently. Maintaining such register is not unconstitutional. There is no doubt that to apprehend a person who is not alleged to have committed a crime or to restrict his liberty in any way would be illegal but to keep watch over a bad character cannot be said to infringe any right given to him under the Constitution or by any law. The rules quite clearly lay down that the Surveillance Register is a confidential document and an entry made in it does not affect the personal liberty of the individual in any way. Therefore, it is not necessary that any notice should be given to the person concerned before his name is entered in this register. If his personal liberty is at any time interfered with, then the aggrieved person has a clear remedy under law. ILR (1959) Punj 1369: 61 Pun LR 441: 1959 Cri LJ 900: AIR 1959 Punj 323 (323) (Pr 3) (DB).

RULE 24.4

——R. 24.4 — Surveillance Register No. 10 — Maintenance of, is not unconstitutional — The register, however, cannot be publicly displayed. AIR 1959 Punj 323, Foll. 67 Pun LR 528: AIR 1966 Punj 268 (269) (Pr 1).

RULE 24.5

——Vol. 3, R. 24.5 — Object — Should be complied with promptly — Offence of murder — Rule cannot be circumvented by registering it under S. 304, Penal Code.

In murder cases, because of the enormity of the stakes involved, certain additional safeguards are provided to ensure that the version of the occurrence is disclosed as soon as possible thereafter. One of those safeguards is the provision in R. 24.5 which requires a copy of the first information report to be sent to the Illaqa Magistrate immediately after the report is made. If the facts given in the first information report disclose the commission of an offence of murder, it is not open to the officer recording the first information report to circumvent the requirements of the R. 24.5 by registering a case under S. 304, I. P. Code, instead of S. 302, I. P. Code. (1963) 65 Punj LR 409.

PUNJAB PRE-EMPTION ACT (1 OF 1913)

PREAMBLE

——Pre. — Act is intra vires the Constitution — (Constitution of India, Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5)). AIR 1955 NUC (Him Pra) 3680.

——Pre. — Constitutional validity — If offends Art. 31 of the Constitution — (Constitution of India, Art. 31 (2) (5) and (6)).

Clause (5) of Art. 31 is very wide in its scope and nothing in Cl. (2) provided expressly or impliedly can affect the provisions of any existing law. The Punjab Pre-emption Act does not fall under Cl. (6) and as such is an existing law within the meaning of Cl. (5) and therefore, does not offend the provisions of Cl. (2). AIR 1952 SC 252; 1952 SCJ 354, 427, 446, Distinguished. ILR 1954 Pepsu 545: AIR 1954 Pepsu 180 (184) (Pt D) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Pre. — Constitutionality of Act — (Constitution of India, Art. 14).

Article 14 forbids class legislation; but it does not shut out classification for the purpose of legislation.

From the provisions of the Punjab Pre-emption Act it is obvious that the statute operates equally on all persons including the group of pre-emptors and the classification is not arbitrary, but it bears a reasonable relation to the objective which the Legislature had in view. The tests laid down in AIR 1953 SC 404 are, therefore, complied with and the Act does not offend the provisions of Art. 14. ILR (1954) Pepsu 545: AIR 1954 Pepsu 180 (184) (Pt F) (Pr 11) (DB).

●——Pre.—Scope—Repeal of Punjab Alienation of Land Act — Effect — (Punjab Alienation of Land Act (13 of 1900)).

The repeal of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act by the Adaptation of Laws (Third Amendment) Order, 1951, does not render the provisions of Sections other than Ss. 2 (4), 14, 13, 24, 29 and the concluding clause of S. 9 of the Act to be void. The restrictions imposed by those sections are severable and the deletion of those provisions does not affect the constitutionality of the Act. Uttam Singh v. Kartar Singh, ILR (1954) Punj 232: 55 Punj LR 500: AIR 1954 Punj 55 (56) (Pt C) (Pr 10) (FB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 SC 1476.]

SECTION 3

——S. 3 (5) (b) — Document whether sale of proprietary rights or merely creates occupancy rights in transferee — (Deed — Construction).

A deed executed by S specifically mentioned therein that occupancy rights were being created in favour of B under S. 8 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and that the right of succession in favour of the heirs of B would be governed by the provisions of S. 59 of the said Act. It was further provided that neither S nor any successor of her would be entitled to eject B otherwise than in accordance with the law. The right to cut trees was conferred on the transferee, but only in accordance with the terms of the Wajib-ul-arz. The consideration for the alienation was stated to be Rs. 1,000 though its market value was Rs. 1,200. S reserved to himself only a malikana of 2 annas in the rupee:

Held, that the document did not amount to a sale of proprietary rights and the only effect of the document was the creation of occupancy rights in favour of B. Hence, the transaction was not a sale liable to pre-emption. The fact that the consideration was high or that the terms were favourable to the transferee was of no importance in determining the question. 1911 PLR 187, Dist. AIR 1953 Bilaspur 1 (2) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 7).

——S. 3 (5) — Suit for specific performance decreed — Vendor ordered to execute sale-deed—Failure — Court appointing Commissioner to execute sale deed — Held sale as per sale deed was pre-emptible — Civil P. C. (1908), O. 21, R. 34 (5)—AIR 1951 Cal 551; AIR 1919 Lah 118, Rel. on. AIR 1949 Lah 72, Not considered; AIR 1949 Lah 22, Disting. 67 Punj LR 74: 1965 Cur LJ 86: AIR 1965 Punj 346 (347, 348) (Prs 8, 12, 15).

——S. 3 — Small bits of land situated in factory area and sold for purpose of constructing factory—Not 'agricultural land' for the purpose of the operation of the law of pre-emption though described as banjar qadim and though baira karaba grown on it occasionally — Also do not form "village immovable property" — Pre-emption — Law of—Construction in light of nation's progress and economy. ILR (1963) 2 Punj 52.

——Ss. 3 (5) and 4 — Compromise to avoid alienation — If 'sale' — Right of pre-emption.

The suit in which the compromise was arrived at was a suit to avoid an alienation and not a suit based on contract for the transfer of property. The compromise was that the suit for possession would be decreed if a certain sum was paid within two months, failing which the suit shall stand dismissed. The sons of the defendant treating this compromise as a sale by their mother filed a suit for pre-emption:

Held, that the amount paid was a little more than the price of the land could not by itself make the decree a sale. The right claimed by the plaintiffs in the suit which was recognized by the compromise was not a right of reconveyance but a right to avoid an unauthorised transfer. The nature of the compromise was such that it could not be held to be a sale and, therefore, there was no right of pre-emption. (1961) 63 Punj LR 345.

——S. 3 — Applicability — Agricultural land diverted to non-agricultural purposes prior to sale — Right of pre-emption — 'Land' — (Punjab Alienation of Land Act (13 of 1900), S. 2 (3)).

For purposes of pre-emption under the Punjab Pre-emption Act, the nature of land sought to be pre-empted is to be seen as on the date of sale. Where on the date of the sale, the property had been entirely diverted from its original agricultural use to the use of a 'bhatta' and the only finding possible was that on the date of the sale the land had ceased to be agricultural land and was being put to use, for a period exceeding one and a half years, to purposes other than agricultural, the property in dispute cannot be treated as 'land' as defined in sub-sec. (3) of Sec. 2 of the Punjab Land Alienation Act which is the definition of land for the purposes of S. 3 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act. The mere fact that the land is assessed to land revenue will not necessarily prove that it is 'land' as defined in S. 2 (3) of the Punjab Land Alienation Act. (1959) 61 Punj LR 716.

——S. 3 — Sale — Property taken under indemnity clause.

The property taken under an indemnity clause does not amount to a sale within the meaning of S. 3 of the Pre-emption Act and there is no right of pre-emption in such a case. 48 PLR 301, Foll. AIR 1952 Punj 297 (298) (Pr 3).

SECTION 4

——S. 4 — Right of pre-emption — Is an aggressive right — No equity in favour of pre-emptor—Right must be strictly construed — Constitution of India, Art. 19.

It is now well settled that the right of pre-emption is an aggressive right. It operates as a clog on the right of the owner to sell his property to a person of his choice and must, therefore, be strictly construed. AIR 1959 Punj 117, Foll.

There is no question of any hardship on any occasion for equitable considerations in favour of the pre-emptor in construing the law of pre-emption. Prima facie any restriction on a citizen's right to dispose of his property is unconstitutional and can be upheld only on the ground of reasonable restrictions as contemplated by Art. 19 of the Constitution. Therefore, such restrictions must not be interpreted more widely than the circumstances and object of the Legislature justify: AIR 1960 SC 1368, Foll. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 614.

——S. 4 — Patiala and East Punjab States Union Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (5 of 2007 B.K.), Ss. 24, 25— Interpretation of — Land allotted to vendees in consolidation operations — Is subject to right of pre-emption within ambit of S. 24 — It is not an encumbrance within meaning of S. 25 — Right of pre-emption, nature of — It can be exercised when allotted land is not inextricably mixed up with ancestral land — Words and Phrases — Encumbrance.

A right of pre-emption is not a charge upon or a claim against land as it does not arise out of any private grant or contract. Therefore, S. 25 of the Act is of no avail in enforcing right of pre-emption against land allotted in pursuance of a scheme of consolidation.

Section 24 of the Act is not confined to relationship between landlord or tenant-at-will inter se and further that rights of the third party in the land, other than those rights specifically mentioned in Section 25 of the Act, can be enforced against the land-owner in respect of the land allotted to him in consolidation in lieu of his original holdings.

The right of pre-emption imposes a corresponding burden which can be enforced against the owner of the land the sale of which is sought to be pre-empted, and to that extent there is an infirmity in the title of the owner. Section 24 of the Act provides that the land-owner shall have the same right in the land allotted to him in pursuance of the scheme of consolidation as he had in his original holdings; therefore, it follows that if there was any infirmity in his title to the original holdings, the same infirmity will attach to his title in the land allotted. It is true that the holder of the land, subject to right of pre-emption, is its full owner but there is a clog to his power of alienation. By virtue of Section 24, the same clog which is attached to the original holding will attach to the land allotted to the land-owner in pursuance of the scheme of consolidation: (1946) 48 PLR 536; AIR 1948 EP 22; (1949) 51 PLR 394; AIR 1949 PC 87; AIR 1954 SC 417, Foll.

There is no difficulty in the exercise of the right of pre-emption where the land allotted is not inextricably mixed up with the ancestral land. ILR (1961) 2 Punj 882.

——S. 4 — Suit to set aside alienation — Compromise that the suit for possession would be decreed if a certain sum was paid within two months failing which the suit shall stand dismissed — Held, the nature of the compromise was such that it could not be held to be a sale and therefore, there was no right of pre-emption — The suit for pre-emption brought by the plaintiff was therefore, dismissed. See Punjab Pre-emption Act (10 of 1913), S. 3 (5). (1961) 63 Punj LR 345.

——S. 4 — Sale or gift — (Transfer of Property Act (1882), Ss. 54, 122).

The vendors were a Christian Mission. They wanted to help Christians who had been serving them. Property worth Rs. 8,000 was alleged to be sold for Rs. 190. No money was paid before the Registrar. There was evidence that no money was received from the alleged transferee as price but he had only to pay some subscription.

Held, that the transaction was a gift and not a sale. AIR 1954 Punj 116 (117) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

●——S. 4 — Nature of pre-emptive right.

The pre-emptive right is primary and secondary in nature. It is a primary right which exists before the sale and a secondary one which arises when a sale has been effected. Uttam Singh v. Kartar Singh, ILR (1954) Punj 232: 55 PLR 500: AIR 1954 Punj 55 (60) (Pt E) (Pr 48) (FB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 SC 1476.]

——Ss. 4 and 15 (b), 'fourthly' — Plaintiff must show that the rights existed on date of sale — He cannot be allowed to improve his position after the date of sale. AIR 1953 Punj 97 (97, 98) (Prs 14, 15) (DB).

SECTION 5

●——S. 5 — 'Katra' — Expression not defined in the Act — Primary meaning is 'enclosure' — Secondary meaning is 'market' — Generally katra would be a business locality though there might be purely residential katras. See Words and Phrases — 'Katra'. AIR 1962 SC 1476.

——S. 5 (b) (as amended by Punjab Act 10 of 1960) — Scope of — Land reclaimed up to date of suit and not beyond — Saved from pre-emption suit.

It is the sale of waste land reclaimed by the vendee which is protected from the hands of the pre-emptor and obviously the relevant date is the one when the pre-emption suit is filed. The vendee is given protection by the Legislature only in respect of land which he may have reclaimed since it was sold to him. The vendee is not given a carte blanche to reclaim as much of the land as he can even after the pre-emption suit is filed. R.S.A. No. 51 of 1961, dated 20-7-1961 (Punj.), Approved. Thus, the land which is saved from the pre-emption suit is only the land which has been reclaimed up to the date of the suit and not beyond. ILR (1963) 1 Punj 193.

——S. 5 — Transaction held amounted to lease— Suit for pre-emption could not lie — Transfer of Property Act (1882), Ss. 105, 111 (g).

In a deed of permanent lease the annual rent was fixed at Rs. 40. The premium money was to be Rs. 9,000 out of which a sum of Rs. 8,500 was to be paid before the Sub-Registrar at the time of the registration of the deed and the balance of Rs. 500 was to be paid by the lessees for payment to the mortgagees who could get the land redeemed by making that payment. The lessees were given the right to cultivate the land or bring it into any use. If the land was acquired by the Government, then the lessees were entitled to receive out of the compensation money the amount of the premium as also the amount spent by them on improvements. If at any time the lessees had to make payment of land revenue, they were entitled to deduct the same from the annual rent. If at any time the lessees were deprived of the possession over the land, they were entitled to be indemnified to the extent of the premium money and the improvements from the property of the lessor.

Held, that the transaction was one of lease according to its apparent tenor and not of sale, and a suit for pre-emption could not lie. AIR 1924 All 60, Rel. on. (1962) 64 Punj LR 165.

SECTION 7

——S. 7 — Custom of pre-emption — Custom did not exist in Mohalla Nim Tala. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4006.

——S. 7 — Civil P. C., S. 100 — Question of fact ——Question whether town comprises recognised sub-divisions is one of fact. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 100. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4006.

——S. 7 — Mohalla Nim Tala of Palwal town is separate sub-division of Palwal town. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4006.

——S. 7 — Custom of pre-emption — Proof of— Judicial instances in contested cases — Custom held did not prevail in Mohalla Sanicharan of town Rae Kot of Ludhiana District — Custom (Punjab). AIR 1951 Punj 392 (392, 393) (Prs 3, 6).

SECTION 8

——Ss. 8 (2), 21 — Sale of agricultural land in 1959 in favour of Harijan — Suit by brother of vendor for pre-emption on 30-9-1960 — Decree passed in favour of plaintiff confirmed in appeal on 21-12-1961 — Right of pre-emption in cases of sales of land in favour of Harijan taken away by notification under S. 8 (2) on 2-12-1962 pending second appeal — Subsequent amendment of notification on 21-12-1962 taking away right of pre-emption only in cases of sale effected after 31-3-61 — Pre-emptor is entitled to the passing of decree in second appeal — Pre-emption — Right of. 1965 Cur LJ 519 (Punj).

SECTION 9

——S. 9 (as applied to Himachal Pradesh) — After accession Chief Commissioner selling lands to defendants — Plaintiff filing suit claiming that as collateral he had preferential right to purchase lands — Government held were at liberty to dispose of lands in any manner they chose — Sale held could not confer upon plaintiff right of pre-emption. See Escheat — Lands escheated to State before accession. AIR 1957 Him Pra 61.

SECTION 10

——S. 10 — Hindu joint family — Sale by karta —Right of pre-emption by members.

If property is joint family property of a joint Hindu family, every coparcener is a joint owner of the same and when a karta or a manager sells the property, he sells not only his own share but by the provisions of the Hindu Law he has the power of selling and does sell the interest of every member of the family. It may be that other members have the right to have the sale set aside on the grounds which are peculiar to Hindu Law, i.e., the sale is not for consideration and necessity. But that does not mean that the interest of every member of the family is not sold away, and if right, title and interest of every member are sold for pre-emption such a member will be a party to the sale, and, therefore, under S. 10 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act he has not the power to sue for pre-emption. 67 IC 76 (Lah) and AIR 1935 Lah 560, Foll.; AIR 1929 Oudh 265 (FB), Diss.; AIR 1920 All 131, Ref. AIR 1952 Punj 195 (196) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

SECTION 11

●——S. 11 — Deposit by pre-emptor in pre-emption suit — Suit dismissed — Deposit can be attached by creditor-decree-holder in money suit against pre-emptor — Protection of S. 11 can be waived by agreement. See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 22. AIR 1964 Punj 171 (FB).

——S. 11 — Validity — Abolition of rights founded on custom — Effect on rights of pre-emption does not result in discrimination. See Hindu Succession Act (1956), S. 4. AIR 1958 Punj 44 (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1960 Punj 196.]

SECTION 12

——S. 12 — Applicability.

The Punjab Pre-emption Act is not applicable to the sale taking place before the coming into force of the Act. AIR 1954 Him Pra 20 (20) (Pt C) (Pr 3).

SECTION 13

●——Ss. 13 and 15 — Provision similar to S. 21, Agra Pre-emptions Act (U. P. Act 11 of 1922) not introduced — Implication. 1965 Cur LJ 598: 67 Punj LR 849: ILR (1965) 2 Punj 706: AIR 1966 Punj 36 (FB).

SECTION 14

●——Ss. 14, 15, 23 (before its amendment in 1960) — Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900 — Repeal of — Consequential removal of the fetters imposed by Sections 14 and 23 of Punjab Pre-emption Act — Substantial provision in S. 15 is not affected.

Neither the repeal of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900, by the Adaptation of Laws (Third Amendment) Order, 1951, nor the consequential removal of the fetters imposed by Ss. 14 and 23 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1913, have the effect of rendering the substantive provision contained in S. 15, not available to those who satisfy its terms. Ram Sarup v. Munshi, (1963) 3 SCR 858: 65 Punj LR 531: 1963 SCD 728: AIR 1963 SC 553 (559) (Pt C) (Pr 13).

——S. 14 — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9 — Jurisdiction of Civil Court — Question whether vendees belong to agricultural tribe arising in case under S. 14, Punjab Pre-emption Act — Jurisdiction whether barred by provisions in Punjab Alienation of Land Act — Punjab Alienation of Land Act (13 of 1900), S. 4. AIR 1950 East Punj 246.

——Ss. 14 and 15 — Scope — Repeal of Punjab Alienation of Land Act — Effect.

The Punjab Alienation of Land Act having been repealed, there is no distinction between "agriculturist" and "non-agriculturist" in Punjab State and therefore the provisions of S. 14, Punjab Pre-emption Act, are of no effect, but this circumstance does not in any way affect the provisions of S. 15, as S. 15 is in no way dependent upon S. 14. If S. 14 is treated as non-existent, S. 15 can still stand by itself. The repeal of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act does not in any way affect the provisions of S. 15 or render them null and void. 54 Pun LR 395: ILR (1953) Punj 227: AIR 1953 Punj 20 (20) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

SECTION 15

SYNOPSIS

(Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 15.)

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Validity of the section.
3. Law before Amending Act (10 of 1960).
4. Amending Act of 1960 — Effect on pending proceedings.
5. Sale by a co-sharer — Pre-emption — Sub-sec. (1) (b).
6. Sale by a female — Pre-emption — Sub-sec. (2) (b).
7. Right of pre-emption, when to subsist.
8. Consent to sale by minor's guardian — Effect of.
9. Parties to the suit.

1. Scope and applicability.

——S. 15 (as amended by Punjab Act 10 of 1961). Sale of land not hit by S. 17-A of Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act — Purchase of land by tenants pending suit for pre-emption — Bar against pre-emption did not apply. See Tenancy Laws—Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act (1953), S. 17-A. (1965) 67 Pun LR 1034: 1965 Cur LJ 517: AIR 1966 Punj 179 (DB).

——S. 15 — Village immovable property — Right of pre-emption.

As respects village immovable property, right of pre-emption has no nexus to the quantum of share heritable from the vendor or vendors. The right of challenge is given to a class or group of persons connected together by the tie of relationship with the vendor. Before the Punjab Pre-emption Act was amended, large number of persons in respect of their relative preferential proximity to the vendor had been selected. The amendment, however, cut down that group to closer relationship by blood. Any one or more of that class or group can impugn the sale successfully and obtain possession on payment of the total sale price. L.P.A. No. 339 of 1961, dated 10-4-1963 (Punj.), Distinguished. 1965 Cur LJ 632: 67 Punj LR 919.

——S. 15 (1) and (2) — Sale under S. 15 (2) — No right of pre-emption — Interpretation of Statutes — Construction.

The scheme of Section 15 (1) of the Punjab Pre-emption Act is that it vests a right of pre-emption with regard to agricultural land and village immovable property on certain specified persons and that too with reference to the sale by a particular type of person. The first type of person is a sole owner. The second type of person is a co-sharer and the sale is of share by him out of the joint holding. The third type is the co-sharers and the sale is of land jointly held by them. As far as the applicability of S. 15 (2) is concerned, the opening words of Section 15 (2) are "notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1)". Then there are two categories of sales dealt with in Clauses (a) and (b). The first category of sale dealt with is by a female of land or property to which she succeeds through her father or brother. The second type of sale is by a female where she succeeds through her husband or through her son. If the sale is a sale under sub-sec. (2) of Sec. 15, the plaintiff pre-emptor has no right to pre-empt. The plaintiff pre-emptor will have only a right of pre-emption if the sale is of second type under S. 15 (1). 1965 Cur LJ 44: 67 Punj LR 132.

●——Ss. 15 and 16 — Object of.

The objects underlying Ss. 15 and 16 are: (1) to preserve the integrity of the village and the village community; (2) to avoid fragmentation of holdings; (3) to implement the agnatic theory of the law of succession; (4) to reduce the chances of litigation and friction and to promote public order and domestic comfort; and (5) to promote private and public decency and convenience. Uttam Singh v. Kartar Singh, ILR (1954) Punj 232: 55 Punj LR 500: AIR 1954 Punj 55 (58) (Pt D) (Pr 28) (FB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 SC 1476.]

——Ss. 15, 14 — Repeal of Punjab Alienation of Land Act — The provisions of S. 14, Punjab Pre-emption Act, are of no effect — There is no distinction between 'agriculturists' and 'non-agriculturists' in the Punjab State — The repeal does not in any way affect the provisions of S. 15 or render them null and void. See Punjab Pre-emption Act (10 of 1913), S. 14. AIR 1953 Punj 20 (DB).

2. Validity of the section.

●——S. 15 (a) (before its amendment by Punjab Act 10 of 1960), S. 15 (1) (a) (and after amendment) — Pre-emption restricts right given by Art. 19 (1) (f) of Constitution — However, provisions in S. 15 (a), whether before or after amendment, do not transgress limits of reasonableness required by Art. 19 (1) (f) — Punjab Pre-emption Act is valid. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1963 SC 553.

●——S. 15 (1) (c), Thirdly (before its amendment in 1960)—Restriction placed on right of vendor in regard to disposal of his agricultural land—Restriction is reasonable — S. 15 (c) Thirdly is valid See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1963 SC 553.

——Ss. 15 and 16 — Scope — If ultra vires — Sections are not ultra vires. AIR 1954 Punjab 55 (FB), Foll. — (Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f)). ILR (1954) Pepsu 545: AIR 1954 Pepsu 180 (181) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Ss. 15, 16 — Classification under — Basis of —Validity — If contravenes Art. 14 — (Constitution of India, Art. 14).

The Punjab Pre-emption Act has made classification on the basis of agricultural land and village immovable property as a separate subject-matter falling with the scope of Sec. 15 and urban immovable property falling within the scope of S. 16. The classification is based on an intelligible differentia which distinguishes one type of property from other types of property and the differentia has a rational relation to the objects behind the right of pre-emption with regard to each type of property inasmuch as the right is secured to a set of persons in each case having regard to the object underlying the right to acquire, hold and dispose of property being ultra vires Article 14 of the Constitution. AIR 1953 Punjab 20 and AIR 1954 Punj 55 (FB) and ILR 7 All 775, Rel. on. 60 Punj LR 151: AIR 1958 Punj 44 (45) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1960 Punj 196.]

●——Ss. 15 and 16 — Validity — (Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5)).

The restrictions imposed by Ss. 15 and 16 upon the right guaranteed by Art. 19 (1) (f) are in the interests of the general public of the State. It cannot also be sustained that the restrictions have no reasonable relation to the object which the legislation seeks to achieve or go in excess of that object. The sections are, therefore, not ultra vires. Uttam Singh v. Kartar Singh, ILR (1954) Punj 232: 55 Punj LR 500: AIR 1954 Punj 55 (58) (Pt A) (Prs 32, 33, 35, 36) (FB).

[Overruled in AIR 1962 SC 1476 (in so far as this holds that the sixth ground in Section 16 is constitutional).]

——S. 15 — Scope — If ultra vires — (Constitution of India, Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 19 (5)).

There can be very little doubt that the law of pre-emption is a clog or fetter upon the freedom of sale. It disqualifies certain types of persons from purchasing land freely. But the sole object of this legislation is to preserve the homogeneity of the village community and to prevent fragmentation of holdings. The terms of S. 15 do not go beyond the objects aimed at and the restrictions imposed are just sufficient to achieve the interest of general public. Section 15 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act is not ultra vires the Constitution. Case-law Rel. on. 54 Punj LR 395: ILR (1953) Punj 227: AIR 1953 Punj 20 (20, 21) (Pt B) (Prs 4, 6, 7) (DB).

3. Law before Amending Act (10 of 1960).

——S. 15 (c), Secondly — Admission.

In the absence of a clear and specific averment in the plaint that the Thulla in which the land was situate was a separate sub-division and, therefore, the plaintiff had a superior right of pre-emption, the allegations in the written statement held cannot be regarded as admissions of that fact. See Civil P. C. (1908), O. 8, R. 5. AIR 1955 NUC (Pepsu) 256 (DB).

——S. 15 (c), Secondly — Sub-division of a village — Plaintiff claiming preferential right of pre-emption on ground that they were also owners of Thulla Jogian where defendants owned no land— Plaintiff must prove sub-divisions of Patti were well marked and were authenticated by Settlement Records and history of the village. AIR 1955 NUC (Pepsu) 256 (DB).

——S. 15 (b), Fourthly — Right of pre-emption— Requisites of — Pre-emptor must be co-sharer— Right must subsist up to date of decree — Burden of proof is on plaintiff — Each and every land owner in estate is not co-sharer — Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101-104 — Punjab Land Revenue Act (17 of 1887), S. 3 (1). 1964 Cur LJ 480: 66 Punj LR 1063.

——S. 15 (c), Secondly — Sub-division — Sub-division of village into separate panas — Homogeneity of descent is quite sufficient to show separation of village into distinct areas for purposes of Act. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4949.

——S. 15 (b), Thirdly — Custom — Succession— Collaterals — Property of non-proprietor.

A collateral more distant than the third degree, has no right of succession to the property of a non-proprietor, under the Punjab Customary Law. Therefore, a collateral of the fifth degree has no right to pre-empt a sale of a house of a non-proprietor under S. 15 (b) (thirdly) of the Punjab Pre-emption Act. AIR 1952 Punj 295 (296) (Pr 8).

——S. 15 — Punjab Tenancy Act, S. 59 — Heir— Meaning of — Landlord — Death of an occupancy tenant without leaving any heir — His rights merge in rights of ownership of the landlord — Landlord does not take as an heir of the tenant — He has, therefore, no right to pre empt the sale of occupancy rights under the provisions of S. 15 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act. See Tenancy Laws — Punjab Tenancy Act (16 of 1887), S. 59. AIR 1952 Punj 156 (DB).

——S. 15 — Right of pre-emption — Landlord, if heir of deceased occupancy tenant — Punjab Tenancy Act, S. 59.

A landlord cannot be regarded as an heir to a deceased occupancy tenant under S. 59 of the Punjab Tenancy Act and consequently he has no right to pre-empt the sale of occupancy rights under the provisions of S.15 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act. It may be that when an occupancy tenant dies without leaving any heirs his occupancy rights merge in the rights of ownership of the landlord and for all practical purposes devolve on the landlord but this devolution takes place not because the landlord is an heir but because the rights themselves have ceased to exist. ILR (1952) Punj 162: AIR 1952 Punj 156 (157) (Pr 14) (DB).

——S. 15 (c) — The question whether a particular village comprises recognised sub-divisions is a question of fact and is not open to challenge in second appeal — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 100: 1887 PR 64, Appl. ILR (1951) Punj 149: AIR 1951 Simla 182 (182) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

——S. 15 (c) — Sub-divisions — Tarafs when sub-divisions.

Tarafs to be distinct sub-divisions must be distinct entities having nothing common between them each having homogeneity of the area and descent.

(On facts established held that the taraf in question was distinct sub-division.) ILR (1951) Punj 149: AIR 1951 Simla 182 (183) (Pt B) (Pr 12).

4. Amending Act of 1960 — Effect on pending proceedings.

●——Ss. 15 and 31 (as amended by Punjab Act 10 of 1960) — Right of pre-emption — Right ac-

crued in favour of owner of estate under old S. 15 (c), Thirdly — Newly substituted S. 15 abrogating this right — Retrospective effect of S. 31 — Decree passed in favour of pre-emptor owner of estate — Appeal preferred by unsuccessful vendee — Effect to provision in S. 31 has to be given by appellate Court and decree vacated.

By Section 4 of the Punjab Amending Act 10 of 1960, S. 15 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1913, is repealed and in its place it substituted a new provision which omits to confer a right of pre-emption in the case of persons 'owning land in the estate' as the original S. 15 (c), Thirdly, had done. The new S. 31, inserted in the principal Act, which is retrospective, affects rights to pre-emption which had accrued before the coming into force of the Amending Act, 1960. Even agreeing with the view that there is a presumption against the retrospective operation of a statute, still in the present case the language used in S. 31 is plain and comprehensive so as to require an appellate Court to give effect to the substantive provisions of the Amending Act whether the appeal before it is one against a decree granting pre-emption or one refusing that relief. Where, therefore, an appeal is preferred by an unsuccessful vendee against a decree passed by both the trial and appellate Courts in favour of the pre-emptor and pending the appeal, the new Ss. 15 and 31 come into force, the decree passed in favour of the pre-emptor has to be set aside and the suit for pre-emption dismissed, as required by S. 31. AIR 1941 FC 5 and 62 Pun LR 291, Rel. on. Ram Sarup v. Munshi, (1963) 3 SCR 858: 65 Pun LR 531: 1963 SCD 728: AIR 1963 SC 553 (562, 563) (Pt F) (Prs 26, 27, 28, 29).

●——S. 15 (1) (c) (as amended by Act 10 of 1960) — Retrospective operation of S. 31 — Applies both to rights extinguished by amendment as well as to rights newly created — Hence, appellate Court must recognise in pending pre-emption matter, rights newly created by amending Act. See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913) (as amended by Act 10 of 1960), S. 31. (1963) 2 SCJ 659.

5. Sale by a co-sharer — Pre-emption — Sub-sec. (1) (b).

——S. 15 — Applicability — Sister of female vendor is competent to pre-empt sale.

Section 15 (1) does not make any distinction between a sale made by a female or a male and talks only of sales made by a sole owner, co-sharer or joint owner of agricultural property. This provision does not exclude the sale executed by a female sole owner of the property, co-sharer or joint owner, and the pre-emption claim of the sister of such owner falls within this sub-section being a co-sharer.

Where the property in the hands of the vendor, female owner, had come to her not through her father, brother, son or husband but through her mother, and that too not as a result of inheritance or succession but under a gift deed executed in her favour jointly with her sister who was claiming pre-emption of sale by former, S. 15 (2) was not applicable. Under S. 15 (1), the sister of female vendor being co-sharer, was competent to pre-empt the sale. 65 PLR 500, Dist. 1966 Cur LJ 10.

——S. 15 (1) and (2) (as amended in 1960) — Applicability — Although special provisions override the general, such overriding is only to the extent of inconsistency between the two — No doubt, S. 15 (2) overrides S. 15 (1) — However, it does not altogether exclude the applicability of S. 15 (1) — As such, S. 15 (1) (a) will apply to sales by a female of properties other than those dealt with in S. 15 (2) — Property acquired by wife as gift from her husband — Such acquisition cannot be equated to inheritance by her from her husband and hence S. 15 (2) will not apply — Since S. 15 (1) (a) will apply, her son is entitled to claim superior right of pre-emption. 1963 PLR 500 and 1965 PLR 132, Dist.—(Civil P. C. (1908), Preamble — Interpretation of Statutes — (Interpretation of Statutes — General and Special provisions). (1965) 67 Pun LR 1108: ILR (1966) 1 Punj 257.

——S. 15 (1) (b), Fourthly (as amended by Punjab Pre-emption (Amendment) Act 10 of 1960) — Punjab Occupancy Tenancy (Vesting of Proprietary Rights) Act (8 of 1953), S. 3 — Occupancy rights enjoyed by widow ripening into full ownership under Punjab Act 8 of 1953 — Widow can alienate land as she likes — Pre-emption by co-sharer under S. 15 (1) (b), Fourthly, cannot be challenged by vendee — Tenancy Laws — Punjab Occupancy Tenants (Vesting of Proprietary Rights) Act (8 of 1953), S. 3. (1963) 65 Pun LR 821.

——S. 15 (1) (b), Fourthly and S. 15 (2) (b) — Widow succeeding to occupancy rights of husband — Conversion of those rights into full ownership rights under Pepsu Occupancy Tenants (Vesting of Proprietary Rights) Act, 1953 — Widow becomes absolute owner — Co-sharer in widow's land entitled to pre-empt.

Where a widow enters into enjoyment of the occupancy rights in succession to her deceased husband, she only enjoys a widow's estate but the effect of her own conversion of these occupancy rights into a full ownership in accordance with the provisions of the Pepsu Occupancy Tenants (Vesting of Proprietary Rights) Act, 1953, is that she becomes an absolute owner of the land and is entitled to alienate it in any manner she likes. The widow acquires the occupancy rights for herself and not as representative of her deceased husband. This absolute estate is separate and S. 15 (2) (b) of the Act is not applicable to such property and a co-sharer in the holding of such widow is entitled to pre-empt in pursuance of S. 15 (1) (b) (4th clause) of the Act. ILR (1960) Punj 47 and AIR 1925 Lah 305, Rel. on. 1962 Cur LJ 136: (1962) 64 Pun LR 349.

6. Sale by a female — Pre-emption — Sub-sec. (2) (b).

——S. 15 (1) and (2) — Scope — Co-sharer's right of pre-emption under sub-sec. (1) is subject to what is provided in sub-sec. (2) — (Words and Phrases—"Notwithstanding anything contained in") — (Interpretation of statutes — "Notwithstanding anything contained in").

The clear effect of the words 'notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1)' in sub-sec. (2) of S. 15 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act is that the provisions of sub-section (1) giving right of pre-emption to a co-sharer under sub-clause (Fourthly) of Cl. (b) must give way to what is provided for in sub-section (2). Therefore, in the case of property to which females have succeeded through their father, brother or husband, the right of pre-emption is given only to very close relations and certainly not to co-sharers: AIR 1955 SC 191. Rel. on. (1963) 65 Pun LR 500: ILR (1963) 2 Punj 233.

——S. 15 (2) (b), First clause (as amended in 1960) — Son and daughter — Must be those of the female vendor and her husband whose property is sold — Illegitimate son and illegitimate daughter of female vendor — Not entitled to pre-empt the sale.

It is clear from the legislative scheme in enacting sub-sec. (2) of S. 15 that it is only the sale by a female of the property which has come to her by succession from her father, brother or husband, that is made pre-emptible. The husband's property might come to her direct or through her son and here the reference to the son means her son from her husband whose property has come to her by succession. The son and daughter mentioned in First clause of S. 15 (2) (b) are, therefore, the son and daughter of both the female vendor and her husband whose property is the subject-matter of sale, which is sought to be pre-empted. Therefore, an illegitimate son or an illegitimate daughter of the female vendor was not held entitled to pre-empt: AIR 1954 Mad 136 and AIR 1957 All 215, Not foll. ILR (1961) 2 Punj 614.

●——S. 15 (2) (b) (as amended by Act 10 of 1960) — "Son or daughter of such female" — Means only legitimate son or daughter of female vendor. Gulraj Singh v. Mota Singh, (1964) 7 SCR 205: 1964 CIS (IJ) 13: (1964) 1 SCWR 486: 1964 Cur LJ (SC) 181: 66 Punj LR 746: (1965) 1 SCJ 254: AIR 1965 SC 608 (609, 610) (Prs 3, 4).

7. Right of pre-emption, when to subsist.

——S. 15 (b) (iii) — Applicability and scope — Applies to person not included in first and second parts of S. 15 (b) and who would have been entitled to inherit property on death of vendor. AIR 1955 NUC (Him Pra) 3680.

——Ss. 15, 17, 21-A (as amended by Punjab Act 10 of 1960) — Tenant's right of pre-emption — Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act (10 of 1953), Sec. 17-A — Applicability — Transfer of Property Act (1882), Sec. 52 — Sale held hit by doctrine of pendente lite — Vendees becoming co-sharers subsequent to institution of suit — Plaintiff's right of pre-emption, if could be defeated — 62 PLR 247, Disting. — Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act (10 of 1953), Sec. 17-A —Transfer of Property Act (1882), Sec. 52 — Pre-emption. 1964 Cur LJ 200: 66 Pun LR 507.

——S. 15 (b) fourthly and S. 4 — Plaintiff must show that the rights existed on date of sale — He cannot be allowed to improve his position after the date of sale. See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 4. AIR 1953 Punj 97 (DB).

8. Consent to sale by minor's guardian — Effect of.

——S. 15 — Right of son — Consent by son — Consent to sale by natural guardian of minor son — No bar to minor's suit for pre-emption. 89 Punj LR 1912, Foll. (1960) 62 Punj LR 691.

9. Parties to the suit.

●——S. 15 — Suit for—Person having no right of pre-emption made co-plaintiff by pre-emptor — Right of pre-emptor is not forfeited — Right lawfully created must be respected — Precedents — Ratio and reasoning of previous decision not shown erroneous — Decision would not be overruled though another view is equally possible view — Agra Pre-emption Act (U. P. Act 11 of 1922), S. 21 — Provision similar to, not introduced in Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913) — Implication. Bachan Singh v. Bhupal Singh, 1965 Cur LJ 398: 67 Pun LR 849: ILR (1965) 2 Punj 706: AIR 1966 Punj 36 (38, 39) (Pt A) (Prs 8 to 11) (FB).

SECTION 16

●——S. 16—Validity—The sixth ground (vicinage) for vesting the right of pre-emption in respect of urban immovable property is unconstitutional. Bhan Ram v. Baji Nath, 1962 Jab LJ 676: AIR 1962 SC 1476 (1479 to 1485) (Pt A) (Prs 3 to 8, 10, 11, 13, 16).

——Ss. 16, 15 — Sections are not ultra vires: AIR 1954 Punj 55 (FB), Foll. (Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f)). See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 15. AIR 1954 Pepsu 180 (DB).

●——S. 16, sixthly — Validity—The provisions are not ultra vires the provisions of Art. 19 of the Constitution — Restrictions imposed by law of pre-emption are not unreasonable. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f). AIR 1960 Punj 196 (FB).
[Overruled in AIR 1962 SC 1476.]

——Ss. 16, 15 — Classification under — Basis of — Validity — Do not contravene Art. 14 — (Constitution of India, Art. 14). See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 15. AIR 1958 Punj 44 (DB).

——S. 16 — Validity — (Constitution of India, Arts. 19 (1) (f), 19 (5)).

It is obvious that the right of pre-emption restricts the rights of the owner to dispose of his property as he pleases and the rights of the vendee to acquire the property. Article 19 of the Constitution is immediately attracted, but according to Cl. (5) of Art. 19 what is to be seen is whether those restrictions are reasonable restrictions on the exercise of the right to acquire, hold and dispose of property specified in Art. 19 (1) (f). A restriction placed to secure objects is on the face of it a restriction in the interests of the general public and consequently within the scope of Art. 19 (5).

The provisions of Sec. 16 with regard to first five classes of persons, who are entitled to enforce a right of pre-emption in regard to urban immovable property on the ground of joint use of part or whole of the property provide a reasonable restriction on the right to acquire, hold and dispose of property and that is in the interest of general public. The same consideration cannot apply to the sixth class of persons referred to in S. 16 for their right is based not on any common use of the property but merely on the ground of contiguity. The right of pre-emption in their favour cannot be said to secure public order and to be in the interest of general public. Consequently the restriction imposed by the right of pre-emption in their favour cannot be described reasonable restriction within the scope of Art. 19 (5). The right of pre-emption claimed by the plaintiff, under clause 'sixthly' of Sec. 16 of the Act is thus a right which is not consistent with the provisions of Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution and as such cannot be enforced. 60 Punj LR 151: AIR 1958 Punj 44 (46, 47) (Pt C) (Prs 5, 6) (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1960 Punj 196 which is itself overruled in AIR 1962 SC 1476 affirming AIR 1958 Punj 44.]

——S. 16 — Right of easement—Proof—To prove the right of easement claimed by the plaintiff and to make him dominant owner it was necessary to prove that the plaintiff was in peaceful, uninterrupted and open enjoyment of that right for a period of 20 years lasting within two years of the suit. See Easements Act (1882), S. 4. AIR 1957 Punj 238 (DB).

●——S. 16 — Validity — Ss. 15 and 16 are not ultra vires. See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 15. AIR 1954 Punj 55 (FB).

[Overruled in AIR 1962 SC 1476 in so far as this holds that the sixth ground in S. 16 is constitutional.]

●——S. 16 — Object of Sections 15 and 16 enumerated. See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 15. AIR 1954 Punj 55 (FB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 SC 1476.]

SECTION 17

●——S. 17 — 'B' got a decree for pre-emption — Before he deposited the decretal amount another pre-emptor 'C' also filed a suit for pre-emption — B deposited the amount and got possession — Held, as B was substituted in the place of vendee before C's suit was disposed of C was not entitled to a decree for share of the land under Section 17 Punjab Pre-emption Act though he had an equal right of pre-emption. See Transfer of Property Act (1882), S. 52. 1958 SCJ 1234: AIR 1958 SC 838.

——Ss. 17 and 21-A (as amended by Punjab Act 10 of 1960) — Tenant's right of pre-emption — Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act (10 of 1953), Section 17-A — Applicability — Transfer of Property Act (1882), S. 52 — Sale held hit by doctrine of pendente lite — Vendees becoming co-sharers subsequent to institution of suit — Plaintiff's right of pre-emption if could be defeated. See Punjab Pre-Emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 15. 1964 Cur LJ 200 (Punj).

——S. 17 — Scope.

Section 17 applies to those persons who are proposing to exercise the right of pre-emption and have not yet exercised it and cannot apply to a person who has already exercised the right. Hence where A only obtains a decree for pre-emption by consent, B who had an equal right of pre-emption with A, cannot subsequently claim a share in the land pre-empted under Section 17 of the Act. ILR 11 Lah 258 (FB), Foll.; AIR 1927 All 664, Ref. ('51) 53 PLR 92: AIR 1952 Punj 206 (207) (Pr 7).

SECTION 19

●——Ss. 19, 20 and 28 — Scope and effect of on right of pre-emption.

The right of pre-emption is not a right to the thing sold but a right to the offer of a thing about to be sold. This right is called the primary or inherent right. The pre-emptor has a secondary right or a remedial right to follow the thing sold. It is a right of substitution but not of re-purchase i.e., the pre-emptor takes the entire bargain and steps into the shoes of the original vendee. It is a right to acquire the whole of the property sold and not a share of the property sold. Preference being the essence of the right, the plaintiff must have a superior right to that of the vendee or the person substituted in his place. It can be defeated by all legitimate methods, such as the vendee allowing the claimant of a superior or equal right being substituted in his place. Sections 19, 20 and 28, Pre-emption Act do not materially affect the characteristics of the right of pre-emption as existed before the Act. The provisions do not in any way enable the pre-emptor to exercise his right without establishing his superior right over the vendee or the person substituted in his place or to prevent the vendor or the vendee by legitimate means to defeat his right by getting substituted in place of the vendee a pre-emptor with a superior right to or an equal right with that of the plaintiff. Nor does Section 28 preclude the Court from giving a decree for pre-emption in a case where the two suits were not joined together but one of the suits was decreed separately. The section enacts a convenient procedure, but does not affect the substantive rights of the parties. Bishan Singh v. Khazan Singh, ILR (1958) Punj 2225: 1959 SCR 878: 1958 SCJ 1234: AIR 1958 SC 838 (841, 842) (Pt A) (Prs 11, 13, 14, 15).

——Ss. 19, 20 — Sale of property of insolvent by special official receiver after proclamation — Refusal to purchase by B having right of pre-emption — Refusal made to the clerk of the Official Receiver — Intending purchasers must be presumed to have known of the refusal — B is estopped from subsequently claiming right of pre-emption — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 115).

An occupancy tenant of land situated in a village became insolvent and his property vested in Spsecial Official Receiver. The occupancy right in the land was sold to the vendee after issuing proclamation in the village and the adjoining villages. Neither B. who had a right of pre-emption nor anybody else had come forward to purchase the occupancy rights. B was specially asked by the clerk of the Special Official Receiver to purchase but he declined to do so in unequivocal language. Thereupon the Special Official Receiver searched for another purchaser and ultimately sold the rights to the vendee Upon this sale B claimed his right of pre-emption:

Held, that B was estopped from claiming the right of pre-emption. The refusal was made directly to the clerk of the Special Official Receiver whose agent he was and it could be presumed having regard to human conduct and to ordinary course of business (both public and private) that the intending purchasers would have come to know from the Special Official Receiver and his clerk that B had refused to purchase. In these circumstances B intentionally permitted even if he did not intentionally cause the intending purchaser, the vendee included, to believe that he was not buying the property. B having generated this belief could not now be allowed to say that he still mentally reserved to himself any pre-emptive right. Case law Ref. AIR 1952 Punj 255 (256, 258) (Prs 8, 13) (DB).

SECTION 20

●——Ss. 20, 19 and 28—Right of pre-emption—Effect of Act on the right — They do not materially affect the characteristics of the right of pre-emption as it existed before the Act. They provide a convenient and effective procedure for disposing of together different suits, arising out of the same transaction etc. and to regulate the distribution of the pre-empted land between rival pre-emptors — (Pre-emption). See Punjab Pre-Emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 19. AIR 1958 SC 838.

——Ss. 20, 19 — Sale of property of insolvent by Special Official Receiver after proclamation — Refusal to purchase by B having right of pre-emption -- Refusal made to the clerk of the Official Receiver — Intending purchasers must be presumed to have known of the refusal — B is estopped from subsequently claiming right of pre-emption — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 115). See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1913), Section 19. AIR 1952 Punj 255 (DB).

SECTION 21

——S. 21 — Suit for pre-emption of sale — Defence that decreeing of suit would be violative of Section 19-A of Punjab Act, 10 of 1953 —Held, question of violation could arise only at the time of execution of decree and not at the time of granting it. See Tenancy Laws — Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act (10 of 1953), S. 19-A. 67 Pun LR 735: ILR (1965) 2 Punj 513: AIR 1966 Punj 310 (DB).

●——S. 21 — Suit for — Person having no right of pre-emption made co-plaintiff by pre-emptor — Right of pre-emption is not forfeited — Right lawfully created must be respected — Precedents — Ratio and reasoning of previous decision not shown erroneous — Decision would not be overruled though another view is equally posssible view — Agra Pre-emption Act (U. P. Act (11 of 1922), S. 21 — Provision similar to, not introduced in Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913) — Implication — 83 Pun Re 1893, Foll. Bachan Singh v. Bhupal Singh, 1965 Cur LJ 598: 67 Pun LR 849: ILR (1965) 2 Punj 706: AIR 1966 Punj 36 (38, 39) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 9, 10, 11) (FB).

SECTION 21-A

——S. 21-A — Tenant's right of pre-emption — Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act 10 of 1953, Section 17-A — Applicability — Transfer of Property Act, Section 52 — Sale held hit by doctrine of pendente lite — Vendee becoming co-sharer subsequent to institution of suit — Plaintiff's right of pre-emption if could be defeated. See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1913), Section 15. 1964 Cur LJ 200.

——S. 21-A —Vendee selling house before institution of pre-emption suit — Sale-deed registered after suit — Substitution of vendee's vendee takes place when the deed was executed — Doctrine of lis pndens not applicable — The plaintiff could not succeed as he had no superior right of pre-emption as against the defendent— (Registration Act (1908), S. 47) — (Transfer of Property Act (1882), S. 52). 59 Punj LR 310: AIR 1957 Punj 238 (243) (Pt F) (Pr 22) (DB).

——S. 21-A — Improvement in status of vendee — Effect.

Sale of land to defendants 2 to 7 — Share purchased by defendant 7 who was stranger on date specified in sale deed but not the share of purchase price paid by him — Suit by plaintiff for pre-emption — Plaintiff and defendants 2 to 6 collaterals in equal degree of vendor — Defendant 7 selling his share to defendants 2 to 6 after institution of pre-emption suit — Defendants 2 to 6 having associated with defendant 7 who was stranger sank to level of a stranger — Plaintiff held had a superior right of pre-emption — Improvement in status of defendants 2 to 6 after institution of suit by purchase of share of defendant 7 cannot affect right of pre-emptor plaintiff — Sale is indivisible for purposes of pre-emption. AIR 1945 Lah 184 and AIR 1928 Lah 784, Rel. on; 19 All 148, Not Foll. ILR (1953) Punj 631: 55 Punj LR 175: AIR 1953 Punj 128 (128) (Prs 8, 10, 14).

SECTION 22

——S. 22 — Failure of plaintiff to deposit one-fifth amounts — Trial Court rejecting plaint on misapprehension of facts — Appeal — Discretion of trial Court — Power of appellate Court — The appellate Court is empowered to set aside the order of rejection of the plaint. See Punjab Courts Act (6 of 1918), S. 39. AIR 1950 East Punj 264 (DB).

——S. 22 — Section 22 as applied to Himachal Pradesh — Deposit under — Demand after settlement of issues — Plaint rejected on failure to deposit — Order held not disposal on preliminary point — Remand — Second appeal held not maintainable — Matter held could be dealt with under revisional powers— Successor Judge held could not demand deposit under S. 22 (1) after settlement of issues — Previous proceedings should be got quashed — Maintainability— (Civil P. C. (1908), O. 41, R. 23; O. 43, R. 1 (u); S. 115). AIR 1955 NUC (Hlm Pra) 2344.

——S. 22 — Duty of Court— Court must specify probable value of property 1/5 of which is required to be deposited as security — Plaintiff is not to be left to his own assumption on estimate — Probable value does not invariably mean price entered in sale deed — Failure to mention probable value — Order is imperfect ILR (1952) Patiala 342: AIR 1953 Pepsu 23 (23) (Pr 1).

●——Ss. 22, 11 — Deposit by pre-emptor in pre-emption suit — Suit dismissed — Deposit cannot be attached by creditor-decree-holder in money suit against pre-emptor — Protection of Section 11 can be waived by agreement. Maharaj Kishan Mulkh Raj v. Tara Singh, 66 Pun LR 127: ILR (1964) 1 Punj 255: AIR 1964 Punj 171 (174, 176, 177, 178) (Prs 15, 23, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31) (FB).

——S. 22 — Court has discretion to grant extension of time for making deposit but discretion must be exercised judicially— Order passed in presence of plaintiff's counsel on date of institution of suit that deposit should be made on or before 1-5-62 — Application for extension of time made on 10-10-62 — Affidavit by counsel that order for deposit was never conveyed to him by Court and that it was not passed in his presence — Held, statement in affidavit that counsel was not present could not be believed — If counsel had been inattentive when order was made that was no ground to exercise leniency in matter of extension of time in making deposit which was made peremptory in pre-emption suit. Blunt v. Blunt, 1943 AC 517 and 1920 (55) IC 621, Ref. (1963) Cur LJ 315 (Punj).

SECTION 23

●——S. 23 (before its amendment in 1960) — Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900 — Repeal of — Consequential removal of Ss. 14 and 23 of Punjab Pre-emption Act — Substantial provision in Section 15 is not affected. See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913) (Before its amendment in 1960), S. 15. AIR 1963 SC 553.

SECTION 27

——S. 27 — Decree for possession by pre-emption in respect of part of property sold — Liability of pre-emptor, for sale-price — Extent of — Pre-emptor is liable to pay market value for only that property contained in the decree — Pre-emption — Partial pre-emption. R. S. A. No. 312 of 1959 dated 21-12-1961 Reversed.

The right of pre-emption is a right of substitution, and if a plaintiff is found to have a superior right of pre-emption only in respect of a part of the property sold and gets a decree for possession in respect of that part, it would be only to the extent of the part of the property sold that there would be substitution of the plaintiff in place of the vendee. As substitution would be confined only to a part of the property sold, it seems but fair that the plaintiff should be made to pay the price which represents that part of the property in respect of which he is substituted. In such a case it is the real market, value of that portion that is to be determined and it is not a fair way of dealing with the matter to work out the value according to the total price paid as the area pre-empted may be more valuable than the rest of the land or there may be special consideration for accepting a comparatively low price. AIR 1929 Lahore 140, Foll.; 2 IC 65 and AIR 1936 All 732, Rel. on; 103 Punjab Record 1919 and AIR 1945 Lahore 11, Disting, R. S. A. No. 312 of 1959 dated 21-12-1961 Reversed.

Observation — A pre-emptor must take the sale as a whole and in case he is entitled to pre-empt the whole of the property sold he cannot be allowed to pick and choose and pre-empt only a part of the property sold which he finds to be profitable or convenient and to leave the other property, because this would militate against the rule which forbids the partial exercise of the right of pre-emption. (1966) 68 Punj LR 128.

SECTION 28

●——Ss. 28, 19 and 20 — Right of pre-emption — Effect of Act on the right — Section 28 enacts a convenient procedure but does not affect the substantive rights of the parties — (Pre-emption). See Punjab Pre-emption Act (1 of 1913), S. 19. AIR 1958 SC 838.

——S. 28 — More than one suit for pre-emption in respect of same sale — Each plaintiff in each suit should be joined as defendant in other suit — Non-compliance does not render decree a nullity — Objection should be raised in trial Court.

Under Section 28 when more suits than one arising out of the same sale or foreclosure are pending, the plaintiff in each suit shall be joined as defendant in each of the other suits, and in deciding the suits the Court shall in each decree state the order in which each claimant is entitled to exercise his right. This section only deals with a matter of procedure and therfore, non-compliance with it would hardly render the decree a nullity. It is only if the plaintiff in a pre-emption suit is aware of the pendency of another pre-emption suit that he is enjoined to implead the rival pre-emptor plaintiff, Mis-joinder or non-joinder of parties or causes of action (unless of course the parties are admittedly essential) is merely an error, defect or irregularity in proceedings and therefore do not by themselves affect the merits of the case or the jurisdiction of the Court. (1959) 61 Punj LR 774.

SECTION 30

——S. 30 — Limitation Act, S. 29. Arts. 10, 120 — Applicability — Pre-emption suits in Pepsu—Cases in Pepsu which do not fall under Art. 10 of the Limitation Act all governed by Section 30 Punjab Pre-emption Act — Cases not falling under Art. 10 or Section 30 of Punjab Pre-emption Act will be governed by Art. 120 of the Limitation Act. See Limitation Act (1908), S. 29. AIR 1956 Pepsu 17.

——S. 30 — Suit for pre-emption — Limitation —Starting point of—Suit for pre-emption of property capable of physical possession — Period starts from the date of possession. See Limitation Act (1908), Art. 10. 1965 Cur LJ 507: AIR 1966 Punj 181 (DB).

——S. 30 — Limitation Act, Art. 10 — Land sold capable of physical possession — Suit for pre-emption — Starting point of limitation — Oral sale of agricultural land — Delivery of physical possession to vendee on date of sale reported to Patwari — Patwari's report cannot be considered as evidence of the date on which delivery of physical possession took place. See Limitation Act (1908), Art. 10. AIR 1964 Punj 323.

——S. 30 — Limitation — Starting point — Sale of agricultural land — Knowledge of sale on part of pre-emptor does not cause limitation to run — Suit for pre-emption within time if filed within 1 year of date of attestation of mutation or from date when transfer of possession took place. (1964) 66 Punj LR 91.

●——S. 30 (3) — Limitation Act (1908), Articles 10, 120 — Principle underlying S. 30 and Art. 10 — Sale of property — Physical possession not possible — Art. 120 — Applicability of.

Section 30 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1913, is a residuary provision excluding so far as possible Article 120 of the Limitation Act, 1908. But if the taking of physical possession of any part of the property in consequence of the sale is not possible or is not effected, S. 30 (3) can have no application. The principle underlying both Article 10, Limitation Act, and Section 30, Punjab Pre-emption Act is that of the notice afforded to the pre-emptor by the transfer of physical possession or by the registration of the sale-deed. If the transaction of sale is affected in such manner that such notice has not occurred, resort to the residuary Art. 120 is unavoidable. Kherati Ram v. Ram Lal, 53 Pun LR 147: ILR (1951) Punj 207: AIR 1951 Punj 45 (46) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (FB).

●——S. 30 (3) — Applicability — Mortgagee in possession — Sale to him of right of redemption.

A mortgagor selling the right of redemption to the mortgagee in possession does not sell any property which is capable of physical possession within the meaning and intention of Section 30 (3) of the Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1913. In such a case the property sold is the right of redemption though the sale by the mortgagor to the mortgagee of such right to redeem has the effect of extinguishing such right and by merger of the two estates in the mortgagee the mortgagee becomes the proprietor of the property mortgaged. Hence, Section 30 (3) does not apply to a suit to enforce a right of pre-emption under the provisions of the Act in the case of a sale of a right of redemption of urban immovable property. 9 All 234, Rel. on. Kherati Ram v. Ram Lal, 53 Pun LR 147: ILR (1951) Punj 207: AIR 1951 Punj 45 (48) (Pt B) (Pr 17) (FB).

● ——S. 30 (3) — Applicability — Composite suit for pre-emption and redemption.

Per Harnam Singh J. — Taking into consideration the provisions of Order 2, Rule 4, Civil P. C., it is doubtful whether a composite suit for pre-emption and redemption is competent. Assuming such a suit is competent, even then the suit brought by the pre-emptor treating the sale of the right of redemption to the mortgagee in possession as being the sale of the property itself will not be governed by Section 30 (3). For, such a suit proceeds upon two causes of action and for purposes of limitation each part of the suit is governed by different provisions of law. In deciding the application of S. 30 (3) the sole test is the nature of the property sold and the fact that the pre-emptor sues to enforce right of pre-emption treating the sale of the right of redemption of urban immovable property to the mortgagee in possession as being a sale of property itself does not bring the suit within that section. Kherati Ram v. Ram Lal, 53 Pun LR 147: ILR (1951) Punj 207: AIR 1951 Punj 45 (48) (Pt C) (Pr 21) (FB).

SECTION 31

● ——S. 31 (as amended by Punjab Act 10 of 1960) — Right of pre-emption — Right accrued in favour of owner of estate under old Section 15 (c), Thirdly Newly substituted S. 15 abrogating this right — Retrospective effect of Section 31 — Decree passed in favour of pre-emptor owner of estate — Appeal preferred by unsuccessful vendee — Effect to provision in Section 31 has to be given by appellate Court and decree vacated. See Punjab Pre-emption Act (Punjab 1 of 1913) (As Amended by Punjab Act 10 of 1960), S. 15. AIR 1963 SC 553.

● ——Ss. 31 and 15 (1) (as amended by Act 10 of 1960) — Retrospective operation of Section 31 — Applies both to rights extinguished by amendment as well as to rights newly created — Hence appellate Court must recognise in pending pre-emption matter rights newly created by amending Act. Amir Singh v. Ram Singh, (1963) 2 SCJ 659: (1963) 3 SCR 884.

——S. 31 — Civil P. C., O. 41, Rr. 22, 33 — Withdrawal of appeal — Effect on cross-objections — Pre-emption decree — Appeal by decree-holder challenging amount to be paid — Cross-objection by vendee respondent praying that decree be set aside and pre-emption suit be dismissed — Amendment in pre-emption law non-suiting plaintiff, during pendency of appeal — Withdrawal of appeal — Cross-objections held not affected and survived withdrawal — Respondent held entitled to claim benefit of change in law. See Civil P. C. (1908), O. 41, R. 22. AIR 1961 Punj 287 (DB).

——S. 31 (as amended by Act 10 of 1960) — Applicability to pending proceedings.

The Punjab Pre-emption (Amendment) Act (10 of 1960) is applicable not only in fresh suits filed or suits pending but also in those cases in which appeals or cross-objections are pending and have not been decided. 62 Punj LR 291, Foll. ILR (1961) 1 Punj 520: 63 Punj LR 104: AIR 1961 Punj 287 (288) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 9a, 10) (DB).

——S. 31 — Applicability to pending proceedings — Change in law — Appellate Courts — Duty of.

An appeal is a continuation of the original proceedings and a re-hearing of the matter and is governed by a change in law.

Quite apart from the fact that a change in law after the decision of the trial Court must be given effect to by the appellate Court, with regard to pre-emption cases the law has always been that the right of pre-emption must subsist not only on the date of the sale but also on the date when the suit is brought and finally on the date when the decree is passed.

The amending Act, therefore, must be given effect to not only in fresh suits filed or suits pending but also in those cases in which appeals are pending and have not been decided.

Where, therefore, a decree on the ground of contiguity was passed by the District Judge it was held that under the Amending Act the ground of contiguity was no longer available to the pre-emptor and in view of Section 31 of the amending Act a decree in favour of the pre-emptor could no longer be passed or affirmed by an appellate Court. (1949) 1 MLJ (Sup) 49; AIR 1941 FC 5, Foll.; AIR 1955 Punj 5; ILR 36 Mad 439, Rel. on; AIR 1922 Lah 344, Dissented. (1960) 62 Punj LR 291: ILR (1960) 2 Punj 232.

PUNJAB PREVENTION OF FOOD ADULTERATION RULES (1955)

APPENDIX B

——App. B, Item A-11.01.01 — Mixed milk of cow and buffalo — Containing 8.2 per cent. of milk solids not fat — Mixture is adulterated. See Prevention of Food Adulteration Act (1954), S. 2 (i) (1). 1964 (2) Cri LJ 202: AIR 1964 Punj 332 (DB).

PUNJAB PROFESSIONS, TRADES, CALLINGS AND EMPLOYMENTS TAXATION ACT (7 of 1956)

SECTION 2

——S. 2 (d) — Although a firm is not a person it is the collective name for all the partners who individually are persons and are liable to be assessed as such under Section 3 of the Punjab Act. See Punjab Professions, Trades, Callings and Employments Taxation Act (1956), S. 3. 1964 Cur LJ 543 (DB).

——S. 2 — 'Total gross income' — Meaning of.

The expression 'total gross income' as defined in Section 2 means the aggregate of income derived from various professions, trades, callings and employments. The expression 'income' appearing in this definition is synonymous with the expressions gain, profit, revenue. Income as a subject of taxation imports an actual gain and means an increase of wealth out of which money may be taken to satisfy the pecuniary imposition made by the taxing statute. For purpose of taxation 'income' means net income and not gross income. Proposition that the expression income means all that which comes in cannot possibly be supported. (1881) 6 AC 373; AIR 1928 Mad 346 and AIR 1931 Mad 45, Foll. (1959) 61 Punj LR 835: ILR (1960) Punj 128.

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3 and 2 (d) — 'Person' — Partner of a firm — Position of — Liability to tax under Act — Partnership Act (1932), S. 4.

Although a firm is not a person, it is the collective name for all the partners who individually are persons and are liable to be assessed as such under Section 3 of the Punjab Act. A partner can be regarded as carrying on trade or following a profession or calling, if he does so by entering into an agreement with other persons to share the profits of a business. Indeed, as is provided by Section 4 of the Partnership Act, it is not necessary that the business should be carried on by all of them. Even one of the partners can carry on the business acting for all. It is well known that a firm is not recognised as distinct from the members composing it. The firm as such has no legal recognition. The law looks to the partners composing it, what is called the property of the firm is their property, and what are called the debts and liabilities of the firm are their debts and their liabilities. Moreover, a member of an ordinary partnership fills a double character, he is both a principal and an agent. As a principal he is bound by what he does himself and by what his co-partners do on behalf of the firm, provided they keep within the limits of their authority; as an agent he binds them by what he does for the firm, provided he keeps within the limits of his authority. The name under which the firm carries on any business in point of law is only a conventional name applicable to the persons who on each particular occasion when the name is used are members of the firm. 1964 Cur LJ 543: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 48.

——S. 3 — Fiscal statute — Rule of construction — Company having no place of business or resident representatives in Punjab supplying goods to State Departments F. O. R. destination — Company cannot be held to carry on part of trade in the State — No liability to tax under Section 3 — Provisions of Sale of Goods Act not relevant. AIR 1957 SC 657, Rel. on. 1964 Cur LJ 385: 66 Punj LR 923: ILR (1964) 2 Punj 759: AIR 1964 Punj 530 (531, 532) (Prs 6, 7, 11, 12) (DB).

——Ss. 3 and 5 — Computation of tax — 'Gross income'.

In computing the 'gross income' for purposes of taxation under the Act, income derived from trades or callings etc., carried on within the State of Punjab can only be taken into account. The Act does not authorise the assessing authority to take into account gross income of an assessee from a trade, calling, profession or employment carried on outside the State of Punjab. The view, therefore, that assessment of profession tax is to be made on the basis of total gross income whether earned in Punjab or outside the State of Punjab is not sustainable (1960) 62 Pun LR 846: ILR (1961) 1 Punj 136.

SECTION 5

——S. 5 — 'Trade', meaning of — Cinema concerns — Are trading concerns within meaning of explanation Cl. (b) of S. 5.

The word 'trade' is associated with the activity which an individual pursues to earn his livelihood on living. The words 'trading concern' in explanation Cl. (b) to Section 5 which have been used in contradistinction to the words 'manufacturing concern' in explanation (a), would include the business or activity of exhibiting cinematograph films in a cinema house which essentially is meant for earning profits or making a livelihood or living. Therefore cinema concerns would be covered by Explanation (b) in Section 5 and not Explanation (c) for the purpose of working out their gross profits. 61 Punj LR 309, Rel. on; AIR 1955 Sau 90 Dist. 1964 Cur LJ 543: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 48.

——S. 5, Explanation — As amended by Punjab Act (8 of 1960) —Total gross income —Computation of — Partner in various firms — Gross income — Deductions allowable are only those specified in explanation. 1964 Cur LJ 543: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 48.

——S. 5 — Gross income for the purpose of Taxation under this Act means income derived from trade callings etc. carried on within the State — Income derived from trade callings etc. carried on outside the State is not to be taken into account. See Punjab Professions, Trades Callings and Employments Taxation Act (1956), S. 3. (1960) 62 Pun LR 846.

PUNJAB PUBLIC PREMISES AND LAND (EVICTION AND RENT RECOVERY) ACT (31 of 1959)

See Under Houses and Rents.

PUNJAB PUBLIC SAFETY ACT (2 of 1947)

See under Public Safety.

PUNJAB PURE FOOD ACT (8 of 1929)

SECTION 4

——S. 4 (I) and (iii) — Applicability — Conviction under S. 13 — Essentials — Specific rules for analysis not necessary — Duty of analyst.

For conviction under the Act all that is required is that there should be diminution of nutritive or beneficial properties of food, or there must be mixture with a substance of Lower Commercial Value than such food in a pure and normal state. Where a sample of turmeric sent to an analyst is reported to contain ash 31.45 per cent. and other inorganic and vegetable matter, it falls both under parts (i) and (iii) of Section 4 of the Act.

In all the cases where pure food is analysed, the Analyst should indicate what is the extent of impurity and what the impurity is. Merely stating that it is highly adulterated with extraneous vegetable matter is not sufficient for the purpose of determining the question of guilt or otherwise of the accused person. 59 Punj LR 17: 1957 Cri LJ 390: AIR 1957 Punj 56 (57) (Prs 4, 6) (DB).

——S. 4 — "Adulteration" — Tea when can be deemed to be adulterated — Either of two items mentioned in Column 4 of the Schedule to Rules established — Conviction not sustainable. See Punjab Pure Food Rules (1930) (As Amended in 1953), R. 3. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 6088.

——Ss. 4, 13 — Adulteration — Meaning — Selling one kind of oil for other — No offence under S. 13.

To offer linseed oil as Sarson oil is not adulteration of food within one or other of the Clauses (i), (ii) and (iii) of Section 4 as it cannot be said to fall within any one of these three clauses. There is no question of mixture or dilution extraction of substance or ingredient. It may be a clear case of cheating or at least of attempted cheating but the conviction under the Punjab Pure Food Act cannot be supported. 53 Pun LR 445: 1952 Cri LJ 492: AIR 1952 Punj 140 (141) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Ss. 4 and 13 — Sale of separated milk — If offence.

Separated milk may be good milk, may be milk without butter and fat, or may not contain other ingredients, but the sale of separated milk does not seem to be an offence within the provisions of the Punjab Pure Food Act, 1929. 53 PLR 53: AIR 1951 Simla 13 (14) (Pr 4).

SECTION 11

——S. 11 (1) — Samples sent to Public Analyst and Director of Central Food Laboratory — Ad-

missibility in evidence of latter's report — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 510).

According to the law in the Punjab, the report of the Public Analyst on the sample sent to him as required by S. 11 of the Punjab Pure Food Act is prima facie evidence on the facts stated therein and the report of the Director of Central Food Laboratory on a sample sent to him at the request of the accused is neither admissible nor is it allowable under the law. 59 Punj LR 89: 1957 Cri LJ 658: AIR 1957 Punj 109 (110) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

SECTION 13

——S. 13 — Prosecution for exposure of adulterated milk for sale — Admission of adulteration — Conviction — Sustainability — Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 255 (2), 271 (2).

Where the prosecution is for alleged exposure of adulterated milk for sale an admission by accused that milk was adulterated does not amount to an admission that the milk had been exposed for sale, and therefore, conviction on such admission is not sustainable. The term 'sale' as defined by the Punjab Pure Food Act is very wide. Still mere possession of an adulterated article will not amount to sale. 1952 Cri LJ 141: AIR 1952 Ajmer 4 (4) (Pt B) (Pr 2).

——S. 13 — Mere exposing adulterated milk for sale is not by itself an offence — It must be proved that such milk was sold. 1950 All LJ 28: 51 Cri LJ 1296: AIR 1950 Ajmer 47 (48) (Prs 3, 7).

——S. 13 — Conviction based on report of Public Analyst — Report not giving exact degree of deterioration — Conviction bad.

In giving analysis of articles sent to the Public Analyst he must give exact degree of deterioration or adulteration: approximations cannot be allowed in cases of this kind. And if the only evidence on which the accused can be convicted is that of the Public Analyst then it is not sufficient to sustain the conviction when there is no exactitude in the report of the Public Analyst. 59 Punj LR 89: 1957 Cri LJ 658: AIR 1957 Punj 109 (110) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

——S. 13 (1) — Conviction under — Essentials — Specific rules for analysis not necessary — Duty of analyst stated. See Punjab Pure Food Act (8 of 1929), S. 4 (i) and (iii). 1957 Cri LJ 390: AIR 1957 Punj 56 (DB).

——S. 13 — Criminal P. C., Ss. 263, 264 — Trial under Section 13, Punjab Pure Food Act — Section 264 applies AIR 1942 Sind 52, Dissented from. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 263. 1956 Cri LJ 918: AIR 1956 Punj 160 (DB).

——S. 13 (1) (d) — Prosecution under — Rules under the Act not in accordance with provisions of law — Prosecution, held could not stand. 54 Punj LR 493: 1953 Cri LJ 373: ILR (1953) Punj 384: AIR 1953 Punj 40 (43) (Pt C) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Ss. 13, 4 — Adulteration — Meaning — Selling one kind of oil for other — No offence under S. 13. See Punjab Pure Food Act (1929), S. 4. 1952 Cri LJ 492: AIR 1952 Punj 140.

——S. 13 — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 237 — Summary trial for offence under S. 13 (1) (a), Punjab Pure Food Act, 1929 — Revision against conviction — Conviction cannot be altered into one for offence under S. 420, I. P. C. as latter offence is not triable summarily. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 237. AIR 1952 Punj 140.

SECTION 19

——S. 19 (as amended by Act of 1949) — Scope and object — Complaint against A — On his statement B proceeded against — Prosecution of B — If without jurisdiction — Section 190 (1) (c), Criminal P. C. held could not be availed of — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 190).

On a proper interpretation of S. 19 no Court can proceed in regard to an offence under the Pure Food Act unless there is a complaint particularising the person who has committed the offence and the nature of the article which has been sold.

Where the name is not mentioned in the complaint, S. 190 (1) (c), Criminal P. C. cannot be availed of because it is wholly a different provision and is meant to give jurisdiction to Magistrate for taking cognizance of offences. If that had been a sufficient provision or the Magistrates to take cognizance of an offence under the Pure Food Act, then there was no necessity for enacting Section 19.

Where the Food Inspector filed a complaint under the Punjab Pure Food Act against A who pleaded guilty stating that he had purchased the article from B and on that statement B was ordered to be proceeded against and ultimately on his plea of guilty was convicted:

Held, that the prosecution of B was without jurisdiction and must, therefore, be quashed. AIR 1945 FC 16; AIR 1953 Punj 120, Rel. on. (1957) 59 Pun LR 86: ILR (1957) Punj 720.

SECTION 22

——Ss. 22 (2) (f) and (5) — Rule under Section 22 (2) (f) regulating saccharine in ice candies held not valid, since S. 22 (5) was not complied with — Constitution of India, Art. 369 — President's Proclamation, dated 20-6-1951—Effect of, stated — Punjab State Legislature (Delegation of Powers) Act (Central Act 46 of 1951) — Effect of — Section 22 was not impliedly repealed — State Government could not frame any rule under Act. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4965 (DB).

——S. 22 (5) — "Meeting" — Meaning of — Draft rules published within less than 30 days before commencement of session and more than 30 days before last sitting — Validity of rules made.

The expression "meeting" appearing in S. 22 (5) of the Punjab Pure Act, is wide enough to embrace not only one sitting but all the sittings within a particular session of the East Punjab Legislative Assembly. The expression has been used in its collective sense as meaning a "session". A draft of the proposed rules should, therefore, be published at least 30 days before the commencement of the session. Where the draft rules were published within less than 30 days of the commencement of the session but more than 30 days before the last sitting in the session, the rules cannot be deemed to have been validly made. 54 PLR 493: 1953 Cri LJ 373: ILR (1953) Punj 384: AIR 1953 Punj 40 (42, 43) (Pt B) (Prs 8, 9, 11, 12) (DB).

PUNJAB PURE FOOD RULES (1930)
RULE 3

——R. 3 (as amended in 1952) — Punjab Prevention of Food Adulteration Rules (1955) App. B. Item A-11.01.01 — Mixed Milk of cow and buffalo — Containing 8.2 per cent. of milk solids not fat — Mixture is adulterated. See Prevention of Food Adulteration Act (1954), Section 2 (i) (1). 1964 (2) Cri LJ 202: AIR 1964 Punj 332 (DB).

——R. 3, Sch. (as amended in 1952) — Construction — Words not to be read conjunctively.

The addition of the words 'and more than 20 per cent. of stalks' by notification No. 13747-3 H. B. 52/35720, dated the 29th December, 1952, must be read disjunctively and not conjunctively. 58 Pun LR 288: ILR (1956) Punj 1160: 1956 Cri LJ 918: AIR 1956 Punj 160 (160) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——R. 3 and Schedule Serial No. 10 (as amended in 1953) — Tea when can be deemed to be adulterated — Either of two items mentioned in Column 4 established — Conviction cannot be sustained unless the existence of both the items is established — (Punjab Pure Food Act (8 of 1929), S. 4). AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 6088.

SCH., ITEM 3

——Sch., Item 3 — Mixed milk of cow and baffalo — Standards in Punjab are those as laid down in Punjab Pure Food Rules (1930)—Mixed milk containing 4.9 per cent. of milk fat and 7.8 per cent. of milk solids other than fat — Conviction not justified. See Prevention of Food Adulteration Act (1954), S. 25 (2). (1962) 64 Pun LR 802.

PUNJAB REDEMPTION OF MORTGAGES ACT (2 of 1913)

SECTION 1

——S. 1 — Redemption petitions are wholly governed by Act — Civil P. C. does not apply. ('52) ILR (1952) Patiala 197: AIR 1953 Pepsu 129 (131) (Pt C) (Pr 12a) (DB).

SECTION 4

——Ss. 4, 7 and 12 — Proceedings for redemption of land — Joint mortgagees — Service on some only — Order redeeming land is void — Suit by mortgagees for possession of land is maintainable — Section 7 not attracted—Transfer of Property Act (1882), S. 60.

In the proceedings started by the Collector for redemption of land vested in the State by escheat upon the mortgagor dying childless, the service on two out of five joint mortgagees is no service on the mortgagees to enable the Collector to pass a valid order of redemption. The order, if passed, is void and has no existence in law. It can always be ignored and no question of limitation can arise. It is also not necessary to file a suit to set aside the order and if a suit is filed by the mortgagees to recover possession of land on the ground that there was no order of redemption, they are entitled to a decree. 1959 PLR 926 and AIR 1917 Lah 443 and ILR 1903 Bom 292, Rel. on.

Where there was no application under S. 4 and no service on the mortgagees, there can be no question of an order under S. 7 being passed or of a suit being filed to challenge the order of redemption passed by the Collector. (1963) 65 Pun LR 804.

SECTION 12

——S. 12 — Review — Power of Collector.

A Collector when he is hearing an application for the redemption of land in a summary manner provided by the Act has no power to review his orders, and the only way in which these orders can be avoided is by having recourse to the provisions of S. 12. ILR (1954) Punj 326: 55 Punj LR 331: AIR 1953 Punj 252 (254) (Pt D) (Pr 6) (DB).

SECTION 13

——S. 13 — Petition ordered to be filed in record room — Petition is not "dismissed" within meaning of S. 13 — Fresh petition is not barred. ILR (1952) Patiala 197: AIR 1953 Pepsu 129 (131) (Pt B) (Pr 12a) (DB).

——S. 13 — Neither petitioner nor mortgagee appearing — There is no provision for dismissal of petition in such case — Petition consigned to record room — Dismissal is not under Ss. 6 to 11, which are the only provisions under which petition can be dismissed — Dismissal is not "under the Act" — Section 13 does not, therefore, apply — Fresh petition is not barred — Words "under the Act' 'qualify dismissal and not "Petition". AIR 1943 Lah 176, Rel. on. ILR (1952) Patiala 197: AIR 1953 Pepsu 129 (131, 132) (Pt D) (Prs 12a, 13, 18) (DB).

PUNJAB REGIONAL COMMITTEES ORDER (1957)

SCH. 3, RULE 171-A

——Sch. 3, R. 171-A — Scope — Speaker — Duty of, to submit bill to Governor — Conditions.

The contention that the Sikh Gurdwaras (Amendment) Bill as passed by the State Assembly was different from the Bill as reported by the Regional Committee and that the State Assembly was not competent to do so cannot be accepted as correct.

Under R. 171-A the Speaker is required to submit the Bill to the Governor only if he is of opinion that the Bill is passed by the Assembly in a form substantially different from that reported by the Regional Committee. The Speaker never formed such an opinion and quite naturally, therefore, he never submitted the Bill to the Governor. In a matter of this kind the Court cannot substitute its judgment for the opinion of the Speaker, but, apart from that it does not even appear that there was any difference of substance between the Bill as reported by the Regional Committee and as passed by the Assembly. 61 Punj LR 620: ILR (1959) Punj 1373: AIR 1959 Punj 623 (625) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

PUNJAB REGISTRATION OF MONEY LENDERS ACT (3 of 1938)

See under Debts Laws.

PUNJAB RELIEF OF INDEBTEDNESS ACT (7 of 1954)

See under Debt Laws.

PUNJAB RESTAURANT (CONSUMPTION OF LIQUOR) RULES (1955)

RULE 3

——Rr. 3 and 2 (a) — Before a person can be convicted for violation of R. 3 prohibiting possession of liquor, prosecution has to prove that place from which recovery of liquor is made is 'restaurant' as defined in R. 2 (a) — Halwai's or confectioner's shop used merely for preparation or sale of food or drinks without there being any arrangement for serving customers with drink or food inside shop, is not 'restaurant'. (1963) 65 Pun LR 1013 (DB).

PUNJAB RESTITUTION OF MORTGAGED LANDS ACT (4 of 1938)

See under Debt Laws.

PUNJAB REQUISITIONING AND ACQUISITION OF IMMOVABLE PROPERTY ACT (11 of 1953)

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3, 8 — Requisition of premises — Criterion for determining compensation — Houses and Rents — East Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act (3 of 1949), S. 4.

When the premises are requisitioned under the Punjab Requisitioning and Acquisition of Immovable Property Act, 1953, the compensation has to be determined on a consideration of the evidence of what the requisitioned property had been fetching by way of rent fixed by the Rent Controller under the provisions of East Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act, 1949 prior to its requisition. This is of course a relevant piece of evidence and has to be considered along with any other material which is brought before the Arbitrator: 1960 PLR 812 (FB) and AIR 1950 East Punjab 296 (DB), Rel. on. (1964) 66 Pun LR 187.

——Ss. 3 (1) and 8 — Requisition and acquisition of land for public purpose — Award determining compensation — Appeal — Remand — question that Government has no jurisdiction to acquire land as it is not needed for purpose of State cannot be raised before Arbitrator after remand of case for limited purpose of re-assessing award: ILR 8 Bom 535 and AIR 1916 All 213 Rel. on. Civil P. C. (1908) O. 41 R. 23. (1963) 65 Pun L. R. 555

——S. 3 (1) — Acquisition of land for construction of aerodrome though strictly falling in Item 29 of Unon List, might likewise become State purpose: 1955 (2) SCR 867, Foll. — Constitution of India, Sch. 7, List 1, Entry 29. (1963) 65 Pun LR 555.

——S. 3 — Scope — Notice of requisition — Personal service on owner — Necessity.

Where the authority decides to requisition anybody's property it is a serious matter for the owner of the property. It is the owner of the property that should be served with a notice. An employee cannot be considered to be an officer of the person whose property is being requisitioned. Hence a notice served on such an employee of the owner, in the absence of any allegation that notice could not be served on the owner personally, is not sufficient. And in the absence of service of notice on him he cannot show cause against the proposed requisition and therefore, the requisition under S. 3 (2) of the Act must be held to be invalid. AIR 1957 Punj 34 (35) (Prs 2, 3).

——S. 3 — Requisition of property in actual use and occupation of owner in 1952 — Act of 1953 coming into force — Effect — Proper procedure — (East Punjab Requisitioning of Property (Temporary Powers) Act (48 of 1948), S. 3).

The property belonging to a person could be requisitioned in the year 1952 even though it was in the actual use and occupation of the owner, for neither the Act of 1948 nor the Act of 1951 imposed any limitation on the power of the Competent Authority to requisition such property so long as it was required for a public purpose. The Act of 1953, however, enacted that a house which is bona fide used by the owner thereof as the residence of himself or his family should not be requisitioned, and Section 3 prescribes the procedure which should be followed by the Competent Authority before deciding whether an order of requisition should or should not be passed. It provides that the Competent Authority shall call upon the owner of the property to show cause within a specified period of the service of notice as to why the property should not be requisitioned. If after considering the cause, if any, shown by the person interested in the property the Competent Authority is satisfied that the property ought to be requisitioned, it is open to the Competent Authority to requisition the property provided of course that the property is not in the bona fide use of the owner thereof and is not being used as the residence of himself or members of his family. The enquiry which the statute contemplates is to be undertaken by the Competent Authority constituted under the Act of 1953 and not by or under the supervision of a Court. It is not within the competence of the High Court to appropriate to itself the functions of the Competent Authority or to embark on an enquiry which the legislature says shall be made by executive officers alone. (1957) 59 Pun LR 21: ILR (1957) Punj 409.

——S. 3 (2) and S. 25 (2) — Applicability — Order under former Act — Former Act repealed pending proceeding — Validity of order.

In spite of representation by the petitioner stating that the house was not lying vacant and it was bona fide used as residence by himself, the District Magistrate issued the order of requisition under the East Punjab Requisitioning of Immovable Property (Temporary Powers) Act, 1948, as amended by the Act of 1951. The petitioner obtained a rule from the High Court against the order. In the meanwhile the previous Act had been repealed and a new Act, namely, Punjab Act (11 of 1953) was passed.

Held, that the order of requisitioning at the time when it was passed even though it might have been good at the time, had now to be read along with the proviso to sub-section (2) of Section 25, and as it was inconsistent with Section 3 (2) of the new Act, it could not be taken to be an order passed under the new Act and that the order could not be held to be a good order. 56 Punj LR 62: AIR 1954 Punj 144 (145) (Pr 4).

SECTION 8

●——S. 8 (3)—Punjab Act (48 of 1948) replaced by Punjab Requisitioning and Acquisition of Immovable Property Act (11 of 1953) — Property acquired under 1948 Act — Compensation has to be paid in accordance with provisions of that Act. See East Punjab Requisition of Immovable Property (Temporary Powers) Act (48 of 1948), S. 5. AIR 1961 SC 908.

——S. 8 (2) (a) — Recurring payment for use and occupation — Determination of — Arbitrator is not bound to determine as compensation rent payable under Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act — He is entitled to take into account the other circumstances in arriving at the figure —Any other view would render the words 'which appears to him to be just' and 'he shall have regard to the circumstances of each case' in Cl. (e) of sub-section (1) nugatory. 62 Punj LR 812, Rel. on. F. A. O. 90 of 1956, dated 8-11-1957, (Punj), Explained. (1964) 66 Punj LR 919.

——S. 8 (2) (b) (i) — Requisitioning of agricultural land — No evidence to show that owner had framed scheme for converting land into residential colony or had sought sanction from authorities — Rejection of claim for compensation for loss of profits which would have resulted if land had been sold as plots for building is justified — Potential value of property cannot be taken into account in awarding compensation. (1964) 66 Punj LR 919.

——S. 8 (1) (b) — Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 23 (1) — Compensation for property acquired under Punjab Act 48 of 1948—Proceeding held under Punjab Act 11 of 1953 — Compensation to be determined on principles laid down in 1948 Act — Market value of property to be determined with reference to date of acqusition and not that of requisition. See E. P. Requisitioning of Immovable Property (Temporary Powers) Act (48 of 1948), S 3. 1963 Cur LJ 272 (Punj).

——S. 8 — Arbitrator cannot investigate whether object of acquisition was in fact for purposes of State or not: AIR 1958 Punj 490, Rel. on. (1963) 65 Pun LR 555.

——S. 8 (2) (b) (i) — Scope of — Public Officer throwing away claimant's goods in requisitioned shop — If covered.

Section 8 (2) (b) (i) envisages a loss which is directly due to the act of requisitioning and not a loss which may be due to the tortious act of a a public officer in throwing away the goods lying in the shop requisitioned and not taking care of the same. The remedy of the claimant, if any, with regard to the loss under such head is a civil suit for damages on account of torts. (1959) 61 Pun LR 322: ILR (1959) Punj 233.

——S. 8 (2) (a) — Compensation — Period for which compensation is allowable.

The claimant is entitled to rent from the date on which actual possession was taken by the Government and up to the date on which the property was released. He is not entitled to the rent from the date on which the premises were requisitioned to the date on which possession was taken. Nor is he entitled to claim any rent on the ground that he should have been given one month's notice regarding derequisitioning. There is no such provision in the Act. (1959) 61 Pun LR 322: ILR (1959) Punj 233.

●——Ss. 8, 23 and 25 — Acquisition of land — Passing of Punjab Act of 1953 during pendency of proceedings — Vested rights not affected — Compensation must be determined under Act of 1948. See East Punjab Requisition of Immovable Property (Temporary Powers) Act (48 of 1948), S. 5. AIR 1957 Punj 209 (FB).

——S. 8 — Compensation — Property register produced in Court — It is relevant under S. 4 (2), East Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act, 1949. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 5393.

SECTION 11

——S. 11 — Proceeding for requisitioning of premises — Determination of compensation — New Act coming in force during proceeding — Determination held to be under new Act — Limitation for appeal — It must be taken to be thirty days, under new Act and not three months under repealed Act. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 5393.

——S. 11 — Award of compensation by arbitrator — Appeal to High Court — Court-fee is payable under Sch. II, Art. 11 and not under Sch. 1, Art. 1 of Court-fees Act. See Court-fees Act (1870), S. 4. AIR 1957 Punj 32 (DB).

——S. 11 — Appeal by Government in acquisition proceedings — Appeal is not an appeal against a decree as defined in Section 2 (2) of C. P. C. — Cross-objection by respondent, the owner of property acquired is not maintainable — He may apply for modifications under Section 5 (f) of E. P. Act 43 of 1948. See Civil P. C. (1908), O. 41, R. 22. 1963 Cur LJ 272 (Punj).

SECTION 23

●——Ss. 23, 8, 25 — East Punjab Requisitioning of Immovable Property (Temporary Powers) Act (1948), S. 5 — Acquisition of land under — Passing of Punjab Act of 1953 during pendency of proceedings — Compensation must be determined under Act of 1948 — (Punjab General Clauses Act (1898), S. 22) — (Interpretation of Statutes). See East Punjab Requisitioning of Immovable Property (Temporary Powers) Act (48 of 1948), S. 5. AIR 1957 Punj 209 (FB).

SECTION 25

——S. 25 (2), Proviso (b) — Interpretation of.

Although it is possible to argue with a certain amount of justification that the enacting part of sub-section (2) is capable of bearing the construction that any property requisitioned under the earlier Acts should be deemed to be property requisitioned under the Act of 1953 even though the order of requisition was not consistent with the Act of 1953, there are at least two factors which appear to militate against this argument. In the first place the statute declares such property shall be deemed to be property "requisitioned" under the Act of 1953 and not "duly requisitioned" under the provisions of the said Act. If the Legislature intended that all properties which were requisitioned under the provisions of the earlier Acts should, notwithstanding the repeal of those acts, be deemed to be validly requisitioned under the later Act, there was nothing to prevent it from making its intention plain by using the expression "duly requisitioned" as has been used in Section 23 instead of contenting itself by using the word "requisitioned" without a qualifying word which would have put the matter beyond the pale of controversy. Secondly, it must be remembered that sub-section (2) of Section 25 has been subjected to the proviso that any order passed under an earlier Act shall be deemed to have been passed only in so far as it is not inconsistent with the Act of 1953. The proviso is intended to restrain the previous provisions and it must therefore be assumed that the matter contained in the proviso would have been within the language of the main provisions had the proviso not been included. (1957) 59 Pun LR 21: ILR (1957) Punj 400.

●——Ss. 25, 8, 23 — Acquisition of land under — Passing of Punjab Act of 1953 during pendency of proceedings — Compensation must be determined under Act of 1948 — (Punjab General Clauses Act (1898), S. 22—(Interpretation of Statutes). See East Punjab Requisitioning of Immovable Property (Temporary Powers) Act (48 of 1948), S. 5. AIR 1957 Punj 209 (FB).

——S. 25 (2) — Order made under former Act — Former Act repealed pending proceeding — Order held not to be valid. See Punjab Requisitioning and Acquisition of Immovable Property Act (9 of 1953), S. 3 (2). AIR 1954 Punj 144.

PUNJAB REQUISITIONING OF IMMOVABLE PROPERTY (AMENDMENT AND VALIDATION) ACT (PRESIDENT'S ACT 2 of 1951)

SECTION 3

——S. 3 — Punjab Requisitioning of Immovable Property (Amendment and Validation) Act (2 of 1951), is not ultra vires—(Constitution of India, Art. 31 (2) and Sch. 7, List II, Item 36). See East Punjab Requisitioning of Immovable Property (Temporary Powers) Act (48 of 1948). AIR 1953 Him Pra 5.

SECTION 6

——S. 6 — Punjab Requisitioning of Immovable Property (Amendment and Validation) Act (1

not ultra vires — (Constitution of India, Article 31 (2) and Sch. 7, List II, Item 36). See East Punjab Requisitioning of Immovable Property (Temporary Powers) Act (48 of 1948 as amended in 1951). AIR 1953 Him Pra 5.

PUNJAB REQUISITIONING OF IMMOVABLE PROPERTY (AMENDMENT AND VALIDATION) ORDINANCE (CENTRAL ORDINANCE) (4 of 1951)

——If ultra vires.

The Punjab Requisitioning of Immovable Property (Amendment and Validation) Ordinance, 1951, made under Article 213 (1) of the Constitution, is not ultra vires the powers of the President. There can be no objection to the ordinance on the ground that it validates the Punjab Requisitioning of Immovable Property Act, 1948, which has been declared ultra vires of the Governor by a judgment of the High Court. That judgment is not a judgment of the nature of those judgments set out in S. 41 of the Evidence Act. The effect of that judgment is not that the impugned Act never existed or has ceased to exist, but only that so long as the judgment is not overruled the Courts in the Punjab will decline to recognise the impugned Act. By Cl. 1 (3) of the ordinance it is provided that the ordinance shall come into force at once. The ordinance was published in Delhi under the authority of the President on the 3rd August, 1951. The ordinance must therefore be taken to have been promulgated on that date, when admittedly Parliament was not in session. 54 PLR 11: ILR (1951) Punj 480: AIR 1952 Punj 55 (57) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (DB).

PUNJAB REQUISITIONING OF IMMOVABLE PROPERTY (TEMPORARY POWERS) ACT (17 of 1947)

SECTION 1

——S. 1 — East Punjab Requisitioning of Immovable Property (Temporary Powers), Act (48 of 1948) — Validity — Constitution of India, Art. 31 — Government of India Act (1935), Section 299.

Acquisition in case of immovable property means the permanent acquisition of the property and the passing of all title in the property acquired from the previous owner to the acquiring authority, while requisitioning means only the temporary taking possession of the property and the temporary use and enjoyment of the owner's rights by the requisitioning authority. In Article 31 (2) the words ". . . . shall be taken possession of . . . . . ." coming before the words ". . . . . or acquired . . . . . " must be intended to cover requisitioning as distinct from acquisition. Even before the Defence of India Act came into force requisitioning of land had for many years been in existence though under a different name. Hence, neither the Punjab Act of 1947 nor the Act of 1948 was ultra vires or unconstitutional on the ground that the legislature was not empowered to pass laws relating to the requisitioning of property. AIR 1946 Bom 216, Diss. from. 53 Pun LR 391: ILR (1951) Punj 438: AIR 1952 Punj 70 (76, 77) (Pt D) (Prs 7, 8, 9) (DB).

——S. 1 — East Punjab Requisitioning of Immovable Property (Temporary Powers), Act (48 of 1948) — Validity — Constitution of India, Art. 31 — Government of India Act (1935), Section 299.

The Government of India Act of 1935 and Art. 31 of the Constitution, as well as the Lists in the Seventh Schedule, only contemplate acquisition or requisitioning for public purposes. The choice of the words "necessary or expedient" in the Acts of 1947 and 1948 was deliberate, and the Government intended to take to itself, and to delegate to its officers under Section 8 of the Acts, powers of requisitioning property wider than might be covered by the phrase "for a public purpose'. The words used in Section 3 of both the Acts are defective as they stand, and after the words "necessary or expedient" it should be necessary to insert either "for a public purpose" or "in the public interest", or some such phrase, before either the Act of 1947 could be held to be intra vires under the Government of India Act of 1935, or the Act of 1948 could be held to be intra vires under Art. 31 of Constitution. As the Acts were ultra vires the requisitioning orders passed under them are void and of no force. AIR 1951 Bom 86, Rel on. 53 Pun LR 391: ILR (1951) Punj 438: AIR 1952 Punj 70 (76, 77) (Pt E) (Prs 10, 11) (DB).

——S. 1 — Requisition order passed under Act of 1947 — Amendment by Act of 1948 — Virtually converting former order of requisition to one under Act of 1948 — Order can be challenged under Art. 226. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. ('51) 53 Punj LR 391: AIR 1952 Punj 70 (DB).

SECTION 5

——S. 5 — East Punjab Requisitioning of Immovable Property (Temporary Powers) Act (48 of 1948), Section 5 — Validity — Constitution of India, Art 31.

There is nothing in the provision of Section 5 which excludes the payment of compensation to a tenant in a case where a tenant who is evicted in consequence of an order of requisition can make out a case that he is entitled to such compensation. This section is not ultra vires on this account. AIR 1951 Nag 33, Referred. 53 Pun LR 391: ILR (1951) Punj 438: AIR 1952 Punj 70 (74) (Pt C) (Pr 6a) (DB).

SECTION 8

——S. 8 — East Punjab Requisitioning of Immovable Property (Temporary Powers) Act (48 of 1948), Section 8 — Validity — Constitution of India, Art 19 (5).

The High Court will not interfere under Article 19 (5) of the Constitution and hold Section 8, ultra vires on the ground that the powers of delegation were so wide as to be unreasonable, since the powers could be delegated by the Government to any officer however subordinate, unless it could be shown that the Punjab Government had obviously been using its power of delegation under these Acts in an unreasonable manner by delegating its functions under the Act to manifestly and wholly unsuitable officers, which is not the case. AIR 1951 Cal 3 Dist. 53 Pun LR 391: ILR (1951) Punj 438: AIR 1952 Punj 70 (73) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

PUNJAB RESUMPTION OF JAGIRS ACT (39 of 1957)

See Under Tenancy Laws.

PUNJAB RULES OF BUSINESS

RULE 8

——Rr. 8 and 28 (1) — Removal or reduction in rank of an official on grave charges — Chief Minister can call for records and pass order — Action taken under Rule 8 would be action of Government. See Constitution of India, Art. 166 (3). AIR 1963 SC 395.

RULE 28

●——Rr. 28 (1), 8 — Removal or reduction in rank of official on grave charges—Chief Minister has right to call for record and pass orders. See Constitution of India, Art. 166 (3). AIR 1963 SC 395.

PUNJAB SECURITY OF LAND TENURES ACT (10 of 1953)

See under Tenancy Laws.

PUNJAB SECURITY OF LAND TENURES SUPPLEMENTARY RULES (1956)

See under Tenancy Laws.

PUNJAB SERVICES INTEGRATION RULES (1957)

RULE 16

●——R. 16 — Punjab Government — Notification dated 29-9-1961 — Notification bifurcating P. E. S. Class II service into two cadres — Bifurcation affecting prevalent practice of promotion according to seniority and promoting juniors over seniors in same class — Notification held offended Rule 16 and also violated Art. 16 (1) of Constitution. See Constitution of India, Art. 16 (1). AIR 1965 Punj 401 (FB).

PUNJAB SHOPS AND COMMERCIAL ESTABLISHMENTS ACT (15 of 1958)

SECTION 2

●——S. 2 (iv) — Commercial establishment — Tea stored in depot — Salesman doing no sale of tea at depot — Depot is not commercial establishment — Salesman cannot be convicted under Section 9 read with Section 26— Question of claim of salesman's exemption under S. 3 (g) does not arise. See Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (15 of 1958), S. 26. 1963 (1) Cr LJ 459: AIR 1963 Punj 148 (FB).

●——S. 2 (iv) and (xxv) — Commercial establishment and shop — Common and not common features of.

One element is common to both the expressions 'shop' and commercial establishment, namely that there have to be premises wherein, the case of a commercial establishment any business, trade or profession is carried on for profit and in the case of a shop where any trade or business is carried on or where services are rendered to customers. The carrying on of trade or business or profession necessarily has to have a close and intimate connection with the premises. The other requirement is that what should be carried on in those premises is trade or business or rendering of services to customers in the case of a shop and in the case of a commercial establishment a trade or business or profession has to be carried on for profit. If the element of rendering service is eliminated, the remaining two elements, that is carrying on of trade or business are common both to a shop as well as to a commercial establishment. But a shop according to the definition does not include a commercial establishment. Therefore, the same premises cannot be at the same time a shop as well as a commercial establishment. Ram Chander Baru Ram v. State, 65 Punj LR 1: 1963 All Cr R 39: 1963 All WR (Sup) 25: ILR (1963) 1 Punj 259: (1963) 1 Lab LJ 620: 1963 (1) Cr LJ 459: AIR 1963 Punj 148 (153) (Pt B) (Pr 11) (FB).

●——S. 2 (xxv) — 'Shop' — Essential feature of.

The word 'shop' is to be taken to mean a premises where trade or business is carried on in the shape of buying and selling of goods at the spot. It is rather axiomatic that in all trades it is the buying or selling which is going on in one form or the other in presenti or in futuro or even on speculative basis. But in a shop the buying and selling is at the premises or in other words on the spot for cash consideration or may be barter, or on credit. The significant factor is the availability of the goods, there and then and so also of services. The crux of the definition of the word 'shop' in S. 2 (xxv) is that the business or trade vis-a-vis the shop is the actual buying and selling of goods and that must take place in the premises. Ram Chander Baru Ram v. State, 65 Punj LR 1: 1963 All Cr R 39: 1963 All WR (Supp) 25: ILR (1963) 1 Punj 259: 1963 (1) Cr LJ 459: (1963) 1 Lab LJ 620: AIR 1963 Punj 148 (153) (Pt C) (Prs 12, 13) (FB).

●——S. 2 (iv) — 'Commecial establishment' — Integrated trade or business activity must take place.

It will be seen from the definition of the phrase commercial establishment in Section 2 (iv) that an integrated trade or business activity must take place at the given premises for profit. Activities though connected with trade or business in premises in an isolated form like the activity of a business traveller would not make the same a commercial establishment. Similarly, the residence of a business man will not become a commercial establishment merely because he is thinking out schemes and making plans to either evolve new business or to enlarge the existing one. No one can deny that it is business activity. To put it shortly, only those premises can be said to be a commercial establishment where two minds meet to strike a business deal for profit. Ram Chander Baru Ram v. State, 65 Punj LR 1: 1963 All Cr R 39: 1963 All WR (Sup) 25: ILR (1963) 1 Punj 259: 1963 (1) Cr LJ 459: (1963) 1 Lab LJ 620: AIR 1963 Punj 148 (154) (Pt D) (Pr 17) (FB).

——Ss. 2 (1) (iv) and 4 (d) — Commercial establishment — Includes establishments of medical practitioners — Medical profession is a profession carried on for profit — Words and phrases — 'Profit' and 'profession' — Meaning of.

Neither the word 'profit' nor the word 'profession' has any fixed meaning and it has to be interpreted in the context in which it is used in any particular enactment.

Section 4 (d) of the Act shows that the framers of the Act in the definition of the term 'commercial establishment' used the words 'profit' and 'profession' in their wider sense. This definition included the establishment of medical practitioners and that is why a specific exemption was granted to these establishments under Section 4. Thus keeping in view the purpose of the Act and the definition of the 'commercial establishment', it cannot but be held that for the purpose of the impugned Act the medical profession is a profession carried on for profit and therefore the establishment of a medical practitioner is a commercial establishment. 64 Pun LR 113: (1962) 1 Lab LJ 592: AIR 1962 Punj 280 (284, 285) (Pt A) (Prs 17, 18) (DB).

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3 (g), 26, 9, 2 (vi) — Commercial establishment — Tea stored in depot — Salesman doing no sale of tea at depot — Depot is not commercial establishment — Salesman cannot be convicted under Section 9 read with S. 26 — Question of claim of salesman's exemption under Section 3 (g) does not arise—ILR (1960) Punj 639, Overruled. See Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (15 of 1958), S. 26. 1963 (1) Cri LJ 459: AIR 1963 Punj 148 (FB).

——S. 3 (g) — Exemption under is in respect of medical practitioners whose work is inherently intermittent and not their establishments.

The argument that as the medical practitioners are exempted from the operation of the Act, therefore, their establishments are also exempted is not tenable for Section 3 (g) only exempts persons and not the establishments. The persons employed in these institutions are not necessarily working intermittently. It is open for normal work during the normal working hours and is really open for emergent cases for practically all the 24 hours. 64 Pun LR 113: (1962) 1 Lab LJ 592: AIR 1962 Punj 280 (285) (Pt B) (Pr 20) (DB).

SECTION 4

——Ss. 4 (d) and 2 (1) (iv) — Commercial establishment — Includes establishments of medical practitioners — Medical profession is a profession carried on for profit — Words and Phrases — "Profit" and "profession" — Meaning of, indicated. See Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (15 of 1958), S. 2 (1) (iv). AIR 1962 Punj 280 (DB).

SECTION 7

——S. 7 — Section is constitutionally valid. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1961 SC 1559.

——S. 7 — Section merely covers employees and has nothing to do with employers.

Section 7 only confers benefit on the employees and in that sense it would naturally entail necessary obligations on the employers but it does not, in any way, affect the employers if they want to exceed the hours of work prescribed by this section. (1962) 1 Lab LJ 592: 64 Punj LR 113: AIR 1962 Punj 280 (287) (Pt C) (Pr 27) (DB).

——Ss. 7, 8, 11, 12, 13, 14, 20, 21, 30, 32 and Form B prescribed under S. 20 (1) — Validity — Provisions not ultra vires as violating fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g) of Constitution — Restrictions imposed are reasonable and in the interest of general public — Constitution of India, Article 19 (1) (g) and (6).

The Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act is not ultra vires Article 19 of the Constitution as violating the fundamental rights of the petitioners under Article 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution.

The correct test as to the reasonableness of the restrictions imposed by the impugned Act would be whether the benefit conferred on the general public by the restriction is in proportion to the detriment resulting therefrom. If the detriment outweighs the benefit there can be no doubt that the restrictions will be unreasonable. The yard stick to judge the validity of an enactment which curtails the fundamental right to carry on one's profession freely is whether abridgment of that right is reasonably necessary in the interest of the general public.

All laws have to be administered in a reasonable manner and merely because a law can be abused is no ground to hold that the law should be struck down. Thus if the provisions of the Act are viewed with reference to the various exemptions granted by the Act itself and the notifications issued and to be issued thereunder there can be no manner of doubt that the restriction imposed on the medical practitioners under the Act cannot be said to be unreasonable. The mere fact that double the wages have to be paid under Section 12 would not amount to an unreasonable restriction on the carrying on of the work of the institution, particularly when these institutions are not charitable institutions and are really profit making institutions. 64 Pun LR 113: (1962) 1 Lab LJ 592: AIR 1962 Punj 280 (286, 288, 289) (Pt D) (Prs 24, 29, 32, 34, 35) (DB).

SECTION 9

——S. 9 — Section is constitutionally valid. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1961 SC 1559.

——Ss. 9, 26, 2 (iv) and 3 (g) — Commercial establishment— Tea stored in depot— Salesman doing no sale of tea at depot — Depot is not commercial establishment — Salesman cannot be convicted under Section 9 read with S. 26 — Question of claim of salesman's exemption under Section 3 (g) does not arise—ILR (1960) Punj 639, Overruled. See Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (15 of 1958), S. 26. 1963 (1) Cri LJ 459: AIR 1963 Punj 148 (FB).

SECTION 11

——Ss. 11, 7, 8 12, 13, 14, 20, 21, 30, 32 and Form B prescribed under S. 20 (1) — Validity — Provisions not ultra vires as violating fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g) — Restrictions imposed are reasonable and in the interest of general public— Constitution of India, Article 19 (1) (g) and (6). See Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (15 of 1958), S. 7. AIR 1962 Punj 280 (DB).

SECTION 16

——Ss. 16 (4), 18 (1), 26— Court granting wages in lieu of unavailed leave and also compensation under Section 18 (1) to employee — Further imposition of fine under Section 26 for violating Section 16 (4) — Conviction is proper. See Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (1958), S. 26. (1965) 67 Pun LR 210: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 615.

SECTION 18

——S. 18 (1) — Court granting wages in lieu of unavailed leave and also compensation under Section 18 (1) to employee — Further imposition of fine under Section 26 for violating Section 16 (4) — Conviction is proper. See Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (1958), S. 26. (1965) 67 Pun LR 210: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 615.

SECTION 20

——Ss. 20, 7, 8, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 30, 32 and Form B prescribed under S. 20 (1) — Validity — Provisions not ultra vires as violating fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g) of Constitution — Restrictions imposed are reasonable and in the interest of general public — Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6). See Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (15 of 1958), S. 7. AIR 1962 Punj 280 (DB).

——S. 20 (1) and Form B prescribed thereunder — How far applicable to medical practitioners.

Most of the provisions prescribed in Form B do not apply to the medical practitioners for they have either been exempted from their application by the Act itself or by notifications issued and to be issued by the Government. Therefore, any matter in the form relating to exempted provisions need not be filled by the medical practitioners. Only those particulars have to be supplied which flow from those provisions of the Act which remain operative qua the medical practitioners. 64 Punj LR 113: (1962) 1 Lab LJ 592: AIR 1962 Punj 280 (288) (Pt E) (Pr 32) (DB).

SECTION 26

——Ss. 26, 16 (4) and 18 (1) — Court granting wages in lieu of unavailed leave and also compensation under S. 18 (1) to employee — Further imposition of fine under S. 26 for violating provisions of Section 16 (4) — Held, conviction was proper. (1965) 67 Pun LR 210: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 615.

——Ss. 26, 9, 2 (iv) and 3 (g) — Commercial establishment — Tea stored in depot — Salesman doing no sale of tea at depot — Depot is not commercial establishment — Salesman cannot be convicted under Section 9 read with S. 26 — Question of claim of salesman's exemption under S. 3 (g) does not arise.

Held, by the Full Bench — (i) that the depot in question could not be said to be a shop within the meaning of the definition in S. 2 (xxv) in the Act; (ii) that taking into consideration the provision contained in Section 25 the storing of the goods and writing of accounts by an individual where nothing besides this was done did not make such premises a commercial establishment within the meaning of the definition in Section 2 (iv) of the Act; AIR 1955 SC 62, Rel. on. ILR (1960) Punj 639, Overruled. (iii) that the claim as to exemption under S. 3 (g) need be examined if it could be held that the petitioner was an employee either in a shop or a commercial establishment; but as the depot was a commercial establishment or a shop it would be futile to examine this matter any further; (iv) that the order of conviction deserved to be set aside. Ram Chander Baru Ram v. State, 65 Punj LR 1: 1963 All Cri R 39: 1963 All WR (Sup) 25: ILR (1963) 1 Punj 259: 1963 (1) Cri LJ 459: (1963) 1 Lab LJ 620: AIR 1963 Punj 148 (151, 154, 155) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 15, 18, 24) (FB).

SECTION 30

——Ss. 30, 7, 8, 11, 12, 13, 14, 20, 21, 32 and Form B prescribed under S. 20 (1) — Validity — Provisions not ultra vires as violating fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g) of Constitution — Restrictions imposed are reasonable and in the interest of general public — Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6). See Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (15 of 1958), S. 7. AIR 1962 Punj 280 (DB).

SECTION 32

——Ss. 32, 7, 8, 11, 12, 13, 14, 20, 21 30 and Form B prescribed under S. 20 (1) — Validity — Provisions not ultra vires as violating fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g) of Constitution — Restrictions imposed are reasonable and in the interest of general public — Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g) and (6). See Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (15 of 1958), S. 7. AIR 1962 Punj 280 (DB).

FORM B

——From B prescribed under Section 20 (1) and Ss. 7, 8, 11, 12, 13, 14, 20, 21, 30, 32 — Validity — Provisions not ultra vires as violating fundamental right under Art. 19 (1) (g) — Restrictions imposed are reasonable and in the interest of general public — Constitution of India, Article 19 (1) (g) and (6). See Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (15 of 1958), S. 7. AIR 1962 Punj 280 (DB).

——From B prescribed under Section 20 (1) — Most of the provisions prescribed in form do not apply to medical practitioners—They have been exempted from their application either by Act itself or by notifications of Government. See Punjab Shops and Commercial Establishments Act (15 of 1958), S. 20 (1). AIR 1962 Punj 280 (DB).

PUNJAB SIKH GURDWARAS ACT (8 of 1925)

SECTION 3

——S. 3 — Claim as owner and cultivator. See Tenancy Laws — Punjab Tenancy Act (16 of 1887), S. 5 (1) (d). AIR 1951 Punj 336 (DB).

SECTION 5

——Ss. 5, 7, 8 and 10 — Scheduled and non-scheduled Gurdwaras — Claim to properties — Procedure.

In the case of scheduled Gurdwaras after a consolidated list is published a person can make a claim in regard to these properties under Section 5 and that has to be adjudicated upon. In regard to Gurdwaras which are not in the schedule a claim by 50 or more Sikhs has to be made under S. 7 (1) for the Gurdwara to be declared a Sikh Gurdwara and under S. 7 (2) a claim has to be made to the property claimed to be attached to such Gurdwara. If it is sought to be claimed that the Gurdwara is not a Sikh Gurdwara then a hereditary office-holder or any twenty worshippers can make the claim under S. 8 and that will be adjudicated upon. Claimants under S. 8 are those who have religious affinity with the institution and not any one else. But when the claim is to the property notified in the list then any person can put in a petition under S. 10, claiming his right, title or interest in the property and that will be adjudicated upon in accordance with the provisions of this Act which are given in Chapter III. AIR 1951 Simla 257 (265) (Pt D) (Pr 33) (DB).

SECTION 7

——Ss. 7 (3) and 37 — Section 7 (3), when becomes bar — Declaration by Gurdwaras Tribunal that certain Bunga is private property — Jurisdiction of Court to reagitate question — Act, if applicable.

The object of the Act is to provide a machinery for the determination of the question whether a particular Gurdwara is or is not a Sikh Gurdwara, and if the institution is not a Gurdwara at all, then the Act has no application and a notification under S. 7 (3) becomes a bar only if it is within regard to a Gurdwara. Consequently, where a declaration has been given by the Gurdwaras Tribunal that a certain Bunga is a private property and not a Sikh Gurdwara or even a Gurdwara, a notification under S. 7 in respect of the Bunga is de hors the Act and such declaration bars not only the jurisdiction of the Courts to reagitate the question but it makes the Act inapplicable. AIR 1950 East Punj 338 (343, 344) (Pt B) (Prs 18, 23) (DB).

——Ss. 7, 5, 8 and 10—Schedule and non-scheduled Gurdwaras — Claim to properties — Procedure indicated. See Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act (8 of 1925), Section 5. AIR 1951 Simla 257 (DB).

——Ss. 7, 17 and 18 — Applicability of S. 18 — Properties claimed under S. 7 — Notification under S. 17, if refers to such claim.

Section 18 does not apply to a person other than an office-holder. This section comes into operation after a Gurdwara is notified under Section 17 which necessarily must imply that the notification under this section has no reference to claims which may be made by other persons in regard to properties which under S. 7 (2) were claimed by signatories to S. 7 (1) petition to belong to the Gurdwara. AIR 1951 Simla 257 (266) (Pt E) (Pr 35) (DB).

——Ss. 7 (3), (5) and 36 — Notification under S. 7 (3) — Court's jurisdiction to question legality.

There is one fundamental fact throughout the Act and that is that there has to be a Gurdwara before the Act or the machinery of the Act can be set into motion. If there has been a determination binding on both parties that a building is not a Gurdwara but a 'Bunga' or a hostel for pilgrims, the State Government cannot under the Act issue a notification that the Gurdwara is claimed to be a Sikh Gurdwara. Sections 7 (5) and 36 are no bar to the jurisdiction of the Courts in questioning the legality of a notification under Section 7 of the Act. The State Government cannot oust the jurisdiction of the Courts by merely purporting to act under a statute which has no application or exercising a jurisdiction which without the existence of a Gurdwara it did not possess. AIR 1951 Simla 257 (268, 269) (Pt G) (Prs 50, 51, 60) (DB).

SECTION 8

——Ss. 8, 5, 7 and 10 — Scheduled and non-scheduled Gurdwaras — Claim to properties — Procedure indicated. See Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act (8 of 1925), S. 5. AIR 1951 Punj 257 (DB).

SECTION 10

——Ss. 10, 5, 7 and 8 — Scheduled and non-scheduled Gurdwaras — Claim to properties — Procedure indicated. See Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act (8 of 1925), S. 5. AIR 1951 Punj 257 (DB).

SECTION 17

——Ss. 17, 7 and 18 — Applicability of S. 18 — Properties claimed under S. 7 — Notification under S. 17, has no reference to such claim. See Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act (8 of 1925), S. 7. AIR 1951 Punj 257 (DB).

SECTION 18

——Ss. 18, 7 and 17 — Applicability of S. 18 — Properties claimed under S. 7 — Notification under S. 17, has no reference to such claim. See Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act (8 of 1925), S. 7. AIR 1951 Punj 257 (DB).

SECTION 25-A

● ——S. 25-A — 'Date of the constitution of the Committee'.

Sub-section (2) of section 88, Sikh Gurdwaras Act provides with reference to committees under section 85 that as soon as all the members described therein have been elected or co-opted, the fact should be duly notified, and also declares in clear and categorical terms that the date of the publication of the notification shall be deemed to be the date of the constitution of the committee. In the face of the deeming provision relating to those committees it is not permissible to impute to such a committee any other date as the date of its constitution for any of the purposes of the Act and to imply an exception and an addendum to the specific deeming provision. This would be legislating.

The committee for all the Gurdwaras situated within the Municipal limits of Amritsar was constituted prior to the year 1930 and this committee also became the committee concerned with the Gurdwara Bunga Sarkar which is located within the Municipal limits to Amritsar. It cannot be said that this committee became concerned with the Gurdwara Bunga Sarkar only from the date when the notification under S. 17 was issued, i.e., from the 3rd March, 1937. The date of the notification under S. 17 could not in respect of such Gurdwara be deemed to be the date of the constitution of the committee concerned for the purposes of S. 25-A. Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee v. Sardar Raghubir Singh, 57 Punj LR 264: 1955 SCJ 466: (1955) 2 SCR 67: AIR 1955 SC 455 (458) (Pr 3).

——S. 25-A — Condition precedent to suit under section.

A decision that a right, title or interest in immovable property belongs to a Sikh Gurdwara is a condition precedent to a suit under S. 25-A and if there is no such decision in favour of the plaintiffs the suit is incompetent. AIR 1951 Simla 257 (268) (Pt F) (Pr 46) (DB).

——S. 25-A — Terminus a quo under section.

The terminus a quo under S. 25-A is the date of the decision or the date of the constitution of the committee. Where the suit is brought more than one year after the date of the decision and the date of the constitution of the committee was before that date, the terminus a quo cannot be taken to be the date when the committee formed under S. 85 (2) took charge of the Gurdwara in dispute and began to function under S. 41. AIR 1951 Simla 257 (274) (Pt M) (Pr 80) (DB).

SECTION 29

● ——S. 29 (2) — Applicability — Bar of jurisdiction of Civil Court.

The exclusion of jurisdiction of the Civil Court in respect of a suit or an issue which is normally within its competence can be brought about only by clear and unambiguous language or by the necessary implication thereof.

In S. 29 (2) of the Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act the clause "unless and until it has been decided under the provisions of S. 16 that such Gurdwara should not be declared a Sikh Gurdwara" applies to a situation where proceedings involving the determination of the issue of "Gurdwara or Sikh Gurdwara" come up before the Tribunal by virtue of S. 14 or S. 32.

The effect of S. 29 (2) being, not to exclude jurisdiction, but to operate only as a limited stay until a specific issue is determined by the Tribunal, it does not apply to a case where there is no scope for the determination of such an issue by the Tribunal under prescribed machinery of the Act. Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee, Amritsar v. Raja Shiv Rattan Dev Singh, (1955) 2 SCR 67: ILR (1955) Punj 1108: AIR 1965 SC 576 (580) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——S. 29 (2) — Question whether Gurdwara is Sikh Gurdwara — Determination of question by Civil Court is not barred by section — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9. AIR 1950 East Punj 338 (344, 345) (Pt C) (Prs 25, 31) (DB).

SECTION 31

——S. 31 (2) — Question whether Gurdwara is Sikh Gurdwara — Civil Court's jurisdiction to determine question — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9.

The Act contemplates the determination by a Civil Court of the question whether a Gurdwara is or is not a Sikh Gurdwara, whether the property claimed under S. 10 does or does not belong to the claimants, and whether compensation can or cannot be given to a claimant. AIR 1950 East Punj 338 (345) (Pt D) (Pr 28) (DB).

SECTION 36

——Ss. 36, 37 — Scope and effect of — Property claimed by Gurdwara under S. 3 — Rival claims by B and K — Consolidation — Finding of Tribunal that property was wakf property under management of B as descendant of one S — Subsequent suit by B against K for possession — K if can plead that B was not descendant of S and as such not entitled to maintain suit.

The bunga in dispute was notified under Section 3 of the Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act as property claimed by the Golden Temple. This led to four claims by J. D. K. and B, all of which were consolidated and dealt with under S. 15 as one proceeding. B's case was that the bunga was built by his ancestor Shersingh for spiritual and worldly benefit of their offspring and was in his possession and that of his ancestors and should be declared to be the property of his family. The Tribunal held that the bunga was not the property of the Golden Temple and that the bunga was wakf property under the management of the descendants of the Maharaja Shersingh. B's claim as descendant of Maharaja Shersingh was never disputed either before the Tribunal or before the High Court, in an appeal under S. 34 of the Act which was dismissed and thus the finding that B was the descendant of Shersingh became final. B then filed a suit for possession and ejectment of K. The question for determination in this suit was whether K was debarred from denying B's title as the descendant of Shersingh in the bunga in view of the decision of the tribunal and that of the High Court.

Held, that in view of Ss. 36 and 37 it would not be open to any Court now to give a decision which will go against the decision of the tribunal and, therefore, K was debarred under Sections 36, 37 of the Act from raising the question whether B was the descendant of Shersingh and as such entitled to maintain the suit. Kesar Singh v. Balwant Singh, (1962) Supp (1) SCR 325: AIR 1967 SC 487 (493) (Pt A) (Pr 15) (SC).

——Ss. 36 and 7 (3) (5) — Existence of Gurdwara, if necessary for notification under S. 7 (3) — Sections 7 (5) and 36 are no bar to Court's jurisdiction to question legality of notification. See Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act (8 of 1925), Section 7 (3) (5). AIR 1951 Punj 257 (DB).

SECTION 37

——Ss. 37, 36 — Scope and effect of — Property claimed by Gurdwara under S. 3 — Rival claims by B ank K — Consolidation — Finding of tribunal that property was wakf property under management of B as descendant of one S —Subsequent suit by B against K for possession — K cannot plead that B was not descendant of S and as such not entitled to maintain suit — See Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act (8 of 1925), Section 36. AIR 1967 SC 487.

——Ss. 37, 7 (3) — Section 7 (3) when becomes bar — Declaration by Gurdwaras Tribunal that certain Bunga is private property — Jurisdiction of Court to reagitate question is barred — Act is also not applicable. See Punjab Sikh Gurdwars Act (1925), S. 7 (3). AIR 1950 East Punj 338 (DB).

——S. 37 — Tribunal, if Court.

The Tribunal under the Act is a Court within the meaning of that word as used in S. 37 of the Act, which has all the attributes of a Court and exercises judicial powers but is only a Court of a limited and special jurisdiction. AIR 1951 Simla 257 (270) (Pt H) (Pr 64) (DB).

——S. 37 — Proceedings under S. 5 — Compromise decree — Subsequent suit under S. 25-A — Bar of suit — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11.

A compromise and a decree passed thereon in a proceeding under S. 5 of the Act will bar a subsequent suit under S. 25-A of the Act between the same parties under S. 37. Even if S. 11, Civil P. C., does not in terms apply the principles of res judicata will apply. AIR 1951 Simla 257 (275) (Pt I) (Pr 83) (DB).

SECTION 41

——S. 41 — Section 41 is merely directory and is not imperative. AIR 1951 Simla 257 (272) (Pt J) (Pr 74) (DB).

——S. 41 — Proceedings under S. 5 of Act — Compromise — Decision on question of ownership if militates against S. 41 — Estoppel — Evidence Act (1872), S. 115.

Where under compromise in a proceeding under S. 5 of the Act between the owners of a Banga and the Committee of Management the Banga instead of being the private property of the owners became trust property, the legal title to which, but not the beneficial interest, vested in them as trustees and they were to exercise certain rights, in a suit by the Committee under S. 25-A of the Act:

Held, that neither the decision on the question of ownership nor the question of management in any way militated against S. 41 and the Committee was estopped from challenging the compromise and could not ask for possession of the property on the ground of its belonging to a Sikh Gurdwara as it induced the owners to give up their rights of ownership and gave them an assurance that their possession would not be disturbed. AIR 1951 Simla 257 (278) (Pt K) (Pr 77) (DB).

SECTION 52

——Ss. 52, 148-B (as amended in 1959) — Act does not offend against Art. 26 of the Constitution — Constitution of interim Board under Section 148-B — Does not amount to interference in religious matter by non-Sikhs — (Constitution of India, Art. 26). See Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act (8 of 1925) (as amended in 1959), S. 148-B. AIR 1959 Punj 623 (DB).

SECTION 64

——S. 64 — Member of board getting scholarship for his son — Held there was no dereliction of duty within S. 142. See Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act (8 of 1925), S. 142. (1957) 59 Pun LR 410.

SECTION 85

——S. 85 (2) — Member of board getting scholarship for his son — Held there was no dereliction of duty within S. 142. See Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act (8 of 1925), S. 142. (1957) 59 Pun LR 410.

SECTION 89

——Ss. 89, 96 (1) and 146 — By-election — Power of State Government to interfere retrospectively with process of election after changing limit of constituency — (Sikh Gurdwaras Committee Election Rules (1954), R. 4).

The proviso to S. 89 (1) of the Act certainly grants powers to the Government to alter the local limits of the constituency but this alteration cannot be held to operate retrospectively so as by itself to reopen the proceedings which have already been taken in pursuance of the notice calling upon the constituency to elect members of the Committee. Such an alteration can only operate prospectively. There is no provision of the Act or of the Rules under which the Elections Commissioner or the State Government is empowered after various steps in the process of election have been duly and properly taken, to ignore or cancel them and to order a fresh election to be held on the basis of the altered constituency. In the absence of an express provision of law or of binding authority or of some other compelling reason of the provisions of the proviso to section 89 (1) and of subrule (3) of R. 4 cannot be construed in such a way as to confer by implication such extraordinary and uncontrolled power on the Government to interfere retrospectively with the process of election. 60 Pun LR 148: ILR (1959) Punj 67: AIR 1959 Punj 24 (26, 27) (Prs 10, 11, 12) (DB).

SECTION 96

——S. 96 (1) — Rules under S. 146, R. 4 — By-election under S. 96 (1) — State Government has power to interfere retrospectively with process of election after changing limits of constituency — (Sikh Gurdwaras Committee Election Rules (1954), Rule 4). See Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act (8 of 1925), S. 89. AIR 1959 Punj 24 (DB).

SECTION 142

——S. 142 — Applicability — Petition by clerk on ground that his transfer was abuse of powers of Secretary — Held, Gurdwara Judicial Commissioner had no jurisdiction to entertain it. (1962) 64 Pun LR 446: ILR (1962) 2 Punj 111.

——S. 142 — Scope — Abuse of position by President or Vice-President — Amounts to abuse as member of committee.

Section 142 includes malfeasance, misfeasance or misconduct of a member not merely in his capacity as a member but also in his capacity as president or vice-president of the committee of management. The view that when a member in his capacity as a member is elected as president to or vice-president and he abuses his position as such, it would not amount to an abuse of position as a member of the committee is wrong. A member only gets some added powers when he is elected as president or vice-president and when he abuses those powers, it would amount to abuse of powers as a member. (1960) 62 Pun LR 906.

——Ss. 142, 64 and 85 (2) — Member of board getting scholarship for his son —Held there was no dereliction of duty within S. 142.

The petitioner made an application against one R to the Judicial Commission under S. 142, Sikh Gurdwaras Act for recovery of money and for other reliefs on the allegation that he had by abusing his powers as a member of the Board received monetary advantage of Rs. 610 which was paid to his son by way of cash grants from the funds of the S. G. P. C. and he had thereby incurred disability given under Section 142 of the Sikh Gurdwaras Act.

The whole of the evidence led by the parties disclosed that the scholarships were given by the Executive Committee of which H was neither a member nor was it shown that he had in any way influenced the exercise of the discretion.

Held, that though it may be said that it is not right for sons of members to get scholarships from the S.G.P.C. but an impropriety of this kind will hardly come within dereliction of duty imposed by Sec. 142, Sikh Gurdwaras Act. Merely because some payments were made before the annual General Meeting cannot necessarily lead to the conclusion that H got the scholarship for his son as a price for voting for a certain person or a set of persons for which there is neither proof nor does anything on the record lead to that inference.

According to Section 64 the Executive Committee of the Board of which the appellant was not a member has all the powers conferred on the Board itself, and the words in the section are, shall exercise, and therefore it cannot be said that any power exercised by the Committee of the Board was power exercised by the Board itself for the purposes of taking action under Section 142. (1957) 59 Pun LR 410: ILR (1957) Punj 605.

SECTION 146

——S. 146 — Rules under R. 4 — By-election — State Government has power to interfere retrospectively with process of election after changing limits of constituency. See Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act (8 of 1925), S. 89. AIR 1959 Punj 24 (DB).

SECTION 148-B

——S. 148-B — Validity — Principle of direct election on universal denominational suffrage — If matter of religion — (Constitution of India, Art. 26 (b)).

Section 148-B of the Punjab Sikh Gurdwaras Act, 1925, which was added to the principal Act by the Sikh Gurdwaras (Amendment) Act, 1959, does not contravene the fundamental right granted to the Sikhs under Art. 26 (b) of the Constitution.

Section 148-B has not in any way affected whatever powers the Board or Committee has under Ss. 133 and 134 of the principal Act. In order to hold, that Sec. 148-B introduces even though as a temporary measure, some more designated Sikh members into the Board by Cl. (a) of sub-sec. (1) thereof and further introduces the election of thirty-five Sikhs (from the Pepsu area) into the Board by means of an indirect method, that is, by a limited Sikh electorate, the members of which electorate are in their turn elected by Sikhs as well as non-Sikhs, it must be proved not merely that some provisions of the principal Act refer to matters of religion but that the introduction of new members into the Board in respect of the extended territories of the Pepsu area, in the manner envisaged by Sec. 148-B, violates by itself the right of the Sikhs in a matter of religion.

The principle of direct election on universal denominational suffrage cannot be raised to the pedestal of religion within the meaning of Art. 26 (b) of the Constitution. So also any restrictions which the principal Act or the rules made thereunder may impose in the matter of election or the exercise of the vote, such as, restrictions with regard to the age of the voter, etc. Obviously, these are not matters of religion and to treat these as matters of religion is tantamount to confusing religion with current politics.

The principal Act contained a provision before 1953 for nomination of 12 members by the Rajpramukh of Pepsu and after 1953, the co-opted members included twelve residents of Pepsu. By an order of the Maharaja of Patiala the Interim Gurdwara Board, Patiala, was constituted to look after certain Gurdwaras of the Pepsu area, and after merger the appointment was made by the Governor of the Punjab. Under Sec. 148-A which was also added to the principal Act by the amending Act of 1959 the Interim Gurdwara Board, Patiala, has ceased to function, and under S. 148-B (1) (a) the memebers of the Interim Board, Patiala, have become members of the Board constituted under Sec. 43. The designation of such members, as an interim measure, to represent those Gurdwaras in the Pepsu area which they were actually managing is not violative of any fundamental right; nor does the non-application of the disqualifications stated in Ss. 45 and 46 of the Act to these members advance the case of the petitioners any further. The circumstance that some members of the electorate detailed in Sec. 148-B (2) are in their turn elected by constituencies of Sikhs and non-Sikhs is far too remote and indirect to constitute an infringement of freedom of religion. The members of the electorate itself are all Sikhs and they have to elect thirty-five Sikhs. Unless one proceeds mechanically on mere abstract considerations, there is no real basis for the contention that non-Sikhs can in any way influence the Board. It cannot be said that Sikh Sarpanches and Naya Pradhans are in the service of Government or that their inclusion as members of the electorate violates the right of the Sikhs under Art. 26 (b) of the Constitution. Sarup Singh v. State of Punjab, (1959) SCJ 1115: (1960) 1 SCA 163: (1959) Supp (2) SCR 499: AIR 1959 SC 860 (866, 867) (Pt C) (Prs 9, 10, 11, 12).

——Ss. 148-B and 52 (as amended in 1959) — Validity — If offends against Art. 26 of the Constitution — If amounts to interference in religious matter by non-Sikhs — (Constitution of India, Art. 26).

The contention that the Sikh Gurdwaras Act, 1925, as amended by the Amending Act of 1959, offends against Art. 26 of the Constitution as it interferes with the right of a religious denomination to manage its own affairs and to administer its property cannot be accepted. The election of 35 new members of the interim Board under Sec. 148-B (2) does not amount to interference in Sikh religious affairs by non-Sikhs it being perfectly clear that none of the electors and none of the members of the Board can ever be a non-Sikh. The introduction of the nominees of the Governor in the interim Board does not offend against the right of Sikhs to manage their own religous affairs: AIR 1954 SC 282 and AIR 1954 SC 388, Distinguished.

The Act does not contemplate that anybody suffering from any of the disabilities mentioned in Sec. 45 or S. 46 can remain a member of the Board and no question of any discrimination therefore arises. Regarding the members to be now elected the rules framed by the Governor have further clarified this matter, and R. 5 provides for the nomination of a candidate for election only of a person 'not ineligible for membership of the Board under the provisions of sub-secs. (1), (2-A) and (3) of Sec. 45 of the Act so that nobody suffering from any disability contained in the Act can stand for election. 61 Punj LR 620: ILR (1959) Punj 1373: AIR 1959 Punj 623 (624, 625) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5, 6) (DB).

PUNJAB SMALL TOWNS ACT (2 OF 1921)

See under Municipalities.

PUNJAB SMALL TOWNS APPOINTMENT, SUSPENSION AND DISMISSAL RULES (1925)

See under Municipalities.

PUNJAB SMALL TOWNS BUSINESS RULES (1924)

See under Municipalities.

PUNJAB SPECIAL POWERS (PRESS) ACT (38 OF 1956)

SECTION 2

●——S. 2 — Validity of — Section held, had not imposed total prohibition upon exercise of fundamental rights. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (a). AIR 1957 SC 896.

●——Ss. 2, 3 (1) — Constitution of India, Arts. 19 (1) (a), 19 (1) (g), 19 (2), 19 (6) — Reasonableness of restrictions — Test of — S. 2 must be held to have imposed reasonable restrictions on exercise of rights under Arts. 19 (1) (a) and 19 (1) (g). See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (a). AIR 1957 SC 896.

●——S. 2—Delegation of discretion to State Government or its executives — Section not invalid as conferring wide powers. See Constitution of India, Art. 245. AIR 1957 SC 896.

SECTION 3

●——S. 3 — Section held had not imposed total prohibition upon exercise of fundamental rights. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (a). AIR 1957 SC 896.

●——Ss. 3 (1), 2 — Constitution of India, Arts. 19 (1) (a), 19 (1) (g), 19 (2), 19 (6) — Reasonableness of restrictions — Test of — S. 3 held ultra vires State Legislature. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (a). AIR 1957 SC 896.

●——S. 3 — Delegation of discretion to State Government or its executives — Section not invalid as conferring wide powers. See Constitution of India, Art. 245. AIR 1957 SC 896.

PUNJAB STATE AID TO INDUSTRIES ACT (5 OF 1935)

SECTION 20

——S. 20—Priority of State Debt—Debt secured by mortgage deed but not registered under S. 125 — State not entitled to preferential treatment — Cannot recover as arrears of land revenue. See Companies Act (1956), S. 530. AIR 1962 Punj 519.

SECTION 35

●——S. 35 — Section is not repugnant to Art. 14 of the Constitution. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1959 Punj 19 (FB).

PUNJAB STATE LEGISLATURE (DELEGATION OF POWERS) ACT (CENTRAL ACT 46 OF 1951)

SECTION 1

——S. 1 — President's Proclamation dated 20-6-1951 and passing of Punjab Act 46 of 1951 — Subject to certain conditions, powers and functions of Punjab Legislature held transferred to President. See Punjab Pure Food Act (8 of 1929), S. 22 (2) (f). AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4965 (DB).

PUNJAB SUPPRESSION OF IMMORAL TRAFFIC ACT (4 OF 1935)

SECTION 5

——S. 5 — Evidence of only one visit to woman — Conviction held not proper.

Where, in a case under Sec. 5, all that the prosecution evidence showed was that on one occasion the witness went to the house of the woman, paid Rs. 10 to her husband and had sexual intercourse with her. Held, that it was not proved that the accused knowingly lived wholly or in part on the earnings of prostitution of his wife and he was entitled to acquittal. (The practice of getting persons to go and commit sexual intercourse with wives of poor persons in order to prove offences under Suppression of Immoral Traffic Act deprecated). ILR (1956) Punj 1371.

PUNJAB TAHSILDARI RULES (1932)

RULE 1

●——R. 1 — Punjab Land Revenue Act (17 of 1887), Ss. 9 and 28 — Rules under — Rules continued to remain in force even after Act was amended by Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937—Dismissal of Tahsildar from service — Order passed by Financial Commissioner in 1953 — Order held valid. See Punjab Land Revenue Act (17 of 1887), S. 9. AIR 1962 SC 219.

——R. 1 — Scope — Amendment of, by Adaptation Order, 1937 — Rules held, continued to be in force — Powers of Financial Commissioner not affected. See Punjab Land Revenue Act (17 of 1887), S. 9. AIR 1960 Punj 168 (DB).

RULE 7

●——R. 7 (as applied to former State of Pepsu) — Reduction in rank — Punjab Tahsildari Rules (as applied to former State of Pepsu), R. 7—Officiating Tahsildars in State of Pepsu confirmed as Tahsildars although no posts were available for confirmation — Supernumerary posts of Tahsildars created subsequently by Rajpramukh of Pepsu to provide liens for confirmed Tahsildars — Merger of Pepsu with Punjab under States Reorganization Act — Subsequent order of successor (Punjab) Government, cancelling previous order of confirmation —Validity — Art. 311 (2) not attracted—Successor Government competent under Sec. 116 (2) of the States Reorganization Act to deprive respondents of status of permanent Tahsildars. See Constitution of India, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1964 SC 521.

PUNJAB TENANCY ACT (16 OF 1887)

See under Tenancy Laws.

PUNJAB TEXTILES AND SUGAR (EXISTING STOCKS) PURCHASE TAX AND MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS ACT (8 OF 1958)

SECTION 6

——Ss. 6 and 8 — Assessee filing return of existing stock within contemplation of Punjab Ordinance No. 9 of 1957 on 28-1-58 and depositing certain sum on 28-3-58 on basis of return—Assessing authority issuing statutory notice to assessee on 6-6-1958 requiring his appearance on 19-6-58 — Legal representative of assessee appearing and praying for adjournment — Subsequent assessment on 29-11-1961 — Assessing authority contending that assessment was under S. 6 — Held, assessment was not vitiated by any patent error of law. (1963) 65 Pun LR 831.

SECTION 8

——S. 8 — If refusal to disallow composition is not contrary to law, then it cannot be described to be manifestly unjust. Constitution of India, Art. 226. (1963) 65 Pun LR 831.

SECTION 14

——S. 14 (2) — Sec. 14 (2) does not in terms prohibit disposal of appeal without payment of tax assessed, if dealer satisfies appellate authority his inability to pay same. (1963) 65 Pun LR 831.

PUNJAB TOBACCO VEND FEES ACT (12 OF 1954)

SECTION 1

●——S. 1 — Two taxes on same commodity by earlier and later Acts — Repeal of earlier Act by later Act not to be implied. See Interpretation of Statutes — Tax Laws. AIR 1962 SC 745.

——S. 1 — Act is valid. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1967 Punj 45 (DB).
[Overruled in AIR 1962 Punj 267 (FB).]

SECTION 4

——S. 4 — Imposition of fees — Imposition not in excess of — Purpose — Act and rules not invalid. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (6). AIR 1957 Punj 45 (DB).
[Overuled in AIR 1962 Punj 267 (FB).]

——S. 4 — Imposition of fees — Fees received in treasury and not earmarked — Imposition does not cease to be of nature of fees. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (6). AIR 1957 Punj 45 (DB).
[Overruled in AIR 1962 Punj 267 (FB).]

——S. 4 — Section is valid. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1957 Punj 45 (DB).
[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 Punj 267 (FB).]

PUNJAB TOBACCO VEND FEES RULES (1955)

RULE 4

——R. 4 — Imposition of fees — Imposition not in excess — Rule not invalid. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (6). AIR 1957 Punj 45 (DB).
[Overruled in AIR 1962 Punj 267 (FB).]

——R. 4 — Tax or fees — Income from licence fees under Punjab Act of 1954 — Income not earmarked — Imposition does not cease to be of nature of fees. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (6). AIR 1957 Punj 45 (DB).
[Overruled in AIR 1962 Punj 267 (FB).]

——R. 4 — Classification of and discrimination between dealers — Rule held to be valid. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1957 Punj 45 (DB).
[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 Punj 267 (FB).]

PUNJAB TOWN IMPROVEMENT ACT (4 OF 1922)

See under Municipalities.

PUNJAB TRADE EMPLOYEES ACT (10 OF 1940)

SECTION 2

——S. 2 (d) — Applicability — Petitioner not working either in shop or clerical establishment — Rights to benefit of Act.

Where the petitioner is an artisan working in a hosiery mill but he is working neither in a shop attached to the said mills nor in the clerical department thereof, the portion of the factory to which he is attached is not a commercial establishment within the meaning of S. 2 (d). It follows as a consequence that the petitioner is not entitled to the privileges admissible under the Punjab Trade Employees Act. (1957) 12 FLR 49 (Punj).

——S. 2 (1) (d) and (p) — Scope — Expression "shop", "Commercial establishment" and "Trade or business" — Meaning — Premises used as godown-cum-office wherein goods meant for sale in market stored and account thereof kept and correspondence with branch office also carried on — Premises are "Commercial establishment".

The definition of the word "shop" in S. 2 (1) (p) of the Punjab Trade Employees Act and the expression "Trade or business" as used in the definition of "shop" and of "commercial establishment" in Sec. 2 (1) (d) are broad and comprehensive. The object of the Act is to limit the hours of work of shop assistants and commercial employees and to make certain regulations concerning their holidays, wages and terms of service and being a welfare legislation the definitions of "shop" and "commercial establishment" have deliberately been couched in wide language, so that the human and beneficial purposes and the long-range social objective of the measure may be effectively accomplished. Being an enactment responsive to the social and economic needs of the society, the word "shop" and the expression "commercial establishment" have to be given a liberal meaning. AIR 1955 SC 62, Dist.; (1938) 1 KB 715, (1954) 1 QB 77, (1922) 1 KB 693, AIR 1924 Lah 213, AIR 1927 Lah 328, AIR 1936 Cal 477, (1944) 1 KB 106 and AIR 1954 Mad 892, Ref.

Certain premises occupied by a tea company were used as godown-cum-office. Goods meant for sale in the market were received and stored there and the account thereof was kept there. Correspondence with the branch office of the company also used to be carried on in the premises.

Held, that the premises fell within the definition of "commercial establishment" in S. 2 (1) (d). ILR (1960) 1 Punj 639.
[Overruled in AIR 1963 Punj 148 (FB).]

SECTION 2-A

●——S. 2-A (as amended in 1943) — S. 2-A (1) does not control S. 7 (1). See Punjab Trade Employees Act (1940), S. 7 (1). 52 Cri LJ 1237: AIR 1951 SC 315.

——S. 2-A —Scope of S. 2-A — S. 7 (1), Punjab Trade Employees Act does not contravene Art. 14 of Constitution. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. (1956) 58 Pun LR 528.

SECTION 2-B

——S. 2-B — Scope of S. 2-B — S. 7 (1), Punjab Trade Employees Act does not contravene Art. 14 of Constitution. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. (1956) 58 Pun LR 528.

SECTION 2-C

——S. 2-C — Scope of S. 2-C — S. 7 (1), Punjab Trade Employees Act does not contravene Art. 14 of Constitution. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. (1956) 58 Pun LR 528.

SECTION 7

●——S. 7 (1) — Validity — Constitution of India, Art. 19 (6).

The legislation is in effect the exercise of social control over the manner in which business should be carried on regulated in the interests of the health and welfare not merely of those employed in it but of all those engaged in it. The restriction imposed by the terms of S. 7 (1) is with a view to secure this purpose and would, therefore, be clearly saved by Art. 19 (6) of the Constitution even in its application to the shops entirely conducted by the owner and his family.

Restrictions in regard to acts though innocent in themselves would be reasonable, if the same were necessary to secure the efficient enforcement of valid provisions. The inclusion of a reasonable margin to ensure effective enforcement will not stamp a law with the character of unconstitutionality as being unreasonable. The provisions of Sec. 7 (1) could, therefore, be justified as for securing administrative convenience and for the proper enforcement of it without evasion. AIR 1951 SC 315, Rel. on; ILR (1957) Punj 155, Affirmed. Manohar Lal v. State of Punjab, (1961) 2 SCJ 17: (1961) 2 Fac LR 107: (1961) 2 SCR 343: (1962) 1 SCR 265: (1961) 2 Ker LR 109: 1961 Mad LJ (Cr) 385: (1961) 2 Andh WR (SC) 13: (1961) 2 Mad LJ (SC) 13: (1961) 2 Lab LJ 67: 63 Punj LR 660: (1960-61) 19 FJR 221: 1961 (1) Cr LJ 570: AIR 1961 SC 418 (419, 420) (Prs 4, 5, 6).

●——Ss. 7 (1) and 2-A (as amended in 1943) — S. 7 (1) is intra vires — Government of India Act (1935), Sch. VII, List II, Item 27 and List III, Item 27 — Constitution of India, Sch. VII, List II, Item 26 and List III, Items 24 and 33.

The subject-matter of S. 7 (1) of the Punjab Trade Employees Act is covered by Sch. 7, List II, Item 27 and List III, Item 27 of the Government of India Act and as such is intra vires.

The impugned section is a general one and applies to all kinds of shops; that is to say, to those in which labour is employed as well as to those which are run by the owners and their families. The Act in which the section occurs is directed at regulating the hours of employment of persons who are employed in the business of shops or commercial establishments. Therefore, in so far as S. 7 covers establishments where labour is employed, it is undoubtedly intra vires.

Where a shop is run only by the owner and his son without employment of any labour, the mere fact that Cls. (i) and (j) of S. 2-A exempts persons employed in managerial capacity and the members of the family of the employer from the purview of the Act cannot give the owner or the son the right to keep the shop open on a close day. Even where the owner of the shop and the manager are the same, the two capacities will have to be separated for purposes of S. 7 (1) under which the owner is obliged to close his shop one day in a week. S. 2-A (i) does not control S. 7 (1).

Consequently, where the son sells an article to a customer on a close day, the owner would be guilty under S. 16 read with S. 7 (1). 1951 SCJ 475: (1951-52) 3 FJR 149: (1951) 2 Mad LJ 139: 1951 All LJ 605: 1951 SCR 671: 52 Cri LJ 1237: 1951 Mad WN 763: 1951 Mad WN (Cri) 1248: AIR 1951 SC 315 (316) (Prs 8, 9).

——S. 7 — S. 7 (1) does not violate Art. 19 (1) (g) of Constitution. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g). (1956) 58 Pun LR 528.

PUNJAB UNIVERSITY ACT (EAST PUNJAB ACT 7 OF 1947)

SECTION 1

——S. 1 — Provincial Legislature held had authority to pass Act — Government of India Act (1935), List II, Entry 17. AIR 1952 Punj 395 (398) (Pt C) (Pr 17) (DB).

SECTION 15

——S. 15 (2) — Scope — Directions of Chancellor would apply to both bye-elections and general elections. AIR 1955 NUC (Him Pra) 4517.

——S. 15 (2) — Power of Chancellor to give directions is a statutory power — Court cannot go behind it and hold that it should not have been given — (Constitution of India, Art. 226). AIR 1955 NUC (Him Pra) 4517.

——S. 15 (2) — Notification under, by Chancellor, dated 30th August, 1949, giving directions in connection with 'forthcoming elections' — Construction — Held it did not apply to elections held three years after its issue. AIR 1955 NUC (Him Pra) 4517.

SECTION 20

——S. 20 (5), Regulation 6 — Procedure under, followed — Examinee not allowed to appear personally — Validity of proceedings.

The Senate has framed rules for dealing with a candidate who is found guilty of misconduct in the course of an examination and the procedure is laid down in Regulation 6 made under S. 20 (5), East Punjab University Act. Where in a case this procedure was followed and the examinee was given an opportunity of being heard, the fact that he was not allowed to appear personally does not render the proceedings in any way invalid. The Act does not give the right of personal appearance to an examinee and such a right cannot be claimed on the ground that it is sanctioned by the principles of natural justice. 54 PLR 485: ILR (1953) Punj 56: AIR 1952 Punj 395 (398 to 400) (Pt B) (Prs 26, 27) (DB).

——S. 20 (5), Regulation 6 — If ultra vires.

Section 20 (5), East Punjab University Act, empowers the Syndicate to delegate any of its executive functions to the Vice-Chancellor or to the Sub-Committees appointed from among the members of the Syndicate, or to Committees appointed by it which may include persons who are not members of the Syndicate or to any other authority or body constituted by the Act or Regulations. Regulation 6 framed under S. 20 (5) of the Act is, therefore, intra vires the authority that made the Regulation. 54 PLR 485: ILR (1953) Punj 56: AIR 1952 Punj 395 (400) (Pt E) (Pr 28) (DB).

——Ss. 20, 31 and 33, Regn. 6 of Chap. III of Part II and Reg. 13 of Part IV — Decision of University against delinquent student — Interference — Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

By the combined effect of Ss. 20, 31 and 33 of the East Punjab University Act and the Regulations made thereunder, i.e., Regulation 6 of Chapter III of Part II and Regulation 13 of Part IV, the jurisdiction to decide whether a student is guilty of any delinquency is a matter exclusively for the committee appointed by the Vice-Chancellor or by the Syndicate of the University, and merely because the University comes to a wrong conclusion or even if the conclusion is against the weight of the evidence, the decision is final. No suit, therefore, lies to challenge the decision of the University to take action against an erring student. (1952) 54 Pun LR 369.

——Ss. 20 and 31, Regn. 6 of Chap. III of Part II and Regns. 12 and 13 of Part IV — If ultra vires.

Regulation 6 contained in Chapter III of Part II which purports to have been made under Ss. 20 (1) (c) and 31 (b), (c) of the East Punjab University Act, and Regns. 12 and 13 contained in Part IV which have been made under S. 31 of that Act, are intra vires of that Act. (1952) 54 Punj LR 369.

——Ss. 20 and 31, Regn. 6 of Chap. III of Part II and Regns. 12 and 13 of Part IV — Right of erring candidate to personal hearing.

There is no provisions in the East Punjab University Act or in the Regulations made thereunder enjoining upon the University to give a personal hearing to any erring candidate before any action could be taken. That being so, the non-appearance of the candidate before the committee, the Vice-Chancellor or the Syndicate, will not invalidate a decision of the University which is otherwise valid. (1952) 54 Pun LR 369.

SECTION 24

——S. 24 — Regulation I (iii) of 1962 — Petitioner passing B.A. examination — After lapse of seven years petitioner's result quashed on ground that he was ineligible to appear for B.A. examination and allegation that certificate relied by him was false — Opportunity to prove innocence not given to him — Held, principles of natural justice were not observed and hence order should be cancelled. 1964 Cur LJ 373: 66 Punj LR 873.

SECTION 31

——S. 31 — Regulations under Part D (vii), Regn. 3-B — Misconduct by college student—Disciplinary proceedings — Principles of natural justice — Principal recording student's statement, admitting allegations — Tutor, who witnessed incident, identifying student — Student not demanding cross-examination of witnesses or permission to produce witnesses — University ordering cancellation of result on basis of Principal's report — Student alleging violation of principles of natural justice — Held there was no violation. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1964 Punj 456 (DB).

——S. 31 — Misconduct by University students—Enquiries into — Desirability of framing precise and definite rules of procedure to conduct such enquiries.

Though mere absence of precise rules for enquiries into misconduct by college students may not by itself attract the challenge of failure of natural justice, nevertheless, for the guidance of its officers entrusted with such enquiries, if for no other reason, the University might well consider the desirability of framing some more precise and definite rules of procedure for the purpose. Decision in such matters must be given in the spirit and with a sense of responsibility of a Tribunal with a duty to mete out justice, undeflected by prejudice, interest or caprice. For this purpose, it is necessary to preserve a judicial temper and treat the matter in a judicial spirit. Judicial process can more easily find expression in administrative sphere by prescribing some rules of procedure or guidance. 66 Punj LR 992: AIR 1964 Punj 456 (461) (Pt C) (Pr 10) (DB).

——S. 31 — Constitution of India, Arts. 226 and 227 — Natural justice — Use of unfair means at examination — Inquiry proceedings — Proceedings are of quasi-judicial nature — Regulations of University not prescribing any procedure — Principles of natural justice should be followed. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1964 Punj 327 (DB).

——S. 31 (2) (a) — Constitution of India, Art. 226 — Other remedy open — Election disputes—Election to Punjab University — Improper rejection of nomination paper — Remedy under University Regulations — No bar to writ proceedings, before election is held. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1961 Punj 194.

——S. 31 (2) (a) — Regulations framed under, Regn. 24 (ii) — Scope — If mandatory.

The provision in Regulation 24 about sending the nomination paper on the prescribed form under registered cover to the Returning Officer by name is merely of a directory nature and is not mandatory. Its non-compliance is not a defect of such a substantial nature as can justify the rejection of the nomination papers which satisfy all the other conditions which have been laid down by the regulation.

If the Registrar is the Returning Officer and the cover is addressed to him and it is received by him, there has been substantial compliance though technically and literally it may be said that the requirement had not been satisfied, and the nomination paper cannot be rejected on a ground of such inconsequential nature. 63 Pun LR 142: AIR 1961 Punj 194 (199, 200) (Pt B) (Prs 9, 10).

—S. 31, Regns. 6, 12, 13 — Regulations are intra vires.

The Regulation 6 contained in Chap. III of Part II and Regulations 12 and 13 contained in Part IV are intra vires and are not beyond the powers of the University under Ss. 20 and 31 of the East Punjab University Act, 1947. ILR (1953) Punj 140: AIR 1953 Punj 3 (7) (Pt A) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Ss. 31, 33 and Regns. 6, 13 — Student guilty of delinquency in respect of examination—Decision rests entirely with University — Jurisdiction of Civil Courts is excluded — Principles of natural justice — Applicability.

By the combined effect of Ss. 20, 31 and 33 of the East Punjab University Act and the Regulations made thereunder, i.e., the Regulation 6 of Chap. III of Part II and Regulation 13 of Part IV the jurisdiction to decide whether a student is guilty of any delinquency is a matter exclusively for the Committee appointed or by the Vice-Chancellor or by the Syndicate of the University. The decision arrived at by them under the powers conferred by the Act or the regulations made thereunder is final and it excludes the jurisdiction of Civil Courts to entertain the suit. The discretion is of the Committee and the Vice-Chancellor and if they decide the question in accordance with the requirements of the statute, no Court can sit in appeal against their decision. No suit lies to challenge the decision of the University to take action against an erring student.

It is not necessary to give a personal hearing to a student against whom action is intended to be taken and in the very nature of things the Committee cannot hold a trial as it is understood by lawyers nor can they take evidence which lawyers consider to be evidence. All they can do is to get statements of various persons for and against a complaint; and after considering them it is for them to give their honest and bona fide opinion. Once they do that, it is not challengeable in a Court of law, and there is no offending of the concept of natural justice in the case. Case-law discussed. ILR (1953) Punj 140: AIR 1953 Punj 3 (12, 13, 15) (Pt C) (Prs 36, 48, 49) (DB).

——S. 31, Regulation 12 — If ultra vires.

Regulation 12 was framed with proper authority and, falling as it does within the scope of S. 31 (1), East Punjab University Act, is in every respect valid. It cannot be said that it was framed without proper authority merely because it purports to relate to S. 31 (2) (f). 54 PLR 485: ILR (1953) Punj 56: AIR 1952 Punj 395 (396, 397, 398, 399) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 24, 25) (DB).

——Ss. 31 and 20 — Reg. 6 of Chap. III of Part II and Regulations 12 and 13 of Part IV — Held not ultra vires of that Act. See East Punjab University Act (1947), S. 20. (1952) 54 Pun LR 369.

SECTION 33

——Ss. 33, 31 and Regns. 6, 13 — Student guilty of delinquency in respect of examination — Decision rests entirely with University — Jurisdiction of Civil Courts is excluded — Principles of natural justice should be followed — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9). See Punjab University Act (7 of 1947), S. 31. AIR 1953 Punj 3 (DB).

——Ss. 33, 20 and 31 — Reg. 6 of Chap. III of Part II and Reg. 13 of Part IV — Decision of University against delinquent student — Interference — Jurisdiction of Civil Court is barred. See East Punjab University Act (1947), S. 20. (1952) 54 Punj LR 369.

PUNJAB UNIVERSITY ACT (35 OF 1961)

REGULATION 7

——Regn. 7, Cl. (1) — Petitioner refusing to comply with directions of respondent University — University passing order in writing disqualifying petitioner from examinership for three years — Petitioner not given opportunity to defend his case — Held, that action of University involved exercise of quasi-judicial functions and opportunity of being heard should have been given to petitioner — (Constitution of India, Art. 226) — Natural justice—Education. 1965 Cur LJ 197: ILR (1965) 1 Punj 704.

PUNJAB UNIVERSITY CALENDAR (1961), PART I, RULE 10

——Part I (1961), Rr. 10 and 11 — Using unfair means in examination — Suspected candidate not given opportunity to show cause against action to be taken against him on basis of report submitted by Superintendent in charge of Examination — Controversy about facts reported by Superintendent — Action disqualifying candidate held not valid. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1963 Punj 480.

PUNJAB UNIVERSITY CALENDAR (1962) VOL. I (1962), REGULATION 12

——(Vol. 1, 1962 Edn., pp. 89 and 97), Regulations 12 (c) (iii) and 21 (viii), 1 (i) — Power of Syndicate to quash result — Result of 'person' who has not taken examination at which unfair means are used but who is guilty only of rendering help from outside to candidate taking examination, cannot be quashed. (1965) 1 Cur LJ 243.

——(Vol. 1, 1962 Edn., p. 89), Regulation 12 (c) (iii) — Punishment under — Adverse finding without sufficient evidence — Order quashed — Institute — Educational — Punishment for use of unfair means at examination — Domestic Tribunal.

The domestic tribunals are as much governed by the rule of fair play and have to act on established principles and cannot possibly come to an adverse finding against a person, which is bound to result in ruining his career, without there being sufficient material in support of it. 1963 CLJ (SC) 153 and 1964 Punj LR 852, Ref.

Where the University authorities holding the petitioner guilty of having rendered help from outside the examination hall, to a candidate taking the examination, by sending a chit alleged to have been written by the petitioner and containing an answer to a certain question set at the examination, passed an order disqualifying the petitioner for three years:

Held, that the order was liable to be quashed. Even if it were taken that the chit did contain a part of the solution of the particular question the part contained in it, which might have been of help, was of a general nature and not specifically meant as a solution to the question actually set and the authorities could not overlook the fact that the major portion of the chit contained irrelevant matter, particularly in view of the fact that there was no evidence whatever indicating that the petitioner was outside the hall at or about the time of the examination or he sent the chit through the agency of any supervisor or otherwise. (1965) 1 Cur LJ 243.

VOL. I (1962), REGN. 19

——Vol. I, Regulation 19 — Vice-Chancellor when may give decision.

Regulation 19 contemplates a decision by the Standing Committee alone and it is only when there arises any difference between the members of the Committee that the Vice-Chancellor can give a decision. 1965 Cur LJ 182 (Punj).

VOL. I (1962), REGN. 21

——(Vol. 1, 1962 Edn., pp. 89 and 97), Regulations 21 (viii), 1 (i) — Power of Syndicate to quash result — Result of person who has not taken examination at which unfair means are used but who is guilty only of rendering help from outside to candidate taking examination, cannot be quashed. See Punjab University Calendar (Vol. 1, 1962 Edn., pp. 89 and 97, Regulation 12 (c) (iii). (1965) 1 Cur LJ 243.

PUNJAB UNIVERSITY REGULATIONS

REGN. 6

——Regns. 6, 12, 13—Regulations are intra vires. See Punjab University Act (E. P. Act 7 of 1947), S. 31. AIR 1953 Punj 3 (DB).

——Regns. 6, 13 and Ss. 31, 33 — Student guilty of delinquency in respect of examination — Decision rests entirely with University — Jurisdiction of Civil Courts is excluded — Principles of natural justice should be followed—(Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9. See Punjab University Act (E. P. Act 7 of 1947), S. 31. AIR 1953 Punj 3 (DB).

REGN. 11

——Regn. 11 (c) — Malpractice by examinee—Enquiry into — Procedure to be followed by University authorities — Right of examinee to be heard — Statement of examinee obtained first — Statements of Superintendent and Supervisor at examination centre obtained subsequently — No opportunity to rebut subsequent prejudicial statements of Superintendent and Supervisor given to examinee — Decision prejudicial to examinee taken on basis of Supervisor's and Superintendent's statements — Rules of natural justice violated. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1965 Punj 120 (FB).

REGN. 12

——Regns. 12, 6, 13 are intra vires. See Punjab University Act (E. P. Act 7 of 1947), S. 31. AIR 1953 Punj 3 (DB).

REGN. 13

——Regn. 13 (a) — Smuggling of answer-paper from outside by candidate at examination — Subsequent amendment of Regulation in 1964 — Candidate's case has to be determined according to old Regulations. (1965) 67 Punj LR 544.

——Regns. 13, 6, 12 are intra vires. See Punjab University Act (E. P. Act 7 of 1947), S. 31. AIR 1953 Punj 3 (DB).

——Regns. 13, 6 and Ss. 31, 33 — Student guilty of delinquency in respect of examination — Decision rests entirely with University — Jurisdiction of Civil Court is excluded — Principles of natural justice should be followed—(Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9). See Punjab University Act (E. P. Act 7 of 1947), S. 31. AIR 1953 Punj 3 (DB).

REGN. 18

——Regns. 18 and 18-A — Powers of Superintendent.

Under Regulation 18 the only power vested in the Superintendent is to expel a candidate under the circumstances enumerated therein. If any other action has to be taken against the candidate, then the matter has, obviously, to go to the Syndicate, as is obvious from the perusal of Regulation 18-A. AIR 1957 Him Pra 31 (32) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Regn. 18 — University taking action against certain candidates without affording opportunity of showing cause—Principles of natural justice — If violated — (Constitution of India, Art. 226).

The University cannot be said to have acted against the principles of natural justice in not offering the candidates an opportunity of showing cause before action is taken against them under Regulation 18 of the Punjab University. The regulations of the Punjab University do not provide for the issue of any show-cause notice to a candidate before taking action against him in accordance with the regulations of the University. When a candidate offers himself for an examination by the University, he is deemed to have submitted himself to the jurisdiction of the University and to have agreed to be bound by the regulations of that University. It is not possible for the High Court to read into the regulations something which is not there on the basis of what is referred to as 'principles of natural justice'. AIR 1957 Him Pra 31 (32) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

REGN. 18-A

——Regn. 18-A — Superintendent can expel a candidate — See Punjab University Regulations, Regulation 18. AIR 1957 Him Pra 31.

REGN. 23

——Regn. 23 — Decision of Vice-Chancellor to be final — Court has no power to sit in judgment over it — Constitution of India, Arts. 226 and 227. AIR 1955 NUC (Him Pra) 4517.

REGN. 24

——Regn. 24 — Decision of Election Tribunal under University Regulations is not open to interference. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1955 NUC (Him Pra) 4517.

PUNJAB URBAN IMMOVABLE PROPERTY TAX ACT (17 OF 1940)

SECTION 1

——S. 1 — Extension to former Pepsu area by S. 4 of Punjab Act (7 of 1957) is according to law. 65 Punj LR 197: ILR (1963) 1 Punj 477: AIR 1963 Punj 354 (358) (Pt F) (Prs 19, 20) (DB).

——Ss. 1 and 3 (2) — Act was not enacted as a temporary war measure and has not met a natural death.

The heading and the preamble of the Punjab Act 17 of 1940 do not show that it was a case of a temporary statute made for a defined period and as a war measure. Section 3 (2) of the Act rather clearly indicates the intention of the Legislature that the Act was not a war measure but an ordinary piece of legislation to collect revenue. The statement of the object of the enactment of the Act merely says that the Bill is fiscal, to raise additional revenue. AIR 1952 SC 1781 Rel. on. 65 Pun LR 197: ILR (1963) 1 Punj 477: AIR 1963 Punj 354 (358) (Pt G) (Pr 21) (DB).

——Ss. 1 and 3 — Not ultra vires the Constitution — Constitution of India, Arts. 13, 246, 254, 265 and Sch. VII, List II, Item 49. 65 Pun LR 297: ILR (1963) 1 Punj 477: AIR 1963 Punj 354 (359) (Pt I) (Pr 23) (DB).

——Ss. 1 (2), 2 (c), 3 (3) and 4 (2) — Not violative of Art. 14 of the Constitution as being discriminatory — Ss. 1 (2), 3 (3) and 4 (2) are in the nature of conditional legislation which is not an abdication of legislative powers.

Sections 1 (2), 2 (e), 3 (3) and 4 (2) of the Act are not discriminatory. The Act applies to urban immovable property and in itself creates no discrimination and the State Legislature is justified in legislating separately for a defined and known class of property, so that there is no discrimination between urbanities and ruralities so far as provisions of this Act are concerned. The power in most of these provisions is in the nature of conditional legislation which is not abdication of legislative powers, and on this ground these provisions are not ultra vires. AIR 1962 Punj 204, Rel. on. 65 Pun LR 197: ILR (1963) 1 Punj 477: AIR 1963 Punj 354 (359) (Pt J) (Pr 24) (DB).

——S. 1 — Property already taxed under Act 17 of 1940 — Same can be validly taxed again under Section 61 (1) (a) of Punjab Municipal Act. See Constitution of India, Art. 265. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 3446.

——S. 1 (2) — Necessity for extension of Act to levy tax in included area. See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act (17 of 1940), S. 3. AIR 1954 Punj 18 (DB).

SECTION 2

——Ss. 2 (e), 1 (2), 3 (3) and 4 (2) — Not violative of Art. 14 of the Constitution as being discriminatory — Sections 1 (2), 3 (3) and 4 (2) are in the nature of conditional legislation which is not an abdication of legislative powers. See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act (17 of 1940), S. 1 (2). AIR 1963 Punj 354 (DB).

——S. 2 (c) — Owner — Mortgagee in possession included in definition of owner. 65 Pun LR 197: ILR (1963) 1 Punj 477: AIR 1963 Punj 354 (357) (Pt A) (Pr 9) (DB).

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3 (3), 1 (2), 2 (e) and 4 (2) — Not violative of Art. 14 of the Constitution as being discriminatory — Sections 1 (2), 3 (3) and 4 (2) are in the nature of conditional legislation which is not an abdication of legislative powers. See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act (17 of 1940), S. 1 (2). AIR 1963 Punj 354 (DB).

——Ss. 3 and 1 — Not ultra vires the Constitution — Constitution of India, Arts. 13, 246, 254, 265 and Sch. 7, List II, Item 49. See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act (17 of 1940), S. 1. AIR 1963 Punj 354 (DB).

——Ss. 3, 5 and 7 (1) — Levy of property tax — Basis of.

The basis of levy and charge of property tax is "the annual value" of property and 'not gains and profits' derived from property — Nor is contractual rent basis of such charge — Fact that valuation list has to remain in force for a period of five years under S. 7 (1) does not affect this position — It cannot be contended that property tax should be levied on buildings and lands from which owners derive gains and profits only. 65 Pun LR 197: ILR (1963) 1 Punj 477: AIR 1963 Punj 354 (357) (Pt C) (Pr 15) (DB).

——S. 3 — Double taxation — Charge and levy of property tax by State Government under S. 3, Punjab Act (17 of 1940), and by Municipality under S. 61 (1) (a) of Punjab Act (3 of 1911) — Not unconstitutional as offending Art. 265. See Constitution of India, Art. 265. AIR 1963 Punj 354 (DB).

——S. 3 (2) — Act was not enacted as a temporary war measure and has not met a natural death. See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act (17 of 1940), Preamble. AIR 1963 Punj 354 (DB).

——S. 3 — Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Rules (1941), Rr. 4 (e), 4 (f) — Scope of — Property subject to Urban Rent Restriction Act — Assessment of tax — Annual rental value is to be determined — Houses and Rents — East Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act (3 of 1949), S. 4.

Under Rr. 4 (e) and 4 (f) it is the actual gross annual rent earned or which could reasonably be earned in respect of the property which will become the annual renting value. If the property is subject to the provisions of the East Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act, it cannot earn or cannot be reasonably expected to earn more rent than what that Act permits. Therefore, fixing the annual rent in disregard of the restrictions on enhancement of rent by the East Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act would be a violation of Cls. (e) and (f) of R. 4. Thus, it was incumbent on the assessing authority to determine the annual rental value for purposes of the assessment of the tax, with reference to the provisions of the East Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 884.

——Ss. 3 (1) and 73 — Scope and applicability — Debt due to State on account of property tax under Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act, 1940 — Section 73 does not apply. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 73. AIR 1961 Punj 292.

——Ss. 3 and 1 (2) — Necessity for extension of Act to levy tax in included area.

When by notification, dated the 24th of January, 1950, the built-up area of Sanjauli was included within the area administered by the Simla Municipality for purposes of administration with effect from the 25th January, 1950, the Act came into force in Sanjauli. Therefore, the promulgation of notification under S. 1 (2) of the Act was not necessary for levying tax in Sanjauli under S. 3. ILR (1953) Punj 50: AIR 1954 Punj 18 (19) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

SECTION 4

●——S. 4 (1) (g) — Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Rules (1941), R. 18 — Exemption from property tax — Buildings used for purpose of a factory — Conditions to be satisfied for getting benefit of exemption.

Section 4 of the Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act, 1940, provides that the tax shall not be levied in respect of the properties mentioned in Cls. (a) to (g) of sub-sec. (1) thereof. Clause (g) mentions "such buildings and lands used for the purpose of a factory as may be prescribed". "Prescribed" has been defined as 'prescribed by the rules made under the Act'. Rule 18 of the Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Rules, that were framed by the Punjab Government in 1941, prescribes buildings and lands for the purpose of Cl. (g) of S. 4 (1).

The effect of R. 18 of the Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Rules, 1941, is that buildings belonging to the proprietors of the factory will get the benefit of exemption from taxation under S. 4 of the Act, provided three conditions are satisfied, namely, (i) the building must be used for the purpose of a factory; (ii) the factory must be one where a manufacturing process involving the use of power is being and has been carried on for a continuous period of six months; and (iii) (a) no rent is being charged for the building; (b) it is not a godown outside the factory compound; or (c) it is not a bungalow or house intended for or occupied by the managerial or superior staff. State of Punjab v. British India Corporation Ltd., (1964) 1 SCA 522: (1964) 1 SCJ 571: (1964) 2 SCR 114: (1963) 2 SCWR 114: 65 Pun LR 727: 1963 Cur LJ (SC) 40: AIR 1963 SC 1459 (1461) (Pt A) (Prs 1, 4).

●——S. 4 (1) (g) — Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Rules (1941), R. 18 (1) and (4) — Buildings used for the purpose of a factory — Two principles that determine use of building for purpose of factory — Building fulfilling requirements of factory law and building used towards securing welfare of workmen employed in factory — All such buildings are used for purpose of a factory.

In this case the factory was one in which manufacturing process involving the use of power was being and had been carried on for a continuous period of six months. Further, the building was not a godown outside the factory compound nor was it a bungalow or house intended for or occupied by the managerial or superior staff. Such buildings consisted of the following units: (1) a set of rooms used for indoor games by the mill employees; (2) one big hall used as the Gurkha Guards Club; (3) a set of rooms used as Officers' Club; (4) a set of rooms used as residential quarters by workers of the mills; and (5) a unit consisting of 200 quarters which had been allotted to workers of the factory for their occupation.

Held, that the allotment of these buildings for the use of the workmen was made for a purpose which was necessary to the efficiency of the workmen, and thus the buildings were being used for the purpose of a factory. (1942) 1 KB 53 Rel. on. State of Punjab v. British India Corporation Ltd., (1964) 1 SCA 522: (1964) 1 SCJ 571: (1964) 2 SCR 114: (1963) 2 SCWR 114: 65 Pun LR 727: 1963 Cur LJ (SC) 40: AIR 1963 SC 1459 (1462, 1463) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 7, 8, 9, 13, 14).

●——S. 4 (1) (g) — Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Rules (1941), R. 18 (4) (ii)—"Rent" — Meaning of — Word "rent" used in R. 18 (4) (ii) is in narrower sense of payment to landlord by a tenant and not in wider sense of money received for user of building on leave and licence— Where payment received is not rent in its narrower sense, property is exempt from assessment to tax under Act. State of Punjab v. British India Corporation Ltd., (1964) 1 SCA 522: (1964) 1 SCJ 571: (1964) 2 SCR 114: (1963) 2 SCWR 114: 65 Pun LR 727: 1963 Cur LJ (SC) 40: AIR 1963 SC 1459 (1463, 1464) (Pt C) (Prs 15, 16, 17, 19, 20).

——Ss. 4 (2), 1 (2), 2 (e), 3 (3) — Not violative of Art. 14 of the Constitution as being discriminatory — Sections 1 (2), 3 (3) and 4 (2) are in the nature of conditional legislation which is not an abdication of legislative powers. See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act (17 of 1940), S. 1 (2). AIR 1963 Punj 354 (DB).

——S. 4 (1) (j) — Buildings used for purposes of factory — Rent-free accommodation of workmen and club premises — Scope of R. 18 of Rules framed under Act (Words and Phrases — Rent) — (Transfer of Property Act (1882), S. 105).

There is very little doubt that living quarters intended for the use of workmen are buildings which are being used for the purpose of the factory. But a further question arises when, although the accommodation has been expressly made rent-free would become liable to tax because a small sum on account of conservancy and repairs is collected from the occupiers and that question must depend on whether the amount is rent.

The expression 'rent' has not been defined in the Act. The word 'rent' must be taken to mean only as a payment made by a tenant to his landlord. Therefore, there must exist a relationship of landlord and tenant between the parties before the payment received by one and made by the other can fall within the definition of rent. A person occupying a workman's quarter is not a tenant and becomes a trespasser if he continues to occupy the premises after he ceases to be a workman. The amount paid by him on account of the conservancy and repairs was of the nature of a payment by a licensee for use and occupation and not rent because rent is consideration of the demise of the premises occupied. Therefore, the premises were not liable to be taxed. Cri. Revn. No. 245 of 1955 (Punj.), Rel. on; AIR 1957 SC 309 and AIR 1951 Cal 126, Distinguished.

As regards the club premises for which also no rent is charged, it must be held that it is a building used for the purpose of the factory because the club contributes to the contentment of the workers and a contented workman produces more. The purpose of the factory must not be interpreted in the narrow sense of restricting it to the production and sale of the commodities produced by the factory. It must be given a slightly extended meaning so as to take within its compass whatever is not an unnecessary luxury but amenities and a certain amount of amusement which makes the workmen more contented and consequently better workers. ILR (1957) Punj 1840.

——Ss. 4 (1) (f), Provisos (i) and (ii), 24 (2) (k) — Rule 17 framed under S. 24 (2) (k) — No conflict with S. 4 (1) (f), Provisos (i) and (ii). AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4009.

SECTION 5

——Ss. 5 and 7 (1) — Levy of property tax — Basis of, indicated. See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act (17 of 1940), S. 3. AIR 1963 Punj 354 (DB).

SECTION 7

——Ss. 7 (1), 3, 5 — Levy of property tax — Basis of, indicated. See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act (17 of 1940), S. 3. AIR 1963 Punj 354 (DB).

——Ss. 7 and 9 — Amendment of valuation list. Assessing authority has power to make amendments in the valuation list prepared for a rating area, so as to bring that list into accord with the circumstances arising out of the inclusion of a built-up area in that rating area. A separate valuation list is not required by law for the case comes within S. 9 of the Act. ILR (1953) Punj 50: AIR 1954 Punj 18 (19) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

SECTION 9

——S. 9 — Scope.

Power to make amendments in order to bring the valuation list in accord with the existing circumstances given by the provisions of law contained in the opening part of S. 9 of the Act is not restricted by Cls. (a), (b) and (c) which mention cases that are merely illustrative. ILR (1953) Punj 50: AIR 1954 Punj 18 (19) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (DB).

SECTION 10

——Ss. 10, 24, Rr. 7, 20 — Order rejecting objection — Appeal — Record not traceable — Failure to give proper notice — Effect — Issue of writ— (Constitution of India, Art. 226).

Where a citizen is to be taxed it is highly desirable that his liability is fixed after affordng him an adequate opportunity of representing his case. To deprive him of such an opportunity, which has been expressly provided by statutory rules, cannot but result in failure of justice. The case must be heard in a judicial spirit and in accordance with the principles of substantial justice.

Where an appeal against an order rejecting objections to the assessment of tax on property was not being heard on account of non-supply of copy of order which was not supplied because the record was not traceable in the office, and in spite of it, the appeal was disposed of ex parte without proper service of notice on the appellant as required by R. 20:

Held, that the disposal of appeal in these circumstances was not in accordance with the rules of natural justice and the order must be quashed under Art. 226 of the Constitution. (2) Further, in case the original record was not traceable, then it was for the department to consider as to what steps should be taken to see that the assessee did not suffer on account of the loss of the record by the department, and no injustice was done to him on that account. Department directed to reconstruct the record and to grant copy of the order and failing that, to hold the entire assessment proceedings de novo. 61 Punj LR 905: AIR 1960 Punj 278 (279, 280) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 3).

SECTION 14

——S. 14—Relates to recovery of tax from tenants — Does not apply to mortgagee of property — Notice to him under form C not necessary. 64 Pun LR 197: ILR (1963) 1 Punj 477: AIR 1963 Punj 354 (357) (Pt B) (Pr 13) (DB).

SECTION 16

——S. 16 — Recovery of property tax as arrears of land revenue under Punjab Land Revenue Act — Not repugnant to provisions of Constitution — Constitution of India, Art. 265. 65 Pun LR 197: ILR (1963) 1 Punj 477: AIR 1963 Punj 354 (358) (Pt E) (Pr 18) (DB).

——S. 16 — State's right of priority — If restricted.

Section 16 merely provides a machinery and does not suggest that no other mode of realisation of the tax is permitted to the State. That section cannot have any bearing on the existence or abridgment of the State's right of priority in respect of the debts due to it. AIR 1956 Cal 26, Rel. on; AIR 1958 All 636, Disting. ILR (1960) 1 Punj 809: AIR 1961 Punj 292 (295) (Pt D) (Pr 16).

SECTION 18

——S. 18 (1) — Notice before amending current valuation list.

Notice under Sec. 18 (1) the Act as amended by East Punjab Act 33 of 1948, is not necessary to be given to the owner, occupier or lessee of buildings or lands in the rating area in the case of an amendment in the current valuation list. ILR (1953) Punj 50: AIR 1954 Punj 18 (20) (Pt D) (Pr 7) (DB).

SECTION 24

——Ss. 24, 20 and Rr. 7, 20—Order rejecting objection—Appeal—Record not traceable—Failure to give proper notice — Effect — Principles of natural justice not followed — Writ must be issued — (Constitution of India, Art. 226). See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act (17 of 1940), S. 10. AIR 1960 Punj 278.

——S. 24 (2) (k) — Rule 17 framed under —No conflict with Sec. 4 (1) (f), Provisos (i) and (ii). See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act (17 of 1940), S. 4 (1) (f), Provisos (i) and (ii). AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4009.

——S. 24 (2) (k) — Rules framed under, R. 17 — Object of — Rule is meant to prevent lengthy proceedings. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4009.

PUNJAB URBAN IMMOVABLE PROPERTY TAX RULES (1941)

RULE 4

——Rr. 4 (e) and 4 (f) — Scope of — Property subject to Urban Rent Restriction Act — Assessment of tax—Annual rental value is to be determined. See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act (17 of 1940), S. 3. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 884.

RULE 7

——Rr. 7, 20, Ss. 10, 24 — Order rejecting objection — Appeal — Record not traceable — Failure to give proper notice — Effect — Principles of natural justice not followed — Writ must be issued — (Constitution of India, Art. 226). See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act (17 of 1940), S. 10. AIR 1960 Punj 278.

RULE 18

——R. 18 — Exemption from property tax — Buildings used for purpose of factory — Condition in R. 18 has to be satisfied for getting benefit of exemption. See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act (17 of 1940), S. 4 (1) (g). AIR 1963 SC 1459.

●——Rr. 18 (1) and 18 (4) — Buildings used for the purpose of a factory — Two principles that determine use of building for purpose of factory — Building fulfilling requirements of factory law and buildings used towards securing welfare of workmen employed in factory — All such buildings are used for purpose of a factory. See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act, (17 of 1940), S. 4 (1) (g). AIR 1963 SC 1459.

●——R. 18 (4) (ii) — Rent — Meaning of Word 'rent' used in R. 18 (4) (ii) is in narrower sense of payment to landlord by a tenant and not in wider sense of money received for user of building on leave and license — Where payment received is not 'rent' in its narrower sense, property is exempt from assessment to tax under Act. See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act (17 of 1940), S. 4 (1) (g). AIR 1963 SC 1459.

RULE 20

——Rr. 20, 7 and Ss. 10, 24 — Order rejecting objection — Appeal — Record not traceable — Failure to give proper notice — Effect — Principles of natural justice not followed — Writ must be issued — (Constitution of India, Art. 226). See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act (17 of 1940), S. 10. AIR 1960 Punj 278.

PUNJAB URBAN RENT RESTRICTION ACT (6 OF 1947)

See under Houses and Rents.

PUNJAB VILLAGE COMMON LANDS (REGULATION) ACT (1 OF 1954)

See under Tenancy Laws.

PUNJAB VILLAGE COMMON LANDS (REGULATION) ACT (18 OF 1961)

See under Tenancy Laws.

PUNJAB VILLAGE PANCHAYAT RULES

See under Panchayats.

PUNJAB WEIGHTS AND MEASURES ACT (12 OF 1941)

SECTION 18

——S. 18 — Bribe offered to Head Constable — Head Constable unable to act under Ss. 18 and 37 of Weights and Measures Act — Conviction under S. 165-A is not affected. See Penal Code (1860), S. 161. 56 PLR 298: 1954 Cr LJ 1503: AIR 1954 Punj 228.

SECTION 28

——S. 28 — Applicability — Secretary — Liability to conviction — Weights and measures belonging to municipality not authorised. 1957 Cr LJ 476 (2) (Punj).

SECTION 37

——S. 37 — Bribe offered to Head Constable — Head Constable unable to act under Ss. 18 and 37, Weights and Measures Act — Conviction under Sec. 165-A not affected. See Penal Code (1860), S. 161. 1954 Cr LJ 1503: AIR 1954 Punj 228.

PUNJAB WELFARE OFFICERS RECRUITMENT AND CONDITIONS OF SERVICE RULES (1952)

RULE 6

●——R. 6 (5) and (6) — Tribunal — Meaning of — Tests to determine — State Government exercising appellate jurisdiction under R. 6 (5) and (6) of Punjab Welfare Officers Recruitment and Conditions of Service Rules (1952) is a tribunal. See Constitution of India, Art. 136 (1). AIR 1965 SC 1595.

●——R. 6 — Validity — R. 6 (3) which requires concurrence of Labour Commissioner before Management can dismiss or terminate services of Welfare Officer is not ultra vires of rule-making power of State Government under S. 49 (2). See Factories Act (63 of 1948), S. 49 (2). AIR 1965 SC 1595.

●——R. 6 — Termination of service of Welfare Officer by giving him one month's pay in lieu of notice — Termination in accordance with terms of appointment — Not a punishment contemplated by R. 6 (3) (v) and is outside R. 6 (6) — Appeal by Welfare Officer to State Government against such order is incompetent. Associated Cement Co., Ltd. v. Sharma, (1965) 11 Fac LR 77: (1965) 2 SCR 366: (1964-65) 27 FJR 204: (1965) 1 SCA 723: (1965) 1 Lab LJ 433: AIR 1965 SC 1595 (1599, 1607, 1608, 1610) (Pt C) (Prs 7, 38, 39, 48).

PUNNYA RULES ALWAR (1931)

CLAUSE 11

——Cl. 11 — Appointment of Pujari — Person holding honorary post under Government is not disqualified. See Municipalities — Rajasthan Municipalities Act (1959), S. 26 (viii). 1965 Raj LW 461.

PURCHASER

See (1) Civil P. C. (1908), O. 21, Rr. 93 and 94.
(2) Contract Act (1872), Ss. 69, 70.
(3) Sale of Goods Act (1930).
(4) T. P. Act (1882), Ss. 54 and 55.

PURDHA WOMAN

Complaint.
See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 198.

PURI SHRI JAGANNATH TEMPLE (ADMINISTRATION) ACT (14 OF 1952)

See under (Orissa) Puri Shri Jagannath Temple (Administration) Act (14 of 1952).

PUROHIT OFFICE

See (1) Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9.
(2) Hindu Law — Religious Office.
(3) T. P. Act (1882), S. 6.

PUTRA PUTRADE

See (1) Succession Act (1925), S. 97.
(2) Words and Phrases.

PUTRAVAKASAM GIFT

See Marumakkattayam Law.

QUALIFICATION FOR BEING ELECTOR

See Representation of the People Act (1950), S. 19.

QUALIFICATION FOR BEING LEGAL PRACTITIONER

See (1) Advocates Act (1901), S. 30.
(2) Legal Practitioners Act (1879), Ss. 2, 4, 5, 41.

QUALIFICATION FOR ELECTION AS PRESIDENT

See Constitution of India, Art. 58.

QUALIFICATION FOR MEMBERSHIP OF PARLIAMENT

See Constitution of India, Art. 84.

QUALIFICATION FOR MEMBERSHIP OF STATE LEGISLATURE

See (1) Constitution of India, Art. 173.
(2) Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 5.

QUALIFIED MEDICAL PRACTITIONER

Defined.

See Mines Act (1952), S. 2.

QUALITY OF GOODS

Defined.

See Sale of Goods Act (1930), S. 2.

QUANOON HAQ SHAFA, GWALIOR

SECTION 3

——S. 3 — Sale when complete — Intention of the parties should be looked to — (Transfer of Property Act (1882), S. 54). AIR 1955 NUC (Madh Bha) 3031.

QUANOON MAL GWALIOR (SMT. 1983)

See under Tenancy Laws.

QUANOON MAL OF MEWAR (5 OF 1947)

See under Tenancy Laws.

QUANTUM MERUIT

See Contract Act (1872), Ss. 69, 70, 73.

QUANUN-I-DIWANI OF PATIALA STATE (1874)

CHAPTER 3

——Chap. 3, Ss. 1, 2 — Interpretation.

Sections 1 and 2 do not mean that mere denial of a party would deprive the other of the right to prove that he was governed by custom and not by personal law. All what they mean is that the first rule would be the personal law of the parties concerned; in case where custom is set up and proved the custom so proved would be given effect to; and where the parties agree to a particular custom then the decision would be according to that custom. AIR 1950 Pepsu 37 (40) (Pt D) (Pr 11) (DB).

QUARRIES

See (1) Mineral Concession Rules (1952).
(2) Mines Act (1952).

QUASHING PROCEEDINGS

See (1) Constitution of India, Arts. 226 and 32.
(2) Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 439.

QUASI-CONTRACTS

See Contract Act (1872), Ss. 68 to 72.

QUASI-CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS

See (1) Contempt of Courts Acts (1926) and (1952).
(2) Legal Practitioners Act (1879), Ss. 13 and 14.
(3) Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 123.

QUASI-EXECUTOR

See Succession Act (1925), S. 303.

QUASI-JUDICIAL AUTHORITY

See Constitution of India, Arts. 226 and 32.

QUASI-JUDICIAL ORDERS

See (1) Constitution of India, Arts. 226 and 32.
(2) Specific Relief Act (1877), S. 45.
(3) Stamp Act (1899), S. 57.

QUASI-JUDICIAL PROCEEDINGS

See Constitution of India, Arts. 226 and 32.

QUESTIONING BY PARTY HIS OWN WITNESS

See Evidence Act (1872), S. 154.

QUESTION OF FACT AND LAW

See (1) Civil P. C. (1908), Ss. 100-101, 110, 115.
(2) Constitution of India, Arts. 132-136 and 226 and 32.
(3) Income-tax Act (1922), S. 66.

QUESTION OF LAW

See (1) Civil P. C. (1908), Ss. 100-101, 110, 115.
(2) Constitution of India, Arts. 132-136 and 226 and 32.
(3) Income-tax Act (1922), S. 66.

Substantial.

See (1) Civil P. C. (1908), S. 110.
(2) Constitution of India, Arts. 132, 133.

QUESTION OF TITLE

See (1) Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9.
(2) Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 145.
(3) Limitation Act (1908), Arts. 142 to 144
(4) Provincial Small Cause Courts Act (1920), S. 23.
(5) Specific Relief Act (1877), S. 9.

QUESTIONS, INDECENT AND SCANDALOUS, TO WITNESS, FORBIDDEN

See Evidence Act (1872), S. 151.

QUESTIONS INTENDED TO INSULT OR ANNOY WITNESS, FORBIDDEN

See Evidence Act (1872), S. 152.

QUESTIONS LAWFUL IN CROSS-EXAMINATION

See Evidence Act (1872), S. 146.

QUESTIONS, LEADING

When may not and may be asked of witness.

See Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 142, 143.

QUESTIONS TENDING TO CORROBORATE EVIDENCE OF RELEVANT FACT

See Evidence Act (1872), S. 156.

QUESTIONS TESTING VERACITY OF WITNESS, ANSWER TO

—Evidence to contradict, admissibility.

See Evidence Act (1872), S. 153.

QUESTIONS TO BE ASKED OF WITNESSES

See Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 145, 149, 150.

QUESTIONS TO BE DETERMINED BY EXECUTING COURT

See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 47.

QUESTIONS TO JURY BY JUDGE

See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 303.

QUESTIONS TO WITNESS

Power of Judge to put.

See Evidence Act (1872), S. 165.

Power of Jury or assessors to put.

See (1) Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 299.
(2) Evidence Act (1872), S. 165.

QUESTIONS TO WITNESS TENDING TO CORROBORATE EVIDENCE OF RELEVANT FACT

Admissibility of.

See Evidence Act (1872), S. 156.

QUESTIONS WHICH WITNESS IS COMPELLED TO ANSWER

See Evidence Act (1872), S. 147.

QUORUM FOR COMPANY MEETING

See Companies Act (1956), S. 174.

QUO WARRANTO

Writ of.

See Constitution of India, Arts. 226 and 32.

RACES AND RACING

See (1) Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9 — Note 9 (D) — Suit expressly barred — Domestic tribunal.
(2) Clubs and Associations.

RACING CLUB

See Clubs and Associations.

RAIGARH STATE WAZIB-UL-ARZ

See under "Tenancy Laws".

RAILWAY

See (1) Carriers Act (1865).
(2) Civil P. C. (1908), S. 80 (Notice of Suit)
(3) Commercial Documents Evidence Act (1939), S. 3.
(4) Constitution of India, Arts. 269, 299.
(5) Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152 and 161.
(6) Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 184 (Jurisdiction to try offences against railway).
(7) Electricity Act (1910), S. 12.
(8) Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act (1946), Ss. 1 and 2.
(9) Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 4.
(10) Railway Boards Act (1905).
(11) Railway Establishment Code.
(12) Railway Protection Force Act (1957).
(13) Railways Act (1890).
(14) Railways (Local Authorities) Taxation Act (25 of 1941).
(15) Railway Stores (Unlawful Possession Act (1955).
(16) Tort — Negligence.

Claim against.

—Notice of.

See Railways Act (1890), S. 77 (Old).

Risk-note.

See Railways Act (1890), Ss. 72-A, 74-A, 74-B, 74-C, 75 (Old).

Suit against.

—Notice of.

See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 80.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS (COMPENSATION) RULES (1950)

——Railways Act (1890), Sections 82-A and 82-J — Rules under Section 82-J — Rules are not inconsistent with Section 82-A, Railways Act. See Railways Act (1890), Section 82-A. AIR 1952 Pat 466 (DB).

RULE 2

——R. 2 (e) — Scope — Total or partial disablement of temporary nature — Compensation — Basis, indicated. See Railway Accidents (Compensation) Rules (1950), Rule 6. AIR 1954 Pat 507 (DB).

RULE 6

——Rr. 6 and 2 (e) — Scope — Total or partial disablement of temporary nature — Compensation — Basis — (Railways Act (1890), Section 82-A).

By adopting the definitions of partial and total disablements as given in the Workmen's Compensation Act, the framers of the Railway Accidents (Compensation) Rules (1950), have indicated that the injuries for which compensation will be payable will be total or partial disablement of either permanent or temporary nature. All that they have omitted to do is to provide for the rates at which compensation will be payable in respect of total or partial disablement of temporary nature. This is a lacuna in the rules.

But even though the rules have not provided for compensation in respect of temporary disablements, the person who suffers from such disablement is entitled to some compensation under the provisions of Section 82-A, Railways Act. The basis on which the compensation is to be fixed is not the same on which damages are allowed under the common law of torts, because the compensation payable under Section 82-A is irrespective of any wrongful act, neglect or default on the part of the railway administration. The only safe criterion for fixing the amount of compensation payable will be on the basis of loss of earning capacity. Neither Section 82-A nor any of the rules indicate that medical expenses reasonably incurred by the injured person have to be taken into consideration. AIR 1954 Pat 507 (509, 510) (Prs 17, 18, 20) (DB).

——R. 6 (2) and Sch. Part II — Person injured in railway accident — Injuries causing permanent partial disablement affecting his earning capacity — Injuries sustained not those specified in Part II of Schedule — Rule 6 (2) held applied to case. AIR 1952 Pat 466 (468) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

RULE 11

——R. 11 (1) (l) — Rule is not ultra vires. See Railways Act (1890), Section 82-J. AIR 1962 Pat 109.

SCHEDULE, PART 2

——Sch., Part. 2 and R. 6 (2) — Person injured in railway accident — Injuries causing permanent partial disablement affecting his earning capacity — Injuries sustained not those specified in Part 2 of Schedule — Rule 6 (2) held applied to case See Railway Accidents (Compensation) Rules (1950), Rule 6 (2). AIR 1952 Pat 466 (DB).

RAILWAY ADMINISTRATIVE RULES

RULE 39

——R. 39 (b) — Failure to mention age and to sign season ticket by holder as required by R. 39 (b) — Conviction under Section 113, Railways Act held, justified. See Railways Act (1890), Section 47. 1952 Cri LJ 1462: AIR 1952 Bom 421.

RULE 45

——R. 45 — Liability of railway as bailee — Duty to compare railway receipt with junction or through Invoice before effecting delivery, pointed out — Traffic Mannual of B. B. and C., Rly Ch. XI, Booking of Goods Traffic Rules 32, 45. See Contract Act (1872), Section 151. AIR 1963 Raj 162 (DB).

RAILWAY BOARDS ACT (4 of 1905)

SECTION 2

——S. 2 — Notification under Section 47, Railways Act by Railway Board — Railway Board invested with powers of Central Government — Absence of sanction of Central Government for Notification does not render it illegal. See Railways Act (1890), Section 47 (3). AIR 1960 All 438.

——S. 2 (b) — Scope — Government of India Act (1935), Sec. 175 — Contracts on behalf of railway administration not exempted — Provisions of Section 47, Railways Act and Railway Board Act do not imply that provisions of Section 175, Government of India Act, did not apply to railways — Reference to Section 47, and Railways Act and Section 2 (b) of Railway Board Act is irrelevant in this connection. See Government of India Act (1935), Section 175. AIR 1957 Pat 586 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 SC 113.]

RAILWAY BOARDS CIRCULARS

●——Promotion to selection posts — If within scope of Article 16 (4) of the Constitution — Reservation of selection posts in Railway Service in favour of members of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes — Not ultra vires Article 16 (4) — Circulars issued by Railway Board, dated 27-4-59 and 12-6-59 — Do not fall outside Article 16 (4) and are not ultra vires on that ground — Validity — AIR 1961 Mad 35, Reversed. See Constitution of India, Article 16 (4). AIR 1962 SC 36.

RAILWAY CODE OF ACCOUNTS DEPARTMENT

PART 1, RULE 1023

——Part. 1, Rule 1023 (3) — Transfer of Provident Fund account upon retirement of railway employee to Miscellaneous account 'E' — Character of Provident Fund money is not altered — It is "compulsory deposit" as defined in Section 2, Provident Funds Act — Amount could not be attached — (Provident Funds Act (1925), Section 2 (a)). See Civil P. C. (1908), Order 21. Rule 46. AIR 1955 Cal 509.

RAILWAY COMPANY

Place of residence.

See Civil P. C. (1908), Order 29, Rule 2.

Tariff Rules.

See (1) Railways Act (1890), S. 47.
(2) Tariff Act (1934).

RAILWAY ESTABLISHMENT CODE

——Railway Administration — Powers of General Manager and Deputy General Manager.

In all administrative matters the General Manager and the Deputy General Manager have concurrent powers. ILR (1957) 1 All 278.

——Non-selection post — Promotion — Rule of seniority — Departmental test — Effect of.

Promotion of a holder of a 'non-selection post' under the Railway Establishment Code is by seniority, but he can, in accordance with the letter of the Railway Board, No. E-56 P. M. 1/12/3 of 22nd March, 1956, now be asked to sit in a departmental test, which may include a general examination just to see whether he is qualified to hold the post to which he claims promotion. The rule as to seniority in such a case is not abrogated, but still prevails. What is aimed at is to determine whether candidate has attained a particular standard of efficiency. If a person passes, then in his service record the word 'passed' is inserted. Thereafter, a passed candidate is entitled to promotion according to seniority There is no question of a junior superseding a senior. 61 Cal WN 260: (1957) 2 Lab LJ 666: AIR 1957 Cal 459 (459) (Pr 3).

——Disciplinary and Appeal Rules for non-gazetted staff, Rule 1725 — Railway Servant — Enquiry for misconduct closed and punishment inflicted acted upon — Fresh enquiry on same charges is illegal — Power to revise or review to be exercised only if some fresh facts come to light — AIR 1958 Madh Pra 413; AIR 1954 Pepsu 129; AIR 1960 All 164, Rel. on.; AIR 1959 AP 618, Disting. 1961 MPLJ (Notes) 222.

——Railway Servant — Departmental Enquiry — Not Quasi-judicial but administrative. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1963 Pat 38 (DB).

——Suit for recovery of gratuity by retired railway servant — Gratuity is a matter in discretion of Government — Such a suit is incompetent. See Constitution of India, Article 310. AIR 1961 Punj 3.

——Procedure for conducting enquiries under Disciplinary Action Rules, Rule 21 — Reasonable opportunity of showing cause — Charges against railway servant being very vague — Held, he was deprived of reasonable opportunity of his defence. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1962 Raj 265 (DB).

——Procedure for conducting enquiries under Disciplinary Action Rules, Rule 21 — Reasonable opportunity of showing cause — Inquiry officer refusing to summon witnesses for defence — Held, there was violation of principle of reasonable opportunity of defence. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1962 Raj 265 (DB).

——Jodhpur Railway Rules — Rule regarding declaration of date of birth by employee — Retrospective operation.

The rules framed by the Jodhpur Railway regarding declaration of date of birth by employees are not retrospective in operation. The mere fact that the Railway authorities took declaraion as to age from each and every employee whether employed prior to the coming into force of the rules or not cannot make the rules retrospective as a matter of law. 1951 Raj LW 343.

CHAPTER 17

——Ch. 17 — Temporary railway servant — Suspension from service on account of bad conduct and absenting from duty — Subsequent termination of service held by way of punishment — No opportunity to show cause given according to railway rules — Termination is illegal and void. See Government of India Act (1935), Section 240 (3). (1962) 64 Pun LR 807.

RULE 1

——R. 1 — Applicability — Applicant B. N. Railway servant agreeing to serve with State Railway — No Specific agreement about termination of service — Agreement to abide by rules on matters not specified — Rules apply for termination of service.

The applicant who was serving with the B. N. Railway entered into an agreement to serve under the State Railway when the State took over the B. N. Railway. The agreement provided for applicability of specific provision on specific matters and for other matters it was agreed that the State Railway Rules would apply. There was no specific agreement referred in the matter of termination of service.

Held, that termination of service was governed by the State Service Rules. ('52) 1952 Nag LJ (Notes) 60 (DB).

RULE 5

——Rr. 5, 11 — Applicability — Employee found medically unfit for job — Another job offered and employee put on leave pending acceptance of same — Is not punishment — It is in the discretion of the head of department to grant leave. (1959) 1 Lab LJ 360 (Andh Pra).

——R. 5 — Scope — Under Rule 5, Clause (4), it is obligatory on Railway administration not to allow a person to discharge such duties, competence for which is not certified by medical officer — Railway servant declared unfit for his duty on account of bad vision — Railway administration had no option but to post him on a post where a less standard of vision was required — Therefore there was no point in asking him to show cause against proposed transfer. See Constitution of India, Article 311. AIR 1954 Raj 189 (DB).

RULE 101-A

——R. 101-A; Vol. 2, R. 2202 and Appendices 37 and 38 — Letter No. E-48, C. P. C./288, dated 11th May, 1949 issued by Ministry of Railway (Railway Board) — Interpretation of — Deputy General Manager has not been authorised to hold tests for crossing efficiency bar.

The definition of the word "department" as given in Rule 101-A (5), P. 1, Volume 1 (Indian Railway Establishment Code) does not lead to the conclusion that the expression "Head of the Department" as used in clause (ii) of the Letter No. E-48, C. P. C./288 dated 11th May, 1949, issued by the Ministry of Railways (Railway Board) on the subject of "Efficiency bars in the prescribed scales applicable to Class II Officers" must mean the Deputy General Manager (Personnel).

The Deputy General Manager is not the head of any department under the Indian Railway Establishment Code. Hence under the letter of the Railway Board referred to above the Deputy General Manager (Personnel) has not in any way been authorised to hold the tests for permitting officers in Railway Services, Class II to cross the efficiency bar. 59 Cal WN 812: ILR (1957) 1 Cal 447: AIR 1955 Cal 385 (388, 389) (Pt D) (Prs 7, 8) (DB).

RULE 105

——Rr. 105 and 106 and Appendix 20, Table 16 — Circular No. A. E. 721, dated 31-10-1951 issued by General Manager, Clause 8 and Sch. A, Item 12 — Applicability.

When an officer of Class II is appointed in the junior scale of pay as in the case of an Assistant Personnel Officer according to Table 16, the right of permitting him to cross the efficiency bar, vests in the General Manager under item No. 12 of Schedule A and it requires the personal sanction of the General Manager. Where the case comes under item 12, Clause 8 of the Schedule has no application. 59 Cal WN 812: ILR (1957) 1 Cal 447: AIR 1955 Cal 385 (389) (Pt E) (Pr 10) (DB).

RULE 106

——R. 106 — Circular No. A. E. 721, dated 31-10-51, issued by General Manager, Clause 8, Schedule A, Item 12 — Applicability — If case comes under Item 12, Clause 8 of schedule has no application. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 105. AIR 1955 Cal 385 (DB).

RULE 134

——R. 134 (3) (a) — 'Appointing authority' — Power to promote Railway Employee to Gazetted post vested in General Manager of railway—Power implies power to revert — Officer so promoted cannot be reverted to substantive post by Chief Engineer. See Constitution of India, Article 311. (1957) 61 Cal WN 849.

——R. 134 — Discipline and Appeal Rules for Non-gazetted Railway-Servant, Rule 19, Note (c) — Authority competent to remove — Determination of — Article 311 (1) of the Constitution has to be taken into consideration — Servant of former Bikaner State Railway absorbed in Northern Railway — Authority competent to remove is General Manager, Northern Railway — Sanction granted by Divisional Engineer is invalid. See Prevention of Corruption Act (1947), Section 6. 1963 (2) Cri LJ 44: AIR 1963 Raj 126.

——R. 134 — Prevention of Corruption Act (1947), Section 6 — Sanction for prosecution — Validity — Authority competent to remove determination of — Article 311 (1) of the Constitution has to be taken into consideration — Servant of former Bikaner State Railway absorbed in Northern Railway — Authority competent to remove is General Manager, Northern Railway — Sanction granted by Divisional Engineer is invalid — Discipline and appeal rules for non-gazetted Railway Servant, Rule 19, Note (c). See Prevention of Corruption Act (1947), Section 6. 1962 Raj LW 657.

RULE 135

——R. 135 — Constitution of India, Articles 311 (1), 299, 309, 310 — "Appointing authority" in respect of Railway servant in non-gazetted post — Railway Establishment Code and contract of service — Question as to who is appointing authority to be determined by Rules and not by service contract — President of India is not appointing authority in such cases. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (1). (1961) 21 Fac LR 344 (Cal).

——R. 135, Proviso (2) — Appointing authority.

The power of delegation given to the General Manager is not in any way based on the provision made in proviso (2) of Rule 135 but is based exclusively on the proviso made in Cl. (d) of Rule 135 itself. If proviso (2) and Cl. (d) are read consistently the limitation placed on the power of delegation in proviso (2) cannot be applied to the power of delegation given to the General Manager under Clause (d). ILR (1955) Pat 625: AIR 1955 Pat 305 (311) (Pt B) (Pr 13) (DB).

RULE 143

——R. 143 — Constitution of India, Articles 311 (1), 299, 309, 310 — "Appointing authority" in respect of Railway servant in non-gazetted post — Railway Establishment Code and contract of service — Question as to who is appointing authority to be determined by rules and not by service contract —President of India is not appointing authority in such cases. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (1). (1961) 2 Fac LR 344 (Cal).

——S. 143 — Contract Act (1872), Section 23 — Applicability.

Before Section 23 can apply there must be an agreement. The section has no application to rules such as Rule 143, containing a provision for service agreement. AIR 1959 All 643 (648 to 650) (Pt D) (Pr 5).

——Rr. 143 and 148 — Termination of services — Validity — (Constitution of India, Article 311).

Ordinarily when a railway servant enters into a service agreement at the time of entering the railway service Rule 148 of the Railway Establishment Code either the whole if it, or in modified form is incorporated, as one of the terms of the agreement. In a case where a railway servant has entered into such a contract his services are liable to be terminated not only under Rule 148 but also under the terms of the agreement. AIR 1959 All 643 (648) (Pt E) (Pr 5).

——Rr. 143, 148 — Agreement under Rule 148, Railway Establishment Code — Conflict with Section 23 of the Contract Act and Article 311 of the Constitution — (Constituion of India, Article 311). See Contract Act (1872), Section 23. AIR 1959 All 643.

——Rr. 143 and 148 — Not discriminatory and are valid. See Constitution of India, Article 14. AIR 1959 All 643.

——Rr. 143, 148 — Applicability of Rule 148 does not depend upon there being an agreement under Rule 143. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 148. AIR 1959 All 643.

——R. 143 and Appendix 24, Form No. 1 — Implied compliance — Appointment by letter — Form not signed — Agreement held effected — Article 311 of the Constitution or Disciplinary and Appeal Rules held not applicable — (Constitution of India, Article 311) — (Contract Act (1872), Section 1).

Where, by joining the service in pursuance of the offer made to him by the letter of appointment a person impliedly accepted all the terms of the offer including the terms that he shall conform to all the rules and regulations applicable to Government Railway Servants, which included Rule 143 and the obligation that arose under that rule to sign an agreement in Form No. 1 in Appendix 24, the fact that no such form was signed was immaterial. The Court must consider that as done which ought to have been done, and although there was no written agreement executed, it could be held that there was an agreement effected by him accepting by his conduct the terms of the offer; and such agreement must be deemed to contain all the conditions on which alone he could be in the service of the Railway including the term that his service was terminable by one month's notice by the Administration. If the services are terminated under the terms of such agreement or contract then Article 311 of the Constitution or the Disciplinary and Appeal Rules have no application. (1957) 59 Bom LR 1210: (1958) 1 Lab LJ 456 (Bom).

RULE 148

●——Rr. 148 (3) and 149 (3) — Validity — Termination of service of Railway servants by notice — No rational basis for distinction between them and other public servants — Rules held invalid. See Constitution of India, Article 14. AIR 1964 SC 600.

●——R. 148 (3) — Permanent Railway servant — Rights of — Termination of his service on notice — Amounts to removal within Article 311 (2) — No provision of enquiry and notice — Rules contravene Article 311 (2) and are invalid — (Majority view). See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1964 SC 600.

●——Rr. 148, 1702 and 1712 — Permanent railway servant — Charge of misconduct — Termination of service — Opportunity against proposed punishment not given — Order held not valid. See Constitution of India, Article 311(2). AIR 1958 SC 905.

●——R. 148 (3) — Constitution of India, Article 226 — Action against appellants under Railway Security Rules — Writ petition on ground that Rules were ultra vires — High Court holding that orders could be sustained under Rule 148 — But no such ground was raised by railway authorities — Court cannot base its judgment on ground that order fell under Rule 148 — (Railway Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules (1949), Rule 3). See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1958 SC 232.

●——R. 148 — Whether Security Rules have independent operation of their own, quite apart from Rule 148 of Railway Establishment Code — Quaere. See Railway Service (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules (1949), Rule 3. AIR 1958 SC 232.

●——R. 148 — Order terminating services under Rule 3, Railway Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules — Order stands on same footing as an order of discharge under Rule 148 — It is neither one of dismissal nor of removal — (Railway Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules (1949), Rules 3 and 7). See Constitution of India, Article 311. AIR 1958 SC 232.

——Rr. 148 (3), 1707 and 1708 — Permanent railway servant holding non-pensionable post — Absence from duty without leave — Order of removal from service on payment of one month's pay in lieu of notice not based on terms of agreement — Rule 148 (3) not applicable — Procedure prescribed by Paragraph 1707 not followed — Order of removal is by way of punishment and is illegal. See Government of India Act (1935), Section 240 (3). AIR 1963 All 441.

——R. 148 (3) and (4) — Constitution of India, Article 311 — Termination of service under Rule 148 (3) and (4) — Not amounting to removal under garb of termination, motive is immaterial. See Constitution of India, Article 311. AIR 1959 All 643.

——Rr. 148, 143 — Railway servant entering into service contract — Services are liable to be terminated not only under Rule 148 but also under terms of agreement — (Constitution of India, Article 311.) See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 143. AIR 1959 All 643.

——Rr. 148, 143 — Agreement under Rule 148, Railway Establishment Code — Conflict with Section 23 of Contract Act and Article 311 of the Constitution — (Constitution of India, Art. 311). See Contract Act (1872), Section 23. AIR 1959 All 643.

——Rr. 148, 143 — Rules 143 and 148 of Railway Esablishment Code are not discriminatory. See Constitution of India, Article 14. AIR 1959 All 643.

——R. 148 — Applicability — Agreement under Rule 143 — If essential.

Applicability of Rule 148 does not depend upon there being a service agreement under Rule 143. Termination of services of a railway employee under Rule 148 (3), is not bad, on the ground that he has not entered into a service agreement under Rule 143. AIR 1959 All 643 (654) (Pt 1) (Pr 13).

——R. 148 — Government servants — Termination according to conditions of service — Validity — (Constitution of India, Article 311).

A civil servant does not hold office during good behaviour but during the pleasure of the President or of the Governor according as to whether he holds a civil post under the Union or under a State, and there is nothing to prevent the President or the Governor, as the case may be, regulating the conditions of service of persons appointed to such posts subject to the provisions of Article 311 (2).

There is no clear distinction between the termination of the services of a person under the terms of a contract governing him and the termination of his service in accordance with the terms of his conditions of service. AIR 1957 SC 886; (1958) 1 Mad LJ (SC) 71; 1958 SCJ 148; 1958 Mad LJ (Cr) 127, Rel. on. ILR (1959) 1 All 68: 1959 All LJ 113: AIR 1959 All 439 (440) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1964 SC 600.]

——R. 148 (3) — (State Railway Rules) — Termination of service under — It is not removal from service — Rule 1709. See Constitution of India, Article 311. ILR (1957) 2 All 486.

——R. 148 (3) — Service of non-pensionable servant liable to termination on one month's notice — Rule applies to persons who are re-employed.

Rule 148 (3) of the Indian Railway Establishment Code, Volume I, which provides "that the service of a non-pensionable railway servant shall be liable to termination on notice on either side for the period specified in that sub-rule", applies to a person who is re-employed on 8-7-1947, on the basis of a circular which contained the terms of re-employment does not contain the rule "the State Railway Rules applicable to persons appointed on or after 1st January 1946, will apply". The fact that the circular embodying the terms of re-employment does not contain the rule similar to one embodied in Rule 148 (3) or in the service agreement under Rule 143, executed by persons who are re-employed, is immaterial. (1960) 2 Lab LJ 384 (Andh Pra).

——Rr. 148, 1708 — Charges framed — Termination of services not under disciplinary Rules but under contract without holding inquiry, is not illegal.

The mere fact that the employee was served with a charge-sheet and his explanation called for does not indicate that action was taken in the exercise of disciplinary jurisdiction under Rule 1708. It is quite consistent with the intention of the Department to dispense with his services in the exercise of contractual rights under Rule 148, without holding an inquiry. (1960) 2 Lab LJ 384 (AP).

——R. 148 — Proceeding against petitioner under Railway Security Rules — Proceedings dropped and services terminated under Rule 148 — Termination, is not a punishment to attract Article 311 (2) of Constitution. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1959 Assam 120 (DB).

——Rr. 148 (3) and 1709 — Contractual right intended to be enforced against employee — Chance of explaining conduct should be given — (Constitution of India, Article 311 (2)). See Government of India Act (1935), Section 240 (3). AIR 1960 Cal 264 (DB).

——Rr. 148 (3), 1707 and 1709 — Contract of service — Right of railway authorities to take disciplinary action instead of terminating service in terms of contract — Employee's right to protection of — Section 240, Government of India Act — (Government of India Act (1935), Section 240 (3)) — (Constitution of India, Article 311 (2)).

Where there is a special contract it is open to the railway to terminate the services of an employee in pursuance of that contract, and where this is done, they would not be considered to have acted unconstitutionally, merely because the special requirements of Section 240 of the Government of India Act were not complied with. But even when there is such a contract, it is open to the railway authorities to decide not to enforce the special term entitling them to terminate employment by a month's notice but to follow the special procedure laid down in Chapter 17 of the Indian Railways Establishment Code, specially in its Rules 1707 and 1709 for taking disciplinary action. Where the railway authorities decide to take action in their exercise of disciplinary powers as distinct from their contractual powers, the railway servants would also be entitled to the protection of Section 240 of the Government of India Act. Whether in a particular case the railway has acted by way of enforcing the contractual right of terminating the employment by service of a month's notice or whether it has proceeded by exercise of the disciplinary powers is a question of fact which is to be decided on the facts and circumstances in each case. 64 Cal WN 272: ILR (1960) 1 Cal 19: (1960) 2 Lab LJ 326: AIR 1960 Cal 264 (267) (Pt C) (Pr 13) (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1964 SC 600.]

——Rr. 148 (3), 1707 and 1709 — Charge-sheet served on employee —Order of removal giving one month's notice — Effect — Government of India Act (1935), Section 240.

The appellant was a permanent employee of a railway. A report having been made against his conduct a charge-sheet was served on him by the Divisional Superintendent of the Railway. On receiving explanation of the appellant in which he pleaded not guilty, the Divisional Superintendent ordered removal of the appellant from service giving him one month's notice.

Held, (1) the mere fact that a charge-sheet was submitted did not show that the action was taken in exercise of the disciplinary powers as the action was consistent with its being taken in enforcement of the contractual right as well. (2) that since none of the other steps contemplated in Rule 1709 was taken the railway authorities could not be said to have acted in exercise of the disciplinary powers in ordering removal of the appellant. The use of the word 'removed' was intended to have such effect. (3) that it could not be argued that giving of one month's notice might merely be a compassionate order even when exercise of disciplinary powers was being intended. 61 Cal WN 1, Distinguished. (4) that, therefore, the railway authorities did proceed in this case under R. 148 (3) and not under R. 1709 and the order of removal having thus been made in exercise of the contractual right of the railway to terminate the employment, the provisions of section 240 of the Government of India Act did not come into operation. 64 Cal WN 272: (1960) 2 Lab LJ 326: ILR (1960) 1 Cal 19: AIR 1960 Cal 264 (268, 269) (Pt E) (Prs 18, 19, 20, 22) (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1964 SC 600.]

——R. 148 (3) — Railway employee — Disciplinary action for serious misconduct of employee — Removal from service — Copies of proceedings before enquiry committe not furnished — Order of removal, held, could not be upheld. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1957 Cal 4 (DB).

——R. 148 (3) — Scope — Permanent non-gazetted officer — Termination of service by one month's notice — If punishment.

Under Rule 148 (3) (d), Indian Railway Establishment Code the Railway Administration are entitled to terminate the tenure of service of any permanent Non-gazetted employee, if they choose to do so, by merely giving a month's notice or a month's pay in lieu of notice and so may an employee belonging to that class relinquish his employment upon giving a similar notice. In such a case, no question of any penalty or punishment is involved. (1957) 1 Lab LJ 272: 61 Cal WN 1: AIR 1957 Cal 4 (7) (Pt A) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Rr. 148 (3) and 1702 — Validity — (Constitution of India, Article 311).

If a man merely binds himself to be governed by the general rules and regulations of Government service, he must be taken to be bound by those terms that are legal. It is not permissible to contract out of the provisions of the Constitution. Termination of service under a contract and in terms thereof does not attract the provisions of Aricle 311 of the Constitution. But if any penalty is imposed like dismissal or removal from service, the provisions are attracted. Even if a contract says that a service can be terminated without any notice that does not militate against the provisions of Article 311. But a provision in a contract that the employee can be dismissed or removed from service without giving him any opportunity to be heard, clearly militates against Article 311 and is to that extent bad.

Rule 148 (3) and Rule 1702 of the Railway Establishment Code, in so far as they purport to lay down a rule that in case of termination of service for failure to conform to the requisite standard of physical fitness, no notice is necessary or that such termination does not amount to a removal or dismissal from service, are 'ultra vires' the provisions of Article 311 of the Constitution. 58 Cal WN 336: AIR 1954 Cal 566 (568) (Prs 11 to 13).

——Rr. 148 and 2044 — Respondent, driver in service of railway administration — Respondent put under suspension of 8 years — Thereafter respondent informed that he could join duty — Immediately thereafter respondent served with order of termination of service — Emoluments during period of suspension not restored — Order held was of penal character and attracted Article 311 (2). See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1964 Mad 243 (DB).

——R. 148 — Railway servant — Suspension pending disciplinary proceedings — No definite action taken and proceedings withdrawn after several years — Order of reinstatement — Subsequent order of termination of services under Rule 148, Railway Establishment Code — Held, by way of punishment — Procedure prescribed by Article 311 (2) not followed — Order is illegal. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1963 Mad 35.

——R. 148 — Railway servant — Termination of service in accordance with Service Rules — Order preceded by enquiry into misconduct under Security Rules, 1954 which was dropped — Article 311 (2) not attracted. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1962 Mad 379.

[Overruled in AIR 1964 SC 600.]

——R. 148 — Constitutional validity — Not violative of Article 14 of the Constitution — Constitution of India, Art. 14.

Rule 148 of the Railway Establishment Code does not offend Article 14 of the Constitution. The classification of non-pensionable railway servants as a separate class is a reasonable classification based on intelligible differentia and is related to the object sought to be achieved by it. (1962) 2 Lab LJ 124: (1962) 4 Fac LR 271: 1962 Mad WN 186: AIR 1962 Mad 379 (382) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

[Overruled in AIR 1964 SC 600.]

——R. 148 (3) — Termination of services without a confronted enquiry — If punishment and offends against Constitution of India (1950), Article 311.

The Supreme Court in (1958) 1 An WR (SC) 162: (1958) SCJ 451: (1958) 1 MLJ (SC) 162 has held that, in a case where the terms of employment provided for services being terminated on a proper notice, no question of premature termination of services could arise, and that where there has been a termination of services in accordance with the terms of employment, it would not be a punishment unless there be a forfeiture of benefits already acquired or earned. The Railway Administration (in the instant case) placed the respondent under suspension, with the result that he was able to get only half his salary and the rest was withheld under the Rules of the Indian Railway Establishment Code. His services were terminated without any enquiry into the charges. The termination was stated to be under powers vested under R. 148 (3). The order terminating the services held, was by way of punishment and as the punishment was inflicted in contravention of Article 311 of the Constitution of India (1950), in that the respondent was not given an opportunity to prove his innocence, it is invalid. (1962) 1 MLJ 373: 1961 Mad WN 751: (1962) 4 Fac LR 110: (1962) 2 Lab LJ 96: ILR (1962) Mad 375: 74 Mad LW 817: AIR 1962 Mad 376 (377) (Pr 4) (DB).

——R. 148 (3) — Scope — Jurisdiction of General Manager to terminate service.

Rule 148 (3) conferred the jurisdiction on the General Manager to terminate the services of a person who held a non gazetted and non-pensionable post by giving him a month's notice, though earlier to the notice, charges had been framed and investigation was started but was not proceeded with. 69 Mad LW 576: (1956) 2 MLJ 217: AIR 1956 Mad 686 (686) (Pr 3).

——R. 148 — Railway authorities have a right to terminate services of employee under Rule 148 — There is nothing in Constitution of India, which restricts such a right — (Constitution of India, Articles 310, 311). See Railway Services

(Safeguarding of National Security) Rules (1949), Rule 3. AIR 1953 Mad 54 (DB).

——Rr. 148, 1708 and 1709 — Provision does not apply where termination of service is according to terms of conditions of service — Employer having right to terminate service either under terms of contract or by holding departmental enquiry can proceed in either of the two modes — Held, that termination of service of the railway servant was according to terms of service and not by way of punishment. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1963 Mys 193 (DB).

——R. 148 — State Railway Rules, Rule 148 (3) and (4) — Permanent (non-pensionable) non-gazetted servants — Service is terminable with one month's notice or pay in lieu of it.

It is permissible to terminate the services of a permanent (non-pensionable) non-gazetted servant of State Railway by giving one month's notice or one month's pay in lieu of notice. 1952 Nag LJ (Notes) 60 (DB).

——R. 148 (1) — Validity of termination of service of temporary servant — Temporary servant having no lien on permanent post — Agreement for 14 days notice — Opportunity to show cause given — Termination after 14 days notice is valid — Constitution of India, Article 311.

A temporary railway servant having no lien on permanent post cannot claim the benefit of the provisions of Article 311, Constitution of India

A temporary railway servant was given a proper hearing before his services were terminated by the General Manager by giving 14 days notice. His contract provided for 14 days notice.

Held, that the termination was valid. ('52) 1952 Nag LJ (Notes) 60 (DB).

——R. 148 — Termination of service of railway employee under Rule 148 — Rule dispensing with compliance with provisions of Art. 311 (2), Constitution of India, is itself invalid and, therefore, termination of service in accordance with provisions of Rule 148 cannot be sustained. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1965 Pat 374 (DB).

——R. 148 — Railway Establishment Code (Discipline and Appeal Rules), Rules 1706 (ii), (iii) and 1707 — Termination of service of railway guard on giving one month's pay in lieu of notice, after holding him guilty in disciplinary proceeding — Trial Court holding that charges against employee were not proved, but holding termination as proper on basis of contract— Held, trial Court was wrong in approaching case from point of view of contractual rights and liabilities of parties and termination should have been judged on basis of Rule 148 and Discipline and Appeal Rules.: AIR 1958 SC 36, Foll. — Held, further that the Court was not competent to examine evidence afresh to find out whether conclusion of enquiring authority was right or wrong.: Case law discussed. (1961) ILR 40 Pat 421 (DB).

——R. 148 (3) — Removal from service and termination of service are not same — Railway employee — Termination of service in accordance with Rule 148 (3) — Article 311 of Constitution is not attracted: AIR 1954 Cal 399 and AIR 1954 Cal 566, Dissent. from — (Words and Phrases). See Constitution of Inlia, Article 311. AIR 1956 Pat 221 (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1964 SC 600.]

——R. 148 — Removal or dismissal — Used in same sense in both clauses — Temporary railway servant — Termination of service under R. 143, Railway Establishment Code — Not being by way of punishment does not amount to removal — Order of termination passed by authority subordinate to appointing authority — Validity. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (1). AIR 1962 Raj 244.

——Rr. 148 (3) and (4) and 1708, Proviso — Applicability — Chapter XVII.

Rule 1708 deals with removal from service, and there is no doubt that if a person is to be removed from service under that rule, the procedure of Chap. XVII has to be followed, namely a charge-sheet has to be given to the public servant concerned, his explanation taken, and the formalities of Article 311 complied with. 1957 Raj LW 567: ILR (1957) 7 Raj 836: AIR 1958 Raj 250 (252, 253) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 10, 12, 13) (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1964 SC 600.]

——R. 148 and Ch. 17 — Notice under Rule 148 when required.

If a railway servant is removed or dismissed under Chap. XVII, no notice under Rule 148 is required; nor is it necessary to pay him salary in lieu of notice. Notice is only to be given, and salary in lieu of notice is only payable if the railway authority proceeds under Rule 148 (3). 1957 Raj LW 567: ILR (1957) 7 Raj 836: AIR 1958 Raj 250 (253) (Pt C) (Pr 12) (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1964 SC 600.]

——R. 148 — Validity of — Termination of service under Rule 148 (3) does not amount to removal or dismissal within meaning of Article 311 (2) of Constitution — Rule 148 is not repugnant to Article 311. See Constitution of India, Article 311. AIR 1958 Raj 250 (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1964 SC 600.]

——Rr. 148 and 2046 — Relative scope — If conflicting — Termination of service under Rule 2046 — If removal or dismissal — (Constitution of India, Article 311).

Rule 2046 gives the general rule of termination of service on superannuation. Such termination of service would not amount to removal or dismissal within the meaning of Article 311. Rule 148 is a sort of proviso to Rule 2046, and applies in exceptional cases where it may be thought desirable in the interest of public service to terminate the service of a public servant before he reaches the age of superannuation by notice. Therefore, Rule 148 cannot be said to be invalid on the ground that it is in conflict with Rule 2046. 1957 Raj LW 567: ILR (1957) 7 Raj 836: AIR 1958 Raj 250 (255) (Pt E) (Pr 18) (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1964 SC 600.]

RULE 149

●——R. 149 (3) — Railway Establishment Code (1951), Rule 148 (3) — Validity — Termination of service of Railway servants by notice — No rational basis for distinction between them and other public servants — No guiding principle for exercising discretion — Rules held invalid. See Constitution of India, Article 14. AIR 1964 SC 600.

■——R. 149 (3) — Permanent Railway servant — Rights of — Termination of his service on notice — Amounts to removal within Article 311 (2) — No provision of enquiry and notice — Rules contravene Article 311 (2) and are invalid. (Majority view). See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1964 SC 600.

——R. 149 (3) — Notice by whom may be issued.

Rule 149 (3) does not specify the authority which has to issue notice. Under the general law the notice can be given by the appointing authority or one superior to him. Hence, the notice by the General Manager, a superior officer, cannot be said to be illegal. Shyam Behari Tewari v. Union of India, AIR 1963 Assam 94 (103) (Pt G) (Pr 25) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 SC 600.]

RULE 156

——Rr. 156 and 157 and R. 10 in Appendix 11-A — Contravention.

It was in exercise of the powers under Rules 156 and 157 and Rule 10 in Appendix 11-A that the General Manager South Indian Railway issued Circular No. 343, D/- 11-8-1949. The General Manager was specified by the statutory rules as the authority competent to frame rules to determine seniority. It was the same authority that authorised the issue of the order dated 25th April, 1952, addressed on behalf of the Commercial Operating Superintendents in charge of districts. One of the results of order dated 25-4-1952 was that the petitioner among others dropped from Rs. 64-4-170 scale of pay to Rs. 60-4-150.

Held, that the order, dated 25th April, 1952, obviously conflicted with the requirements of Rule 2 of Circular 343. The conflict between the Rule and the Order dated 25th April, 1952, could not obviously be resolved on any assumption that the order could proprio vigore operate as a rule framed by a competent authority: AIR 1955 Mad 305 (FB), Ref. AIR 1958 Mad 243 (244) (Pt C) (Prs 2, 4).

RULE 157

——R. 157 — Scope — General Manager of Railways can make rules in exercise of powers under Rule 157 — Order dated 14-5-1953, passed by General Manager of Central Railway — Held, order had the effect of rule made under Rule 157 — Order was binding on both parties — General Manager failing to discharge his duty — Writ of Mandamus should issue. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1965 Bom 267.

——Rr. 157 and 2003 (14) — Order by General Manager effecting separation of one department from another and consequent transfer of non-gazetted employees amounts to framing of a rule and acquires force of law — Person opting in pursuance of such order acquires legal right to hold post in separated department — Rule 157 does not prescribe any particular form. 1965 Mah LJ (Notes) 44.

——Rr. 157 and 156 and R. 10 in Appendix 11-A — Contravention.

It was in exercise of the powers under Rules 156 and 157 and Rule 10 in Appendix 11-A that the General Manager South Indian Railway issued Circular No. 343, D/- 11-8-1949. The General Manager was specified by the Statutory rules as the authority competent to frame rules to determine seniority. It was the same authority that authorised the issue of the order dated 25th April, 1952, addressed on behalf of the Commercial Operating Superintendents in charge of districts. One of the results of order dated 25-4-1952 was that the petitioner among others dropped from Rs. 64-4-170 scale of pay to Rs. 60-4-150.

Held, that the order, dated 25th April, 1952, obviously conflicted with the requirements of Rule 2 of Circular 343. The conflict between the Rule and the Order dated 25th April, 1952, could not obviously be resolved on any assumption that the order could proprio vigore operate as a rule framed by a competent authority: AIR 1955 Mad 305 (FB), Ref. AIR 1958 Mad 243 (244) (Pt C) (Prs 2, 4).

RULE 418

——R. 418 — General and Subsidiary Rules for Indian Railways, Rule 418 — Suspension of Railway servant pending departmental enquiry — Validity — Charges investigated providing for a maximum penalty of fine — Suspension pending enquiry is illegal.

Where an express provision is made to suspend an employee in stated circumstances, then it must be held by clear implication that the Rule-making authority did not intend that the employee should be suspended in other cases, also. R. 418 of the General and Subsidiary Rules for Indian Railways, which is nothing but the reproduction of Section 47 (2), latter part of Railways Act, provides for a maximum penalty of a fine of one month's pay for breach of the rules in that part. Where, therefore, the charges investigated, relate to breach of rules, for which maximum penalty of fine of month's pay has been provided, and not either dismissal or removal, a Railway servant cannot be suspended under Rule 1711 (b) of the Rules, embodied in the Railway Establishment Code.

Where, a Railway servant, against whom a departmental enquiry was started on charges for breach of Rules S. R. 37 (27), G. R. 37 (iii) and S. R. 39 of the General and Subsidiary Rules for Indian Railways, was suspended with immediate effect pending enquiry.

Held, that the maximum penalty for the charges against the employee under the rules, having been provided as fine of one month's pay, no suspension could be ordered under Rule 1711 (b). There being no other rules for suspension. the order of suspension was void. 1961 MPLJ (Notes) 222.

RULE 509

——Rr. 509, 510, 511 — Allowances claimable — If ex gratia payment.

The railway rules make it abundantly clear that allowances, even running allowances, were part of the emoluments payable and claimable by a certain class of railway employees. They are not an ex gratia payment. 1957 All LJ 840: 1957 All WR (HC) 831: (1958) 1 Lab LJ 198: AIR 1958 All 342 (344) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Rr. 509, 510, 511, 2044 — Railway servant entitled to special running allowance suspended and later reinstated — Right to claim running allowances.

Where a railway servant, who was entitled to special running allowance under the rules, was suspended on his prosecution for certain offence and later reinstated on his acquittal by the Court, he is entitled to running allowances calculated according to the rules. Rule 510 has to be liberally interpreted and real meaning of the rule is to permit a person to earn allowance in case he is prevented from earning it for no fault of his. Under Rule 2044 a person has been held to be entitled, on honourable acquittal, not only to full pay but also to full allowances to which he was entitled and would have earned had he not been suspended. 1957 All LJ 840: 1957 All WR (HC) 831: (1958) 1 Lab LJ 198: AIR 1958 All 342 (344) (Pt C) (Pr 4).

RULE 510

——Rr. 510, 509, 511 — Allowances claimable by certain class of railway employees are not ex gratia payment. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 509. AIR 1958 All 342.

——Rr. 510, 509, 511, 2044 — Railway servant entitled to special running allowance suspended and later reinstated after suspension was found unjustifiable — He is entitled to claim running allowances. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 509. AIR 1958 All 342.

RULE 511

——Rr. 511, 509, 510 — Allowances claimable by certain class of railway employees are not ex gratia payment. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 509. AIR 1958 All 342.

——Rr. 511, 509, 510, 2044 — Railway servant entitled to special running allowance suspended and later reinstated after suspension was found unjustifiable — He is entitled to claim running allowances. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 509. AIR 1958 All 342.

RULE 742

——R. 742 (v) — 'Prohibited by Government' — Phrase governs only publications and not obscene books or pictures — News weekly, Indian Observer cannot be regarded as book or picture — Its publication not prohibited by Government — Ban under Rule 742 (v) not attracted. 1965 Pun LR (Supp) 267: AIR 1966 Punj 417 (419) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——R. 742 — No power in Railway Board to ban a publication on ground that in its opinion it is obscene. 1965 Pun LR (Supp) 267: AIR 1966 Punj 417 (420) (Pt B) (Pr 6-A) (DB).

——R. 742 — Ban imposed by Railway Board on sale of publication on railway platform — Railway platforms are as much private property as any other highway in town — Person aggrieved can challenge decision of Railway Board. 1965 Pun LR (Supp) 267: AIR 1966 Punj 417 (420) (Pt C) (Pr 7) (DB).

RULE 1314

——Rr. 1314, 1336, 1503 — Construction — Special contribution to Provident Fund — Nature of.

Where a railway servant who has become eligible for the special contribution to his Provident Fund under Rule 1314 of the D. S. Railway Provident Fund Rules, sues for recovery of such special contribution, Rule 1314 in the abstract cannot be relied on as a defence unless it is alleged and proved that the Controlling Officer, in the exercise of powers which vest in him, has decided under sub-rule (2) not to permit the addition of special contribution to plaintiff's account or has decided to withhold it under sub-rule (5). Plaintiff cannot be non-suited on the abstract proposition that the Controlling Officer has an unrestricted power to withhold payment. His claim cannot be resisted under Rule 1314 without the Controller coming to a decision adverse to the plaintiff on the facts of the case.

Obiter: The proposition that special contribution to Provident Fund is in the nature of a bounty or reward and is not at all grounded in right cannot be accepted. Rule 1336 (1) provides a mode of devolution of the special contribution. The contribution added under Rule 1314 becomes payable to the widow or widows or/and dependent children of the deceased subscriber in such cases as the Controlling Officer may determine. This rule has been held to be a condition of service, vide 58 CWN 483. If Rule 1336 (1) is a condition of service, it would be anomalous to hold that Rule 1314 embodies no enforceable condition of service even when the Controller does not, in the exercise of his authority, decide to withhold special contribution wholly or partially. Hence, if the conditions of sub-rule (2) are satisfied and the Controlling Officer does not decide to disallow or withhold it acting under Rule 1314, a subscriber could enforce his right to special contribution. The scheme of the rules points to that conclusion. ILR (1954) 6 Assam 383: AIR 1955 Assam 17 (21 to 23) (Pt D) (Prs 14, 18, 19, 20) (DB).

RULE 1336

——R. 1336 — Construction of — Special contribution to Provident Fund — Nature, stated. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 1314. AIR 1955 Assam 17 (DB).

RULE 1503

——R. 1503 — Construction of — Special contribution to Provident Fund — Nature, stated. Railway Establishment Code, Rule 1314. AIR 1955 Assam 17 (DB).

RULE 1701

——R. 1701, Para. 2 (1) — Railway employee — Misconduct — Subordinate railway employee demanding and accepting paltry amount of 8 annas from passenger for service rendered — Dismissal from service — It is not within jurisdiction of High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution to enquire, whether punishment of dismissal was too severe. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1964 Orissa 253 (DB).

——R. 1701, Para. 2 (1) — Railway servant accepting baksbis for service rendered amounts to misconduct — Distinction between 'misconduct' and 'serious misconduct'.

According to Paragraph 2 (1) of Rule 1701 of Railway Servants Conduct Rules, acceptance of bakshis even if it is given by a person out of goodwill for service rendered to him by the Railway servant would amount to a contravention of that Rule and as such would amount to misconduct. Where, however, the bakshis was not demanded by the Railway servant but was given voluntarily by a passenger it may not amount to serious misconduct. (1965) 1 Lab LJ 181: (1965) 7 OJD 69: ILR (1964) Cut 369: AIR 1964 Orissa 253 (254) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 4) (DB).

——R. 1701, Para. 2 (1) — Railway servant demanding and accepting bakshis of 8 annas for service rendered — Provisions of Penal Code (1860), do not apply.

Where the Railway servant has demanded and accepted bakshis from a passenger the provisions of Section 161 read with Section 95 of Penal Code cannot be invoked since the Railway Establishment Code, itself prohibits the acceptance of any 'gift', gratuity or reward and it is immaterial whether it was given voluntarily or not by a passenger for services rendered by a Railway Servant even though such service may not be part of the official duties of the railway servant. Any contravention of the disciplinary rules prescribing the code of conduct of railway servants must necessarily amount to misconduct, and the question whether it is ordinary misconduct or serious misconduct will depend on whether the gift or reward was actually demanded by the Railway servant, so as to involve an element of extortion which necessarily implies dishonest intention. (1965) 1 Lab LJ 181: (1965) 7 OJD 69: ILR (1964) Cut 369: AIR 1964 Orissa 253 (254) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (DB).

RULE 1702

●——Rr. 1702, 1712, 148 — Permanent railway servant — Charge of misconduct — Termination of service by way of punishment — Opportunity

against proposed punishment not given — Order held not valid — (Government of India Act (1935), Section 240 (3)). See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1958 SC 905.

——R. 1702 — Scope — Termination of service — Whether by way of penalty or in terms of contract — How determined — Payment of one month's salary — Effect — Removal from service — Nature of, indicated. See Constitution of of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1957 All 439 (DB).

——Rr. 1702 and 1712 — Payment of Wages Act (1936), Section 7 (2) (h) — Authority competent to pass order for deductions from pay of railway employee — Officer having power under the rules can be styled as an 'authority' having the power to pass such order. See Payment of Wages Act (1936), Section 7 (2) (h). AIR 1957 All 363 (DB).

——Rr. 1702 and 1704 — Punishment of reduction to lower post can be inflicted even if employee is governed by Payment of Wages Act. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 3539.

——R. 1702 — Removal from service — 'Service' means whether permanent or temporary — Removal is different from reduction to lower grade — Change of service status of Travelling Ticket Inspector to lower grade — There is no removal. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 3539.

——Rr. 1702, 1706, 1726 — Discipline and Appeal Rules (Non-Gazetted) — Misconduct, what amounts to — Misconduct outside working hours and duty — Disciplinary action can be taken.

Rule 1706 of Railway Establishment Code enumerates the circumstances under which a railway servant is liable to be dismissed from service.

It is within the competence of the Railway Authorities to institue a disciplinary proceeding against a railway servant if according to it any of the circumstances as serious misconduct existed. One of these circumstances is serious misconduct during working hours and during the course of employment. But this does not necessarily mean that there can be no misconduct or serious misconduct outside the working hours or outside the course of employment.

The test is that the misconduct must be inconsistent with the fulfilment of the express or implied conditions of service in order to justify dismissal. (1886) 17 QBD 536, Relied on; AIR 1955 Nag 206, Dist.

Subsidiary Rule 4 to Rule 1706 does not and cannot either abridge or enlarge the scope of Rule 1706, under which disciplinary action can be taken for serious misconduct on the part of a railway servant. 61 Bom LR 1596: 1960 Nag LJ 26: (1960) 1 Lab LJ 167: ILR (1960) Bom 545: AIR 1961 Bom 150 (151, 152, 153) (Prs 3, 5, 8, 13) (DB).

——Rr. 1702 (5) and 1714 — Reduction to lower state in time scale — Amounts to reduction in rank. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). 1961 Nag LJ (Notes) 36.

——R. 1702 — Validity — In so far as it purports to lay down a rule that in case of termination of service for failure to conform to requisite standard of physical fitness, no notice is necessary or that such termination does not amount to removal or dismissal from service, is ultra vires the provisions of Article 311 of Constitution. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 148 (3). AIR 1954 Cal 566.

——Rr. 1702 and 1711 — Railway servant, disciplinary proceedings against — Order of suspension passed as penalty — Substantial non-compliance with procedure laid down in Rule 1711, Railway Establishment Code and Article 311, Constitution of India — Civil Court has jurisdiction to set aside suspension order — Order of suspension passed long before date of charge-sheet — Order continuing beyond 4 months without approval of competent authority — Validity — Order, held not sustainable. See Constitution of India, Article 311. AIR 1964 Pat 168.

——R. 1702 — Termination of service by notice under contract — Charges framed but not mentioned in notice — Termination not by way of penalty — Constitution of India, Article 311 — (Master and Servant).

When a Government employee holds his service on condition that his service may be terminated at any time with one month's notice on either side, the mere fact that certain charges have been made against the employee does not by itself show that the termination of the services of the employee is by way of penalty. The most important document to see as to whether the administration has proceeded by way of punishment or otherwise, is the order terminating the service.

Thus where the order terminating the services of the petitioner does not show that he has been found guilty of any charge, on the contrary the order clearly and simply states that the services of the petitioner, are no longer required by the administration and therefore he is being given one month's notice, the termination cannot be said to be by way of punishment. 1956 BLJR 49: (1958) 1 Lab LJ 324: AIR 1956 Pat 23 (26) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Rr. 1702 and 1712 — Order withholding increment of railway servant passed in contravention of Rules 1702 and 1712 of Railway Code — Authority under Payment of Wages Act holding loss of wages resulting from order as unauthorised deduction under Section 7 (1), Explanation 11 of the Act — Order of Authority does not contravene Article 310 of Constitution. See Payment of Wages Act (1936), Section 7 (1). AIR 1964 Punj 242 (DB).

——Rr. 1702 and 1705 — Merger of B. B. and C. I. Railway with Western Railway and subsequent introduction of Divisional system — Divisional Operating Superintendent, who replaced District Traffic Superintendent of B. B. and C. I. Railway, was not lower in rank and had authority to punish employee by reducing him in rank. See Constitution of India, Article 311. 1965 Raj LW 115: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 205: AIR 1966 Raj 37 (DB).

——R. 1702 — Disciplinary authority, though not competent to impose major penalty, can issue charge-sheet for the same. See Railway Establishment Code, Volume 1, Rule 1707. 1965 Raj LW 115: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 205: AIR 1966 Raj 37 (DB).

——Rr. 1702, 1725, 1717 and 1727 — Removal from service under Rule 1702 (8) — Application under Article 226 of Constitution without pursuing remedies available under Rules 1717, 1725 and 1727 — High Court refused to grant relief under Article 226 in absence of any special or extraordinary reasons to do so. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1953 Raj 199 (DB)

RULE 1704

——Rr. 1704, 1712 — Punishment of reduction to lower post — Notice not specifying proposed salary — Notice indicating that he was to be in post carrying salary scale of Rs. 55-130 — Notice held not invalid — No prejudice to person concerned, since he had notice that he could be awarded starting salary of Rs. 55. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 3539.

——R. 1704 — Travelling Ticket Inspector can be reduced to a lower post by District Traffic Superintendent. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 3539.

——R. 1704 — Punishment of reduction to lower post can be inflicted even if employee is governed by Payment of Wages Act. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 1702. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 3539.

——Rr. 1704, 1705 — Prevention of Corruption Act (1947), Section 6 — Sanction — Validity — Sanction by Traffic Superintendent must be taken to be granted by an officer who was not competent to dismiss the servant and is not valid — The only authority that could remove or dismiss a railway servant is the General Manager and not the Traffic Superintendent. See Prevention of Corruption Act (1947), Section 6. 1956 Cri L 879: AIR 1956 Bom 504 (DB).

——Rr. 1704, 1708, 1709, Chap. 17 — Applicability — (Constitution of India, Art. 311).

The petitioner was at the time of his removal serving as an assistant trains clerk in the Transport Department and at that time the District Officer of that department was one Mr. A. who was then holding the post of Superintendent Transportation. Mr. A Superintendent, Transportation, who passed the order of dismissal was not an officer lower than the Divisional Personnel Officer by whom the petitioner was appointed to the post of assistant trains clerk. Therefore the order of removal could not be held void or illegal in law. ILR (1955) Pat 625. AIR 1965 Pat 305 (307 to 312) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6, 8, 11, 13) (DB).

RULE 1705

●——R. 1705 (c) — Authority competent to remove — Article 311 (1) of Constitution and Rule 1705 (c) of the Code cannot be read as implying that removal must be by the very same authority who made his appointment or by his direct superior — It is enough that removing authority is of same rank or grade. See Prevention of Corruption Act (1947), Section 6 (c). 1955 Cri LJ 249: AIR 1955 SC 70.

——Rr. 1705, 1704 — Prevention of Corruption Act (1947), Section 6 — Sanction — Validity — Sanction by Traffic Superintendent must be taken to be granted by an officer who was not competent to dismiss the servant and is not valid — The only authority that could remove or dismiss a railway servant is the General Manager and not the Traffic Superintendent. See Prevention of Corruption Act (1947), Section 6. 1956 Cri LJ 879: AIR 1956 Bom 504 (DB).

——R. 1705 (c) — Removal of railway servant by authority subordinate to that by which he was appointed — Removal held not invalid. See Constituion of India, Article 311 (1). AIR 1957 Ker 1 (DB).

——R. 1705 (c) — Termination of service in pursuance of contract — No question of the application of rules in Section 2 of Chapter 17 of the Code arises. See Government of India, Act (1935), Section 240 (2). AIR 1956 Pat 23 (DB).

——Rr. 1705, 1702 and 1707 — Western Railway — Schedule of Powers (1958), Schedule II — Railway employee appointed by District Traffic Superintendent of B. B. and C. I. Railway — Merger of B. B. and C. I. Railway with Western Railway and subsequent introduction of Divisional system — Divisional Operating Superintendent, who replaced District Traffic Superintendent of B. B. and C. I. Railway, was not lower in rank and had authority to punish employee by reducing him in rank. See Constitution of India, Article 311. 1965 Raj LW 115: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 205: AIR 1966 Raj 37 (DB).

RULE 1706

——R. 1706 (II) — Dismissal for serious misconduct — Permissibility.

A railway servant is liable to dismissal from service if he is guilty of, among other things, serious misconduct; this is clear from Rule 1706 (II). AIR 1957 All 671 (675) (Pt B) (Pr 26) (DB).

——Rr. 1706 (v) and 1708 — Concealment of antecedents by railway servant at time of appointment — If ground for removal from service.

Rule 1708, read with Rule 1706, Clause (v) does not make the mere concealment by a candidate for appointment, of his antecedents a ground for his subsequent removal from service; in order to justify the removal, the concealment must have been such that had the true facts been known, the applicant would not have been appointed. (1957) All WR (HC) 138: (1957) All LJ 143.

——Rr. 1706, 1702, 1726 — Misconduct, what amounts to — Misconduct outside working hours and duty — Disciplinary action can be taken. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 1702. AIR 1961 Bom 150 (DB).

——R. 1706 — Railway employee — Grounds for dismissal — Concealment of fact of active membership of subversive organisation — Sufficiency. See Constitution of India, Article 310. AIR 1958 Cal 654.

——Rr. 1706, 1726 — Rules under Rule 1706 — Scope of — Rule 1706 does not confer power on General Manager to frame rule which will detract from Rule 1706 — Such a rule will be ultra vires. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 1795 (DB).

——R. 1706 — Dismissal based on conviction — Conviction set aside on appeal — Re-employment cannot be claimed — (Master and Servant). AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 1793.

——R. 1706 (II), (III) — Termination of service of railyaw guard on giving one month's pay in lieu of notice, after holding him guilty in disciplinary proceeding — Trial court holding that charges against employee were not proved but holding termination as proper on basis of contract — Held, trial Court was wrong in approaching case from point of view of contractual rights and liabilities of parties and termination should have been judged on basis of R.148 and discipline and Appeal rules — Held further that the Court was not competent to examine evidence afresh to find out whether conclusion of enquiring authority was right or wrong. See Railway Establishment Code (1951), R. 148. (1961) ILR 40 Pat 421.

——R. 1706 — Notice to show cause against penalty — Absence of copy of enquiry report — There is no rule making it obligatory upon punishing authority to furnish the Government servant with copy of such report along with the show cause notice. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1957 Pat 676 (DB).

——Rr. 1706 and 1708 — Distinction between — Removal from service for offence under R. 1706 — Legality.

The railway administration has made a distinction between dismissal from the service and removal from the service. The circumstances in which a railway servant shall be liable to be dismissed from the service are set forth in Rule 1706, and those justifying removal are enumerated in Rule 1708. 'Serious misconduct' comes under Rule 1706 and entails dismissal from the service. The penalty of removal from the service as envisaged in Rule 1708 is imposed in respect of offences which are less serious than those laid down in Rule 1706 for dismissal. But if a person for being guilty of a serious misconduct for which the prescribed punishment is dismissal from the service is simply removed from the service it cannot be reasonably argued that there was violation of the Statutory Rule 1708. The imposition of a lesser punishment in respect of an offence for which a higher punishment is prescribed is not at all illegal. AIR 1957 Pat 676 (678) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——R. 1706 — Railway servant removed from service for misconduct — Consultation with the Public Service Commission is not necessary — Notification in 1937 under Section 266 (3), Government of India Act. See Constitution of India, Article 320. AIR 1957 Pat 676 (DB).

——R. 1706 — Discipline and Appeal Rules for non-gazetted staff, Rule 1706 — Word 'conviction' in Rule 1706 does not mean 'conviction' by inferior Court when superior Court sets it aside. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2), Proviso (a). AIR 1965 Punj 153.

RULE 1707

——Rr. 1707, 1708 and 148 (3) — Reasonable opportunity — Permanent railway servant holding non-pensionable post—Absence from duty without leave — Order of removal from service on payment of one month's pay in lieu of notice not based on terms of agreement — Rule 148 (3) not applicable — Procedure prescribed by Rule 1707 not followed — Order of removal is by way of punishment and is illegal. See Government of India Act (1936), Section 240 (3). AIR 1963 All 441.

——R. 1707 (c) — Departmental inquiry — Member of committee gathering knowledge of facts prior to inquiry — Effect.

A departmental committee of inquiry is not deprived of jurisdiction to inquire into a matter because some of the members constituting the committee may have some knowledge of the facts that may have to be inquired into. It cannot be presumed that any member of the inquiry committee who knows some facts relevant to the inquiry is going to use that fact or suppress that fact to the prejudice of the person against whom the inquiry is held. AIR 1957 All 671 (675, 676) (Pt E) (Prs 32, 33) (DB).

——R. 1707 (c) — Inquiry committee functioning under control of authority not amenable to High Court's jurisdiction — Perpetration of injustice by committee — Powers of High Court to interfere. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1957 All 671 (DB).

——R. 1707 (c) — Evidence Act (1872), Sections 114 and 101 to 104 — Malice in law — Presumption — Mere non-adherence by a departmental inquiry committee to the strict procedure followed by a judicial tribunal does not amount to either acting mala fide or acting contrary to natural justice — (Constitution of India, Article 226) — (Words and Phrases). See Evidence Act (1872), Section 114. AIR 1957 All 671 (DB).

——R. 1707 (c) — Committee having jurisdiction to inquire — High Court's power to take away jurisdiction. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1957 All 671 (DB).

——R. 1707 (c) — Committee — Conduct of inquiry.

A committee, whether it is a departmental fact-finding committee or any other committee, which has the task of making inquiries and recording findings, should conform, as closely as possible, to those fundamental principles which govern the conduct of judicial inquiries. AIR 1957 All 671 (678) (Pt I) (Pr 38) (DB).

——R. 1707 — Constitution of India, Article 311 (2) — 'Reasonable opportunity to show cause' — Meaning of — Opportunity to give explanation — Effect of — Enquiry under Rule 1707 — Sufficiency — (Government of India Act (1935), Section 240 (3)) — (Words and Phrases). See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1956 All 393 (DB).

——R. 1707 (c) — Non-supply of copies of statements of witnesses recorded by Fact Finding Committee — No provision in Code as to supply of copies to person charge-sheeted — Non-supply does not deprive him of reasonable facility for defence if he had reasonable opportunity to see the statements, read them and prepare his cross-examination on their basis. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 3539.

——Rr. 1707, 1708 and 1709 — Service agreement — Power of termination of service can be exercised by Divisional Superintendent, if he follows proper procedure. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 2656.

——Rr. 1707 to 1709 and 1712 — Scope — Reduction in rank — Procedure.

The mere fact that in the charge-sheet, R. 1708, Railway Establishment Code is mentioned, does not make it necessary that the procedure should be one where the penalty imposed is one of removal from service. If the actual penalty imposed was one other than that of removal or dismissal in order to uphold the validity of the enquiry it will be sufficient if the procedure provided under Rule 1712 is followed. The provisions of Rule 1707 and sub-rules (c) and (e) do not contemplate a repetition of the enquiry before the officer before whom the applicant is called upon to show cause against the proposed punishment and who is authorised ultimately to pass the order of reduction in rank. The failure to supply the petitioner with a copy of the documents cannot constitute a failure to give a reasonable opportunity to the petitioner to defend himself before the enquiry committee, and also when it is done by the officer who ultimately passed the final order. AIR 1959 Assam 112 (116) (Pt C) (Pr 4) (DB).

——R. 1707 (e) — Railway servant — Disciplinary proceedings — Natural justice — Chairman of inquiry committee replaced in the middle of inquiry by another who had not heard witnesses so far examined — Enquiry is vitiated. (1963-64) 68 Cal WN 1112.

——Rr. 1707, 148 (3) and 1709 — Contract of service — Termination of service — Right of railway authorities to take disciplinary action instead of terminating service in terms of contract — Employee entitled to protection of Section 240, Government of India Act — (Government of India Act (1935), Section 240 (3)) — (Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 148 (3). AIR 1960 Cal 264 (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1964 SC 600.]

——R. 1707 — Show-cause notice — Who should issue — (Constitution of India, Art. 311).

A show-cause notice under R. 1707 should be in the name of the punishing authority, or with its authority, consent or approval. This would make it an act of the punishing authority, and not an act of a third party. View expressed in 60 CWN 933, modified. (1959) 1 Lab LJ 374: 62 Cal WN 169: AIR 1958 Cal 633 (634) (Pt C) (Pr 4).

——R. 1707 — Enquiry — Necessity of, pointed out. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 1795 (DB).

——R. 1707-A — Constitution of India, Article 311 (2) (a) — Applicability — Formal departmental enquiry against railway servant is not necessary — Conviction of criminal offence entitles Railway to dismiss servant, without taking note of further facts: AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 1793.

——R. 1707 (d), Proviso — Nature of — Dismissal of Railway Employee based on findings in departmental enquiry — Non-compliance with Proviso to Rule 1707 (d) by enquiry committee — Order is illegal and can be set aside in exercise of powers under Article 227 of Constitution. See Constitution of India, Article 227. AIR 1962 Pat 209 (DB).

——R. 1707 — Termination of service of railway guard on giving one month's pay in lieu of notice, after holding him guilty in disciplinary proceeding—Trial Court holding that charges against employee were not proved, but holding termination as proper on basis of contract — Held, trial Court was wrong in approaching case from point of view of contractual rights and liabilities of parties and termination should have been judged on basis of Rule 148 and Discipline and Appeal Rules — Held, further that the Court was not competent to examine evidence afresh to find out whether conclusion of enquiring authority was right or wrong. See Railway Establishment Code (1951), Rule 148. (1961) ILR 40 Pat 421 (DB).

——R. 1707 — Order of termination — Date from which order operates is the date of decision of punishing authority and not date of communication of order. (1961) ILR 40 Pat 421 (DB).

——R. 1707 — Clauses (c), (d), (e) — Scope — Non-examination of defence witnesses — Mere non-examination cannot have effect of invalidating proceedings of the enquiry. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 1709. AIR 1955 Pat 305 (DB).

——R. 1707 — Clauses (c), (d), (e) — Reasonable opportunity of showing cause — Petitioner wanted to prove, through defence witnesses, his allegations against one K and not to disprove charges — Members of departmental enquiry committee held, were justified in not giving opportunity to examine those witnesses. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 1709. AIR 1955 Pat 305 (DB).

——R. 1707 (e) — Findings of Inquiry Committee — Competent authority — If bound to accept.

The competent authority is not bound to accept the findings of the Inquiry Committee and he is entitled under the rules to pass such orders as he thinks fit in the circumstances of the case. AIR 1959 Punj 643 (645) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——R. 1707 — Merger of B. B. and C. I. Railway with Western Railway and subsequent introduction of Divisional system — Divisional Operating Superintendent, who replaced District Traffic Superintendent of B. B. and C. I. Railway was not lower in rank and had authority to punish employee by reducing him in rank. See Constitution of India, Article 311. 1965 Raj LW 115: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 205: AIR 1966 Raj 37 (DB).

——Rr. 1707 and 1702 — Disciplinary authority, not competent to impose major but only minor penalty specified in Rule 1707 can issue charge-sheet for the same. 1965 Raj LW 115: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 205: AIR 1966 Raj 37 (39) (Pt B) (Pr 14) (DB).

——R. 1707 — Enquiry against railway servant belonging to category of senior Class III staff — Enquiry Committee to be constituted of three members — Rule 42 of Rules for Non-gazetted Railway servants of Northern Railway does not supersede Rule 1707.

The rules providing procedure for conducting enquiries under the Disciplinary Action Rules are statutory rules, and a failure to comply with them has to be held to be illegal. Enquiry against a railway servant belonging to the category of senior Class III staff must be held by an enquiry committee constituted of three members. Rule 42 of the rules for non-gazetted railway servants of the Northern Railway published by its General Manager cannot supersede the above procedure. Even under Rule 42 which permits a single officer enquiry, circumstances warranting such course must clearly appear from the order appointing the departmental enquiry. ILR (1962) 12 Raj 302: 1962 Raj LW 246: AIR 1962 Raj 265 (267) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

——R. 1707 — Applicability — Applies to case of reduction in rank after amendment on 18th July, 1956.

Where in the charge-sheet served to the railway servant, on the 25th July, 1957, it was mentioned that he was sought to be proceeded against under Rule 1708 of the Railway Establishment Code, that did not make any difference to the procedure which was and should be held to be correctly applicable to the inquiry in a case where reduction in rank was contemplated. The reason was that Rule 1707 came to be amended from the 18th July, 1956, and the procedure laid down thereunder which was earlier applicable only to a case of dismissal was also prescribed for cases of dismissal, removal and reduction. ILR (1962) 12 Raj 302: 1962 Raj LW 246: AIR 1962 Raj 265 (268) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

RULE 1708

——R. 1708, Proviso — Applicability — Termination of service — Whether by way of penalty or in terms of contract — How determined — Payment of one month's salary — Effect — Removal from service under Rule 1702 — Nature of indicated. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1957 All 439 (DB).

——R. 1708 — Scope — Concealment of antecedents by railway servant at time of appointment — When ground for removal from service, stated. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 1706 (v). (1957) All LJ 143.

——R. 1708 — Service agreement — Power of termination of service — Can be exercised by a Divisional Superintendent if he follows proper procedure and if the conditions for removal exist. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 1707. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 2656.

——R. 1708, Proviso — Removal of servant in terms of agreement by authority appointing him — Authority not Head of Department within Rule 1708 — Validity — Such termination of service cannot be disputed by the servant — (Constitution of India, Article 311). AIR 1955 NUC (All) 1765 (DB).

——R. 1708, Proviso — Removal of — Servant in terms of contract of service — Authority of Divisional Superintendent — (Master and Servant).

The power of removal referred to in the Schedule of powers contained in the pamphlet issued by the Railway Administration entitled 'Regulations regarding disciplinary action against non-gazetted staff including removal from service, dismissal and rights of appeal', is a punishment for an offence and has nothing whatever to do with that form of removal from service which consists in termination of an employee's contract of service.

It does not follow that because a particular officer has authority to impose the penalty he can terminate the contract.

Under the proviso to Rule 1708 the power to remove a railway servant from service in terms of his agreement can be exercised only by a General Manager or by an authority not lower than the head of the department to whom he has delegated his power. A divisional superintendent not being the head of a Department cannot exercise that power and hence such removal by him is invalid and has not the effect of terminating the service of the employee. 1955 All LJ 788: 1955 All WR (HC) 693: (1956) 1 Lab LJ 7: ILR (1956) 2 All 161: AIR 1955 All 568 (569) (Prs 9, 11) (DB).

——Rr. 1708, 1707 and 1709 and 1712 — Scope and applicability — Proceedings under para 1708 — Penalty of reduction in rank — Procedure indicated. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 1707. AIR 1959 Assam 112 (DB).

——Rr. 1708, 148 — Charges framed — Termination of services not under disciplinary rule but under contract without holding inquiry, is not illegal. See Railway Establishment Code Vol. I, Rule 148. (1960) 2 Lab LJ 384 (AP).

——R. 1708 — Constitution of India, Article 311 (2) — Provision does not apply where termination of service is according to terms of conditions of service — Employer having right to terminate service either under terms of contract or by holding departmental enquiry can proceed in either of the two modes — Held, that termination of service of the railway servant was according to terms of service and not by way of punishment. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1963 Mys 193 (DB).

——Rr. 1708 and 1706 — Distinction between, pointed out — Removal from service for offence under Rule 1706 — Legality. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 1706. AIR 1957 Pat 676 (DB).

——Chap. 17, R. 1708 — Applicability — Assistant trains Clerk in Transport Department removed from service by order of Superintendent of Transport — Order held not void or illegal. See Railway Establishment Code, Chap. 17, Rule 1704. AIR 1955 Pat 305 (DB).

——Rr. 1708, 148 (3) and (4) — Order terminating service of railway servant — Order whether falls under Rule 148 (3) and Rule 148 (4) — Mention of Rule 1708 is mistake. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 148 (3). AIR 1958 Raj 250 (DB).

——R. 1708, Proviso — 'Remove' — Meaning of.

The word 'remove' in the proviso is obviously used merely in the sense of termination of service and not in the sense of 'removal' which is contemplated under Article 311, and which results in certain losses to the person removed. 1957 Raj LW 567: ILR (1957) 7 Raj 836: AIR 1958 Raj 250 (252) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1964 SC 600.]

RULE 1709

——R. 1709 — Service agreement — Power of termination of service — Can be exercised by a Divisional Superintendent if he follows proper procedure and if the conditions for removal exist. See Railway Establishment Code, Vol. I, Rule 1707. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 2656.

——Rr. 1709, 1707, 1708 and 1712 — Scope and applicability — Proceedings under para 1708 — Penalty of reduction in rank — Procedure indicated. See Railway Establishment Code, Para. 1707. AIR 1959 Assam 112 (DB).

——Rr. 1709, 148 (3) — Contractual right intended to be enforced against employee — Chance of explaining conduct should be given — (Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). See Government of India Act (1935), Section 240 (3). AIR 1960 Cal 264 (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1964 SC 600.]

——Rr. 1709, 148 (3), 1707 — Contract of service — Termination of service — Right of railway authorities to take disciplinary action instead of terminating service in terms of contract — Employee entitled to protection of Section 240, Government of India Act — (Government of India Act (1935), Section 240 (3)) — (Constitution of India, Article 311 (2)). See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 148 (3). AIR 1960 Cal 264 (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1964 SC 600.]

——Rr. 1709, 148 (3) — Charge-sheet served on employee — No other step contemplated in Rule 1709 taken — Order of removal giving one month's notice — Proceedings held to be under Rule 148 (3) — Section 240, Government of India Act, held did not come into operation. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 148 (3). AIR 1960 Cal 264 (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1964 SC 600.]

——R. 1709 — Rule prior to its amendment in 1952, is valid. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1956 Cal 662.

——R. 1709 (b) — Validity of Rule — Rule held ultra vires the provision of Government of India Act and the Constitution. See Government of India Act (1935), Section 240 (3). AIR 1954 Cal 399 (DB).

——R. 1709 — Constitution of India, Article 311 (2) — Provision does not apply where termination of service is according to terms and conditions of service — Employer having right to terminate service either under terms of contract or by holding departmental enquiry can proceed in either of the two modes — Held, that termination of service of the railway servant was according to terms of service and not by way of punishment. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1963 Mys 193 (DB).

——Chap. XVII, R. 1709 — Applicability — Assistant trains clerk in Transport Department removed from service by order of Superintendent of Transport — Order held not void or illegal. See Railway Establishment Code, Chap. XVII, Rule 1704. AIR 1955 Pat 305 (DB).

——Rr. 1709, 1707, Cls. (c), (d), (e) — Reasonable opportunity of showing cause.

Where the petitioner wanted to prove, through the defence witnesses, his allegations against one K and not to disprove the charges framed against the petitioner. Held, that the members of the departmental enquiry committee were perfectly justified in not giving an opportunity to the petitioner to examine those witnesses. ILR (1955) Pat 625: AIR 1955 Pat 305 (313) (Pt C) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Rr. 1709, 1707, Cls. (c), (d), (e) — Scope — Non-examination of defence witnesses.

The mere non-examination of the witnesses cited by the petitioner in the course of departmental enquiry cannot have the effect of invalidating the proceeding of the enquiry or the order passed by the ultimate authority on the basis of its report. So also the mere denial by the enquiry committee to allow the petitioner to cross-examine a witness does not cause any prejudice to him nor does it amount to any denial of reasonable facilities for the conduct of his defence as contemplated by Rule 1707. ILR (1955) Pat 625: AIR 1955 Pat 305 (313, 316) (Pt D) (Prs 20, 24) (DB).

——R. 1709, Proviso — Applicability — Nothing on record to show that officer competent to pass order of removal had consciously dispensed with departmental enquiry or that he had recorded any considered opinion why such inquiry should be dispensed with — Case held did not fall within proviso to Rule 1709. 1963 Raj LW 128: ILR (1963) 13 Raj 28: AIR 1963 Raj 57 (60) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

——R. 1709 — Proviso to Rule 1709, Railway Establishment Code — Validity — Provision, in so far as it overrides Article 311 (2) of the Constitution, is ultra vires. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1963 Raj 57.

RULE 1710

——R. 1710 — Disciplinary Authority can itself hold enquiry or at its discretion appoint either Board of Enquiry or Inquiring Officer. 1965 Raj LW 115: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 205: AIR 1966 Raj 37 (40) (Pt C) (Pr 16) (DB).

——R. 1710 — Inquiring Officer should be of rank higher than accused employee but need not belong to higher class. 1965 Raj LW 115: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 205: AIR 1966 Raj 37 (40) (Pt D) (Pr 17) (DB).

RULE 1711

——R. 1711 — Suspension — Servant guilty of serious misconduct — Discretion of authority.

For the purposes of suspension it is not necessary that the authority suspending a railway servant should definitely come to the conclusion before he orders suspension that the railway servant who is to be suspended was guilty of serious misconduct. It is sufficient if the suspending authority has reason to think that the railway servant has been guilty of serious misconduct which could entail his dismissal from service. The matter must, per necessity, be within the complete discretion of the officer in whom is vested the power to suspend; his discretion cannot be circumscribed lightly. AIR 1957 All 671 (675) (Pt C) (Pr 32) (DB).

——R. 1711 — Order of suspension by Financial Adviser and Chief Accounts Officer — Question whether order was justified — Power of High Court to go into question — (Constitution of India, Article 226).

Where a suspension order is made by the Financial Adviser and Chief Accounts Officer, Northern Railways, the question whether he was justified in making that order cannot be gone into by the High Court in a proceeding under Article 226 if the F. A. and C. A. O. was no party to the proceeding and because, the F. A. and C. A. O. is not amenable to the jurisdiction of the High Court in so far as he resides and functions beyond the territorial limits of the High Court's jurisdiction. AIR 1957 All 671 (675) (Pt D) (Pr 32) (DB).

——R. 1711 (a), (b) — Applicability — Conditions.

Sub-rule (a) is attracted only when there are proceedings in a Court of law and sub-rule (b) is attracted in the case of departmental proceedings. No valid order for suspension can be made under Rule 1711 (a), where a railway servant has neither been arrested nor committed to prison pending trial by a Court of law. ILR (1955) 1 Cal 456.

——R. 1711 (b) — 'Investigation' — Meaning of — This has reference to departmental investigation. 62 Punj LR 714: AIR 1960 Punj 605 (605) (Pt A) (Pr 1a).

——R. 1711 (a) — 'When he is arrested' — When a person appears in response to a summons to answer a charge of offence and execute a bail bond for future appearance in Court he cannot be regarded to have been arrested at any stage prior or subsequent to the grant of the bail: AIR 1953 Cal 45, Rel. on; AIR 1950 EP 53 (FB), Dist. 62 Punj LR 714: AIR 1960 Punj 605 (606) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

●——Rr. 1711, 2043 — Contract of service with railway administration — Terms contained in Railway Establishment Code forming basis of contract — Suspension of railway servant is valid — (Constitution of India, Article 311). AIR 1957 Punj 130 (FB).

●——Rr. 1711, 2043 — Service in railway administration — Railway administration has an undisputable power to suspend its employee — Employee is not entitled to any salary for the period of suspension excepting the subsistence grant — (Constitution of India, Article 311). Divisional Superintendent, Northern Railway v. Mukand Lal, 59 Pun LR 173: (1957-58) 12 FJR 182: (1957) 2 Lab LJ 452: AIR 1957 Punj 130 (132, 133) (Pt D) (Prs 9, 12) (FB).

●——Rr. 1711 and 2043 — Conflict between Railway Establishment Code and Payment of Wages Act — Code prevails — (Constitution of India, Articles 254 and 311 (2)) — (Payment of Wages Act (1936), Sections 7 and 10).

If there is any conflict between the provisions of the Payment of Wages Act, 1936 and the rules contained in the Indian Railway Establishment Code framed under Section 241 (2), Government of India Act, 1935, it is the Code which must prevail. A railway employee cannot, during his period of suspension, claim his full wages and he cannot go to the authority under the Payment of Wages Act alleging that his wages have been deducted, because in fact there has been no deduction. 58 Bom LR 821, Foll. Divisional Superintendent, Northern Railway, Delhi Division v. Mukand Lal, ILR (1957) Punj 1059: 59 Punj LR 173: (1957-58) 12 FJR 182: (1957) 2 Lab LJ 452: AIR 1957 Punj 130 (133, 134) (Pt E) (Prs 13, 14) (FB).

RULE 1712

●——Rr. 1712, 1702, 148 — Permanent railway servant — Charge of misconduct — Termination of service by way of punishment — Opportunity against proposed punishment not given — Order held not valid — (Government of India Act (1935), Section 240 (3)). See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1958 SC 905.

——R. 1712 — Government of India Act (1935), Sec. 240 (3) — Inconsistency — First and second opportunity — (Constitution of India, Article 311 (2)). See Government of India Act (1935), Section 240 (3). AIR 1956 Ajmer 17.

——R. 1712 — Show cause notice against proposed punishment — Servant is entitled to know materials on which he was found guilty. See Constitution of India, Article 311. AIR 1961 All 276.

——Rr. 1712, 1702 — Payment of Wages Act (1936), S. 7 (2) (h) — Authority competent to pass order for deductions from pay of railway employee — Officer having power under the rules can be styled as an 'authority' having the power to pass such order — (Government of India Act (1935), Section 241 (2)). See Payment of Wages Act (1936), Section 7 (2) (h). AIR 1957 All 363 (DB).

——R. 1712 — Reasonable facilities for defence— What amounts to.

The 1st respondent had asked for copies of all the statements of the officers who had deposed against him, but his request was refused. He was, however permitted to see the file containing the statements of the witnesses, which were recorded by the committee of enquiry. The 1st respondent wanted three days' leave to prepare his reply and that was also granted to him.

Held, that the 1st respondent had every opportunity to inspect that record and to prepare his defence. Hence, sufficient opportunity was given to him to prepare his defence, and the order passed by the Railway authorities for the deduction of the amount from his salary was fully justified. 1958 All WR (HC) 367: AIR 1957 All 363 (365, 366) (Pt E) (Prs 11, 12, 14).

——Rr. 1712, 1704 — Punishment of reduction to lower post — Notice not specifying proposed salary — Notice indicating that he was to be in post carrying salary scale of Rs. 55-130 — Notice held not invalid — No prejudice to person concerned, since he had notice that he could be awarded starting salary of Rs. 55. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 1704. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 3539.

——Rr. 1712, 1707, 1708, 1709 — Scope and applicability — Proceedings under Para. 1708 — Penalty of reduction in rank — Procedure indicated. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 1707. AIR 1959 Assam 112 (DB).

——Rr. 1712, 1702 — Order withholding increment of railway servant passed in contravention of paras. 1702 and 1712 of Railway Code — Authority under Payment of Wages Act holding loss of wages resulting from order as unauthorised deduction under Section 7 (1), Expl. II — Order of Authority does not contravene Article 310 (1) of Constitution. See Payment of Wages Act (1936), Section 7 (1). AIR 1964 Punj 242 (DB).

——R. 1712 — Order punishing railway servant passed by Divisional Superintendent of Railways in purported exercise of revisional powers — Order not being made by authority competent to make it — Loss of wages resulting from it amounts to unauthorised deduction under Section 7 (2) (h), Payment of Wages Act — Contravention of Para 1712 of Railway Code. See Payment of Wages Act (1936), Section 7 (2) (h). AIR 1964 Punj 242 (DB).

——R. 1712 (3) — Departmental enquiry against railway servant — Ex parte proceedings — Employee not taking part in enquiry proceedings — Opportunity given but not availed of — Order of dismissal based on finding in such ex parte enquiry recorded without examining evidence — Article 311 (2) can be invoked. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1965 Raj 87 (DB).

RULE 1713

——R. 1713 — Certiorari — Bias — Waiver of objection — Enquiry against railway servant — Enquiry by officer who conducted investigation regarding alleged charge — Servant, though aware of his right to object to enquiry being conducted by the officer, not objecting — Held, he could not be allowed to contend in writ, that enquiry was biased — Disciplinary authority could consider whether prejudice had been caused or not. See Constitution of India, Article 226. 1965 Ker LT 554: ILR (1965) 1 Ker 536.

——R. 1713 — Enquiry against railway servant — Servant expressing satisfaction with manner of enquiry, on being questioned by enquiry authority — Held, enquiry could not be characterised as being violative of principles of natural justice, in writ petition — Disciplinary authority could consider whether it was fair or not. See Constitution of India, Article 226. 1965 Ker LT 554: ILR (1965) 1 Ker 536.

——R. 1713 — Disciplinary authority, who is not enquiry authority — Duties of.

The rule insists on finding being entered on each of the charges by the disciplinary authority. This necessarily implies an advertence to the evidence which has been adduced at the time of the enquiry in relation to each of the charges and an analysis of this evidence and an assessment of the same, if not, the sifting of it, in order to come to the conclusion as to whether the charge has been established or not, Statement by such authority that he agrees with the findings of the Enquiry Officer that all charges mentioned in the charge-sheet have been established, cannot amount to compliance with the rule. 1965 Ker LT 554: ILR (1965) 1 Ker 536.

RULE 1717

——Rr. 1717, 1725, 1727 and 1702 — Removal from service under Rule 1702 (8) — Application by railway servant under Article 226 of Constitution without pursuing remedies available under Rules 1717, 1725 and 1727 — High Court refused to grant any relief under Article 226 in the absence of any special or extraordinary reasons to do so. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1953 Raj 199 (DB).

RULE 1721

——R. 1721 — Duty of appellate authority.

It is a matter of great importance not only to the railway servant involved but to the prestige and sense of fair-play of the Railway Administration itself, that the appellate authority should give particular attention to the matters mentioned in Rule 1721. Even if there had been no rules, the demand of natural justice was that the points raised in the memorandum of appeal should be properly considered and due weight given by the appellate authority. Where the appellate authority in disposing of the long memorandum of appeal filed against the order of removal from service passed against the petitioner, merely said that after going through it and the relevant papers, it considered that penalty imposed should stand the way in which the appellate authority has disposed of the appeal amounts to no consideration of the appeal at all. AIR 1960 Assam 51 (55) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

——R. 1721 — Scope — Personal hearing — If essential.

Under Rule 1721, Railway Establishment Code, the giving of personal hearing to the delinquent has been left to the discretion of the authority. There are only executive instructions issued by the Railway Board and unless it can be found that the refusal to give a personal hearing amounts to failure to give reasonable opportunity to show cause within the meaning of Article 311 (2) of the Constitution, no relief can be granted to the petitioner under Article 226 of the Constitution merely for the enforcement of the violation of such instructions. AIR 1959 Assam 112 (118) (Pt E) (Pr 9) (DB).

——R. 1721 — Scope of — Appellate authority not giving reasons for decision — If vitiates order.

Rule 1721 of the Railway Establishment Code only says that the appellate authority shall consider certain matters as stated therein. It does not, however, say that in considering those matters it should give reasons for its decision. The order of appellate authority cannot, therefore, be assailed as bad in law merely because it does not give reasons for its decision. 1961 Nag LJ (Notes) 36 (Bom).

——R. 1721 — Departmental enquiry — Fair opportunity — Sudden closure of personal hearing — Held, prejudicial to delinquent officer. See Constitution of India, Article 311. AIR 1965 Cal 557.

——R. 1721 — Departmental enquiry — Order by appellate authority cryptic in the extreme not showing that it considered facts on which order was based — No consideration of whether in the background of defence, facts established any justification of action taken — Order held did not fit in requirements of Rule 1721. See Constitution of India, Article 311. AIR 1965 Cal 557.

——R. 1721 — Departmental enquiry — Right of delinquent officer to be assisted by another railway employee or official of trade union — Refusal to allow assistance of railway employee who was also official of trade union on ground that the trade union was unrecognised — Delinquent officer held prejudiced. See Constitution of India, Article 309. (1964) 9 Fac LR 174: AIR 1965 Cal 557 (560) (Pt C) (Pr 5).

RULE 1721-A

——R. 1721-A — Appellate authority has discretion to give personal hearing to appellant — Exercise of discretion will not be controlled by High Court under Art. 226 of Constitution. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1959 Punj 643.

RULE 1725

——R. 1725 — Scope — Petition to General Manager to exercise revisional powers — Competency.

Rule 1725 empowers the General Manager to exercise his revisional powers on his own motion or otherwise. The word 'otherwise' covers cases of petitions being moved to the General Manager to exercise his revisional powers. 1960 All LJ 727: (1961) 1 Lab LJ 424: AIR 1961 All 338 (340) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

——R. 1725 (a) — Scope — Powers of revision and review.

Rule 1725 gives a two-fold power to the Railway Board, General Manager or the Divisional Superintendent. They can revise any order passed by a subordinate authority. They can also review their own orders or those of predecessor. The power of review, however, can be exercised only if some fresh facts come to light or if the employee by his subsequent conduct has proved that he deserves a mitigation of the penalty imposed on him. AIR 1960 All 164 (176) (Pt D) (Prs 43, 441.

——R. 1725 — Enquiry in misconduct of railway servant — Powers of revising authority — Rule 1725 is to be construed as being subject to Article 311 (2) — It is not ultra vires. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). (1963) 67 Cal WN 199.

——R. 1725 — Penalty — Imposition of — Enquiry in misconduct of railway servant — Revising authority — His power to impose punishment other than one imposed by subordinate authority. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). (1963) 67 Cal WN 199.

——Rr. 1725, 1702, 1717 and 1727 — Removal from service under Rule 1702 (8) — Application under Article 226 of Constitution without pursuing remedies available under Rules 1717, 1725 and 1727 — High Court refused to grant relief under Article 226 in absence of any special or extraordinary reasons to do so. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1953 Raj 199 (DB).

RULE 1726

——Rr. 1726, 1702, 1706 — Misconduct, what amounts to — Misconduct outside working hours and duty — Disciplinary action can be taken. See Railway Establishment Code (Discipline and Appeal) Rules (Non-Gazetted), Rule 1702. AIR 1961 Bom 150 (DB).

——R. 1726 — Rules under — Nature of — Subsidiary rules contemplated by Rule 1726 are rules proper and not Minutes recorded by Manager — Minute sheet No. AE 1795/2 of 3rd March, 1937, does not purport to be subsidiary rule and is mere expression of opinion — There are not rules having force of law — Rule 1706 may provide that upon conviction servant is liable to be dismissed, but railway may not dismiss him. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 1795 (DB).

——Rr. 1726, 1706 — Rules under Rule 1726 — Scope of — Rule 1726 does not confer power on General Manager to frame rule which will detract from Rule 1706 — Such a rule will be ultra vires. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 1795 (DB).

RULE 1727

——R. 1727 — Compulsory retirement of Railway servant — Only remedy is to petition the President under Rule 1727. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1954 Punj 245.

——Rr. 1727, 1725, 1717 and 1702 — Removal from service under Rule 1702 (8) — Application by railway servant under Article 226 of Constitution without pursuing remedies available under Rules 1717, 1725 and 1727 — High Court refused to grant any relief under Article 226 in the absence of any special or extraordinary reasons to do so. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1953 Raj 199 (DB).

RULE 1728

——Rr. 1728 and 1729 and Sch. II, Items (2) and (3) and Vol. II, R. 2021 — Effect of — Power to sanction increment next above the efficiency bar in respect of Railway Services, Class II, vests in the General Manager.

The combined effect of Rules 2021 and 1728 read with Schedule II is that the increment next above the efficiency bar shall not be given without the specific sanction of the General Manager or the Railway Board. Thus the power of sanctioning increment next above the efficiency bar vests in the General Manager. 59 Cal WN 812: ILR (1957) 1 Cal 447: AIR 1955 Cal 385 (387) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

RULE 1729

——Rr. 1729, 1728 and Sch. II, Items (2) and (3) and Vol. II, R. 2021 — Effect of — Power to sanction increment next above the efficiency bar in respect of Railway Services, Class II, vests in the General Manager. See Railway Establishment Code, Vol. 1, Rule 1728. AIR 1955 Cal 385 (DB).

RULE 2003

——R. 2003 — Suit by railway servant against Union of India for arrears of salary — Plaintiff claiming that he was entitled to draw salary on basis of old scales — Amount claimed representing difference between old scale and new scale — Maintainability — Held, as plaintiff must be deemed to have been placed in old scales, he was entitled to draw pay in that scale—On authority of AIR 1954 SC 245, the suit so far as relief of arrears of salary was concerned was maintainable. See Constitution of India, Article 300. AIR 1961 Punj 329.

RULE 2021

——R. 2021 — Effect of — Power to sanction increment next above the efficiency bar in respect of Railway Services, Class II, vests in the General Manager. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 1728. AIR 1955 Cal 383 (DB).

RULE 2043

● ——Rr. 2043, 1711 — Contract of service with railway administration — Terms contained in Railway Establishment Code forming basis of contract — Suspension of railway servant is valid — (Constitution of India, Article 311). AIR 1957 Punj 130 (FB).

● ——Rr. 2043, 1711 — Service in railway administration — Railway administration has an undisputable power to suspend its employee — Employee is not entitled to any salary for the period of suspension excepting the subsistence. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 1711. AIR 1957 Punj 130 (FB).

● ——Rr. 2043, 1711 — Conflict between Railway Establishment Code and Payment of Wages Act — Code prevails — (Constitution of India, Articles 254 and 311 (2)) — (Payment of Wages Act (1936), Sections 7 and 10). See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 1711. AIR 1957 Punj 130 (FB).

——R. 2043 — Railway servant — Suspension — Administration having duly suspended him in exercise of the power to suspend, he was not entitled to any salary for period of suspension excepting subsistence grant. See Payment of Wages Act (1936), Section 15. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 2163.

——R. 2043 — Applicability — Employees tried in Court.

Where an employee is suspended and the suspension is followed, either by departmental proceedings or by prosecution in Court, Rule 2043, applies so far as pay and allowances for the period of suspension are concerned. In the case of departmental proceedings, it will apply by its own force and in those cases where the case is sent to Court it will apply by virtue of Section III of the Appendix XXXI. 1959 Raj LW 670: ILR (1958) 8 Raj 1129: AIR 1959 Raj 55 (56) (Pt A) (Pr 9) (DB).

RULE 2044

——R. 2044 — Scope — Dismissal of railway servant by Railway authority — Dismissal set aside as being illegal by High Court in writ petition — No question of reinstatement arises — Rule 2044 does not apply.

Rule 2044, Railway Establishment Code is applicable to the cases where the employee who has been dismissed, removed or suspended is reinstated by an order of the Railway Authority acting as a revising or appellate authority. It does not seem to have any application where a railway employee has been removed from service by the order of a railway officer and then his dismissal has been held to be illegal and he has been ordered to be restored to service by an order of the Civil Court or by an order passed by the High Court in its writ jurisdiction. In such a case the question of reinstatement does not at all arise because the employee shall be deemed to have continued in service without any break. AIR 1958 Punj 155; (1961) 2 Lab LJ 454 (Cal) and AIR 1954 SC 245, Foll.; AIR 1959 Raj 55, Dist. 1962 All LJ 872: AIR 1963 All 123 (125) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 8, 10).

——R. 2044 — Salary and allowance to honourably acquitted railway servant — Discretionary power of revising or appellate authority.

The revising or appellate authority has no power to exercise any discretion in the case of payment of salary and allowance of a railway servant who has been found to have been honourably acquitted. In regard to the situation contemplated by Clause (a) there was no discretion; the revising or appellate authority had to grant such a railway servant the full salary and full allowances and the authority had to determine by a separate order only the nature of the allowances. The word 'may' in the rule had been used only to indicate the 'empowering' of the authority and not to indicate that the authority had vested in him a discretion in the matter. AIR 1935 PC 12, Rel. on. 1957 All LJ 840: 1957 All WR (HC) 831: (1958) 1 Lab LJ 198: AIR 1958 All 342 (343) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Rr. 2044, 509, 510, 511 — Railway servant entitled to special running allowance suspended and later reinstated after suspension was found unjustifiable — He was entitled to claim running allowances. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 509. AIR 1958 All 342.

——R. 2044 — Interpretation of — Rule not unjustifiable — He was entitled to claim running inconsistent with Payment of Wages Act. See Payment of Wages Act (1936), Section 7 (2) (b). AIR 1955 NUC (Bom) 4261 (DB).

——R. 2044 — Dismissal from service — Order of reinstatement by appellate or revisional authority — It can direct that no salary be paid for period during which employee remained under dismissal. AIR 1955 NUC (Bom) 4261 (DB).

——R. 2044 — Railway servant dismissed on basis of conviction for offence unconnected with his duty — Conviction set aside in appeal — Order of dismissal also set aside — Servant is entitled to his pay for period between dismissal and reinstatement. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1965 Cal 75.

——R. 2044 — Order of dismissal or removal of railway employee set aside by decree of Court — Rule 2044 of Railway Establishment Code not applicable to it — Order of dismissal quashed — Employee deemed to be always in service — No order under the above rule could be passed. See Payment of Wages Act, Section 7 (2). 1968 MPWR 745: 1964 MPLJ (Notes) 210.

——R. 2044 — Dismissal of railway servant set aside as being illegal by High Court in writ jurisdiction — No question of reinstatement arises — Deduction from wages made under Rule by authority under Payment of Wages Act (1936) is illegal — Payment of Wages Act (1936), Sections 7 (2) (h) and 15.

Rule 2044 which governs cases of reinstatement of railway servants who have been dismissed, removed or suspended, applies only to consequential orders of reinstatement which are passed by the competent administrative authority. It has no application to cases where orders of dismissal or removal from service are declared by a decree of the Civil Court to be illegal and inoperative or quashed in proceedings under Article 226. AIR 1958 Punjab 155; AIR 1963 All 123, Rel. on.

Thus where the order of dismissal from service is quashed by High Court in writ jurisdiction on the ground that employee has not been afforded reasonable opportunity of defending himself, there can be no question of reinstating the employee as the position is that as if he has never been removed from service and he is all along on duty. In such circumstances an order purporting to be under Rule 2044 by the authority under Payment of Wages Act (1936) requiring deduction to be made from the servant's wages in contrary to the provisions of Payment of Wages Act (1936). 1968 MPWR 745: (1964) MPLJ (Notes) 210.

——R. 2044 — Respondent, driver in service of railway administration — Respondent put under suspension for 8 years — Thereafter respondent informed that he could join duty — Immediately thereafter respondent served with order of termination of service — Emoluments during period of suspension not restored — Order held was of penal character and attracted Article 311 (2). See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1964 Mad 243 (DB).

——R. 2044 (F. R. 54) and S. III, Appendix XXXI — Criminal proceedings against employee — Suspension — Employee acquitted on benefit of doubt — He is not entitled to full wages during period of suspension.

Section III, Appendix XXXI, Indian Railway Establishment Code, Vol. II, merely lays down that an adjustment of the allowances of a railway servant against whom proceedings have been taken on a criminal charge for the period of suspension should thereafter be made according to the cricumstances of the case, the full amount being given only in the event of the officer having been acquitted of blame. This provision when it talks of the contingency being only when he is acquitted of blame, contemplates virtually the same situation as sub-rule (2) of Rule 2044 (FR 54), Indian Railway Establishment Code, Vol. 2, does the difference in phraseology notwithstanding; and unless he is fully exonerated it is not permissible to hold that he has been acquitted of blame. The purpose, motive and object of the two provisions can on no principle or precedent be held to be different for the standards of blame-worthiness for Government employees must from the very nature of things be higher than that of securing conviction on a criminal charge in criminal Courts as adopted by our jurisprudence. Acquittal by giving benefit of doubt thus does not by itself or ipso facto amount to acquittal of blame. (1963-64) 25 FJR 219: ILR (1963) 2 Punj 121: (1964) 1 Lab LJ 665.

——R. 2044 — Claim for wages for period of suspension, after reinstatement — Servant entitled to full wages and not merely subsistence allowance. See Payment of Wages Act (1936), Section 15. (1961-62) 21 FJR 426 (Punj).

——R. 2044 — Applicability — Reinstatement of employee by decree of Civil Court.

Rule 2044 is clearly intended to be applicable in cases where the employee who has been dismissed, removed or suspended is reinstated by some Railway Officer acting as a revising or appellate authority. It would not be applicable in a case where an employee removed from service by the order of the Railway Officer is restored to service by a decree of a Civil Court declaring his removal to be illegal and inoperative. AIR 1954 SC 245; 1954 SCJ 300, Rel. on 60 Punj LR 227: AIR 1958 Punj 155 (159) (Pt B) (Pr 15).

——R. 2044 — Applicability — Prosecution for offence connected with office duty.

Though the rule itself says nothing as to whether it applies to reinstatement after the departmental proceedings only or also to reinstatement after a criminal prosecution resulting in an acquittal, certain instructions issued by the Government of India say that the Rule applies to departmental punishment and not to cases of punishment by a Court of law for an alleged offence which has nothing to do with his official duties. Therefore, where the prosecution is for an offence which is connected with official duties, there seems to be nothing in these instructions which debar the application of Rule 2044. 1959 Raj LW 670: ILR (1958) 8 Raj 1129: AIR 1959 Raj 55 (57) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

——R. 2044 — Order under, directing deduction of wages falls within Section 7 (2) (h) of Payment of Wages Act — (Constitution of India, Articles 309 and 372). See Payment of Wages Act (1936), Section 7 (2) (h). AIR 1956 Raj 145 (DB).

——R. 2044 — Order under, when to be passed.

Where a person is reinstated on account of procedural defect, and is again proceeded against departmentally on the same charges after removing the defect, the order under Rule 2044 has to be passed after the second proceeding is over. 1956 Raj LW 288: ILR (1956) 6 Raj 889: AIR 1956 Raj 145 (152) (Pt G) (Pr 39) (DB).

——R. 2044 — Payment of Wages Act (1936), Section 15 (2), Second proviso — Applicability — Sufficient cause. See Payment of Wages Act (1936), Section 15 (2), Proviso. AIR 1956 Raj 145 (DB).

RULE 2046

●——R. 2046 (2) (a) — Constitution of India, Article 311 (2) — Compulsory retirement — Interpretation — "Should ordinarily be retained" — Meaning of "ordinarily" — Right of servant to be retained in service after age of 55 years — Authority is not bound to retain servant in service up to 60 years even if he continues to be efficient. See Constitution of India, Article 311 (2). AIR 1961 SC 1346.

——R. 2046 — Ministerial servant of Railway — Has no right to remain in service upto age of 60

— He can be retired from service between 55 and 60 years — (Fundamental Rules, Rule 56 (b) (1)). 1959 All LJ 154: (1959) 2 Lab LJ 161: AIR 1959 All 434 (436) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 11) (DB).

——R. 2046 (2) (a) — Compulsory retirement — Railway authorities have an unfettered option to retire a person at the age of 55 — Word "ordinarily" in Rule 2046 (2) (a) does not take away their right to retire him. See Constitution of India, Article 310. AIR 1953 All 352 (DB).

——R. 2046 (2) (a) — Scope — (Constitution of India, Article 226 — Discretion of High Court).

What the Rule means is that continuance of efficiency is in all cases an essential condition for retention in service after the attainment of the age of fifty-five years. But the Rule does not require the authorities imperatively to retain him, but only says that 'ordinarily' ministerial servants in such position should be retained in service upto the age of sixty years. The rule thus does not give to all ministerial servants, who have attained the age of fifty-five years and retained efficiency, an unqualified right to be retained in service upto their sixtieth year, but only makes them eligible for retention and only gives a direction to the authorities that they should ordinarily be retained. Whether in a particular case a ministerial servant will or will not be retained is a matter entirely for the authorities concerned and into the reasons for their decision the High Court will not enquire particularly on an application under Article 226. (1958) 62 Cal WN 765: AIR 1958 Cal 657 (659) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

——R. 2046 — President's interpretation of rule — Finality of.

The Code itself provides by Rule 2002 that the power of interpreting the rules contained in it shall be in the President. If it falls to a Court to give its independent opinion as to the proper construction of the rule, it will not be bound by the President's interpretation, but there is another point of view. The rules contained in Railway Establishment Code are the conditions of service which the Railway servants accept when they take up employment under the Railways and which thus govern and control their rights. If those rules contain an interpretation clause and such clause provides that the rules shall be taken to mean what the President may interpret their meaning to be, it would seem to follow that it is one of the conditions of service of Railway servants that they shall accept the President's interpretation of the rules and that what they are really governed by are not the rules as such, but the rules as interpreted by the President. If so, the Courts may, in a question between a Railway servant and the employer Railway, properly give effect to the President's interpretation of the rules as a matter of agreement between the parties. (1958) 62 Cal WN 765: AIR 1958 Cal 657 (660) (Pt E) (Pr 17) (DB).

——R. 2046 (2) (a) — Railway employee in ministerial service — Right to continue in service after age of 55. See Constitution of India, Article 311. AIR 1956 Cal 93.

——R. 2046 — Order of reduction passed prior to enforcement of Constitution — Power of High Court to issue writ cannot be invoked — Petitioner made to retire on attaining age of superannuation — Petitioner has no vested right to continue service further even though he be efficient — C. T. M. living in Bombay — No writ could be issued to him. See Constitution of India, Article 226. 1963 MPLJ (Notes) 192.

——R. 2046 (4) — Applicability — Employee officiating in Class I service — Suspension on charge of misconduct made by General Manager — Validity — Rule 2046 (4) — Charge of misconduct by competent authority after retirement of employee — Effect.

In the case of an employee officiating in the senior scale class I service, the General Manager has nothing to do with the departmental inquiry in respect of such employee, and, therefore, he cannot issue a charge-sheet against the employee. The inquiry is the responsibility of the Railway Board and it is the Board who can, therefore, issue a charge-sheet. If on the date of superannuation or retirement, such employee is under suspension on a charge of misconduct made by the General Manager, Departmental proceedings cannot continue against him, the charge being incompetent and void. (1961) 1 Lab LJ 51: 65 Cal WN 90.

——R. 2046 (2) (a) — 'Ordinarily be retained in service' — Meaning — (Words and Phrases — 'Ordinary').

In common parlance 'ordinarily' means in a large majority of cases. The expression is never used in reference to a case to which there are no exceptions. The import of 'ordinarily' in Rule 2046 is that the Railway authorities are given the right to retire a ministerial servant at the age of 55, and if he is so compulsorily retired he can have no grievance, for he has no right to continue in service after the age of 55. He will be retained in most cases provided he is efficient but he cannot claim to be retained as a matter of right. 56 Punj LR 392: (1955) 1 Lab LJ 408: ILR (1955) Punj 382: AIR 1954 Punj 245 (246) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——R. 2046 — Removal — Compulsory retirement under Rule 2046 does not amount to removal or dismissal. See Constitution of India, Article 311. AIR 1954 Punj 245.

——R. 2046 — Scope — If conflicts with Rule 148.

Rule 2046 gives the general rule of termination of service on superannuation. Such termination of service would not amount to removal or dismissal within meaning of Article 311 of Constitution. Rule 148 is a sort of proviso to Rule 2046, and applies in exceptional cases where it may be thought desirable in the interest of public service to terminate the service of a public servant before he reaches the age of superannuation by notice. Therefore, Rule 148, cannot be said to be invalid on ground that it is in conflict with Rule 2046. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 148. AIR 1958 Raj 250 (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1964 SC 600.]

RULE 2202

——R. 2202 and Appendices 37 and 38 — Letter No. E 49 CPC/286, dated 11th May, 1949 issued by Ministry of Railway (Railway Board) — Interpretation of — Deputy General Manager has not been authorised to hold tests for crossing efficient bar. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 101-A. AIR 1955 Cal 385 (DB).

APPENDIX II

——App. II — Different rules for promotion of Station Masters and Guards — Article 16 (1) of Constitution not contravened. See Constitution of India, Article 16 (1). AIR 1960 SC 384.

APPENDIX II-A

——Appendix II-A — Non-selection posts — Promotion — Position as to — (Master and Servant) — (Public servant — Promotion).

The position regarding the promotion of incumbents in non-selection posts of the Eastern Railway is that promotion is to be by order of seniority and not in order of merit. But this does not mean that a candidate who is the seniormost must be promoted if he is quite unsuitable for filling the higher post. For ascertaining suitability it is not open to the authorities to prescribe a general qualifying examination. In the first instance, the authorities must have recourse to the service records for ascertaining suitability. But mere recourse to service records may be insufficient, and some kind of test has to be made to find out as to who is the more suitable one. To hold that the authorities are precluded even from making such tests will be going to extremes and will certainly impair the efficiency of railway administration. The view that in non-selection posts, all candidates may be asked to sit at a general examination and qualify. themselves is not correct. 60 Cal WN 295: AIR 1956 Cal 465 (467) (Prs 7, 8).

APPENDIX X

——Appendix X, Preamble, para. 2 — General Manager's power of delegation is to restrict to financial matters only — This power includes power to lift efficiency bar.

Under the second paragraph of the preamble to Appendix X the General Manager is authorised to delegate his special power relating to sanctioning of expenditure only and not his general powers. As the power of lifting the efficiency bar throws a financial burden on the Railway it is a matter relating to sanctioning of expenditure and as such it can be delegated by the General Manager under Appendix X of Vol. II of the Indian Railway General Code. ILR (1951) 1 Cal 447: 59 Cal WN 812: AIR 1955 Cal 385 (387, 390) (Pt C) (Prs 6, 12) (DB).

APPENDIX XI-A

——Appendix XI-A, Rules 10, 156 and 157 — Contravention.

It was in exercise of the powers under Rules 156 and 157 and Rule 10 in Appendix II-A that the General Manager South Indian Railway issued Circular No. 343, D/. 11-8-1949. The General Manager was specified by the statutory rules as the authority competent to frame rules to determine seniority. It was the same authority that authorised the issue of the order dated 25th April, 1952, addressed on behalf of the Commercial Operating Superintendents in charge of districts. One of the results of order dated 25-4-1952 was that the petitioner among others dropped from Rs. 64-4-170 scale of pay to Rs. 60-4-150.

Held, that the order, dated 25th April, 1952, obviously conflicted with the requirements of Rule 2 of Circular 343. The conflict between the Rule and the Order dated 25th April, 1952, could not obviously be resolved on any assumption that the order could proprio vigore operate as a rule framed by a competent authority: AIR 1955 Mad 305 (FB), Ref. AIR 1958 Mad 243 (244) (Pt C) (Prs 2, 4).

APPENDIX XIII

——App. XIII — Rules under — Rules have statutory force — Non-compliance therewith renders order ultra vires Government of India Act (1935), Section 241 (2). AIR 1965 Cal 389 (391) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

APPENDIX XIII, PART B, RULE 1

——App. XIII, Part B, R. 1 — Right of State servants to form Unions — Constitutes fundamental right subject to Art. 19 (4) — Recognition or withdrawal of recognition to Unions — Nature of the right stated. See Constitution of India, Article 19 (1) (c). AIR 1965 Cal 389.

——App. XIII, Part B, R. 1 — 'Due cause' — Administrative determination of, by Government — Court cannot revise it under Article 226 of the Constitution. AIR 1965 Cal 389 (393) (Pt D) (Pr 20).

——App. XIII, Part B, Rr. 1, 3 — Due cause — List in Rule 3 is illustrative and not exhaustive.

The contention that an exhaustive enumeration of 'due causes' is given in Rule 3 of Part B and that in order to be a 'due cause' for withdrawal of recognition under Rule 1, the cause must be one of those enumerated in Rule 3, or, at least analogous to them is not correct. Rule 3 enumerates the conditions on the fulfilment of which only recognition will be 'ordinarily' granted or continued. The word 'ordinarily' makes it clear that the provision is enabling and illustrative, not exhaustive or obligatory. AIR 1965 Cal 389 (393) (Pt E) (Pr 20).

——App. XIII, Part B, R. 1 — Exercise of statutory powers — When can be declared ultra vires — Cause which is non-existent — Cannot reasonably be 'due cause' within Rule 1. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1965 Cal 389.

——App. XIII, Part B, R. 1 — Withdrawal of recognition of Union — Opportunity to show cause means reasonable opportunity — Colourable compliance with Rule 1 — Vitiates order of withdrawal. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1965 Cal 389.

APPENDIX XIII, PART B, RULE 3

——Appendix XIII, Part B, R. 3 — Due cause — List in Rule 3 is illustrative and not exhaustive. See Railway Establishment Code, App. XIII, Part B, Rule 1. AIR 1965 Cal 389.

APPENDIX XX

——Appendix XX — Circular No. AE 721, dated 31st October, 1951, issued by General Manager — Clause 8, Schedule A, item 12 — Applicability — If case comes under item 12, Clause 8 of Schedule has no application. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 105. AIR 1955 Cal 385 (DB).

APPENDIX XXIV

——Appendix XXIV, Form No. 1 — Implied compliance — Appointment by letter — Form not signed — Agreement held effected — Article 311 of the Constitution or Disciplinary and Appeal Rules held not applicable. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 143. (1957) 59 Bom LR 1210.

——Appendix XXIV Form No. 1, Vol. 2, R. 2003, Item 24 — Suit by railway servant against Union of India for arrears of salary — Plaintiff claiming that he was entitled to draw salary on basis of old scales — Amount claimed representing difference between old scale and new scale — Held, as the plaintiff must be deemed to have been placed in old scales, he was entitled to draw pay in that scale — On authority of AIR 1954 SC 245; the suit so far as relief of arrears of salary was concerned was maintainable. See Constitution of India, Article 300. AIR 1961 Punj 329.

APPENDIX XXXI

——Appendix XXXI, Section III (amended by Circular No. AE 3063/1, dated 13-6-1951) — If retrospective.

Section III as amended is not retrospective in operation and, therefore, it cannot affect an order for suspension made previously. ILR (1955) 1 Cal 456.

——Appendix XXXI, S. IV (2) — If retrospective.

Sub-rule (2) of Sec. IV (2) not retrospective in operation, and an order of suspension, already made, which was invalid and beyond the jurisdiction when it was made, cannot be taken to be an order passed under sub-rule (2) of S. 4, App. XXXI and thus validate the suspension order. ILR (1955) 1 Cal 456.

——Appendix XXXI, S. III (2) — Scope — Reinstatement after acquittal — Order of adjustment of allowance by Railway Officer — Authority under Section 15, Payment of Wages Act — Jurisdiction to reconsider — (Payment of Wages Act (1936), Sections 15 and 7 (2) (h)).

In the cases of the railway employees reinstated after their acquittal in criminal proceedings against them, Sec. III (2) gives an option to the competent railway officer to deal with each case on the merits according to the circumstances except that it lays down that the full salary or allowance should be given in a case where the railway servant is acquitted of blame. In using the words 'acquitted of blame' in Sec. III (1) of Appendix XXXI, the intention was not anything different from 'full exoneration' which is mentioned in Rule 2044 of the Code.

Where, therefore, the Court does not record honourable acquittal in the case of the employee it is open to the officer who had to make adjustment of wages to come to his own conclusion. When he comes to a certain conclusion and passes an order to the effect that no further amount would be paid to the person besides what had been allowed already under Rule 2043, that order having been made under Section III (1) of Appendix XXXI by a competent Officer, is an order of the competent authority directing deductions to be made from the wages and would be in accordance with Section 7 (2) (h) of the Payment of Wages Act. Once such order exists, it is not open to the authority under the Act to go against that order under Section 15 of the Act. AIR 1957 All 363 and AIR 1956 Raj 145, Rel. on; AIR 1957 Punj 130, Not foll. ILR (1958) 8 Raj 1129: 1959 Raj LW 670: AIR 1959 Raj 55 (57, 58) (Pt C) (Prs 12, 14) (DB).

——Appendix XXXI, Section III — 'Acquitted of blame' — Meaning of — Duty of officer making adjustment.

The words 'acquitted of blame' cannot mean the same thing as the word 'acquitted'. (1) The Court may say that it is acquitting the man honourably having found that the case against him is false. In such a case the man is acquitted of blame by the Court itself and it is the duty of the officer making adjustment to allow him the full amount of his salary and allowances. (2) There may be a case where the Court says that it is only giving the benefit of the doubt to the accused. In such a case when the officer, who has to make adjustment comes to the conclusion that the man has not been acquitted of blame, his view can admit no doubt. (3) The Court may neither say that the case against him is false, nor does it say that the man has been acquitted on the ground of benefit of the doubt. In such a case again it is for the officer making the adjustment to read the judgment and come to his own conclusion whether it is a case of honourable acquittal or acquittal of blame or not. 1959 Raj LW 670: ILR (1958) 8 Raj 1129: AIR 1959 Raj 55 (57) (Pt D) (Prs 12, 13) (DB).

——Appendix XXXI, Sec. III — Order of adjustment — When can be passed.

There is nothing in Sec. III, paragraph 1 of Appendix XXXI, which says that the order as to salary and allowances must be passed at the time of reinstatement and that if it is not passed simultaneously with the order of reinstatement it cannot be passed afterwards. Nor is there any just reason why, if for example the order was not passed by oversight at the time the reinstatement was made it should not be passed later even on the application of the employee for payment of full wages. ILR (1958) 8 Raj 1129: 1959 Raj LW 670: AIR 1959 Raj 55 (58) (Pt E) (Pr 16) (DB).

APPENDIX XXXVII

——Appendix XXXVII — Letter No. E 48 CPC/288, dated 11-5-1949 issued by Ministry of Railway (Railway Board) — Interpretation of — Deputy General Manager has not been authorised to hold tests for crossing efficiency bar. See Railway Establishment Code, Vol. 1, Rule 101-A. AIR 1955 Cal 385 (DB).

APPENDIX XXXVIII

——App. XXXVIII — Letter No. E 48 CPC/288, dated 11-5-1949 issued by Ministry of Railway (Railway Board) — Interpretation of — Deputy General Manager has not been authorised to hold tests for crossing efficiency bar. See Railway Establishment Code, Vol. 1, Rule 101-A. AIR 1955 Cal 385 (DB).

SCHEDULE 2, ITEM 2

——Sch. II, Item 2 — Effect of — Power to sanction increment next above the efficiency bar in respect of Railway Services Class II, vests in the General Manager. See Railway Establishment Code, Vol. 1, Rule 1728. AIR 1955 Cal 385 (DB).

SCHEDULE 2, ITEM 3

——Sch. II, Item 3 — Effect of — Power to sanction increment next above the efficiency bar in respect of Railway Services Class II, vests in the General Manager. See Railway Establishment Code, Rule 1728. AIR 1955 Cal 385 (DB).

RAILWAY FUNDAMENTAL RULES

RULE 2044

——R. 2044 — Constitution of India, Arts. 310, 311 (2) — Scope — Article 311 (2) is mandatory — Article 311 (2), Proviso (a) — Scope — Dismissal of Railway servant on ground of his conviction on criminal charge — Conviction set aside by higher Court — Effect — Government servant reinstated — Suit for recovery of arrears of salary for period of purported dismissal lies — Rule 2044 if can be relied upon to withhold salary. See Constitution of India, Article 310. AIR 1961 Mad 488 (DB).

RAILWAY GENERAL RULES NO. 29 (1954)

RULE 10

——R. 10 — Validity — Rule conflicts with Section 55, Railways Act and is inoperative. See Railways Act (1890), S. 55. AIR 1965 Pat 49 (DB).

RAILWAY GOODS TARIFF GENERAL RULES

RULE 15

——Rr. 15, 22 — Consignment of coconut bags — Bags loaded by consignor and not by railway servants — Number of bags stated by consignor accepted to be correct for freight charge — No proof that particular number of bags were loaded — Administration is not responsible for loss. See Railway Goods Tariff General Rules, R. 22. AIR 1950 Nag 85 (DB).

RULE 22

——Rr. 22 and 15 — Consignment of cocount bags — Bags loaded by consignor and not by railway servants — Number of bags stated by consignor accepted to be correct for freight charge — No proof that particular number of bags were loaded — Administration is not responsible for loss.

According to R. 22, Railway Goods Tariff General Rules then in force coconuts were required to be loaded and unloaded by senders and consignees when in wagon loads. Where it was nowhere stated or proved by the plaintiff consignee that the bags were loaded by railway servants or that they had opportunity to verify the number of coconut bags and the wagon was placed at the service of the consignor and the number stated was accepted as correct for the purpose of charging freight and the receipt issued qualified the number by stating that the wagon was 'said to contain' 255 bags, it was no admission on the part of the railway that the wagon contained 255 bags. To such a case R. 15 applied, and the administration was not liable, if at the destination the wagon was found to contain less number of bags.

Same results would follow even if the rules were left out of account, the consignment being a wagon load and the receipt being a 'said to contain' receipt. 1950 Nag LJ 128: ILR (1950) Nag 212: AIR 1950 Nag 85 (87) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 11, 12) (DB).

RULE 29

——R. 29 (2) — Liabiilty of railway as that of bailee continues after transit even during 'free time" — Burden of proving that goods remained intact till expiry of free-time is on railway. See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1965 All 480.

RAILWAY PROTECTION FORCE

See Railway Protection Force Act (1957).

RAILWAY PROTECTION FORCE ACT (23 of 1957)

SECTION 4

——Ss. 4, 5, 11, 12 — Evidence Act (1872), S. 25 — Police Officer, who is — Amongst other powers, he must have power to investigate crime — Member of Railway Protection Force is not a police officer. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 25. (1962) 3 Guj LR 739.

SECTION 5

——Ss. 5, 11, 12 — Evidence Act (1872), S. 25 — Police Officer who is — Amongst other powers, he must have power to investigate crime — Member of Railway Protection Force is not a police officer. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 25. (1962) 3 Guj LR 739.

SECTION 11

——Ss. 11, 5, 12 — Evidence Act (1872), S. 25 — Police Officer, who is — Amongst other powers he must have power to investigate crime — Member of Railway Protection Force is not a police officer. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 25. (1962) 2 Guj LR 739.

SECTION 12

——Ss. 12, 5, 11 — Evidence Act (1872), S. 25 — Police Officer who is — Amongst other powers, he must have power to investigate crime — Member of Railway Protection Force is not a police officer. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 25. (1962) 3 Guj LR 739.

RAILWAY RECEIPT

See (1) Contract Act (1872), S. 178.
(2) Railways Act (1890), S. 72-A (Old).

RAILWAY RULES REGULATING DISMISSAL OF SERVANTS

——Master and Servant — Dismissal of servant — Railway servant — Conviction for Criminal Offence — Dismissal — Conviction set aside on appeal — Re-employment cannot be claimed. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 1793.

RAILWAYS ACT (9 of 1890)

SECTION 3

SYNOPSIS

(Railways Act (1890), S. 3.)

1. Cl. (4) — Railway.
2. Cl. (6) — Railway Administration.
3. Cl. (7) — Railway servant.
4. Cl. (14) — Terminals.

1. Cl. (4) — Railway.

——S. 3 (4) — Railway employed in clearing city's refuse does not come within the definition as contemplated by Cl. 2 of Sch. II of Workmen's Compensation Act — Further 'railway' does not include railway wagons. See Workmen's Compensation Act (1923), S. 2 (1) (3). AIR 1955 Cal 307 (DB).

——S. 3 (4) (a) and (b) — 'Railway' — Definition of — Office of overseer engaged in construction work on railway — Included in definition.

The definition of the expression 'Railway' is very wide and any land within the limits of the boundary marks of a Railway and any office or other work constructed for the purpose of or in connection with the railway is also included in the wide definition of the word 'Railway'. The offices of the overseer and other persons engaged in construction work on the railway come within the definition of 'Railway'. AIR 1927 All 646 and AIR 1941 Mad 196, Distinguished. 1963 (1) Cri LJ 211: 28 Cut LT 508: AIR 1963 Orissa 20 (21) (Pr 5).

——S. 3 (4) — Applicability of Orissa House Rent Control Order, 1943, to godowns built by licencees on railway lands.

Godowns built by licencees from Railway on railway lands for storing goods intended to be transported by railway cannot be brought in the municipal area and subjected to municipal laws. A municipality cannot claim to levy tax on Railway Administration in view of Section 135 of the Railways (Local Authorities Taxation) Act. It necessarily follows that the Orissa House Rent Control Order can have no application to such structures built on railway lands. See Houses and Rents — Orissa House Rent Control Order (1943). AIR 1955 NUC (Orissa) 5693 (DB).

——S. 3 (2) and (4) — 'Railway' includes 'Steamer' — 'Jetty' is a ferry but jetty uncoupled with steamer is not part of steamer— Deceased standing on jetty to enboard steamer is a passenger but is not a passenger of steamer carrying passengers within the meaning of Section 82-A of the Act — Steamer of defendants dashing against jetty and drowned — Defendants are not entitled to compensation under S. 82-A — Case, however, recommended on humanitarian grounds. See Railways Act (1890), S. 82-A. AIR 1962 Pat 109.

2. Cl. (6) — Railway Administration.

——S. 3 (6) — Suit for compensation for loss of consignment carried by two railway administrations owned by Union of India — Suit against Union of India — Notices of claim under S. 77, Railways Act and S. 80, C. P. C. given to both railways — Suit is against both railways represented by Union of India — Burden of proving place where loss occurred is not on plaintiff. See Railways Act (1890), S. 80. AIR 1965 All 122.

——S. 3 (6) — Railway administration — Manager of railway — Position of, in view of definition of railway administration in Railways Act is equated to the Government. He satisfies the definition of Managing Agent given in Workmen's Compensation Act. See Workmen's Compensation Act (1923), S. 2 (f). AIR 1960 All 362 (DB).

——S. 3 (6) — Administration— Claim based on contractual obligations — Liability for.

Though the contract in suit was entered into within the territories which were subsequently included in the Dominion of Pakistan it fell under Cl. (b) of Para 8 (1) of the Indian Independence (Rights, Property and Liabilities) Order 1947, and the rights and liabilities arising out of it should be the rights and liabilities of the Union of India. AIR 1952 Assam 88 and AIR 1952 Cal 140, Rel. on. See Indian Independence (Rights, Property and Liabilities) Order (1947), Para 8 (1). AIR 1955 NUC (All) 2668 (DB).

——S. 3 (6) — Suit against Railway and Union of India for short delivery of goods — Service of summons on General Manager of Railway is due service as he is the authority to receive summons on behalf of both the defendants. See Limitation Act (1908), Art. 164. AIR 1955 NUC (Assam) 4180.

● ——Ss. 3 (6) and 80 — Suit against Government owning railway administration — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 79).

In a case where the railway is administered by a Government or State, a suit under S. 80 can be brought against the Government or the State concerned. Thus, where, the railway administration to which the goods were consigned and the railway administration on which the loss occurred were both owned by the same Government or State, a suit can be brought against the State Government which owns both the railways. But the plaint must, on the face of it, state the cause of action as to how and in what capacity the State is sought to be made liable — whether as owner of the railway to which the goods were consigned. It is not necessary that the Railway Administration, as such through the Manager or anybody else, should be impleaded as a party defendant to the suit. ILR (1953) Assam 326 : AIR 1953 Assam 193 (194, 195, 197, 198) (Pt D) (Prs 9, 12, 15, 17) (FB).

——Ss. 3 (6) and 77 — 'Manager' — Who is.

The Officer designated as the General Manager is the Manager within the meaning of Sections 3 (6) and 77. 55 CWN 662 and AIR 1952 Cal 341, Foll. (1957) 61 Cal WN 433.

——Ss. 3 (6) and 77 — 'Manager' — Chief Commercial Manager authorised by Manager to receive claims — Service on Chief Commercial Manager — Sufficiency.

The requirements of S. 77 read with S. 3 (6) are satisfied if the claim is preferred in writing within the time prescribed either to the Manager of the East Indian Railway Administration or to the Union of India, who owns and administers the railways or to any person authorised by the manager to receive the claim on his behalf. It need not be thrust into the hands of the Manager personally. Having regard to the Notification published in the Amrit Bazar Patrika, dated 25th November, 1943, which had been issued by the General Manager, East India Railway, it must be held that the Manager duly authorised the Chief Commercial Manager to receive the claims preferred under Section 77, and that a claim preferred to the Chief Commercial Manager, is a claim duly preferred under Section 77. (1957) 61 Cal WN 433: ILR (1957) 3 Cal 426.

——Ss. 3 (6), 77 and 140 — 'Railway administration' — Service of notice of claim on Government administering railways.

To effect a claim on the railway administration under S. 77, the claim need not be served on the Manager, it may be served on the Government administering the railways, for by Section 3 (6) the Railway Administration includes the Government. ILR 44 Cal 16, Rel. on. (1957) 61 Cal WN 433: ILR (1957) 3 Cal 426.

● ——Ss. 3 (6), 80 — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 79 — Suit against Railway Administration must be instituted against Union of India — The words Railway Administration comprehend not only such things as they signify according to their natural import but also those things which the definition clause Section 3 (6) declares that they shall include — Words include the Government also — AIR 1950 Nag 85, Dissented from; AIR 1924 Bom 306; AIR 1928 Bom 421; AIR 1931 Pat 326; AIR 1960 Ker 257 and AIR 1953 Assam 193, Rel. on. 1965 Ker LT 627: (1965) 1 Ker LR 449: ILR (1965) 2 Ker 112: 1965 Ker LJ 671: AIR 1965 Ker 277 (278) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (FB).

——S. 3 (6) — 'Railway Administration' — It includes competent officer. See Railways Act (1890), S. 77. 1958 MPLJ (Notes) 167.

——Ss. 3 (6), 80 — Suit against Dominion of India for damages in respect of goods carried by two railway administrations — Frame of — Railway Administrations whether should be impleaded — Inference from the provisions of Section 79 of the Civil Pro. Code is that a suit against Union of India without impleading the Railway Administration is permissible under the law — Section 80 of the Railways Act only provides for liability of the Railway and not for frame of suit. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 79. AIR 1957 Madh Pra 157 (DB).

——S. 3 (6) — Suit against Railway administered by Government — Summons or notice of suit may be served either on the Manager or the Government concerned — East Indian Railway — Govrnment concerned is the Central Government — Notice to be served on General Manager who is the person ex officio authorised to act for and on behalf of Central Government. See C. P. Code (1908). S. 79. AIR 1956 Pat 511 (DB).

3. Cl. (7) — Railway servant.

——Ss. 3 (7) and 137 — Railway servant — When a public servant generally — Penal Code (45 of 1860), S. 353 — Railway servant — How far public servant.

Before the amendment of Section 137 of the Railways Act in 1955, a Railway servant was deemed to be a public servant only for certain limited purposes. After the amendment in case of State-owned railways, all its servants would be Government servants generally by virtue of the State taking over the Railways. In case of employees under private agencies however they would be public servants only for the limited purposes specified in that behalf. (1964) 2 MLJ 477: 1964 MLJ (Cr) 645.

4. Cl. (14) — Terminals.

● ——Ss. 3 (14) and 46-C (d) and (h) — 'Terminals' include 'wharfage' and 'demurrage' charges.

"Wharfage" and "demurrage" being charges in respect of goods unloaded from wagons and kept at the station, and also in respect of goods kept on platforms of the station, the said charges could be described as charges in respect of the station and are terminals" within the meaning of the definition of the said expression in the Act. (Clause 14 of Section 3 omitted by Amendment Act (39 of 1961) w.e.f. 1st Jan. 1962). 66 Bom LR 315: (1964) 5 SCR 148: 1964 Mah LJ 426: 1964 MPLJ 777: (1964) 1 SCWR 248: AIR 1964 SC 1268 (1271) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

● ——Ss. 3 (14), 41 (1) (c) — Terminal charges — Levy of — Conditions — (Cl. 14 omitted by the Amendment Act 39 of 1961).

It is well settled that a limited interpretation has to be placed on words used by the legislature in spite of the generality of the language used where the literal interpretation in the general sense would be so unreasonable or absurd that the legislature should be presumed not to have intended same.

The words 'in respect of' in Section 3 (14) are wide enough to permit charges being made at terminals so long as any of these things, viz., stations, sidings, wharves, depots, warehouses cranes and other similar matters have been provided and are being maintained, and there is no reason to cut down the generality of the language used in the section. Therefore, the words 'in respect of' used in Section 3 (14) may be taken to mean 'for the provision of' and not 'for the user of'. Hence, irrespective of the fact of the actual user by any particular consignor of the stations, sidings and other things mentioned in Section 3 (14) 'terminal charges' are leviable by reason of the mere fact that these things have been provided by the Railway Administration.

Held, on facts that the charge of Rs. 4.11 at either end sought to be levied by the Railway Administration in addition to the charges for carriage was 'terminal charges' within the meaning of the Railways Act and the proposed levy being in accordance with Government Notification under Section 32 of the Act was nothing more than the application of standardized terminal charges. The Tribunal had, therefore, no jurisdiction to investigate the reasonableness or otherwise of the same and to reduce the same. Held, also on facts that even on the assumption made that on the definition of the terminals in Section 3 (14) no charges are payable unless certain services in addition to carriage are performed by the Railway Company, terminals were leviable in the present case for the haulage of trucks from the station platform to point A at the Shamli end and so there was no foundation for the argument that Rs. 4.11 being charged at the Shamli end was not really a terminal charge but some other charge in the garb of terminal. Shahdara (Delhi) Saharanpur Light Railway Company, Ltd. v. Upper Doab Sugar Mills, Ltd., (1961) 1 SCJ 377: (1960) 2 SCR 926: AIR 1960 SC 695 (700, 701, 702) (Pt B) (Prs 14, 19, 21).

——Ss. 3 (14) and 46-C (h) — Wharfage — Nature and purpose of — Legality — 'Terminals'.

The distinction between what are known as 'service terminals' and 'station terminals' is not observed in India but they are instead bracketed together in the definition of terminals in S. 3 (14) of the Act. Such charges are levied for services incidental to the business of the railway as a carrier. Over and above these, the Railway renders other services; for example where the Railway's wagons are detained or any accommodation is occupied, before or after carriage, for longer period than the time reasonably necessary for dealing with the traffic The charge levied after the expiry of the free time allowed for loading or unloading a wagon is known as demurrage: vide Section 46-C (d) of the Act. For the warehousing of goods for the convenience of the trader beyond the permissible free time the charge levied is wharfage; Cl. (h) in Section 46-C of the Act, defines wharfage.

'Terminals' is the charge levied for services incidental to the business of the Railway, while wharfage is the charge made for services rendered by it as the involuntary warehouseman of the trader or as a bailee and therefore falls outside the scope of terminals. That our legislature acknowledges this distinction is made manifest from the separate definitions of terminals and wharfage given respectively in Sections 3 (14) and 46-C (h) of the Act. The operation of the terminals ends with the expiry of the authorised free time, while wharfage comes into operation from the point the free time terminates. Any charge for wharfage over and above terminals does not fall beyond the ambit of the Act and is not illegal. AIR 1960 All 438 (441, 442) (Pt C) (Prs 8, 9, 10, 11, 12).

SECTION 7

——S. 7 — Railway company — Level crossing — Railway line crossing a thoroughfare — Railway is bound to give warning of approaching train — This duty need not be necessarily a statutory one — It is implied and inherent in the functions to be discharged by the Railway Administration in the matter of running their railways — Failure to do so amounts to negligence on its part. See Tort — Negligence. AIR 1963 Assam 117 (DB).

——S. 7 — Level crossing in shunting area — Railway line crossing busy road — In-coming train not visible — Railway is bound to give warning of approaching train — Accident to a truck — Question of contributory negligence on part of lorry driver. See Tort. AIR 1965 Pat 167 (DB).

——S. 7 — Railway — Level-Crossing is a public crossing and not merely one by private accommodation — It is the legal duty of the Railway to assure its reasonable safety — Railway's liability — Negligence of driver of engine — (Guiding principles for maintaining level-crossing indicated). See Tort — Negligence. AIR 1954 Vind Pra 17.

SECTION 13

——S. 13 — Public level-crossing — Duty to take care.

Although Section 13 (c) provides that the Central Government may require a railway administration to erect suitable gates, chains, bars, stiles or handrails at places where a railway crosses a public road on the level, the statutory duty of the railway administration does not arise, till the Central Government requires it to do so. The degree of care required where there is no statutory duty cast upon the railway administration to erect a gate or to post a gateman at the level crossing would certainly be more at a public level crossing than that required at accommodation crossings. It may be necessary in some cases to erect a gate even at an accommodation crossing, if the rush of traffic be heavy. On the other hand, if the traffic be insignficant or negligible, it may not be necessary to erect a gate and post a gateman even at a public level crossing. The question of erecting a gate would depend on the situation of the crossing, visibility of the rail track from the road, any sharp turns or curves and the extent of the road traffic, etc. In the absence of evidence on these points, the Court cannot hold that the failure of the railway administration to erect a gate and post a gateman amounted to an actionable negligence by itself. 1959 MPC 3: 1959 Jab LJ 112: 1959 MPLJ 289: AIR 1959 Madh Pra 128 (131) (Prs 19, 20, 22) (DB).

——S. 13 — Duty of Railway to put up gates at railway crossings.

Section 13 does not make it obligatory upon the railway administration to put up gates upon a railway crossing, unless such demand is made by the Central Government. There would be a breach of the duty imposed by this section only if a demand has been made by the Central Government. In the absence of an order from them the railway administration is not under any duty to put up a gate at least so far as the provisions in the Indian Railways Act are concerned. 1957 MPC 492: 1957 MPLJ 617: 1957 Jab LJ 939: ILR (1957) Madh Pra 348: AIR 1958 MP 93 (95, 96) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 13) (DB).

——S. 13 (a), (c) — Railway line running through residential locality — Duty of Railway to fence — Child trespassing upon railway line and getting injured by running train — Liability of railway — Railway Act does not impose any imperative obligation on Railway to fence a line but Section 13 (a) of the Act gives power to the Central Government to require the Railway to provide fences — Railway could not be held guilty of negligence for failure to provide fences — Duty of owner or occupier of land adjoining the railway line owes no obligation or duty to a trespasser — No difference between an adult and a child trespasser. See Tort — Negligence. AIR 1958 Punj 246 (DB).

SECTION 26

——Ss. 26, 34 and 41 (as in 1955) — Scope — Civil suit for refund of wharfage and demurrage charges collected by railway challenging the vires of rules empowering the railway to collect such amounts and alleging excess realization than legally leviable under rules Section 26 is no bar — Tribunal can decide only reasonableness of charges — It cannot decide vires of the rules empowering railways to collect such amount.

Section 26 of the Railways Act which ousts the jurisdiction of the civil Courts has to be strictly construed. So construed it does not bar a civil suit for refund of the amount collected by the railway administration by way of wharfage or demurrage filed on the ground that the rules empowering the railway administration to do so are ultra vires or that the amounts so collected are in excess of wharfage or demurrage leviable under the rules. The opening words "Except as provided in this Act" in Section 26 limit the operation of the bar. It can reasonably be interpreted to mean that the bar of a suit is limited to matters in respect whereof the Act has provided a remedy. The Act does not provide any remedy for an aggrieved party to approach the Tribunal constituted under S. 34 for refund of such amount on the ground that the rules empowering the said administration to do so are ultra vires or that the amounts so collected are in excess of wharfage or demurrage leviable under the rules. If the impugned charges are standardised terminal charges, the dispute in regard thereto falls outside Section 41 of the Act. If they are charges other than the standardised terminal charges, the jurisdiction of the Tribunal is confined only to the question of its reasonableness. It has no jurisdiction to decide whether the rules empowering the railway administration to levy a particular charge are ultra vires or whether the railway administration collected amounts in excess of the charges which it can legally levy under a rule. Civil Revn. Applns. Nos. 46, 49, 55, 57, 58 and 59 of 1958, D/- 25-2-1958 (Bom), Reversed. 66 Bom LR 315: (1964) 5 SCR 148: 1964 Mah LJ 426: 1964 MPLJ 777: (1964) 1 SCWR 248: AIR 1964 SC 1268 (1270, 1271) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 9).

——S. 26 — Scope — Suit for refund of charges made in excess of reasonable charges — Suit not barred under S. 26.

There is no provision in Chapter V saying that unreasonable charges shall not be made by a Railway Administration. If therefore any Railway Administration has received payment of unreasonable charges or rates that is not 'anything done in violation or contravention of any provisions of Chapter V'. If under the law, apart from the Railways Act, a consignor is entitled to obtain relief against unreasonable charges which he has paid in the past, Section 26 will not stand in his way. (1963) SCD 303: (1963) 2 SCR 333: AIR 1963 SC 217 (218) (Pt D) (Pr 4).

——S. 26 — Charging for longer route on a shorter route — Is in contravention of S. 29 (1) — Section 26 is an absolute bar to the maintainability of the suit to recover the excess fare charged by the Railway. See Railways Act (1890), S. 29 (1). AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 2877.

——S. 26 — Repeal of, Cls. 3, 4, 5 and 6 of the Cotton Textiles (Control of Movement) Order, 1948, do not operate as an implied repeal of Sections 27, 28 and 41 of the Railways Act These clauses are all Constitutional. See Cotton Textiles (Control of Movement) Order, 1948, Cl. 3. 1953 Cri LJ 481: AIR 1953 Nag 58 (DB).

SECTION 27

●——S. 27 — Validity of Cls. 3 and 4, Cotton Textile (Control of Movement) Order 1948 — — Do not override Sections 27, 28 and 41 of the Railways Act — Said clauses merely supplement the relevant provisions of the Railways Act and do not supersede them — Therefore the contention that these clauses operate as an implied repeal of Sections 27, 28 and 41 of the Railways Act is not well founded. See Cotton Textiles (Control of Movements), Order (1948), Cl. 3. 1954 Crl LJ 1322: AIR 1954 SC 465.

——S. 27 — Rights of citizen against Railway administration are not taken away by the Cotton Textile (Control of Movement) Order 1948 — If the Railway Administration does something in derogation of a citizen's rights under Sections 27 and 28, the citizen will be entitled to seek redress under Section 41 of the Act. See Cotton Textiles (Control of Movement) Order (1948), Cl. 3. 1953 Cr LJ 481: AIR 1953 Nag 58 (DB).

SECTION 27-A

——Ss. 27-A and 82-J — Rules for packing of goods — Delegation by Union Government — Validity (Ss. 72, 72-A and 74-A of the Railways Act (1890)).

The Union Government as the owner of the Railways, is empowered to make rules prescribing the manner of packing of goods entrusted to any Railway for carriage. But it cannot delegate its rule-making power to the Railway Conference Association and any rules made by the latter though with the authority of the Union Government cannot be said to be made by the Union Government. ILR (1965) 2 All 768.

SECTION 28

●——Ss. 28 and 41 — Undue preference — Burden of proof — (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101-104).

Whoever complains against the railway administration that the provisions of Section 28 have been contravened must establish that there has been preference between himself and his goods on the one hand and the competitor and his goods on the other; and where it appears to the Tribunal that such preference is 'undue' preference, the complainant would be entitled to adequate relief under Section 41 (1) (a) of the Act. Section 28 is obviously based on the principle that the power derived from the monopoly of railway carriage must be used in a fair and just manner in respect of all persons and all descriptions of traffic passing over the railway area. All cases of unequal rates cannot necessarily be treated as cases of preference attracting the provisions of Section 28. It is only when goods or persons can be said to be pari passu that a question of preference arises and so it is where the competition between two persons or classes of goods is either admitted or proved that the question of application of Section 28 would arise. It is only when the tribunal is satisfied that the railway has shown undue preference in favour of a particular class of goods that a complaint can be successfully entertained under Section 41 (1) (a). The initial burden to prove preference is on the complainant; but when the said burden is discharged by the proof of unequal rates as between the complainant and his competitor, it is for the railway administration to prove that the preference is not undue. In considering the question as to whether the alleged preference amounts to 'undue' preference or not, the tribunal may also be entitled to consider whether the lower charge levied by the administration in respect of the competing class of goods was necessary in the interest of the public. That is the result of the provisions of Section 41, sub-section (2) (i) and (ii). 1959 SCA 262: 1958 SCJ 720: (1958) 2 MLJ (SC) 86: (1958) Andh WR (SC) 86: 1959 SCR 236: AIR 1958 SC 525 (528, 529) (Pt B) (Prs 8, 9).

●——S. 28 — Validity of Cls. 3 and 4, Cotton Textiles (Control of Movement) Order, 1948 — Do not override Ss. 27, 28 and 41 of the Railways Act.

The Railways Act does not exclude the placing of a disability on a railway administration by the Government or any other authority. See Cotton Textiles (Control of Movements) Order, (1948), Cl. 3. 1954 Crl LJ 1322: AIR 1954 SC 465.

——S. 28 — Tribunal is not competent to grant relief in respect of period anterior to its final order.

Clearest indication on this point is to be found in the tense used in Section 41 (1) of the Act — Though railway administration might have contravened provisions of Section 28 or charged or levied unreasonable rates or charges during some period before complaint, yet if on the date of complaint they have ceased to do so, no complaint can be made under Section 41 (1). See Railways Act (1890), S. 41 (1) (a). AIR 1955 Mad 476 (DB).

——S. 28 — Repeal of.

Clauses 3, 4, 5 and 6 of Cotton Textiles (Control of Movement) Order 1948 do not operate as implied repeal of Sections 27, 28 and 41 of the Railways Act. See Cotton Textiles (Control and Movement) Order, 1948, Cl. 3. 1953 Crl LJ 481: AIR 1953 Nag 58 (DB).

——S. 28 — Rights of citizen against Railway Administration are not taken away by Cls. 3 to 6 of the Cotton Textiles (Control of Movement) Order, 1948 — There is nothing in the said order which takes away the citizen's right to obtain relief under Section 41 of the Railways Act where complaint is that the Railway Administration deprived him of his rights under Sections 27 and 28. See Cotton Textiles (Control of Movement) Order, 1948. Cl. 3. 1953 Crl LJ 481: AIR 1953 Nag 58 (DB).

——S. 28 — Disputed question of fact — Discretion of High Court to decide question — Question whether concession granted by railway in freight rates is discriminatory against petitioner is one of technical and complicated nature, necessitating an elaborate inquiry to decide it — High Court acting under Art. 226 not appropriate venue for deciding the question. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1961 Punj 268 (DB).

——S. 28 — Differential treatment not necessarily discriminatory — Fixation of differential freight rates by railway — Does not violate Article 14 — The Article does not prohibit differential treatment but guarantees equal treatment to all similarly circumstanced. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1961 Punj 268 (DB).

——S. 28 — Principle of equal treatment in Section 28 is same as is embodied in Art. 14 — Only difference between the two is that Article 14 of the Constitution is general in terms while Section 28 is specific in its application. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1961 Punj 268 (DB).

SECTION 29

——Ss. 29 (1), 26 — Charging for longer route on a shorter route — Contravention of S. 29 (1) — Bar of suit — (C. P. Code (1908), S. 9).

When the railway administration charges a person Rs. 2-12-0 as though he is travelling by the longer route and covers a distance of 131 miles though in fact he has not covered more than 108 miles, what the railway administration is in effect doing is to charge the person for 108 miles at a higher rate although according to the Railway they have charged him on basis of 131 miles. This is obviously equivalent to charging the person at a higher rate for the actual mileage covered by him. There is thus a contravention of the provisions of Section 29 (1) and Section 26 is an absolute bar to the maintainability of the suit to recover the excess fare so charged by the Railway. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 2877.

SECTION 34

● ——S. 34 (as in 1955) — Scope — Civil suit for refund of wharfage and demurrage charges collected by railway challenging the vires of rules empowering the railway to collect such amounts and alleging excess realization than legally leviable under rules — Section 26 is no bar — Tribunal can decide only reasonableness of charges — It cannot decide vires of the rules empowering railways to collect such amount — Civil Revn. Applns. Nos. 46, 49, 55, 57, 58 and 59 of 1958, D/- 25-2-1958 (Bom.). Reversed. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 26. AIR 1964 SC 1268.

——S. 34 — Disputed question of fact — Question whether concession granted by railway in freight rates is discriminatory against petitioner — High Court acting under Article 226 not appropriate venue for deciding question — Section 34 constitutes a Special Tribunal with power to follow a procedure which is appropriate and adequate for deciding such dispute. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1961 Punj 268 (DB).

SECTION 39

● ——Ss. 39 and 41 (1) (b) (c)— Scope —Words 'charging' and 'levying' were not used in the sense of "collecting" — Tribunal has no jurisdiction over complaints in connection with charges already made — It has no jurisdiction to order refund also — An order for refund can by no stretch of imagination be considered to be 'necessary for the purpose of exercising the jurisdiction' within the meaning of S. 39. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 41 (1) (b). AIR 1963 SC 217.

● ——S. 39 — Scope — Does not confer jurisdiction — But provides means for exercise of jurisdiction.

Section 39 does not confer any jurisdiction; but only provides for means for exercise, by the Tribunal of the jurisdiction which it has otherwise got under other sections. Upper Doab Sugar Mills, Ltd., Shamli (U. P.) v. Shahdara (Delhi) Saharanpur Light Railway Co., Ltd., Calcutta, (1963) SCD 303: (1963) 2 SCR 333: AIR 1963 SC 217 (221) (Pt C) (Pr 22).

——Ss. 39 and 41 — Scope of — Railway Rates Tribunal Rules — Discretion and Powers of Railway Rates Tribunal — Tribunal opining that it would be fair to grant concessional rates but granting relief only from date of order and not from date of complaint — Interference by writ of certiorari not justified as the discretion exercised cannot be said to be improperly exercised — Omission of Tribunal to decide issue as it was unnecessary does not amount to error rendering decision liable to be quashed — Constitution of India (1950), Art. 226. (1961) 2 Mad LJ 292: AIR 1962 Mad 218 (218) (Pr 1) (DB).

——Ss. 39 and 46-B (as amended by Act 56 of 1949) — Railway Rates Tribunal — Refund of excess freight — Jurisdiction to order.

The Railway Rates Tribunal has no jurisdiction to pass a decree in favour of the complainants for the refund of the excess charges or freight collected from them. AIR 1955 Mad 476, Rel. on. (1957) 2 Mad LJ 363: AIR 1958 Mad 471 (472) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——S. 39 — Date from which order of Tribunal operates — It can well become effective from the date of complaint — Fact that the Tribunal takes time to decide the question should not affect the complainant adversely — Final order of judgment relates back to date of filing of plaint or complaint. See Railways Act (1890), S. 41. AIR 1955 Mad 476 (DB).

——S. 39 — Powers of Tribunal.

Section 39 does not confer a power on the Tribunal to make an order for payment of compensation or damages or make an order of refund of overcharges. 68 Mad LW 341: (1956) 1 Mad LJ 395: AIR 1955 Mad 476 (480) (Pt C) (Pr 13) (DB).

SECTION 41

SYNOPSIS

(Railways Act (1890), S. 41).

1. Implied repeal.
2. Jurisdiction of Tribunal.
3. Reasonableness of charges.
4. Wagonload rate — Meaning of.
5. Bar of suit.

1. Implied repeal.

● ——S. 41 — Clauses 3 and 4, Cotton Textiles (Control of Movement) Order, 1948, do not override Sections 27, 28 and 41 of the Railways Act. See Cotton Textiles (Control of Movement) Order (1948), Cl. 3. 1954 Cri LJ 1322: AIR 1954 SC 465.

——S. 41 — Repeal of — Not repealed by Cls. 3, 4, 5 and 6 of Cotton Textiles (Control and Movement) Order 1948. See Cotton Textiles (Control of Movement) Order, 1948, Cl. 3. 1953 Cri LJ 481: AIR 1953 Nag 58 (DB).

——Ss. 41, 27 and 28—Rights of citizen against Railway Administration are not taken away by Cls. 3 to 6 of Cotton Textiles (Control of Movement) Order, 1948. See Cotton Textiles (Control of Movement) Order (1948), Cl. 3. AIR 1953 Nag 58 (DB).

2. Jurisdiction of Tribunal.

● ——Ss. 41 (1) (b) (c) and 39 — Scope — Words 'charging' and levying were not used in the sense of 'collecting' — Tribunal has no jurisdiction over complaints in connection with charges already made — It has no jurisdiction to order refund also.

The words 'charging a rate' in Cl. (b) were used by the legislature in its ordinary meaning of 'demanding a price'. The words 'charging' in Cl. (b) and 'levying' in Cl. (c) were used in the one and the same sense. However they were not used to include 'collecting'. The words 'is charging' in Cl. (b) and 'is levying' in Cl. (c) must be construed to mean 'is demanding a price at the present time for services to be rendered'. The Railway Rates Tribunal had no jurisdiction to entertain or try the complaints as regards the reasonableness or otherwise of rates and charges made prior to the institution of the complaint. It follows necessarily that it could have no occasion to order any refund. Even in respect of those charges and rates for which the Tribunal had jurisdiction to entertain a complaint the Tribunal had no power to order any refund. In making the complaint the complainant can ask only for a declaration that the rate or charge is unreasonable and it is only this declaratory relief which the Tribunal has been authorised to give. There is no provision that the Tribunal can also give a consequential relief. The only other thing which the Tribunal is authorised to do in connection with the complaint is to fix 'such rate or charge as it considers reasonable'. The Tribunal in making this order fixing the reasonable rate or charge will mention a future date for this to come into operation. Even if it was assumed for the sake of argument that the Tribunal can fix these rates from the date of the complaint that would not give the Tribunal any power to order refund. An order for refund can by no stretch of imagination be considered to be 'necessary for the purpose of exercising the jurisdiction' within the meaning of Section 39. Upper Doab Sugar Mills, Ltd., Shamli v. Shahdara (Delhi) Saharanpur Light Railway Co., Ltd., Calcutta. 1963 SCD 303: (1963) 2 SCR 333: AIR 1963 SC 217 (220, 221) (Pt A) (Prs 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21).

● ——S. 41 (1) (c) — Terminal charges —Levy of — Can be levied for provision of stations etc. — 'In respect of' — Meaning of — Words 'in respect of' in Section 3 (14) may be taken to mean 'for the provision of' and not 'for the user of' — Irrespective of the fact of actual user by any particular consignor of stations, wharves etc. terminal charges are payable by him simply by reason of the fact that these things have been provided by the Railway Administration See Railways Act (1890), S. 3 (14). AIR 1960 SC 695.

● ——Ss. 41, 28 — Undue preference — Burden of proof — (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101-104).

Whoever complains against the railway administration that the provisions of Section 28 have been contravened must establish that there has been preference between himself and his goods on the one hand and the competitor and his goods on the other; and where it appears to the Tribunal that such preference is undue, the complainant would be entitled to adequate relief under Section 41 (1) (a) of the Act. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 28. AIR 1958 SC 525.

——S. 41 — Railway Rates Tribunal — Grant of relief by — Relief may be granted from date subsequent to date of complaint. See Railways Act (1890), S. 39. AIR 1962 Mad 218 (DB).

——S. 41 (as amended by Act (56 of 1949) — Railway Rates Tribunal if can make order with retrospective effect.

Jurisdiction of the Tribunal under Section 41 is not limited to making an order to be operative from the date on which the order is made It has power to make an order capable of having effect or operation from before that date The order can become effective from a date anterior to the date of order, at any rate from the date of the complaint. AIR 1955 Mad 476 Rel. on. (1957) 2 Mad LJ 363: AIR 1958 Mad 471 (475) (Pt B) (Pr 12) (DB).

——S. 41 (as amended by Act 56 of 1949) — Order of Railway Rates Tribunal — Right to benefit under — Intervener — Railway Rates Tribunal Rules, R. 17 (1).

No distinction can be made between the original complainant and the intervener under Rule 17 (1). The order of the Tribunal would apply and have effect both as regards the actual complainant and any intervener. (1957) 2 Mad LJ 363: AIR 1958 Mad 471 (475) (Pt C) (Pr 12) (DB).

——S. 41 (1) (b) — Goods Tariff Rules, R. 82 (2) (ii) — Jurisdiction of Tribunal.

The Tribunal has, under Section 41 (1) (b), jurisdiction to determine the unreasonableness of the minimum charge condition levied under R. 82 (2) (ii) of the Goods Tariff Rules.

Though a wagon load rate is also a standardised charge, the reasonableness of this rate is within the jurisdiction of the Tribunal under Section 41 (1) (b). It is therefore, clear that the intention of the framers of the Act was not to exclude altogether from the jurisdiction of the Tribunal all disputes relating to the reasonableness of every component of a standardised rate or charge. ILR (1956) Mad 67: (1956) 1 MLJ 417: AIR 1955 Mad 513 (515) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 11) (DB).

——Ss. 41 (1) (a) and 28 — Competency of Tribunal to grant relief in respect of period anterior to its final order.

The competency of the Tribunal to make any declaration or grant any relief in respect of a period anterior to its final order has to be decided entirely on the implications of the language of the material provisions of the Railways Act. The clearest indication on this point is to be found in the tense used in Section 41 (1) of the Act. The injury contemplated is an injury subsisting on the date of the complaint. Hence, though the Railway Administration might have contravened the provisions of Section 28 or charged or levied unreasonable rates or charges during some period before the complaint, yet if on the date of the complaint they have ceased to do so, no complaint can be made under Section 41 (1). In this respect, the Tribunal's jurisdiction is much more narrow and restricted than the jurisdiction of an ordinary Court. 68 Mad LW 341: (1956) 1 Mad LJ 395: AIR 1955 Mad 476 (478) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Ss. 41 and 30 — Date from which order of Tribunal operates.

The order of the Tribunal cannot only operate in future, that is, from and after the date of the order. The order of the Tribunal can well become effective from the date of the complaint. The finding of the Tribunal, if it is in favour of the complainant, would mean that the complainant was entitled to relief on the day on which he made the complaint. The fact that for reasons beyond the complainant's control, the Tribunal takes time to hear and decide the complaint and pass final orders thereon, should not adversely affect him. Thus, the general rule, that the final order of judgment, in a case should relate back to the date of the filing of the plaint or complaint, will apply. (1956) 1 Mad LJ 395: 68 Mad LW 341: AIR 1955 Mad 476 (478) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

3. Reasonableness of charges.

● ——S. 41 — Burden of proof — Unreasonableness of freight charges — Considerations.

When a complaint is made under sub-section (1), Cl. (b), or (c), the onus to prove the alleged unreasonableness of the freight rests on the complainant. The costs incurred by the complainant which are partly due to the geographical position can have no relevance whatever in determining the reasonableness or otherwise of the railway freight charged by the railway administration. Nor can the railway freight move up and down with the rise and fall of the commodity prices. In dealing with the question about the reasonableness of the railway freight it would naturally be relevant to consider mainly the working costs of the railway administration and other material circumstances. Raigarh Jute Mills Ltd. v. Eastern Rly., 1958 SCJ 720: 1959 SCA 262: (1958) 2 MLJ (SC) 86: (1958) 2 Andh WR (SC) 86: 1959 SCR 236: AIR 1958 SC 525 (531) (Pt C) (Pr 13).

●——S. 41 — Unreasonable freight charges — Test.

The special or concessional rates charged by the railway administration in another zone cannot be treated as the sole basis for determining what rates should be charged in other zones. Raigarh Jute Mills Ltd. v. Eastern Railway, 1958 SCJ 720: 1959 SCA 262: (1958) 2 MLJ (SC) 86: (1958) 2 Andh WR (SC) 86: 1959 SCR 236: AIR 1958 SC 525 (531) (Pt D) (Pr 14).

——S. 41 (1) (c) — Complaint in relation to minimum wagon load charge.

A complaint in relation to the minimum wagon load charge also falls within S. 41 (1) (c) as 'levying charges (other than standardised terminal charges) which are unreasonable'. ILR (1956) Mad 67: (1956) 1 MLJ 417: AIR 1955 Mad 513 (515) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Ss. 41, 42 — Reasonableness of charges — jurisdiction of Railway Rates Tribunal — Power to reduce rate and power to declare them unreasonable are distinct — There is no conflict between S. 42 and S. 41 — Tribunal has jurisdiction to determine reasonableness of rates. See Railways Act (1890), S. 42. AIR 1955 Mad 513 (DB).

——S. 41 (1) (b) — Charge found unreasonable by Tribunal — Proper order to pass.

On its finding that the charge is unreasonable, the proper order to pass is to grant a declaration to that effect which the Tribunal is competent to do under S. 39 of the Act. The Tribunal has no power to order any exemption. As the Central Government are the owners of the railways in India, there is no necessity for any order by way of an injunction directing them to give effect to the declaration for S. 39 itself provides for the Government or the railway administrations giving effect to the orders of the Tribunal. ILR (1956) Mad 67: (1956) 1 MLJ 417: AIR 1955 Mad 513 (516) (Pt E) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Ss. 41 and 42 — Enquiry into reasonableness of non-assignment of wagon scale to transport of strawboard— Jurisdiction of Tribunal —Railway Rates Tribunal has no jurisdiction to enquire — Expression "charges" in S. 41 (1) (c) does not include jurisdiction to determine reasonableness of rate apart altogether from conditions pertaining to the rate. AIR 1955 Mad 513 (518) (Pt H) (Prs 20, 22) (DB).

4. Wagon load rate — Meaning of.

——S. 41 (1) (b) — General Rules, R. 63 — 'Waganload rate' — Meaning of.

The expression 'wagon load rate' in S. 41 (1) (b) has to be understood in the context where it occurs in conjunction with 'station to station rate' which is the third type of rate as specified in R. 63 of the General Rules. In the threefold classification of rates both 'station to station rates' as well as 'wagon load rates' are concessional rates, that is, they would be less than the schedule class rates. Just as the expression 'station to station rates' in sub-cl. (b) of S. 41 (1) cannot be understood as meaning merely a rate which prevails between two stations, so also the expression 'wagon load rate' cannot be understood to mean merely the rate applicable to a wagon load. In the context in which the words occur in S. 41 (1) (b) the expression 'wagon load rates' has been used in the sense of a rate applied to a commodity to which one of 13 wagon load scales is made applicable in Chap. VIII of the Rules. ILR (1956) Mad 69: (1956) 1 MLJ 417 : AIR 1955 Mad 513 (517) (Pt F) (Pr 18) (DB).

5. Bar of suit.

●——S. 41 (as in 1955) — Scope — Civil suit for refund of wharfage and demurrage charges collected by railway challenging the vires of rules empowering the railway to collect such amounts and alleging excess realization than legally leviable under rules — Section 26 is no bar — Tribunal can decide only reasonableness of charges — It cannot decide vires of the rules empowering railways to collect such amount — Civil Revn. Applns. Nos. 46, 49, 55, 57, 58 and 59 of 1958, D/- 25-2-1958 (Bom), Reversed. See Railways Act (1890), S. 26. AIR 1964 SC 1268.

SECTION 42

——Ss. 42 and 41 — Reasonableness of charges — Jurisdiction of Tribunal — No conflict between S. 42 and S. 41.

The power to reduce a level of a schedule rate is quite different from a power to declare a rate to be unreasonable and there is no necessary conflict between S. 42 (2) (a) and S. 41. The Tribunal is not, when it is declaring a levy of a particular charge to be unreasonable in relation to a particular trader or to a particular commodity, reducing the level of the rate applicable to the commodity. Thus, the Tibunal has jurisdiction to determine whether the minimum wagon load is or is not unreasonable. ILR (1956) Mad 67: (1956) 1 MLJ 417: AIR 1955 Mad 513 (516) (Pt D) (Prs 12, 13) (DB).

——S. 42 (2) (b) — 'Classification', meaning of.

The meaning of the expression 'classification' in S. 42 (2) (b) has to be read in the light of the definition in S. 46 (c) (a) which is made applicable to the sections in Chap. V which includes S. 42. ILR (1956) Mad 67: (1956) 1 MLJ 417: AIR 1955 Mad 513 (518) (Pt G) (Pr 20) (DB).

——S. 42 — Reasonableness of non-assignment of wagon scale to transport of strawboard — Railway Rates Tribunal has no jurisdiction to enquire — Words "charges" in S. 41 (1) (c) do not include jurisdiction to determine reasonableness of rate apart altogether from conditions pertaining to the rate. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 41. AIR 1955 Mad 513 (DB).

SECTION 46

●——S. 46 — Scope.

The provision in S. 46, Railways Act, about the finality of the Railway Rates Tribunal's decision cannot affect the Supreme Court's jurisdiction under Art. 136 of the Constitution. See Constitution of India, Art. 136. AIR 1958 SC 525.

SECTION 46-B

●——S. 46-B — Scope — Nature of orders which require execution by Civil Courts.

An order for payment of costs which may be made by the Tribunal could under S. 46-B be transmitted to a Civil Court and executed by a Civil Court as if it were a decree. Even if the Tribunal can pass no other order which may require execution, S. 46-B will serve its purpose in connection with the orders for costs. Nor is it necessary to speculate as to what other orders made by the Tribunal could require execution by the Civil Courts. Upper Doab Sugar Mills, Ltd., Shamli v. Shahdara (Delhi) Saharanpur Light Railway Co., Ltd., Calcutta, 1963 SCD 303: (1963) 2 SCR 333: AIR 1963 SC 217 (221) (Pt B) (Pr 22).

——S. 46-B (as amended by Act 56 of 1949))— Railway Rates Tribunal — Refund of excess freight — Tribunal has no jurisdiction to pass a decree in favour of the complainants for refund of such excess freight or charges collected from them. See Railways Act (1890) as amended by Act (56 of 1949), S. 39. AIR 1958 Mad 471 (DB).

SECTION 46-C

●——S. 46-C (d) and (h) — "Terminals" include "wharfage" and "demurrage" charges — Said charges could be described as charges in respect of the Station and are 'terminals' within the meaning of the expression as defined in the Act. See Railways Act (1890), S. 3 (14). AIR 1964 SC 1268.

——S. 46-C (h) — Wharfage — Nature and purpose of explained — Wharfage is over and above "terminals" defined in S. 3 (14) — Wharfage falls within ambit of Act and is legal — Purpose and significance of levying wharfare indicated. See Railways Act (1890), S. 3 (14). AIR 1960 All 438.

SECTION 47

SYNOPSIS

(Railways Act (1890), S. 47)

1. Scope.
2. Re-classification and revaluation of rates.
3. Sub-section (1) (b).
4. Sub-section (1) (e).
5. Sub-section (1) (f).
6. Sub-section (1) (g).
7. Sub-section (2).
8. Sub-section (3).

1. Scope.

——S. 47 (1) — Rules under — Scope of rules and standing orders indicated — Breach of — Railway is prima facie liable in tort — Negligence of Railway employee — Plaintiff sustaining injury while stepping out of compartment of a standing train due to jerk of engine — Railway administration is liable — Contributory negligence — Burden is on defendant to prove it — Law of torts, applicability in India — Damages — Assessment — Measure of indicated. AIR 1955 NUC Cal 751 (DB).

——S. 47 — General liability of Railways — Neither S. 47 nor S. 54 empower the Railway Administration to make rules for exemption from liability for any loss, deterioration or destruction of or damages to goods — Question of exemption from liability has therefore, to be determined upon general law — Responsibility of Railway in India is limited under S. 72 of Railways Act to that of a bailee under Ss. 151, 152, 160 and 161 of Contract Act and is not governed by the common law of England or the Carriers Act 1865. See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1957 Madh Pra 192.

——S. 47 — Contracts on behalf of railway administration not exempted from S. 175 (3), Government of India Act. See Government of India Act (1935), S. 175. AIR 1957 Pat 586 (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1962 SC 113.]

——S. 47 — Rules under Appendix 'A', Part II, R. 21 — Applicability.

Rule 21 only refers to a breach of the rules and can have nothing to do with any conviction under the substantive provisions of the statute, namely, Ss. 120 and 121 of the Railways Act. ILR (1959) Punj 218: AIR 1959 Punj 169 (170) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

2. Re-classification and revaluation of rates.

——S. 47 — Carriage of goods — Forwarding Note — If part of contract — Assignee of consignor — If bound — Forwarding Note entitling railway to re-classification and re-calculation of rates at place of destination — Lower rate charged by mistake at place of acceptance — Higher and correct rate — If can be claimed at destination.

The contract between the Railway Administration and the consignor of goods must be considered with reference to the terms contained in the Forwarding Note subject to which the goods are carried. An assignee of the consignor is bound by the conditions contained in the Forwarding Note. He can have no higher rights than the consignor or the consignee had under the terms of the Forwarding Note. It cannot be suggested that the freight which is mentioned in the Forwarding Note and the rate which has been charged therein form the sole term of the contract. All the terms contained in the Forwarding Note must be regarded as forming the basis of the contract. Where one of the clauses of the Forwarding Note was in these terms: 'That the Railway Administration has the right of re-measurement, reweighment, re-classification and re-calculation of rates, terminals and other charges at the place of destination and of collecting before delivery of goods any amount that may have been remitted or under-charged'.

Held, that the expression 're-classification, and re-calculation of the rates' covered cases where a wrong rate was charged through mistake and it was later discovered that the rates actually charged for the goods carried, were lower than those which were properly chargeable for those goods. In other words, if certain goods were to be charged at a rate which was payable for Cl. 1 goods and the rate levied at the place of acceptance of the goods was lower than that, the railway administration could very well claim to charge at the station of destination at the higher and the correct rate under that rule. 55 CWN 758: ILR (1953) 1 Cal 45: 88 CLJ 59: AIR 1952 Cal 70 (70, 71) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7, 11) (DB).

——S. 47 (1) — Consignor paying at higher rate.

A railway company contracts with the consignor the rate mentioned in the railway receipt and this has to be followed. If the goods are consigned to a station where the rate is higher than at the despatching station, the consignor cannot be charged at the higher rate and if he is so charged the payment is illegal. ILR (1953) Hyd 451: AIR 1953 Hyd 274 (274) (Pt B) (Pr 2).

——S. 47 — Under-charge owing to mistake of railway clerk — Recovery of at destination.

The contract of carriage entered into on behalf of the railway by the clerk of the Railway is subject to Goods Tariff Rules and he has no authority to contract outside the terms of the tariff. Term No. 6 moreover printed at the back of railway receipt clearly is a notice to the consignor that the railway authority has reserved the right of remeasuring, reclassifying and recalculating rates and therefore, where there is undercharge owing to mistake on the part of the clerk at the despatching Station it can always be got made good at the destination. The charges demanded in a case such as this can be included within the phrase 'other charges' as used in Rule No. 15 of the Rules aforesaid. AIR 1952 Cal 70, Foll.; 29 All 228 (FB) and AIR 1926 Lah 631, Dissented from. Madh BLR 1955 Civ 396: Madh BLJ 1955 HCR 1541: AIR 1955 Madh Bha 181 (183) (Pt C) (Prs 14, 19).

3. Sub-section (1) (b).

——Ss. 47, 72 and 74-A — General Rules for Acceptance, Carriage and Delivery of Goods, Rr. 31 and 47 and Rules relating to reporting of Damages, Deficiencies or Loss of Goods Rr. 161-I and II — Damaged consignment — Consignee's insistence on open delivery—Delay in making open delivery and destruction of goods by fire — Liability of Railways for loss — Consignee's right to open delivery for damaged consignment.

A consignment of 201 bags of gram-dhall booked from Punjab arrived at Eluru with 19 of the bags in a damaged condition. The consignee took delivery of 182 bags and insisted on open delivery for the remaining 19 damaged bags. As the Claims Inspector was not available, intimation was sent to him by the Railway to go to Eluru to give open delivery. Meanwhile the 19 bags, kept in the custody of the Railways, before open delivery could be given, were destroyed by fire. On the question whether, in such circumstances the Railways are liable for the loss:

Held, under R. 31 (2) of the General Rules for Acceptance Carriage and Delivery of Goods, a consignee is bound to take delivery within the time indicated therein under normal circumstances, i.e., within reasonable time. The reasonable time may vary in individual and special cases. Normally, as per the rule the reasonable time within which delivery should be taken would be the free time allowed for demurrage and wharfage on Railways. Rule 161-II of the Rules relating to reporting of damages, deficiencies or loss of goods, proceeds on the basis that, when goods appear to be damaged and the consignee asks for open delivery, the Claims Inspector has to come and give open delivery after following the instructions given in the rule. Under R. 47 of the General Rules, the consignee is not bound to take delivery of that part of the goods which are found damaged. It provides that the consignee must take such of the goods forming part of the consignment whenever they are available for delivery notwithstanding that the remaining goods are short or damaged or have not arrived at their destination or are otherwise not available for delivery. It further provides that, if the consignee does not take delivery, of such goods as are available for delivery i.e., which are not damaged and which can immediately be, delivered without further enquiry, those goods will be subject to wharfage charges if not removed within the time allowed. Where, therefore, a part of the consignment was found damaged, the consignee is entitled to ask for open delivery and is not bound to take delivery of the goods unless open delivery is given. And, if, before open delivery could be given, the goods were destroyed by fire while in the custody of the Railways, the railways are liable for the loss.

Obiter— If the Railway refuses to give delivery unless an amount which was not lawfully and legally due to it is paid, it may amount to an illegal or unlawful detention of the goods and the Railway may become liable for unlawful or illegal detention of the goods. It could retain the goods only till anything that is lawfully due and payable is paid. (1963) 1 An WR 354: AIR 1963 Andh Pra 415 (417, 418) (Prs 6, 7, 8).

——S. 47 — Change in practice making goods available for delivery till 8 p.m. — Chief Commercial Superintendent has jurisdiction to issue notice introducing the change — Rules relating to free delivery of goods made by Government under section are not altered by the change — Hence petition for writ to quash notice must fail — Constitution of India, Art. 226. (1962) 3 Guj LR 75: AIR 1962 Gul 15 (16, 17) (Prs 4, 5, 6) (DB).

——Ss. 47 (1) (b), (g), 67 (3) — Rules under S. 47 — Validity.

The power given to the railway administration under S. 47 is wide enough to cover not merely for providing for the accommodation and convenience of passengers and regulating the carriage of their luggage but also generally for regulating the travelling upon, and the use, working and management of the railway. When the railway administration issues season tickets at concession rates, for the convenience of passengers it is open to the railway administration to frame the rule in exercise of its powers vested under S. 47 to regulate the travelling of ticket holders also. So a rule framed in exercise of that power cannot be said to be ultra vires of S. 67 (3). 1955 Mad WN 266: (1955) 2 MLJ 159: AIR 1955 Mad 619 (620) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——S. 47 — Rules under Rr. 45, 181 — Loss of receipt — Execution of indemnity bond —Detention of goods — Duty of consignee ends as soon as the bond is executed and made over to Station Master concerned—Once the indemnity bond is delivered to S. M. it is his duty to forward it to Divisional Superintendent if necessary as per rules — Demurrage must cease to run from the date of delivery of the indemnity bond by person who wants to take delivery on the strength of that bond. See Railways Act (1890), S. 57. AIR 1958 Pat 558.

4. Sub-section (1) (e).

——S. 47 (1) (e)— Rules under— Railway Servants — Departmental inquiry — Procedure — Mention of proposed punishment in charge-sheet — Legality — Subsequent fresh charge-sheet mentioning different punishment — Not illegal — Competent authority has jurisdiction to withraw earlier charge-sheet which mentioned 'reduction' as punishment and substitute in its stead a charge-sheet indicating removal from service as punishment. See Constitution of India, Art. 311. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 618 (DB).

——S. 47 (1) (e) — Rules under— Discipline and Appeal Rules, R. 1725 (a) — Whether power of revision under is unqualified and not subject to two conditions which qualify power of reconsideration of previous orders — (Quaere). AIR 1961 Cal 93 (94) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——S. 47 (1) (e) — Discipline and Appeal Rules, R. 1725 (b) — Validity — Constitution of India, Art. 311 (2).

Clause (b) of R. 1725 only lays down a summary method, and all that is to be done by the authority is to communicate his intention of enhancing penalty, with the reasons, and call upon the delinquent to show cause why it should not be imposed. Thereafter the only thing that is to be done is to consider the reply. There need be no hearing, no evidence and no semblance of a judicial approach. Therefore Cl. (b) of R. 1725, in so far as it provides that there can be an order of dismissal, removal from service or demotion, without giving a hearing to the delinquent, contravenes the provision of Art. 311 (2) and must be declared to be invalid. (1961) 1 Lab LJ 55: 65 Cal WN 94: AIR 1961 Cal 93 (94) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

——S. 47 (1) (c) — Rules under Mewar State Railway Establishment Rules, Appendix XI — List of what constitutes misconduct is not exhaustive but illustrative. 1950 Raj LW 351: AIR 1951 Raj 51 (53) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (DB).

5. Sub-section (1) (f).

——S. 47 (1) (f) — Power to enhance rates — Delegation to Chief Traffic Manager — Validity.

The Railway Board is the officer appointed by the Central Government under S. 47 (1) of the Indian Railways Act, 1890, in exercise of powers vested in it by Section 47 of the Act. Accordingly it has jurisdiction to frame the required rules, including rule to enhance the rates. But there is no provision in the Act authorising the Board to delegate the power of enhancement to a subordinate authority, e.g., the Chief Traffic Manager, who has not been appointed the prescribed officer under S. 47 (1). The Railway Administration, which under S. 3 (6) means the Manager of the Railway, is entitled to fix rates provided the rules framed by the Board lay down necessary conditions for his guidance in this regard. Rule 17 of the Notification of 1926 prescribing rules regarding wharfage no doubt gives the Administration some guidance, but it is defective inasmuch as it does not prescribe the maximum limit of the rates. Hence in the absence of a maximum limit in the Board's notification, the Chief Traffic Manager had no jurisdiction to enhance the rates of wharfage through his order of 16-2-1950. But the notification of 6-9-1958 has radically altered the legal position and has authorised individual Railway Administrations to fix rates of wharfage so long as the rate does not exceed four annas. Whatever legal defects the Order of 1950 might have suffered from were cured from the date of the issue of the said Notification, since the rates fixed by the order were below the maximum limit fixed by the Notification of 1958.

Since the issue of the Notification of 1958 there can be no valid objection to the Railway Administration fixing any rate at any station under its control so long as the rate does not exceed the limit fixed. AIR 1960 All 438 (442) (Pt D) (Prs 13, 17).

——S. 47 (1) (f) — Rules with regard to wharfage — Rules 1 and 17 — If inconsistent.

There is no inconsistency between Rr. 1 and 17 of the Notification of 18-2-1926 issued by the Railway Board framing rules with regard to wharfage under S. 47 (1) (f). Rule 1 related to normal times, while R. 17 made provision for the State of the traffic on any sudden emergency. Both the rules fell within the ambit of the powers of the Railway Board. AIR 1960 All 438 (442) (Pt E) (Pr 14).

——S. 47 (1) (f) — Different wharfage rates at different stations — Classification is reasonable.

The rate of wharfage depends on factors which must necessarily differ from station to station e.g., the density of traffic, the amount of warehousing space available, habits of local traders etc. A classification made on taking these factors into account would be a reasonable one. What the law does not permit is for different rates to be charged from different persons at the same station. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1960 All 438.

——Ss. 47 and 54 (as in force in 1946) — Applicability and scope — Warehousing rates — Power to fix.

Having regard to the fact that S. 47 (1) (f) specifically deals with warehousing S. 54 (1) does not give the same power which is given specifically by S. 47 (1) (f). Section 47 (1) (f) is the provision which must be resorted to for the purpose of either fixing the rate for warehousing or altering the rate to a fresh rate. Section 47 (1) (f) must be utilised for the purpose of fixing the warehousing rate, particularly so as the rules made under S. 47 (1) (f) have to be made by a specified authority, who may or may not be the same authority which has power to prescribe conditions under S. 54 (1) of the Act. Fixation of rates cannot be deemed to be a condition of receiving, forwarding or delivering. Section 54 (1) cannot possibly empower the fixation of rates for warehousing and that can only be done under S. 47 (1) (f) of the Act and in strict accordance therewith as it involves pecuniary liabilities. 1960 All WR (HC) 17: 1960 All LJ 16: AIR 1960 All 371 (371) (Prs 8, 9) (DB).

——S. 47 (1) (f), rules under R. 237 — Loss of goods in transmission—Liability of Railway Administration — Measure and extent of — Test — Onus to disprove negligence — Railway authorities taking all reasonable care — Consignments looted by unruly mob under circumstances beyond control — Held, in the circumstances that Railway Administration had exonerated itself from liability — Rule 237 of the rules framed under S. 47 (1) (f) Railways Act held had no application. See Railways Act (1890), S. 72, as it stood before the Amendment Act (39 of 1961). AIR 1964 Andh Pra 477 (DB).

——Ss. 47 and 72 — Rule 30 (2) of I. R. C. A. Goods Tariff No. 28 and R. 3 of the Rules of Wharfage — Scope of — Liability of Railways for carriage of goods — Realisation of freight and wharfage by Railway Administration — If constitutes a contract of fresh bailment by force of R. 3 of the Rules of Wharfage — Contract Act (9 of 1872), S. 161 — Expression 'proper time' — Whether the same as 'reasonable time'.

Indian Railways are free from the high degree of liability imposed on a common carrier in England. There liability in a case not affected by contract and any other provision in the Railways Act, starts only at the level of the liability of a bailee, that is to say to take as much care of the goods entrusted to them for carriage as a man of ordinary prudence would be expected to take care of his goods. This is the effect of the express statutory legislation contained in Section 72 (1) and (3), Railways Act, read with Sections 151, 152 and 161 of the Contract Act.

It is difficult to hold that the expression 'proper time' in S. 161 of the Contract Act is the same thing as 'reasonable time'.

Rule 30 (2) of I. R. C. A. Goods Tariff No. 28 is not a rule. It purports to be a public notice.

A public notice cannot have a binding force unless it is issued in pursuance of a rule. (1959) 1 Andh WR 55: AIR 1959 Andh Pra 84 (86) (Prs 6, 7).

——S. 47 (1) (f) — Scope — Rule 31 (2), Goods Tariff No. 28 of Indian Railway Conference Association — Validity — (See Amendment by Act (39 of 1961) substituting certain words).

Rule 31 would fall within the ambit of the power conferred on the Government to frame rules under S. 47, sub-section (1) Cl. (f) and is not, therefore, ultra vires. (1958) 2 An WR 377: AIR 1959 Andh Pra 17 (18) (Pt C) (Pr 2).

——S. 47 (1) (f) — Rules under, R. 2 — Rule 2 is inconsistent with S. 72 and is ultra vires.

Rule 2 under which goods consigned will in all cases be at owner's risk until a receipt in prescribed form is granted and is duly signed by an authorised railway servant is inconsistent with S. 72 which defines liability of the Railway and hence it is ultra vires of the Railways Act. ILR 31 Cal 951 and AIR 1932 Cal 257, Foll. See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1959 Cal 400 (DB).

——S. 47 (1) (f) — Rules for wharfage, R. 3 — Termination of carrier's liability — Warehousing of goods by railway — Wharfage charges recovered — Contract of bailment is created and therefore, Railway is liable for the loss caused by the goods having been damaged while so warehoused. AIR 1920 All 280; AIR 1926 Lah 575 (2), Dissented from. See Contract Act (1872), S. 151. AIR 1955 Cal 264 (DB).

——Ss. 47 (1) (f), 55, 56 — Disposal of offensive goods by sale under R. 7 (e) framed under S. 47 (1) (f) — Validity of R. 7 (e) — Provisions of Ss. 55 and 56 not applicable to such sale —Rule not ultra vires — Sale held valid.

Quite apart from Ss. 55 and 56, rules can be framed under S. 47 (1) (f), providing for the terms and conditions on which goods may be warehoused or retained. Such rules may also provide inter alia for the warehousing and disposal of goods which have become or are likely to become offensive. Rule 7 (e) is such a rule under which perishable article, unclaimed or not taken delivery of, are to be disposed of, if they are, or are likely to become offensive, at any time after the expiry of twenty-four hours after they are left at the railway station, or even earlier as the situation demands. The Rule is in no way touched by the provisions for sale in Ss. 55 and 56, which do not relate to goods which have become or are likely to become offensive, R. 7 (e) is thus intra vires and consistent with the Act.

Held, on facts that the sale by the Station Master under R. 7 (e) of a consignment of dry fish which had become offensive was valid and that the claim by the consignor for damages for conversion was unsustainable. 1965 Ker LJ 1085: 1966 Ker LT 80: AIR 1966 Ker 97 (98) (Pr 5) (DB).

——S. 47 (1) (f) — Rules under, R. 31 (2) — Goods reaching destination — Unreasonable delay in taking delivery — Damage caused by rain — Railway absolved from liability by virtue of R. 31 (2) — Rule 31 (2) not ultra vires. AIR 1959 AP 84, Doubted. See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1960 Orissa 103.

——S. 47 — Applicability of Orissa House Rent Control Order, 1943, to godowns built by licensees on railway lands — Such Godowns cannot be brought wthin the municipal area and subjected to Municipal laws — Municipality cannot levy tax on the Railway Administration in view of S. 135 Railways Act and the Railways (Local Authorities Taxation) Act, 1941 — Orissa Rent Control Order can have no application to such structures built on railway lands. See Houses and Rents — Orissa House Rent Control Order, 1943. AIR 1955 NUC (Orissa) 5693 (DB).

——S. 47 (1) (f) — Rules framed under, R. 3 — Wharfage or demurrage charges, when become leviable.

A free time of six hours is available to the consignee for unloading and clearance of goods after the wagon is placed at the railway siding or at any place where the unloading can be possible. Until the free time expires, there will be no charge leviable for demurrage or wharfage against the consignee. Whether actually wharfage had become due or not would depend upon the time when the unloading took place and also on the time when the railway wagon was placed at the siding or at any place where unloading could be possible. 1965 BLJR 497: AIR 1965 Pat 49 (51) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (DB).

——S. 47 (1) (f) — Rules under, R. 2 — Bags of sugar damaged due to negligence of railway employees — Consignee refusing to take delivery — Consignee — If liable to pay wharfage.

Where forty bags of sugar which formed part of a consignment were damaged due to the negligence of the railway employees and the plaintiff (consignee) refused to take delivery of the damaged bags though the railway authorities were prepared to give delivery of all the bags with a certificate of damage both as assessed by the railway claim inspector and as claimed by the plaintiff.

Held, that the plaintiff was liable to pay wharfage because of his refusal to take delivery. 1959 BLJR 404: AIR 1960 Pat 323 (324) (Prs 4, 5).

——Ss. 47 (1) (f) and 56 — Goods consigned to railway — Liability of railway — It does not terminate with arrival of goods at station of destination — It continues till delivery or till disposal thereof under S. 56 — Condition in Rule 28 (2) — It is not valid as it exceeds the rule-making power of the Railway and it is inconsistent with liability imposed on the Railway under S. 72. See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1962 Raj 181 (DB).

——S. 47 (1) (f) — Rules under, R. 5 — Goods of perishable nature — Consignor's address not known — Consignment booked to self — No representative of consignor coming to take delivery — In circumstances held it was not praticable to send notice of arrival. AIR 1952 Sau 95 (97) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

6. Sub-section (1) (g).

——S. 47 (1) (g) — Right to move freely on Railway Platform — Regulation of entry into Railway platform — Restriction on sale of platfrom tickets for particular period in the interest of pilgrims visiting the place — Restrictions do not violate Art. 19 (1) (d) — Railway authorities empowered to impose such restrictions — Railway platform, though a public place, is not a public property—In view of S. 47 (1) (g) and Rr. 127 and 128 of the Coaching Tariff. Railway authorities have got a right to restrict the issue of platform tickets and regulate the entry on Railway Platform. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (d). AIR 1964 Pat 98 (DB).

7. Sub-section (2).

——Ss. 47 and 113 — Railway Administrative rules R. 39 (b) — Failure to mention age and to sign season-ticket by holder as required by R. 39 (b) — Conviction under S. 113 — Validity.

A railway Company can frame rules otherwise than under S. 47 to regulate its own traffic, and these rules can be framed in the exercise of the general powers of administration of a railway company. In order that these rules should be valid, two conditions have to be satisfied: one is that the rules must not be inconsistent with any provision of the statute or any rules framed under S. 47 and the other condition is that the rules must not be unreasonable. But if an administrative rule is framed by the Rly. authority, the Rly. authority cannot by that rule provide that if the rule is contravened, the contravener shall be liable to a particular penalty. The power to impose penalties is a power which only the legislature can exercise and the railway authority has no such power delegated to it. It is only when a rule is framed under S. 47 that, by its very terms, the rule can provide a penalty for its breach. If however, the rule itself does not provide for its breach and the contravention of that rule may result in the contravention of some provision of the statute, then there is no reason why a breach of that rule should not be punished, not because the rule itself provided for the penalty, but because by contravening that rule the offender contravened some provision of the statute.

The accused while travelling was found to possess a season ticket which was not signed by him and which did not mention his age as required by R. 39 (b) of the Administrative Rules framed by the Railway. The accused was asked to pay the fare but he refused. He was thereupon prosecuted and convicted under S. 113, Railways Act.

Held, that R. 39 (b) was a very reasonable rule intended to carry out the provisions of Section 70 of the Act and as such, was not ultra vires. All that Rule 39 (b) does is to define a proper season ticket is and inasmuch as the season ticket which the accused held was not a proper season ticket in accordance with R. 39 (b), he subjected himself to the penalty imposed by S. 113. The conviction of the accused under S. 113 was, therefore, fully justified. Case Law Ref.

It is true that the railway authority could have framed this rule under S 47. But that does not take away the authority and the power of the railway company to frame any rule for administrative reasons because it is not always easy to frame a rule under S. 47. ('52) 54 Bom LR 428: 1952 Cri LJ 1462: 21 Bom Cri Cas 339: ILR (1953) Bom 36: AIR 1952 Bom 421 (422, 423) (Pra 5, 7, 8).

8. Sub-section (3).

——S. 47 (3) — Scope and effect of.

Under S. 47 (3), rule made under this section requires sanction of the Central Government. S. 2 of the Indian Railway Board Act (Act 4 of 1905) authorises the Central Government to invest the Railway Board with all or any of its powers and functions under the Railways Act. In exercise of the powers conferred by this provision the Central Government issued Notification No. 801, dated 24-3-1905 investing the Railway Board with its powers and functions inter alia, under S. 47 (3). In consequence the Notifications of 1926 and 1958 issued by the Railway Board prescribing rules under S. 47 are in the eye of law Notification of the Central Government itself and accordingly fulfil the conditions laid down by sub-section (3) of S. 47. So in such a case omission to receive sanction of the Central Government does not render the notifications invalid. AIR 1960 All 438 (442) (Pt F) (Pr 15).

SECTION 54

——S. 54 (as in force in 1946) — Scope of — Fixation of warehousing rates — Section 54 does not authorise such a fixation — That can only be done under S. 47 (1) (f) and in strict accordance with it as it involves pecuniary liabilities. See Railways Act (1890), (as in force in 1946), S. 47. AIR 1960 All 371 (DB).

——Ss. 54, 72, 74-A — Civil Procedure Code, S. 80 — Notice giving wrong number of R/R but mentioning all other particulars — Sufficiency.

Held, on facts that as damage occurred between Bezwada and Nagpur and the goods were transhipped at Bezwada by the Railway servants, protection under Tariff Coaching Rules could not be claimed; that there was sufficient compliance with S. 80, Civil Procedure Code and that there was no change in plaintiff's capacity and that the Railway was liable for damages. AIR 1946 Mad 73; 1950 All LJ 595 and AIR 1940 Mad 416; (1947) 2 Mad LJ 577, Dist. 1960 Nag LJ (Notes) 34 (Bom).

——S. 54 — Goods Tariff Rules — Recovery of under-charge at destination — Goods described as 'kalanji' seeds in Railway Receipt at place of consignment — Goods classified at destination as 'kalajira' subject to higher tariff and under-charge on that basis collected — No evidence on record to show that the two terms described identical article— Held, the Railway was entitled under R. 15 of the Goods Tariff Rules No. 28 to correct the charges at the destination and recover the under-charge. (1961) 3 Orissa JD 160; AIR 1962 Orissa 49 (49) (Pr 4).

SECTION 55

——Ss. 55 and 56 — Auction — Sale of perishable and non-perishable goods not delivered or not taken delivery of — Even in case of non-perishable goods notice should be issued before selling the goods by auction. 1964 All LJ 632.

——S. 55 — Illegal detention of goods — Liability.

Where a consignment of goods had reached its destination but the railway reclassified the goods and refused to deliver it unless an additional charge which was not found to have been justifiably demanded, was paid.

Held, that the railway company was liable for the illegal or wrongful detention of goods and it could not claim exemption from liability when sued for damages. 11 All LJ 335, Rel. on. 1955 All WR (HC) 627: 1955 All LJ 890: AIR 1956 All 149 (149) (Pr 4).

——S. 55 — Forwarding note — Condition 6 — Scope — "Reclassification and re-calculation of rates" — "Other charges".

The expression "re-classification and re-calculation of the rate" covers cases where a wrong rate was charged through mistake and it was later discovered that the rates actually charged for the goods carried, were more than those which were properly chargeable for those goods. The expression does not refer to cases where the goods carried by the railway administration were wrongly classified, because the words are "re-classification and re-calculation of rates" and not of goods. Further the last part of the condition "other charges" is sufficiently wide to cover a case like this. ILR 52 All 81 and ILR 1945 Mad 174, Rel. on; ILR 29 All 228 (FB), Dist.;

AIR 1926 Lah 631, Not foll. 55 Cal WN 758: 88 Cal LJ 59: ILR (1953) 1 Cal 45: AIR 1952 Cal 70 (70, 71) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7, 11) (DB).

——S. 55 — Forwarding note — Condition 6 — Binding effect.

The terms of the conditions on the back of the forwarding note bind the consignor and the assignee of consignee can have no higher rights than the consignor or the consignee has under the terms of the forwarding note. 55 Cal WN 758: 88 Cal LJ 59: ILR (1953) 1 Cal 45: AIR 1952 Cal 70 (71) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——S. 55 — Forwarding note — Condition 6 whether forms part of contract — Deed — Construction.

It cannot be said that condition 6 appearing on the back of the forwarding note is not part of the contract. The contract between the railway administration and the consignor must be considered with reference to the terms contained in the forwarding note. It cannot be said that the freight which is mentioned in the forwarding note and the rate which has been charged therein form the sole term of the contract. We must regard all the terms contained in the forwarding note as forming the basis of the contract, and one of the terms is that contained in condition 6. 55 Cal WN 758: 88 Cal LJ 59: ILR (1953) 1 Cal 45: AIR 1952 Cal 70 (71) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

——S. 55 (5) — Recovery of undercharge after delivery of goods.

The combined effect of Cls. 6 and 7 of the Rules printed on the Railway receipt and S. 55 (5), Railways Act, is that the Railway is given the power to withhold delivery of the goods until the amount due to it on account of an undercharge is paid, and if the goods have been delivered, to exercise such a lien over the goods of the consignee which may come into its possession and if no lien is exercised or no goods come into its possession the law gives the Railway the right to file a suit for the recovery of the amounts due. The fact that the Railway is given such a power would conclusively prove that the right to recover is not restricted till the time of the delivery of the goods. The Railways right to recover the undercharge by filing a regular suit as would appear from the povisions of S. 55 is not taken away by Cl. 6 and, therefore, the language employed in Cl. 6 can only be be regarded as an enabling provision giving the Railway the right to recover the amount even before the delivery of the goods. ILR (1955) Hyd 256: AIR 1955 Hyd 61 (62, 63) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 8) (DB).

——S. 55 — Disposal of offensive goods by sale under Rule 7 (e) framed under Section 47 (1) (f) — Validity of Rule 7 (e) — Provisions of Sections 55 and 56 not applicable to such sale — Rule not ultra vires — Sale held valid. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 47 (1) (f). 1965 Ker LJ 1085: AIR 1966 Ker 97 (DB).

——S. 55 — Tariff rates — Applicability.

A contract of carriage emerges only after the goods are loaded and a receipt for the same has been issued. Till that time there is but an offer to take the goods subject to wagons being available. While they are on the railway premises the railway acts merely as bailee but not as carrier. Hence tariff rates existing on the date when the goods are loaded and the railway receipt is prepared and not those existing on the date when the goods are accepted for consignment are applicable in such a case. 1958 MPC 31: 1958 MPLJ 130: 1958 Jab LJ 129: ILR (1957) Madh Pra 366: AIR 1958 Madh Pra 294 (295) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Ss. 55 (2) and 56 (1) and (2) — Scope of — Right of Railway Management to sell the goods consigned — When can be exercised — Duty to give notice — If can be contracted out of — Suit for damages for conversion — Limitation for — Limitation Act (9 of 1908), Articles 31, 36 and 48 — Condition in forwarding notes — Effect of.

A Railway Administration has a right to sell the goods consigned to them for carriage only in accordance with the provisions of the law authorising them in that behalf. Any sale of the goods delivered to them contrary to the provisions of the statute will be without legal authority and wrongful and the Railway will be guilty of conversion. It is not open to the Railway to contract itself out of the statutory obligations.

Where the goods consigned remain unclaimed and the owner of the goods is known the Railway is under a statutory duty to give the notice required by Section 56 (1) of the Railways Act before exercising their right of sale. The right to sell will accrue to them only when such a notice is given. Any sale in contravention of the provisions of the section will be invalid. The procedure to be followed in regard to the sale is laid down under Section 55 (2) of the Act The fact that the Railway is authorised, under Section 55 or condition 10 of the forwarding note, in certain cases to sell the goods in their custody for non-payment of charges does not mean that the railway is at liberty to sell the goods of a consignor without any notice to him merely because the goods are likely to get deteriorated. In cases of perishables a sale without notice might be justified only if the right to sell has accrued under Section 56 of the Act. A suit for damages for wrongful conversion will be governed by Article 31 of the Limitation Act and not Article 48. 71 MLW 70: 1958 Mad WN 36: (1958) 1 MLJ 175: ILR (1958) Mad 342: AIR 1958 Mad 321 (323) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 9) (DB).

——S. 55 — General Rules No. 29 (1954), R. 10 — R. 10 is inoperative as it violates provisions of Section 55.

In the absence of a proved case of demand by the railway administration and failure by the consignee to pay it, the right of lien under Section 55 either over the same goods in respect of which the demand was made or on subsequent goods that may come later into the possession of the railway will not arise in favour of the railway. Rule 10 as contained in the General Rules No. 29, which were enforced from 1-6-1954, is in conflict with Section 55, Railways Act and in that view, cannot be supported. Section 55 makes the lien subject to two things — accrual of liability in respect of charges payable to the railway and demand for such payment by the railway from the consignor or the consignee. Unless these two things are there, particularly, the demand, there will be no room for exercise of lien. Besides, the extent of lien has been provided there. Rule 10 has omitted the condition of demand and has extended the lien beyond the limit prescribed by Section 55; it is clearly in violation of the statutory provision. AIR 1952 Bom 421 and AIR 1960 Orissa 103, Disting. 1965 BLJR 497: AIR 1965 Pat 49 (50, 51) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 4) (DB).

——S. 55 — Unclaimed goods (Coal) — Railway administration must send notice to owner or to such person appearing to it to be entitled thereto. requiring him to remove the goods — No such person known to Railway Administration — Administration can sell goods as early as may be under Section 55 — Consignee instructing its intention not to take delivery— Railway administration is not bound to take immediate step for disposal of goods — Railway is not bound to hold consignee as owner and is not expected to go into the question of law in determining ownership — It is justified in making enquiries from other sources on question of ownership— Permission of Coal Commissioner essential under Colliery Control Order and Bihar Coal Order for disposal of coal by public auction — Held, that there was no unavoidable delay in disposal of coal by Railway administration for recovery of freight and demurrage. See Railways Act (1890), S. 56. AIR 1963 Pat 46 (DB).

——S. 55 — Notice under, giving time for removal of goods — Railway cannot claim wharfage charge for period subsequent to expiry of period of notice for removal of goods — (1860) 8 HLC 338, Rel. no. 1960 Pat LR 130: AIR 1961 Pat 119 (119) (Pr 2).

——S. 55 — Action for damages for non-delivery of goods — Who can maintain — Generally it is only the consignor or consignee or the endorsee of consignment who can maintain such an action — A blank endorsee for value can also maintain such an action — Principles as to — Endorsement in blank — Meaning of — If means writing one's name merely on the back of a railway receipt without specifying any restrictions as to payee, the manner of payment etc. which details may be filled in by holder thereof in whatever manner he likes — (Words and Phrases — 'Endorsement in blank') — (Sale of Goods Act (1930), S. 2 (4) and Section 23) — (Contract Act (1872), S. 178). See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1959 Pat 438.

——Ss. 55 and 56 — Distinction.

Section 56 is independent of Section 55 and makes provision for sale of unclaimed goods, while Section 55 provides for realisation of the dues to the railway administration by exercise of their lien over the goods in their possession. AIR 1952 Sau 95 (97) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——S. 55 (2) — Perishability of goods — On what depends.

The question whether the goods are perishable or not, does not depend upon whether freight in respect of them has been prepaid or not. The question depends upon the nature of the goods themselves. AIR 1952 Sau 95 (98) (Pt C) (Pr 6).

SECTION 56

——S. 56 —Auction of— Sale of perishable and non-perishable goods not delivered or not taken delivery of — Even in cases of non-perishable goods notice should be issued before selling the goods by auction. See Railways Act (1890), Section 55. 1964 All LJ 632.

——S. 56 — Notice — When essential — Unclaimed goods in possession of Railway — Suit for damages — Maintainability.

An owner is not entitled to sue the railway administration for damages on the bare ground that the railway failed to give the notice contemplated by Section 56 of the Railways Act, when the goods are still in the possession of the railway for delivery to the owner. A railway incurs no liability by its failure to give the notice when it does not sell the goods but keeps them in its possession to be delivered to the owner on his demand. The railway is not bound to give notice of the arrival to the owner if it does not want to sell the goods. It is for the railway to decide what time is reasonable, and so long as it does not want to sell the goods it is at liberty to wait for the owner to come. The owner is not given the right to say that after a certain time the railway must give the notice to him and sell the goods. The provision about notice is enacted for the benefit of the railway the object is to safeguard its position when it sells the goods. The principle of reasonable time is also to be invoked by it in justification of its act of selling; it cannot be invoked against it by the owner. 1952 RD (HC) 160: 1952 All WR (HC) 270: AIR 1952 All 880 (880) (Pr 2).

——S. 56 — Disposal of offensive goods by sale under R. 7 (e) framed under Section 47 (1) (f) — Validity of Rule 7 (e) — Provisions of Sections 55 and 56 not applicable to such sale — Rule not ultra vires — Sale held valid. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 47 (1) (f). 1965 Ker LJ 1085: AIR 1966 Ker 97 (DB).

——Ss. 56 (1), 77 (1) and Indian Railway Conference Association, Goods Tariff (No. 31), Part I, R. 192 — Goods arriving at destination — Railway not bound to give notice of arrival to consignee — Goods not claimed within a month— Railway bound to give notice to owner before sending goods to unclaimed or lost property office. 1966 MPLJ (Notes) 21.

——S. 56 (1) — Scope — Notice under — Whether mandatory.

So far as the intimation required by S. 56 (1) is concerned that is an intimation which the Railway Administration is under an obligation to give. The intimation required by Section 56 (1) relates accrual to the Railway Administration of the right to sell.

In order that they might be entitled to sell the property of which they are in possession on behalf of the owner or consignee, they have to cause a notice to be served on him requiring him to remove the goods. That obligation arises where the owner or other person entitled to remove the goods is known. See Railways Act (1890), S. 55 (2). AIR 1958 Mad 321 (DB).

——Ss. 56 (2) and 80 — Consignment of goods — Delay in delivery — Damage to goods — Prices fallen — Refusal of consignee to take delivery — Claim of compensation.

A wholesale dealer in Cuddalore (South India) had a branch in Northern India and certain bags of Bengal gram purchased by the Northern Indian branch were consigned on 1st November, 1944, to the Railway Authorities to be delivered at Cuddalore. When invoice was obtained by the plaintiffs he sent his representative to the Railway Authorities and asked for delivery of goods on 17th November, 1944. On the strength of the invoice they refused delivery owing admittedly to some confusion prevailing regarding the invoice numbers and the identifying marks on the bags. After 24th January, 1945, the South Indian Railway in Cuddalore sent word to the plaintiffs branch to take delivery of goods which they refused on the ground that the goods had deteriorated owing to exposure and that prices had fallen by about Rs. 8 a bag. Therefore under the Railways Act, Section 56 (2), the Authorities sold in auction the goods and after deducting freightage and demurrage charges paid to the consignee of the goods the balance available. On a suit filed by the plaintiffs against the South Indian Railway under Section 80 of the Railways Act.

Held, (1) That under Section 80 of the Railways Act the suit was one properly maintain-able and it was not necessary to sue the contracting railways, viz., the G. I. P. Railway.

(2) That in all cases of refusal by the consignor to take delivery of goods there can be no hard and fast rule of his preclusion from filing a suit for compensation. When, as in this case, Railway Authorities themselves were guilty of negligence in having allowed the goods to deteriorate and subsequently to be sold for a lesser price the responsibility for the loss was certainly the Railway's.

(3) That the decree could not be given for the full amount claimed. The demurrage charges and freightage charges should be deducted. 1952 Mad WN 824: 65 Mad LW 1020: (1952) 2 MLJ 713: ILR (1953) Mad 915: AIR 1953 Mad 217 (218, 219) (Pts A, B) (Prs 4, 7, 8) (DB).

——S. 56 (2) —Auction sale of unclaimed goods — Obligation of consignor — Claim for compensation — Freight and demurrage should be allowed to Railway Company.

Normally, as property in the goods entrusted to a carrier remains with the owner, he is bound to take delivery even if they are damaged, his remedy being to claim compensation, nor can he cast upon the bailee responsibility for further custody as bailee without payment of storage or demurrage dues.

Held, on facts, that despite the refusal of the Railway Company to give delivery when the plaintiff's representative demanded it, there was nevertheless a duty cast on the plaintiff to have taken delivery of the goods, though damaged when delivery was offered in accordance with the very fair and reasonable terms offered by the Railway Company.

There was therefore no justification for disallowing the freight and demurrage charges to the Railway Company from the claim for compensation against it. 1952 Mad WN 824: (1952) 2 MLJ 713: 65 Mad LW 1020: ILR (1953) Mad 916: AIR 1953 Mad 217 (218, 219) (Pt B) (Prs 7, 8) (DB).

——Ss. 56, 72, 73 — Perishable goods — Power of Railways to sell — Notice to consignor or consignee before sale is essential.

The law relating to perishable goods is that where perishable goods are sent by Railway the Railway Co. are agents to carry, not to sell. To give them the right to sell, circumstances must exist, which put them in the position of agents of necessity for the owner to take that action which is necesasry in the interests of the owner. These conditions do not arise if the carrier can communicate with the owner, and get his instructions. They must give the owner the opportunity of deciding how he will deal with the goods. Therefore to justify a sale by a railway company they must first show that it was commercially impossible to communicate with the owner and receive instructions from him. If they show that, they must then show that a sale was in the circumstances the only reasonable business course to be taken.

In a suit for damages against Railways on the ground that the Railways ought to have obtained plaintiff's instructions as to disposal of goods prior to sale, the defence was that the Railway lines were submerged under floods and the train service was suspended for about 10 days: therefore, the goods being perishable had to be sold along with other articles in a lot in emergency.

Held, that the notice to the owner of goods was essential before selling the consignment and in absence of the proof that it was commercially impossible for the Railways to communicate with the consignee or the consignor, the plaintiff's was bound to succeed. (1913) 1 KB 103 and (1921) 1 KB 257. Rel. on; AIR 1940 Lah 412 and AIR 1932 Cal 492, Disting. (1962) 4 Orissa JD 284: AIR 1963 Orissa 17 (19, 20) (Prs 4, 5).

——S. 56 (1) —Delivery of consignment refused by consignee — Liability to pay freight and demurrage whether that of consignor or consignee — Tests — Consignor acting as agent of consignee — Consignee held liable.

Where the consignee of goods refuses to take the delivery of the goods from the railways on its arrival at the destination in order to determine as to whether the consignor or the consignee is liable to pay the amount of railway freight and demurrage it is necessary to find out who were the contracting parties and what was the nature of the contract between them. The person who is primarily liable for the payment of freight is the consignor and this liability of the consignor is to be implied from the fact that he had made over the goods to the carrier for the purpose of being carried to destination and this liability of the consignor, may, in some cases, be even independent of the question of actual ownership of the goods. The consignee as such is not liable to pay the freight, because ordinarily he is not to be treated as a party to the contract of carriage. But if the facts of the case show that the consignor acted to the knowledge of the carrier as agent only, the person on whose behalf he acted as agent is in reality the principal and liable for the freight.

Thus, the consignee is liable for the freight when he has made himself liable by express contract or when he is treated as the undisclosed principal of the consignor or when it is understood between the consignor and the carrier that freight is to be paid by the consignee. The mere fact that the entry "to pay" is made in the relevant column of the railway receipt or the forwarding note is not sufficient to show that the consignee was liable to pay the freight. AIR 1929 Pat 265 and AIR 1931 Cal 33, Rel. on.

Held, on facts that the contents of the sanction order and the forwarding notes were sufficient to prove that contract for supply of wagons was between the railway and the allottee-consignee and inasmuch as the consignor Company had booked the consignments in pursuance of the sanction order, it had acted as an agent of the consignee. Hence the consignee was liable to pay the freight as well as the demurrage, if any. 1962 BLJR 968: ILR 42 Pat 436: AIR 1963 Pat 46 (48) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 3) (DB).

——S. 56 — Consignee cannot refuse to take delivery of goods on ground that the quality of goods was not to specification — Consignee can file suit for damages.

A consignor or a consignee of goods is not justified in refusing to take delivery from the railway on the ground that the quality of the consignment was bad or that there was a shortage in the consignment at the time of delivery. A consignor or a consignee is entitled to sue the railway for damages in such cases and if he refuses to take delivery, he does so at his own risk. 1962 BLJR 968: ILR 42 Pat 436: AIR 1963 Pat 46 (49) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Ss. 56, 55 — Unclaimed goods (Coal) — Railway administration must send notice to owner or to such person appearing to it to be entitled thereto, requiring him to remove the goods — No such person known to Railway Administration — Administration can sell goods as nearly as may be under Section 55 — Consignee intimating its intention not to take delivery — Railway Administration is not bound to take immediate step for disposal of goods — Railway is not bound to hold consignee as owner and is not expected to go into nice question of law in determining ownership — It is justified in making enquiries from other source on question of ownership — Permission of Coal Commissioner essential under Colliery Control Order and Bihar Coal Order for disposal of coal by public auction — Held, that there was no unavoidable delay in disposal of coal by Railway Administration for recovery of freight and demurrage. AIR 1920 Pat 493 and AIR 1960 Pat 323, Rel. on; AIR 1961 Pat 119. Dist. 1962 BLJR 968: ILR 42 Pat 436: AIR 1963 Pat 40 (50) (Pt D) (Pr 6) (DB).

——S. 56 — Action for damages for non-delivery of goods — Who can maintain — Principles as to — Endorsement in blank — Meaning of — (Words and Phrases — 'Endorsement in blank') — (Sale of Goods Act (1930), S. 2 (4) and S. 23) — (Contract Act (1872), S. 178). See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1959 Pat 438.

——S. 56 — Suit for compensation for non-delivery of goods — Defences of laches in delaying to take delivery after arrival of goods — Defendant Railway must establish when the goods arrived — After arrival of goods the liability of Railway is that of bailee under Ss. 151, 152 and 161, Contract Act, to take care of goods as man of ordinary prudence would, under similar circumstances take of his own goods — Bailee is liable for loss, destruction or deterioration of goods, if they are not returned, delivered or tendered at proper time — On failure to claim goods, Railway has to act under S. 156 of Railways Act and they are not relieved from liability — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152 and 161). AIR 1920 All 280, Not followed; Case law Ref. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 72 (1). AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 994 (DB).

——S. 56 — Goods Tariff General Rules, R. 31 (old Rule 28) — Goods consigned to railway — Liability of railway — It does not terminate with arrival of goods at station of destination — It continues till delivery or till disposal thereof under Section 56 — Condition in Rule 28 (2) (New Rule 31) — It is not valid as it exceeds the rule-making power of railway and it is also inconsistent with the liability imposed by Section 72. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 72. AIR 1962 Raj 181 (DB).

——Ss. 56 and 55 — Distinction — Independent of Section 55, Section 56 provides for sale of unclaimed goods. See Railways Act (1890), Section 55. AIR 1952 Sau 95.

SECTION 57

——Ss. 57 and 72 — Scope of — Liability of the Railway Administration — Railway receipt — A document of title — Duty of the Railway Administration to insist upon its production — Contract Act — Provisions as to bailment — Applicability of.

A railway receipt is a document of title. As a rule, therefore, the Administration, should insist upon the production of the receipt before it parts with the goods to which it relates. The railway receipt may be endorsed by the consignor or his endorsee to any other person; when so endorsed it is a direction from the bailor to the bailee to deliver the goods to such other person and it is the duty of the bailee to obey the instructions of the bailor.

Section 57, Railways Act, covers goods coming into the possession of the Railway Administration either for carriage or otherwise and the first clause obviously refers to rival claims made by two or more persons in the case of goods coming into possession of the Railway Administration otherwise than for carriage. If goods are found for instance, in a train and thus come into possession of the Railway Administration and two or more persons lay claims to them, this clause applies. When the receipt given is not forthcoming, this section enables the Railway Administration to withhold delivery, until the person entitled in its opinion to receive them has given an indemnity to its satisfaction against the claims of any other persons with respect to the goods.

The mere fact that the consignment was made to self does not make the consignor the rightful owner. If the Railway Authorities deliver the goods on production of the receipt, they are protected, but when they do so without its production, they do so at their risk. Section 57 gives the Railway Company the right to withhold delivery until a particular point of time. The Section does not protect the Railway Administration from the consequences of deilvery to a wrong person. In fact, it provides for the possibility of a wrong delivery by enacting that the authorities should take an indemnity before delivering the goods to a person claiming them.

The relevant provisions of the Indian Contract Act as to contracts of bailment would apply to the carriage of goods by the Railway authority except in so far as they are altered or modified by the Railways Act. Under Section 166 of the Contract Act, where the bailor has no title to the goods, the bailee is protected from the consequences of wrong delivery if he acts in good faith in delivering them back or in accordance with the instructions of the bailor. When, to the knowledge of both the parties, the instructions are contained in a document, which is besides a document of title, that is to say, a document capable on endorsement of passing the title to the goods to which it relates, then the instructions of the bailor can only be sought in the document and the bailee is bound to ask for that document, although where it is not forthcoming, he may act in his discretion but still at his risk. Otherwise the Railway Authorities can hardly be stated to be acting in good faith. They will be absolutely protected if they refuse to deliver except on being reasonably satisfied that the document is lost or destroyed; when, however they deliver the goods in the absence of the receipt to a person, who in their opinion, is entitled thereto, they cannot have immunity from the claim of the lawful owner. That is indeed the reason why they take an indemnity against such claim. (1959) 1 Andh WR 105: AIR 1959 Andh Pra 331 (332) (Prs 3, 4, 5) (DB).

——S. 57 — Rules under S. 47, Rr. 45, 181 — Loss of receipt — Execution of indemnity bond — Detention of goods, if justified — Liability for demurrage.

Reading Rules 45, 181 (2) (a) together with Section 57, it is quite clear, that, in case the railway receipt is not produced, the person asking for delivery of goods can get the delivery of it on execution of an indemnity bond. Under Rule 181 (2) (c), the duty of a consignee ends as soon as he had executed the indemnity bond and made it over to the Station Master concerned; it is none of his business to go about searching for the Divisional Superintendent of the area. The said sub-rule clearly says that if the indemnity bond is in respect of a consignment valued at more than Rs. 500, the indemnity bond has to be forwarded to Divisional Superintendent. Once the indemnity bond is delivered to the Station Master it is for him to forward the bond to the Divisional Superintendent, and from the date the indemnity bond is delivered by the person who wants to take delivery on the strength of that indemnity bond, the demurrage must cease to run. AIR 1922 Pat 890, Rel. on. AIR 1958 Pat 558 (559, 560) (Prs 5, 6).

——Ss. 57 and 76-B (as amended by Act of 1961) — Suit by consignor for recovery of price of goods against Railway — Railway delivering goods to consignee on executing indemnity bond contrary to consigor's instructions, is liable.

Held, that in the circumstances the railway was liable for the price of the goods to the consignor. The appropriation of the goods was conditional and the property in the goods was intended to pass only when the railway receipt was retrieved by the consignee from the bank after payment. Therefore, property in the goods never passed to the consignee and the consig nor had the right to stop delivery of the goods in transit. The railway authorities remained the agent of the consignor and they failed to give effect to the consignor's letter. AIR 1955 Mad 722 and (1865) 19 CB (NS) 290 and (1921) 1 AC 486, Rel. on. The Railway staff was highly negligent in making the delivery to the consignee contrary to the directions of the consignor and hence delivery of the goods by the railway was not bona fide. Section 57 of the Act was of no avail to the railway to escape liability in view of the specific directions given by the consignor in regard to the delivery of the goods. 65 Punj LR 1107: AIR 1964 Punj 20 (22) (Prs 7, 9, 10) (DB).

SECTION 58

——S. 58 — Declaration need not be separately made — Requisite information should be given to railway administration — Held, there was no declaration made in the case. See Railways Act (1890), S. 75 (1). (1957) 59 Bom LR 117: ILR (1957) Bom 321.

SECTION 63

——S. 63 — Overcrowding — Actionable negligence — Damages — (Tort — Negligence — Damage) — (Contract Act (1872), S. 73).

The question whether overcrowding in a railway compartment by itself amounts to actionable negligence by the railway or its employees will depend on the duty arising out of the contract and must depend upon the ordinary facts known to the contracting parties at the time of the contract. Assuming that overcrowding in certain circumstances may amount to actionable negligence, the plaintiff has still to prove that the negligence resulted in some damages or injury to him. Mere inconvenience is not enough. ILR 33 Pat 249: AIR 1955 Pat 282 (283) (Pr 4) (DB).

SECTION 66

——Ss. 66, 74 and 113 — Scope — Passenger purchasing ticket — Half-ticket purchased by adult — Misrepresentation — Effect of — Contract of carriage — If void or voidable — Luggage booked on such ticket — Loss of — Liability of Railway administration — Contract Act (1872), S. 19.

If a half-ticket is obtained from the railway administration for carriage of an adult person the contract becomes voidable, at the option of the railway administration, under Section 19 of the Contract Act and not void. Moreover, Section 113 of the Railways Act provides for realisation of excess charge from a passenger travelling with an improper ticket and thereby validating the improper ticket.

That being so, the booking of luggage, on the strength of the half-ticket purchased by the passenger does not become a void contract. The railway administration having received the luggage charges and the luggages and having booked them against a proper receipt, becomes a bailee in respect thereof and is responsible for the loss thereof under Section 74 of the Railways Act. 65 Cal WN 727: ILR (1962) 1 Cal 230: AIR 1962 Cal 48 (52) (Pt B) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Ss. 66 and 68 — Person travelling without ticket or permission is not passenger within Section 82-A.

Reading Sections 66 and 68 together it is clear that a person desirous of travelling on a railway has to obtain a ticket under Section 66 or can travel, if he has with him no proper pass or ticket, with the permission of the railway servant under Section 68. So long as he has not been supplied with a ticket under the previous section or given permission under the latter section he is not a passenger. See Railways Act (1890), S. 82-A. AIR 1959 Pat 316 (DB).

——Ss. 66, 68, 82-A — "Passenger" — Person travelling by goods train without ticket or permission injured in collision — Liability of railway — Trespasser — (Tort — Damages — Carrier — Collision — Liability of railway to trespasser).

(1) Generally speaking a passenger is one who travels in a public conveyance by virtue of a contract with the carrier, express or implied; (2) that a person who travels contrary to a bye-law and against the wishes of a railway servant is a trespasser and he cannot recover if as a result of negligence of the carrier he suffers injury; (3) if a person steals a ride on a goods train knowing that such a train is not meant for the carriage of passengers or, even on the case made out by the plaintiffs, is meant only for refugees, then the plaintiffs at least cannot recover damages as according to their own case the deceased does not fall in that category; (4) a railway servant, who under the law has not the power to permit a person to travel in a railway carriage, cannot give permission to a traveller to travel by a railway train and if he does so, his act is not binding on the railway company. The act of such a railway servant in allowing a lift to a person, if it is outside the scope of his employment, does not make the employer liable to damages because it is the performance of an act which the servant is not employed to perform; and (5) if it is not proved that the servants of the railway had allowed any passenger to travel by the goods train, and if the deceased travelled by such a train, the railway, administration is not liable. ILR (1957) Punj 749: 59 Punj LR 189: AIR 1957 Punj 164 (169) (Pr 30) (DB).

SECTION 67

——S. 67 (3) — Applicability to season ticket-holders — Section 67 (3) cannot be made applicable to the case of season ticket-holders.

Where a season ticket-holder was obliged to travel by the lower class only on account of the exercise of the railway administration of right under the rule to vary or alter the train the season ticket-holder having regard to the terms when the season ticket was issued to him, could not now question the right of the railway administration to alter and vary the trains and he could not make the railway administration liable for any loss or damage that might arise to him by reason of such alteration or variation of the train. 1955 Mad WN 266: (1955) 2 MLJ 159: AIR 1955 Mad 619 (620) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——S. 67 (3) — Rules under S. 47, are not ultra vires.

When the railway administration issues season tickets at concession rates, for the convenience of passengers it is open to the railway administration to frame the rules in exercise of its powers vested in Section 47 to regulate the travelling of ticket-holders also. So a rule framed in exercise of that power cannot be said to be ultra vires of Section 67 (3). See Railways Act (1890), S. 47 (1) (b) (g). AIR 1955 Mad 619.

——S. 67 (3) — Applicability to season ticket-holders.

Sub-clause (3) of S. 67 contemplates that when a ticket-holder is obliged to travel in a class lower than the one for which he has purchased a ticket, he has to deliver his ticket and then only he is entitled to a refund. There is no question of a season ticket-holder delivering up a season ticket at the counter where the collector stands for collecting the tickets from the persons who have travelled in the train. On the other hand, what the season ticket-holder is expected to do is to show the ticket to the collector and pass out of the gate or the counter as the case may be. It will be incorrect to say that Section 67 (3) is also capable of application to season ticket-holders. 1955 Mad WN 266: (1955) 2 MLJ 159: AIR 1955 Mad 619 (620) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

SECTION 68

——Ss. 68 and 113 — Passenger's ticket lost during travel — Excess recovery — A certificate under Section 68 could be issued only on condition that ticketless traveller subsequently pays the fare for the distance to be travelled — Suit to recover single fare or excess charge — Not maintainable. AIR 1949 Nag 330; 1949 NLJ 251, Foll. 1961 MPLJ (Notes) 56.

——S. 68 — Person travelling without ticket or permission is not passenger within the meaning of Section 82-A. See Railways Act (1890), Section 82-A. AIR 1959 Pat 316 (DB).

——S. 68 — Person travelling by goods train without ticket or permission, injured in collision — Liability of railway — Trespasser — A person who travels contrary to a bye law and against the wishes of a railway servant is a tresspasser and he cannot recover damages if he suffers injury as a result of negligence of the carrier — (Tort — Damages — Carrier — Collision — Liability of railway to trespasser). See Railways Act (1890), S. 66. AIR 1957 Punj 164 (DB).

SECTION 70

——S. 70 — Accused using Railway season ticket of another person pretending to be that another person — He can be charged under Section 419, I. P. C. — Even if the Railways Act does not specifically provide for the abuse of a season ticket, accused cannot escape his answerability under the general criminal law if his act brings him thereunder. See Penal Code (1860), S. 419. 1956 Cri LJ 44: AIR 1957 Andh Pra 4.

——S. 70 — Rules — Rule 39 (b) — Validity — If ultra vires as unreasonable or inconsistent with Act — Rule 39 (b) was a very reasonable rule intended to carry out the provisions of S. 70 and as such was not ultra vires. See Railways Act, Section 47. 1952 Cri LJ 1462: AIR 1952 Bom 421.

SECTION 72 (OLD)

SYNOPSIS

(Railways Act (1890), S. 72.)

1. "Delivered to be carried".
2. General liability of railways.
   See also Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152 and 161.
3. General liability can be limited by contract.
   See also Note 2.
4. Risk Notes.
   —Risk Note A.
   —Risk Note B.
   —Risk Note C.
   —Risk Note G.
   —Risk Note X.
   —Risk Note Z.
   —Constitution.
   —Validity of Form.
   —Signature on Risk Note.
5. Delay in delivery.
   See Note 6.

5-A. Refusal to deliver.

6. Misdelivery, short delivery and non-delivery.
   See also Note 4.
7. Deviation from route.
8. Theft.
9. Theft from running train.
10. Looting.
    See Note 9.
11. Accident.
12. Fire
    See Note 11.
13. Misconduct.
14. Proof of misconduct.
15. Negligence.
16. Proof of negligence.
17. Wilful neglect.
    See also Note 15.
18. What ought to be proved by railway.
    See also Note 4.
19. Proof of loss.
20. Estoppel.
21. Rules.
22. Notice.
    See Railways Act (1890), S. 77 (old).
23. Who can sue.
24. Who can be sued.
25. Damages.
26. Pleadings and procedure.
27. Limitation for suit.
    See Limitation Act (1908), Art. 31

1. "Delivered to be carried".

——S. 72 — Liability of Railway — Goods delivered to railway for carriage — Railway receipt not issued by railway — Loss of goods — Right to sue for damages. See Contract Act (1872), S. 151. AIR 1958 Assam 5 (DB).

——S. 72 — Liability of Railway — Delivery of goods — If and when bailment indicated. See Contract Act (1872), S. 149. AIR 1958 Assam 5 (DB).

——S. 72 — Common carrier — Burden of proof See Contract Act (1872), S. 151. AIR 1955 NUC (Assam) 2805.

——S. 72 — Delivered to be carried.

There is no obligation upon a Railway Administration to refuse to carry goods if the consignor elects to have them carried under Risk Note A. ILR (1952) 4 Assam 146: AIR 1951 Assam 173 (175) (Pt B) (Pr 12) (DB).

——S. 72 — Consignment to be sent by passenger train — Wagon attached to parcel train — Breach of contract — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151 and 152).

Despatching a wagon attached to a parcel train, when the Parcel Way Bill was issued in response to a Forwarding Note requesting the Station Master to send the consignment by passenger train, amounts to a breach of contract. If in such a case, the goods consigned are of perishable nature and they are damaged on account of great delay in transit, the railway administration is liable for loss suffered by the consignor. 59 Bom LR 704: ILR (1957) Bom 647: AIR 1957 Bom 276 (278) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

——S. 72 — Applicability — "Delivery to railway for carriage" — What amounts to — Goods brought to railway station and deposited in premises with consent of station master for despatch to another station as no wagon was then available — Destruction by fire — Liability of railway.

A consignment of 84 bales of cotton was taken by the agent of the consignor to K Railway station for despatch to another station and tendered to the station master. No wagon was immediately available for the purpose and, therefore, the consignment with the consent and permission of the station master at K, who was the authorised agent of the railway administration, deposited it in the station premises and stocked on the down platform and allowed to be left there pending the arrival of a suitable wagon. No forwarding note was tendered by the consignor's agent, nor any receipt given to him by the railway administration. Within three days of the deposit of the goods in the station yard the goods were destroyed by fire by a spark from an engine.

Held, that having regard to all the circumstances of the case, it was clear, that the goods had been "delivered to be carried" within the meaning of S. 72, Railways Act and that therefore the Railway Administration was liable to the consignor for the loss incurred by the destruction of the bales by fire. 54 Bom LR 652: ILR (1953) Bom 242: AIR 1953 Bom 46 (48 to 50) (Prs 3 to 6) (DB).

——S. 72 — Goods delivered for carriage to duly authorised agent of Manager — Liability of Railway.

(Obiter) — Under Sec. 72, it is clear beyond doubt that if the goods are delivered for carriage to a duly authorised agent of the Manager, the Railway Administration is responsible as a bailee for the goods so delivered. It cannot be contended that the goods must be delivered to the Manager personally before the railway administration can be held responsible for the safe carriage of the goods. (1957) 61 Cal WN 433: ILR (1957) 3 Cal 420.

——S. 72 — Gate clerk of Railway signing forwarding note and allowing goods to pass into railway premises — Goods lost — Railway not liable for loss.

The forwarding agent of the plaintiff filled up the forwarding note and handed it over to the clerk who gave him a slip mentioning the consignor's name, the number of packages and the destination. On the following day he went with the goods to the gate of the E. I. R. goods-shed. He handed over the slip to the thelewala and asked him to give it to the clerk in charge of the gate. Goods were allowed to pass and the forwarding note was handed over to him after it had been signed and the man in charge at the gate told him that he should put the goods in the G. M. R. goods-shed. The same day at about 1 O' clock he left the goods near one of the weighing machines and went to the next one. At about 5, the same afternoon he asked the booking clerk for the railway receipt and then at about 6 P. M. it was found that there was only one bale and not two:

Held, that the passing of the goods through the gate and issuing by the gate-keeper of a forwarding note duly signed by him to the consignor did not amount to delivery to the railway. Beyond the fact that the gate clerk of the railway signed the forwarding note and allowed the goods to pass into the railway premises, nothing had been proved to establish the "passing from the physical custody" of the plaintiff's agent to "the physical custody" of the railway or its agent nor was there any implied acceptance of goods. And stage was never reached where the liablity (in case of loss) of the railway could commence. Case law discussed. 51 Pun LR 397: AIR 1950 EP 87 (90) (Pr 9).

——S. 72 — Delivered to be carried — Meaning — Goods lying in goods-shed with knowledge of goods shed officials — Goods technically not booked — Liability of railway as bailees.

Whether there has or there has not been delivery to the railway administration is an inference of fact from the circumstances of each case. If the consignor was specifically refused permission to keep his goods in the goods shed overnight and directed to remove them by the officials responsible, it may be possible to hold that the goods would lie there entirely at the consignor's risk without any contract of bailment. But in cases where to the knowledge of the goods shed officials or with their permission specific goods lie in a goods shed, deposited there before the shed is locked up for the night, the Railway Company cannot avoid the responsibilities of bailees under Section 72. It must be remembered that the consignor in such a case is afforded no facilities for watching his goods at night. They are taken into the exclusive custody of the Railway Company and where they lie side by side in the goods shed along with booked articles and also articles awaiting delivery to consignees, delivery in such a case cannot be made contingent on the completion of a particular stage in the process of booking. But the railway administration is not liable as bailees where a consignor sends goods to the goods shed and some of the goods get lost during the day before the goods shed staff accept delivery. (1950) 2 Mad LJ 27: AIR 1950 Mad 700 (703) (Pt A) (Pr 9).

2. General liability of railways.

See also Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152 and 161.

——S. 72 — General liability of railways — Responsibility as bailee under Contract Act, will arise only when there is no provision in Railways Act to govern parties relationship. AIR 1955 NUC (Ajmer) 1263.

——S. 72 — Liability of railway as that of bailee — Liability continues after transit even during "free time" allowed under Rule 29 (2) of Goods Tariff Rules — Burden of proving that goods remained intact till expiry of free time is on railway.

The railway does not cease to be a bailee of a consignment as soon as the consignment reaches the station of destination and the liability of the railway as a bailee continues even after the termination of the transit. The purpose of bailment is carriage of the consignment but the duties of the railway as a bailee do not come to an end merely on the accomplishment of the purpose of the bailment and they continue until the consignment has been disposed of according to the direction of the person who delivered it to the railway. The person entitled to take delivery of consignment must be allowed reasonable time for doing so and it is not until the expiry of reasonable time that the liability of the railway can cease. In order to escape liability the railway has, therefore, to prove that for a reasonable period of time after the arrival of the goods at the station of destination the railway took such care as it was bound under the law to take and the loss to the goods did not occur during that period. In the absence of such proof the liability of the railway under the bailment is not discharged and it cannot be urged that if delivery of the goods is not taken within reasonable time the railway is relieved of the obligation to prove that loss did not occur during that period of time. AIR 1920 All 280 and AIR 1924 All 605, Rel. on.

Exemption from liability for loss, destruction, deterioration or damage to goods can, therefore, be claimed by the Railway under Rule 29 (2) of Goods Tariff Rules only when those things occur after the lapse of what is called the 'free time' and the rule cannot be construed as exempting the railway from liability irrespective of when the loss etc., occurs if the goods are not removed within the 'free time'. For availing of the protection of Rule 29 (2) it has to be established by the railway that the goods remained intact till the expiry of the 'free time' and if this fact is not established a case for exemption from liability under the rule cannot be regarded as having been made out. The rule purports to discharge the railway in absolue terms from its statutory obligation as a bailee and the burden, therefore, of proving that the requisite conditions for the application of Rule 29 (2) are satisfied obviously falls on the railway. 1965 All LJ 177: AIR 1965 All 480 (481, 482) (Prs 9, 11, 15).

——S. 72 — Railway administration delivering consignment to person other than endorsed on 'self' consigned railway receipt cannot escape its liability.

Where the railway receipt which was consigned to 'self' bore an endorsement made by consignor in favour of a firm A, but the railway administration delivered the consignment to J without any proper endorsement by A in favour of J or any one.

Held, that the railway administration could not escape its liability because there should have been clear endorsement by a person who should have signed on behalf of the firm authorising J to take delivery of the consignment. AIR 1965 All 184 (187) (Pt B) (Pr 12).

——S. 72 — Railway undertaking to carry goods by passenger train — Failure to keep contract — Liability for loss.

If a carrier of goods, such as the railway, undertakes to carry goods by passenger trains or by special trains and fails to keep the contract and carries perishable goods by a goods train, and loss is occasioned to the consignee, the railway would evidently be guilty of a breach of the contract and the risk-note Form B would not come to its rescue. It is only when the railways perform their part of the contract in the manner in which it ought to have been done that they are absolved from any liability with regard to any loss or destruction arising out of any cause whatsoever, but this indemnity would not be available if the railways do not carry the goods in the manner contracted. ILR (1957) 1 All 450: 1957 All LJ 150: 1957 All WR (HC) 142: AIR 1957 All 259 (260) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——S. 72 (3) — Responsibility of Railway Administration — Nature of.

Sub-section (3) of S. 72 excludes the railways from responsibility as common carriers. Therefore, the Railway Administration will not share any responsibility as insurers but only as bailees. (1958) 2 Andh WR 377: AIR 1959 Andh Pra 17 (18) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——S. 72 (2)—Agreement to take delivery within time allowed for demurrage and wharfage—Delay in taking delivery — Collection of demurrage — Responsibility of Railway Administration.

Section 72 (2) lays down that limiting of the responsibility of the Railway Administration could be by means of an agreement with the bailor. If, therefore, a specific agreement is entered into by the bailor with the Railway Administration to the effect that the goods consigned to the railway should be taken delivery of within the free time allowed for demurrage and wharfage on railways, the responsibility of the Railway Administration would cease after the time so limited by that agreement. It may not also be wrong to say that the collection of demurrage by the Railway Administration on account of the delay caused by the consignee in taking delivery of the goods would not by itself cast further responsibility on the Railway Administration under S. 72. AIR 1943 Lah 244; AIR 1955 Cal 264 and AIR 1956

Nag 255, Dissented from. (1958) 2 Andh WR 377: AIR 1959 Andh Pra 17 (18) (Pt B) (Pr 2).

——S. 72 — Risk Note B — Proviso — Misconduct — Evidence — Failure of Railway Administration to discharge its obligation as bailee and also under proviso to Risk Note — Presumption— Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 106 and 114 (g) — Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151 and 152.

The plaintiffs brought a suit for compensation against a State Railway for the loss sustained by them by reason of the non-delivery of certain goods carried by the defendant under Risk Notes A and B. Some five months before the litigation commenced, the plaintiffs called upon the Railway Administration to make an enquiry into the matter of the loss of the consignment, and sent a reminder to the Railway Administration 3 weeks later. In the two letters, there was no specific request made by the plaintiffs for a disclosure by the Railway Administration as to the manner in which it had dealt with the consignment in transit, but it was plain from the endorsement of the Chief Commercial Manager forwarding a copy of the letter to the station master concerned that he understood the implication of the request made by the plaintiffs in the matter of the enquiry into the non-delivery of the consignment. However, the Railway Administration failed, before the litigation commenced, to furnish to the plaintiffs particulars of the manner in which the consignment was dealt with in transit. Even after a pleader's notice was served upon the Railway Administration, the Deputy Director, Railway Board, merely replied that the pleader's notice had been forwarded for disposal to the General Manager. No communication, however, was received by the plaintiffs from the General Manager. When the dispute came to the stage of litigation, the Railway Administration again did not lead any evidence in discharge of its obligation under the proviso contained in Risk Note B:

Held (1) that there was no obligation on the plaintiffs to call upon the Railway Administration to give evidence at the trial in discharge of its obligation under the proviso contained in Risk Note B, the obligation of the Railway Administration being unconditional;

(2) that the terms of Cl. (g) of S. 114, Evidence Act, were clearly attracted, the presumption being that if the Railway Administration had produced the reports and led evidence as to the manner in which the consignment was dealt with in transit, the reports and the evidence would have gone against the Railway Administration and given rise to an inference of misconduct on the part of the Administration or its servants;

(3) that even as a bailee, the Railway Administration had to give evidence to satisfy the Court that it had discharged its obligation under the Contract Act, and that the only way in which it could have discharged its obligation as a bailee was by giving evidence as to the manner in which the consignment was dealt with in transit, quite apart from its obligation under the proviso contained in Risk Note B having regard to the provisions of S. 106 of the Evidence Act;

(4) that, therefore, the Railway Administration was responsible for the loss of the consignment. ILR (1950) 2 Assam 489: AIR 1950 Assam 175 (178) (Pt A) (Prs 12, 13, 14) (DB).

——Ss. 72 (1) and 80 — Loss of goods — Responsibility of contracting railway.

The proposition that the contracting railway is liable to pay compensation to the consignor and to the consignee in any event is not always correct. If there is no negligence or misconduct on the part of the contracting railway it having duly discharged its duties and responsibilities under S. 72 (1) that railway also will have to be absolved from all responsibilities for the loss of the goods. AIR 1946 Pat 336, Dissented from. 60 Cal WN 683: ILR (1957) 3 Cal 713: AIR 1956 Cal 390 (403) (Pt G) (Pr 33) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 SC 1879.]

——S. 72 — Liability of Railway Administration is that of bailee — Duty of bailee is to take such care as ordinary prudent man would take of his own goods — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151 and 152). AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 5915.

——S. 72 — Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152 and 161 — Goods entrusted to Railway Administration for transit — Loss of goods in transit — Extent of liability of Railway Administration indicated. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 860 (DB).

——Ss. 72, 74-A and 74-C — Consignment booked at railway risk — No forwarding note as to any defect in packing — Goods found broken at time of delivery — Railway Administration cannot repudiate its liaiblity on ground of any defect in packing — Held, Railway Administration is not exonerated of its liability and proof of negligence or misconduct is not required — Liability of Railway Administration under S. 72 is that of a bailee — Responsibilities in cases of railway risk rates and owner's risk rates pointed out — Case-law discussed — Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152 and 161. 1965 MPLJ (Notes) 5.

——S. 72 — Responsibility of Railway as bailee — Coal of colliery company lying on railway platform — Coal neither accepted by railway nor delivered to it for transport — Liability arises where acceptance or delivery of goods is incidental to the contract of carriage — Mere depositing the goods as a licensee without objection from railway is not enough — The railway cannot be even liable as a warehouseman — It has only physical custody of the goods because it was lying on its yard — Railway is not bailee and not responsible for loss of coal — Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152. 1961 Jab LJ 1077: 1961 MPLJ 920.

——S. 72 — Liability of Railway.

Prima facie, the alleged theft of the consignment in a running train cannot be said to be an occurrence beyond the control of the Railway Administration. Under S. 72 of the Railways Act, the administration's liability is that of a bailee unless there is something on record to indicate that the theft, if any, took place in spite of proper precautions on their part. 1959 MPLJ 749: 1959 MPC 368: 1959 Jab LJ 718: AIR 1959 Madh Pra 232 (234) (Pt G) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Ss. 72, 47 and 54 — General liability of Railways — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152, 160 and 161).

Neither S. 47 nor S. 54 empowers the Railway Administration to make rules for exemption from liability for any loss, deterioration or destruction of or damage to goods. Rule 29 (2) of the Goods Tariff, therefore, is not covered by the rule-making power of the railway authority. AIR 1943 Lah 244 and ILR 44 All 218, Rel. on. Therefore, the question of exemption from liability of a railway has to be determined upon the general law. In England, the liability of a railway as a carrier ceases after the termination of transit and thereafter it retains the merchandise as a warehouseman at common law. The responsibility of a railway in India, however, is limited under S. 72 of the Indian Railways Act to that of a bailee under Ss. 151, 152 and 161 of the Indian Contract Act and is not governed by the common law of England or the Carriers Act, 1865.

As a bailee, however, the railway during the period contemplated by Ss. 160 and 161, Contract Act, is under the liability to take care of the goods, enjoined on a bailee by S. 151. It is only when it takes the amount of care described in that section that, in the absence of any special contract to the contrary, it is absolved under S. 152 from responsibility for the loss, destruction or deterioration of the goods.

Rule 36-AA of Goods Tariff, Part I-A, provides for rules for the warehousing and retention of goods and levy of wharfage. Demurrage and wharfage are charged by the railway as a term and condition of the contract of warehousing. So long as the period of the goods remaining in the railway premises free of these charges is concerned, the railway obviously retains the goods in pursuance of the original contract of carriage and is, therefore, bound to take such amount of care of the goods as is prescribed under S. 151 of the Indian Contract Act. Therefore, it is bound to do so as a warehouseman until the goods are disposed of as unclaimed goods under Para IX, Chap. I. of Goods Tariff, Part I-A. ILR (1947) Nag 335, AIR 1934 Cal 151, AIR 1955 Cal 264, Rel. on. 1957 MPC 430: 1957 MPLJ 636: 1957 Jab LJ 873: AIR 1957 Madh Pra 192 (193, 194) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 7, 8, 11, 12).

——S. 72 (1) — Damages caused by misinformation given by Railway servants — Supervening causes — Liability of Railway Administration, if affected.

Where the misinformation given to the plaintiff by the servants of the Railway Administration is the proximate cause of the damage, it is not necessary to enquire whether there are also other contributory factors. Therefore, even if the goods could not be removed to the shed earlier due to supervening causes or the damage was caused in spite of reasonable precautions for their safety while they were lying on the platform, the liability of the Railway Administration would not be affected. (1957) MPLJ 294: 1957 Jab LJ 550: 1958 MPC 459: ILR (1957) Madh Pra 253: AIR 1957 Madh Pra 114 (115) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

——S. 72 — Scope — Conditions limiting liability of carrier — Permissibility. AIR 1959 Mad 285.

——S. 72 — Responsibility of Railway — Nature of — (Contract Act (1872), S. 151).

Where it is found that the roof of the wagon in which the consignment in question was loaded contained holes and a gap of 4 inches even before the goods were destroyed by fire, it cannot be said that the Railway had taken such prudent care of the goods entrusted to it as was required of a bailee under S. 151 of the Indian Contract Act as there was every likelihood of the fire from the sparks of the engine getting into the wagon through those holes and gaps and the result of the fire was possibly due to that source. AIR 1955 NUC (Mad) 85.

——Ss. 72, 76, 74-C and 74-D — Onus — Nature of liability of Railway.

Ordinarily the responsibility of a Railway Administration for the loss, destruction or deterioration of goods delivered to it for carriage, is as provided by S. 72 that of a bailee. Therefore, it is normally under a duty to take reasonable and proper care for the due security and proper delivery of that bailment. It should, in order to take such care of the bailment do what a reasonable and prudent man would do and omit to do what a reasonable and prudent man would not do. Further, as provided by S. 76 of the Act in a suit for compensation for any loss or damage, it is not necessary for the plaintiff to prove how the loss or damage was caused. But where a consignment is carried at the special reduced rate, known under the Act as the owner's risk rate, the case will be governed by S. 74-C or S. 74-D and the ordinary rule that when it is proved that goods delivered to the Railway Administration for carriage are lost, the Railway Administration is not exonerated from liability in respect of such loss except upon proof of those facts which would, under the Contract Act, exempt a bailee from liability would not apply. In those cases the negligence or misconduct has to be proved by the plaintiff unless the fair inference, from the disclosure such as may be made by the Railway Administration under S. 74-D as to how it dealt with the consignment when it was in its possession or control, is that the loss is attributable to negligence on its part or on the part of its servants. 36 Mys LJ 216: ILR (1957) Mys 407: AIR 1959 Mys 90 (90, 91) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6, 8).

——S. 72 — It is not open to the Railway Administration to repudiate its liability if the claim is not made immediately to the clerk-in-charge and is not forwarded to the Traffic Manager forthwith in spite of the rule printed at the back of the Railway Receipt to that effect. The observance of this rule would be contrary to S. 28 of the Contract Act. AIR 1953 Nag 169 (171) (Pt D) (Pr 14) (DB).

——S. 72 — Wagon loaded by sender — Short delivery — Liability of Railway — Admission — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 17).

Where goods were loaded in the wagons by the sender and not by the Railway servants, and the information given by the sender was accepted as correct for the purpose of charging freight and a receipt was made out as follows: "said to contain 200 bags".

Held, that there was no admission on the part of the Railway authorities that the wagons did contain 200 bags, and if at the destination the wagon was found to contain less number of bags, the Railway Administration was not liable. AIR 1950 Nag 85, Applied. 1955 Mad WN 983: AIR 1956 Mad 176 (176) (Pr 3).

——Ss. 72, 56, 73 — Perishable goods — Power of Railways to sell — Notice to consignor or consignee before sale is essential. See Railways Act (1890), S. 56. AIR 1963 Orissa 17.

——S. 72 (as amended in 1949) — Scope and effect of.

Before the amendment of S. 72 by Act (56 of 1949) under the old sub-sec. (2), the responsibility of the Railway Administration was subject to the execution of risk notes which were in the form of a separate contract. But by the introduction by the said amending Act of the new Ss. 74-A to 74-E in place of sub-sec. (2) this contractual obligation under the risk notes has now been replaced on a statutory basis. (1960) 2 OJD 504: ILR (1961) Cut 32: AIR 1961 Orissa 113 (115) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——S. 72 — Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152, 160 and 161 — Consignment at railway risk — Duty of railway as bailee to deliver goods at destination — Failure to deliver goods at destination not explained — Liability of railway for loss, destruction or deterioration.

Where a consignment is booked at railway risk for carriage to the destination, the railway as a bailee is bound under S. 160, Contract Act, to return the goods at the destination. If by the default of the bailee, the goods are not returned, tendered or delivered at the proper time, he is responsible to the bailor for any loss, destruction or deterioration of the goods from that time under S. 161, Contract Act. The railway cannot take advantage of the provisions of S. 152, Contract Act, by showing that it had taken all possible care of the consignment during its transit. Since the risk of the railway is a special condition of booking, Section 152, Contract Act, which applies only in the absence of special contract, would not be attracted. The failure to return the thing bailed, if it is not explained, will be presumed to be by the bailee's default. In the present case, if the non-delivery would have been explained by the railway to have been due to an accident or vis major over which they had no control, they might have escaped their responsibility to the bailor for any loss suffered by him. The attempt in the present case has been, on the other hand, to show that not only there was no such accident but also the railway took all precaution about the transit of the goods till its destination. In such a case once non-delivery is established the plaintiffs will be entitled to damages from the carrier. 1962 BLJR 77: ILR 41 Pat 621: AIR 1962 Pat 384 (390) (Pt D) (Pr 15) (DB).

——S. 72 (1) — Railway Administration — Responsibility as bailee. See Contract Act (1872), S. 161. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4954 (DB).

——Ss. 72 (1), 56 — Suit for compensation for non-delivery of goods — Defences of laches in delaying to take delivery after arrival of goods— Defendant Railway must establish when the goods arrived — After arrival of goods the liability of Railway is that of bailee under Ss. 151, 152 and 161, Contract Act, to take care of goods as man of ordinary prudence would, under similar circumstances take of his own goods — Bailee is liable for loss, destruction or deterioration of goods, if they are not returned, delivered or tendered at proper time — On failure to claim goods, Railway has to act under S. 156 of Railways Act and they are not relieved from liability — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152 and 161). AIR 1920 All 280, Not followed; Case-law, Ref. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 994 (DB).

——S. 72 — General liability of Railways — Seal that consignment is at owner's risk not put on railway receipt — It is of no value unless putting of it is part of agreement. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 289 (DB).

3. General liability can be limited by contract.

See also Note 2.

——S. 72 — Liability of Railway Company as bailees is restricted by risk note executed. AIR 1950 Mad 700 (703) (Pt C) (Pr 10).

——S. 72 — General liability of Railways — Limitations on, by contract — Proof of contract — Presumption.

If it is shown that the railway receipt itself refers to risk notes, the goods must be taken to have been despatched under those risk notes unless it is shown by the consignor or the consignee that the risk notes were not executed by him. ILR (1953) Punj 362: AIR 1953 Punj 83 (85) (Pt A) (Pr 11) (DB).

4. Risk Notes.

—Risk Note A.
—Risk Note B.
—Risk Note C.
—Risk Note G.
—Risk Note X.
—Risk Note Z.
—Construction.
—Validity of Form.
—Signature in Risk Note.

4. Risk Notes.

——Ss. 72 and 77 — Right to protection — Test.

Per Desai, J.—Whether the Railway is entitled to the protection afforded by S. 72 or the risk note and to the benefit of the provisions of S. 77 depends upon the actual facts and not upon what the plaintiff pleads in the plaint. AIR 1958 All 234 (238) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Note though available not produced at trial — Proof thereof by indirect evidence cannot be allowed — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 91).

An endorsement on the railway receipt to the effect that a certain risk-note has been executed and the fact that the consignment is booked at a lower rate, are not sufficient to prove that the goods were consigned under a particular risk-note. When a direct evidence is available of any matter, it cannot be held as proved by indirect evidence. The railway receipt is merely an evidence that certain goods were consigned to the charge of the Railway for transit. Any endorsement thereon cannot be taken as a conclusive proof of the execution of any risk-note reducing the liability of the Railway and increasing the risks of the consignee. AIR 1950 Pat 215 and AIR 1944 Cal 50; AIR 1951 Nag 357, Rel. on; AIR 1929 Lah 698 and AIR 1929 Lah 887 and AIR 1925 Cal 915, Dissented from. ILR (1956) Hyd 34: AIR 1956 Hyd 193 (193) (Pt B) (Pr 2).

——S. 72 — Risk Notes.

When the risk notes are executed by the consignor, the consignee cannot be deemed to be bound by it. ILR (1954) Hyd 74: AIR 1954 Hyd 172 (173) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Notes.

When the execution of the risk notes is not proved, liability for delay resulting in loss to the plaintiff cannot be said to have been covered by the notes. ILR (1954) Hyd 74: AIR 1954 Hyd 172 (173) (Pt C) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Ss. 72 and 74-C — Goods consigned at railway risk note — Damage caused to goods—Railway cannot refute claim alleging that packing was not in accordance with rules — Goods accepted at railway risk — Railway Administration bound to see that they were packed properly when consigned or that declaration absolving Railway Administration was taken from consignor. 1965 MPLJ (Notes) 5.

——S. 72 — Both risk-notes 'Z' and 'A' executed by consignor — Claim for damages — Onus.

Where a consignor by a railway had executed both risk-note Z and risk-note A, risk-note Z being in the general form and risk-note A is the one used in special cases where the package is defectively and insufficiently packed so as to be liable for damage, it must be held that the special contract in note A supersedes the general contract in note Z. The Railway can take advantage of either of the notes. AIR 1948 Pat 45, Approved.

The burden in such a case is on the consignor claiming damages to prove misconduct on the part of the Railway and not on the Railway to show how the consignment was dealt with during the course of transit. 1953 Mad WN 36: (1953) 1 Mad LJ 258: AIR 1953 Mad 514 (515, 516) (Prs 4, 5, 6).

——S. 72 — Goods under Risk Note — Proof.

To establish that the goods have been consigned under a risk note, a mere entry in the railway receipt would not be sufficient if the risk note was still available, because the risk note would be the best evidence of the contract. 1951 Nag LJ 470: ILR (1952) Nag 10: AIR 1951 Nag 357 (2) (359) (Pt D) (Pr 14).

——S. 72 (2) — Risk Notes — Execution of — What amounts to — (Ss. 72 to 78-B substituted for Ss. 72, 72-A, 73, 74, 74-A to 74-E and 75 to 78 by the Amendment Act (39 of 1961).

Execution of a private document which contains all the terms stands on a different footing from the execution of the Risk Notes. An ordinary document containing terms binding upon the executant must, in the very nature of it, contain all the terms whereas in the case of a Risk Note the terms binding upon the executant are already contained in a printed form. If the executant, therefore, signs the printed form, it is obvious that he undertakes the liability involved in execution of the Risk Note which contains the essential conditions. As a matter of fact, the filling up of the other details is a part of the same transaction and if a Railway employee (in the instant case, Goods Clerk) asks the executant to sign the form and, for the convenience of entry of the details (in the instant case, description of the bales of jute consigned) fills up later on in the presence of the executant the validity of the document is not affected thereby. It may, however, be made clear that, where the details filled in later on are challenged as unauthorised by the executant as for instance, if there is a dispute between the parties as to the number of bales despatched, it could plausibly be argued that the entry with regard to the number of bales under consignment would not be binding upon the executant. But otherwise, there would be no question of material alteration of the document. AIR 1956 Cal 99 and AIR 1916 Pat 206 and AIR 1924 All 692 (2), Disting.

Where the plaintiff executant had held out an assurance to the Assistant Traffic Superintendent that Risk Note C would be executed and that he would supply tarpaulins and corrugated iron sheets and that his men would accompany the consignment, and on that assurance the Assistant Traffic Superintendent agreed to supply open trucks to him for the carriage of the jute, it would not be open to the plaintiff to turn around and say that Risk Note C was not executed in his behalf. 1960 BLJR 669: AIR 1960 Pat 489 (493) (Pt B) (Pr 11) (DB).

——S. 72 (2) — Risk Note Form issued in name of Governor-General-in-Council — Use of, after Adaptation of Laws Order, 1948, came into force —Propriety — General Clauses Act (1897), S. 24.

Section 24, General Clauses Act, lays down inter alia, that when any Act or Regulation is repealed and re-enacted with or without modification, then any form, etc., shall continue in force and be deemed to have been made or issued under the provisions so re-enacted. Accordingly, although the phrase 'Central Government' in S. 72 (2), Railways Act, has taken the place of the phrase 'Governor-General-in-Council' after the Adaptation of Laws Order of 1948, any Risk Note Form issued before in the name of the Governor-General-in-Council which occurred in S. 72 (2) before its adaptation in 1937, must be deemed to have been approved by the Central Government. 1960 BLJR 669: AIR 1960 Pat 489 (495) (Pt C) (Pr 13).

——S. 72 (2) — Risk Note B — Proof of execution — Mention of Risk Note in receipt — Effect — Onus of proof — Admissibility of secondary evidence — (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 65, 67, 101).

There is a distinction between existence of the Risk Notes and their execution. The mention of letters 'A' and 'B' under the heading 'Risk Note Form' in a railway receipt merely prove that there were such documents but it does not relieve the Railway Administration from proving the due execution of the Risk Notes with particular reference to the conditions which have to be fulfilled under sub-sec. (2) of S. 72, Railways Act. AIR 1950 Pat 215, Rel. on.

If the original Risk Notes are lost, it is open to the Railway Administration to give secondary evidence of their execution. The Railway Administration is bound to prove due execution of the alleged Risk Notes and in the absence of such proof, no inference can be drawn merely on the basis of the note on the railway receipt. AIR 1956 Pat 434 (436) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——S. 72 — Open delivery.

A consignee is not entitled to claim open delivery from the Railway Administration. ILR 34 Pat LT 10: 1953 BLJR 81: AIR 1953 Pat 206 (207) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——S. 72 (2) — Risk note — Execution of—Proof — Secondary evidence — Execution is different from existence — Railway receipts referring to risk notes produced — Existence of risk notes held proved but not their execution.

To prove the execution of risk notes by secondary evidence the Railway Administration produced certain railway receipts, which referred to the risk notes.

Held that, that merely proved that there were such documents; that did not prove the due execution of the risk notes with particular reference to the conditions to be fulfilled under sub-sec. (2) of S. 72, Railways Act. There is difference between the existence of a document and the execution of a document. ILR 29 Pat 170: AIR 1950 Pat 215 (216) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——S. 72 (2) — Risk note — Proof of — Railway receipt does not prove special agreement contemplated by sub-sec. (2).

The railway receipts are merely evidence to show that certain goods were placed in the custody of the railway and that a certain sum was paid as freight. The entry of the letter B against the column "Risk Note Form" does not prove the execution of a special agreement as contemplated by sub-sec. (2) of S. 72. AIR 1944 Cal 50, Foll.; Case-law, Ref. ILR 29 Pat 170: AIR 1950 Pat 215 (220) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——S. 72 (2) — Risk note — Execution of — Onus of proof — Risk note must be proved by Railway Company.

The risk note is an exception to the ordinary responsibility of the railway company, and as an exception to the general responsibility, the risk note must be proved by the Railway Company to have been duly executed.

Mere charging of the lower rate would not take away the liability of the Railway Company unless the Railway Company brings itself within the provisions of sub-sec. (2) of S. 72: AIR 1927 Mad 639, Rel. on. ILR 29 Pat 170: AIR 1950 Pat 215 (217) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

Risk Note 'A'.

——S. 72 — Execution of Risk Note 'A' — Suit by consignor for damages on allegation of short weight — No evidence of tampering with packing — No proof that loss was due to misconduct on part of administration — No decree can be awarded in view of execution of Risk Note 'A'. AIR 1955 NUC (Ajmer) 2646.

●——S. 72 — Risk Note 'A' — Applicability — Applies only when goods reach destination. AIR 1952 All 891 (893) (Pt C) (Pr 10) (FB).

——S. 72 (1) — Risk Note 'A' — Scope of — Extent of indemnity under — Shortage in goods delivered — Onus of proof.

The Risk Note Form 'A' does not apply to a case of pilferage at all. It covers only two contingencies: (i) "Bad condition" of the goods at the time of delivery, and (ii) damage, leakage or wastage in transit owing to the fact that the goods were defectively packed.

Where it was definitely found that there was shortage in the goods delivered and that one of the nine bags was found cut, and there was no evidence led on behalf of the Railway to show how the goods had been handled in transit, it is clear that the shortage was not due to any defective packing nor was due to damage, leakage or wastage incidental to transit and the Risk Note does not afford any protection to the Railway Administration: AIR 1923 All 234, Disting.; AIR 1929 All 124, Not foll. 1951 All LJ 484: AIR 1951 All 489 (491, 493) (Prs 9, 22).

——S. 72—Risk Note Form 'A'—Shortage in goods.

The Risk Note 'A' would obviously apply only to cases where the plaintiff has suffered some monetary loss due to some deterioration in the condition of the goods. Where there is a shortage in the quantity of the goods arrived or there is a loss of a complete package, it would not be a case covered by the Risk Note: AIR 1931 All 135, Dissent. from. 1951 All LJ 350: AIR 1951 All 438 (439) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——S. 72 — Risk Note 'A' — Applicability — Shortage in quantity — If covered by.

Where there is a shortage in the quantity of the goods arrived or there is a loss of a complete package or complete packages, it would not be a case covered by the Risk Note Form 'A' at all, for the simple reason that it cannot be said that the 'goods' have arrived or the 'goods' have been delivered at the destination point. The Risk Note would obviously apply to cases and only to such cases where the plaintiff has suffered some monetary loss due to some deterioration in the condition of the goods and not to a cutting away of a portion of the goods owing to theft or pilferage. In the latter case there would be no question of any loss due to deteriorated condition. 1951 All LJ 350: AIR 1951 All 438 (440) (Pt B) (Pr 9).

——S. 72 — Risk Note 'A' — Short delivery — Leakage in transit — Railway, when can be absolved from liability.

For the purpose of Risk Note 'A', shortage in weight of goods is a condition in which the goods are delivered. It does not follow, however, that once Risk Note 'A' has been executed, every case of short delivery will be covered by the saving clause. Before the saving clause can have operation, it must appear prima facie that the loss which actually occurred was in some way connected with the defective condition of the packing.

A consignment of rape seed bags under 'Risk Note A' was found on delivery to be short in weight as a result of cuts caused in certain bags through flap-door gaps. The consignee sued for compensation for loss. The defendant Railway failed to prove that the loss was in some way connected with the defective condition of the goods or the shortage was due to circumstances beyond their control:

Held, that the Railway could not claim the special protection afforded under the clause in Risk Note 'A' and, therefore, it was liable to pay compensation. ILR (1951) 1 Cal 119: AIR 1950 Cal 394 (395, 396) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 10, 11, 13).

——S. 72 — Burden of proof — Risk Note Form 'A' — 'Misconduct' — Railway company having all cases consigned ready for delivery — Some cases damaged and contents missing — Open delivery demanded by consignee and permitted by Company without prejudice to legal position —

Refusal by consignee — Loss occurring — Liability for.

Under Risk Note Form 'A', there is no liability cast on the Railway Administration to account for the loss, if any, but, on the other hand, the onus is entirely cast on a plaintiff to prove misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration. Where the goods consigned, 6 cases, are all offered to be delivered, but the plaintiff, owing to the absence of part of the contents of some of the cases insists on open delivery being given to him, and when that is allowed by the Railway Administration, requiring the plaintiff to take delivery without prejudice to the legal position of the Railway Company, but the plaintiff refuses to take such delivery, the conduct of the plaintiff in so refusing cannot, by any means, be said to be reasonable or justifiable, since it is in any event open to him to prefer his claim in a Court of law after taking delivery. If owing to such refusal loss occurs when the goods are left with the Railway Administration, it cannot be held that there is any 'misconduct' on the part of the Railway Company, so as to render the Railway responsible for the loss. 30 Mys LJ 59: AIR 1951 Mys 68 (69) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 4).

——S. 72 — Risk Note 'A' — Short weight.

16 bundles of fresh dates, whose weight as shown in the railway receipts, was 23 maunds and 18 seers, were booked from Wadibundar to Parasia in the Chhindwara district under Risk Note 'A'. On arrival at the destination it was found that three bundles were in broken condition and some contents were missing. These three bundles were separately weighed and were found to weigh 56, 51 and 54 seers. One unbroken bundle was found to weigh 52 seers. Delivery was taken six days later. The total weight of 16 bundles at the time of delivery was 21 maunds and 15 seers. Plaintiffs, therefore, claimed damages for the short weight of 2 maunds and 3 seers. It was stated in the Risk Note 'A' that a consignment of 16 bundles tendered for carriage was in bad condition and/or liable to damage, leakage, wastage in transit as the bundles were insecurely sewn and the contents were dropping:

Held, that the bailment in the instant case was of 16 bundles. Unexplained failure to return the thing bailed is presumed to be by the bailee's default. An unexplained failure to deliver a complete package would, therefore, fall within S. 161 of the Contract Act. This was not the case here and the Railway Administration could not be held liable for the short weight, if any, of the 13 bundles which were delivered in a sound condition. There was no material on record to show that the short weight of 2 maunds and 3 seers was the weight of the contents missing from the three bundles which were found in broken state. It is a matter of common knowledge that fresh dates are liable to dry and lose some weight thereby. The extent of this loss depends upon the degree of freshness of the fruit. Plaintiffs could not, therefore, succeed because they had failed to prove the weight and value of the missing contents of the three bundles in question. The suit was, therefore, liable to be dismissed on this short ground.

The recitals in the Risk Note 'A' undoubtedly protected the defendant from liability in the instant case because the articles tendered for carriage were in a bad condition and were liable to leakage in transit as the bundles were insecurely sewn and the contents were dropping. The goods were delivered to the consignee apparently after some leakage in transit due to insecure packing of the 3 bundles. The Railway Administration was, therefore, absolved from liability for any loss arising from this condition in which the goods were delivered to the consignee. Risk Note 'A' is to be used when the articles tendered for carriage are already in bad condition or so defectively packed as to be liable to damage, leakage, or wastage in transit. If a consignor fails in his duty to see that his goods are so securely packed as to be protected from the ordinary and inevitable incidents of a journey and the goods are consequently injured, the Administration is not liable. ILR (1954) Nag 618: AIR 1954 Nag 346 (347, 348) (Prs 4, 5, 7, 8) (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Notes 'A' and 'Z' — Leakage in transit — No proof of misconduct of Railway servants — Liability of Railway.

When both the Risk Notes 'A' and 'Z' are executed, the terms of exoneration of the Railway Administration for the liability during transit except on proof of misconduct must prevail and the provisions for disclosure will not be operative.

There is no obligation upon the Railway Administration when a consignment is booked under Risk Note 'A' to prevent leakage of the contents during transit. 21 Cut LT 44: AIR 1955 Orissa 44 (45, 46) (Prs 6, 7, 8) (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Notes — Misconduct — Evidence of Railway Administration showing that loss arose from misconduct on part of its servants— Railway Administration cannot rely upon protection given by Risk Notes 'A' and 'B'. AIR 1955 NUC (Orissa) 966 (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Note 'A' — Presumption arising from its execution — Onus of proof on consignor.

Execution of Risk Note 'A' by the consignor gives rise to a presumption that the consignment tendered for carriage is either already in a bad condition or is so defectively packed as to be liable to damage, leakage, or wastage, in transit and that it is in consideration of the bad condition of the consignment that the consignor has executed Risk Note 'A', agreeing not to hold the Railway Administration liable for any loss or damage during transit, except upon proof that such loss arose from misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration's servants.

It is no answer to the express undertaking given by the consignor in terms of risk note 'A', to say that it is difficult for him to prove misconduct on the part of the Railway staff. ILR (1951) Cut 567: AIR 1952 Orissa 126 (127) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——S. 72 — Risk Notes in Forms 'A' and 'B' — Obligation of Railway Administration to make disclosures — Presumption — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 114).

Where the consignor executes Risk Note Form 'A', no obligation is cast upon the Railway Administration to make any disclosure. Nor even in case of Risk Note Form 'B', can the Court draw an adverse inference against the Railway Administration for any non-disclosure without following the procedure as laid down in AIR 1956 Pat 68. It was incumbent upon the consignor to make a prayer to the Court to direct the Railway Administration to make any disclosure, and it is only when the Railway Administration fails to obey the direction given by the Court that an inference adverse to it can be drawn under S. 114, Evidence Act. AIR 1956 Pat 71 (71, 72) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——S. 72 — Risk Notes — Position under Risk Notes 'A' and 'B'.

Reading Risk Notes Forms 'A' and 'B' together, the position is that whereas in case of consignment booked under Risk Note Form 'B', the Railway Administration is liable to make disclosures in certain cases, there is no such obligation on it when the consignment is booked under Risk Note Form 'A'. It is also well settled that where a consignor has executed two Risk Notes limiting the Railway's liability, it is open to the Railway Administration to take advantage of either, and if under either it can be shown that the Railway Administration has escaped liability, then the suit must be dismissed, even if some other Form of Risk Note might also have been executed under which it might be held that liability had not been fully taken away. AIR 1948 Pat 45, Foll. AIR 1956 Pat 68 (69) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——S. 72 — Risk Note 'A' — Entry in Risk Note 'A', that stitches of packages were weak—It does not mean that packages were not packed in accordance with instructions in Tariff, in the absence of evidence to show what those instructions were — Entry in risk note itself showing that instructions were not complied with—Suit for damages for loss of packages — Administration must show how the consignment was dealt with. 1953 BLJR 240: AIR 1953 Pat 279 (281) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

—S. 72 — Risk Note 'A' — Loss of consignment — Disclosure by Railway Administration as to how consignment was dealt with — No inference of misconduct possible — No such inference, either in law or fact could be made from non-examination of Railway guard — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 114). 1953 BLJR 240: AIR 1953 Pat 279 (282) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——S. 72 — 'Risk Note 'A' — Non-delivery — Liability of Railway.

Risk Note 'A' confers exemption from liability only in respect of the condition of goods at the time of delivery at destination. It does not confer immunity in a case of total non-delivery of the goods. ILR 28 Pat 621: AIR 1951 Pat 382 (383) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Note 'A' — Short delivery.

The words "any loss arising from the same" occurring in Risk Note 'A' mean any loss arising from the condition in which the goods booked are delivered to the consignee at destination. Risk Note 'A' has no application to the case of failure to deliver the goods booked to the consignee because a thing never delivered cannot be said to have been delivered in any condition. Where the goods were booked under Risk Note 'A', the plaintiff is not required to show that short delivery was due to the negligence or misconduct of the Railway authorities. AIR 1951 Punj 383 (384) (Pt A) (Pr 9).

Risk Note 'B'.

●——S. 72 (old) — Risk Note Form 'B' (as it stood before amendments of 1949 and 1961) — North-Western Railway Commercial Manual, Rule 900 — Word 'misconduct' in Form 'B', Cl. (a) — Meaning — Different views mentioned and left unresolved — Goods consigned under Risk Note Form 'B' — Disregard of Rule 900 by Railway Administration — Non-delivery — Liability for, of Railway Administration to consignees — Negligence must necessarily be judged in light of circumstances — Circumstances of communal disturbances of 1947 — Wagons looted by lawless mobs and consequent loss of consignment—Railway Administration taking care of goods as it would have of its own goods — Held, Administration was not liable. See Railways Act (1890) (as it stood before amendments of 1949 and 1961), S. 72. AIR 1965 SC 1666.

——S. 72 — Misconduct — Inference — Risk Note 'B' or 'Z' — What Railway Administration has to prove.

Where the Railway Administration has not led any evidence to show how the consignment which was under Risk Notes 'B' and 'Z', was dealt with throughout the time it was in possession or control of the Railway Administration it is not incumbent on the consignor to establish misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration. 56 Bom LR 150: AIR 1954 Bom 297 (301) (Pt F) (Pr 16).

——S. 72 — Risk Note 'B' — Refusal to make disclosure — Presumption.

Under the new Risk Note 'B', the Railway Company can no longer say "We decline to render you the least assistance.". They are bound under the terms of the Risk Note 'B' to disclose to the consignor how they dealt with the consignment while it was under their possession or control. If they refuse to make disclosure, presumption can be drawn against them. 1953 Nag LJ 451: ILR (1953) Nag 88: AIR 1953 Nag 281 (282) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Notes 'A' and 'B' — Rights of consignor before and after filing of suit — Right to serve interrogatories on Railway or to ask for discovery of documents not affected — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 115, O. 11, Rr. 1 and 12).

Under the Provisos in Risk Note 'B', the consignor, besides his rights to serve interrogatories with the leave of the Court under Order 11, R. 1 of the Code of Civil Procedure, is given an additional right to call upon the Railway Administration to disclose to him even before the filing of the suit, how the consignment was dealt with. The object in introducing this term in the provisos seems to be that if the consignor is satisfied with disclosure, he may not sue the Railway Administration for compensation but may accept whatever value the Railway Company offers to pay under the circumstances, of the case, and thus avoid unnecessary litigation. This right has not been provided in the general law, i.e., under O. 11, R. 1, Code of Civil Procedure, where the plaintiff or the defendant has to obtain the leave of the Court to serve interrogatories after the filing of the suit.

No inference can be drawn to the effect that the consignor is also deprived of his right available to him under Order 11, Rule 1 or Rule 12 of the Code of Civil Procedure in cases falling under first part of Risk Note 'B', because this special concession is not allowed to him under the terms therein. There is nothing in the wording of Risk Note 'A' or the first part of Risk Note 'B', which is more or less the same as the Risk Note 'A', to destroy the right of one party, when proving his own case, to serve interrogatories to the other party under Order 11, Rule 1 of the Code of Civil Procedure. ILR (1937) Bom 375, Rel. on; Case-law, Ref.

Where in a suit for damages against a Railway Administration for deterioration of goods covered by Risk Notes 'A' and 'B', the Court, after the filing of written statement, granted leave to the plaintiff to serve interrogatories on the Railway Company under O. 11, R. 1, Civil P. C. and also ordered discovery of documents under Order 11, Rule 12:

Held, that the Court had not acted illegally or with material irregularity in granting such leave and therefore the order could not be interfered with in revision. 1953 Nag LJ 451: ILR (1953) Nag 88: AIR 1953 Nag 281 (283, 284) (Pt E) (Prs 20, 21) (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Note 'B', Proviso — Effect of— Execution of Risk Notes 'A' and 'B' — Defective packing of consignment noted on receipts — Responsibility of Railway for loss during transit.

It is clear from the proviso to the Risk Note 'B' that only in cases of non-delivery or pilferage, and that, too, of consignments that have been satisfactorily packed, is the Railway Administration bound to disclose and give evidence as to how the consignment was dealt with during the time when it was in its possession, before the consignor is called upon to prove misconduct.

Where, therefore, the consignor executes Risk Notes 'A' and 'B', in respect of his consignment of oil packed in drums and the existence of dents in the drums is noticed and noted on the railway receipt at the time the consignment was handed over for carriage over the railway, the Railway cannot be held liable for the loss, if any, caused during transit, when the plaintiff consignor himself does not allege that there was any pilferage or non-delivery or does not attempt to establish that the loss caused was due to any misconduct on the part of the servants of the Railway Administration. ILR (1951) Cut 567: AIR 1952 Orissa 126 (127) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——S. 72 — Risk Note 'B' — Duty of Railway Administration — Extent of, indicated. AIR 1952 Pat 435 (435) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——S. 72 — Suit for damages for short delivery of goods consigned — Delivery in two lots at intervals — Liability of the Railway — Risk Note 'B' — Duty of Railway Administration — Non-disclosure of theft as cause of loss prior to suit— Effect of — Misconduct — Finding of fact — Interference in second appeal.

Out of 40 bales of cotton yarn consigned, 24 bales were delivered on 14th June, 1946 and 6 bales on 17th June, 1946, and on the consignee's demand for the balance the authorities were sending replies that special enquiries were being made to trace the goods. The consignee sued the Railway. The consignment was under Risk Note Form 'B'. The defence was non-liability except on proof of misconduct on the part of the Railway:

Held, on the terms of the Risk Note 'B' the Railway was not bound to disclose how the consignment was dealt with throughout the transit No evidence was required to be given on that part of the Railway not considered to be eventful unless required by the plaintiff to adduce evidence on a particular part of the transit.

Merely because no mention of loss by theft was made in the replies made to the consignee by the Railway authorities, the suit is not to be decreed. The omission is a relevant and important factor in deciding the story of theft given at the trial; but it is not sufficient to establish misconduct on the part of the Railway or its servants.

Where the lower appellate Court did not take into consideration the facts that there was no proper explanation of the discrepancy between the forwarding note stating that all the 40 bales were loaded in a particular wagon and the entries in another document to the effect that they were loaded in separate lots in that wagon and another, that the writer of the entries had not been called as a witness and the significance of the replies wherein the loss by theft was not mentioned but he travelled in the realm of imagination in arriving at the important finding on the question of misconduct.

Held, that the finding on the question of misconduct, though a finding of fact cannot be accepted as it was not arrived at on a judicial consideration of relevant materials on record and the appeal had to be remanded for fresh hearing. AIR 1952 Pat 435 (435) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Notes — Risk Note 'B', Proviso — Consignor also signing Risk Note 'A' — Loss of goods proved — Liability of Railway Company under Proviso.

The proviso to Risk Note 'B' will not apply to a case in which the loss of the goods consigned has been proved.

Even when there is no finding of loss, proviso (a) to risk note will not operate when the consignor has executed both Risk Notes 'A' and 'B'. Proviso (a) of Risk Note 'B' will apply only when the non-delivery is of the whole consignment or of the of the whole of one of the packages packed in accordance with the instructions in the Tariff. In cases where both the notes are executed, the assumption is that the packages are not in accordance with the Tariff instructions.

Therefore, in such a case where the plaintiff alleges that there was non-delivery of only some items in one of the packages consigned the proviso to Note 'B' does not apply and the Railway is not bound to disclose as to how the consignment was dealt with by them throughout the time it was in their hands before the plaintiff could be called upon to prove misconduct on the part of the Railway. Case-law discussed. ILR (1953) Punj 362: AIR 1953 Punj 83 (86, 87) (Pt C) (Prs 20, 32) (DB).

Risk Note 'C'.

——S. 72 — Risk Note 'C' — Exemption from liability for destruction and damage to goods — Misconduct of Railway employees — Relevancy.

It is true no doubt that in case of Risk Note 'B' there is a stipulation that the Railway Administration would be liable to make good the loss to the customer in spite of the execution of Risk Note 'B' if the loss has been caused to the latter on account of the misconduct of the Railway Administration or its employees, but the exemption granted to the Railway Administration from any liability for the destruction, deterioration and damage to goods when Risk Note 'C' is executed is absolute and no question relating to the misconduct of the Railway employees can at all be relevant in such a case. AIR 1946 Cal 249, Rel. on. 1960 BLJR 669: AIR 1960 Pat 489 (497) (Pt G) (Pr 15) (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Note Form 'C' — Duty of Railway to carry consignment in open wagons.

It cannot be said that after execution of Risk Note Form 'C' the Railway Administration is bound to carry the consignment in open wagons throughout the route. If a covered wagon is not available in which the consignment should have been carried and if the consignor does not want to wait until the arrival of a covered wagon, then goods may be carried in an open wagon at his risk. Unless the Railway has contracted to carry the consignment in open wagons throughout the route, the mere signing of the Risk Note Form 'C' will not make it incumbent on the Railway Administration to carry the consignments throughout the route in open wagons. AIR 1957 Pat 219 (221) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

Risk Note G.

——S. 72—Liability of Railway — Extent of — Risk Note 'G' — Misconduct, meaning of.

A bailee is liable for the loss arising out of his neglect under S 151, Contract Act. Therefore when the Railway Administration secures an agreement under Risk Note 'G', as provided in S. 72 (2), Railways Act, this cannot but be intended to lessen its liability to which it would otherwise be exposed under S. 72 (1), Railways Act.

The word 'misconduct' which is used to govern this liability cannot be read as synonymous with negligence but involves a greater degree of culpability than negligence. Whether on given set of facts and circumstances the act or conduct of Railway servants amounts to misconduct is a question of law. Case-law discussed.

Standing regulations prescribed by Railway authorities are intended to serve as a timely warning that the servants ought to follow the instructions given in these regulations in order to avoid possible risk. The Railway servants are expected to know them and follow them meticulously. If the servants of the Railway Company act not caring what these regulations are or in total disregard or violation of them and the loss occurs it is difficult to call it mere negligence. Conduct such as this would amount to misconduct as there is a higher degree of culpability involved in such conduct than mere negligence.

When acids are being transported in glass carboys, the supplementary regulations which control special regulations should be followed. For, if this is not done, the supplementary regulations will be rendered nugatory. Madh B LJ 1955 HCR 174: Madh BLR 1954 (Civ) 450: AIR 1955 MB 70 (73, 74) (Pt C) (Prs 40, 41, 46, 50, 51, 55) (DB).

Risk Note X.

——S. 72 — Liability under Risk Note X.

The risk Note X deals with all cases of excepted articles being consigned and not only where the excepted articles are consigned after being contained in any parcel or package. The risk note provides that the same percentage on value should be charged in respect of articles which do not fall within Sec. 75 as is to be charged with respect to the articles which fall within the ambit of Sec. 75. The reference to Sec. 75 is merely to obviate the necessity of setting out in the risk note the very percentage which is authorised under Sec. 75. Therefore the risk note in form 'X' constitutes a further limitation upon the liability of the railway administration under Sec. 72 (1), and this limitation is by reason of an agreement which falls under Sec. 72 (2) and the limitation clearly is that the railway administration is free from any responsibility under Sec. 72 in respect of expected articles whose value exceeds Rs. 100 unless the consignor pays the additional freight if so required to do by the railway administration. 55 Bom LR 595: ILR (1953) Bom 1301: AIR 1954 Bom 50 (53) (Pt B) (Prs 9, 10) (DB).

Risk Note Z.

——S. 72 (2) — Risk Note Form 'Z' — Burden of proof.

The railway receipts are merely evidence of the facts that certain goods were placed with the railway and a certain amount was paid as freight or was to be charged at destination. Even if the reference to Risk Note 'Z' is to be taken as a reference to the execution of a Risk Note by the consignor, the railway company will not be absolved of the burden of proving that the Risk Note was duly and properly executed. The mere fact that a lower rate was charged would also not take away the liability of the Railway Company unless the execution of a Risk Note in Form 'Z' bringing the case of the Railway Company within the provisions of sub-section (2) of Section 72 of the Railways Act was duly proved. As such, if the Railway Company wants to take advantage of Sec. 72 (2) it must prove the due execution of Risk Note 'Z'. AIR 1950 Pat 215, Foll. 1953 AMLJ 82: AIR 1954 Ajmer 67 (67) (Pr 4).

——S. 72 — Risk Note Z, Proviso, Cl. (b) — Applicability — Consignment under Risk Note A — Burden of proof.

Clause (b) of Proviso to the Risk Note Z applies only when two conditions are fulfilled, namely (1) it must appear that there was pilferage, and (2) it must appear that the consignment was properly packed. AIR 1937 PC 152, Rel. on.

Where the consignment is sent under the Risk Notes in Forms A and Z the signing of the Risk Note A amounts to an admission by the consignor that the goods were not properly packed. He cannot go behind that admission, Proviso to Risk Note Z cannot therefore apply to the case. ILR (1957) 1 All 220: 1956 All LJ 258: 1956 All WR (HC) 842: AIR 1957 All 21 (25) (Pt D) (Pr 18) (DB).

——S. 72 (2) — Risk Note Z — Imperfect disclosure by Railway — Effect.

The Railway in case of non-delivery cannot take advantage of Risk Note Z unless they fully discharge the contractual obligation to disclose to the consignee how the package was dealt with throughout the time it was in their possession or control. If the facts disclosed by the Railway are not sufficient to hold that the initial onus which lay upon them has been discharged as contemplated in law then on that ground alone they will be assessed to liability on the footing of a simple bailee. The obligation of disclosure laid upon the railway cannot be said to have been discharged simply because no demand for further disclosure has been made even though what has already been disclosed is on the very face of it, nothing but an apology for disclosure. AIR 1957 Pat 475, Rel. on. ILR '37 Pat 1034: AIR 1959 Pat 202 (202, 203) (Pt A) (Prs 1, 2, 3) (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1965 SC 1755.]

——S. 72 (2) — Risk Note Z — Liability of railway.

The question whether the railway has discharged the contractual obligation undertaken by it under the proviso in the Risk Note Z is in ultimate analysis a mixed question of fact and law and therefore on the facts stated, it is for the Court to say whether the same has been discharged. ILR 37 Pat 1034: AIR 1959 Pat 202 (203) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1965 SC 1755.]

——S. 72 (2) — Risk Note Z — Duty of disclosure.

It is incumbent on the railway under the proviso to Risk Note Z to communicate all facts relating to how the consignment or package which has not been delivered was dealt with throughout the time it was in the possession of the railway. If it is their case that it was stolen from the running train they should communicate to the plaintiff all the facts relating to it at the earliest opportunity when they send their reply to his letter complaining of non-delivery or at least when they file their written statement in the suit for compensation. If they have not done so it is open to the plaintiff to say that the Railway in not disclosing the full facts at the earliest opportunity, have failed to discharge the onus that lay upon them under the proviso to Risk Note Z. ILR 37 Pat 1034: AIR 1959 Pat 202 (204) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1965 SC 1755.]

Construction.

——S. 72 — Risk Note A — "Bad condition" — Meaning of — Loss due to bad condition of packing.

Bad condition mentioned at the top of the risk Note A may refer to the condition of the contents of the consignment or may refer to the condition of the packing thereof. The word "condition" is wide enough to cover both senses.

Risk Note A is not confined to loss arising due to a deterioration in the condition of the goods. If the goods are delivered in a bad packing, loss arising on account of that condition is also included in the agreement. ILR (1957) 1 All 220: 1956 All LJ 258: 1956 All WR (HC) 842: AIR 1957 All 21 (23, 24) (Pt B) (Prs 11, 16) (DB).

——S. 72 — "Loss" — Risk Notes A and B — Misconduct — Burden of proof — Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101 to 103, 106.

The burden of proving misconduct within the meaning of Risk Note "A" is always upon the plaintiff alleging misconduct. If a plaintiff, upon whom the burden of proving misconduct lies, relies upon circumstantial evidence, he must satisfy the Court that it amounts to misconduct within the meaning of Risk Note A. The obligation of the Railway Administration to lead evidence as to the manner in which the consignment was dealt with in transit arises from the terms of the proviso to Risk Note B, and not from the terms of Risk Note A. It is only when Clauses (a) and (b) of Risk Note B apply to facts of a particular case, that the Railway Administration is bound to disclose to the consignor how the consignment was dealt with throughout the time it was in its possession or control.

In respect of a consignment carried under Risk Note A, none of the Clauses (a) or (b) of Risk Note B or Z have any application, if the consignment is delivered at its destination, and the loss or damage is due to the condition in which the consignment was packed. Clause (a) of Risk Note B does not apply to a case where there is short delivery of the contents of a particular consignment booked under Risk Note A, and the short delivery is due to defective packing. Similarly, Clause (b) of Risk Note B refers to a package or packages of the consignment properly packed. There is no obligation upon a Railway Administration, when a consignment is booked under Risk Note A, to prevent leakage of the contents in transit. In the absence of any such obligation on the part of the Railway Administration or its servant it is impossible to regard a leakage in transit from a consignment booked under Risk Note A, as due to misconduct or negligence or carelessness on the part of the Railway Administration or its servants.

Risk Note A expressly refers to leakage. The liability of the Railway in such a case would be governed by the terms of Risk Note A, and not by the terms of Sec. 106 of the Evidence Act. Before the plaintiffs could prove pilferage, they have to show that the suspected pilferage was brought to the notice of the Railway Administration on or before taking delivery. Where the entire consignment was duly delivered to the plaintiffs and only the contents of some of the tins were missing, and some tins were found to be half-empty the loss must prima facie be attributed to the condition of the tins—a circumstance which exonerates the Railway Administration from liability unless misconduct is proved.

Delay in forwarding consignment can never be properly regarded as misconduct unless the delay is deliberately caused by the Railway Administration or its servants. Case law discussed. ILR (1952) 4 Assam 146: AIR 1951 Assam 173 (174 to 177) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 13, 14, 16, 19, 22, 23, 28) (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk notes — Construction — Principles applicable for interpretation of statutes cannot apply to interpretation of these documents. 1953 Nag LJ 451: ILR (1953) Nag 88: AIR 1953 Nag 281 (283) (Pt D) (Pr 16) (DB).

——S. 72 (2) — Risk Note C — 'Open wagons' and 'open trucks' are synonymous — Use of Risk Note C for goods carried in open trucks — Not illegal: AIR 1946 Cal 249 and AIR 1952 Cal 285, Rel. on. 1960 BLJR 669: AIR 1960 Pat 489 (496) (Pt D) (Pr 14) (DB).

Validity of Form.

——S. 72 — Risk Note forms — Proof of execution — Admission.

In cases where forms are prescribed and there is evidence tending to show that some such form must have been executed, the finding in favour of its execution must be held to be proper. Thus where there is an admission of the execution of Risk Note 'B' by the consignor, its execution must be held to be proved even if the signature on the form is not proved to be that of the consignor. 1957 Jab LJ 331: 1957 MPLJ 153: AIR 1957 Madh Pra 157 (158) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

Signature in Risk Note.

——S. 72 (2) — Risk Notes A and B — Proof of execution and contents.

When the Railway Administration relies on the existence of Risk Notes, it is for them to produce them. Risk Notes are, according to law, filed with them and must be in their custody. Oral evidence to the effect that risk-notes were signed on behalf of the consignor or the presence of letters "A. B. or 'Owner's Risk' noted on the Railway invoice which also have not been produced would not justify the conclusion that Risk Notes A and B had been regularly and properly executed by or on behalf of the plaintiff. Even if a Risk Note is produced the question arises in many a case as to who had actually signed the document, what was contained in the completed document and what was the effect thereof. Even if it be held that the presence of letters 'A. B.' on other records would show that some Risk Note had purported to have been filed but that would not be sufficient to exculpate the defendant Railway from liability. On the execution of Risk Notes A and B legal rights are created in favour of one or disabilities are introduced so far as either party is concerned. It is therefore, only proper and desirable that the execution of and the contents of Risk Notes should be strictly proved. AIR 1950 Pat 215, Rel. on; AIR 1925 Cal 915 and AIR 1944 Cal 50, Discussed. 60 Cal WN 157: ILR (1957) 2 Cal 456: AIR 1956 Cal 99 (100) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——S. 72 — Execution and signature on risk-note.

Where the printed form of the risk-note was signed on behalf of the consignor when the blanks in the printed form had not been filled up but they were subsequently filled up by the Goods-clerk it cannot be held that the risk-note is properly executed. The Risk-Notes are contracts between the parties and the documents having been signed by the executant, the blanks cannot be filled in subsequently. 60 Cal WN 157: ILR (1957) 2 Cal 456: AIR 1956 Cal 99 (101) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

5. Delay in delivery.

——S. 72 (prior to its amendment in 1961)— Damages — Perishable goods — Delay in transit due to negligence of railway authorities, damaging goods and resulting in loss to consignor — No satisfactory evidence to establish quality of goods despatched — Measure of damages — Not price of goods prevailing in market in place of destination on date of receipt but cost of goods to consignor plus freight. AIR 1963 All 137 (143) (Pt B) (Pr 24).

——S. 72 — Delay in delivery — Consignee whether can claim open delivery in case of loss or damage to goods — Railway agreeing to give open delivery on certain conditions involving delay — Railway if liable for damages on ground of such delay.

A clause in a railway receipt that the claimant in case of loss or damage to goods should at the earliest give a written statement showing the nature of the articles missing or the nature of the damage sustained by the consigned goods does not entitle the claimant to claim open the consignment and examine it before delivery and it is not wrongful on its part to refuse to give open delivery. Where the railway administration had gratuitously agreed to give open delivery on certain conditions which involved delay, the railway administration cannot be held responsible for damages on the mere ground that there was delay in making this gratuitous open delivery. When it is not the plaintiff's case that the goods had suffered any physical damage during the time when they were in the hands of the railway administration between the period of their arrival at destination and the time when actually open delivery was taken, the plaintiff could not even claim damages on the ground that even though the railway administration acted as a volunteer they were under the law bound to act like a reasonable person and take reasonable care of the goods which were in their possession. 21 Ind Cas 448 (All), Rel. on; AIR 1933 All 477, Dist. 1962 All LJ 593: 1962 All WR (HC) 473: AIR 1962 All 483 (484) (Pr 10) (DB).

——S. 72 — Carriers's contract — Perishable goods — Delay in transit — Risk Note — Effect. See Contract Act (1872), S. 55. AIR 1957 All 193 (DB).

——S. 72 — Open delivery — Right to — Loss due to delay in giving open delivery at request of consignee — Liability of Railway.

The railway administration is not bound in law to give open delivery on the demand of a consignor. Hence, any delay in effecting open delivery in pursuance of the wishes of the consignee cannot make the railway administration liable for any loss on account of fall in the market price of the goods. 11 ALJ 772, Rel. on. 1951 All WR (HC) 658: AIR 1952 All 702 (702) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

——S. 72 — Delivery of goods — Delay — Negligence of railway — Damages.

When the consignment reaches the destination, the railway station, then the goods should be delivered to the consignee within a reasonable time. If due to the reason that the goods having been sent under a free service delivery memo. the station master did not find it possible to connect the goods with the Railway Receipt produced by the consignee, there is a delay in delivery of goods, it is the fault and negligence of the railway company to have sent the goods in that form. That being so, if any loss is occasioned to the consignee on account of this deliberate failure to deliver the goods in due course the Railway is liable for this loss. It is not a case of any remote expectation or remote damages whatsoever. ILR (1957) 9 Assam 199: AIR 1959 Assam 189 (190) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——S. 72 — Liability of Railway — Duty to deliver goods within reasonable time.

Under Sec. 72 the position of the Railway Company carrying goods for another is that of a bailee. It is bound to carry the goods under ordinary circumstances within a reasonable time. When therefore goods are delivered to the Railway Administration for carriage, in the absence of any agreement, they should be delivered to the consignee within a reasonable time. It has, therefore, to be ascertained what was the reasonable time for delivery of the goods on the facts and in the circumstances of a case. AIR 1922 All 324 and AIR 1933 Oudh 339, Rel. on. AIR 1960 Cal 270 (274) (Pt A) (Prs 11, 12).

——S. 72 — Liability of Railway — Goods reaching destination owing to unreasonable delay after institution of suit — Goods badly damaged — Refusal to take delivery — If justified — Right to damages.

The goods reached the destination after the institution of the suit and therefore there was no question of delivery of the goods when the suit was instituted. There was unreasonable delay in the carriage of the goods to their destination. The plaintiff's agent found upon inspection that the goods were badly damaged. He tried to ascertain whether there was any possibility of selling them in the local market. He discovered that there was no purchaser for the goods in that condition.

Held, that in these circumstances the plaintiff was justified in refusing delivery and could claim compensation from the Railway Administration. AIR 1960 Cal 270 (276) (Pt D) (Pr 23).

——S. 72 — When execution of risk notes is not proved, liability for delay resulting in loss to the plaintiff cannot be said to have been covered by the notes. AIR 1954 Hyd 172 (173) (Pt C) (Pr 3) (DB).

——S. 72 — Scope — Contract of carriage — Time, whether essence of contract. See Contract Act (1872), S. 55. AIR 1959 Madh Pra 276 (DB).

——S. 72 — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152 and 161) — Liability of Railway to carry goods within reasonable time — What is — Unreasonable delay — Onus.

The liability of the Railway is that of an ordinary bailee under Ss. 151, 152 and 161 of the Contract Act and in the absence of any special contract it is bound to carry the goods within reasonable time. What is reasoanble time for delivery cannot be answered in abstract and depends upon the circumstances actually existing in a particular case. Reasonable time means the time considered reasonable looking to all the circumstances of the case. Where there is apparently unreasonable delay, the burden of establishing circumstances in a particular case which would show that the delay was unavoidable or had been caused with no default or neglect on the part of the Railway Administration itself is on the Railway. (1866) LR 1 CP 385, Rel. on.

Five bags of almond seeds were booked from Bombay to Indore between 27th and 28th October, 1950. The bags reached Ratlam marshalling yard on 1-11-1950 but due to heavy congestion at the transhipment point the goods could not be moved. When the situation at the Ratlam Yard eased by 15-11-1950 the bags were moved to Indore on 16-11-1950. They reached there on 17th and were delivered to the consignee on 18th.

Held, that in face of the situation existing in this case it could not be said that the Railway Administration failed to carry out the obligations of an ordinary bailee and caused unreasonable delay. 1959 MPLJ (Notes) 170.

——S. 72 — Delay in delivery — Consignment under Risk Note B-1 — Delay not only unexplained but efforts to get at materials to establish actual misconduct frustrated by non-production of relevant documents by deliberate act of Railway concerned — Misconduct held must be taken to be established and Railway could not escape liability under terms of risk note apart from the proviso in risk note. ('51) 64 MLW 451: 1951 Mad WN 466: AIR 1952 Mad 679 (680) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——S. 72 (as it stood prior to amendment of 1961) — Delay in delivery of goods due to misconduct of Railway servants — Consignee entitled to damages due to fall in market price on account of delay — Word, 'deterioration' — Meaning of — Contract Act (1872), S. 161.

In the absence of an express contract the obligation of a carrier is to carry by the usual routes and to deliver the goods within a reasonable time. Reasonable time means what is reasonable looking at all the circumstances of the case. AIR 1960 Cal 270, Rel. on. The word 'deterioration' used in Section 72 of the Railways Act and in Sec. 161 of the Contract Act, is wide enough to include depreciation in value on account of a fall in the price of the goods.

Where, therefore, the Railway Administration did not deliver the goods within a reasonable time and the delay was on account of the misconduct of the servants of the Railway Administration and there was depreciation in the value of the goods as a result of the fall in the market price, the consignee is entitled to damages on account of fall in price. ILR (1962) Cut 690: AIR 1963 Orissa 68 (69, 70) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7).

——S. 72 — Delay in carrying consignment — If misconduct.

Delay on the part of the railway to carry consignment which is not unreasonable is no indication of misconduct. AIR 1935 Cal 811, Relied on. AIR 1960 Orissa 146 (148) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——S. 72 —Risk Note Forms B and Z — 'Misconduct' — Delay.

Whether the railway administration is guilty of 'misconduct' or not really depends on the facts and circumstances of each case and it is not possible to lay down any hard and fast rule by which every case is to be judged. Misconduct is something more than mere negligence. It is the intentional doing of something which the doer knows to be wrong or which he does recklessly not caring what the the result may be. S. A. No. 2153 of 1948, dated 20-7-1954 (Pat), Foll.; AIR 1953 Nag 169, Distinguished.

Held, in the circumstances of the case, that it could not be said that the detachment at a certain station of wagons containing consignment of potatoes for about two days amounted to misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration, nor could it be held that the trains by which the wagons were despatched from that station were ordinary slow going trains. AIR 1957 Pat 219 (223) (Pt B) (Pr 13) (DB).

5-A. Refusal to deliver.
See Note 6.

6. Misdelivery, short-delivery and non-delivery.
See also Note 4.

●——S. 72 and Risk Note, Form B (as it stood before amendments of 1949 and 1961) — North Western Railway Commercial Manual, R. 900 — Word 'misconduct' in Form B, Cl. (a) — Meaning — Different views mentioned and left unresolved — Goods consigned under Risk Note Form B — Disregard of R. 900 by Railway Administration— Non-delivery—Liability for, or Railway Administration to consignees — Negligence must necessarily be judged in light of circumstances — Circumstances of communal disturbances of 1947 — Wagons looted by lawless mobs and consequent loss of consignments — Railway Administration taking care of goods as it would have of its own goods — Held, Administration was not liable. (1965) 2 SCWR 599: 1965 Pun LR (Supp) 231: 1965 SCD 831: AIR 1965 SC 1666 (1669, 1670, 1671) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 10, 11).

——Ss. 72, 74-C — Contract Act (9 of 1872), Ss. 151, 152 and 161 — Circumstances in which a consignor can sue for non-delivery — Goods despatched at owner's risk — Damage to goods— Negligence — Burden of proof.

Plaintiff filed the suit for compensation for non-delivery of 154 baskets of Betel leaves which he had consigned from Nellore to be delivered at Manmad and Nagpur, on the allegations that some of the baskets were not delivered at all and some others were sought to be delivered to the consignee in a damaged condition and he refused to receive them. The trial Court found that though some of the baskets were not delivered, the plaintiff failed to prove negligence in respect of the damaged baskets. The appellate Court found that the railway was liable to pay compensation for the damaged consignment also. Both the Courts, however, dismissed the suit on the ground that the consignor could not institute the suit as he had sent the R/R in the name of the consignee. Plaintiff preferred a Second Appeal to the High Court.

Held, in cases where the consignor has not parted with the title in goods he being the bailor can certainly sue for damages the railway company which is the bailee. In this case it is not in dispute that although the R/R stands in the name of consignee it has not been endorsed in his favour conveying the title in the goods. When it is not in doubt that the title in the baskets of betel leaves consigned was with the consignor it is the consignor who alone can institute the suit. The consignee who has not had any title in goods could not have sued in the present case. Merely because the R/R stands in the name of the consignee, without the title in goods passing to him, he would not be entitled to institute the suit. Further, in this case the plaintiff has produced a letter of authority from the consignee which shows that the consignee has no objection for the plaintiff instituting the suit. Also held that, assuming that under Section 74-C (2) of the Railways Act in cases where there are two rates fixed for consignment it has to be presumed that the consignment was booked at owner's risk rate, the only effect of it is that the onus would be upon the plaintiff to prove that the non-delivery or damaged delivery was effected because of the negligence of the railway. The initial burden may thus lie upon the plaintiff. Nevertheless, the railway cannot be absolved from the responsibility of explaining to the Court how it handled the consignment during the transit. (1965) 1 An WR 342: ILR (1965) Andh Pra 1250: AIR 1965 Andh Pra 263.

——Ss. 72 and 57 — Delivery to wrong person — Liability of railway company — (Contract Act (1872), S. 166). See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 57. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 331 (DB).

——S. 72 — Duty of Railway — Delivery of goods on forged railway receipt — Railway's liability.

A railway receipt is a document issued by the railway administration and it is for the administration to take proper steps to prevent misdelivery on forged railway receipts. But even if it were to be held that the administration will not be liable in the case of a clever counterfeit—a forgery which cannot be detected by the use of reasonable diligence and ordinary prudence, the facts must be such as to lead to the conclusion that it was impossible for the railway employees at the destination to detect and prevent the practice of such fraud. AIR 1957 Cal 573 (575) (Pt A) (Pr 10).

——S. 72 — Loss of consignment — Onus of proof — Goods not delivered to consignee — Consignor need not prove how loss occurred—Burden lies on bailee to prove non-liability for loss. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 5915.

——S. 72 — Non-delivery — Refusal to give delivery after reweighment — Damages.

A railway company is under no obligation to reweigh the goods before delivery where the identity of the goods is not in question and if the consignee refuses to accept delivery on that ground, he does so at his own risk and is not entitled to claim damages for non-delivery. 58 IC 200 (Pat), Foll. Case law ref. ('52) 56 Cal WN 217: AIR 1952 Cal 726 (726, 727) (Prs 2, 4).

——S. 72 — Goods handed over to City Booking Agency to be carried by train — Goods not reaching destination — Railway administration liable to make good the loss irrespective of terms of contract between Bombay Agent and Railway Administration. 1965 MPLJ (Notes) 56.

——S. 72 — Short delivery — Right of consignee to insist on weighing of goods before taking delivery.

A consignee has no right to insist that railway officer giving delivery should weigh the goods consigned and make an endorsement as regards the shortage and to refuse to take delivery if the railway officer refuses so to do. The consignee should take delivery of the consignment in the condition in which it is found after giving notice to the delivering officer as to its condition and then sue the railway administration for damages. AIR 1948 Nag 65, Foll. 1959 MPC 341: 1959 MPLJ 701: 1960 Jab LJ 985: AIR 1959 Madh Pra 276 (281) (Pt H) (Pr 30) (DB).

——S. 72 — Consignee's right to demand open delivery.

It is not a right of a consignee to demand open delivery. His remedy is to take delivery of consignment in the condition in which it is found and then sue the Railway Administration for damages. ILR (1947) Nag 335, Foll. 1958 MPLJ (Notes) 122.

——S. 72 — Non-delivery of consignment booked on another railway — Consignee writing to Chief Commercial Superintendent (Claims) about non-delivery and asking for enquiry — Place of delivery, parcel-way-bill numbers with dates, articles booked and names of consignors given—When all these particluars were furnished there is no warrant for the railway authorities asking for certified copies of railway receipts. AIR 1961 Manipur 45 (47) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——S. 72 — Risk Note B — Non-delivery, meaning of.

Non-delivery means failure of the Railway Administration to give delivery to the consignee or his assignee as required by the contract. It may be due to misdelivery, detention, conversion or loss, Loss is both to the consignee and the Railway Administration and may be due to one or more of the several causes such as accident to trains, fire, destruction including destruction when the goods have perished, short delivery in cases of bulk consignments, and from causes which cannot be located. Risk Note B contemplates non-delivery due to loss of the consignment by accident or fire. It may as well be due to destruction, the consignment having decayed. In the case of perishable goods, if the contents of the whole consignment deteriorate to such an extent that they become of no value, there is a loss of complete consignment. 1955 Nag LJ 172: ILR (1955) Nag 45: AIR 1954 Nag 337 (339) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Ss. 72 and 77 — "Non-delivery" — "Loss" is included — Notice under S. 77 is necessary.

In the case of a claim for damages for non-delivery of goods a notice under Section 77, Railways Act is necessary. "Non-delivery" constitutes "loss" within the meaning of Section 77. 5 Pat 106, 49 All 236, 51 All 480, AIR 1931 All 135 and C. R. No. 733/50, Foll.; AIR 1948 Pat 48, Diss. ('52) 1952 Nag LJ (Notes) 145.

——Ss. 72, 80 (as they stood prior to amendment in 1961) — Non-delivery of goods booked on Northern Railway to be delivered on station of Eastern Railway — Cause of action in suit against Eastern Railway based on loss of goods — Plaintiff must allege or prove loss on Eastern Railway — Decree on ground of non-delivery alone, held not proper.

Where the failure to deliver is the consequence of loss or destruction of goods, it does not furnish a cause of action on which a suit may lie, distinct from a cause of action for loss or destruction. Where the cause of action in a suit filed against the Eastern Railway, in respect of non-delivery of goods booked on Northern Railway and to be delivered at a station on the Eastern Railway is based on loss of the goods, it is necessary for the plaintiff under the old Sections 72 and 80 to allege and prove, in order to succeed against the Eastern Railway, that the loss had taken place on the Eastern Railway and a decree against the Eastern Railway on the ground of non-delivery alone, cannot be sustained. AIR 1961 SC 725, Rel. on. AIR 1964 Pat 486 (486) (Pr 5) (DB).

——S. 72 — Misconduct or negligence — Short delivery — Railway not disclosing how it dealt with consignment between two stations where it was found in pilfered condition — Adverse inference must be drawn against railway. AIR 1937 PC 152, Rel. on. AIR 1960 Pat 111 (112) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

——Ss. 72, 75 — Misdelivery — Negligence of railway servants — Effect — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152, 161).

In the absence of any special contract between the parties limiting the liabilities of the carriers under S. 72 of the Railways Act, the railways are bailees for the goods consigned to them by the consignor for being carried from one railway station to another and are as such responsible for the loss, destruction or deterioration thereof under Ss. 151, 152 and 161 of the Contract Act, 1872. Misdelivery is also a loss under certain circumstances, for instance, when the railway authorities deliver the goods to some persons not entitled to receive them, and are unable to trace them out, when required to do so in order to deliver them to the real owners.

When a railway receipt is produced, for taking the delivery of the goods, it is the duty of the parcel clerk to compare the entries on the railway receipt with those in the Delivery Books. Where the parcel clerk without comparing these carefully gives delivery of the goods to the person producing the railway receipt on behalf of the consignee and the entries in the receipt do not tally with those in the book he ought not to deliver the goods to the bearer of the railway receipt on the strength of such a railway receipt.

That whole gamut of facts concerning the conduct of the railway authorities from the station to where the goods were booked to the station to which they were rebooked and misdelivery given, must be taken into consideration in arriving at the correct conclusion on the point as to whether or not there was negligence on the part of the bailees, namely, the railway concerned, or their servants.

Held, that the misdelivery of the goods has been the direct result of this negligence causing loss to the consignor (who was also the consignee) who was, therefore, under the law entitled to hold the Railway authority responsible for the price of the goods which he had lost. ILR 37 Pat 1355: AIR 1959 Pat 337 (339, 340, 342) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 13, 14, 19) (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Note A confers exemption from liability only in respect of the conditions of goods at the time of delivery at destination — It does not confer immunity in a case of total non-delivery of goods. AIR 1951 Pat 382 (383) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——S. 72 — Consignment under Risk Note A — Loss of goods due to looting at destination — Non-delivery — Liability of Railway — Burden of proof.

Under Sec. 72, Railways Act, the responsibility of Railway Administration is that of a bailee under Ss. 151 and 152, Contract Act. The railway must take such care of the goods as a man of ordinary prudence would take of his own goods of the same quality and value under similar circumstances. The loss or damage of goods entrusted to a bailee is prima facie evidence of negligence and the burden of proof, therefore, to disprove negligence lies on the bailee and this burden lies also on the Railway Administration in the absence of special circumstances to the contrary.

Where a consignment of goods under Risk Note A was looted at the destination by an unruly mob under circumstances over which the Railway Administration had no control and there was no proof of negligence on the part of the railway, it was held that the railway could not be held liable in damages for non-delivery of the goods. ILR 28 Pat 621: AIR 1951 Pat 382 (384) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 8) (DB).

●——S. 72 — Responsibility of Railway for non-delivery, extent of, indicated — (Contract Act (1872), S. 160). AIR 1953 Punj 184 (185) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 10) (FB).

——S. 72 — Loss due to misdelivery on forged railway receipt — Liability of railway.

There is no express provision in the Railways Act exempting the railway administration from liability on account of misdelivery. Misdelivery can only be pleaded under the general head 'loss' under Sec. 72 of the Railways Act and in order to prove loss, the railway must prove not only that the misdelivery was effected in spite of reasonable and due care but it must also prove that it could not trace out and recover the goods in spite of due care. Where the misdelivery was the result of the absence of the exercise of reasonable and due care by the railway administration, and the railway administration did not exercise due and reasonable care in taking proper steps to trace out and recover the goods when within a very short period of misdelivery it came to know that the railway receipts on the basis of which the deliveries were effected were forged documents, and when the part of goods was traced in the possession of the person who took delivery on the forged receipt, nothing had been brought on record to show as to whether the railway pursued the alleged cheats either in the criminal proceedings or in civil proceedings to recover the goods or the sale-proceeds thereof, it cannot reasonably be held that the railway had acted with due care and attention in the discharge of its duty as a bailee. (1922) 2 KB 155 and (1870) LR 5 Ex 51 and (1896) 1 QB 7, Distinguished. 1963 Raj LW 135: ILR (1963) 13 Raj 140: AIR 1963 Raj 162 (170) (Pt E) (Pr 16) (DB).

——S. 72 — Non-delivery of goods.

Non-delivery of goods — Risk Notes A and C do not absolve Railway Administration from liability. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 312 (DB).

7. Deviation from route.

——Ss. 72, 75 — Goods despatched under risk note — Deviation from route — Effect on liability of railway administration for loss.

Every person who undertakes to carry as a common carrier impliedly undertakes to proceed without deviation from the usual and ordinary course to the place of delivery.

If a carrier deviates from the usual route and the goods are lost, even by inevitable accident, he is liable; for under such circumstances the loss is traced back through all the intermediate causes to the first departure from duty.

The risk notes which consignors execute are available only for the booked or usual route and if there is any deviation from the route, the railway administrations cannot rely upon them for the purpose of reducing their liability.

When owing to deviation a risk note becomes unavailing, the statutory liability under Sec. 72 is restored. But the exemption from liability under Sec. 75 is a statutory exemption and not an exemption granted under any special contract such as that contained in a risk note. The provisions of Sec. 72 are subject to Sec. 75. It follows that even if there be a deviation from the usual or booked route the railway administration would be entitled to claim the protection of Sec. 75. 1950 All LJ 625: ILR (1951) 2 All 249: AIR 1950 All 543 (548) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

——S. 72 — Route changed — Suit for damages — Existence of Risk Notes in Forms A and B makes no difference. AIR 1955 NUC (Bom) 5856 (DB).

——S. 72 — Deviation from route — Effect on immunity from liability of Railway.

Where the railway deviates from the route by which it professes to carry the goods and the deviation was not imperative, the railway administration forfeits the protection afforded to them by Risk Notes A and B. AIR 1950 All 543, Foll. 1959 MPC 341: 1959 MPLJ 701: 1960 Jab LJ 985: AIR 1959 Madh Pra 276 (280) (Pt G) (Pr 28) (DB).

——S. 72 — Contract exempting railway from liability during transit — Deviation from ordinary route — Railway if and when forfeits exemption — Overcarriage on same route of wagon containing consignment — If amounts to deviation.

When the contract is to relieve the railway from liability for loss, damage, delay or detention of or to such goods during transit, the exemption is only from liability during the transit. Where the railway deviates from the ordinary route by which it proposes to carry the goods and the deviation is not imperative, the railway administration forfeits the protection afforded to them. Every customer dealing with the railway is bound not only by the ordinary route but also by the ordinary train arrangements according to which it professes to carry.

At the destination station, F, the wagon containing consignment was detached. At that station there were 3 lines only. On arrival the goods train in which suit consignment was carried could not be allowed to stay there for a long time since at that time two passenger trains were to cross at F and another goods train was also to come. Therefore the goods train carrying suit consignment was ordered by Controller of trains to proceed towards station B on the same line. The wagon containing the consignment was sent to T afterwards. In a suit for damages for short delivery:

Held, that the over-carriage by direct line of the wagon containing the suit consignment from F to B could not amount to 'deviation' for fixing the responsibility of the railway. It was due to operational reasons. Such carrying was imperative as it became necessary in due course of ordinary train arrangements. ILR (1963) Cut 459: 29 Cut LT 527: AIR 1964 Orissa 82 (83) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5).

——S. 72 (prior to amendment in 1961) — Deviation — Negligence — Goods damaged during transit due to deviation of route and transfer of wagon — Railway Administration, held liable for loss.

If the goods are taken across a different route, and loss is incurred by the consignor, the carrier that is, the railway, is responsible. When the contract is to relieve the railway from liability for loss, damage, misconveyance, misdelivery, delay or detention of or to such goods during transit, the exemption is only from liability during the transit and when once the goods are diverted from that route the protection ends; change from ordinary route therefore puts an end to the protection.

Certain goods made of cement (Asbestos Cement Sheets) were consigned on 16-3-1958 from station A on Central Railway to station B on S. E. Railway. The goods were carried over to another station on Central Railway, where the goods were unloaded and reloaded in another wagon. On 17-7-1958 at station B the goods were unloaded in a damaged condition. Even after the goods reached the station of destination the goods could not be traced for about a month and a half, and no delivery was given to the plaintiff although his godown clerk was presenting the Railway receipt at short intervals for taking delivery. Open delivery was refused. Plaintiff refused to take delivery. It was admitted that the goods were damaged during transit due to deviation of the route and transfer of the wagon. In the suit for damages:

Held, that it was a clear case of negligence. The Railway Administration was responsible for consequential damages due to deviation from usual route. Held, further, that the goods being completely damaged it was a case of total loss to the plaintiff. (Ss. 72 to 78-B substituted for Ss. 72, 72-A, 73, 74, 74-A, 74-B, 74-C, 74-D, 74-E, 75, 76, 77 and 78 by the Amendment Act (39 of 1961) with effect from 1st January, 1962). 29 Cut LT 647: AIR 1964 Orissa 34 (35) (Prs 6, 7).

8. Theft.

——S. 72 — Risk note — Goods train carrying wagon containing goods in question, stabled at station where there was no arrangement for safety — Thefts in wagons — In spite of reports of station-master, Watch and Ward not supplied — Subsequent looting — Misconduct and negligence of railway authorities, held established.

Held, on facts that no inference could be drawn that the goods in question were not removed by thefts before the looting started. The circumstances established in this case led clearly to the conclusion that the Railway Administration and its employees were guilty not only of negligence but of gross improper conduct within the meaning of the Risk Note. The word "misconduct" as used in the Risk Notes executed under the provisions of the Railways Act included culpable negligence and conduct which was improper and undesirable. AIR 1932 All 321, Foll. 1961 All LJ 796: 1961 All WR (HC) 634: AIR 1963 All 134 (136, 137) (Prs 10, 17, 18) (DB).

——S. 72 — Loss due to shortage by theft — Execution of risk notes 'A', 'B' and 'C' — Effect.

A consignment of 153 bags of biri tobacco was booked under Risk Notes A, B and C. At the time of taking delivery the consignee found that two complete bags were missing and nine bags were cut thus involving certain shortage of goods. He sued the Railway for loss due to the shortage. The Railway denied the liability on the ground that the loss was due to theft by outsiders and also because of the execution of the Risk Notes A, B and C. It was found that the story of theft by outsiders was not substantiated and that the goods were securely and not defectively packed.

Held, that (1) In Risk Note C no indemnity is given in case of loss as distinct from cases of destruction, deterioration or damage. Again, the destruction, deterioration or damage against which indemnity is given thereby must arise by reason of the consignment being conveyed in open wagons in transit. The Risk Note C did not protect the railways here as it was a case of loss which did not arise from the goods being carried in an open truck.

(2) The Risk Note 'A' also was of no assistance to the Railway as the loss did not arise from the initial condition of the goods at the time of booking or to "defective packing". AIR 1950 Cal 394, Referred.

(3) Further existence of Risk Note 'A' did not disentitle the consignee to plead that the goods were not defectively packed. 32 Cal WN 53 and Civ. Case No. 624 of 1946, D/-15-4-1947 (Cal.), Disting.

(4) The relevant note of defect being "old, weak contents dropping", such defect, even if it existed, could not explain loss of complete bags or cutting of bags and was, therefore, insufficient to protect the Railways. AIR 1931 Cal 489, Disting.

(5) As the goods were not defectively packed, the Railway was not protected under any of the proviso in Risk Note B.

(6) As "defectively packed" does not necessarily mean "not packed according to the instructions laid down in the Tariff" and as the Tariff Rules and their existence or non-existence are matters within the special knowledge of the Railway authorities, the mere execution of the Risk Note 'A' does not necessarily change the onus under the proviso to Risk Note 'B'. AIR 1952 Cal 285 (286, 287) (Prs 6 to 12).

9. Theft from running train.

●——Ss. 72 and 77 (before its amendment by Acts 56 of 1949 and 39 of 1961) — Consignment sent under Risk Note 'Z' — Non-delivery — Suit for damages — Duty of Railway to disclose how consignment was dealt with in transit — Extent of — Failure to make full disclosure — Effect — plaintiff when required to prove misconduct—Evidence Act (1872), S. 114 (g).

Where the consignor or the consignee brings a suit for compensation for non-delivery of goods, evidence has to be led by the Railway in the first instance to substantiate the disclosure which might have been made before the litigation or which might have been made in the written statement in reply to the suit. When the Railway Administration has given evidence in proof of the disclosure and the plaintiff is not satisfied with the disclosure made in the evidence, the plaintiff can ask the Court to require the Railway to make further disclosure telling the Court what further disclosure he wants. It is then for the Court to decide whether the further disclosure desired by the plaintiff should be made by the Railway, and if the Court decides that such further disclosure should be made, the Railway has to make such further disclosure as the Court orders it to make. If the Railway fails to take the opportunity so given to satisfy the demands of the plaintiff, endorsed by the Court, the Railway would be in breach of its contractual obligation of disclosure. It is at this stage, therefore, that the Railway can be truly said to be in breach of its contractual obligation of disclosure.

Even though there may be a breach of the obligation to give full disclosure that does not, however, mean that the Risk Note Form 'Z' or Form 'B' can be ignored and the responsibility of the Railway fixed on the basis of S. 72 (1) as a simple bailee. If the Railway does not produce the evidence desired by the plaintiff in the suit even though the request of the plaintiff is endorsed by the Court, the effect of such breach is not that the risk note is completely out of the way, the reason for this being that the consignor has already taken advantage of the reduced rates and, therefore, cannot be allowed to ignore the risk note altogether. But where there is a breach by the Railway of the obligation to make full disclosure, the Court may more readily infer misconduct on the part of the Railway or its servants or more readily presume S. 114 (g) of the Evidence Act against the Railway. AIR 1937 PC 152, Explained and Rel. on. Thus, where in a suit by the consignee, he never tells the Court after the evidence of the Railway is over that he is not satisfied with the disclosure and that the Railway be asked to make further disclosure by producing further evidence, it cannot be said there was any breach by the Railway of its responsibility to make full disclosure. In the circumstances the risk note would still apply and the Court would have to decide whether misconduct on the part of the Railway can be fairly inferred from the evidence produced by it. If the Court cannot fairly infer misconduct from that evidence, the burden will be on the plaintiff consignee to prove misconduct.

Held, on the facts that there was no evidence on behalf of the consignee to prove misconduct on the part of the Railway servant and as misconduct could not fairly be inferred from the evidence produced on behalf of the Railway, the suit must fail. AIR 1959 Pat 202, Reversed. (1965) 3 SCR 145: ILR 45 Pat 599: AIR 1965 SC 1755 (1760, 1761, 1763) (Pt B) (Prs 13, 15, 16, 20).

●——S. 72 (as it stood before amendments of 1949 and 1961) — Loss of many consignments on account looting of wagons — Wagon containing appellant's consignment not proved as looted — Held, Railway Administration was liable for non-delivery of appellant's consignment. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 3, 'Proved'. AIR 1965 SC 1666.

——S. 72 — Theft in a running train — Liability of Railway.

The liability of the Railway as a carrier of goods is the same as that of a bailee under Ss. 152 and 161, Contract Act and if in spite of the necessary precautions, namely, sealing and reverting of a wagon, a theft takes place in a running train, the Railway Administration cannot be liable for the loss. AIR 1955 Ajmer 5 (5) (Pr 10).

——S. 72 — Theft in running train — Liability of Railway — It is no higher than this that he is bound to take the same care of property entrusted to him as a reasonably prudent and careful man would be expected to take of his own property of like description under similar circumstances — Obligations include taking reasonable precautions to obviate natural and incidental risks involved and also taking measures for protection of property — Responsibility of Railway Administration is that of bailee — Railway making full disclosure of attendant circumstances — Then plaintiff must show want of due care — When no full disclosure is made, plaintiff can ask to draw presumption against Railway — Plaintiff's goods securely locked in wagon — Adequate arrangement for care and protection — Theft taking place under cover of night in running train — No delay in detection of theft — Matter reported to higher authorities — Railway held took reasonable care — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151 and 152)— (Evidence Act (1872), S. 100). AIR 1955 NUC (Assam) 3640 (DB).

——S. 72 — Conversion — Test.

In order to determine whether there was conversion of goods the test to be applied is not merely to see whether there was failure to return the goods. It must also appear that there was intention to keep the goods in defiance of the plaintiff. Detention is not conversion unless there is an adverse claim. A carrier who on demand being made states that he would not return the goods because they were looted while in his possession cannot ipso facto be said to have been guilty of conversion. 56 Bom LR 150: AIR 1954 Bom 297 (300) (Pt D) (Pr 14).

——Ss. 72 and 74-D — Theft of goods from running train — Railway Company is not bound to give evidence as to how consignment was dealt with even when train was in motion. Guard of the train deposing that train did not stop at any place till the station where loss was discovered — His testimony amounts to sufficient evidence by Railway as to how consignment was dealt with till it was found missing. See Railways Act (1890), S. 74-D. 1961 Jab LJ 1339.

——S. 72 (prior to amendment in 1961) — Theft in running train — Liability of Railway — Extent — Degree of care necessary on part of Railway — Proof.

The liability of the Railway under S. 72 of the Railways Act for the loss of goods entrusted to it for carriage is governed by S. 151 of the Contract Act and is like that of a bailee who is bound to take as much care of the goods entrusted to it for carriage as a man of ordinary prudence would, under the circumstances, take care of his own goods of similar nature and value. The liability of the Railway is not confined to close wagons alone. It equally extends to open wagons so that the Railway cannot disown the liability by contending that the goods were loaded in open wagons.

In a suit for damages for loss of steel plates booked for carriage and loaded in open wagons, the Railway denied the liability on the ground that the loss was due to an organised theft in the running train and was beyond the control of the Railway Administration. The evidence showed that as soon as the theft had been committed, the guard of the train had brought it to the notice of the superior authorities requesting for action to prevent any further incident, but no action was taken even to inspect the wagons which were tampered with, in order to ascertain the loss. Further, the goods recovered by the police as a result of investigation did not tally with the goods consigned to the plaintiff.

Held, that there was no evidence that the Railway Administration was diligent in taking that amount of care which they should have taken under the statute, and under the circumstances the loss could not be attributed to the theft. The Railway was liable for the loss. 76 Mad LW 331: (1964) 2 Mad LJ 329: ILR (1963) Mad 1175: AIR 1963 Mad 394 (394, 396, 397) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 7, 9) (DB).

——S. 72 — Measure of liability — Goods lost by organised raid by thieves and by looting — Liability of Railway Administration.

Where not merely a large-scale and organised raid by thieves occurred, but the open wagon containing the goods was looted by the thieves, no general proposition can be laid down that a fact of this kind should be proved by direct evidence by the Railway Administration. The Administration is entitled to plead that the fact could be established by circumstantial evidence also. The Railway Administration would not be guilty of any neglect if this is established.

The criterion in S. 151 of the Contract Act of the care that should be taken by a man of ordinary prudence, under similar circumstances, in respect of his own goods, does not imply any heroic measure of responsibility, or conduct. (1961) 1 Mad LJ 348: 1961 Mad WN 128: 74 Mad LW 320: AIR 1961 Mad 398 (399, 400, 401) (Prs 4, 8, 9, 11).

——S. 72 (prior to amendment in 1961) — Goods on railway wagon looted during disturbances after death of Potti Shriramulu in connection with formation of Andhra Province — Court can take judicial notice of disturbances — But Railway not absolved in absence of proof that wagon in which consignment was kept was looted.

In a suit filed by a consignor for recovery of the price of goods lost in transit while in the custody of the Railway Administration, the Court can take judicial notice of the riots and disturbances, that took place in several parts of the Andhra territory consequent on the fast and death of Potti Shriramulu in connection with the formation of Andhra Province. The Railway Administration can, however, escape liability only if they can show that the missing goods were lost in the course of the said riots and not due to misconduct on the part of the Railway staff. Where there is no evidence to show that the wagon, in which the suit consignment was kept, was looted by the mob, the Railway Administration cannot be absolved from its liability. ILR (1962) Cut 395: AIR 1963 Orissa 66 (67) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5) (DB).

10. Looting.

See Note 9.

11. Accident.

——S. 72 — Negligence — Wagon catching fire — Origin of fire not attributable to any fault on part of Railway — Railway servants immediately isolating wagon and fighting fire with extinguishers and buckets of water — Salvage of goods not possible — Railway authorities held were not negligent. ILR (1960) 2 Cal 597: AIR 1960 Cal 458 (462) (Pt E) (Pr 22).

——S. 72 — Risk Notes 'B' and 'H' — Loss by fire — Liability of Railway Administration — Burden of proof — (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101-103).

Under the Risk Note Forms 'B' and 'H' now in force, the Railway Administration will be made liable in case of loss, by fire provided that it was due to the misconduct of their officials. To bring the case within the exception clause, it is for the Railway Administration in the first instance to show that there was loss by fire. As soon as that is established, the onus shifts to the plaintiff to prove misconduct. But when the Railway Administration witnesses are proving that there was a fire which was the cause of the destruction or loss leading to non-delivery either of the whole or part of the consignment, the plaintiff-claimant gets the opportunity to cross-examine such witnesses and place before the Court materials which may or may not ultimately discharge the onus which lies on the plaintiff. The Railway Administration as a bailee is primarily liable for the loss but it may exonerate itself under certain circumstances. It may place materials before the Court to make it believe that the wagons in which goods entrusted to it had been so loaded with ordinary care caught fire. As soon as the Court is so satisfied, the onus is placed on the plaintiff. Where the Administration has not placed any such material before the Court, the plea of destruction by fire cannot be held to be proved. (1956) 60 Cal WN 679.

——S. 72 — Loss due to fire — Burden of proof — (Contract Act (1872), S. 151).

Where it is found that the roof of the wagon in which the consignment was loaded contained holes and a gap of 4 inches even before the goods were destroyed by fire, it is for Railway Administration to explain through their servants as to the existence or otherwise of the holes and gaps on the roof of the wagon, whether such holes were the result of the fire, or they could have been there prior to the fire. There was no duty cast on the consignor to elicit this information from those witnesses, when the report of the Commercial Inspector of the Railway was entirely in their favour. AIR 1955 NUC (Mad) 85.

——S. 72 — Gross negligence or misconduct — Fire breaking out in open railway trucks loaded with jute at wayside station due to sparks from the engine in April — No water available anywhere nearby — Engine driver loosening engine and taking it to safe distance — No gross negligence or misconduct on part of Railway servants so as to make Railway Administration liable for loss. 1960 BLJR 669: AIR 1960 Pat 489 (497) (Pt F) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Ss. 72, 76 — Loss of goods by accidental fire — Negligence of Railway — Burden of proof.

The responsibility of the Raiway Administration is that of a bailee. Loss or damage to goods entrusted to a bailee is, prima facie evidence of negligence on his part and the burden of proof to disprove negligence lies on him.

Where the evidence showed that the goods were lost by an accidental fire over which the Railway had no control and, in that regard, the finding of the Court was that the Railway Administration took all possible steps to extinguish the fire and that they were not negligent:

Held, that the Railway Administration had discharged the burden of proof. AIR 1918 Cal 892 (2), Rel. on; AIR 1953 Nag 169, Distinguished. 1957 BLJR 199: AIR 1957 Pat 325 (326) (Pr 8) (DB).

12. Fire.

See Note 11.

13. Misconduct.

——S. 72 (prior to its amendment in 1961) — Risk Note in Form B — "Misconduct" in — Meaning of — Care which railway authorities must take when goods are carried at owners' risk — Perishable goods — Delay in transit resulting in damage to goods — Wagon carrying perishable goods reported sick on the way — Negligence in not carrying out minor repairs with greatest possible despatch — Railway authorities held guilty of misconduct.

Held, on facts that the omission of the railway authorities to take reasonable and prompt steps to put the wagon in question on the rail road after the necessary repairs amounted to misconduct on the part of the railway and it was not right to say that no blame could come on the railway authorities. because there was no evidence on record that they had intended to harm the consignor.

There are two criteria in considering the question as to when misconduct is established: (1) the intentional doing of something which the doer knows to be wrong and (2) which he does recklessly not caring what the result would be. Thus an act which a person does recklessly not caring what the result would be is also misconduct. Doing of a positive act or omission to do an act which a person is duty bound to do stand on the same footing.

The word "misconduct" as used in the risk notes executed under the provisions of the Railways Act included culpable negligence and conduct which was improper and undesirable.

The carelessness and the negligence shown by the railway authorities in the instant case in not undertaking the small repairs to the wagon in question with the greatest possible despatch as soon as it was reported sick and particularly when the railway authorities knew that it contained perishable goods for onwards despatch to Bombay shows that they were not only acting negligently but improperly in the circumstances. Even though the goods may be carried by the railway at the owner's risk, it does not mean that the railway administration can do anything with the goods and not take proper care so that during the transit they do not get damaged.

To establish misconduct, it is not necessary to prove that the act complained of or the omission complained of was done intentionally or with deliberation to cause harm. That element would be necessary to be established when a party is to be held guilty of "wilful" misconduct. In the risk note Form B, the railway authorities are liable if misconduct is established. It is not necessary for the consignor or consignee to establish "wilful" misconduct. AIR 1963 All 134, Foll. AIR 1963 All 137 (140, 141, 142) (Pt A) (Prs 14, 15, 16, 18, 20, 21).

——S. 72 — Misconduct or negligence — Inability to provide locomotives for hauling goods.

If the railway is unable to provide locomotives for hauling the goods accepted for transit this cannot be said to be a cause which was not within the control of the railway and the railway is guilty of misconduct or negligence. ILR (1957) 1 All 450: 1957 All LJ 150: 1957 All WR (HC) 142: AIR 1957 All 259 (260) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——S. 72 — Suit for damages — Misconduct — Failure to make marks on consignments—Failure amounts to dereliction of duty on part of Railway servants. AIR 1955 NUC (Bom) 5856 (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Note A — Misconduct — Whether there has been misconduct depends upon facts of each case — Use of wooden topped wagon to carry tobacco leaves during monsoon is negligence amounting to misconduct — Note A cannot be used as shield. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 5904 (DB).

——S. 72 (1) — "Misconduct" — Wrong information by railway servants.

Where the plaintiff's brokers were daily in touch with the Railway servants, but they were not informed about the arrival of the consignments and consequently there was delay on the part of the plaintiff in taking delivery:

Held, that this amounted to misconduct on the part of the railway servants. (1957) MPLJ 294: 1958 MPC 459: ILR (1957) Madh Pra 253: 1957 Jab LJ 550: AIR 1957 Madh Pra 114 (115) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——S. 72 — "Misconduct" — Wagons containing kegs of hydrosulphate of soda catching fire — Fire extinquished by water and not by sand or gas — If misconduct — Railway, if responsible for damages.

Misconduct is not necessarily established by proving even culpable negligence and it is something opposed to accident or negligence, and is the intentional doing of something which the doer knows to be wrong or which he does recklessly, not caring what the result may be, ILR 60 Cal 996, Rel. on.

Held, that the use of water to extinguish the fire of wagons containing kegs of hydrosulphate of soda, the less desirable method as compared to the use of gas and sand, was only an error of judgment, in an emergency, in an honest attempt to put out the fire quickly when no sand or gas was immediately available and will not amount to misconduct or recklessness and entitle the consignor of the kegs to claim damages for spoiling the kegs due to the use of water, from the Railway. It is a case of one honest party, the consignor, being saddled with loss by an accidental fire, claiming the loss from another honest party, the railway administration, who put out the fire in one of the known ways, though it was not the best way, owing to some error of judgment and negligence Here, the railway administration did not do anything which it knew to be wrong, or do anything recklessly not caring what the result would be. AIR 1955 Mad 274; (1955) 1 MLJ 157. Rel. on. 70 Mad LW 1035: 1957 Mad WN 692: (1957) 2 Mad LJ 620: ILR (1958) Mad 337: AIR 1958 Mad 179 (180) (Pr 4) (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Notes A and Z — Liability of Railway arises on proof of misconduct — Consignment of turpentine drums — Danger labels not put on wagons — Whether misconduct — Wagon catching fire — Fire tried to be put out by pouring water — Whether misconduct — Negligence and misconduct — Negligence proved — Railway is not entitled to freight charges and cost — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151 and 152).

Where drums of turpentine are consigned by railway at owner's risk after executing Risk Notes A and Z, and drums are destroyed by the wagon catching fire while standing at mid-station on the way, the railway is liable, if it is shown that the destruction of goods was due to the misconduct of the railway administration or rather their servants. The bailee's liability under Sections 151 and 152 of the Contract Act, arising from mere negligence not amounting to misconduct, cannot be fastened on the railway authorities, because the goods are not carried at railway risk, but at owner's risk, and are also defectively packed.

A distinction has to be made between damages claimed for the loss of the goods destroyed by fire, and the frieght claimed to be refunded in respect of the goods which could never be delivered because of that fire and the Railway's negligent acts. Of course, the question of costs is a third thing not connected with the other two and depending on various considerations.

Misconduct is something different from mere negligence. There must be firstly proof of some wrong conduct and, secondly, proof that the destruction of the goods arose as a result of such wrong conduct. Some cases of reckless conduct and even gross negligence may very well fall within the frontiers of misconduct as, for instance, putting goods on the top of the train (like fastening tins on the top), instead of inside the wagon or putting inflammable and dangerous goods, like petrol or kerosene or turpentine, in wooden wagons against R. 3 of Ch. II, Appendix A of the Indian Railways Act. But in the absence of proof of misconduct leading to destruction or loss of goods, the plaintiffs, cannot recover damages for goods thus destroyed or lost, though because of the various acts of negligence not amounting to misconduct, as defined, the defendants may lose their right to claim the freight charges, and also the costs of the action.

The failure of goods clerk at the starting station to describe the goods as turpentine and dangerous and to affix danger labels to the wagon carrying turpentine drums as required by Rule 22 of Ch. II, Appendix A, of the rules framed under the Indian Railways Act, will not amount to misconduct and especially to misconduct leading to the fire, and destruction when there is no evidence that that caused loose shunting leading to the breaking out of the fire.

Where the persons who tried to put out the fire were not persons knowing all about the properties of fire and turpentine, and secondly, they did not know that the wagon contained drums of turpentine, it will be an exaggeration to say that by their act of throwing water on the burning wagon containing turpentine oil though not commendable, they fanned the fire and ensured the destruction of the goods by fire. These circumstances will only disentitle the defendants to the freight or to costs.

To expect porters and others to open the wagon which was on fire, select the burning drums of oil and roll them out, in order to save the other drums from destruction, is to ask for the impossible.

Fire extinguishers are provided in mail and passenger trains, and not in goods trains. Their absence in goods trains at a time when they are not easily available cannot be held to amount to misconduct. (1955) 1 Mad LJ 157: AIR 1955 Mad 274 (277 to 281) (Prs 14, 16 to 19, 21, 23 to 25, 27).

——S. 72 — Misconduct — Meaning.

A mere omission to do what is expected of a person to do constitutes misconduct whereas if such failure is directed to intentionally cause mischief or loss to any person then it is called wilful misconduct. There is really no difference in substance in the liability of the Railway Company as a bailee under S. 151, Contract Act, who is expected to take as much care of the goods bailed to them as a man of ordinary prudence would under similar circumstances take and in their liability as restricted in the risk note to cases of misconduct by their servants.

The obligation of a bailee includes not only the duty of taking all reasonable precautions to obviate risks but the duty of taking all proper measures for the protection of the goods when such risks are imminent or have actually occurred.

Where unbooked bales of cloth lying in goods shed along side booked articles are lost in quick succession to the exclusion of the booked articles, the inference that it is not achieved without the active connivance of some of the railway servants is legitimate. (1950) 2 Mad LJ 27: AIR 1950 Mad 700 (703, 704) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 11).

——S. 72 — Risk Note B — Misconduct, meaning of.

Misconduct literally means wrong or improper conduct i.e., conduct in violation of a definite rule of action. It ordinarily means failure to do what is required of a person to be done. An omission to do what is required of a person to do may, therefore, constitute misconduct even though the person has not acted wilfully or maliciously. Case law discussed.

(Distinction between the words 'wilful neglect' in the old Risk Note B and wilful misconduct in the English risk Note B pointed out). 1955 Nag LJ 172: ILR (1955) Nag 45: AIR 1954 Nag 337 (339, 342) (Pt D) (Prs 9, 18) (DB).

——S. 72 — Misconduct — Unnecessary delay and failure to provide proper type of wagons.

The employees of a Railway Administration are guilty of misconduct if they do not provide proper type of wagons for the carriage of goods and cause unnecessary delay in transit. ILR (1953) Nag 314: 1954 NLJ 353: AIR 1953 Nag 169 (172) (Pt E) (Pr 17) (DB).

——S. 72 — "Misconduct" — Meaning of — Clerical error in entering mark of consignment in railway receipt.

Misconduct implies some degree of mens rea on the part of the person concerned or at any rate a very grave degree of negligence or serious failure to carry out instructions or comply with regulations. A clerical error such as wrongly entering the railway mark of a consignment in railway receipt due to a mere slip of the pen committed under pressure of work and which anybody might have made does not amount to misconduct. AIR 1933 All 477, Dissented from;

AIR 1930 Lah 120, Foll. ILR (1957) Punj 497: 59 Pun LR 230: AIR 1957 Punjab 196 (197) (Prs 4, 7) (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Note — Misconduct — Meaning of, explained — A clerical mistake which could be made by anybody and committed under pressure of work is not misconduct. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 4600 (DB).

14. Proof of misconduct.

——S. 72 — Risk Note in Form H — Duty of Railway Administration — Inference of misconduct.

Per Mukerji, J. (agreeing with Beg, J.)— Where Risk Note H is executed by the plaintiff while forwarding the goods by railway and the goods are not delivered to the plaintiff, then the Railway Administration, before it can seek protection under the terms of Risk Notes Form H, has to disclose to the consignor as to how the consignment had been dealt with throughout the time it was in its possession or control and, if necessary under the terms of the Risk Note Form H it is the obligation of the Railway to give evidence thereof before the consignor will be called upon to prove misconduct. It is open to the Court to infer misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration or its servants from the failure of the railway to give evidence as to how the consignment had been dealt with throughout the time it was in its possession and control. AIR 1958 All 234 (245, 255) (Pt K) (Prs 23, 73) (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Note A — Loss due to bad packing — Proof of misconduct — Burden on consignor.

In a case covered by Risk Note A the railway administration cannot be held liable unless the plaintiff proves that the loss is due to misconduct on the part of the railway servants. The burden of proving misconduct is on the plaintiff and not upon the railway administration.

Where in a consignment of 300 tins of ghee sent under Risk Note A, 16 tins were found empty and 19 tins were of short weight and the evidence showed that the loss was due to bursting and denting of tins in transit, the loss must be held to be due to bad condition of packing and as such covered by the Risk Note A. The burden of proving misconduct is on the consignor and if he fails to discharge it, he is not entitled to claim any damages from the Railway. ILR (1957) 1 All 220: 1956 All LJ 258: 1956 All WR (HC) 842: AIR 1957 All 21 (24) (Pt C) (Pr 16) (DB).

——S. 72 — Execution of Risk Notes A and B — Liability of Railway Administration — Proof of misconduct — Whatever the cause of deterioration or loss there was held no liability on Railway to explain how it had dealt with goods — Plaintiff had to prove misconduct. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 1266.

——S. 72 — Risk Note A — Misconduct of Railway servants — Proof of — Burden of proof — Circumstantial evidence can be given.

In a suit by consignor for recovery of damages for loss of goods consigned under Risk note A, the burden of proving that there was misconduct on the part of the Railway servant lies on the plaintiff consignor. Where the misconduct is by a person unknown, the consignor is not expected or required by law to produce direct evidence. He is at liberty to discharge the onus by circumstantial evidence. Thus where certain bales of cloth pieces were intact at the place of consignment when the wagon was sealed and it was found at the place of destination that though the seals were not broken, one bale was in loose condition and some pieces weighing 1 maund 20 seers were missing, it was held that the wagon being all the while in the custody of the Railway servants, who were the only persons who could have access to it and nobody but they could tamper with it while leaving the seals intact, it was clearly established that some Railway servants pilfered the contents of the bales and thus the loss was due to the misconduct of the Railway servant. ('50) ILR (1950) All 472.

——S. 72 — Misconduct — Burden of proving misconduct within meaning of Risk Note A is always upon plaintiff alleging misconduct — Plaintiff relying on circumstantial evidence — He must satisfy Court that it amounts to misconduct within meaning of Risk note. AIR 1951 Assam 173 (174) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 13) (DB).

——S. 72 — Civil P. C. (1908), O. 41, R. 1 — Suit against Railway Administration — Plea that plaintiff without alleging and proving misconduct could not claim compensation not raised in written statement — Plea, if can be allowed to be raised in appeal. AIR 1950 Assam 175 (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Notes A and B — Goods dispatched to Pakistan — Journey on Indian and Pakistan Railway — Misconduct on part of Indian Railway — Burden of proof.

A consignor sent under Risk Notes A and B goods from India to a destination in Pakistan. The goods had to travel by railways one of which was owned by Pakistan. The Indian Railway Administration had laid evidence to show how the goods were dealt with during its journey on Indian Railway. When the wagon was made over to the Pakistan Railway Administration, the wagon seals were intact.

Held, that in circumstances, the onus was upon the consignor to show that the loss and short delivery were occasioned on account of the misconduct and negligence of the Railway Administration. AIR 1960 Cal 455 (457) (Pt A) (Prs 10, 11) (DB).

——S. 72 — Misconduct — Proof of perishable goods — Transit delayed by misconduct — Deterioration of goods — Presumption — (Evidence Act (1872), Section 114).

Where a consignment of potatoes were despatched and at the despatching station all precautions were taken to indicate the nature of the goods and to give the advice that the wagon should be pushed on without delay but the wagon was detached at a wayside station and delayed there for a week although the goods train to which the wagon was attached proceeded further onwards and no explanation was given by the administration for the necessity of the detachment of the wagon.

Held, that the wagon was detached and detained on account of gross negligence of a railway officer amounting to misconduct. Held, further, that as the potatoes were all along in the custody of the railway administration and as there was an unusual and unreasonable delay due to to the misconduct of the railway servant the Court might well presume that the delay was the cause of the deterioration of the goods and that the deterioration would not have taken place had the goods arrived at the destination in proper time. 63 Cal WN 343: AIR 1959 Cal 337 (337, 338) (Prs 5, 8) (DB).

——S. 72 (1) (2) — Risk Notes A and B — Damage and deterioration to consignment on transit — Liability of Railway — Nature of, stated — Misconduct of Railway administration — Burden of proof indicated — Presumption under Section 114, Illus. (g), Evidence Act cannot be invoked aliunde Risk Notes, on issue of misconduct — (Evidence Act (1872), Section 114, Illus. (g)) — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151 and 152). AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 793.

——S. 72 — Risk Notes A and B — Execution of both — Effect of — Loss of consignment — Misconduct of Railway servants — Burden of proof.

The combined effect of the execution of Risk Notes A and B is that the onus is entirely on the consignor to prove that the loss of the consignment is due to the misconduct of the railway servants. By executing Risk Note A it was recognised that the package was defective. This, therefore, brings the case outside the execution in proviso (a) of Risk Note B which only operates provided the consignment is packed in accordance with the instructions laid down in the tariff. At any rate, there is a clear onus on the consignor to show that despite the admitted defects in the packing the packet was packed in accordance with the instructions laid down in the Tariff or that no instructions were laid down. If the proviso in Risk Note B does not operate, the Railway administration is not bound to make any disclosure to the consignor as to how the consignment was dealt with througout the time it was in its possession. 55 CWN 251: AIR 1952 Cal 712 (712, 713) (Prs 4, 5).

——S. 72 — Risk Note B — Misconduct of Railway servants — Presumption from facts — Question of fact or law.

The question whether a presumption of misconduct on the part of the Railway servants can be drawn from certain circumstances, is a question of law and not a mere question of fact. AIR 1952 Cal 384 (384) (Pt B) (Pr 2).

——S. 72 — Misconduct — Wagon not padlocked but sealed and rivetted — Sealing and rivetting found to be in accordance with current practice of railways — No evidence that either the wagon in question or the other wagons on the train had padlocking arrangement — Held, misconduct on the part of railway administration could not be inferred. AIR 1931 Cal 734, Not foll; AIR 1935 Lah 206, Rel. on. 1961 Jab LJ 1339.

——S. 72 — Risk Note B — Misconduct — Burden of proof.

Risk Note B limits the liability of the company to cases where there is proof that the loss, destruction, deterioration or damage complained of arises from the misconduct of Railway Administration's servants. The burden of proving misconduct is upon the plaintiff. AIR 1917 PC 173 and AIR 1951 Nag 352 (2), Rel. on. 1957 Jab LJ 331: 1957 MPLJ 153: AIR 1957 Madh Pra 157 (158) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——S. 72 (1) — Consignment booked on Risk Notes A and B — Proof of misconduct — Consignment not so booked — Distinction.

Where a consignment is booked on Risk Notes A and B the plaintiff has to prove misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration's servants and where there is no evidence that the consignment was booked on Risk Note A, he has to prove that the Railway Administration failed to take the amount of care enjoined on a bailee under Section 151, Contract Act. (1957) MPLJ 294: 1957 Jab LJ 550: 1958 MPC 459: ILR (1957) Madh Pra 253: AIR 1957 Madh Pra 114 (115) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——S. 72 — Liability of Railway Company as bailees is restricted by risk note executed — It is necessary for consignor to strictly prove misconduct of railway servants which led to his loss. (1950) 2 Mad LJ 27: AIR 1950 Mad 700 (703) (Pt C) (Pr 10).

——S. 72 — Risk Note B — Misconduct — Burden of proof.

In cases of consignment booked under Risk Note B, no doubt the initial burden to prove misconduct is on the plaintiff, but in cases falling under the first or the second proviso to Risk Note B the Railway Administration is bound to disclose to the plaintiff how the consignment was dealt with throughout the time it was in its possession or control, and if necessary to give evidence thereof before the consignor is called upon to prove misconduct. If misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration or its servant cannot be fairly inferred from such evidence, the burden of proving such misconduct shall lie upon the plaintiff; but if the Railway Administration fails to make the requisite disclosure to the consignor, or, in the event of the disclosure being made but being not found to be satisfactory, fails to give evidence in regard to the manner in which it dealt with the consignment throughout the time it was in its possession or control, the inevitable result of such a failure on the part of the Railway Administration to make the disclosure and to give evidence would be to fasten on it the liability for the loss as the Court will have in such a contingency no other alternative than to presume misconduct from the aforesaid failure and to hold the company liable for the loss caused by the misconduct of its servant. 1955 Nag LJ 172: ILR (1955) Nag 45: AIR 1954 Nag 337 (339) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Notes A and B — Misconduct — Suit for damages for non-delivery due to deterioration and destruction — Liability of Railway Administration.

A consignment of potato bags booked from Sagar to Raipur under Risk Notes A and B, reached the destination merely a week after the normal period of transit required. Though the goods were despatched in a through road-van the consignment was detained at Katni for 4 days, transhipped into another wagon and then despatched to Bilaspur where it was again detained for 3 more days due to the omission of the Railway servants to label the wagon containing potatoes as 'perishable' as required by the Tariff Rules. Though the potatoes were in a sound condition at the time of despatch, the entire consignment was found to be rotten at the destination and therefore was destroyed by the railway authorities. The plaintiff brought a suit for damages for non-delivery. The defendant had not made the full disclosure and had not given evidence as to how the consignment was delayed for about 7 days after the despatch, why there was transhipment at Katni and how the wagon remained at Katni unattended to.

Held, that the plaintiff was entitled to succeed firstly because the defendant had not made full disclosure as to how the consignment was dealt with and secondly because the servants of the defendant committed a breach of a specific duty imposed upon them by the rules of the Railway Administration to label wagons of potatoes as 'perishable'. Consequently the failure to label the wagon as perishable transhipping a through wagon at Katni and delaying it at that junction and at Bilaspur without any reasonable explanation for the delay amounted to an improper behaviour on the part of the Railway Administration or its servants and misconduct within the meaning of the Risk Note B. 1955 Nag LJ 172: ILR (1955) Nag 45: AIR 1954 Nag 337 (342) (Pt E) (Prs 19, 20) (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Note 'A' — Misconduct — Burden of proof.

The risk-note A is to be used when articles are tendered for carriage which are either already in bad condition or so defective as to be liable to damage, leakage or wastage in transit. Under the present risk-note A, the Railway Administration will be held liable for misconduct on the part of its servants, and there is no liability on the part of the Railway without a finding of misconduct on the part of its servants. Of course, the burden of proving misconduct in the case of the risk-note A is on the plaintiff. The risk-note A would absolve the Company from any responsibility for loss owing to the bad condition of the articles throughout the period of transit. The question of onus will not be the same in regard to the risk note in form A as it is in regard to the risk note in form B. 1953 Nag LJ 451: ILR (1953) Nag 88: AIR 1953 Nag 281 (283) (Pt C) (Pr 14) (DB).

——S. 72 — Misconduct — Burden of proof — Burden is on plaintiff to prove that loss arose from misconduct of servants of Railway Administration — Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101 to 103. 1954 NLJ 353: ILR (1953) Nag 314: AIR 1953 Nag 169 (170) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Note B, Proviso — Proof of wilful misconduct on part of Railway — Right of consignor to ask for discovery, as distinct from "disclosure" of relevant documents, and serve interrogatories — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11, Rr. 1 and 12.

Where a contract departs from the ordinary law of the land it must be construed strictly. There are no words in Risk Note B which destroy the right of one party when proving his own case to serve interrogatories to the other party. What the party does is merely to get certain answers from the opposite party relative to his case of wilful misconduct. If the Railway does not answer the questions such as can be properly asked under the law, it runs the risk of having an inference drawn against it.

Similarly the consignor in his attempt to prove wilful negligence on the part of the Railway can call upon the latter, to discover all relevant documents. In such a case the consignor is asking not for any "disclosures" within the terms of the proviso to the Risk Note B but for discovery of evidence relating to the consignment in the possession of the railway. No question of "disclosure" as such arises because all that the consignor demands is the discovery of documents from which the consignor would proceed to prove wilful misconduct, if any. Civil Revision 613 of 1950 decided on 31-10-1950 (Nag), Foll. Case law Ref. 1951 Nag LJ 599: AIR 1952 Nag 36 (39, 40) (Prs 19, 21).

——Ss. 72 and 76 — Consignment at owner's risk — Fact of defective packing recorded in forwarding note — Railway is not liable for leakage, damage, etc. — Burden held was not on Railway to prove that there was no misconduct on part of their servant. AIR 1955 NUC (Orissa) 2143.

——S. 72 — Consignment of goods under Risk Note 'A' and 'Z' — Loss of part of goods in running train theft — Train though running during night no provision for watch and ward at scheduled stoppages — Guard also not checking wagon at stoppage nor checking seal — Held, loss was due to misconduct of Railway administration and particularly Guard.

Certain goods were consigned by the plaintiff under risk notes 'A' and 'Z'. Part of the consignment was lost in running train theft. It was found that though the train was running in night no proper watch and ward were provided. It was also found that the guard did not check the wagon at the scheduled stoppages nor checked the seal at the seal checking station.

Held, that the loss of the part of the consignment must be attributed to the misconduct of the Railway Administration's servants, particularly the Guard.

Misconduct may involve an element of negligence, but it is something more than mere negligence. But misconduct is not confined to immoral conduct and it may also arise from wilful neglect. AIR 1949 Pat 119 and AIR 1946 Cal 249 and AIR 1930 Pat 283 and AIR 1941 All 164 and AIR 1933 Cal 742 and AIR 1930 Pat 559 (2) and 1957 BLJR 451, Rel. on; AIR 1930 Bom 129 and AIR 1949 Pat 119 and AIR 1957 Pat 219, Distinguished. 1965 BLJR 24: AIR 1965 Pat 196 (200, 201) (Pt B) (Prs 11, 13) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1965 Pat 472.]

——S. 72 (1) — Loss in transit — Liability on Railways — Proof of misconduct — Onus — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152, 161) — (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101-104).

Under S. 72 (1) the responsibility of a railway administration for loss of goods is, subject to the other provision of the Act, that of a bailee. They are responsible to the consignor for any loss, destruction or deterioration only if such loss, etc., arises from their fault. Where therefore, the consignor does not adduce any evidence indicating any misconduct or carelessness on the part of the employees of the Railway, the loss cannot be attributed to the Railway and hence the consignor cannot take any advantage of the omission on the part of the railway to prove the due execution of the Risk Notes in the alleged Forms A and B. AIR 1956 Pat 434 (436) (Pt B) (Prs 8, 9).

——S. 72 — Misconduct — Onus of proof.

The onus of proving misconduct on the part of a railway administration is on the plaintiff. AIR 1956 Pat 71 (71, 72) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——S. 72 — Civil P. C. (1908), Ss. 100 and 101 — Inference of legal misconduct from proved facts. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 100. AIR 1956 Pat 68.

——S. 72 — Risk Notes — Misconduct — Burden of proof — Inference from non-disclosure — (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 106 and 114 (g)).

In view of the terms in Risk Note A it is clearly for the plaintiff to prove misconduct on the part of the servants of the Railway Administration and no inference could be drawn from any non-disclosure of how the consigment has been dealt with by the Railway Administration. Even on the terms of Risk Note Form Z, if the finding is that the goods in question were not packed as required by the rules of the traffic rules, the Railway Administration could not be held to have an obligation to make any disclosure under the terms of Risk Note Form B. Moreover, even under this agreement the consignor is not absolved from the burden of proving misconduct unless from the disclosure made by Railway Administration misconduct on its part can be fairly inferred. If the plaintiff is not satisfied with the disclosures already made by the Railway Administration, he should ask the Court to direct it to make further disclosure, and it is only on its failure to make such further disclosure as directed by the Court that an adverse inference against it could be drawn. AIR 1948 Pat 45 Foll. AIR 1956 Pat 68 (69, 70) (Pt C) (Prs 7, 11, 12).

15. Negligence.

●——S. 72 — Non-delivery of goods — Railway pleading looting by mob — Burden of proof on Railway. AIR 1952 All 891 (892) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (FB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1961 SC 725.]

——S. 72 (1) — Loss of consignment due to sudden and unexpected mob violence — Liability of railway.

It is well known that railways are peacetime organisations. They cannot be expected to cope with situation which could be handled only by the military. Section 72 (1), does not demand of the railways greater care or skill than that which is expected of an ordinary prudent man. In sudden emergencies a man takes the best precaution he can, and he cannot be held guilty of negligence if upon a subsequent appraisement of the situation a way out is discovered and it is found that the course taken was not the best and the adoption of some other strategy might have saved the situation or prevented the loss:

Held, on facts that due care and precaution were taken by the railway authorities in handling and protecting the consignment against mob-violence and there was no negligence on their part. The railway, under the circumstances was not liable for the loss. (1950) ALJ 881: 1951 AWR (HC) 27: AIR 1952 All 648 (650) (Pr 8).

——S. 72 — No knowledge of deteriorating condition of goods — Failure to convey knowledge to consignee or consignor whether want of such care as would make administration liable.

Where the Railway administration had no knowledge of the deteriorating condition of the potatoes consigned the question of the failure of the Railway Administration to convey information of the deteriorating condition of the potatoes to the consignor or the consignee is not want of such care, as would make the Railway Administration liable, assuming that conveying of such information was an obligation upon the Railway Administration. (as to which no opinion was expressed). 56 Cal WN 264: ILR (1952) 4 Assam 233: AIR 1952 Assam 140 (141) (Pr 10) (DB).

——S. 72 — Loss caused by negligence or fraud of servants.

The four silver bars actually reached Ballia. Having reached Ballia, instead of being delivered to the person who had the railway receipts or, as the rules of the railway administration require, to a person who was prepared to execute an indemnity bond, they were delivered to a person who admittedly was not authorised to receive them, and this became possible by reason of the complicity of a servant of the railway administration who was the parcel clerk at the material time. Therefore, the loss caused to the plaintiff was entirely due to the negligence or, indeed it is much more than that the fraud practised by a servant of the railway administration. 55 Bom LR 595: ILR (1953) Bom 1301: AIR 1954 Bom 50 (54) (Pt C) (Pr 11) (DB).

——S. 72 — Responsibility of Railway as bailee — Negligence — Absence of due and proper care — Onus of proof — (Contract Act (1872), Section 151).

Where the practice followed is that out of the three copies of all railway receipts prepared simultaneously at the forwarding station, the first copy is kept at the forwarding station, the second copy is sent to the destination station and the third copy is made over to the person booking the goods, then the whole purpose of sending a copy to the destination station is to ensure against delivery on forged receipts and if this copy is parted with before delivery of the consignment the railway can hardly urge that it had taken due and proper care of the goods as a bailee. The onus of establishing that the railway administration has lost the goods even after taking all reasonable care of them as a man of ordinary prudence lies on it. AIR 1957 Cal 573 (575) (Pt B) (Pr 10).

——S. 72 — Loss of consignment — Negligence of Railway followed by extraordinary cause — Question to be determined is whether Railway could have anticipated loss by extraordinary cause. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 5915.

——S. 72 — Negligence — What amounts to — (Contract Act (1872), S. 151).

Keeping a parcel of sarees near the verandah of the Railway Station without entrusting it to any person is not the manner in which any person would have dealt with his own goods in similar circumstances. The amount of care enjoined on the Railway Administration under Section 72 of the Indian Railways Act, 1890, read with S. 151 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, cannot, therefore, be said to have been taken by the administration in respect of the parcel. The mere presence of a Railway servant on duty, on the night of theft cannot affect this inference when he had not been entrusted with the parcel. 1957 MPC 430: 1957 MPLJ 636: 1957 Jab LJ 873: AIR 1957 Madh Pra 192 (192) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——S. 72 — Railway receipt to 'self' endorsed in favour of another for delivery — Railway receipt falling into hands of third party who erased the endorsement and pasted a white paper over it and took delivery by making another endorsement — Negligence of Railway in delivering coonsignment without taking indemnity or even address of the person in the suspicious circumstances — Liability of Railway to the real owner.

Where a railway receipt for goods consigned to self and endorsed for delivery to a named person bore marks of scraping the endorsement over which a white paper was pasted and on it a fresh endorsement in favour of a stranger had been made on the strength of which the Railway Authorities delivered the goods to such stranger, without taking an indemnity or even ascertaining his address.

Held, the conduct of the officer of the Railway Department in so delivering the goods was grossly negligent and the Railway Department would therefore, be liable to reimburse the owners of the consignment for the loss sustained by them. (1964) 1 Mad LJ 255: 77 Mad LW 114.

——Ss. 72, 76 — Negligence — Proof.

Where the question of inflammable material is left unattended by the Railway Administration particularly when the value of the goods is in the neighbourhood of 2 to 3 lakhs of rupees, that in itself constitute negligence. 1951 Nag LJ 470: ILR (1952) Nag 10: AIR 1951 Nag 357 (2) (359) (Pt C) (Pr 13).

——S. 72 (Old) — Liability of railway as bailee — Negligence — (Ss. 72 to 78-B substituted for Ss. 72, 72-A, 73, 74, 74-A; 74-B, 74-C; 74-D, 74-E, 75, 76, 77 and 78 by the Amendment Act (39 of 1961) w.e.f. 1st January, 1962).

Where a consignment of dye-stuff is carried at Railway risk rate the railways are liable as bailee. The Railways will be held to have been negligent if they, when the goods reach the station of destination, leave the consignment on open platform during rainy season in the month of August. (1963) 29 Cut LT 193.

——S. 72 — Negligence.

Where the consignments are overcarried due to the negligence of the staff of the railway administration, it is for the administration to take proper steps either by procuring a permit or in any other way that could be possible to rebook the consignments to the proper station to be delivered to the consignee and if the administration fails to do that it cannot escape its liability on the ground that the consignee failed to procure the permit. AIR 1955 Pat 138 (140) (Pt B) (Prs 9, 12) (DB).

——S. 72 — Events resulting in frustration, such as could be foreseen — Contract does not become void — Consignment of goods during riots of August, 1947 — Consignment not reaching destination — Railway held could not claim frustration. See Contract Act (1872), S. 56. AIR 1955 Pepsu 51 (DB).

——S. 72 — Negligence of servants — Responsibility of Railway.

It is not open to the defendant (Railway) to say that it is not responsible for the neglect and default of its servants. ILR (1954) Patiala 563: AIR 1955 Pepsu 51 (57) (Pt D) (Pr 10) (DB).

——S. 72 — Negligence — Consignment of cloth bales — Wagons having only rivets on either side without locks — Bales heavy — Rivets liable to give way due to pressure of bales from inside — Rivets actually giving way and bales falling out of the way — Failure to put locks is failure on the part of Railway to take care of goods as a bailee as required by S. 151, Contract Act and amounts to wilful neglect. AIR 1926 Oudh 218; AIR 1930 Lah 37, Rel. on. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1359: 1961 Raj LW 148: AIR 1961 Raj 211 (212) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

16. Proof of negligence.

■ ——S. 72 (as it was prior to amendment in 1961) — Contract Act (1872), S. 151 — Responsibility of railway as carrier of goods — Railway protection police specially deputed to protect goods in transit — No evidence given as to extent of precaution taken by protection police — Held loss of goods in transit was due to negligence of railway administration.

The responsibility of the railways under S. 72 of the Railways Act is subject to the provisions of S. 151 of the Contract Act. Section 151 states that in all cases of bailment the bailee is bound to take as much care of the goods bailed to him as a man of ordinary prudence would, under similar circumstances, take of his own goods of the same bulk, quality and value as the goods, bailed. It must be taken to be the duty of the railway protection police to get out of the guard's van whenever the train stops, be it at the railway platform or at any other place. In fact, the necessity to get down and watch the train when it stops at a place other than a station is greater than when the train stops at a Station where at least on the station side there would be some persons in whose presence the miscreants would not dare to tamper with any wagon and any tampering to be done at a station is likely to be on the off side.

Held, that the loss of goods in transit took place due to the negligence of the railway servants and, consequently, of the railway administration. Union of India v. Udho Ram and Sons, 1963 SCD 39: 1963 All WR (HC) 105: (1963) 2 SCJ 183: (1963) 2 SCR 702: (1963) 2 Mad LJ (SC) 67: (1963) 2 An WR (SC) 67: 1963 All LJ 101: AIR 1963 SC 422 (423, 424) (Prs 8, 9, 10).

——S. 72 (as it stood prior to amendment in 1961) — Damage not attributable to defective condition of goods or defective packing — Liability of Railway — Onus of proof — Railways Act (1890) (as amended in 1960), Ss. 73, 77-C.

Where the damage cannot be attributed either to the defective condition of the goods or the defective packing of the goods, the primary onus of a bailee to show that he had taken such care of the goods as a man with ordinary prudence would take in the case of his own goods must be discharged by the railway administration for denying relief to the plaintiff.

The proved facts were that there was no evidence to show the condition of the wagon at the time of loading and the only evidence in the case was that the wagon was leaking when delivery was given. There was also no evidence to show that the damage which was caused to the two bales of cloth was due to defective packing:

Held, that, under the circumstances mentioned above, a presumption of negligence and misconduct on the part of the railway administration could be made and the railway administration was liable for damages. 1962 All LJ 733: 1962 All WR (HC) 683: AIR 1963 All 1 (2) (Prs 6, 7).

——S. 72 (as it stood before the Amendment Act (39 of 1961))—Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152 and 161 — Loss of goods in transmission—Liability of Railway Administration — Measure and extent of — Test — Onus to disprove negligence — Railway authorities taking all reasonable care — Consignments looted by unruly mob under circumstances beyond control — Held in the circumstances that Railway Administration had exonerated itself from liability — Rule 237 of the Rules framed under S. 47 (1) (f), Railways Act held had no application — Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101-104 — Carriers.

Section 72 contains the measure of general responsibility of the Railway Administration for the loss of or damage to goods made over to them for transimission. It is not an unqualified liability. The responsibility is measured by the test formulated by S. 151 of the Contract Act. The Railway administration can claim immunity if it can prove that it had taken such care of the goods entrusted to it which a reasonable man or a man of ordinary prudence would have taken. Indisputably, the onus is on the Administration to prove that it was not negligent, i.e., it had not omitted to do anything which a reasonable man would do, or did not do something which a prudent and reasonable man would not have done. But when once it is able to establish that everything that is possible had been done in regard to the consignments that were made over to it for carriage, it absolves itself from all reasonability. AIR 1918 Cal 892; AIR 1952 All 648; AIR 1951 Pat 382, Rel. on.

Certain consignments booked at various stations for different destinations had arrived on different dates at Bezwada which is one of the biggest junctions and the most important station for purposes of railway operations. Some of the consignments were kept, in wagons and some were on the transhipment platform for loading. On 15-12-1952 Sri Potti Sriramulu passed away. When the news of his death was broadcast next morning, the whole population of Bezwada and neighbouring villages began looting goods kept at the Bezwada Railway Station. In the circumstances there was non-delivery of the entire consignments in some cases and short delivery in other cases. In the actions brought by the plaintiffs for recovery of the loss of their goods:

Held, that the railway had satisfied the test laid down by S. 151 of the Contract Act and come within the protection of S. 152. In the situation as could be seen the Railway Administration could not have anticipated the trouble and guarded against it. They had taken not only reasonable steps but all possible measures they could.

There was no dereliction of duty on the part of the authorities in keeping the goods on the transhipment platform instead of in goods shed as required under R. 237. In the instant case there was no evidence to show that there was accommodation in the goods-shed.

The alleged negligent act was not followed by injurious results as a natural and probable consequence, but by the occurrence of something abnormal which could not have been foreseen and guarded against. The proximate cause for the loss was the looting by the violent mob and not the alleged negligent act which constituted only a remote cause. In the circumstances, the railway administration had exonerated itself from the liability in regard to the goods that were kept on the transhipment platform. 1920 AC 956; 19 Law Ed 909; AIR 1918 Cal 892: AIR 1948 Pat 345, Appld. (1964) 2 Andh WR 171: (1964) 2 Andh LT 208: AIR 1964 Andh Pra 477 (480 to 484) (Prs 17, 20, 21, 33, 40, 41, 52) (DB).

——S. 72 — Onus to prove bailment — (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101 to 104, 106).

A railway administration, under S. 72, has the responsibility of a bailee if that responsibility is not reduced by any valid contract. If the liability of a bailee is sought to be enforced under the Railways Act, the plaintiffs have to show first that the administration was the bailee. The onus to prove the fact would be on them. It will be for the bailee to prove that he took as much care of the goods as any prudent man would do in case of similar goods. But the onus of proving bailment would necessarily be on the plaintiff under S. 72. Therefore, reliance cannot be placed on the provisions of S. 106, Evidence Act, which is of general application. ILR (1957) 9 Assam 1: AIR 1959 Assam 98 (101) (Pt F) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Ss. 72, 74-C (3) (as inserted in 1949) — Scope — Goods consigned at owner's risk rates — Loss or damage in transit — Consignor must prove negligence or misconduct on part of railway.

Where the goods are consigned at owner's risk rates, under sub-section (3) of S. 74-C, the railway is not responsible for the loss, destruction or deterioration of or damage to the goods unless the plaintiff proves negligence or misconduct on the part of the railway or any of its servants.

Under S. 74-C there must be some distinction in the case of damage sustained to goods in transit by some external agency and damage sustained because of any inherent defect or weakness in the goods themselves. AIR 1959 Pat 473, Rel. on; AIR 1951 Pat 382 and AIR 1960 Bom 344 and AIR 1960 Raj 121 and AIR 1960 Mad 149, Dist. 1960 Nag LJ 468: 63 Bom LR 44: ILR (1960) Bom 841: AIR 1961 Bom 130 (131, 132) (Prs 5, 6, 9).

——S. 72 — Goods carried during monsoon season at owner's risk — Goods damaged due to rain water — Railway failing to show that it had provided rain-proof wagons — Negligence and misconduct on the part of Railway proved. See Railways Act (1890), S. 74-C. AIR 1960 Bom 344 (DB).

——S. 72 — Want of care or negligence on defendant's part — Burden of proof — (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101 to 104).

Where the defendant has placed all material evidence and there is no failure on the defendant's part then upon such materials as have been produced by the defendant it is incumbent upon the plaintiff in order to establish liability on the defendant that there was want of care or that there was negligence on the part of the railway authorities or their servants and agents. ILR (1960) 2 Cal 597: AIR 1960 Cal 458 (462) (Pt F) (Pr 23).

——Ss. 72, 76 — Liability of railway — Loss of goods — Goods booked at Railway Risk — Onus of proof.

The responsibility of the railway administration in respect of goods booked at railway risk is that of a bailee under Section 151 of the Contract Act. The railway administration is liable for the loss, destruction, etc., if it happens by its default or negligence. It is not for the plaintiff to prove, in the first instance, as to how it happened.

The burden of proof of the issue as to negligence ultimately rests with the plaintiff. The plaintiff has to satisfy the Court that the defendant was negligent but the duty of showing how the consignment was dealt with during transit lies on the railway administration, as a matter within its special knowledge. If the defendant does not adduce all the evidence at its command plaintiff may, in proper cases, ask the Court to make a presumption under S. 114 (g), Evidence Act and to come to the conclusion that the evidence which has been withheld, would have gone against the defendant. 98 Cal LJ 106: ILR (1957) 2 Cal 649: AIR 1957 Cal 190 (194, 196) (Pt A) (Prs 19, 20, 29).

——S. 72 — Contract Act, S. 151 — Consignment booked at owner's risk — Consignment reaching destination safely — Goods damaged later on — Railway administration to act as bailee — Negligence of railway administration proved — Railway administration liable to pay damages. AIR 1963 SC 422, Rel. on. and AIR 1948 Nag 65, Foll. 1965 MPLJ (Notes) 138.

——Ss. 72, 74-A — Suit against Railways for damages caused by breaking of brittle goods — Defective packing — Fact not recorded in forwarding note — Section 74-A not applicable — Consignment is at Railway risk — Railway is responsible as bailee — Onus to prove discharge of responsibility is on Railways — Onus discharged — Fact whether plaintiff had apprised Railways that goods were brittle not known — Onus to prove if shifted to plaintiff — Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101 to 104.

Railway Administration is not entitled to the protection from liability granted to it under Section 74-A in a case where the damage to the goods tendered for carriage to it arises as a result of a defective packing, if the fact of such defective packing has not been recorded in the forwarding note.

Where the goods are booked not at the owner's risk; but at the Railway risk and Section 74-A is inapplicable the burden will lie on the Railway administration to establish that it discharged its responsibility as a bailee properly as required by Section 72; and if the Railway administration fails to establish that fact, it will be liable for the damage to the goods.

Where, however, from the evidence on record it is established that the Railway administration took proper care of the goods as a bailee, but it is not known whether the consignor had apprised the railway authorities of the fact that the goods were brittle and that special care had to be taken during transit, the burden will again shift on the plaintiff to establish that although he apprised the Railway administration of the fact that special care was to be taken of the brittle goods, the servants of the railway administration did not take proper care. 1963 Jab LJ 603.

——S. 72 — Risk Note A — Loss not due to condition of packing but by fire — Liability of Railway.

Risk Note A applies to goods which are either in bad condition or liable to damage, leakage or wastage, due to bad condition of packing. The Clause (a) in Risk Note 'A' provides that the Railway Administration is free from all responsibility for he condition in which the goods are delivered to the consignee at the destination, and also for any loss arising from the same. Where the loss or damage is due to fire and there is no evidence and no suggestion that the destruction of goods by fire was due to the condition of packing and the loss has been caused by the introduction of some external factor to the goods contained in the closed wagon, to such a situation as this, the benefit of Risk Note 'A' does not attach and it does not confer immunity from liability for the loss caused by fire. AIR 1924 All 760 and AIR 1924 All 8 and AIR 1928 Lah 166 and AIR 1951 All 438 and AIR 1950 Cal 394 and AIR 1952 Cal 285, Rel. on. 1961 MPLJ 484: 1961 MPC 302: 1961 Jab LJ 608: ILR (1961) Madh Pra 277: AIR 1961 Madh Pra 251 (253) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 9) (DB).

——S. 72 — Responsibility of railway — Goods destroyed by fire — Negligence — Proof — Presumption from not producing records.

Under Section 72 the liability of the railway is only that of a bailee under Sections 151, 152 and 161 of the Contract Act. In its position of a bailee, the railway is bound to take as much care of the goods delivered to it for carriage as a man of ordinary prudence would take of his own goods of the same bulk, quality and value as the goods bailed. The Railway Administation cannot be expected to take extra-ordinary care of the goods. Loss or damage to goods entrusted to a bailee is prima facie evidence of negligence on his part and the burden of proof, therefore, to disprove negligence lies on him.

Where it is really a case of one honest party, the consignor, being saddled with loss by an accidental fire claiming loss from another honest party the loss must fall where it is suffered and cannot be allowed to be recovered from the other side. AIR 1958 Mad 179, Rel. on.

No presumption of misconduct on the part of the Railway servants can be drawn from the mere fact that the goods which are not of a nature which are spontaneously combustible, had caught fire in a closed wagon. AIR 1952 Cal 384, Rel. on. 1961 MPLJ 484: 1961 MPC 302: 1961 Jab LJ 608: ILR (1961) Madh Pra 277: AIR 1961 Madh Pra 251 (253, 255) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 13, 14, 15) (DB).

——S. 72 — General liability of railway — Proof of negligence— (Contract Act (1872), Sections 151, 152).

In the absence on any risk note, the liability of the Railway is that of a bailee. The burden of proving negligence on the part of the servants of the carrier is on the plaintiff. In the absence of evidence of want of due diligence, the mere fact that great damage was done to the goods cannot raise an inference of negligence, when it could be caused in the long course of the journey on account of natural forces. 1957 Jab LJ 331: 1957 MPLJ 153: AIR 1957 Madh Pra 157 (159) (Pt D) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Ss. 72 and 74-A — Goods consigned at owner's risk — Duty to take care — Onus of proof of negligence.

The measure of responsibility of bailees to take reasonable care of the goods entrusted to them applies to the Railway Administration in this country. It is, of course, open to the Railway Administration under Section 72 of the Railways Act to delimit their responsibility by a special contract, where goods are sent at owner's risk. Section 74-A of the Act casts the onus of proof of negligence or misconduct on the part of the railway on the plaintiff only in two cases, viz., when the goods are in a defective condition as a result of which they are liable to deteriorate and where the packings of the goods are defective. In all other cases the primary onus of a bailee to show that he has taken reasonable care of the goods, is on the railway. (1959) 2 MLJ 365: 1959 Mad WN 489: 72 Mad LW 464: AIR 1960 Mad 149 (153) (Pt A) (Pr 14) (DB).

——S. 72 — Negligence — Burden of proof — Loss due to fire in goods-shed — (Evidence Act 1872), Ss. 101-103).

Where the consignees of railway receipts sued the Railway Administration for damages for the loss sustained by them in respect of their consignments as a result of the fire which gutted the railway goods-shed.

Held, that in so far as the liability of the Railway Administration is concerned they are liable not as common carriers but as bailees and they are required to take through their servants and employees such care of the bailed goods as they were expected to take of their own goods of the same bulk, quality and quantity. The law does not cast any burden upon the Administration to establish positively how the fire occurred and prove an absence of negligence on their part but a duty is cast on the Administration to lay all the materials concerning the occurrence before the Court. But even so it remains for the consignees to satisfy the Court that the true inference from the materials is that the carrier's servants have not shown due care, skill and nerve. AIR 1917 PC 173, Rel. on. 1956 Nag LJ 595: 1956 MPLJ 75: ILR (1956) Nag 506: AIR 1956 Nag 255 (255) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Ss. 72, 74-A (2) (prior to the Amendment in 1961) — Tins of oil consigned for transport damaged in transit — Tins not packed according to instructions issued by Railway — But special caution label 'not to be loose shunted' pasted to wagon — Possibility of damage caused by rough and loose shunting not ruled out — Both parties are negligent — Damages should be equally apportioned. ILR (1962) Cut 481: 28 Cut LT 380: AIR 1963 Orissa 41 (42) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Ss. 72, 74-C — Responsibility of Railway as bailee — Duration of liability — Loss or damage — If prima facie proof of negligence.

The liability of the Railway Company as bailee is limited to the period of transit or carriage of the goods with the addition of a reasonable period of time for loading the goods and a reasonable period of time (namely, twenty four hours) which is to be given to the consignee to take delivery, and does not extend to any period beyond this time. 54 Cal WN 902, Relon; AIR 1934 Cal 151 and AIR 1955 Cal 264 Distinguished.

Further, in a case governed by Section 74-C, it is erroneous to hold that the loss or damage of goods is prima facie proof of negligence on the part of Railway administration.

Thus where no evidence has been adduced by the consignee firm to show that the deterioration of the goods was due to any negligence on the part of the Railway Administrations, nor is there any proof that the consignment was booked at railway risk, there is no liability on the Railway Administrations as carrier. AIR 1959 Pat 473, Rel. on.

Held, further, that there could be no fresh bailment as no wharfage was in fact paid on the goods in question. AIR 1960 Pat 571 (573) (Prs 11, 12).

——Ss. 72, 74-A and 74-C — Loss or damage — Burden of proof of negligence.

When the statute requires proof of negligence, misconduct, etc., for the liability for the loss, destruction deterioration, leakage, etc., to hold that the loss or damage is prima facie proof of negligence is to make the entire effect of Sections 74-A and 74-C nugatory. Hence lies the importance of the qualifying, words, "subject to the other provisions of this Act" occurring in Section 72 of the Railways Act.

Where the consignment was not tendered to the Railway for carriage packed according to the tariff rules contemplated by Section 74-A of the Railways Act and the consignment was on transit for nine days, it is necessary for the plaintiff to put materials before the Court to prove negligence or misconduct on the part of the Railway administration or of any of its servants. 1959 BLJR 134: AIR 1959 Pat 473 (474) (Pr 6).

——Ss. 72 and 76 — Proof of misconduct — Risk note casting duty of disclosure in case of non-delivery — Discharge of duty. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 76. AIR 1957 Pat 475 (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Notes Forms A and B— "Misconduct" — Meaning of — Whether misconduct is established depends on facts and circumstances — Breach of standing order No. 163 (a) — Effect of — Inference of legal misconduct from proved facts — Question of law and mixed question of law and fact — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 100) — (Words and Phrases).

Any and every omission of duty, or want of care, on the part of the servants of the railway administration does not amount to misconduct Non-observation of, or non-compliance with, any duty or order, no doubt amounts to "negligence", but "negligence" is not the same thing as "misconduct". Misconduct is something more than mere negligence. It is the intentional doing of something which the doer knows to be wrong, or which he does recklessly not caring what the result may be. Misconduct, as such, means "wilful neglect", and, amounts to malfeasance, as opposed to non-feasance. Therefore, a breach of Standing Order No. 163 (a) a priori will not necessarily amount to "misconduct" on the part of the Railway Administration's servants within the meaning of Risk Note Form A or Risk Note Form B. Whether in a particular case, such breach will amount to "misconduct" within the meaning of Risk Note Forms A and B, or not will very largely depend on the facts and circumstances of each particular case. Case law reviewed.

It is true that an inference of legal misconduct from proved facts and circumstances is a question of law which can be agitated in second appeal but the question whether misconduct has been established or not depends on the facts and circumstances of each case, and, it is not possible to lay down any handy formula which can apply to all cases.

The plaintiff-appellant consigned 71 bags of potates at Bhagalpur Railway Station on 2nd November, 1942, for being despatched to Patna City. These consignments reached Jamalpur from Bhagalpur on 7-11-1942 and were despatched from Jamalpur on 8-11-1942, arriving at Patna City on 11-11-42. The District Judge found that there was no delay, much less unreasonable delay, in transit from Jamalpur to Patna City. He, however, found that there was some delay in the transit of the potatoes from Bhagalpur to Jamalpur, but the delay was not unreasonable, because the delay in despatching the consignments from Bhagalpur to Jamalpur was due to great congestion in the railway yard due to War. He, therefore, found that the unexplained delay of a few days in transit by railway from Bhagalpur to Jamalpur was not due to mismanagement, or unbusinesslike conduct, tantamount to misconduct, on the part of the Railway administration's servants. He therefore, held that the loss to the plaintiff had not been proved to have been caused due to misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration's servants. In the second appeal an argument was put forward that Standing Order No. 163 (a) had not been complied with and therefore, its non-compliance and non-observance amounted, in law, to "misconduct" on the part of the Railway Administration's servant.

Held, that (i) it could not be said that a legal inference of misconduct could be drawn from the mere finding of the Court of appeal below that there was some delay in the transit of potatoes from Bhagalpur to Jamalpur, particularly when he definitely found that the delay of six days in transit was not due to mismanagement, or unbusinesslike conduct tantamount to misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration's servant.

(ii) It could not be said on the finding of the District Judge that the legal inference of "misconduct" could be drawn in law from the mere violation of Standing Order No. 163 (a)

(iii) further, the question whether non-observance of Standing Order No. 163 (a) amounted to misconduct or not, was not raised either in the plaint, or before any of the two Courts below at all. As the question whether on the facts of a particular case, it would amount to misconduct or not was a mixed question of fact and law, the appellant could not be allowed to agitate this point in a second appeal, or ask for a remand for giving a finding on that question. 1957 BLJR 451 (Pat).

——S. 72 — Proof of negligence — Loss or damage of goods consigned is prima facie evidence of negligence — Contract Act (1872), Sections 152, 161.

Loss or damage of goods entrusted to a bailee is prima facie evidence of negligence; the burden of disproving negligence lies on the bailee, and this burden lies also on a railway administration in the absence of a special contract to the contrary. ILR 29 Pat 170: AIR 1950 Pat 215 (220) (Pt D) (Pr 6) (DB).

——S. 72 — Negligence.

It is a well-known rule of law that when damage is caused by an article which is under the control or management of the defendant and the occurrence is one which does not happen if due care has been taken, the damage speaks for itself (res ipsa loquitur) and is prima facie evidence of negligence. Although this doctrine does not shift the burden of proof from the plaintiff to the defendant, it certainly establishes a prima facie case against the defendant and places an obligation on him to show that the damage was not due to his want of care.

Hence where a consignee brings a suit against the railway administration for damages on account of the negligence of the Railway administration and the goods were consigned at Railway's risk, the explanation by the Railway administration that the damage was caused by the rain water carried into the wagon through flap doors by strong winds cannot exonerate it from blame or exculpate it from the charge of negligence. (1956) 58 Pun LR 447: ILR (1956) Punj 1245.

——S. 72 — Suit aginst railway for loss of goods — Pleadings of both parties not placing reliance on section 74-C — Both, plaintiff and defendant contesting on basis of ordinary liability of bailee — Court held rightly placed burden to disprove negligence on defendant railway. See Railways Act (1890), S. 74-C. AIR 1963 Raj 162.

——S. 72 — Proof of negligence — Marble statute worth Rs. 9,000, wrapped in grass and gunny bags loaded in open wagon — Damaged by fire — Railway as bailee did not act with prudence in packing the thing in combustible articles in open wagon. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 289 (DB).

17. Wilful neglect.

See also Note 15.

——S. 72 — Wilful negligence — Wagon sealed and riveted but not locked — There is no negligence.

Failure to lock a wagon does not constitute wilful negligence when the wagon is properly sealed and riveted. AIR 1929 Nag 315 and AIR 1928 Lah 837, Rel. on. ('52) 1952 Nag LJ (Notes) 129.

18. What ought to be proved by railway.

See also Note 4.

——S. 72 — Risk Note B — Non-disclosure of information prior to filing of suit — Presumption under S. 114, Illus. (g), Evidence Act, if can be raised — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 114, Illus. (g)).

The omission of the Railway administration to disclose to the plaintiff as to how the consignment was dealt with throughout the time it was in its possession or control before the filing of the suit would not necessarily lead to the raising of presumption under S. 114, Illus. (g), Evidence Act. The object of furnishing this information is to obviate, if possible, the necessity for litigation. If the Railway Administration fail to comply with the earlier part of its obligation, it has to lead evidence to indicate to the parties affected as to how the consignment was dealt with while it was in its control. Before the consignor or consignee could be required to show that the Administration or its servants have been guilty of misconduct or gross negligence, this initial burden has to be discharged by the Administration. It is only after this that the consignor will have to prove that the administration would not be entitled to the protection afforded by the Risk Note as it was guilty of misconduct. AIR 1937 PC 152, Discussed and Dist.; AIR 1927 Mad 908 and AIR 1938 Mad 206, Dist. 1956 Andhra WR 994: AIR 1957 Andh Pra 958 (959, 960) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 13).

19. Proof of loss.

——Ss. 72, 73 and 76 — Liability for loss — Burden of proof.

A consigned 201 bags from a station on the S. S. Light Railway to Gauhati on the Assam Rly. and endorsed the railway receipt to B. B. alleging non-delivery of the goods brought a suit for the value of the goods against the Union of India.

Held, in view of the fact that evidence had been adduced by both the parties the question of burden of proof was not very important. The plaintiff had accepted the position as deposed to by his witness that the article passed to E. Bengal Railway and therefore, the burden no longer lay on the defendant to prove the transfer of the goods. It would no doubt have been better if the Railway authorities had come with the books in their possession to show the actual transfer of the article to the E. Bengal Railway and the subsequent non-receipt of the same by the Assam Railway. However, it must be accepted that the article was delivered to the Pakistan Railway as a matter of fact and that they were not subsequently received by the Assam Railway. Since it was not established that the article was lost when it was on the Union Railways, it could not be held that the Union of India was liable as a bailee. ILR (1956) 8 Assam 337.

——Ss. 72 and 77 — 'Loss' — Non-delivery of portion of consignment — If loss.

The interpretation of the word 'loss' as used in S. 72 must be applied to the word as used in S. 77, as both these sections form part of the scheme of the legislature as regards the liability of the railway administration as carriers.

The position in law is that if the non-delivery of a portion of the consignment in a case is due to the fact that the railway involuntarily or through inadvertence lost possession of the goods and was unable to trace them, it would be a case of loss within the meaning of S. 77. The mere fact that something was not delivered e.g., a part of the consignment, is not sufficient to show that there was loss within the meaning of S. 77. AIR 1958 Cal 434 (436) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

——S. 72 — Goods sent by railway — No Risk Note signed — Loss in transit — Burden of proof. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 106. AIR 1956 Hyd 193.

——S. 72 (before its amendment in 1961) — Applicability.

In order to succeed on the basis of S. 72 of the Railways Act, the consignee should not merely show that there was a loss of the goods entrusted to the carrier, but that the loss was due to the fact that the carrier had failed to take as much care of the goods bailed as a man of ordinary prudence would. 78 Mad LW 566: (1965) 2 Mad LJ 460: ILR (1965) 2 Mad 599.

——Ss. 72 and 75 — Respective scope — Liability of Railway for loss of part of the goods — Consigned — When arises.

Section 72 of the Railways Act no doubt imposes an absolute liability on the Railway administration for loss, destruction or deterioration of goods delivered to them as carriers and subject to the provisions of the Act, the responsibility of the Railway is that of a bailee under the provisions of the Contract Act. In order to sustain a claim under this provision the plaintiff should not only prove the loss or deterioration of the goods entrusted to the carrier but should also prove that the carrier failed to take as much care of the goods bailed as a man of ordinary prudence would. But S. 75 of the Railways Act is of special application. The whole purpose of the section is that the Railway should be informed of the special value of the goods entrusted for carriage and therefore, of the additional risk of the Rly. in consideration of which a higher charge is required to be paid. The section will cover also partial loss of goods contained in any parcel or package of the specified type. It will be defeating the very purpose of the section if it is held to apply only in cases of total loss of the entire goods consigned and not to cases where only a part of the goods is lost. But the section could be invoked only if the declaration is made according to its provisions. 78 Mad LW 566: (1965) 2 MLJ 460: ILR (1965) 2 Mad 599.

——Ss. 72 and 75 (prior to amendment in 1961) — Applicability — Non-delivery of article — Liability of railway — "Loss" of article — Proof — Mere statement of Railway that article remained untraced — Not sufficient — See Railways Act (1890), S. 75. 1963 Mys LJ (Supp) 105.

——S. 72 (prior to its amendment by Act 39 of 1961) — Goods carried at owner's risk — Damage to goods in transit — Suit for damages — Evidence to show how goods are dealt with in course of transit — Burden of proof. See Railways Act (1890) (prior to its Amendment by Act 39 of 1961), S. 74-C (3). AIR 1964 Punj 147 (DB).

20. Estoppel.

——S. 72 — Estoppel — Consignor signing Risk Note A — He cannot deny defective packing in a suit brought by him on the basis of that contract. 32 Cal WN 53; AIR 1931 Cal 489; AIR 1949 Cal 679 and 55 Cal WN 251, Followed. ILR (1953) Punj 362 : AIR 1953 Punj 83 (86, 87) (Pt B) (Prs 19, 32) (DB).

21. Rules.

——Ss. 72 and 74-A — Applicability — Goods Tariff Rules, R. 47 — Goods dispatched to one station — Consignor asking railway to rebook to another destination — Railway, sending goods to Lost Property Officer — Suit for compensation for loss — Maintainability.

Under R. 47 where a consignor has booked the goods for one station, it is open to him to re book the goods to any other station provided that he forwards with his application the original railway receipt with sufficient money and stamps to enable the station master to post a reply and the re-booking railway receipt under a registered cover to him. Under Rule 47, the fact that packages were in damaged condition, is no ground for refusal by the Railway for re-booking the goods.

Section 74-A applies only to the stage when the goods are initially tendered for being consigned. Where the goods had already been tendered and the consignor had subsequently directed that the goods be re-booked and forwarded to another station from the station to which they were consigned, S. 74-A has no application. If in such a case, the railway fails to re-direct the goods but sends them to the Lost Property Office on the failure of the consignor to take delivery, the railway is liable for the loss sustained by the consignor. 1957 All LJ 967.

——Ss. 72, 47 and 74-A — General Rules for Acceptance, Carriage and Delivery of Goods, Rr. 31 (2), 47 — Rules relating to Report of Damages, Deficiencies or Loss of Goods, Paras 161-I and 161-II — Part of consignment damaged — Railway is bound to give open delivery — Damaged consignment in custody of railway, to be given open delivery of — Destruction by fire — Liability as bailee — Railway is liable. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 47. AIR 1963 Andh Pra 415.

——Ss. 72, 47 (1) (f) — Rules for Wharfage, R. 3 — I. R. C. A. Goods Tariff No. 28, R. 30 (2) — Validity — Consignment lost from railway warehouse after expiry of time allowed for delivery free of wharfage — Wharfage charges recovered — Liability of Railway for damages for loss — (Rules for wharfage R. 3) — (I. R. C. A. Goods Tariff No. 28, R. 30 (2)) — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152 and 161). See Railways Act (1890), S. 47 (1) (f). AIR 1959 Andh Pra 84.

——S. 72 — Scope — Rules under S. 47 (1) (f), R. 2 — If inconsistent.

The Railway administration really accepts the goods for despatch on the dates on which the weights of the different consignments are noted on the notes. The liability of the Railway in respect of the consignments, therefore, really commences on the dates which appear on the forwarding notes and not on the dates on which railway receipts are granted.

The word 'delivered', occurring in S. 72, Railways Act, refers merely to a physical event and is devoid of any legal significance and restriction of liability created by S. 72 and by any rule framed under S. 47 cannot be accepted as valid. In this view, R. 2 of the Rules framed under S. 47 (1) (f) of the Railways Act, under which goods will in all cases be at owner's risk until a receipt in the prescribed form has been granted and duly signed by an authorised railway servant, is inconsistent with S. 72 which defines the liability of the railway and is therefore, ultra vires of the Railways Act. ILR 31 Cal 951 and AIR 1932 Cal 257, Foll. AIR 1959 Cal 400 (401) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 4) (DB).

——S. 72 — Rules for wharfage, R. 3 — Termination of carrier's liability — Warehousing of goods by railway — Wharfage charges recovered — Contract of bailment is created. 42 All 655: 7 Lah 370, Dissented from. See Contract Act (1872), S. 151. AIR 1955 Cal 264 (DB).

——S. 72 — Non-observance of condition relating to protection of goods consigned — Held, even if such a condition in the Goods Tariff cannot be availed of by the Railway for repudiating its liability, it would be possible for it to urge that non-compliance with that condition by consignor would at least amount to such negligence on his part as would preclude him from holding the railway administration liable for any loss caused by it. 36 Mys LJ 216: ILR (1957) Mys 407: AIR 1959 Mys 90 (93) (Pt B) (Pr 22).

——S. 72 — Liability of Railway — Delay by consignees in taking delivery — Railway if free from all responsibility — Goods Tariff, Part 1-A, Item 8, R. 29 (2) — Scope of.

Even if under R. 29 (2) the Railway Administration ceased to be a bailee because of the delay by the consignees in taking delivery of the consignments, they could not by virtue of that rule, be free from all responsibility in the matter. After the lapse of reasonable time the Administration though no longer bailees, become under the rule warehousemen and as such liable for the damage caused by the negligence of their employees. ILR (1956) Nag 506: 1956 MPLJ 75: 1956 Nag LJ 595: AIR 1956 Nag 255 (256) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——S. 72 — General libaility of railway — Repudiation of liability — Failure to make claim to clerk in charge — (Contract Act (1872), Section 28).

It is not open to the Railway Administration to repudiate its liability if the claim is not made immediately to the clerk, incharge and is not forwarded to the Traffic Manager forthwith in spite of the rule printed at the back of the railway receipt to that effect. The observance of this rule would be contrary to S. 28 of the Contract Act. ILR (1953) Nag 314: 1954 Nag LJ 353: AIR 1953 Nag 169 (171) (Pt D) (Pr 14) (DB).

——S. 72 — Burden of proof — Goods Tariff General Rules, R. 15 — Railway receipt — If conclusive — Liability of railway.

Rule 15 specifies that the railway receipt conveys no admission by the railway administration that the weight of the consignment as shown in the receipt has been received or, the description of goods as furnished by the consignor is correct. AIR 1930 Bom 262 and AIR 1953 Mad 514, Rel. on.

Unless there is evidence of the actual booking of the goods as shown in the railway receipt, the railway is not liable for short delivery where the goods are received in sound and intact condition.

A statement in the plaint is a matter of pleading and not proof nor are the statements in the notices of demand any proof of the claim on which demand is made.

It is for the consignor or consignee to adduce evidence as to the actual booking of the goods as the contents of the consignment were within his special knowledge. AIR 1961 Orissa 141 (142, 143) (Prs 4, 6, 7).

——S. 72 — Scope — Rules framed under Section 47 (1) (f), R. 31 (2) — Goods reaching destination — Unreasonable delay in taking delivery — Damage caused by rain — Railway, if absolved from liability—Rule 31 (2) is not ultra vires.

Under R. 31 (2) of the General Rules for Acceptance, Carriage and Delivery of Goods (vide Goods Tariff R. No. 29 in force from 1st June, 1954), in respect of goods not removed from railway premises at station of destination within a reasonable time, the railway is not liable in any respect for any loss, destruction of or damage to such goods arising from whatever cause notwithstanding that the railway may have warehouse or otherwise kept the goods and notwithstanding that the railway shall be entitled to be paid the authorised charges for goods so left on their premises. The said rule also provides that normally the free time allowed for demurrage and wharfage on railway should be considered as reasonable time for this purpose. A carrier need not warehouse the goods for the consignee or owner beyond the actual time required for serving the specific purpose and any attempt by the consignee or owner to palm off the responsibility for loss, damage or destruction to the railway administration even though the delay is attributable to the owner has to be effectively checked. Rule 31 falls within the ambit of the power conferred on the Government to frame rules under S. 47, sub-section (1), Cl. (f). Hence R. 31 is not ultra vires the Railways Act. AIR 1959 Andhra Pra 17, Rel. on; AIR 1955 Cal 264 and AIR 1956 Nag 255 and AIR 1957 Madh Pra 192, Disting; AIR 1959 Andh Pra 84, Doubted.

In this case there was unreasonable delay, namely, two months on the part of the plaintiff to take delivery of goods after they reached the destination. The goods were damaged by reason of the alleged cyclonic rain.

Held, that the railway was absolved from the liability for the damage by virtue of R. 31 (2). ILR (1959) Cut 716: AIR 1960 Orissa 103 (105) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——S. 72 — Damage certificate—If amounts to acknowledgment to damage.

A damage certificate states only the facts that damage had in fact been caused to the goods in transit but it does not amount to an acknowledgment of the fact that the damage was caused by negligence or misconduct on the part of the railway officers. AIR 1957 Cal 666, Foll. ILR (1959) Cut 716: AIR 1960 Orissa 103 (107) (Pt C) (Pr 7).

——S. 72 — General Tariff Rules, R. 15—Consignment at Railway risk — Consignment found cut or pilfered at destination — Suit for compensation for short delivery — Burden of proof.

The Railway administration, while accepting a consignment booked at railway risk and accepting the bailee's responsibility, is not entitled to take shelter under R. 15, General Tariff Rules, to say that it or its employees did not examine the condition of the bags and packages despatched at railway risk rate and, therefore, are not liable for the cut condition and the consequent short delivery of the portion of the goods despatched in the bags or packages. In a consignment which has been booked at railway risk it has got to be assumed, unless the contrary is proved by the railway, that the bags when despatched were in a sound condition. The railway by noting in the railway receipt that the consignment was booked under 'L. U. conditions' meaning thereby that the loading and unloading were to be done by the consignor and the consignor and the consignee was not admitting either the correctness of the number of the bag and/or the weight and if the bags would not have been found cut, perhaps in such a case the railway will escape its responsibility unless it is proved by the plaintiff that at the time of despatch correct number of bags with the weight stated in the railway receipt were despatched.

It is well-established proposition of law that in a consignment booked under railway risk the condition of the consignment or the packages forming it and the consequent shortage in weight is a prima facie proof of the negligence of the bailee, that is, the Railway Administration, and it was for the Administration to discharge its responsibility by showing as to how the bags were cut in spite of taking all reasonable precaution by it as a man of ordinary prudence would have taken. AIR 1961 Pat 473 (474) (Pr 3).

——S. 72 — Misconduct — Coaching Traffic Rules, R. 161 — Agent having authority to take delivery only — Railway cannot re-book goods, on application of such person — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 188, 227).

Where the consignor who was also the consignee had given authority to another to take delivery, the railway administration has no power to re-book the goods upon their reaching the destination, on an application by the person who was only authorised to take delivery. This amounts to irregularity on the part of the railway servants. Under R. 161 of the Coaching Traffic Rules whenever re-booking is done, an application is taken from the consignor or the consignee, as the case may be for that purpose, and after the re-booking of the goods, the railway receipts are sent to him under a registered cover. The proper course in such a case would be to show the agent himself as consignor and not the original person as the consignor. ILR 37 Pat 1355: AIR 1959 Pat 337 (341) (Pt C) (Prs 15, 15a, 16) (DB).

——Ss. 72, 47 (1) (f) and 56 — Goods Tariff General Rules, R. 31 (old R. 28) — Goods consigned to railway — Liability of railway — It does not terminate with arrival of goods at station of destination — If continues till delivery or till disposal thereof under S. 56 — Rule 28 (2) — Condition in — It is not valid.

Under the Indian law, the English notion of the carrier's liability terminating on the arrival of goods at the destination cannot be imported into India as in India railways are exempt from special liability of the insurer of goods and their liability is that of an ordinary bailee. The combined effect of Ss. 72, 47 (1) (f) and S. 56 and of the various rules framed under S. 47, indicate that the Railway's liability as bailee continues until delivery of goods at destination or until their sale under Sec. 56 or until otherwise duly discharged by an appropriate action after the arrival of the goods.

The condition laid down in R. 28 (2) (present R. 31) of the Goods Tariff General Rules that the railway is not liable in respect of any loss, destruction, deterioration and damage to such goods if the goods are not removed from railway premises at station of destination within the time allowed essentially seeks to exempt the railway from the liability as a bailee and cannot be treated as term or condition on which the Railway might warehouse or retain the goods. This condition cannot be valid as it exceeds the rule-making power of the railway and it is also inconsistent with the liability imposed on the railway under S. 72 of the Railways Act. Delay in taking delivery by itself cannot be pleaded in defence to the negligence and misconduct of the Railway employee. AIR 1943 Lah 244, Rel. on; (1958) 2 An WR 377; AIR 1959 Andh Pra 17, Dissent. from. ILR (1962) 12 Raj 105: AIR 1962 Raj 181 (185, 187) (Prs 11, 16) (DB).

22. Notice.

See Railways Act (1890), S. 77 (old).

23. Who can sue.

●——S. 72 — Contract Act (1872), Ss. 160 and 188 — Damage to goods in transit — Suit for damages by consignee who is commission agent — Maintainability.

A consignee, who is not the owner of the goods but to whom the goods are consigned for the purpose of sale on commission basis, is entitled to maintain the suit for loss in respect of damage caused to the goods in transit. AIR 1914 Bom 178 and AIR 1924 All 574 and AIR 1949 EP 190, Rel. on; 1954 All LJ 288; AIR 1954 All 747, Overruled. Dominion of India as owner of G. I. P. Railway v. Gava Pershad. ILR (1956) 1 All 526: 1956 All WR (HC) 360: 1956 All LJ 173: AIR 1956 All 338 (341) (Pr 27) (FB).

——S. 72 — Endorsee of railway receipt — No right to bring suit for value for shortage in delivery of goods sent by railway. See Contract Act (1872), S. 161. AIR 1954 All 747 (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1956 All 338.]

——S. 72 — Who can sue.

A consignee under a railway receipt is entitled to sue the railway administration for non-delivery of the consignment so long as he has not specifically endorsed the railway receipt in favour of any other person. The mere fact that the delivery of part of the consignment has been taken by his agent on his behalf would not destroy the right of the plaintiff if there is no endorsement in favour of the agent. 1953 All LJ 55: 1953 All WR (HC) 107: AIR 1953 All 460 (461) (Pt B) (Pr 9).

——S. 72 — Goods delivered to railway for consignment — Suit by consignor for loss by non-delivery—Consignor alleging consignee to be his commission agent — Suit not to be dismissed in limine without affording plaintiff opportunity to prove allegation.

When the goods have been delivered to Railway Company for consignment and the consignor sues for loss caused by the non-delivery of goods, definitely alleging that the consignee was his commission agent meaning thereby that the property in the goods had not passed to the consignee, his suit cannot be dismissed in limine without affording him an opportunity to substantiate his allegation that the property in the goods had not passed to the consignee; AIR 1924 Mad 517, Disting. 1949 All LJ 412: 1949 All WR (HC) 465: AIR 1950 All 89 (89, 90) (Pr 4).

——S. 72 — Contract Act (1872), Ss. 148, 161 — Consignment of goods — Non-delivery due to negligence of Railway — R. R. in name of consignee but not endorsed in his favour — Consignor alone can sue for loss.

Looked at only from the provisions made applicable under S. 72 of the Railways Act, there can be little doubt that the Railway accepts the consignment as a bailee only from the consignor, who, according to the definition in Section 148, Contract Act is a bailor. The Railway, therefore, under S. 161 of the Contract Act is liable for any loss occurred if the loss is due to the negligence of the Railway. The consignor therefore, is the person who can institute a suit for realising the losses which he has suffered on account of the negligence on the part of the Railway. This statutory obligation on the part of the Railway vis-a-vis the bailor would be discharged only when the losses are paid to the bailor either through the Court or outside the Court, and either to the bailor or to his representative. On principle as well as on authority, it can, therefore, be stated that the bailor can certainly sue for any loss, destruction, or deterioration of goods.

In a contract of bailment of this type, consignee is not the party to the contract. He cannot, therefore, institute any suit on the ground of breach of the contract or negligence committed by the Railway in carrying out the terms of the contract. If at all he can sue on the ground that he holds title in the goods consigned to him. That is very different than saying that the consignor who is the real bailor cannot sue at all. As far as the bailee is concerned, his responsibility under S. 161, Contract Act to meet losses is to the bailor.

In cases, however, where either the consignor or the consignee can claim and the person claiming receives the damages from the Railway Company either outside the Court, or through the Court, any payment thus made in the discharge of the claim by the Railway Company would certainly be a valid discharge as against the person who had not put his claim, and the rights of the consignor and the consignee will be settled between them. The Railway Company in any case is liable to pay the compensation because of its negligence. When it is not in doubt that the title in the goods consigned was with the consignor, the R. R. not having been endorsed in favour of the consigee, it is the consignor who alone can institute the suit. The consignee who has not had any title in the goods cannot sue in such a case. Merely because that R. R. stands in the name of the consignee without the title in goods passing to him he would not be entitled to institute the suit. AIR 1924 Mad 517, Dist.; AIR 1925 All 656 and AIR 1957 Bom 276, Rel. on. (1965) 1 Andh WR 342: ILR (1963) Andh Pra 1250: AIR 1965 Andh Pra 263 (264, 265, 266) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7, 9).

——S. 72 — Consignor can sue for compensation.

The right of action to recover compensation for loss or damage to the goods ordinarily vests in the consignor. Where the plaintiff sued for compensation on the ground that the goods which he had sent to the consignee at Nasik were not received by him and the Railway pleaded that the plaintiff had no cause of action as the title to the goods had already passed to the consignee.

Held, that the consignor who was the contracting party had the right of suit. AIR 1957 Bom 276, Foll. 1962 NLJ (Notes) 18 (Bom).

——S. 72 — Right of parties — Part of goods not delivered — Consignee suing — Railway finding goods and offering them in damaged condition — Plaintiff not bound to accept delivery. 1957 Nag LJ 573: 60 Bom LR 103: ILR (1958) Bom 453: AIR 1958 Bom 238 (239) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——S. 72 — Right to sue — Consignee's right — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 2 (d) and 230).

The right of action to recover compensation for loss or damage to the goods ordinarily vests in the consignor. Where the goods lost or damaged in transit are the subject-matter of a contract of sale, the owner of the goods may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, sue the railway administration. A consignee who is in possession of a railway receipt duly endorsed by the consignor may maintain an action for compensation for loss of the goods covered thereby, but he can do so not because he is the consignee but because he is the owner of the goods. A consignor may sue for compensation for loss relying upon the breach of contract of consignment. An owner of goods covered by a railway receipt may sue for compensation relying upon his title, and the loss of goods by misconduct of the railway administration. A bare consignee, who is not a party to the contract of consignment and who is not the owner of the goods, cannot maintain a suit for compensation for loss or damage to the goods. He has no cause of action ex contractu nor ex delicto. Normally a person who is not a party to a contract is not entitled to maintain an action for breach of that contract. That rule, is subject to certain well-recognised exceptions, e.g., a person who is not a party to a contract can sue on it if he is claiming through a party to the contract, or if he is in the position of a cestui que trust or of a principal suing through an agent or if he claims under a family settlement. A consignee does not fall within any of the excepted classes. 59 Bom LR 704: ILR (1957) Bom 647: AIR 1957 Bom 276 (279, 280) (Pt B) (Prs 12, 19, 20) (DB).

——S. 72 — Who can sue — Liability of railway is same as bailee — Property passing to consignee on date of delivery of goods to railway — Consignor is agent of consignee who alone can sue — Consignor still owner of goods on date of delivery. He can sue, even though on subsequent date property passes to consignee — As far as Railway is concerned, contract is between it and consignor — Consignor can therefore sue. AIR 1955 NUC (Bom) 2049.

——S. 72 — Mere fact that consignee is a pucca Adatia does not entitle him to institute a suit for damages. See Contract Act (1872), S. 211. ILR (1964) Guj 928: (1964) 5 Guj LR 379: AIR 1966 Guj 6 (DB).

——S. 72 — Benefits of contract assignable — But assignee does not get right to sue — Only privy to a contract has right to sue. See Contract Act (1872), S. 37. ILR (1964) Guj 928: (1964) 5 Guj LR 879: AIR 1966 Guj 6 (DB).

——S. 72 — Right of consignor under railway receipt is not actionable claim and therefore not transferable. See Transfer of Property Act (1882), S. 3. ILR (1964) Guj 928: (1964) 5 Guj LR 879: AIR 1966 Guj 6 (DB).

——S. 72 — T. P. Act (1882), S. 130 — Goods consigned to self under Railway Receipt — Railway Receipt endorsed in favour of another — Endorsee not entitled to sue Railway merely by reason of endorsement.

Where goods are consigned to self by the consignor and the Railway Receipt is endorsed in favour of another, the endorsee cannot sue the Railway for short delivery of goods. The endorsee cannot be said to have acquired an interest in the goods by the mere fact of his being the endorsee. That interest is sufficient in law to sue the Railway, unless the endorsee has acquired ownership in the goods of which he takes delivery. AIR 1947 Bom 169 and 58 Bom LR 650, Disting. AIR 1957 Bom 276 and AIR 1948 Pat 36, Foll; AIR 1944 Nag 362, Dissent from. ILR (1964) Guj 628: (1964) 5 Guj LR 879: AIR 1966 Guj 6 (8, 14) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 3, 9) (DB).

——S. 72 — Sale of Goods Act (1930), S. 19 — Consignor endorsing Railway Receipt to another — Property in the goods not transferred by mere edorsement.

Merely an endorsement on the Railway Receipt does not transfer the property in the goods covered by a Railway Receipt. To ascertain whether the property or any interest in the goods has or has not passed, the material question to be considered in each case is whether at the time when the endorsement was made and the railway receipt was delivered, the parties did or did not intend that the property or interest in the goods should pass. This has to be ascertained with reference to the terms of the contract by which the sale of goods took place, the conduct of the parties, and the circumstances of the case.

Held, having regard to the definite case set up by the petitioner and the events which preceded the endorsement of the railway receipt, that the petitioner had not acquired ownership in the goods represented by the railway receipt. 58 Bom LR 650, Foll.; AIR 1914 Bom 178, Disting. ILR (1964) Guj 928: (1964) 5 Guj LR 879: AIR 1966 Guj 6 (9) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——S. 72 — T. P. Act (1882), S. 137 — Negotiable Instruments Act (1881), S. 13 — Sale of Goods Act (1930), S. 2 (4)—Document of title — Title to railway receipt does not pass by endorsement — Railway receipt is not a negotiable instrument.

It is true that by virtue of the definition contained in Section 2 (4) of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930, a railway receipt is a document of title to goods; yet the legislature has not used the term 'title' in the expression 'document of title to goods' in the wider sense of ownership of goods. The word 'title' is used in the limited sense of a right to receive or take delivery of the goods. A railway receipt is a document of title in this limited sense and in the absence of any provision in the Sale of Goods Act either expressly or impliedly stating that an endorsement on or a delivery of the railway receipt passes title to the goods represented thereby the proposition cannot be subscribed to that such an endorsement and delivery would pass title to the goods. A railway receipt is not negotiable instrument or a quasi-negotiable instrument. Even if the instrument were to be regarded as a quasi-negotiable instrument, it cannot be said that by mere endorsement and delivery of that instrument, not merely the right to take delivery of the goods represented thereby passes; but also the title in the goods themselves. AIR 1917 Nag 31, Dissent from. 58 Bom LR 650 and AIR 1916 PC 7, Rel. on. ILR (1964) Guj 928: (1964) 5 Guj LR 879: AIR 1966 Guj 6 (10) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

——S. 72 — Contract Act (1872), Ss. 160, 188 — Railway administration cannot enter into contract for benefit of third person.

It is incorrect to say that there is nothing to prevent the consignor and the railway administration from entering freely and voluntarily into a contract for the benefit of a third person. When the railway administration undertakes to give delivery to the order of the consignor or to the consignee, the railway administration undertakes the obligation, not in favour of the prospective consignee or endorsee but, the obligation is undertaken by it only for the consignor. Consequently a consignee who is not the owner of the goods but to whom the goods are consigned for sale cannot maintain a suit for loss in respect of damages caused to the goods in transit. AIR 1956 All 338 (FB); Not foll. ILR (1964) Guj 928: (1964) 5 Guj LR 879: AIR 1966 Guj 6 (14) (Pt F) (Pr 9) (DB).

——S. 72 (prior to amendment in 1961) —Suit against Railway — Right to maintain — Consignor alone competent — Bare consignee having railway receipt — Not competent — Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152, 161 and 226. AIR 1956 All 338 (FB) and AIR 1957 Bom 276, Dist. AIR 1962 Guj 266 (268) (Prs 6, 7).

——S. 72 — Suit by consignee.

Where the railway receipt shows that the plaintiff is the consignee, and there is no endorsement on it in favour of another, the plaintiff is entitled to sue on it, for the non-delivery of the consignment. What agreement was between the plaintiff and other persons is not a matter with which the railway authorities are concerned. It is their duty to deliver the consignment of the plaintiff as the sole consignee. ILR (1955) Hyd 604: AIR 1956 Hyd 30 (31) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

——S. 72 — Sale of Goods Act (1930), Ss. 2 (4) and 27, Proviso — Consignor himself consignee — Delivery of Railway receipt to bank — Bank is agent of consignee — Unendorsed railway receipt — Purchase of, by plaintiff from agent (Bank) of consignee — Suit by plaintiff against railway for damages for non-delivery, is maintainable. See Sale of Goods Act (1930), Section 2 (4). AIR 1955 Hyd 193 (DB).

——S. 72 — Who can sue.

An endorsee of a railway receipt has a sufficient interest to enable him to sue on its basis. AIR 1955 Madh B 70, Foll. Madh BLR 1955 (Clv) 396: Madh BLJ 1955 HCR 1541: AIR 1955 MB 181 (182) (Pt A) (Pr 9).

——S. 72 — Who can sue — Right of consignee — Railway receipt is document of title — (Sale of Goods Act (1930), S. 2 (4)).

A railway receipt is a 'document of title' within the definition of the term in Section 2 (4), Sale of Goods Act, and enables the person mentioned as consignee to give a valid discharge in respect of the goods to which it relates. Hence, a consignee of goods or an endorsee of a railway receipt though he be an agent of the consignor has sufficient interest in the goods to file a suit against the railway. AIR 1947 Bom 169. Not foll. Madh BLJ 1955 HCR 174: Madh BLR 1954 (Clv) 450: AIR 1955 MB 70 (73) (Pt B) (Pr 34) (DB).

——S. 72 — Right of suit.

In the case of non-delivery or damage to a consignment it is either a consignor or a consignee or an endorsee of the railway receipt who alone can file a suit against the Railway administration. AIR 1957 Nag 31; AIR 1959 MP 222; 1959 MPLJ (Notes) 29, Foll. 1961 MPLJ (Notes) 93.

——S. 72 — Last endorsee of a railway receipt — Right to sue in his own name.

A railway receipt though not a negotiable instrument, is clothed with the characteristic of negotiability and where there are a series of endorsements, the last endorsee is entitled to sue in his own name. AIR 1957 Nag 31, Foll. 1961 MPLJ (Notes) 69.

——S. 72 — Who can sue— Unsigned endorsee of railway receipt— Suit by— Maintainability— (Evidence Act (1872), S. 115). AIR 1959 Madh Pra 305 (308, 309) (Pt D) (Prs 21, 23, 25) (DB).

——S. 72 — Damages — Right to sue for — Assignee of railway receipt — Right of.

The assignee of a railway receipt issued for a consignment is entitled to bring and maintain a suit on the strength of the endorsement made in his favour without any more. AIR 1957 Nag 31, Foll. 1959 MPC 341: 1959 MPLJ 701: 1960 Jab LJ 985: AIR 1959 Madh Pra 276 (278) (Pt A) (Pr 9) (DB).

——S. 72 — Suit for damages — Railway receipt endorsed in favour of another — Consignor if can maintain suit — (Specific Relief Act (1877), S. 23).

The endorsee of a railway receipt can maintain a suit against the Railway for damages for the loss of the goods. The consignor of goods can also maintain a suit against the Railway Administration for damages, for the loss of the goods even though he has endorsed the railway receipt in favour of another, more so, when the railway receipt was returned by the endorsee to the consignor and the notice of this was given to the railway. 1959 MPC 239: 1959 Jab LJ 291: 1959 MPLJ 327: AIR 1959 Madh Pra 222 (223) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——S. 72 — Right to sue — Person holding R. R. without endorsement — Right of.

Held, on facts that a suit for damages for failure to deliver goods in time is not one in tort but one based on the contract of carriage with the Railway. The contract was with consignor so he could sue. Also any one in whose favour it was endorsed was entitled to sue. An unendorsed Railway receipt cannot be recognised to be conveying title of the consignor to the holder of the Railway receipt so as to enable him to file a suit against the Railway Administration for damages. The possession of the Railway receipt may justify the Railway in regarding the possessor as an agent of the consignor. But that will not clothe the holder with the rights of the consignor to institute a suit. 1959 MPLJ (Notes) 29.

——S. 72 — Who can sue — Endorsee of railway receipt. AIR 1958 Madh Pra 314 (315) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——S. 72 — Who can sue — Consignor delivering goods to railway for delivery to consignee — Loss caused by non-delivery — Consignee to whom property in goods has passed alone can sue for loss.

Where a consignment is delivered to the railway, the consignor, except where he is acting as the agent of another, can be regarded as the party to the contract of carriage; prima facie, he can also be treated as the bailor; where he is acting as an agent, his principal can be regarded as the bailor so far as the railway is concerned. But where under a contract of sale, goods are delivered by the seller to the railway for carriage, in order to effect delivery, the railway is ordinarily treated as the agent of the buyer to receive the goods from the seller. Benjamin on Sales, 8th Edn. P. 737, cited with approval. Therefore, where property in the goods had passed to the buyer, on delivery to the railway the latter should have to be regarded as bailee to the owner of the goods, namely, the consignee. And only the consignee can sue for loss caused by the non-delivery of the goods after the goods have been delivered to the railway for delivery to him. AIR 1924 Mad 517, Rel. on; AIR 1947 Bom 169 and AIR 1957 Bom 276 and AIR 1959 Madh Pra 222, Dissent. from. 77 Mad LW 530: 1964 Mad WN 374: ILR (1965) 1 Mad 248: AIR 1965 Mad 152 (163) (Prs 5, 7, 8, 9) (DB).

——S. 72 — 'Documents of title' — Railway receipt — Assignability. See T. P. Act (1882), S. 137. AIR 1957 Nag 31 (DB).

——S. 72 — Railway receipt having series of endorsements — Right of last endorsee to bring suit against railway. See T. P. Act (1882), S. 137. AIR 1957 Nag 31 (DB).

——S. 72 — Endorsee of railway receipt — Right to sue for damages for short delivery. See T. P. Act (1882), S. 130. AIR 1957 Nag 31 (DB).

——S. 72 — Suit for loss or leakage — Who can sue — Consignor consigning goods to self — Buyer taking delivery without endorsement on receipt — Mere delivery does not confer right to sue.

The only person entitled to take delivery is either the consignee or anyone else to whom the receipt is endorsed. It is not correct to say that whenever a railway delivers up a consignment to the person who produces the railway receipt, there is a presumption that the person who takes delivery does so as the owner of the goods, or that it amounts to a recognition by the railway that he is the owner and that the property in the goods vests in him so as to entitle him to sue the railway administration for loss during transit. The only person entitled to sue for damages is the consignee or the person to whom the receipt is endorsed. AIR 1938 PC 52; AIR 1934 PC 246, Rel. on.

A consignor consigned some drums of oil to self and sent the railway receipt without endorsing it to the buyer, who took the delivery from railway. On finding that there was shortage in the quantity of oil, the buyer sued railway for the loss.

Held, that the plaintiff not having established that he was entitled to the consignment in question, either as a consignee or an endorsee of the railway receipt, was not entitled to maintain an action against the defendant railway administration for loss, if any, caused by leakage, or wastage during transit. ILR (1951) Cut 567: AIR 1952 Orissa 126 (128) (Pt C) (Pr 5).

——S. 72 — Consignee — Right of suit — Consignee endorsing railway receipt in favour of third party — Effect.

The only person who is entitled to maintain a suit for damages against railway is the person who is the owner of the goods at the relevant time. It does not matter whether he is the consignee or the endorsee of the railway receipt or not.

Where the plaintiff-company which was shown in the railway receipt as the consignee endorsed the railway receipt to a third person but failed to prove that even after endorsement it retained the property in the goods to itself.

Held, that it had no right to sue for compensation for damage to the goods. AIR 1947 Bom 169, Rel. on; AIR 1945 Pat 387, Distinguished. 1950 BLJR 182: AIR 1960 Pat 457 (458) (Prs 2, 4).

——S. 72 — Consignor — Suit by for non-delivery to consignee, his commission agent— Maintainability.

A consignor is entitled to sue the Railway administration for non-delivery of the consignment to the consignee who is merely his commission agent since the ownership of the goods is with the plaintiff. 1960 BLJR 348: AIR 1960 Pat 419 (419) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——S. 72 — Non-delivery — Compensation — Right to — Consignor or Consignee.

Held, on facts that the Railway had rightly paid the compensation to the consignee. The notice sent by the plaintiff's lawyer on 30-7-1955 asking the Railway not to pay the compensation to the consignee was of no avail as the payment had already been made to the consignee on 16-7-1955. The Railway was not concerned as to whether the title in the goods had really passed to the consignee or was still in the consignor. If the plainitff had any claim against the consignee, he might be at liberty to enforce that claim in a properly constituted suit if the law permitted him to do so. AIR 1960 Pat 167 (167) (Pr 6).

——Ss. 72, 55 and 56 — Suit for damages for non-delivery of goods — Right to institute — Principles as to — Endorsement in blank — Meaning of — Scope.

A railway receipt issued to the consignor of goods is a document of title to goods within the meaning of Section 2 (4) of the Indian Sale of Goods Act, 1930, and, Section 178 of the Contract Act, there being no distinction between the two terms. Generally, it is only the consignor, or the consignee, or the endorsee of the consignment, who can maintain an action for damages for non-delivery of the consignment.

But, even when there is an endorsement in blank in favour of a person, then also such a blank endorsee for value can maintain an action for damages for non-delivery of the goods. Endorsement in blank means writing one's name merely, on the back of a railway receipt without specifying and restrictions as to payee, manner of payment, etc., which details may be filled in by the holder thereof, in whatever manner he likes. Therefore, where the railway receipt is handed over on payment of the price of the goods, there is an absolute transfer both of the goods and of the right to take delivery under the contract. No doubt, generally an endorsement of a railway receipt creates rights, if any, between the endorser and the endorsee inter se, and, it creates no rights between the endorsee and the railway which had issued the railway receipt to the consignor, and the only remedy of the endorsee is against the endorser; but, when the property in the goods consigned has passed to the consignee, as the consignee under Section 23, Sale of Goods Act, at the time of the consignment, the consignee who is the principal in the transaction, would be deemed to be the person who had entered into the contract of carriage with the railway company through his agent, the consignor, and, would be the proper party to sue the railway for loss of the goods.

Held, on facts on the basis of the correspondence on record, that the consignment was booked to the Additional District Magistrate, Dhanbad, and, that he was the consignee thereof, and, as such, the State of Bihar was entitled to sue for damages for non-delivery of the goods to him; (ii) that the protection of Sections 55 and 56, Railways Act, could be given only if the provisions of those sections had been complied with. As no notice of auction was given to the consignee and no publication of auction sale was made in the local newspapers, the protection was not available to the Railway; (iii) that for the same reasons the Railway could not claim any wharfage from the plaintiff; (iv) that the plaintiff could not however be allowed interest in the absence of any contract or usage. AIR 1959 Pat 438 (439, 440, 441) (Prs 2, 3, 9, 11, 14, 15, 19, 21, 22).

——S. 72 (1) — Document of title — Railway receipt — Endorsee can sue railway administration for compensation for non-delivery of goods. See Sale of Goods Act (1930), S. 2 (4). AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 994 (DB).

——S. 72 — Who can sue on contract of carriage — No proof that plaintiff was endorsee of railway receipt — Plaintiff has no right to bring suit for non-delivery. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 4064 (DB).

24. Who can be sued.

● ——Ss. 72, 80 —Goods consigned from Quetta in Pakistan to New Delhi in India — Goods carried by Pakistan Railway and Indian Railway — No treaty between two countries regarding liability for loss of goods in case of through traffic — Suit by consignee for compensation for non-delivery at New Delhi against Dominion of India — Liabiilty of Forwarding Railway, under implied contract of bailment indicated — Article of Limitation Act applicable — (Contract Act (1872), Sections 151, 152, 161, 71, 194) — (Limitation Act (1908), Article 30). See Railways Act (1890), S. 80. AIR 1960 SC 233.

——Ss. 72 and 80 — Short delivery — Goods carried by separate railways — Proof by the claimant.

Where a suit is brought for damages on account of short delivery of 5 tons of soft coke consigned with the Eastern Railway, then the Western Railway is not responsible for the short delivery unless it is proved that Eastern Railway had handed over the entire consignment to the Western Railway. The mere fact of payment of freight charges to the Western Railway will not be enough to raise any presumption against it. Further in the absence of any evidence to suggest that the loss occurred on the Western Railway it cannot be held that any tort was committed by the Western Railway. AIR 1953 Punj 43, Disting. AIR 1956 Ajmer 1 (1) (Prs 1, 3, 4).

——S. 72 — Indian Independence (Rights, Property and Liabilities) Order (1947), S. 8 (1) (b) — Liability of Union of India for loss of goods on Railways. See Indian Independence (Rights, Property and Liabilities) Order (1947), S. 8 (1) (b). AIR 1952 Assam 88 (DB).

——S. 72 — Consignment passing through number of Railways — Remedy for loss.

In a case where the plaintiff cannot prove the loss at a particular railway when his goods had to pass through a number of railways, his remedy for the loss lies against the particular railway administration at whose station the goods are booked. 1961 BLJR 223: 1961 Pat LR 26: ILR 40 Pat 921: AIR 1961 Pat 334 (338) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——S. 72 — Loss of consignment on Baroda Railway — Liabilities of former Baroda State — Effect of merger — Merged States (Laws) Act (59 of 1949), Ss. 5, 6.

Sections 5 and 6 of Merged States (Laws) Act cover all the liabilities of the merged State incurred under the operation of any law. The State of Baroda being liable to compensate the plaintiffs in case of the loss of the consignment occurring on the Gaekwad Baroda Railway, the extent of the responsibility of the Indian Dominion in which the State has merged would be the same.

There is no reason why both in law and equity the Indian Union cannot be held liable for any obligation which was enforceable in law in respect of an act arising out of the running of the Gaekwad Baroda Railway as such. 1961 BLJR 223: 1961 Pat LR 26: ILR 40 Pat 921: AIR 1961 Pat 334 (338) (Pt D) (Prs 8, 9) (DB).

——Ss. 72, 80 — Liability of different railways — Plaintiff bringing suit against all railway administrations concerned — He is not entitled to decree against all — Plaintiff unable to prove default against contracting railway — Latter proving proper discharge of its duty as bailee — It is discharged of all responsibility for loss or damage. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 4064 (DB).

25. Damages.

——S. 72 — Interest by way of damages.

Suit against Railway for recovery of admitted damages in respect of goods consigned for carriage — Interest on amount claimed by way of further damages cannot be allowed. ILR (1955) 7 Assam 261: AIR 1955 Assam 221 (226) (Pt F) (Pr 10) (DB).

——S. 72 — Compensation — Determination of.

Per Ram Labhaya J.:— In case of non-delivery of consignment, the Railway Administration is responsible only to the consignee. The subsequent or the ultimate transferee stands in the shoes of the consignee so far as the loss is concerned. The price that he pays cannot afford any criterion for assessing compensation, for it is the loss to the consignee which the Administration has to make good. ILR (1950) 2 Assam 489: AIR 1950 Assam 175 (186) (Pt D) (Pr 49) (DB).

——S. 72 (prior to amendment of 1961) — Damages — Assessment of — Suit for Compensation for short delivery and deterioration of goods — Assessment and damage certificate by Railway Inspector marked without prejudice — How far admissible as admission of liability or proof of damages— Absence of evidence allunde — Effect.

In a suit for compensation against a Railway administration for short delivery and deterioration of goods consigned owing to misconduct and negligence of defendant, an assessment and damage certificate given by the Inspector of Railways who prefaced his declaration on the certificate by the averment, 'Without prejudice', does not furnish good cause for a decree straightway, without proof of actual loss and quantum of damages by the plaintiff, the certificate cannot be treated as an admission of liability. Even if it is conceded that such certificate shows prima facie admission of damage, the plaintiff has still to prove actual loss and damage as to the quantum and extent. The loss sustained might be incapable of proof with the certainty of mathematical demonstration but where absolute certainty is impossible, though damages are not uncertain, the amount of damages might be still ascertained by the usual rules of evidence to a reasonable degree of certainty. AIR 1957 Cal 666 and AIR 1957 Cal 190 and AIR 1923 Cal 49. Ref. to; AIR 1961 Madh Pra 190, Dist. AIR 1965 Cal 636 (638) (Prs 9, 10).

——S. 72 — Damage — Measure of — Plaintiff refusing to take delivery because of deterioration due to misconduct — Railway assessing deterioration in quantity by 20 p. c. — Goods sold and price paid to plaintiff — Suit for damage — Right of plaintiff.

Held, on facts that there was on record the evidence that on 28-1-50 damages were assessed at 20 per cent.; that though there was no clear evidence as to quantum on 21-1-50 the difference would be negligible, that the appellate Court was not justified in making an academic approach to the question of damages and that the trial Court's decree was correct. 1958 Nag LJ (Notes) 24.

——S. 72 — Damages.

Consignment of onions despatched from Magatahsil to Howrah — No proof as to execution of Risk Notes A and B as alleged by Railway Administration — Consignment found to be in a deteriorated condition due to defective condition of wagon — Time taken for journey by Railway Administration was longer than it should ordinarily be — Wagon containing consignment not marked as 'Perishables' as required by rules — Railway Administration held was liable for compensation. 60 Cal WN 157: ILR (1957) 2 Cal 456: AIR 1956 Cal 99 (102) (Pt C) (Pr 17) (DB).

——S. 72 — Loss of goods in transit— Measure of damages will be value of goods — Interest by way of damages cannot be allowed as Interest Act does not apply — (Interest Act (1939), Section 1). AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 5915.

——S. 72 — Compensation for damage to goods — Assessment — No proof of extent of loss — Percentage basis — If justified.

So far as the damage to the goods is concerned, the assessment of the Railway authorities would be binding on the Railway administration, although it may not be final. But, a plaintiff-consignee or a plaintiff-consignor would, all the same, be required to prove the extent of loss, so as to entitle him to damages. Whether a plaintiff has, in fact, proved the extent of the loss, so as to entitle him to any particular quantum of damages would be a question of fact to be decided with reference to the evidence on record.

Where the plaintiff had appropriated the goods to his own use, but had failed to prove the extent of loss, the plaintiff could claim damages on the basis of percentage of damage to the goods and if the judge has adopted that basis it cannot be said to be erroneous or illegal. 1961 MPLJ 179: 1961 Jab LJ 566: ILR (1960) Madh Pra 904: AIR 1961 Madh Pra 190 (191) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——S. 72 — Damages caused to consignment — Assessment need not be to satisfaction of consignee — Delivery of consignment cannot be refused by party dissatisfied with assessment of damages — Assessment of damages cannot be insisted.

Held, on facts that the plaintiff had no right in law to insist upon open delivery or to claim assessment of the damages, if any, caused to the consignment much less to his satisfaction. The plaintiff was bound to take delivery of the consignment in the condition in which it was found and then claim damages according to his own assessment and estimate. (1961) MPLJ (Notes) 279.

——S. 72 — Contract Act (1872), Ss. 73 and 161 — Scope — Remote loss — Railway carrier — Misconduct — Delay in delivery of consignment — Fall in market price as a result of price control — Consignee not entitled to compensation — Loss is too remote and indirect. See Contract Act (1872), S. 73. AIR 1960 Madh Pra 289 (DB).

——S. 72 — Damage caused to consignment — Assessment need not be to satisfaction of consignee —Delivery of consignment cannot be refused by party dissatisfied with assessment of damages — Assessment of damages cannot be insisted.

Plaintiff consigned bags of bidi leaves. At the destination he found that the seal of wagon was broken and leaves had changed colour. Plaintiff declined to accept delivery unless the damage to the consignment was assessed to his satisfaction.

Held, that the plaintiff had no right in law to insist that the Railway authorities should assess the damage caused, much less to his satisfaction. The plaintiff had to take delivery in the condition in which the consignment was found and then to sue for damages. 1947 NLJ 212; AIR 1948 Nag 65; ILR (1947) Nag 335, Rel. on. 1960 MPLJ (Notes) 23.

——S. 72 — Loss of goods — Measure of damages.

In a suit for damages against a Railway for the loss of goods in the transit, the correct basis to assess damages is the price prevalent at the place of delivery and not the wholesale price. 1959 MPLJ 749: 1959 MPC 368: 1959 Lab LJ 718: AIR 1959 Madh Pra 232 (234) (Pt F) (Pr 10) (DB).

——S. 72 — Damages — Suit for damages for non-delivery — Subsequent arrival of goods effect of, indicated. AIR 1958 Madh Pra 314 (315) (Pt B) (Prs 7, 8) (DB).

——S. 72 — Measure of damages.

Plaintiffs led no evidence to prove the value of the goods at the destination on or about the time consignment reached there.

Held, that damages claimed by them on the basis of rate prevailing at the issuing station, could not be claimed. AIR 1953 Nag 169, Foll. 1958 MPLJ (Notes) 122.

——S. 72 — Damages — Measure of.

Where the plaintiff claims not only the price of the goods but also the profits which he would have earned by their sale, the profits have to be determined with reference to the price prevailing at the destination on the date of the receipt of the goods. Where, however, the plaintiff does not claim any profits on the goods, his claim for the cost price of the goods is well based. 1957 Jab LJ 550: (1957) MPLJ 294: 1958 MPC 459: ILR (1957) Madh Pra 253: AIR 1957 Madh Pra 114 (118) (Pt I) (Pr 14) (DB).

——S. 72 (before amendment in 1961) — Loss of goods — Damages — Quantum.

In case of loss of goods booked for carriage by railway, the plaintiff would not be entitled either to any hypothetical loss of profits or to any interest on damages. (Plaintiff awarded decree for value of goods short delivered with interest at 6 per cent, from the date of the trial Court's decree). 76 Mad LW 331: (1964) 2 Mad LJ 329: ILR (1963) Mad 1175: AIR 1963 Mad 394 (397) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

——S. 72 — Damage to goods — Award of damages—Basis — Portion of consignment found damaged at destination —Plaintiff selling damaged portion at lower rate than current market rate of goods — Basis for awarding damages held would be the difference between the value of the goods at the current market rate and the actual amount realised by sale of the damaged goods. AIR 1960 Mad 149 (154) (Pt B) (Pr 15) (DB).

——S. 72 — Consignment of oil despatched in entire unit wagons under Risk Notes A and B — At time of delivery some tins found missing and some empty and others badly damaged — Defective packing — Half damage attributed to defective packing — Other half attributed to misconduct of railway servants. AIR 1955 NUC (Mad) 3944.

——S. 72 — Suit for compensation for non-delivery — Burden is on plaintiff to prove value of consignment. AIR 1961 Manipur 45 (50) (Pt H) (Pr 28).

——S. 72 — Damages — Burden of proof.

It is no doubt true that it is always for the plaintiff to prove that the loss was caused by the neglect or negligence of the Railway Administration. But when the Court has the evidence that the goods had deteriorated while in the custody of the Railway Administration, there is a prima facie case of negligence for the Railway Administration to answer. The Railway Administration should place material before the Court from which it could be inferred how the consignment was dealt with, in order to ascertain whether the Railway administration took as much care as is required of them, being bailees of the goods under Ss. 151, 152 and 161 of the Contract Act. 1956 Nag LJ 679: 1956 MPLJ 119: AIR 1957 Nag 59 (60) (Pr 5).

——S. 72 — Short delivery of goods — Measure of damages indicated. AIR 1957 Nag 31 (DB).

——S. 72 — Damages — Measure of.

The price of the goods at the place of destination on the date on which they reach the place should be the measure of damages for the loss suffered by the plaintiff due to the wrongful acts of the employees of the Railway Administration: 1951 NLJ 470, Foll. ILR (1953) Nag 314: 1954 NLJ 353: AIR 1953 Nag 169 (170) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——S. 72 — Basis of compensation — Market rate and not amount paid for acquiring is basis.

The plaintiff in a suit against the Railway is entitled to claim compensation on the market rate prevalent at the material time. He cannot ask for the amount which he may have paid in acquiring the goods. ('52) 1952 Nag LJ (Notes) 14.

——S. 72 — Damages.

When a Railway Administration undertakes to convey goods to a particular place and give delivery there and the goods are lost due to some fault of the railway, then the damages which the plaintiff is entitled to claim is the price of the goods at the place of their destination. 1951 Nag LJ 470: ILR (1952) Nag 10: AIR 1951 Nag 357 (2) (359) (Pt E) (Pr 17).

——S. 72 (prior to amendment of 1961) — Suit by consignor for recovery of price of goods lost while in custody of Railway — Plaintiff cannot claim special damages or interest for loss of profit unless Railway had previous notice.

In a suit by a consignor for recovery of the price of goods lost in transit while in the custody of the Railway Administration, the plaintiff cannot claim special damages for loss of profits unless it is established that the parties know at the time of making the contract that such loss of profits would arise to the plaintiff due to non-delivery of goods. When the goods are lost and in consequence, the plaintiff loses the profits which he could have earned, the value of the lost goods can be recovered but not any profits in the absence of proper notice nor can the plaintiff claim interest by way of damages unless there was previous notice. AIR 1949 Cal

380 and AIR 1938 PC 67 and ILR (1960) Cut 600, Rel. on. ILR (1962) Cut 395: AIR 1963 Orissa 66 (68) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

——S. 72 (Old) — Suit for damages against railway — Burden of proving damage is on plaintiff — Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101-194.

Where a consignment of goods despatched by rail is damaged and a suit is brought against the railway for damages, the onus of proving the value of goods booked and the extent of damages caused to the goods is on the plaintiff. A damage certificate, on which the plaintiff relies, states only the facts that the damages had, in fact, been caused to the goods but it does not amount to an acknowledgment of fact that the damage was caused by negligence or misconduct on the part of the railway officers.

Held, that the plaintiff's suit for damages must fail for two reasons, namely, (1) he failed to show that when the goods were booked they were in an undamaged condition: and (2) he had also failed to establish that he actually suffered damage to the extent claimed in the plaint. (1963) 29 Cut LT 193.

——S. 72 (old) — Measure of damages—Freight charges cannot be added in computing damages payable by railway. ILR 44 Pat 816: AIR 1965 Pat 408 (409) (Prs 3, 4) (DB).

——S. 72 — Measure of damages — Short delivery — Plaintiff is entitled to cost price of goods short delivered in absence of evidence of prevailing market rate at time when goods ought to have been delivered — Plaintiff not entitled to profits or costs of sending notices but is entitled to interest pendente lite and future. AIR 1960 Pat 111 (112) (Pt D) (Pr 9).

——Ss. 72 and 80 — Damages caused to goods sent by through booked traffic — Goods transported by two railway administrations — Liability of the second when arises.

A suit for compensation for loss can be brought either against the Railway Administration under whose railway the consignment was booked or against the Railway Administration on whose railway the loss occurred. The former railway is bound to compensate by reason of the contract of consignment whether the loss may have occurred at a place within that railway or not. But, the latter railway is only bound for such loss if the loss has occurred at any place within its railway. AIR 1933 Pat 45; AIR 1949 Pat 329. Rel. on: AIR 1946 Pat 336, Disting. AIR 1956 Pat 71 (72) (Pt C) (Pr 6).

——S. 72 — Claim for damages for non-delivery of consignment — Such claim is debt. See Debt Laws — Displaced Persons (Debts Adjustment) Act (1951), S. 2 (6). AIR 1960 Punj 291 (DB).

——S. 72 — Compensation for non-delivery — Interest cannot be allowed. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 994 (DB).

——S. 72 — Scope — Loss of goods due to wilful neglect of railway — Value of goods on date of despatch established — No evidence to show that the price of goods had gone down by the date of the loss — For measure of compensation for loss, price of goods at the time of loss, need not be proved— Contract Act (1872), S. 73. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1359: 1961 Raj LW 148: AIR 1961 Raj 211 (212) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

26. Pleadings and procedure.

——S. 72 — Shortage in consignment in custody of railway — Amendment of plaint by adding party — Amendment not disclosing cause of action against him — Effect discussed — Case on facts — (Civil P. C. (1908), O. 6, R. 17) — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 43, 73). AIR 1955 NUC (Assam) 2305 (DB).

——S. 72 — Risk Note B — Proviso — Misconduct — Pleading.

Before any question relating to the discharge of the obligation imposed on the Railway Administration by the proviso contained in the Risk Note B arises, the plaintiff is not bound to state that the loss of the consignment was due to the misconduct of the Railway Adminitsration or its servants. ILR (1950) 2 Assam 489: AIR 1950 Assam 175 (177) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

——S. 72 — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 20 — Wheat entrusted to Railway station staff at K for despatch to P — Loss sustained at K — Suit for damages filed at P — Held, Court at P had no jurisdiction — Section 72 of Railways Act not attracted. See Civil P. C. (1908), Section 20. AIR 1965 Pat 53 (DB).

——S. 72 — Civil P. C. (1908), O. 2, R. 2 — One consignment of 54 bales — 3 bales lost and some articles missing from 2 bales — Two separate suits not maintainable — Bar under O. 2, R. 2 applied. See Civil P. C. (1908), O. 2, R. 2. AIR 1958 Pat 565.

27. Limitation for suit.

See Limitation Act (1908), Art. 31.

SECTION 72-A (Old)

——S. 72-A — Damage during transit — Duty of Railway to produce forwarding note.

Where from the evidence adduced in the case it is clear that the transit was at owner's risk rate and the conditions necessary to bring the case under S. 74-C are present it is immaterial whether the forwarding note under S. 72-A is forthcoming or not. In such a case the plaintiff is bound to prove negligence on the part of the Railway administration. ILR (1959) Cut 398: AIR 1960 Orissa 141 (142).

SECTION 73 (New)

——S. 73 (New) — Endorsee of railway receipt for consideration — Whether he can maintain action on contract embodied in receipt.

Per Mudholkar and Ramaswami, JJ.—The negotiation of the railway receipt may pass the property in the goods; it does not, however, transfer the contract contained in the receipt or the statutory contract under S. 74-E of the Railways Act (now, Sec. 76-D). Negotiability is a creature of statute or mercantile usage, not of judicial decisions apart from either. Therefore, in the absence of any usage of trade or any statutory provision to that effect, a railway receipt cannot be accorded the benefits which flow from negotiability under the Negitiable Instruments Act, so as to entitle the endorsee as the holder for the time being of the document of title to sue the carrier, the Railway authorities, in his own name. Where the claim of the plaintiff is as an ordinary assignee of the contract of carriage, the plaintiff has to prove the assignment in his favour. AIR 1947 Bom 169, Approved; (1845) 153 ER 532 and AIR 1938 PC 52, Rel. on. Morvi Mercantile Bank Ltd. v. Union of India, (1965) 4 Law Rep 261: (1965) 35 Com Cas 629: (1965) 2 SCA 187: AIR 1965 SC 1954 (1960, 1965) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 25).

——Ss. 73, 74-A (as it stood prior to amendment of 1960) — Loss not direct result of defective packing — Railway not protected by S. 74-A. See Railways Act (1890) (as it stood prior to amendment of 1960), S. 74-A. AIR 1963 All 2.

——Ss. 73 (New) and 77 (as amended in 1960) — Damage not attributable to defective condition of goods or defective packing — Liability of Railway — Onus of proof.

Where the damage cannot be attributed either to the defective condition of goods or the defective packing of the goods, the primary onus of a bailee to show that he had taken such care of the goods as a man with ordinary prudence would take in the case of his own goods must be discharged by the Railway for denying relief to the plaintiffs. See Railways Act (1890) (as it stood prior to amendment of 1960), S. 72. AIR 1963 All 1.

——S. 73 (New) — Evidence Act, S. 166 — Goods booked at railway risk — Shortage found at the time of delivery — Damage not attributed to defective packing — Loss or damage of goods was prima facie evidence of negligence — Burden of disproving negligence lay on the Railway Administration. AIR 1963 All 1; 1956 Nag LJ 679; 1956 MPLJ 119; AIR 1957 Nag 59; 1965 MPLJ Note No. 5; AIR 1950 Pat 215, Foll.; AIR 1962 SC 1879, Rel. on. 1965 MPLJ (Notes) 109.

——Ss. 73 (New), 56, 72 — Perishable goods — Power of Railways to sell — Notice to consignor or consignee before sale is essential. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 56. AIR 1963 Orissa 17.

SECTION 74 (Old)

——S. 74 — "Passengers' luggage".

Under the Indian Railways Act there appears to be no bar or hindrance to the carriage of toilet articles as passengers' luggage. 65 Cal WN 727: ILR (1962) 1 Cal 230: AIR 1962 Cal 48 (52) (Pt A) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Ss. 74 (Old), 66 and 113 — Contract between Railway Administration and passenger purchasing ticket — Half ticket purchased by adult — Misrepresentation — Contract becomes voidable and not void — Luggage booked on such ticket — Loss of luggage in transit — Railway Administration is responsible for loss. See Railways Act (1890), S. 66. AIR 1962 Cal 48 (DB).

——S. 74 — Party not entitled to claim open delivery from Railway Administration — Right of party is to take delivery and claim damages. See Contract Act (1872), S. 73. 1965 MPLJ 572: 1965 Jab LJ 1001: AIR 1966 Madh Pra 52 (DB).

——Ss. 74 and 74-D — Duty of Railway Administration.

In the case of goods consigned at owner's risk, when the fact of the non-delivery is brought to the notice of the Railway Administration, it is the duty of the said Railway Administration to give information required under S. 74-D, namely, to disclose how the consignment was dealt with throughout, to the consignee. AIR 1961 Manipur 45 (47) (Pt B) (Pr 9).

SECTION 74-A (Old)

——Ss. 74-A and 74-C (2) — Short delivery — Liability of Railway — Proof of misconduct.

A consignment of a number of bags of jaggery was found to be short in weight owing to leakage. The remark in the railway receipt was that the bags were torn and resewn. There was no certificate under S. 74-C (2). Suit for damages for short delivery was decreed against the Railway.

Held, that the case was governed by S. 74-A, Railways Act and the Railway Administration could not be responsible for any deterioration, leakage, wastage or damage except upon proof of negligence or misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration or of any of its servants. In the absence of certificate under S. 74-C (2), the consignment must be deemed to have been carried at the owner's risk. The burden of proving the negligence and misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration and its servants lay primarily on the plaintiff. AIR 1955 Ajmer 9 (9) (Pr 10).

——S. 74-A (before amendment of 1961) — Consignment of groundnut oil by railway — Deviation from agreed route — Loss — Negligence and misconduct by Railway Administration — Mere proof of loss not sufficient — Burden to prove negligence and misconduct lies on plaintiff — Plaintiff throughout alleging negligence and misconduct — But notice under S. 80, Civil P. C., not containing instance of negligence alleged in amended plaint — Notice if valid — Held, what was in issue was not state of mind but breach of contract and hence mere allegation of negligence or misconduct was not sufficient in notice under S. 80. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 80. ILR (1965) 2 All 127: AIR 1966 All 333.

——S. 74-A — Damage to goods in transit — Defective packing — Negligence of Railway Administration — Onus.

Section 74-A of the Railways Act shifts the onus of proving negligence or misconduct on the part of the Railway or its employees to the consignor claiming compensation for loss or damage to the goods delivered to the Railway packed defectively, if the Railway established the following facts:—

(i) the goods were delivered defectively packed or packed not in accordance with the prescribed conditions;

(ii) and as a result of such defective or improper packing the goods were liable to leakage, wastage, or damage in transit;

(iii) and the fact of such defective or improper packing was recorded by the sender in a forwarding note. ILR (1965) 2 All 768.

——S. 74-A (as it stood prior to amendment of 1960) — Loss not direct result of defective packing — Railway not protected by S. 74-A — Railways Act (1890) (as amended in 1960), Ss. 73, 77-C.

Unless the loss is the direct result of defective packing, defective packing cannot give protection to the Railway Administration.

Where, in respect of a consignment, it was noted in the forwarding note and railway receipt that "the planks of the cases were weak and loose" and it was found at the time of delivery that the cases were broken and had been renailed and the Railway Administration did not show how the boxes were broken and renailed.

Held, that the loss could not be connected to defective packing and the railway administration was not protected by S. 74-A. AIR 1951 All 489 and AIR 1960 Mad 149, Rel. on. 1963 All WR (HC) 47: AIR 1963 All 2 (3) (Pr 3).

——S. 74-A (as it stood prior to amendment of 1960) — Damage not attributable to defective condition of goods or defective packing — Liability of Railway — Onus of proof — Where the damage cannot be attributed either to the defective condition of the goods or the defective packing, the primary onus of a bailee to show that he had taken such care of the goods as a man with ordinary prudence would take in the case of his own goods must be discharged by the Railway for denying relief to the plaintiff—Railways Act (1890) (as amended in 1960), Ss. 73, 77-C. See Railways Act (1890) (as it stood prior to amendment of 1960), S. 72. AIR 1963 All 1.

——Ss. 74-A, 47, 72 — General Rules for Acceptance, Carriage and Delivery of Goods, Rules 31 (2), 47 — Rules relating to Report of Damages, Deficiencies or Loss of Goods, Paras 161-I and 161-II — Part of consignment damaged — Railway is bound to give open delivery—Damage consignment in custody of railway, to be given open delivery of — Destruction by fire — Liability as bailee — Railway is liable. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 47. AIR 1963 Andh Pra 415.

——S. 74-A — Consignment booked at railway risk — No forwarding note as to any defect in packing — Goods found broken at time of delivery — Responsibilities in cases of railway risk rates and owner's risk rates pointed out. See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. 1965 MPLJ (Notes) 5.

——Ss. 74-A, 72 — Suit against Railways for damages caused by breaking of brittle goods — Defective packing — Fact not recorded in forwarding note — S. 74-A not applicable — Consignment at railway risk — Railway is responsible as bailee — Onus discharged — Fact whether plaintiff had apprised Railways that goods were brittle not known — Onus to prove is shifted to plaintiff. See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. 1963 Jab LJ 603.

——Ss. 74-A, 72 — Responsibility of Railway as bailee — Goods sent at owner's risk — Damage—Onus of proof of negligence or misconduct — It is only under two contingencies that the onus is cast upon the plaintiff to prove negligence or misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration or its servants. The first relates to defective condition of goods as a result of which they are liable to deterioration. The second condition relates to defective packing of goods which leads to damage in question. Where the damage is not attributable either to defective condition of the goods or the defective packing of goods, the primary onus is on the Railway to prove that it took such a care of the goods as an ordinary man of prudence would take in the case of his goods. (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151 and 152) — (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101, 104). See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1960 Mad 149 (DB).

——S. 74-A (Old) — Lower Court's finding that the Railways were guilty of negligence and misconduct, based on evidence on record — It could not be held that the lower Court had not followed the law laid down in S. 74-A. See Civil P. C (1908), S. 115. (1965) 7 OJD 53: 31 Cut LT 320. ILR (1965) Cut 132.

——S. 74-A (2) (prior to the amendment of 1961) —Tins of oil consigned for transport damaged in transit — Tins not packed according to instructions issued by Railway — But special caution label "not to be loose shunted" pasted to wagon — Possibility of damage caused by rough and loose shunting not ruled out — Both parties are negligent — Damages should be equally apportioned. See Railways Act (1890) (prior to the amendment of 1961, S. 72. AIR 1963 Orissa 41 (DB).

——S. 74-A — Civil P. C. (1908), O. 41, R. 4 — Suit for damages against two Railway Administrations — Common defence based on S. 74-A, Railways Act — Decree against both — Reversal in appeal even though one Railway Administration was not party on record — O. 41, R. 4, applies—Decree not vitiated. See Civil P. C. (1908), O. 41, R. 4. AIR 1961 Pat 301 (DB).

——Ss. 74-A, 74-C and 74-D — Scope — Onus of proof — Failure to record condition of package in forwarding note — Effect — In order to bring the case under the section, the onus is on the Railway to prove by legal and reliable evidence the recording of the condition of the package on the forwarding note either by the sender or his agent. AIR 1960 Pat 111 (112) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Ss. 74-A, 72 and 74-C — "Subject to the other provisions of this Act" — Case governed by Ss. 74-A and 74-C — Loss or damage not prima facie proof of negligence — Burden of proof — (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101 to 104). See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1959 Pat 473.

——S. 74-A — Word 'damage' does not cover partial loss of goods consigned.

The word 'damage' as used in S. 74-A denotes partial destruction or partial impairment and implies that the goods still exist although in damaged form. The word is not comprehensive enough to cover the case of loss of part of the goods consigned. The Railway Administration consequently cannot escape its liability by relying on the provi sions of S. 74-A of the Act. 66 Punj LR 703: ILR (1964) 1 Punj 314.

SECTION 74-B (Old)

——S. 74-B — Applicability — Loss of goods.

The words 'destruction, deterioration or damage do not include loss. AIR 1952 Cal 285, Rel. on; AIR 1926 Pat 384, Dissented. 1959 Nag LJ 5: 61 Bom LR 682: ILR (1959) Bom 819.

SECTION 74-C (Old)

SYNOPSIS

(Railways Act (1890), S. 74-C (Old).)

1. Liability of Railway Administration.
2. Negligence and misconduct.
3. Evidence and proof.
4. Burden of proof.

5. Forwarding Note.
6. Miscellaneous.

1. Liability of Railway Administration.

——74-C (as it stood before amendment by Act 39 of 1961) — Contract of carriage at railway risk rate — No record in forwarding note about defective packing — Container found leaking at destination — Railway cannot take advantage of doctrine of "inherent vice" — Railway not showing that they treated consignment as prudent bailee would — Railway liable for loss. 67 Cal WN 279: AIR 1963 Cal 399 (404) (Pt D) (Pr 30).

——S. 74-C — Consignment of mustard oil at owner's risk rate — Wagon containing consignment over-carried — Goods not properly packed —Tins also old and used and liable to leakage in transit because of weak soldering — Defects noted in R.R. at the time of booking — Loss and damages to goods held due to defective packing and to over-carriage. ILR (1963) Cut 459: 29 Cut LT 527: AIR 1964 Orissa 82 (83) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——S. 74-C — Liability of Railway Administration — Suit for damages for deterioration of goods due to unusual delay in transhipment — Goods carried at owner's risk — Negligence and misconduct on part of Railway Administration — Burden is on plaintiff — Station Master's certificate obtained when taking delivery is not conclusive on point of period of transit — (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101 to 104).

Under S. 74-C, the goods having been despatched at the owner's risk, and the consignor not having elected to pay the railway risk rate, there is no question of the Railway's liability unless it is proved that there was any negligence or misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration or any of its servants:

Held: that the burden to prove negligence and misconduct of Railway Administration was on plaintiff in a suit for damages caused to the goods on account of unusual delay in delivery. It was not a case of non-delivery so as to cast onus on Railways to prove that there was no negligence or misconduct on their part. Held, further, that Station Master's Certificate obtained by a consignee at the time of taking delivery of goods, did not amount to an acknowledgment of the facts stated therein; it only showed that damage had, in fact, been caused to the goods: accordingly his statement to the effect that it normally takes a particular period for a wagon to reach the particular place was not conclusive. AIR 1961 Orissa 113, Foll.; AIR 1957 Pat 475, Rel. on. (1961) 3 OJD 264.

——S. 74-C — Owner indenting wagon — Liability of Railway ceases. AIR 1960 Orissa 146 (147) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——S. 74-C (3) (as it stood prior to its amendment by Act 39 of 1961)—Assessment of damages — Railway staff partly responsible for damage to goods caused by accidental fire — In assessing damages, certain amount of conjecture has to be used, because it was difficult to assess exact damages caused by negligence of Railway staff—Damages awarded by trial Judge not unreasonable—No serious flaw in reasoning — No interference in appeal. AIR 1964 Punj 147 (151) (Pt C) (Pr 20) (DB).

2. Negligence and misconduct.

——Ss. 74-C, 74-D (before its amendment by Act 39 of 1961) — Negligence and misconduct on part of Railway Administration — Proof of — Negligence — What amounts to — Loss or damage to goods — Not a prima facie evidence of negligence — (Present S. 74, substituted for old S. 74-C by the Amendment Act 39 of 1961; Present S. 76-F substituted for old S. 74-D by the Amendment Act 39 of 1961 with effect from 1st January, 1962).

As Sections 74-C and 74-D use the word 'negligence' along the word 'misconduct', the quantum of evidence necessary to attract liability of the Railway for loss of part of the consignment is only that much as may be sufficient to lead to the inference of negligence, and not of misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration or its servants. Negligence is something less than misconduct, and it consists in the doing of some act which a person of ordinary care and skill would not do under the circumstances and in omitting to do some act which such a person would do under the circumstances. In other words, the test to be applied is the care taken by a prudent man. AIR 1957 Pat 147, Rel. on. Further, in a case governed by S. 74-C, it is erroneous to hold that the loss or damage to goods is prima facie proof of negligence on the part of the Railway Administration. AIR 1964 Andh Pra 172 (177) (Pt B) (Prs 20, 21) (DB).

——S. 74-C — Goods carried during monsoon season at owner's risk — Goods damaged due to rain water — Misconduct and negligence — Burden of proof — Railway failing to show that it had provided rain-proof wagons — Effect — "Misconduct" and "negligence", meaning of — Res ipsa loquitur —S. 72.

"Misconduct" and "negligence" are different notions. Some kinds of negligence may amount to "misconduct" while some kinds of negligence may not amount to "misconduct". The principle of res ipsa loquitur may be applied to infer negligence but it cannot be applied to infer misconduct. Misconduct, that is conduct inconsistent with the rules of the Railway has to be proved and cannot be inferred from the mere fact of deterioration or damage. AIR 1930 Bom 129, Foll.

Although in cases to which Sec. 74-C of the Railways Act is applicable the burden of proving misconduct or negligence is on the plaintiff, under Section 106 of the Evidence Act the Railway Administration should call all the material witnesses to prove the facts which were within its special knowledge. Where the Railway Administration failed to adduce evidence to show that it had provided rain-proof wagons in monsoon and it had also admitted that the rain-water had entered the crevices of the door of the wagon, there was a prima facie case of negligence. The failure to provide water-tight wagons would also amount to misconduct because under the rules relating to conveyance of goods in monsoon it was the duty of the Railway servants to provide water-tight wagons. AIR 1917 PC 173 and AIR 1957 Nag 59, Foll. 1960 Nag LJ 177: 62 Bom LR 445: ILR (1960) Bom 507: AIR 1960 Bom 344 (346, 347) (Pt B) (Prs 6, S, 9) (DB).

——S. 74-C (3) — Perishable articles sent at owner's risk rate by railway — Deterioration in transit — Two days' delay in transit — Inference of misconduct.

In a suit for recovery of a sum as damages from the Railway Administration on the ground that certain damages to his goods was caused by delay due to negligence and misconduct on the part of the said Railway Administration, in case the goods sent are the category of perishable goods such as potatoes and are tendered to be carried at owner's risk rate, then the consignor of such perishable articles must prove that the deterioration in the goods was due not only to the delay in transhipment of the articles but also to want of care on the part of the Railway servants or Administration. A common carrier of goods is not, in the absence of a special contract bound to carry within any given time, but only within a time which is reasonable, looking at all the circumstances of the case.

In a suit for damages, against Railway Administration, brought by the plaintiff, for the loss caused due to damaged condition of the goods.

Held, (1) that S. 74-C, and not S. 74-D, applied to the case; (2) that it was for the plaintiff to prove under S. 74-C (3) the misconduct in transit on the part of the Railway Administration; (3) that there was no misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration; (4) that there was no rule in the Goods Tariff General Rule No. 28 regarding attaching of perishable labels to the type of wagon in which the bags were sent; (5) that the reasonable time for carriage of goods was nine days under R. 14 of the said rules, that a delay of two days was not unreasonable and that this delay was no indication of misconduct. (1960) 2 OJD 504: ILR (1961) Cut 32: AIR 1961 Orissa 113 (116, 117, 118) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 11, 12) (DB).

——S. 74-C (3) — Misconduct.

Misconduct is something more than mere negligence. It is the intentional doing of something which the doer knows to be wrong or which he does recklessly not caring what the result may be. (1960) 2 OJD 504: ILR (1961) Cut 32: AIR 1961 Orissa 113 (117) (Pt D) (Pr 11) (DB).

——S. 74-C (3) (prior to its amendment by Act 39 of 1961) — Proof of negligence — Accidental fire in wagon carrying goods at owner's risk — All doors of wagon not opened by Railway staff — Throwing of water from engine discontinued although staff knew that it would take some time for fire brigade to arrive.

Held, Railway employees were partly responsible for damage caused to goods, due to their negligence.

Where the Railway staff failed to open all the doors of the wagon carrying the goods booked at owner's risk, while trying to extinguish the accidental fire caused to the wagon in transit, and failed to continue to throw the water from the engine although that arrangement had already proved useful in reducing the fire and the Railway staff knew that it would take some time before the fire brigade would arrive at the spot:

Held, that the Railway staff had failed to take two of the essential steps for controlling the fire and saving the goods which were then unaffected by it, when the same was discovered and it was a case of part-negligence on the part of the Railway employees in not taking steps to mitigate the damage. AIR 1964 Punj 147 (151) (Pt B) (Prs 13, 17) (DB).

3. Evidence and proof.

——S. 74-C (3) — Applicability — Delay in delivery — Misconduct — Mango consignment at owner's risk note — Complete deterioration — Delivery refused — Railway not responsible unless plaintiff proves negligence or misconduct on part of Railway Administration — Three day's delay in transit is not sufficient to prove misconduct. AIR 1955 NUC (Ajmer) 1263.

——S. 74-C—Consignor claiming damages alleging misconduct or negligence on the part of Railway — Railway not adducing evidence negotiating misconduct or negligence — Held, negligence was established by inference — Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 106 and 114. (New S. 74 substituted for the old S. 74-C by the Amendment Act (39 of 1961) with effect from 1st January, 1962.)

In a case covered by S. 74-C, the consignor who claims damages on the ground of misconduct or negligence on the part of the Railway to disclose certain facts if they are within its exclusive knowledge, and if the Railway does not disclose them, he can ask the Court to draw such inferences from its omission as are permitted under the law.

The plaintiff consigned certain goods for carriage by railway at owner's risk rates. The goods were in good condition when they were entrusted to the Railway, but found drenched with water when they were delivered at the destination. The plaintiff filed suit, for compensation for loss due to the negligence and misconduct of the Railway. The Railway did not lead any evidence which could have negatived misconduct or negligence on the part of itself or its servants.

Held, that the negligence of the Railway had been established by inference, it was impossible for the plaintiff to prove where, how and when the goods were drenched, as this fact was within the exclusive knowledge of the Railway. Under S. 106, Evidence Act, the Railway was bound to disclose what happened to the goods and how they were dealt with while under its custody. Its failure entitled the plaintiff to ask the Court to infer that the facts if disclosed would have been unfavourable to the Railway and the Court was entitled to draw this inference at its discretion. 1964 All LJ 802: AIR 1965 All 246 (248) (Pt B) (Prs 7, 8).

——S. 74-C (before its amendment in 1961) — Nature of rules — Do not override rules in Goods Tariff — Not applicable to consignments of safety matches — Negligence cannot be presumed from their non-observance. (Present S. 74 (1) to (3) substituted for old Sec. 74-C by Amendment Act 39 of 1961 with effect from 1-1-1962). See Goods Tariff (1954), R. 76. AIR 1964 Andh Pra 172 (DB).

——S. 74-C (3) (as insterted in 1949) — Goods consigned at owner's risk notes — Loss or damage in transit — Consignor must prove negligence or misconduct on part of railway. See Railways Act (1890), S. 72 (as inserted in 1949). AIR 1961 Bom 130.

——Ss. 74-C, 72, 76 and 74-D — Nature of liability of railway — Suit for loss arising out of shortage — Proof of negligence or misconduct — Burden.

The responsibility of a railway administration, is as provided by S. 72 is that of a bailee. As provided by S. 76 in a suit for compensation for any loss or damage it is not necessary for the plaintiff to prove how the loss or damage was caused. But where a consignment is carried at the special reduced rate, the case will be governed by S. 74-C or 74-D and the ordinary rule that when it is proved that goods delivered to the railway are lost, the railway is not exonerated from liability except upon proof of these facts which would under the Indian Contract Act exempt a bailee from liability would not apply. In those cases negligence or misconduct has to be proved by the plaintiff unless the fair inference from the disclosure such as may be made by the railway under Sec. 74-D as to how it dealt with the consignment when it was in his possession or control, is that the loss is attributable to negligence on its part or on the part of its servants. ILR (1957) Mys 407: AIR 1959 Mys 90 (90, 91) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6, 8).

——S. 74-C (3) (Inserted by Railways (Amendment) Act 1949) — Misconduct—Delay in delivering goods — Inference of misconduct—Where the plaintiff consignor successfully shows that there had been delay in delivering the goods without any reasonable cause and the Railway Administration fail to show as to how the consignment was dealt with during the time it was in their possession or how the delay had occurred, the only legal inference that can be drawn is that there was misconduct on the part of the Railway and the plaintiff is thus entitled to a decree. 22 Cut LT 512: ILR (1957) Cut 48: AIR 1956 Orissa 222 (224) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Ss. 74-C, 72 — Goods sent by railway — Resposibility of Railway as bailee — Duration of liability — Loss or damage not prima facie proof of negligence. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 72. AIR 1960 Pat 571.

——Ss. 74-C (3), 72 (Prior to its amendment by Act 39 of 1961)—Goods carried at owner's risk — Damage to goods in transit — Suit for damages — Evidence to show how goods are dealt with in course of transit — Burden of proof — Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 106, 114, Illus. (g).

When the goods are booked at owner's risk, the Railway Administration, according to the provisions of S. 74-C (3) of the Railways Act, would not be responsible for any damage to those goods from any cause whatsoever except upon proof that such damage was due to the negligence or misconduct on the part of Railway Administration or any of its servants. In a suit brought against the Railway Administration for damages to goods booked at owner's risk the burden of proving misconduct or negligence is obviously on the plaintiff, but, according to the provisions of Sec. 72 of the Railways Act, the responsibility of the Railway Administration is that of a bailee under Ss. 151, 152 and 161 of the Contract Act. In other words, the Railway Administration is supposed to take much care of the goods as a man of ordinary prudence would take in respect of his own goods. Since the facts as to how the damage or loss had occurred to the goods are within the special knowledge of the Railway Administration, under the provisions of Sec. 106 of the Evidence Act, the Railway Administration is supposed to adduce evidence to show how the goods were dealt with in the course of the transit and that they had taken as much care as a man of ordinary prudence would do regarding his own goods. In case the Railway Administration does not produce such evidence, an adverse presumption would be drawn against them under Sec. 114 (g) of the Evidence Act. It may also be mentioned that in a case where the plaintiff calls upon the Railway Administration to adduce certain evidence, which was in their exclusive possession, and they fail to do so, the presumption under Section 114 (g) of the Act would be still stronger. AIR 1964 Punj 147 (149) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

——S. 74-C (3) —Scope — Burden of proof — Mention of owner's risk in receipt — Effect of S. 74-C (1).

The presumption under sub-sec. (1) of Sec. 74-C arises in cases where the Railway Administration provides for carriage of two rates one as railway risk rate and the other as the owner's risk rate. But where no document has been produced to show that in the case of particular goods in dispute there were two rates as referred to in S. 74-C (1) the presumption does not apply and the circumstances mentioned in sub-sec. (3) are not required to be proved by the consignor. 1957 Raj LW 145: AIR 1960 Raj 121 (122) (Prs 4, 5).

4. Burden of proof.

——S. 74-C (2) — Absence of certificate under — Effect.

In the absence of a certificate under sub-sec. (2) a consignment would be deemed to have been carried at owner's risk, and the burden of proving the negligence and misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration and its servants lie primarily on the plaintiff. AIR 1955 Ajmer 9 (9) (Pr 10).

——S. 74-C — Presumption — Negligence on part of Railway — Onus of proof is on plaintiff-consignor — Railway not producing any evidence to show how it dealt with consignment — Plaintiff producing some evidence of negligence — Court can hold railway negligent.

Assuming that under S. 74-C (2), in case there are two rates fixed for consignment, it has to be presumed that the consignment was booked at the owner's risk rate, the only effect of it is that the onus would lie upon the consignor-plaintiff to prove that the non-delivery or the damaged delivery was effected because of the negligence of the Railway. The initial burden may thus lie upon the plaintiff. Nevertheless, the Railway cannot be absolved from the responsibility of explaining to the Court how it handled the consignment during the transit. When the Railway has not explained this through proper evidence and the plaintiff has produced some evidence in this behalf, the Court can find the Railway negligent in handling the goods in transit. (1965) 1 Andh WR 342: ILR (1965) Andh Pra 1250: AIR 1965 Andh Pra 263 (266) (Pt B) (Pr 10).

——Ss. 74-C, 74-D (before its amendment by Act 39 of 1961) — Goods sent at owner's risk — Destruction by fire — Burden is on consignor to prove negligence or misconduct on part of railway administration — Evidence adduced by both parties — Onus of proof not material.

It is clear from the provisions of Ss. 74-C and 74-D that where the goods are carried at the owner's risk rate, and the loss of goods is due to fire, the burden of proving negligence or misconduct lies upon the consignor. It is well settled that when both the parties have adduced all available evidence, burden of proof assumes little or no importance.

Held, on facts, that there was no evidence of negligence or misconduct on part of the railway administration or its servants and therefore, it was not liable for the loss. (Present S. 74 (1) to (3) substituted for old Sec. 74-C by the Amendment Act 39 of 1961 with effect from 1st January, 1962. Present S. 76-F substituted for old S. 74-D by the Amendment Act 39 of 1961 with effect from 1st January, 1962). AIR 1964 Andh Pra 172 (177, 179) (Pt A) (Prs 22, 46, 47) (DB).

——S. 74-C — Misconduct or negligence of Railway — Burden of proof is on plaintiff. [New S. 74 substituted for old S. 74-C by Amendment Act (39 of 1961)]. 1960 Nag LJ 177: 62 Bom LR 445: ILR (1960) Bom 507: AIR 1960 Bom 344 (346) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Ss. 74-C and 72 — Burden of proof — When it is found on facts that loss has been caused due to negligence or misconduct on the part of Railway Administration the Railway Administration will be liable and it is not necessary for the plaintiff to allege and prove that the rate other than the owner's rate was agreed. (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101-104). AIR 1958 Bom 238 (239) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Ss. 74-C, 72, 74-A — "Subject to the other provisions of this Act" — Case governed by Sections 74-A and 74-C — Loss or damage not prima facie proof of negligence — Burden of proof — (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101 to 104). See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1959 Pat 473.

——Ss. 74-C, 74-D — Suit for damages for loss of part of consignment — Burden of proof.

As Ss. 74-C and 74-D use the word "negligence" along with the word "misconduct" the onus on the plaintiff in a suit for damages for loss of part of his consignment can be said to be discharged even if he succeeds to establish that the loss was due to the negligence on the part of the railway administration or its servants. AIR 1957 Pat 147 (150) (Pt B) (Pr 10).

——S. 74-C (3) — Suit for damages for short delivery of goods — Railway not pleading loss or destruction of goods — Still plaintiff cannot recover damages unless he proves negligence or misconduct on the part of the railway or its servants — Failure to deliver goods being the consequence of loss or destruction of goods does not furnish a cause of action distinct from cause of action for loss or destruction — Hence burden lies on plaintiff to prove negligence on the part of the railway administration or its servants. AIR 1961 SC 725, Rel. on; 1955 RLW 159, Held no longer good law, [S. 74 (1) to (3) substituted for the old S. 74-C by the Amending Act (39 of 1961) w.e.f. 1-1-1962.] 1964 Raj LW 212: ILR (1964) 14 Raj 811.

——Ss. 74-C, 72 — Contract Act (1872), Ss. 152, 161 — Suit against railway for loss of goods — Pleadings of both parties not placing reliance on Sec. 74-C — Both plaintiff and defendant contesting on basis of ordinary liability of bailee — Court held rightly placed burden to disprove negligence on defendant railway.

Where in a suit against a railway for the loss of the goods, the pleadings of both the parties show that they did not rely on Sec. 74-C but contested the suit on the basis of the ordinary liability of a bailee and no facts were brought to the notice of the Court by way of evidence, to show that any reliance was placed on Sec. 74-C and the Court placed the burden to disprove negligence on the defendant railway.

Held, that the burden of proof was rightly placed. Held, further that the defendant having accepted the burden and having led evidence, could not turn round at the stage of argument in appeal and contend that the burden was wrongly placed on the defendant. 1963 Raj LW 135: ILR (1963) 13 Raj 140: AIR 1963 Raj 162 (170) (Pt B) (Pr 16) (DB).

5. Forwarding Note.

——S. 74-C — Consignment booked at railway risk — No forwarding note as to any defect in packing — Goods found broken at time of delivery — Responsibilities in cases of railway risk rates and owner's risk notes pointed out. See Railways Act (1890), S. 72 (Old). (1965) MPLJ (Notes) 5.

——Ss. 74-C, 74-D and 72-A — Damages during transit — Duty of Railway to produce forwarding note.

Where from the evidence adduced it is clear that the transit was at owner's risk rate and the conditions necessary to bring the case under S. 74-C are present it is immaterial whether the forwarding note under Sec. 72-A is forthcoming or not. In such a case the plaintiff is bound to prove negligence on the part of railway administration. 25 Cut LT 260: ILR (1959) Cut 396: AIR 1960 Orissa 141 (141, 142) (Prs 2, 4, 5).

——Ss. 74-C, 74-A and 74-D — Scope — Onus of proof — Failure to record conditions of package in forwarding note by railway — Ss. 74-C and 74-D held attracted. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 74-A. AIR 1960 Pat 111.

6. Miscellaneous.

——Ss. 74-C, 77, 80 and 74-D — Administration not disclosing how consignment was dealt with — Consignee not in position to know whether goods were lost or destroyed in transit — Suit for non-delivery — Notice under Sec. 77 is not necessary. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 77. AIR 1961 Manipur 45.

——S. 74-C (3) — Degree of damage or deterioration in case of perishable goods.

The degree of damage done to or deterioration in quality of articles in transit more often than not depends upon the nature of goods. For instance any soft fruit or fish or meat will deteriorate much sooner than other kinds of perishable goods such as potatoes, onion and cabbages. (1960) 2 OJD 504: ILR (1961) Cut 32: AIR 1961 Orissa 113 (117) (Pt C) (Pr 10) (DB).

SECTION 74-D (Old)

SYNOPSIS

(Railways Act (1890), S. 74-D (Old)).

1. Scope, object and applicability.
2. Negligence and misconduct.
3. Evidence and proof.
4. Duty and liability of Railway Administration.

1. Scope, object and applicability.

——S. 74-D — Aplicability — Delivery offered but refused — Sec. 74-D will not apply. AIR 1955 NUC (Ajmer) 1263.

——S. 74-D (as it stood before amendment of 1951) — Whole of consignment of goods or whole of package not lost — Nor pilferage alleged — S. 74-D does not apply. ILR (1965) 2 All 127: AIR 1966 All 333 (335) (Pt B) (Pr 14).

——S. 74-D — Object of. [Present S. 76-F substituted for old S. 74-D by the Amendment Act (39 of 1961) with effect from 1-1-1962].

Section 74-D of the Railways Act is not the only provision of law which impose an obligation on the Railway to disclose certain facts under certain circumstances. That section imposes a statutory provision on the Railway administration to disclose to a consignor of goods how the consignment was dealt with throughout the time it was in its possession or control. The object of this provision is to enable the consignor to point out the Railway administration that the facts disclosed by it raise a fair inference of negligence or misconduct on the part of the Railway or its servants. But Section 74-D does not have the effect of repealing the provisions of the Evidence Act providing for proof by inference or presumption, or of the Code of Civil Procedure providing for interrogatories requiring a party to disclose facts within its exclusive knowledge. Even in cases not covered by Section 74-D of the Railways Act, a consingor of goods claiming damages from the Railway for loss or destruction of the goods allegedly due to the negligence or misconduct of the Railway of its servants can rely on the provision of the Evidence Act and the Code of Civil Procedure in discharging the onus of proof of such negligence or misconduct. 1964 All LJ 802: AIR 1965 All 246 (247) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——S. 74-D — Section applies to the case of short delivery.

Where out of the total number of bags consigned some were not delivered, to that extent at least the case falls within Sec. 74-D (a). ILR 26 Bom 562 and AIR 1960 Andh Pra 495 and AIR 1962 Cal 175, Rel. on. AIR 1960 Orissa 141, Distinguished.

When Sec. 74-D is applicable to such cases, the Courts have only to see whether defendant railway has disclosed in entirety how the consignment or package was dealt with throughout the time it was in its possession or control and whether from the material which is disclosed negligence or misconduct on the part of the railway administration or of any of its servants can be fairly inferred. When the consignee successfully shows to the Court that the true inference from the materials is that the carriers' servants have not shown due care and skill the Railways must be held responsible for damages.

Where it was alleged by the railway that the goods were destroyed by fire, and the railway had appointed an enquiry committee to enquire into the reasons of fire and the committee had submitted its report, but the report was not put in evidence, the Court would not err in drawing adverse inference against the railway under Sec. 114 (g) of the Evidence Act. AIR 1961 Madh Pra 251 and (1957) 2 MLJ 620, AIR 1958 Mad 179, Distinghuished. (1963) 1 Andh LT 158: AIR 1963 Andh Pra 344 (346, 347) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 8, 9, 10).

——S. 74-D — Case of non-delivery — Art. 31 applis. See Limitation Act (1908), Art. 30. AIR 1963 Andh Pra 344.

——Ss. 74-D, 77, 80, 74-C — Administration not disclosing how consignment was dealt with — Consignee not in position to know whether goods were lost or destroyed in transit — Suit for non-delivery—Notice under S. 77 is not necessary. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 77. AIR 1961 Manipur 45.

——Ss. 74-D, 80 — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 80 — Suit for non-delivery—Notice under S. 80, Civil P. C., has to be sent to destination Railway only. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 80. AIR 1961 Manipur 45.

——S. 74-D (Inserted by Railways (Amendment) Act, 1949) — Applicability — Refusal to take delivery.

The case of refusal to take the delivery of the goods because they were in a rotten condition, not being a case of non-delivery or short delivery, S. 74-D would not apply to the case. 22 Cut LT 512: ILR (1957) Cut 48: AIR 1956 Orissa 222 (223) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Ss. 74-D, 74-A, 74-C — Scope — Onus of proof — Failure to record condition of package in forwarding note by railway — Ss. 74-C and 74-D held attracted. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 74-A. AIR 1960 Pat 111.

——S. 74-D — Evidence — Non-production of hand-book — Adverse inference.

Suit for damages for non-delivery of consignment — Consignor alleging negligence on part of the Railway and calling for hand-books of Watch and Ward Department of certain stations—Hand-books not produced in spite of Court's notice — Held, that though the non-production of the hand-books was susceptible in law to an adverse inference against the Railway, on the facts of the case there was no scope for drawing such an inference. AIR 1957 Pat 147 (149) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

2. Negligence and misconduct.

——S. 74-D — Non-delivery of part of consignment — Claim for compensation on ground of negligence of railway servants — Onus of proof.

The plaintiffs filed a suit for compensation for short delivery of a consignment of chilly bags against the Union of India as representing the Railway Administration on the ground that the shortage was due to wilful negligence or misconduct of the Railway Administration. The Railway Administratiaon contended that the loss of 86 bales was due to a running train-theft over which the Railway Administration had no control and that therefore there was no negligence or misconduct on their part. On the evidence adduced the trial Court held that the loss was occasioned by the neglience of the Railway Administration or its servants and therefore the claim was decreed.

Held, that (i) under S. 74-D, Railways Act, the primary question to be determined in such cases is whether negligence or misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration or of any of its servants is inferable from the evidence adduced by the Railway Administration. It is only if such negligence or misconduct is not inferable that the burden of proving such negligence or misconduct shifts to the consignor. (ii) The question as to whether negligence or misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration has been proved or not is essentially a question of fact depending upon the inference to be drawn from the evidence and the circumstances appearing in each case. But the Court is entitled to the benefit of the principles laid down by Courts in similar cases and to decisions passed in circumstances more or less the same; (iii) on the facts and circumstances of the case that the finding of the trial Court that the loss was occasioned by the negligence or misconduct of the Railway Administration was correct. AIR 1960 Andh Pra 495 (496, 497) (Prs 3, 6, 7).

——S. 74-D — Negligence and misconduct — Distinction — Breach of express duty — Effect of — (Contract Act (1872), S. 151) — (Tort — Negligence).

Negligence is something less than misconduct. Negligence consists in the doing of some act which a person of ordinary care and skill would not do under the circumstances and in omitting to do some act which a person of ordinary care and skill would do under the circumstances. In other words, the test to be applied in determining whether there has been any negligence or not is the care taken by a prudent man. (1874) 7 HL 213 and (1937) 6 LJC 92, Rel. on.

Held, that the breach of duty cast upon the railway servants in not locking the wagon by E. P. lock in spite of the strong direction issued by the railway administration amounted at least to negligence. AIR 1957 Pat 147 (150) (Pt C) (Pr 10).

3. Evidence and proof.

——Ss. 74-D, 74-C (Before its amendment by Act (39 of 1961)) — Goods sent at owner's risk—Destruction by fire — Burden is on consignor to prove negligence or misconduct on part of railway administration — Evidence adduced by both parties — Onus of proof not material. See Railways Act (1890), (before its amendment by Act (1961)), S. 74-C. AIR 1964 Andh Pra 172 (DB).

——Ss. 74-D, 74-C, (Before its amendment by Act 39 of 1961) — Negligence and misconduct on part of railway administration — Proof of — Negligence — What amounts to — Loss or damage to goods — Not a prima facie evidence of negligence. See Railways Act (1890), (Before its amendment by Act (1961)), S. 74-C. AIR 1964 Andh Pra 172 (DB).

——Ss. 74-D and 72 — Theft of goods from running train — Railway company is not bound to give evidence as to how consignment was dealt with even when train was in motion — Guard of the train deposing that train did not stop at any place till the station where loss was discovered — His testimony amounts to sufficient evidence by railway as to how consignment was dealt with till it was found missing. AIR 1937 PC 152, Explained and distinguished. 1961 Jab LJ 1339.

——Ss. 74-D, 72, 76 and 74-C — Nature of liability of railway—Suit for loss arising out of shortage — Proof of negligence or misconduct — Burden. See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1959 Mys 90.

——S. 74-D — Disclosures made by Railway and not challenged by opponent, burden of proving negligence or misconduct is on the consignor — Consignor can rely on the Railway's evidence to establish negligence or misconduct.

On 8th November, 1955, plaintiff sent a consignment of 638 tins of oil by railway from Akola to Allahabad. On 16th November, 1955, the consignment arrived at Allahabad but with 14 tins short. The consignor made a claim for the loss against the Railway. It was contended that under Sec. 74-D of the Railways Act, the defendant-Railway had made all the disclosures which were not challenged by the plaintiff who led no evidence to prove this.

Held, that the plaintiff could rely on the evidence of the defence and if they proved negligence or misconduct that was enough. Plaintiff was not required to prove negligence of the defendant by his own witnesses. The burden of proving negligence or misconduct was no doubt on the plaintiff-consignor but it was discharged by relying on defence witnesses. 1962 Nag LJ (Notes) 31.

——S. 74-D — Suit for damages for loss of part of consignment — Burden of proof. See Railways Act (1890), S. 74-C. AIR 1957 Pat 147.

4. Duty and liability of Railway Administration.

——S. 74-D — Liability of disclosure — Nature of — Defects and lacunae brought out in course of trial — Railway should be given opportunity to meet plaintiff's case.

In a case of short delivery of goods carried by Railway the liability of disclosure is not merely contractual but statutory. In a suit for non-delivery of certain consignment against Railways when the plaintiff brings out certain lacunae and defects in disclosure as contemplated in Sec. 74-D of the Railways Act a Court should give opportunity to Railway to meet the plaintiff's case. (1937) 2 Mad LJ 689: AIR 1937 PC 152, Dist. AIR 1962 Cal 175 (176) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Ss. 74-D and 74 — Duty of Railway Administration.

In the case of goods consigned at owner's risk when the fact of non-delivery is brought to the notice of the Railway administration, it is the duty of said administration to give the information required under S. 74-D, namely to disclose how the consignment was dealt with throughout to the consignee. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 74. AIR 1961 Manipur 45.

——S. 74-D (b) (as it stood prior to amendment in 1961) — Consignment of seven cases, in covering not readily removable by hand — Shortage claimed regarding six cases received intact — Each case is to be considered as independent unit — Railway not liable for intact cases.

The plaintiff sued the Railway Administration for alleged short delivery. Out of seven cases which were so covered that the covering was not readily removable by hand, one was found broken but there was practically no shortage. The remaining six cases received at the destination were intact with no defect. The alleged shortage was in respect of the six cases found intact with no defect:

Held, that each case was an independent unit of consignment and so long as the cases received at the destination were intact the Railway was not in any way responsible for any shortage. Where goods are booked by the consignor and the information given by the consignor is accepted as correct for purposes of charging freight, and receipt is made out in the same way, there is no admission on the part of the Railway authorities that the cases contained the contents as described in the receipt and if at the destination the cases are found to contain less number or quantity than what was mentioned in the receipt, the Railway Administration is not liable: AIR 1950 Nag 85 and AIR 1956 Mad 176, Rel. on. ILR (1964) Cut 243: AIR 1965 Orissa 4 (5) (Pr 3).

——Ss. 74-D, 74-C and 72-A — Case of damages during transit — Duty of Railway to produce forwarding note.

The section will not apply where from the pleadings and evidence adduced the case appears to be not one for non-delivery but of damage during transit. See Railways Act (1890), S. 74-C. AIR 1960 Orissa 141.

SECTION 74-E (Old)

——Ss. 74-E, 80, (Before its amendment by Act 39 of 1961) — Scope — Sec. 74-E does not whittle down effect of S. 80 (Present Sec. 76-D substituted for old S. 74-E by Amendment Act 39 of 1961 with effect from 1-1-1962).

S. 74-E has reproduced some of the principles of the risk note form A to the effect that the agreement embodied in the risk note should be deemed to be made separately with all railway administrations who should be carriers for any portion of the transit so as to make the risk note equally operative over all the railways by which the consignment was carried. But the section cannot be construed as whittling down the effect of S. 80 of the Act. AIR 1964 Andh Pra 172 (182) (Pt E) (Pr 62) (DB).

——Ss. 74-E and 80 (old) — Goods destroyed by fire in transit — Destruction of goods at station on railway system belonging to Port Commissioners — Damage to goods through negligence of carrier — Calcutta Port Act (3 of 1890), S. 142 — Limitation under — Applicability of S. 15 (2) of Limitation Act to — Suit for damages brought by consignee or endorsee of goods — Maintainability of such suit — [New Sec. 76-D substituted for old S. 74-E by the Amendment Act (39 of 1961) w. e. f. 1-1-1962. New S. 80 substituted by the Amendment Act (39 of 1961) for old S. 80 w. e. f. 1-1-1962.]

Two consignments of goods comprising bales of woollen carpets were delivered to the railway administration at Mirzapur station on the East India Railway for carriage to Kiddarpore Docks, a station on the railway system belonging to the Port Commissioners. On or about 17-2-1951 the goods were destroyed in the fire that broke out in the Docks. The plaintiff filed a suit for damages against the Union of India and the Port Commissioners after serving a notice under Sec. 80, Civil P. C. (1908) on the Union of India. In respect of the first consignment of goods the plaintiff was named as consignee in the railway receipts so that he as shipping agent could clear the goods and arrange for their shipment to foreign buyers. The plaintiff was to receive commission for acting as such shipping agent. With regard to the other consignment the consignors were the owners of the goods represented by the railway receipt. They were also consignees of the goods but forwarded the railway receipt with an endorsement in favour of the plaintiff in order that the plaintiff as their agent could clear the goods from the railways and ship them to certain foreign buyers of the goods. The plaintiff did not pay any moneys in respect of any of the goods before the goods were actually destroyed by fire. He, however, paid the freight payable in respect of these goods to the defendant Port Commissioners. As against this payment, however, the plaintiff admittedly received equivalent amounts from the respective owners of the goods.

Held, (1) that the goods had been delivered by the railways of the Union of India to the Port Commissioners and at the relevant time the goods were or should have been in the custody of the Port Commissioners; (2) that the Port Commissioners failed to take all possible care with regard to the goods kept in their godown; (3) that the plaintiff had failed to prove the quantum of damages for which he was asking for compensation. In this respect mere tendering of the invoices as exhibits did not prove the value of the goods. The plaintiff should have given evidence to prove the contracts between the foreign buyers and the sellers in support of his claim that the values of the goods as shown on the invoices were correct; (4) that Sec. 142 of the Calcutta Port Act applied in the instant case and the period of limitation was therefore three months from the date of the accrual of the cause of action; (5) that the Union of India being at best a proper party to the suit, Sec. 15 (2) of the Limitation Act would apply to this case and the plaintiff would be entitled to compute the period of limitation by excluding the period of notice under Sec. 80 of the Civil P. C.; (6) that even apart from Sec. 15 (2) of the Limitation Act, the suit had been filed in time since limitation started running from the date of accrual of the cause of action and in the instant case it could not be said that such cause of action arose before 25th June, 1951 which was the first date when the Port Commissioners intimated their inability to give delivery of the goods to the plaintiff; (7) that so far as the Port Commissioners were concerned even though the High Court had jurisdiction to entertain this suit yet the jurisdiction of the said Court as against Union of India could not be invoked on the ground that Government carried on business within jurisdiction; (8) that the plaintiff had no beneficial interest in the goods and was merely acting as shipping and forwarding agent on behalf of the owners of the goods. No consideration passed between the plaintiff and the owners of the goods for the delivery and endorsement of the railway receipt in favour of the plaintiff.

(9) Per A. K. Mukherjea, J. — That the plaintiff being only a consignee named on a railway receipt and a bare endorsee of a railway receipt was not entitled to bring an action against the railway in respect of either of the consignments. He, therefore, had no cause of action against the defendant Port Commissioners and was not competent to file this suit.

Per Bachawat, J. — That the plaintiff was not entitled to sue the Port Commissioners either for breach of contract or for an actionable wrong independently of contract. 68 Cal WN 410: AIR 1964 Cal 290 (295, 296, 297, 298, 299, 319, 324) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 15, 17, 22, 23, 24, 27, 104, 120) (DB).

——Ss. 74-E and 80 — Suit for damages for short delivery of consignment — Parties — Contracting Railway primarily liable for damage to consignment — Goods booked for transit over several Railways — Sec. 74-E, creating legal fiction that each of the Railways carrying goods is deemed to have contracted — Sec. 74-E, not to control operation of Sec. 80, but would be subject to the same — Unless the case is within the ambit of Sec. 80, the Railway Administration other than the contracting Railway is not liable for any damage — Other Railway liable only if damage was done within its jurisdiction. 1961 MPLJ (Notes) 200.

——S. 74-E — Applicability — Conditions — Loss must be proved as provided under S. 80.

Section 74-E only provides that although goods were delivered to one railway, the other railways through which the goods travelled would also be deemed to have contracted with the persons delivering the goods for their carriage. The existence of a contract alone, however, is not sufficient to fasten the liability, although all the railways will be deemed to have entered into the contract. Section 80 only determines the liability of the different railways. Once that liability has been fixed, the railway cannot argue that it had not entered into contract with the persons who made the consignment because such a contention is now invalid in view of the provisions of Sec. 74-E of the Act. This is all that is provided by Sec. 74-E. But before Sec. 74-E comes into play, the loss must be proved as provided in Sec. 80. If the loss is not proved, then the only remedy of the person making the consignment is to sue the contracting railway. AIR 1958 Pat 575, Foll. (1959) 1 OJD 299: ILR (1959) Cut 300: AIR 1960 Orissa 100 (102) (Pt A) (Pr 9).

——S. 74-E — Goods booked with one railway— Other railway through which goods travel would also be deemed to have contracted with person with whom the original railway had entered into contract for carriage of goods — Rules of destination railway would apply to the case. 1962 BLJR 968: ILR 42 Pat 436: AIR 1963 Pat 46 (50) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Ss. 74-E, 80 — Liability of different railways.

Section 74-E only provides that although the goods were delivered to one railway the other railways through which the goods travelled would also be deemed to have contracted with the persons delivering the goods for their carriage. The existence of a contract alone, however, is not sufficient to fasten the liability, although all the railways will be deemed to have entered into the contract. The question remains who will be responsible and in what cases. That question is determined by Sec. 80 of the Railways Act. Sec. 80 only determines the liability of the different Railways. Before Sec. 74-E comes into play, the loss must be proved as provided in Sec. 80. If the loss is not proved, then the only remedy to the person making the consignment is to sue the contracting Railway. AIR 1949 Pat 329, Foll. 1957 BLJR 800: 1957 Pat LR 409: AIR 1958 Pat 575 (576) (Pt A) (Pr 9).

SECTION 75 (Old)

SYNOPSIS

(Railways Act (1890), S. 75 (old).)

1. Scope, object and applicability.
2. Articles mentioned in the second Schedule.
3. Parcel or package.
4. Declaration of contents and value.
5. 'Loss' — Meaning of.
6. Liability of railway for loss.
7. Evidence and proof.
8. Compensation for loss.

1. Scope, object and applicability.

——S. 75 (1) — Object of S. 75.

The object of Sec. 75 is that if the goods consigned are of such a character, description, value, etc., as would fall under the second schedule to the Act, a special freight would have to be levied before the said goods could be accepted for carriage by railway. 59 Bom LR 117: ILR (1957) Bom 321.

——S. 75 — Applicability.

Section 75 does not apply to an article which is mentioned in the second schedule which is not contained in any parcel or package. When you have a silver bar in its bare condition transported by the railway administration, it cannot be said that the silver bar was contained in a parcel or a packet, as the silver bars were not contained in any parcel or package, the railway administration cannot claim the protection of Section 75 (1) in order to escape its liability under Sec. 72 (1). 55 Bom LR 595: 1LR (1953) Bom 1301: AIR 1954 Bom 50 (51, 52) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 4, 6) (DB).

——S. 75 — Applicability — Conditions.

In order to attract the operation of S. 75 the railway must prove that the consignment in question was lost or destroyed or deteriorated. (1959) 63 Cal WN 253.

——S. 75 (1) and (2) — Applicability — Actual value of excepted goods consigned exceeding Rs. 100 but value declared to be less than Rs. 100 — Goods lost — Claimant not entitled to compensation.

The words of Sec. 75 (1) are plain and admit of no qualification. If the package contains excepted goods, and the intrinsic value exceeds the statutory limit, the railway administration cannot be held responsible for the loss, destruction or deterioration of the package, unless the value and contents are declared. The value to be declared is the true value. Section 75 (2) in terms does not entitle the consignor or consignee to get the declared value.

It places a maximum limit, beyond which the claimant cannot recover whatever the true value may be. Section 75 (2) is intended to apply to cases where a declaration is called for. An unnecessary declaration is not contemplated by the section. In cases of over-valuation of excepted articles above the statutory limit, the claimant gets the true value, the declaration does not help him. In cases of under-valuation of excepted articles above the statutory limit, a limited disability is imposed by S. 75 (2), viz., that the claimant can only recover up to the declared amount.

Where, therefore, the actual value of the excepted goods consigned exceeds Rs. 100 but the declared value is less than Rs. 100 and the goods are lost, destroyed or deteriorated, the claimant will not be entitled to any compensation: AIR 1947 Cal 182, Not approved; Civil Rule No. 293 of 1948 Approved. 54 Cal WN 154: ILR (1950) 2 Cal 485: AIR 1950 Cal 100 (101, 102) (Prs 10, 11, 12) (DB).

——S. 75 — R. 35, General rules of the Indian Railways Conference Association (Book No. 22) is not consistent with S. 75. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 289 (DB).

2. Articles mentioned in the second Schedule.

——S. 75 and Sch. II Cl. (c) and Cl. (1)—Goods assigned to railway — Held goods did not fall under Cl. (1) but fell under Cl. (c).

Certain goods consigned from Coimbatore to Sholapur were patkas and rumals, and gold and silver (jari) formed part of those patkas and rumals. It was the contention of the plaintiff that the goods fell under Cl. (1) of Sch. II and that as the value of the silk contained in those goods was less than half the value of the entire fabric, namely, the entire goods, it was not necessary for the consignor to make any declaration before the railway booking staff of Coimbatore under S. 75. sub-sec. (1).

Held, that the goods consigned could not fall under Cl. (1) since they would not amount to silk at all as the value of the silk therein was much less than half the value of the fabric and if they could not amount to silk Cl. (1) could not be attracted. The provisions of the clause which were attracted in this case were the provisions of Cl. (c) and Cl. (c) refers to "cloth and tissue and lace of which gold or silver forms part". 4 Bom HCR 129, Rel. on. (1957) 59 Bom LR 117: ILR (1957) Bom 321.

——S. 75 and Sch. 2, Cl. (a) — Articles mentioned in second schedule — Fountain pens.

A fountain pen is not merely made up of the basic materials of which it is constituted, nor is it merely made up of its constituent parts. A great deal of labour skill and designing must go to the making of the article and therefore to say, without making any attempt to assess the value of these factors, that because the value of gold used in the pen is more than the value of other materials, the object of gold is totally a wrong approach to the question. The words 'gold manufactured or unmanufactured' must be given a broad and commonsense meaning and in doing so it is impossible to say of a fountain pen, merly because it has a nib or a clip or even a cap of gold, that it is gold manufactured. Essentially it is a fountain pen made of bakelite. Some part of it contains gold, but even so it could not be said of this article that its predominant feature is gold and that the article is of gold. Case-law discussed. ILR (1954) Bom 1202: 56 Bom LR 532: AIR 1955 Bom 98 (100) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——S. 75 (as it stood prior to its amendment in 1961) — Articles of "Special value" — Meaning — Parcel containing shawls, together exceeding Rs. 300 in value — Parcel is of special value for purposes of S. 75.

The words 'special value' in the marginal note to Section 75 are used because the section deals with articles in a parcel or package exceeding three hundred rupees in value. The expression "carrier of articles of special value" in the marginal note has reference to the totality of the articles in the parcel and not to the special value of each of the component articles in the parcel or package. A parcel containing shawls (which is one of the articles mentioned in the second Schedule) exceeding Rs. 300 in value is of special value as it exceeds Rs. 300 in value. That does not mean that everyone of the articles in the parcel must exceed Rs. 300 in value or be of a special value.

The object of Section 75 is to require that there should be a declaration and insurance when the parcel or package contains articles exceeding Rs. 300 in value. Even if a parcel contains articles of special value and the value of the parcel does not exceed Rs. 300 there is no need of declaration or for insurance. It cannot be held that not only should the value of the parcel exceed Rs. 300 but the articles themselves must be of a special type besides being the articles mentioned in the second Schedule. Observations of Shah, J., in AIR 1922 Bom 416, Foll. AIR 1963 Guj 150 (151) (Prs 2, 3).

——S. 75, Sch. II, Cl. (xi) — Articles made of glass — Glass bangles — If glass article —"Parcel" — Meaning of.

Glass bangles is one of the articles that comes within the description of articles specified in Cl. (xi) to the second schedule to the Railways Act. No distinction can be drawn between glass and glass bangles within the meaning of the category of specified articles.

In its primary signification a parcel is a number of quantity of things put up together. A package or a parcel is an entity by itself. The goods may be wrapped up in a single package or they may be kept loose. Then each article would be a different parcel. Under Sec. 75 of the Railways Act have not the value of the consignment as a whole, but the separate value of different packages or the items which form the consignment that would be declared, though they form part of a whole consignment. AIR 1955 NUC (Mad) 85.

——S. 75 and Sch. II, Cls. (a) and (b) — Fountain pens with gold caps and gold nibs not covered by clauses.

Where the parcel in question contained Parker Pens having gold caps and gold nibs, the parcel does not fall within Cl. (a) or Cl. (b) of the second Schedule. Cl. (a) refers to 'gold and silver, coined or uncoined, manufactured or unmanufactured. It is not every article where there is some little gold or silver that falls, within the scope of that clause.

It is the predominant characteristic of the article that has to be decided. It is impossible to say of fountain pen, merely because it has a nib or a clip or even a cap of gold, that it is gold manufactured. AIR 1955 Bom 98, Foll. Nor can such fountain pens be considered plated articles as mentioned in Cl. (b) of Sch. II. In numerous articles there may be some covering of a metal in one or other of its component parts. That will not make it a plated article; such articles do not come within the mischief of Cl. (b). Plating is not its predominant characteristic. Judging from that test it is not possible to conclude that a fountain pen is a plated article. The plated article referred to in Cl. (b) does not refer to 'gold plated articles'. It refers to all plated articles. It is a misconception to think that both Cls. (a) and (b) of the second Schedule refer to gold and silver articles. Cls. (a) and (b) of the second Schedule are independent clauses and it will be wrong to read the idea contained in Cl. (a) while interpreting Cl. (b). Each one of the clauses in that schedule covers separate articles. 36 Mys LJ 455: ILR (1958) Mys 245: AIR 1959 Mys 43 (44) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 6).

——S. 75, Sch. II, Cl. (1) — Articles mentioned in second Schedule — "Silks" — Meaning.

The fact that the invoice sent by the person who sold the goods to the plaintiff, described "the package as a "Silk cloth parcel" cannot be conclusive against the plaintiff. Where the silk content of the articles in the bundle was very much less both in quantity and value than the cotton content and both in quantity and value, it was only 30 per cent of the articles that were made up of silk and the cost of the silk content in the articles would be a little less than 50 per cent of the total cost of the bundle, those articles are not silks within the meaning of Clause (1). Case law discussed. 30 Mys LJ 178: ILR (1951) Mys 520: AIR 1953 Mys 65 (65, 66) (Prs 4, 5) (DB).

——S. 75 and Schedule II, Item (m) — Mysore Railways Act, S. 59 — Excepted goods — Articles of "Special nature" — 'Lohis' commonly called "shawls" priced low— Mysore Railways Act, Schedule, Item (m).

Lohis of very low value though described as 'woollen' in the consignment note are not 'shawls' in the sense as used in item (m) of second schedule. Therefore non-declaration and non-insurance of consignment of 'Lohis' cannot save the Railway Company of its liability in respect of the loss of the consignment. AIR 1953 Mys 16 (17) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——S. 75 (old), Sch. II (k) — "Article of special value" — Switch made of porcelain, is not of any special value. AIR 1964 Pat 540 (541) (Prs 2, 4).

——S. 75, Sch. II, Item (m) — 'Shawls' — Woollen fardis.

The word 'shawls' as used in Item (m) of the Second Schedule of the Railways Act means Kashmere Shawls of special value and not things of inferior quality as Alwans, Tushi or ordinary chadars. Where there is no finding that the woollen fardis booked in the consignment were Kashmere shawls of special value the provisions of Section 75 do not apply. AIR 1957 Pat 328 and ILR 39 Cal 1029, Foll. AIR 1960 Pat 340 (341) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——S. 75 and Sch. II, Cl. (m) — Applicability — Suit for damages for loss of goods in transit — Defence that goods were "shawls" which consignor had not declared — "Shawls" — Meaning of — (Carriers Act (1865), Sch.).

In a suit for damages for short delivery, the case of the railway was that the articles covered by the two bales not delivered to the plaintiff contained shawls as conlemplated by Cl. (m) of the Second Schedule to the Railways Act, 1890. That being so, the railway was not responsible for the loss of those bales as the consignor did not declare their contents as laid down in Section 75, Railways Act. To support the plea the Railway relied on the contents of the notice under Section 80, Civil P. Code, and the invoice wherein the plaintiff had described himself as shawl-merchant and the plaint wherein articles such as Kashmere Chadar, Tushi Chadar and Alwan were described:

Held, (i) that the mere description of the plaintiff that he was by profession a shawl-merchant could not decide the point as to what were the articles sent under the two bales alleged to have been not delivered by the Railway. He might be dealing with shawls also along with many other articles, (ii) that the word 'Shawl' as used in Cl. (m) of the Second Schedule meant the Kashmere shawl of special value and not things of inferior quality as that of Alwan, Tushi or ordinary chadar. (iii) that what was covered by the word 'shawls' in Cl. (m) was only 'shawls' and not only other thing same as or similar to shawls. (iv) that, in the circumstances, Sec. 75, Railways Act was no bar to the suit. 1957 BLJR 227: ILR 36 Pat 495: AIR 1957 Pat 328 (329, 330) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 5) (DB).

3. Parcel or package.

——S. 75 (before amendment) — 'Parcel or package' — Meaning — Concealment if essential — Glass bangles made into strings, or package — All garlands together, if form one parcel or package.

It is not at all essential for a thing to come within the meaning of "parcel or package" that the articles contained in it are covered and concealed from view. Even the least amount of concealment is not essential. A wrapped up article would come within the meaning of "parcel or package", but so can a collection of articles which are not wrapped up in anything. Ordinarily, when a number of articles are made into a "parcel or package" there is some concealment of their nature, but it is also possible to pack articles into something without concealing their nature to any extent.

A bare article like a car or a silver bar or a bangle cannot possibly be described as a parcel or package; in order that an article can be said to be "contained" in a parcel or package, it is necessary that some other article is used with it in order to protect it, or cover it, or keep it in position or keep it together with another article or articles: AIR 1929 Lah 698, Dissent.

The words "parcel or package" do not include plural.

Where glass bangles are made into garlands, by passing a string through a number of bangles and tying its two ends together, the garlands come within the meaning of parcel or package.

Each garland is a parcel or package; it is not that all the garlands together form one parcel or package. Therefore, each garland must be of the value of more than Rs. 100 in order to be governed by the provision of S. 75 as it stood before amendment. 1950 All LJ 625: ILR (1951) 2 All 249: AIR 1950 All 543 (545 to 547) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7, 9) (DB).

——S. 75 (1) and (2) (before its amendment in 1961) — Expression 'any parcel or package' — Meaning — Partial loss of goods contained in parcel or package — S. 75 applies.

The words 'any parcel or package' in Sec. 75 (2) as well as in Section 75 (1) have reference to the goods contained in the parcel or package. For the value to be declared is in relation to them, so that the goods in the parcel would include also part thereof. The whole purpose of Sec. 75 is that the railway should be informed of the special value and of the additional liability that the railway would have to undertake in carrying those goods and in consideration of that additional risk a higher charge is required to be paid. That being the purpose it would be defeating it if the risk of the railway were to arise only for the entire packet, in the sense when the entire goods had been lost and not when a part of the goods was lost. Sub-secs. (1) and (2) of Sec. 75 cover also partial loss of goods contained in any parcel or package of the specified type. 78 Mad LW 566: (1965) 2 Mad LJ 460: ILR (1965) 2 Mad 599.

——S. 75 — Declaration under — Parcel or package — Meaning.

"Parcel" signifies a part of the whole taken separately and has for one of its meanings "a small bundle". In its primary signification a parcel is a number or quantity of things put together; a bundle or package; a quantity pressed or packed together; a small bundle.

The value of each particular package or parcel, though they form part of a whole consignment, is what is required to be declared under Sec. 75 of the Act and such a declaration becomes necessary only when the value of such package exceeds Rs. 100. Where therefore, each package does not exceed the value of Rs. 100 it is not open to the Railway to rely on Sec. 75 to disentitle the plaintiff to claim the cost of the consignment and the damages. AIR 1955 NUC (Mad) 85.

——S. 75 (1) (as it stood before amendments of 1947 and 1949) — 'Parcel or package' — Meaning of.

The true meaning and correct interpretation, of the words 'parcel or package' occurring in S. 75 (1) of the Railways Act is that the word 'parcel' or 'package' means the singular and not the plural, and, it contemplates each individual 'parcel' or 'package', and not the entire 'consignment' or 'luggage', consisting of several parcels or packages. In order that S. 75 (1) should apply, there should be declaration regarding the contents, and their value both of each parcel or package separately and not in respect of the entire 'consignment' or 'luggage', consisting of the different parcels or packages, booked under one luggage receipt under Sec. 74, collectively or in one lump. It is the parcel or package that is lost or destroyed which should have contained excepted goods of the value of more than Rs. 100 and in respect of which there should have been declaration of its contents and their value, as required by S. 75 (1) of the Act. AIR 1927 Nag 328 and AIR 1950 All 543 and (1954) 2 Mad LJ 677 and AIR 1936 Pat 393, Rel. on: ILR 33 Bom 703 and ILR 34 All 422, Dissented from. 1957 BLJR 183: 1957 Pat LR 63: ILR 36 Pat 408: AIR 1957 Pat 231 (233) (Pr 16) (DB).

4. Declaration of contents and value.

——S. 75 (before amendments of 1947 and 1949) — Unless both conditions, namely, the person sending the parcel had declared the value of the goods at the time of the delivery of the parcel for carriage by railway and had paid or engaged to pay a percentage on the value so declared, if required to do so by the administration are complied with, administration is not responsible for loss of goods of the nature described in section — Manner of loss is immaterial — It might be due to misconduct or theft by railway servants. ILR (1954) 1 All 76: AIR 1953 All 318 (319) (Pt A) (Pr 10) (DB).

——S. 75 — Person sending parcel for carriage by railway not declaring value of goods — Loss of parcel to railway adminstration by theft or misappropriation by railway servant or otherwise — Administration is absolved from liability. ILR (1954) 1 All 76: AIR 1953 All 318 (320) (Pt C) (Pr 18) (DB).

——S. 75 (1) — "Declaration" — Meaning of — (Words and Phrases).

"Declaration" under Sec. 75, Sub-sec. (1), of the Act means of communication by a person delivering the parcel of goods to the railway administration for carriage by railway, telling the administration what the nature, description and value of the goods so delivered are, so that special freight, if leviable, may be levied. This communication has got to be in writing but it may be in any form, so long as it gives the above information to the railway administration. (1957) 59 Bom LR 117: ILR (1957) Bom 321.

——S. 75 (1) and Sec. 58 — Declaration need not be separately made — Requisite information should be given to railway administration — Held there was no declaration made in this case.

Section 75, sub-sec. (1), does not contemplate a separate declaration under that section, if the requisite information is otherwise supplied by the person delivering the goods to the railway administration by his presenting certain papers or documents before that administration.

A parcel containing 613½ yards of hand-woven cloth as detailed in the invoice attached to the plaint was despatched to the plaintiff from Coimbatore. The plaintiff was a resident of Sholapur and the parcel was consigned to him from Coimbatore, the destination of the parcel being Sholapur. Before the parcel could be accepted by the railway administration at Coimbatore the person delivering the parcel to the administration was required to produce before it a Government permit. Such a permit was obtained by the consignor in this case. The plaintiff's case was that the above-mentioned permit and the invoice of the goods consigned showed the nature, the quantity and the value of the goods consigned. After the permit and invoice were shown to the booking clerk at the railway station of Coimbatore, a railway receipt was prepared and handed over to the consignor. According to the plaintiff, the Railway Administration never informed him as to what had ultimately become of the said consignment, the contention of the Railway Administration was that the consignor in this case had not made a declaration within the meaning of S. 75, Railways Act, before the Railway authorities at Coimbatore from where the consignment was booked and that the failure on the part of the consignor to make such a declaration would absolve the defendant from liability for the loss of the consignment.

Held, that in the invoice relating to the goods the value of the goods was stated. But the difficulty was about the permit. Looking to the permit it was impossible to hold that it gave a full and clear account and description within the meaning of S. 58 of the Act, of the goods consigned or that it contained a declaration, within the meaning of S. 75, sub-sec. (1) as to the nature and description of the goods. 15 Pat 394, Disting. (1957) 59 Bom LR 117: ILR (1957) Bom 321.

——S. 75 — Excepted articles of value of more than Rs. 100 — Declaration of contents not made — Railway Administration is not responsible — (Mysore Railways Act, S. 59). AIR 1955 NUC (Mys) 904 (DB).

——S. 75 — No declaration of contents and value —Railway is exempted from liability in respect of loss, destruction or deterioration. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 289 (DB).

5. 'Loss' — Meaning of.

——S. 75 — 'Loss' — Servant of Railway dishonestly removing parcel from railway premises for personal gain — It is a loss to Railway Administration. AIR 1949 All 223, Dissent. ILR (1954) 1 All 76: AIR 1953 All 318 (320) (Pt D) (Pr 18) (DB).

——S. 75 — "Loss" means loss to Railway.

The word 'loss' within the meaning of S. 75 of the Indian Railways Act or Risk Note 'Y' means loss to the Railway Administration. AIR 1953 All 318, Foll. 1957 MPLJ (Notes) 187.

——S. 75 (1) — 'Loss, destruction or deterioration of the parcel or package' — Meaning of — Short delivery — If within the term 'loss'.

There is no reason why the words 'loss', 'destruction' or 'deterioration' in S. 75 of the Indian Railways Act should be given a different meaning from that given to them in the other sections of Chap. VII of the Act. The meaning of the word 'loss' is that the goods have been lost in the sense that the goods have not been forthcoming. It may be a loss to the Railway but it is equally a loss to the consignee. No distinction can be made of a loss being to the Railway or loss to the owner. It only means that the goods are lost by the Railway since they are not forthcoming and, therefore, they have no control over the goods, the resultant loss occurring to the owner. The word 'loss' should be interpreted liberally and is wide enough to include all cases where the goods are not forthcoming and includes a case of non-delivery. But if the Court, on the evidence, comes to the conclusion that there is any wilful withholding of the goods by the company, then it cannot be said to have been lost. But, where a loss has, in fact, occurred, the mere fact that the loss was occasioned by the misconduct of the servants of the Railway Administration will not make it any the less a 'loss' within the meaning of the section. (1950) 2 Mad LJ 506, AIR 1923 Cal 397: AIR 1945 Cal 412, Foll.; AIR 1952 All 891: AIR 1946 All 198, Differed. ILR (1957) Mad 195: (1956) 2 Mad LJ 6: 69 Mad LW 375: AIR 1956 Mad 483 (486) (Prs 16, 17).

6. Liability of railway for loss.

——S. 75 (old) — Wrong delivery of consignment consisting of ten harmoniums in separate packages — Value of harmoniums clearly mentioned in railway receipt as Rs. 120 for each — No attempt by Railway Administration to show that all the ten harmoniums were contained in one single parcel— Railway Administration cannot claim any protection under section. AIR 1965 All 184 (187) (Pt C) (Pr 12).

——Ss. 75, 72 — Goods despatched under risk note — Deviation from route — Effect on liability of Railway Administration for loss.

Even if there is a deviation from the usual or booked route, the Railway Administration can claim protection under the section. See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1950 All 543 (DB).

——Ss. 75 (1) and 72 — Consignment not reaching destination — Liability of Railway as bailee— Necessity of proving loss — Railway has to prove loss before it is absolved from its liability — (Contract Act (1872), S. 161).

The Railway Administration cannot be absolved from the responsibility for the consigned goods not reaching the consignee unless the loss of the said goods is established in the first instance by the Railway Administration. So long as the conscience of the Court is not satisfied that the whereabouts of the consigned goods are untraceable, the Railway Administration, to whose care the goods were committed at the time of the consignment, cannot be absolved from responsibility for the goods not reaching the hands of the consignee.

Held, on the evidence in this case that the Railway Administration, which was a bailee in this case, had not taken such care of these goods as a man of ordinary prudence would in the matter of his own goods. That being so, the provisions of S. 161 of the Contract Act would be attracted by virtue of S. 72 of the Railways Act and the bailee, namely the Railway Administration, would be responsible for the consignment not arriving at its destination and not reaching the hands of the consignee. (1957) 59 Bom LR 117: ILR (1957) Bom 321.

——Ss. 75 and 72 (prior to amendment in 1961) — Applicability — Non-delivery of article — Liability of Railway — "Loss" of article — Proof — Mere statement of Railway that article remained untraced — Not sufficient.

In a suit to recover damages for non-delivery of a parcel consigned to a Railway when the latter claims protection under the provisions of Sec. 75 of the Railways Act, and the plaintiff proves non-delivery, it is incumbent upon the Railways to show that the parcel had been lost or destroyed. It must be shown that everything possible had been done to trace the missing article; that the whereabouts of the article were not known or must adduce some other evidence from which it could be inferred that the parcel had been lost. Where all the evidence that was adduced by the Railway was to the effect that the article was not traced and that they were making efforts to trace it and the theory of loss in transit was not resorted to even at the stage of notice but was mentioned for the first time in their written statement without disclosing exactly in what way it had been established that there had been such a loss:

Held, that the Railways had failed to discharge the burden that was cast on them of proving that the article in question was lost. To state that it was missing and they were making efforts to trace it was not tantamount to loss of the article. The Railways were liable under S. 72 and could not claim protection under S. 75. AIR 1946 All 198 and ILR (1954) Mys 166, Rel. on; AIR 1961 SC 725, Dist. 1963 Mys LJ (Supp) 105.

——Ss. 75, 72 — Misdelivery — Negligence of Railway servants — Care required of ordinary prudent man — Servants held negligent — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152, 161). See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1959 Pat 337 (DB).

——S. 75 — Insured consignment.

Where the consignment had been insured and their value is declared, the Railway Administration is liable for the loss of goods due to the negligence of the servants of the Administration. ILR 37 Pat 1355: AIR 1959 Pat 337 (341) (Pt B) (Pr 15) (DB).

7. Evidence and proof.

——S. 75 — Loss to Railway Administration — Burden is on Railway Administration to prove it — Nature of evidence required indicated — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 106). ILR (1954) 1 All 76: AIR 1953 All 318 (321) (Pt E) (Pr 21) (DB).

——S. 75 — Loss — Proof.

It must be decided upon the facts of each case whether loss has occurred within the meaning of S. 75. Mere proof of non-delivery is by no means conclusive evidence as to whether or not the loss has occurred.

Where it was proved that the consignment had reached a midway station but it was not put into the train again to be despatched to the station of destination:

Held, that it was not a case of a loss in transit within the meaning of S. 75 (1) and the consignor was not deprived of his right to claim compensation for non-delivery. AIR 1946 All 198 and AIR 1949 All 223, Foll. 33 Mys LJ 87: ILR (1954) Mys 166: AIR 1954 Mys 180 (181) (Pr 6) (DB).

——S. 75 — Burden of proof — Suit for damages for loss of goods in transit — Onus — (Carriers Act (1865), S. 9).

In a suit for damages for loss of goods which had been consigned under Railway risk, the onus is entirely on the Railway to establish that the loss was not due to any negligence on its part. 1957 BLJR 227: ILR 36 Pat 495: AIR 1957 Pat 328 (331) (Pt C) (Pr 7) (DB).

8. Compensation for loss.

——Ss. 75 and 76—Goods damaged due to negligence of Railways — Quantum of damages to be measured by amount by which value of goods diminished — Goods repairable — Prima facie damages are cost of repair. 1965 MPLJ (Notes) 54.

——S. 75 — Suit for damages for loss of goods in transit — Measure of damages — (Carriers Act (1865), S. 9) — (Contract Act (1872), S. 73).

It is true that what is remote damage should not be allowed in a suit for damages for loss of goods caused in transit. But where what was claimed under the loss of profit was not the future profit which the consignor might have earned but it was only the difference between the price of the articles which he paid at one market and the price that was then prevalent at the place of destination, it could not be taken as remote damages. AIR 1921 Cal 315, Rel. on; (1854) 156 ER 145 and (1861) 142 ER 248 and (1876) 1 CPD 326, Disting. 1957 BLJR 227: ILR 36 Pat 495: AIR 1957 Pat 328 (330) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——S. 75 — Suit for damages for non-delivery—Interest on compensation — Interest is payable if there is an express agreement to pay interest or it is payable by the usage of the trade or under the provisions of any substantive law entitling the plaintiffs to recover interest. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 5736 (DB).

——S. 75 — Suit for damages for non-delivery—Plaintiff is not entitled to any profit which he would have made had the goods been delivered to him. AIR 1921 Cal 315, Foll. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 5736 (DB).

SECTION 75 (New)

——S. 75 (as amended in 1961) — Compensation for damage to or loss of goods — Railway freight when may be included in compensation claimed.

The principle is well established that where damages are calculated on the basis of the market rate prevailing at the place of destination, that should include the railway freight as well, because such rate is determined as a rule by the cost price of the commodity and the cost of transportation. It is also settled law that if it be a case of complete loss of the consignment in which even the railway freight is generally not paid because no delivery of the goods can be made; damages are allowed on the basis of the prevailing market rate of the commodity at the place of destination, but that railway freight has to be excluded because it is taken for granted that it has not been paid. When the market rate at the place of destination is not available, or no evidence has been adduced on that, then the cost price together with the railway freight must be taken into account for determining the amount of damages where it is in evidence that the railway freight, in fact, was paid. Where, however, there is no evidence to that effect either resulting from the circumstances or direct evidence on the point, then the railway freight cannot be taken into account for assessing the amount of damages awardable to the plaintiff. AIR 1965 Pat 316 (316) (Pr 2) (DB).

SECTION 76 (Old)

——S. 76 — Suit for compensation — Negligence on part of Railway Administration alleged — Burden of proof was on plaintiff — Loss due to deviation in agreed route — Mere allegation of misconduct was not sufficient in notice under S. 80, Civil P. C. — Notice under S. 80, Civil P. C., must contain the alleged instance of misconduct after amendment of plaint. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 80. ILR (1965) 2 All 127: AIR 1966 All 333.

——S. 76 — Burden of proof is on Railway — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 106). AIR 1955 NUC (Bom) 5549.

——S. 76 — Goods booked under railway risk— Loss of — Liability of Railway — Onus of proof.

The responsibility of the Railway Administration in respect of goods booked under railway risk is that of a bailee. The Railway must take as much care of goods while under its control as a man of ordinary prudence would take of such goods if they were his own. The Railway is liable for the loss, destruction, etc., if it happens by the default or negligence. When loss, destruction, etc., occurs, it is not for the plaintiff to prove in the first instance as to how it happened. See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1957 Cal 190.

——Ss. 76 and 75 — Goods damaged due to negligence of Railways — Quantum of damages to be measured by amount by which value of goods diminished — Goods repairable — Prima facie damages are cost of repair. 1965 MPLJ (Notes) 54.

——Ss. 76, 72, 74-C and 74-D — Nature of liability of Railway — Suit for loss arising out of shortage — Proof of negligence or misconduct — Burden.

Where a consignment is carried at special reduced rate, known under the Act as owner's risk rate, the case will be governed by S. 74-C or 74-D and the ordinary rule that when it is proved that goods delivered to the Railway Administration for carriage are lost, the Railway Administration is not exonerated from liability in respect of such loss except upon proof of those facts which would under the Indian Contract Act, exempt a bailee from liability would not apply. In these cases the misconduct or negligence has to be proved by the plaintiff unless the disclosure made by the Railway under S. 74-D itself gives rise to the inference that the loss is attributable to its negligence. AIR 1959 Mys 90 (90, 91) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6, 8).

——S. 76 — Suit for damages — Burden of proof.

In a suit for damages against the Railway Administration for the destruction of a consignment, the plaintiff has to show, in order to establish a liability of the defendant that there was want of diligence or that there was negligence on the part of the latter or his servants or agents. 1951 Nag LJ 470: ILR (1952) Nag 10: AIR 1951 Nag 357 (2) (358) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Ss. 76, 72 — Negligence — Proof.

Section 76 adds no new burden on the defendant. In a suit for damages for the destruction of a consignment of goods, the plaintiff must show, in order to establish a liability on the defendant-Railway, that there was want of diligence or that there was negligence on the part of the Railway or its servants or agents. See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1951 Nag 357 (2).

——Ss. 76, 80 — Object and scope of S. 80 — Goods booked through two railways — Loss — Aggrieved party has option of suit against Railway Administration where goods were delivered for consignment or against administration on whose railway loss occurred — Latter is agent of former — Suit against latter — Burden to prove that loss occurred there, is heavy on plaintiff — Case before Independence Act — Suit laid against Governor-General does not include suit against administration — Suit must be against administration which is sought to be made liable — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 79. See Railways Act (1890), S. 80. AIR 1950 Nag 85 (DB).

——S. 76 — Misconduct — Burden of proof — Goods consigned at owner's risk — Railway has not to prove absence of its servant's misconduct. AIR 1955 NUC (Orissa) 2143.

——Ss. 76 and 72 — Proof of misconduct — Risk Note — Effect of.

Held, that in the circumstances it was not a case of non-delivery within the meaning of the provision relating to non-delivery in the risk note and, therefore, there was no duty cast on the Rly. Administration to make a disclosure of the manner in which the goods were dealt during the transit. AIR 1929 Cal 700 and AIR 1931 Pat 201, Rel. on; AIR 1954 Nag 337, Distinguished. Even assuming that it was a case of non-delivery and not merely of deterioration, the Railway Administration had discharged the duty to make a disclosure. It was not open to the consignor who had not made a request for the production of the wagon movement register either to the trial Court or the lower appellate Court to make a grievance of the non-production at the stage of second appeal. AIR 1937 PC 152, Rel. on. 1957 BLJR 222: 1957 Pat LR 42: AIR 1957 Pat 475 (476, 477) (Prs 2, 3) (DB).

——S. 76 — Loss of goods by accidental fire — Negligence of Railway — Burden of proof.

The responsibility of the Railway Administration is that of a bailee and as such the loss or damage to goods entrusted to it is prima facie evidence of negligence on its part. The burden of proof, therefore, to disprove negligence lies on it. AIR 1957 Pat 325 (326) (Pr 8) (DB).

SECTION 76-B (New)

——Ss. 76-B, 57 (as amended by Act of 1961) — Suit by consignor for recovery of price of goods against Railway — Railway delivering goods to consignee on executing indemnity bond contrary to consignor's instructions, is liable. See Railways Act (1890) (as amended by Act of 1961), S. 57. AIR 1964 Punj 20 (DB).

SECTION 77 (Old)

SYNOPSIS

(Railways Act (1890), Section 77.)

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Notice under, if part of cause of action.
3. Combined notice under this section and Section 80, Civil P. C. (1908).
See also Civil P. C. (1908), Section 80.

4. Notice, when not necessary.
See also Note 5.
5. "Loss, destruction or deterioration".
6. Form and contents of notice.
7. Claim for refund of overcharges.
8. Through booked traffic — Notice to one of several railways.
See also Railways Act (1890), Sections 80 and 140.
9. Notice to whom to be sent.
10. "Six months."
11. Proof of notice.
12. Waiver of notice.
13. Limitation for suit — Exclusion of period of notice.
See also Limitation Act (1908), Section 15 and Articles 30 and 31.

1. Scope and applicability.

——S. 77 — Notice — Object of notice.

Per Beg. J.:— The purpose of notice is to enable the railway to have an opportunity of settling the claim by making an enquiry into the matter in time with a view to prevent dishonest claims being put up all of a sudden by unscrupulous persons after a long time taking advantage of the fact that the railway records have been weeded out. AIR 1930 Cal 332 and AIR 1952 Mad 795 and AIR 1948 Nag 17 and AIR 1955 Assam 221, Rel. on. AIR 1958 All 234 (247) (Pt C) (Pr 28) (DB).

——S. 77 — Construction — Liberal interpretation.

Per Beg, J.:— A liberal interpretation of Section 77 alone will be conducive to the interest of justice and equity. The construction placed on the statute by a Court should be such as to suppress the mischief and advance the remedy. AIR 1955 SC 661, Foll. AIR 1958 All 234 (248) (Pt G) (Pr 34) (DB).

——S. 77 — Construction — Claims to compensation for losses — Notice issued under Section 77, Railways Act and Section 80, Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908) by one person — Right shared by two persons, whether can be claimed in a Court by a person who had not complied with the statutory requirements of given notice.

Where a merchant doing business in lime fruits despatched some bundles of limes to the defendants (fifth defendant) to Shalimar by train from Palakol and a part of the consignment is alleged to have been spoiled in transit and the defendant (fifth defendant) filed a claim under Section 77 of the Railways Act claiming damages for the loss caused to the goods and subsequently the plaintiff (Revision-Petitioner) also sent a notice under Section 77 of the Railways Act and Section 80, Civil Procedure Code and however filed the suit claiming damages before the expiry of two months from the date of the notice under Section 80, Civil Procedure Code and where the Union of India represented by the different sections of the Railway raised a plea that the suit is premature, that there has been no negligence on the part of the different defendant railways and that only the consignee would be entitled to sue for the damages and thereupon the fifth defendant presented an application that in view of the defence raised he should be transposed as a co-plaintiff and argued that the plaintiff or the fifth defendant would be entitled to damages and that due to bona fide confusion of their respective rights the suit has been filed by the consignor impleading the consignee as the defendant and where the several arguments urged against the fifth defendant being transferred to the array of the plaintiff have not been accepted by the trial Court and the fifth defendant has been made a plaintiff subject to certain conditions, on the question whether the (Plaintiff-Revision Petitioner) will be entitled to the benefit of the notices issued under Section 77, Railways Act and Section 80, Civil Procedure Code, by the fifth defendant:

Held. A right shared by two persons cannot be claimed in a Court by the person who had not complied with the statutory requirements of giving notice. The position should not be different where a right is claimed by two persons in the alternative.

Notices issued by the fifth defendant cannot be taken advantage of by the original plaintiff in the case, for the claimants are not same persons though the claim may be one. (1937) 2 MLJ 466: (1944) 2 MLJ 65: ILR (1945) Mad 263 and AIR 1949 Mad 416, Ref. (1958) 1 An WR 76.

——S. 77 — Notice claiming damages for non-delivery of goods — Delivery of goods during pendency of suit — Plaint amended by claiming damages for depreciation in value and mishandling goods — Fresh notice — Necessity. See C. P. Code, Section 80. 1961 Nag LJ (Notes) 85.

——S. 77 — Object of section.

Section 77 is intended to give protection against a mischief, viz., stale claims against the railway administration. Though not intended to deprive the customers of the railway of their just dues, it is at the same time intended as a weapon of defence against fraud and to protect railways against litigation. 56 Bom LR 150: AIR 1954 Bom 297 (299) (Pt B) (Pr 11).

——S. 77 — Calcutta Port Act (1890), Sections 112, 142 — Applicability of Railways Act under Section 112 — Extent of — Suit for damages against Commrs. for loss of goods received for carriage by Railway — Limitation.

Though Section 112, Calcutta Port Act (1890) makes the provisions of Railways Act applicable for certain purposes, Section 77 of Railways Act is not attracted for purposes of determining period of limitation for service of notice to a suit for damages against Commissioner of Port for loss of goods received by them for carriage by rail. AIR 1951 Cal 460.

——S. 77 — Notice under — Necessity.

The provisions of Section 77 are mandatory. The fact that the Railway had other means of knowledge of the claim would not dispense with the notice enjoined by Section 77. Notice under Section 80, Civil P. C., would not dispense with the notice under Section 77, Railways Act. The one is a notice of suit as against the Government owning the Railway while the object of Section 77, Railways Act, is to enable the Railway to facilitate investigation. The absence of notice as required by Section 77, Railways Act, is fatal to the suit. ILR (1956) Hyd 274: AIR 1956 Hyd 62 (63) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——S. 77 (as it stood prior to its amendment in 1961) — Notice under Section 77 is mandatory.

Notice under Section 77 is mandatory and such notice is necessary in all cases whether it be a case of deterioration, loss or non-delivery. AIR 1961 SC 725, Foll; AIR 1958 Madh Pra 314, held no longer good law. 1962 Jab LJ 1125: 1962 MPLJ 732: AIR 1962 Madh Pra 374 (375) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——S. 77 — Notice — Admission by defendant — Whether dispenses with enquiry as to — Validity of notice.

An admission of short delivery by the railway administration does not dispense with an enquiry into the validity or invalidity of the notice under Section 77. AIR 1948 Nag 17, Disting. A notice under Section 77 is a condition precedent to any claim covered by the section and it cannot be dispensed with because its object should be considered to have been otherwise served. 1959 MPC 341: 1959 MPLJ 701: 1960 Jab LJ 985: AIR 1959 Madh Pra 276 (279) (Pt C) (Pr 16) (DB).

——Ss. 77 and 140 (c) — Giving of notice — General Clauses Act (1897), Section 10 — Applicability.

Giving of a notice to the Railway Administration is an act which is covered by Clause (c) of Section 140 as it permits forwarding of the notice by post in a pre-paid letter. There appears, therefore, no reason to hold that the plaintiff cannot take advantage of Section 10 of the General Clauses Act. 1957 Jab LJ 550: (1957) MPLJ 294: 1958 MPC 459: ILR (1957) Mad Pra 253: AIR 1957 Madh Pra 114 (116) (Pt E) (Pr 9) (DB).

——S. 77 — Notice cannot be dispensed with because defendant has to say nothing on merits — Notice is mandatory — Observations to contrary in AIR 1948 Nag 17 held obiter and dissented from. See Civil P. C. (1908), Section 80. AIR 1955 NUC (Mad) 4895.

——Ss. 77 and 72 — Liability — Notice under Section 77 — Absence of — Effect.

Where the case has all along been fought on the footing that it was a case of non-delivery and not of loss and the defence of the railway because of their failure to discharge the onus cast on them by the proviso to Risk Note Z, the railway cannot claim that the suit should be dimissed because a notice under Section 77 had not been given. ILR 37 Pat 1034: AIR 1959 Pat 202 (207) (Pt D) (Pr 9) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1965 SC 1755.]

——S. 77 — Act applied to Bhavnagar State even before it was applied to Acceding States on 3rd April 1948 by amending Act 21 of 1948 — Notice under Sction 77 held was therefore necessary before suit could be filed.

Before the Bhavnagar State had ceded its civil jurisdiction over railway lands by agreement to Kathiawar Political Agency Courts in 1881 A. D., the Railways Act was in force.

After the cession to Political Agency, the Railways Act, then in force was being applied by the Political Agency.

Bhavnagar State has retained both sovereignty and jurisdiction order the Bhavnagar Lock Estate section of the railway line. The State had adopted the provisions of Indian Railways Act as a state law together with general rules in force in British India, in respect of this jurisdiction.

On retrocession of jurisdiction on the 15th August 1947 notifications Hazur Tharavs No. 1 and No. 2, dated 9-11-1947 were published, according to which, the jurisdiction which was ceded to the Political Agency had reverted to the State, the paramountcy rights of the British Government having ceased from 15th August 1947 and the suits which were tried by the Agency were to be tried in accordance with Code of Civil Procedure of the State.

The Bhavnagar State had a 2 ft. 6 inches gauge tramway for which a set of rules which corresponded with Indian Railways Act, had been prescribed.

Several Indian Acts, such as Contract Act, T. P. Act, Specific Relief Act were being followed in the State even though they were not specifically adapted.

From all the above facts it can be inferred that Indian Railways Act applied to the State after the 15th August 1947, even though it was formally applied to the Acceding States including Bhavnagar State for the first time on 3rd April 1948 by the Amending Act No. 21 of 1948.

Consequently notice of claim against Railway under Section 77, Railways Act, within six months of the due date, was necessary, want of such a valid notice was a bar to the claim, even though the suit for the same was filed on 25th December, 1947, i.e., subsequent to the retrocession of jurisdiction and before the Act was formally applied to the State. ('51) 4 Sau LR 201 (207).

2. Notice under, if part of cause of action.

——S. 77 — Civil P. C., Section 20 — Delivery of notice under Section 77, Railways Act — No part of cause of action. AIR 1960 Cal 458 (460) (Pt C) (Pr 14).

——S. 77 — Notice under — It is part of cause of action — Notice under Section 80, C. P. Code within jurisdiction — It gives jurisdiction — Consignment under Risk Note Z — Loss — Misconduct — Onus is on Railway to prove that non-delivery was due to "loss, destruction or deterioration or damage" — Inference of misconduct can be raised from defective system of giving delivery — (C. P. Code (1908), Section 80) — (Letters Patent (Cal.) Clause 12). AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 783.

——S. 77 — Letters Patent (Cal.), Clause 12 — Cause of action — Civil P. C. (1908), Section 80.

The service of notice either under Section 77, Railways Act or under Section 80 of Civil P. C. can no longer be regarded as part of plaintiff's cause of action. AIR 1952 Cal 35 Rel. on. AIR 1954 Cal 59 (60) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

——S. 77 — Civil P. C., Sections 20 and 80 — Notice under Sec. 80 is part of cause of action — (Letters Patent (Cal.) Clause 12). See Civil P. C. (1908), Section 20. AIR 1953 Cal 235.

——S. 77 — Service of notice under — Is not part of cause of action. AIR 1949 Cal 622, Overruled. See Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, Section 18 (a). AIR 1952 Cal 35 (FB).

——S. 77 — Notice under — Not part of cause of action — Does not give jurisdiction. AIR 1955 Mad 345 (DB).

——S. 77 — Notice under — If part of cause of action — Goods despatched from B to D — Loss of — Notice issued from P — Court at P — Jurisdiction to entertain suit for compensation — (C. P. Code (1908), Section 20). 1958 BLJR 615.

——S. 77 — Notice under — Scope of.

A statutory notice required by Railways Act as well as the Civil P. C. is an essential preliminary step for valid institution of suit. But this would not make such notice part of the cause of acion for the suit itself. The notice follows the cause of action and it merely paves the way for the institution of the suit itself. It is not therefore correct to say that, since notice was given in Bombay, the Court of Small Causes had jurisdiction to entertain the suit. AIR 1954 Bom 129 (132) (Pt C) (Pr 11) (DB).

[Held Impliedly Overruled on another point by AIR 1963 SC 1681 as interpreted in AIR 1967 Cal 205.]

3. Combined notice under this section and Section 80, Civil P. C. (1908).

See also under Civil P. C. (1908), S. 80.

——S. 77 — Combined notice under Section 77 and Section 80, C. P. Code — Validity — In essence and substance subject-matter of the two notices is also the same — Under both sections notice is to be given to General Manager of the railway concerned — Hence combined notice under the two sections is not invalid. AIR 1952 Nag 22 and AIR 1954 Pat 424 and AIR 1952 Cal 439, Rel. on. AIR 1961 All 433 (434) (Pr 3).

——S. 77 — Notice under Section 80, Civil P. C. is not sufficient. AIR 1959 All 732 (733) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——S. 77 — Civil P. C., Sec. 80 — Single notice against Union of India as representing all Railways — Sufficiency — (C. P. Code (1908), Section 80).

Section 77, Railways Act, and Section 80, C. P. Code, definitely contemplate that for the purpose of a suit the different Railways of India must be treated as separate legal entities and there is no warrant for the proposition that it is sufficient to serve one notice under Section 77 against the Union of India as representing all the Railways. 59 Cal WN 1064: ILR (1957) 2 Cal 523: AIR 1957 Cal 202 (202) (Pt A) (Pr 1).

——S. 77 — One notice under both Section 77, Railways Act and Section 80, Civil P. C., complying with conditions of sections is enough. AIR 1952 Cal 439 (440) (Prs 7, 8).

——S. 77 — C. P. Code, Section 80 — Notices under both sections written on same paper — Validity — Requirements of sections.

It is not essential that notices under Section 77, Railways Act, and Section 80, C. P. Code, must be written on separate pieces of paper, and must be specifically labelled with their descriptions. The main difference between the two sections is that, under S. 77 of the Railways Act, the party is barred from ever being able to recover the claim unless notice is given to the railway within six months of the date when the goods in respect of which the claim is made could have been expected to be delivered; whereas the service of notice under Section 80 fixes a period of two months within which no suit on the claim mentioned in the notice can be brought. If the notice given is within the limits of time taken from either end it may well comply therefore in this respect with the purposes both of Sec. 77 of the Railways Act and Section 80 of the C. P. Code. The notice under Section 80 must of course be a notice indicating that a suit will be brought. The cause of action is to be stated. A statement in the notice implying that proceedings would not be brought if the claim was satisfied, can in no way detract from its value as a notice under S. 80.

As a result of the amendment to Section 80, C. P. Code, it so happens that notices under each of the sections are required to be served on or delivered to in the case of claims in respect of loss on a State Railway, the same person, namely, the General Manager of the Railway. Hence if the contents, of the paper giving notice fulfil the requirements of both sections and are correctly delivered, it must be considered that due notice has been given thereby under both the sections. 55 CWN 665: ILR (1952) 2 Cal 205: 87 CLJ 425: AIR 1952 Cal 439 (440) (Prs 7, 8).

——S. 77 — Civil P. C. (1908), Section 80 — Combined notice under Section 77, Railways Act and under S. 80, Civil Procedure Code is valid. 1959 MPLJ 327, Foll. 1962 MPLJ (Notes) 269.

——S. 77 — Notice under by consignee and notice under Section 80, C. P. Code, by consignor — Suit by consignor — Notice, validity of — (C. P. Code (1908), Section 80).

A combined notice under Section 77 of the Railways Act and Section 80 of the C. P. Code can be given. Section 77 permits a notice to be given by the person concerned or by some other person concerned on his behalf. The notices under Section 77 of the Railways Act given by the consignee on behalf of the consignor are not in any way irregular. At any rate, the notice under Section 80 of the C. P. Code given by the consignor can be construed as a notice under both the sections, when it fulfilled the requirements of Section 77 of the Railways Act as also Section 80 of the Code. 1959 MPC 239: 1959 Jab LJ 291: 1959 MPLJ 327: AIR 1959 Madh Pra 222 (223) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——S. 77 — Civil P. C., Section 80 — Notices under — Desirability of certain amendments to the section — Observations of Court.

Observations by the Court :— It is desirable that the Central Government should undertake legislation dispensing with notice under Section 80, Civil P. C., in a case where the notice required under Section 77 has been given. It would also be better if Legislation is undertaken to clarify which is the railway administration to which notice should be sent under Section 77, Railways Act, in a case where through traffic passes through more than one railway system owned by the Government. 72 Mad LW 556: 1959 Mad WN 518: (1959) 2 Mad LJ 479: ILR (1959) Mad 939: AIR 1960 Mad 58 (64) (Pt C) (Pr 23) (DB).

——S. 77 — Civil P. C. (1908), Section 80 — Notice under Section 80, Civil P. C. and Section 77, Railways Act — Distinction pointed out. AIR 1955 Mys 123 (125) (Pt C) (Pr 12) (DB).

——S. 77 — Civil P. C., Section 80 — Suit against Railway — Combined notice under Section 80, Civil P. C. and Section 77, Railways Act to General Manager if valid. See Civil P. C. (1908), Section 80. AIR 1952 Nag 22.

——S. 77 — Applicability — Suit for non-delivery due to loss — Combined notice under Section 77 and Section 80, Civil P. C. — Validity.

Where the plaintiff's case in the plaint is that the goods have been lost owing to the negligence of the servants of the defendant-railway, the case must be taken to be one of loss, even if the plaintiff may have framed the suit for non-delivery. In such a case, notice under Sec. 77 is necessary. AIR 1927 Pat 234 (FB) and AIR 1949 Pat 410 (FB), Rel. on.

Where a combined notice under Section 77 of the Railways Act and Section 80 of the Code of Civil Procedure is given that in itself does not vitiate the notice. AIR 1954 Pat 424, Rel. on. 1961 BLJR 223: 1961 Pat LR 26: ILR 40 Pat 921: AIR 1961 Pat 334 (338) (Pt E) (Pr 10) (DB).

——S. 77 — Combined notice under Section 77, Railways Act and Section 80, Civil P. C. — Validity.

Where a notice specifically states that it is a notice both under Section 77, Railways Act and Section 80, Civil P. C. and complies with all the requirements of Section 77, Railways Act and Section 80, Civil P. C., there is nothing illegal in such a combined notice. AIR 1952 Nag 22 and AIR 1952 Cal 439, Foll. 1954 BLJR 205: ILR 33 Pat 214: AIR 1954 Pat 424 (425) (Pr 5) (DB).

——S. 77 — Combined notice under Section 80 and Section 77 Railways Act (1890) — Validity — It is valid. See Civil P. C. (1908), Section 80. AIR 1964 Raj 41 (DB).

4. Notice, when not necessary.

See also Note 5.

——S. 77 — Cases where notice is not necessary. The principle is well settled that when certain duties or conditions are imposed by a statute, when those duties or conditions are not conditions precedent to the exercise of jurisdiction, they are subject to the maxim lex non comit ad impossibilis aut inutilia. They are understood as dispensing with the performance of what is prescribed when performance of it is idle or impossible.

Where in a case the Railway authorities take notice of a complaint and send an officer to investigate the claim and assess the damages and that officer after investigation and assessment fixes the amount of damages it would be futile for the consignee to send any further notice of the claim to the railway authorities. In the circumstances there is no further requirement of any notice under Section 77 of the Act and there is an estoppel against the Railway from pleading the absence of such a notice in bar of the suit. ILR (1955) 7 Assam 261: AIR 1955 Assam 221 (225) (Pt E) (Pr 9) (DB).

——S. 77 — Applicability — Suit for damages based on negligence in torts — Notice not necessary.

It is obvious that a contract and a tort belong to two different branches of the law. Though contractual or delictual duties differ in their juridical source, yet they may co-exist or concur in the same act, and when it is so, the wrong is both a breach of contract and a tort. Thus, where the Railway agrees to transport the goods of the plaintiffs, its liability arises out of contract. But if in carrying the goods, the Railway is negligent (and the suit filed against it is founded on negligence), it cannot escape liability under torts. And in the latter case no notice under Section 77 of the Railways Act is necessary, when the suit is based on negligence, and the relief sought is damages. AIR 1934 Pat 507 and AIR 1935 All 601, Foll. 1957 Jab LJ (MB) 129: AIR 1957 Madh Bha 111 (112, 113) (Prs 6, 9, 14).

——Ss. 77, 80, 74-C, 74-D — Administration not disclosing how consignment was dealt with — Consignee not in position to know whether goods were lost or destroyed in transit — Suit for non-delivery — Notice under Section 77 is not necessary.

Section 80 refers to cases where the goods are lost or destroyed in the course of transit. In such case, notice under Section 77 will certainly be necessary.

In the case of a suit for compensation for non-delivery of the goods, against the Union of India as representing the Railway Administration at the destination who ought to have delivered the goods, it is not necessary for the plaintiff to show that he has sent the notice of the claim under Section 77. Section 77 will apply to cases of loss or destruction of the goods in the course of transit and not to a case of mere non-delivery. When such a suit is brought, Railway Administration can set up the defence that it was not a case of mere non-delivery, but that the goods were lost or destroyed in transit. It is for the Railway Administration to prove in Court in such a suit that the goods were actually lost or destroyed in the course of the transit.

Where in the case of consignment of goods at owner's risk rate, the Railway administration did not disclose how the consignment was dealt with as it was bound to do under Sections 74-C and 74-D and the consignee was not in a position to know the causes for the non-delivery and as a result he could not bring a suit under Section 80 on the ground of loss or destruction of the goods as he did not know whether the goods were lost or destroyed in transit, his suit could be only on the ground of non-delivery. If in such a case the railway did not take any plea that the goods were lost or destroyed in transit nor was there evidence let in for the defence to prove the loss or destruction, no notice under Section 77 was necessary and the plaintiff could not be non-suited because no notice was sent. AIR 1961 Manipur 45 (47, 48, 49) (Pt D) (Prs 12, 14, 15, 19).

5. "Loss, destruction or deterioration.

●——S. 77 (before its amendment by Acts 56 of 1949 and 39 of 1961) — Non-delivery of consigned goods — Damages for — Cause of action is same as loss — Notice under Section 77 necessary — Held, on facts, that notice sent by party was sufficient.

The failure to deliver goods is the consequence of loss or destruction and the cause of action for it is not distinct from the cause of action for loss or destruction, and, therefore, notice under Section 77 is necessary in the case of non-delivery which arises from the loss of goods. AIR 1961 SC 725, Foll.

Held, on facts, that the notice given by the consignee stating that 60 bales of cloth were booked for him but only 29 bales had been delivered, that the balance of 31 bales had not been delivered and that if the bales were not delivered to him within a fortnight, he would file a suit for the recovery of Rs. 36,461-12-0, giving the details as to how the amount was arrived at amounted to a notice under Section 77 though it did not specifically state that it was a notice under that section. AIR 1962 SC 1879, Rel. on. Union of India v. Mahadeolal Prabhu Dayal, (1965) 3 SCR 145: ILR 45 Pat 599: AIR 1965 SC 1755 (1757) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——S. 77 — Applicability — Goods detained by railway — No loss alleged or proved — Effect.

Where a suit for damages is filed as against the Railway on the ground that goods which had been handed over to the Railway for carriage were not delivered to the plaintiff and had been detained by the Railway, Section 77 of the Railways Act is not attracted since the claim of the plaintiff is not based on the allegation that the goods had been lost and also because there is no proof whatsoever of loss. In such a case the want of notice under the aforesaid section does not bar the suit. 1959 All LJ 649: AIR 1960 All 131 (133) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——S. 77 — Loss — Meaning of — Loss means both loss by Railway and loss to owner. AIR 1959 All 732 (733) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——S. 77 — Applicability — Suit for compensation for non-delivery.

Per Mukerji J. (Agreeing with Beg, J.) — Section 77 does not apply to a case where a person seeks compensation for non-delivery or late delivery. A plaintiff suffers loss (1) (a) either when the goods are lost to the carrier because of their being stolen or (b) having been destroyed while the goods are in the hands of the carrier or (c) because of the deterioration of the goods in the hands of the carrier. A plaintiff also suffers loss (2) when the carrier (a) fails to deliver the goods to him or (b) delivers them very late. AIR 1952 All 891 (FB) and AIR 1952 All 897 (FB), Foll.

Per Desai, J. — Loss of a consignment is not quite the same thing as non-delivery of it. These words have no technical meaning: 'loss' means that the goods have been lost, i.e., become untraceable and cannot be got hold of, while 'non-delivery' simply means that they have not been delivered. If they have not been delivered on account of their having become untraceable, it is a case of loss rather than of non-delivery. AIR 1958 All 234 (238, 248, 252) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 35, 64) (DB).

——S. 77 — Notice.

Where in a suit for damages against a railway administration for non-delivery of a part of the consignment, the plaintiff establishes that the non-delivery was due to misconduct on the part of the railway administration and there is no finding that it was due to loss, destruction or deterioration, the suit cannot fail for want of notice under Section 77, Railways Act. AIR 1952 All 891 (FB), Foll. 1953 All LJ 55: 1953 All WR (HC) 107: AIR 1953 All 460 (461) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

●——S. 77 — Notice, necessity of — Non-delivery — Cause, not due to 'loss, destruction or deterioration' of goods.

Held, Non-delivery may be due to a variety of causes. When non-delivery is due to 'loss, destruction or deterioration' of goods then a notice under Section 77 of the Act is required, but if it is due to any other cause no such notice is necessary. "Loss" does not mean loss to the owner. AIR 1952 All 891 (FB), Foll. Mutsaddi Lal v. Governor-General. 1952 AWR (HC) 385: 1952 ALJ 451: ILR (1953) 2 All 654: AIR 1952 All 897 (898) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (FB).

[Reversed in AIR 1961 SC 725.]

●——S. 77 — Non-delivery of goods consigned to consignee — Inference from failure of Railway to show good cause — Suit for damages — Notice, when necessary — 'Loss', meaning of.

M the consignee of 562 bags of rice in 2 consignments from a station in B and A Railway to a station in the O and T Railway filed a suit for the price, etc., as damages on the ground that the goods were not delivered to him because they were wrongfully diverted and converted to the tangible loss of the plaintiff. The three railways over which the goods, had to be transported were impleaded as parties. One of the contentions of the defendants was that no notice under Section 77 was given. The trial Court found that the loss to the plaintiff arising out of non-delivery was due to the misconduct of the defendants' employees and decreed the suit.

The defendants' appeal was referred to a Full Bench as the word 'loss' in Section 77 was interpreted differently by different Courts and by the same Court differently at different times and consequently the requirement of notice also to the Railways under Section 77 in case of non-delivery of goods.

Held,: The word 'loss' as used in the section means not loss to the owner but loss by the Railway Administration; for if it meant loss to the owner there was no need for the words "destruction or deterioration" following the word loss.

Where non-delivery of goods is due to the loss of goods by the railway administration or their destruction or deterioration then only notice under Section 77 of the Act is necessary; but where non-delivery is due to any other reason then no notice is required. The whole case law reviewed. The Governor-General v. Mahabir Ram. 1952 AWR (HC) 376: 1952 ALJ 443: ILR (1953) 1 All 64: AIR 1952 All 891 (896) (Pt A) (Prs 40, 41) (FB).

[Overruled in AIR 1961 SC 725.]

——S. 77 — "Loss" — Claim based on non-delivery included.

The word "loss" in Section 77 of the Railways Act includes a claim made on the footing of non-delivery. It includes not only loss to the Railway but also loss to the consignee.

Where the consignee made a claim for short delivery but did not serve a notice under Section 77, Railways Act:

Held, that a notice under Section 77 was necessary without which the plaintiff could not succeed. 60 BLR 150. Foll. 1958 Nag LJ (Notes) 74.

——S. 77 — 'Loss' — Meaning of.

The word "loss" in Section 77 must include loss arising from whatever cause. Thus it includes a claim on the footing of non-delivery, or negligence, or wrongful detention or conversion on the part of the railway administration. 56 Bom LR 150: AIR 1954 Bom 297 (299) (Pt C) (Prs 9, 13).

——S. 77 — Notice under, is condition precedent in case of non-delivery of consignment. AIR 1961 SC 725, Foll. (1965) 69 Cal WN 692.

——S. 77 — Applicability — Non-delivery or short delivery of goods — Service of notice essential.

A plaintiff filing a suit against the Railway Administration for compensation is liable to serve notice under Section 77 of the Railways Act for loss caused to him both by non-delivery or short delivery of goods consigned by him and his failure to do so is fatal to the claim. AIR 1961 SC 725, Rel. on.

In the absence of evidence to show that the Railway Administration concerned had either expressly or by implication held out the Chief Commercial Manager as the officer authorised to receive notice under Section 77 of the Act; service of notice on him was held not good service. (1961) 3 All LR 370: 65 Cal WN 876: AIR 1962 Cal 42 (45) (Prs 15, 16) (DB).

——S. 77 — Applicability — Suit for compensation for non-delivery of part of consignment — Notice — Necessity.

The 'loss' in Section 77 means loss not for the consignor but the loss of the goods for the Railway. Non-delivery may be due to other causes than loss. The mere fact, therefore, that a part of the consignment was not delivered, is not sufficient to show that there was 'loss' within the meaning of Section 77. AIR 1926 Cal 612 and AIR 1958 Cal 434 and AIR 1924 Cal 725, Rel. on.

Where in a suit for compensation for non-delivery of part of the consignment, there was no admission of loss in the plaint, the written statement was also silent on the point of loss and the evidence also did not establish that there was loss of the goods by the railway:

Held, that Section 77 did not apply and the suit did not fail for want of notice under Section 77. AIR 1960 Cal 571 (571, 572) (Prs 3, 4).

——S. 77 — Loss — Burden of proof.

If it is merely a case of the railway seeking the protection of Section 77, it would be for the railway to establish that Section 77 applied and, therefore, it would be for the railway to establish further that the non-delivery was due to circumstances which made it a case of 'loss' within the meaning of the law. Where however, the plaintiff himself comes to Court with the case that Section 77 applied and avers that a proper notice under Section 77 has been served on the railway and the defendant railway takes up the position that the notice is invalid, it is impossible to say that any burden lies on the railway to show that the non-delivery would amount to loss. The plaintiff having taken up the position in his plaint that Section 77 does not apply, the burden is certainly on him to show this. AIR 1958 Cal 434 (436) (Pt C) (Pr 10) (DB).

——S. 77 — Non-delivery — Reasons — Burden of proof.

Where the arrangement was that the consignment would be carried only a part of the way by the defendant railway and from there upto its destination by the Pakistan Railway, the Pakistan Railway cannot, in law be considered to be the agent of the defendant and, therefore, the contention that the circumstances due to which a part of the consignment could not be delivered at a station within Pakistan were within the knowledge of the defendant cannot be accepted. AIR 1958 Cal 434 (436) (Pt D) (Pr 11) (DB).

——S. 77 — "Loss" — Meaning of — (Words and Phrases).

The word "loss" in Section 77 includes loss by the carrier as also to the owner whether for mis-delivery or for non-delivery. 60 Cal WN 683: ILR (1957) 3 Cal 713: AIR 1956 Cal 390 (393) (Pt D) (Pr 30) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 SC 1879.]

——S. 77 — Applicability — Loss of goods by theft.

Section 77, Railways Act, applies to a case where the Railway Administration say that they could not deliver the goods because they were lost by theft. Non-delivery would also include loss. AIR 1952 Cal 341 (343) (Pt C) (Pr 6).

——S. 77 — No loss alleged — Notice is not required.

The word 'loss' occurring in Section 77 does not mean loss to the owner but loss suffered by the railway administration. Where a non-delivery of goods is due to loss of goods by the Railway Administration, or to their deterioration or destruction, then only a notice under Section 77, Railways Act, is necessary, but where non-delivery of goods is due to any other reason then no such notice is required. When the suit is based on non-delivery of the goods, notice of claim is not necessary under Section 77. If it is known to the plaintiff and if the plaint is so framed that the plaintiff admits and bases his claim on the fact that the Railway has lost the property, then possibly, the question of notice under Section 77 may arise, otherwise a notice is not necessary. If the word 'loss' refers to the loss of railway, this section cannot apply to the case in which such loss is not alleged or admitted by the plaintiff. AIR 1954 Bom 297; AIR 1926 All 686; AIR 1926 All 698; AIR 1925 All 273; AIR 1923 Pat 285 and AIR 1949 Pat 410, Not foll. ILR (1955) Hyd 604: AIR 1956 Hyd 30 (30, 31) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——S. 77 — Hyderabad Railways Act, Section 46 — Word 'Loss' in Section 77 does not include non-delivery — Suit against Railway for compensation for non-delivery — Notice under Section 77 is not necessary — Notice expressly claiming compensation but not specifying any fixed and certain sum as compensation — Notice is insufficient compliance with Section 77. ILR (1952) Hyd 983: AIR 1953 Hyd 139 (140) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (DB).

——S. 77 — 'Loss' — Meaning of — Misdelivery is 'loss'. AIR 1919 Mad 140 and (1955) 1 Mad LJ 255 and AIR 1954 Bom 297 and AIR 1958 Andh Pra 475 and AIR 1921 Lah 1, Rel. on; 6 Punj Re 1897, Diss. from. 1930 Ker LJ 309: (1960) 1 Ker LR 513: ILR (1960) Ker 539: AIR 1960 Ker 306 (308) (Pt B) (Pr 11) (DB).

——S. 77 — Notice under Section 77, Railways Act is necessary in cases of compensation for short delivery also — Suit would not be maintainable if notice under Section 77 is given beyond six months of the booking of the goods.

Held, that a notice under Section 77 was a condition precedent to any claim covered by the section and it could not be dispensed with because its object was considered to have been otherwise served. An admission of short delivery did not dispense with an enquiry into the validity or invalidity of the notice under Section 77. AIR 1959 MP 276, Foll. The word 'loss' in the section includes loss arising from whatever cause. Thus, it included a claim on the footing of non-delivery or negligence or wrongful detention or conversion on the part of the Railway Administration. AIR 1961 SC 725, Rel. on. 1954 NLJ Note 278; 1957 MPLJ Note 169; AIR 1954 Bom 297 and AIR 1962 Cal 42, Foll. Where a suit was filed against the Railways and the notice under Section 77 was issued beyond six months of the booking of the goods, the suit was not maintainable. AIR 1962 MP 301, Foll. 1964 MPLJ (Notes) 25.

——S. 77 — Notice of claim for compensation for non-delivery — Subsequent late delivery of goods in deteriorated condition — Suit for compensation on basis of damage to goods — Validity of notice.

Section 77, Railways Act, prescribes no particular form of notice. All that it requires is that a claim for compensation shall be preferred to the railway administration in writing and that the said claim shall be preferred within six months from the date of delivery of the goods for carriage by the railway. Though the provisions of Section 77 of the Act are mandatory, and a suit for compensation for 'loss, destruction or deterioration of goods' is liable to fail if no notice is given, the object of the section is to prevent stale and possibly dishonest, claims for loss, destruction or deterioration being made against the railway administration. It is intended as a weapon of defence against fraud and not as a means to enable the railway authorities to deprive their customers of their just dues. Another important object of the section is the necessity of protecting the railways from groundless litigation. AIR 1930 Cal 332 and ILR 26 Bom 669, Rel. on.

Held, that in the instant case the goods had not arrived at their destination within the usual period in which they should have ordinarily arrived. The plaintiff firm could have no idea whether the goods had been lost or destroyed. Realizing that the period of six months was mandatory, the plaintiff firm rightly preferred a claim for compensation under Section 77 of the Railways Act on or about 28-6-1950. The notices served their purpose of preventing stale and possibly dishonest claims and of putting the railway administrations on enquiry, so that they could trace the consignment and check the allegations made by the plaintiff-firm. As, thereafter, the railway administrations took time to trace the consignment and offer it for delivery, no further notices in respect of that consignment were necessary, as the purpose of Section 77 of the Railways Act had been served. The further facts, that ultimately a delivery was made possible, even though late, because the consignment could be traced and redirected to the station of delivery and that the traced consignment had suffered damage due to deterioration, are all matters of default going to the assessment of exact compensation payable to the owner, with which the notice under Section 77 of the Railways Act is not concerned. Hence, the notices, dated 28-6-1950, amply complied with the provisions of Section 77 of the Railways Act. 1959 MPLJ 605: 1959 MPC 447: 1960 Jab LJ 1008: AIR 1959 Madh Pra 305 (307) (Pt A) (Prs 14, 15) (DB).

——S. 77 — Loss or deterioration — Short delivery as result of loss — Section 77 applies. AIR 1959 Madh Pra 276 (279) (Pt B) (Pr 15) (DB).

——S. 77 — Applicability — Suit for non-delivery.

Section 77, Railways Act, only applies to suits for loss, destruction or deterioration of goods. A suit for non-delivery of the goods is not affected by it. AIR 1949 Pat 268; AIR 1952 All 891, Foll. 1958 Jab LJ 412: 1958 MPC 281: 1958 MPLJ 500: 1957 MPLJ (Notes) 193: ILR (1957) Madh Pra 504: AIR 1958 Madh Pra 314 (316) (Pt D) (Pr 10) (DB).

——S. 77 — Short delivery result of loss — Notice — Necessity.

Notice under Section 77 of the Railways Act is necessary where the short delivery is the result of loss within the meaning of Section 77. AIR 1949 Cal 420; AIR 1954 Bom 297, Foll.; AIR 1924 Nag 288, Not foll. 1957 MPLJ (Notes) 169.

——Ss. 77 and 75 (1) — "Loss, destruction" — Meaning and proof indicated — AIR 1952 All 891 (FB) and AIR 1949 All 223 and AIR 1949 Pat 410 (FB), Dissented from. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), Section 75 (1). AIR 1956 Mad 483.

——S. 77 — 'Loss' — Meaning of.

The loss may result in any manner but so long as the claimant does not receive the goods as per the Railway receipt it must be considered as loss and a notice is required. So long as the goods are not delivered to him, he should consider it as a loss. He will be entitled to commence a proceeding only after the issue of a notice under Section 77. Section 77 of the Railways Act does apply to non-delivery also, when it is not known what happened to the goods and it is not necessary for the railway company to establish that the goods have been lost in the sense of being not recoverable from any one. AIR 1955 NUC (Mad) 2445.

——S. 77 — Applicability — Non-delivery.

Section 77 does not apply to a mere non-delivery. Where in a suit for compensation for goods not delivered to the consignee or not redelivered to the plaintiff-consignor, the defendant wants to oppose the claim on the ground that the plaintiff had submitted his claim beyond six months, it is incumbent on the defendant to prove that the goods had been lost, destroyed or deteriorated. AIR 1951 Mad 327 (328) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——S. 77 — Cases of non-delivery are not included.

The plain meaning of Section 77 is that the loss or destruction is of the goods and that too in the course of the transit after they were delivered to be carried. The loss or destruction is a thing which as a fact occurs in the course of transit. It can never mean the loss of the goods to the owner as a result of non-delivery thereby including cases of 'non-delivery' within the word 'loss'. AIR 1961 Manipur 45 (48) (Pt E) (Pr 16).

——S. 77 — Wrongful refusal to give delivery of goods — Suit for compensation — Notice — Necessity.

Where the consignment bore a wrong number due to fault of the railway authorities but there were no grounds for the railway administration at the destination station entertaining reasonable doubts as to the identity of the goods or to their having been consigned under the railway receipt produced by the consignee, refusal to deliver the goods to the consignee upon production of railway receipt after the arrival of the goods in spite of repeated attempts by the consignee to obtain delivery, cannot but be regarded as a wrongful refusal to deliver the goods to the person entitled to the delivery thereof. When a carrier wrongfully refuses to deliver goods to the person entitled to delivery thereof, he commits an act of conversion and in such a case, the rule of law that a consignee is bound to take delivery of the goods when the Railway administration offers to deliver them even if they are in a damaged condition when they arrived at the destination and that he should thereafter proceed to claim such compensation as he might be entitled to in respect of the injury caused to his goods has no application. In offering to deliver goods nearly four months after their arrival at destination, there is unjustifiable delay and the consignee is entitled to refuse to take delivery of goods of which there had been conversion. AIR 1928 Lah 804 and AIR 1927 Lah 471 & AIR 1925 All 656, Relied on. Where the consignment was named as 'self' and the consignor had made a blank endorsement on the railway receipt and had forwarded to another at destination station to take delivery, the endorsement in favour of another is only for limited purpose of enabling him to take delivery and it does not establish the fact that the endorsee has become the owner of the goods by purchase. In such a case a suit for compensation for conversion of goods is maintainable by the consignor.

The question as to when the title to the goods stands transferred from a seller to a buyer, even in cases where it could be said there was a sale of the goods, depends upon the intention of the parties to be deduced from the terms of the contract, the conduct of the parties and the circumstances of the case. If it was the intention of the railway administration to establish that the consignor had become divested of his title to the goods and that he had sold the goods to another and that the title had passed from the consignor to him it is incumbent on the railway administration to allege affirmatively these facts and to prove the transfer of title in the goods. Such a suit being not a suit for the recovery of compensation for loss, destruction or deterioration of the goods, but being one for compensation for conversion it need not be preceded by a notice under Section 77, Railways Act. AIR 1921 Lah 1 (FB) and AIR 1927 Lah 471, Relied on. 38 Mys LJ 301: ILR (1959) Mys 961: AIR 1960 Mys 283 (285, 286, 287) (Prs 17, 20, 23, 25, 27, 29, 30) (DB).

——S. 77 — 'Loss' — Meaning — Non-delivery or short delivery — Notice — Whether necessary.

The word 'loss' in Section 77 can never mean loss to the owner. In its natural sense it would only mean that the goods have disappeared in the course of transit and neither the railway nor the consignor nor the consignee are or is in a position to trace them either in specific or to some demonstrable cause such as misconduct on the part of any servants of the railway or theft, incendiarism, etc. A distinction ought to be drawn between a case where the railway being in possession of the goods deliberately withheld the goods which they may deliver if they chose to do so, and a case where the goods are lost and are no longer in their possession. Where the goods were unlawfully detained by the railway, no notice under Section 77 would be necessary but such notice would be necessary if the non-delivery was not a result of such detention. AIR 1952 All 891 (FB) and AIR 1923 Cal 397, Rel. on.

Principles of burden of proof are of relevance only for deciding whether or not liability exists. They could have no bearing on the question of the need or otherwise for a notice under Section 77. AIR 1951 Mad 327, Dissent. from. Notice is required to be given to the railway within a reasonable time in order to enable them to make enquiries and if possible to recover the goods. That also is the justification for holding that no notice is necessary in cases of unlawful detention of the goods by the railway because the purpose for which notice is required does not exist. The railways already have the goods in their possession and, therefore, do not stand in need of any notice to enable them to trace them. AIR 1919 Mad 140 and 1955 Mad WN 171, Rel. on.

Where in a suit for compensation for short delivery against the Railway, the report of the Claims Inspector disclosed that one of the bales consigned was found loose at the destination and the stitches on it appeared to have been removed and subsequently restitched.

Held, that it was only a case where goods were not forthcoming and nobody had tried to trace them. It was exactly in situations like this that notice under Section 77 was necessary with a view to enable the railway to trace the goods, if it could. 36 Mys LJ 655: ILR (1958) Mys 481: AIR 1959 Mys 13 (16, 17) (Pt C) (Prs 10 to 14).

——S. 77 — Claim for non-delivery of goods received and not lost, destroyed or deteriorated — Notice is not necessary. ILR (1953) Mys 489: 32 Mys LJ 74: AIR 1954 Mys 57 (57) (Pr 2).

——S. 77 — Non-delivery — "Loss" is included — Notice under Section 77 is necessary. See Railways Act (1890), Section 72 (old). ('52) 1952 Nag LJ (Notes) 145.

——S. 77 — Section (before 1961 amendment) was applicable even if there was complete non-delivery of goods. AIR 1961 SC 725, Foll. 28 Cut LT 331: ILR (1962) Cut 402: AIR 1963 Orissa 54 (55) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 8) (DB).

——S. 77 — Non-delivery of part of goods — Notice — Necessity.

No notice under Section 77 is necessary in case of non-delivery. If a part of the consignment is not delivered, it is prima facie a case of non-delivery irrespective of the question whether the part not delivered is a full package or is a part of it which, in its turn, forms a part of the full consignment. 1959 BLJR 737: 1959 Pat LR 280: AIR 1960 Pat 150 (151, 152) (Prs 4, 5).

——S. 77 — Claim based on non-delivery — Notice.

Held, on facts that, while there could be no doubt that the plaintiff must serve a notice under Section 77 if he admits that the goods have been lost in the circumstances of this case, it was clear that the plaintiff had not made an admission that the goods had been lost and the plaintiff having claimed on the basis of non-delivery no notice under Section 77 was necessary according to the well settled law, so far as the Patna High Court was concerned. AIR 1927 Pat 234 (FB) and AIR 1949 Pat 410 (FB), Distinguished. AIR 1958 Pat 536 (537) (Prs 6, 7).

——Ss. 77 and 80 — Applicability and scope — Claim for non-delivery and claim for loss of goods — Difference.

There is a difference between a claim on the basis of non-delivery and claim on the basis of loss of goods. The two claims stand on different footing. AIR 1929 Pat 109 and AIR 1949 Pat 268, Rel. on. Where the claim is purely one for non-delivery the principles of Section 80 cannot be made applicable so as to entitle the defendant to have the suit dismissed on that ground. 1958 Pat LR 58: ILR 37 Pat 442: AIR 1958 Pat 489 (490) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——S. 77 — Notice under — Notice relating to non-delivery combined with non-delivery due to loss or destruction — Held, sufficient compliance with Section 77.

If it is the law that it is not open to a person to give notice until he is certain on the point whether it is a pure case of non-delivery or of non-delivery due to loss or destruction, it might become too late for him to give such notice at all, for the knowledge might come to him much more than six months after the goods were delivered for transport. Where, therefore, a person combines both these notices in one notice given at a stage when it is not possible for him to decide whether it is a pure case of non-delivery or the other, the notice is sufficient under Section 77 to entitle him to sue for non-delivery due to loss or non-delivery: AIR 1949 Pat 410, Ref. AIR 1951 Pat 219 (223) (Pt B) (Pr 11) (DB).

——S. 77 — Applicability and scope — Suit for damages for non-delivery of goods — Subsequent knowledge of existence of goods and delivery — Effect.

On a strict perusal of the provisions of Section 77, Railways Act, no consignee can be entitled to compensation for deterioration of goods unless he has within six months of the date of the despatch of the goods, sent to the appropriate railway authorities a claim for compensation for deterioration, that is, he cannot be granted damages for deterioration if he has merely filed a claim within time for loss or destruction of goods. Where, however, in a suit for damages for non-delivery of goods, the first intimation which the plaintiff received that the railway administrations had any knowledge of the consignment or had any part of the consignment in its possession, was, when the written statement was filed on behalf of the Railway nine months after the suit was instituted, and it was only after that, when delivery was taken that the plaintiff became aware of the deterioration of the goods:

Held, that the railway authorities could not take the benefit of Section 77. Held, also, that up to the moment when the suit was instituted it was a suit based on non-delivery of goods in which case no notice under Section 77 was necessary. The subsequent revelation that part of the consignment was still available did not make any difference. 60 Pun LR 355: AIR 1958 Punj 270 (272) (Pt A) (Prs 10, 12) (DB).

——S. 77 — Loss — Meaning.

The term loss in Section 77 does not include non-delivery of the goods and, therefore, in a suit against a Railway administration for the value of goods delivered to the administration to be carried by railway, when the suit is based upon non-delivery of those goods, notice of claim is not necessary in the manner provided by Section 77. AIR 1953 Punj 184, Foll. ILR (1958) Punj 467: AIR 1958 Punj 149 (150) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 Punj 262.]

——S. 77 — Notice — Non-delivery not result of loss, destruction or deterioration — Suit for compensation — Notice under Section 77 is not necessary. AIR 1955 NUC (Punj) 4954 (DB).

——S. 77 — Applicability — Suit based upon non-delivery of goods — Notice of claim — If necessary.

Per Full Bench.— In a suit against a railway administration for the value of goods consigned to the railway administration for carriage, when the suit is based upon non-delivery to the plaintiff of those goods, notice of the claim is not necessary in the manner provided by Section 77 of the Railways Act. The term "loss" occurring in that section does not include non-delivery.

Per Weston, C. J. — "It is of course possible for every consignee who has not obtained delivery to base his suit on non-delivery. It is then open to the railway administration to plead and prove that there has been loss or destruction of the goods and that their liability, therefore, is limited by Sections 151 and 152 of the Contract Act. In such event the railway administration can avoid all liability to pay if a claim to compensation within six months from the date of delivery for carriage has not been made. If, however, the railway administration is not able to establish that the non-delivery was due to loss or destruction of the goods then Section 77 would not apply". 54 PLR 398: AIR 1953 Punj 184 (184, 187) (Pt B) (Prs 1, 26, 28) (DB).

——S. 77 — Short delivery — Notice — Propriety of — (Compensation — Notice).

In the case of a suit for compensation for short delivery of the goods no notice is necessary under Section 77, if short delivery is not the result of loss. AIR 1951 Punj 383 (385, 386) (Pt B) (Prs 17, 25).

——S. 77 — Word "loss" includes case of non-delivery — Service by notice is obligatory. AIR 1965 Raj 127 (128) (Prs 4, 5).

——S. 77 — Loss — Meaning of — Notice is necessary only where non-delivery is due to loss, deterioration or destruction. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 4064 (DB).

——S. 77 — Non-delivery of goods.

The word "loss" in Section 77 does not include "loss to owner". In its context, it clearly signifies loss by the Railway. If the cases are of non-delivery no notice under Section 77 was necessary. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 312 (DB).

6. Form and contents of notice.

●——S. 77 (as it stood prior to amending Act of 1961) — Notice under — Object of —Construction of notice — Liberal construction favoured — Letter bringing to notice of railway administration non-delivery of part consignment and also requesting it to take appropriate action without delay — Sufficient notice for purpose of Section 77 — Claim for compensation must be deemed to be implied in notice.

In enacting Section 77 the intention of the legislature must have been to afford only a protection to the railway administration against fraud and not to provide a means for depriving the consignors of their legitimate claims for compensation for the loss of or damage caused to their consignments during the course of transit on the railways. Bearing in mind the object of the section a notice under S. 77 should be liberally construed. AIR 1930 Cal 332, Ref.

Where within 6 months of booking the consignment, the consignor brought to the notice of the railway administration by a letter that part of the consignment had not reached the destination and requested the General Manager of the Railway to make a search for the goods without delay;

Held, (per Majority: Sarkar, J., contra) that the letter amounts to a sufficient notice for the purposes of Section 77. A claim for compensation must be deemed to be implied in the notice. The consignor must be regarded as making it clear that he would be holding the railway administration to its contractual engagement which necessarily involves the payment of damages for breach of that engagement. Therefore, not only the object underlying Section 77 is satisfied by the letter but also a claim for compensation is implied in that letter.

Per Sarkar, J., Contra:— The section (Section 77) requires a claim to compensation to be preferred. A letter asking that a search for the goods be made and they be delivered does not comply with Section 77. Such a letter is not in terms of the section nor does it serve the purpose of the section. The letter does not amount to any claim against the railway administration by necessary implication: AIR 1947 Mad 362 and AIR 1954 Bom 297, Rel. on. Jetmull Bhojraj v. Darjeeling Himalayan Railway Co., Ltd., (1963) Mad LJ (SC) 89: (1963) 1 Andh WR (SC) 89: (1963) 1 SCJ 505: (1963) 2 Andh LT 80: (1963) 2 SCR 832: 1963 SCD 509: AIR 1962 SC 1879 (1881, 1884) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 20, 21).

——S. 77 — Notice under — Requirements of — Cause of action of claim need not be mentioned.

Section 77 only requires that the plaintiff should prefer a claim to the railway administration. No form is prescribed nor does the section require that the cause of action of the claim be mentioned in the notice. Where the notice preferred a claim on the railway administration, and there was no evidence that the railway administration was in any manner misled by the notice or that if the notice had mentioned the correct number of the railway receipts, the railway administration would have averted the suit by setting the claim outside Court; Held, that the notice under Sction 77 was valid in law. 1964 All WR (HC) 54.

——S. 77 — Preferring of claim — What constitutes — One railway company sending copy of notice of claim preferred to another company — There is no preferring of claim to latter company. AIR 1959 All 732 (733) (Pt C) (Pr 6).

——S. 77 — Notice of claim — What is.

Per Desai, J.:— Every correspondence or every letter of inquiry cannot be treated as a notice of claim; it may not be necessay to specify the exact amount claimed but there must be some sort of a claim. An inquiry is not the same thing as a claim and cannot be treated as a substitute for it. Making a claim is quite distinct from making an enquiry, so long as there is not communication of any intention to hold the railway administration liable for the loss, it cannot amount to lodging a claim before it. AIR 1958 All 234 (241) (Pt E) (Pr 9) (DB).

——S. 77 — Form of notice.

Section 77 merely requires that a demand for compensation should be made, but it nowhere prescribes that the money value of the claim should be stated or that the claimant should notify that he intends to bring an action. ILR (1955) 7 Assam 261: AIR 1955 Assam 221 (224) (Pt D) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Ss. 77 and 140 — Person to whom notice has to be sent.

The claim should be preferred in writing to the railway administration and "railway administration", as defined in Section 3 (6) of the Act, in the case of a railway administered by a Government or a State, means the Manager of the Railway and includes the Government or the State.

Under Section 140, a notice or other document required or authorised by the Act to be served on a railway administration may be served, in the case of a railway administered by the Government, on the Manager. The object of the notice on the Manager is simply to give an opportunity to the railway administration to enquire immediately into the complaint. The claim may be preferred to subordinate officers also who are authorised to entertain it. There is nothing to prevent the Manager from delegating such power to any subordinate officer. Section 140 is merely an enabling section which was enacted to help claimants, and not to assist the railway administration to put up a disingenuous defence. If the notice is served within its terms, the railway has no answer. It does not matter whether any individual officer knew about it or not. It is sufficient compliance with Section 77 if, in fact, notice has been given to the railway administration.

The plaintiff suspecting damage demanded open delivery well within the period of six months from the date of consignment by a letter addressed to the Deputy Traffic Superintendent (Claims). Open delivery was given by an officer who at the same time assessed the damages. The suit for recovery of the damages was resisted by the Railway on the ground that there was no notice under Section 77 and even if there was, it was illegal and ineffective because it was not given to the Deputy Commercial Manager who they claimed was the proper officer. The plaintiff on the contrary alleged the Deputy Traffic Superintendent also had the authority to entertain claims and led in evidence to that effect. The Railway though it was easy for them to have placed evidence before the Court to show who was the proper officer and whether the authority had been delegated to any other failed to do so.

Held, (i) that the demand for open enquiry was to be treated as a claim under Section 77 if the position that the period of limitation commenced from the date of consignment was accepted.

(ii) that in view of the fact that the evidence of plaintiff's witness stood unrebutted, and in the circumstances of the case, the reasonable inference was that the claim had been communicated within the period provided by the statute to an officer authorised to entertain it.

(iii) that the mere fact that a notice which was more in the nature of a notice under Section 80, Civil P. C. than a claim under Section 77 was sent by the plaintiff subsequently to some other officer did not necessarily indicate that no other officer was authorised to entertain a claim under Section 77 of the Act, and did not contradict the statement of the plaintiff's witness. AIR 1955 NUC (Assam) 2044 (Pt C).

——S. 77 — Form of notice — Money value of claim need not be stated — Claimant need not notify that he intends to bring action. AIR 1955 NUC (Assam) 2044 (Pt D) (DB).

——S. 77 — Notice — Demand for compensation — Mention of.

A notification of a claim under Section 77 must of necessity contain a demand for compensation, but the exact amount of compensation claimed need not be mentioned. The notice of claim should not be construed with extreme strictness; but at the same time there must be a substantial compliance with the provisions of the Act. 56 Bom LR 150: AIR 1954 Bom 297 (298) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——S. 77 — Letter addressed to Railway administration wherein, the consignor says that the consignment has not been delivered according to contract between him and Railway — Consignor must be regarded as making it clear that he would be holding the Railway to its contractual engagement which necessarily involved payment of damages for breach of that engagement — Not only object underlying Section 77 is satisfied but also a claim for compensation is implied in the letter. AIR 1962 SC 1879, Relied on. (1965) 69 Cal WN 692.

——S. 77 — Notice — Form of — Requests for enquiry and delivery.

Requests for enquiry and for early delivery of the goods which could not be traced cannot be taken as notice of a claim for compensation. 60 Cal WN 683: ILR (1957) 3 Cal 713: AIR 1956 Cal 390 (393) (Pt F) (Pr 31) (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1962 SC 1879.]

——S. 77 — All particulars except place of destination correctly given — Notice — If valid.

The requirements of Section 77, as to notice are that a person should make his claim to the refund or compensation in writing within six months from the date of delivery of the animals or goods. The section requires nothing else. Any defect which relates to minor particulars in a notice would not vitiate the notice. The notice is not invalidated merely because the plaintiff mentions a wrong place of destination, when the plaintiff had mentioned all other particulars correctly namely, the number of railway receipt, the place of dispatch etc. Under certain circumstances, the notice might be vitiated due to a wrong mention of the place of despatch, which might prevent the Railway administration from making enquiry or from taking any further action in regard to the notice of a claim made by a plaintiff. Such cases might be exceptional ones, but, then each case would have to be decided upon its own facts. AIR 1959 Madh Pra 232 and AIR 1959 Madh Pra 305 and AIR 1954 Nag 342, Foll. 1961 MPLJ (Notes) 310: 1965 Jab LJ 1097: ILR (1961) Madh Pra 173: AIR 1961 Madh Pra 220 (221, 222, 223) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 9, 14, 16).

——S. 77 — Civil Procedure Code (1908), Section 80 — Validity of notice — Notice vitiated by defect which prevented Railway from locating consignment — Notice mentioning all particulars correctly but mentioning erroneous place of destination is not vitiated.

A notice under Section 77 of the Railways Act and Section 80, Civil Procedure Code would not be vitiated by a defence which relates to minor particulars therein. Further the indequacy or invalidity of a notice has got to be pleaded and where the defence alleges inadequacy or invalidity of a notice under Section 77, Railways Act, and Section 80, Civil Procedure Code, a Court is not justified in considring the invalidity of the defect suo motu unless the facts are established. A notice would not be invalidated merely because the plaintiff mentions a wrong place of destination when all other particulars, namely, the number of Railway Receipt and the place of despatch have been mentioned correctly: 1961 MPLJ 756: AIR 1960 MP 305; 1961 MPLJ 263 & AIR 1954 Nag 342. Foll.; AIR 1949 Nag 394; AIR 1928 Cal 697 and AIR 1960 Cal 400. Rel. on. AIR 1946 Mad 77 and AIR 1959 All 168, Not foll.

Held, on facts that the defect did not invalidate the notice since there was nothing which prevented the Railway administration from enquiring about the location of the consignment. 1961 MPLJ (Notes) 310: 1962 MPLJ 512: ILR (1961) Madh Pra 173: AIR 1961 Madh Pra 220 (223) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 9, 14).

——S. 77 — Suit by members of Hindu joint family carrying on business in name of their shop — Statutory notices given in name of shop and not in plaintiffs' name — Suit not maintainable — Civil P. C. (1908), Section 80.

Where individuals carry on business in some name and style other than their own, they must bring their suit against Railway Administration in their own name and the statutory notices under Section 77 of Railways Act and Section 80 of Civil P. C. given by them, to be valid, must also be in their own name.

Where the plaintiffs suing the Railway Administration for damages for non-delivery of goods are members of a Hindu joint family carrying on their business in the name of their shop, the statutory notices referred to above must be given either by the manager of the family in his own name or by the plaintiffs, if the contract was entered into in thier names and not in the name in which they carry on business. When therefore, the statutory notices are given in the name of the shop and not in their own names, the suit by them is not maintainable. AIR 1961 SC 449, Rel. on. 1962 MPLJ 682: 1962 Jab LJ 869: ILR (1963) Madh Pra 926.

——S. 77 — Notice—Validity of — Wrong number of Railway receipt mentioned in notice to administration — Error if fatal — C. P. Code (1908), Section 80.

Held on facts that what Section 77 of the Railways Act and Section 80, C. P. Code required was that a notice giving the particulars of the claim, the cause of action and the names of the parties ought to be issued to the Railway Administration concerned, so that they may have a reasonable opportunity of settling the claim even before filing of the suit. Substantial compliance with the requirements of the sections would be enough. The mere fact that a wrong number of the railway receipt was mentioned while all other particulars were correctly stated would not affect the merits of the plaintiff's claim or the question relating to the tenability of the suit on the ground of invalidity of the notice. 1954 NLJ 512; 1959 MPLJ 749: AIR 1959 MP 232; 1959 MPLJ 605: AIR 1959 MP 305 and C. R. No. 88 of 1960, Foll (1950) 5 DLR All 365, Not foll. 1961 MPLJ (Notes) 76.

——S. 77 — Wrong place of despatch mentioned in the notice — Notice, if invalidated.

Notice under Section 77 of the Railways Act and Section 80 of the Civil Procedure Code wrongly mentioned the place of despatch of certain goods as Calcutta instead of the correct name as A Ghat. The Railway authorities had delivered two packages out of the consignment and the claim suit was only in respect of the remaining one package. The trial Court dismissed the claim holding the notices to be invalid.

Held, if there was substantial compliance with the provisions of Section 77 of the Railways Act and Section 80 of the Civil Procedure Code, the notice was not invalidated. The error in the notice not being substantial, the same would not invalidate the notice. AIR 1954 Nag 342: 1954 NLJ 512; 1959 MPLJ 605: AIR 1959 MP 305: 1959 MPLJ 749: AIR 1959 MP 232 and AIR 1960 Cal 400, Foll. Merely because the applicant mentioned a wrong place of despatch in the notice, the same did not in fact and could not reasonably prevent the Railway administration from holding an enquiry and taking action in the matter of settlement of the claim, as two pacakges had been delivered at the place of destination while only one remained to be delivered. Making an enquiry from the place of destination was all that was required on the part of the Railway administration. AIR 1959 All 168, Dist. 1960 MPLJ (Notes) 210.

——S. 77 — Notice in name of firm instead of in names of partners — Notice not defective. AIR 1958 Madh Pra 314 (315) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

——S. 77 — Letters written to Administration informing it of non-receipt of consignment and requesting it to arrange for early delivery — No claim for compensation made — No intimation that goods had been lost or destroyed — Letters cannot be treated as notices under Section 77. AIR 1961 Manipur 45 (47) (Pt C) (Pr 11).

——S. 77 — Suit against railway — That the consignment was booked to station B wrongly stated, instead of station A — Objection by defendant on ground that in notices under Section 80, Civil P. C. and S. 77, Railways Act also which Court could not correct, the place mentioned was B — Amendment held should be allowed and that carelessness was not sufficient to warrant refusal and that the question of the effect of the notice was still open for the decision by the Court. 1952 Nag LJ (Notes) 74.

——S. 77 — Civil P. C. (1908), Section 80 — Suit against railway for non-delivery of consignment — Failure to state correctly name of railway station from which consignment is booked is fatal defect. AIR 1961 Pat 334, Rel. on. AIR 1964 Pat 373 (374) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——S. 77 — Scope — Loss of consignment — Notice under Section 77 and under Section 80, C. P. Code — Place of consignment not correctly stated — If fatal.

Failure to state correctly the name of the railway station from which the consignment is booked, in the notices under Section 77 of the Railways Act and Section 80 of the Code of Civil Procedure is a fatal defect because it affects the cause of action. AIR 1949 Pat 93, Rel. on. 1961 BLJR 223: 1961 Pat LR 26: ILR 40 Pat 921: AIR 1961 Pat 334 (336) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Ss. 77, 140 — Civil P. C. (1908), O. 5, Rule 12 and O. 41, Rr. 14 and 21 — Service of notice of appeal — Respondent East Indian Railway — Notice sent to Chief Administrative Officer, East Punjab Railway instead of to Manager, East Indian Railway — Information of notice given to Chief Commercial Manager, East Indian Railway, Banaras Cantonment — Validity.

A notice of appeal was issued to the Chief Administrative Officer, East Punjab Railway, Delhi, instead of to the Manager of the respondent, East Indian Railway. The Chief Administrative Officer, East Punjab Railway informed the Court by a letter that the notice had been received in his office and that a copy of the memorandum of appeal should be sent for defending the appeal. It was noted at the bottom of this letter that a copy of the letter had also been sent to the Chief Commercial Manager, East Indian Railway, Banaras Cantonment.

Held, that the piece of information vague and private as it was conveyed by the Chief Administrative Officer, East Punjab Railway to the Chief Commercial Manager, East Indian Railway, Banaras Cantonment did not in law amount to the service of notice of appeal on him. There was no evidence to show that the original notice itself or a copy of it had been sent to the Chief Commercial Manager, East Indian Railway, Banaras Cantonment and even if a copy of the notice had been sent along with the letter it could not amount to a service of notice on him.

Further, there was no evidence whatsoever that the Chief Commercial Manager, East Indian Railway, Banaras Cantonment apart from dealing with the claim advanced under Section 77, Railways Act, had also then an authority to act and receive notice of suits or appeals on behalf of the Manger East Indian Railway Administration. Therefore, the rule of law applicable to the Chief Commercial Manager regarding the notice under Section 77 read with Section 140, Railways Act cannot be applicable in his favour in regard to the service of notice relating to a suit or appeal.

That being so, the information communicated to the Chief Commercial Manager, East Indian Railway, Banaras Cantonment in the form of a copy of letter sent by the Chief Administrative Officer, East Punjab Railway was not equivalent to the service of notice of appeal on the Manager, East Indian Railway Administration. AIR 1956 Pat 511 (513, 514) (Pt B) (Prs 5, 6) (DB).

——S. 77 — Scope — Section is mandatory — Notice not mentioning section — Notice not bad — Notice under Section 80 invalid — Notice under Section 77, Railways Act, fulfilling requirements of both sections — Suit cannot be thrown out. See Civil P. C. (1908), Section 80. AIR 1964 Raj 41 (DB).

7. Claim for refund of overcharges.

——S. 77 — 'Overcharge' — Meaning — Suit for refund of excess freight (overcharge) — Notice not given — Effect.

The word 'overcharge' was not defined in the Railways Act and is to be construed in a wide sense. An overcharge would mean a charge which is more than the charge permitted by law. A claim for refund of overcharge was not maintainable in the absence of a notice under Section 77 of the Railways Act. (1959) Nag LJ (Notes) 92.

8. Through booked traffic — Notice to one of several railways.

See also Railways Act (1890), Ss. 80 and 140.

●——S. 77 (as it stood prior to amending Act of 1961) — Through booked traffic — Notice under Section 77 must be given to every railway administration against whom suit is eventually filed. Jetmull Bhojraj v. Darjeeling Himalayan Railway Co., Ltd. (1963) 1 Mad LJ (SC) 89:(1963) 1 An WR (SC) 89: (1963) 1 SCJ 505: (1963) 2 Andh LT 80: (1963) 2 SCR 832: 1963 SCD 509: AIR 1962 SC 1879 (1885) (Pt B) (Pr 22).

——Ss. 77, 80 (before its amendment by Act 39 of 1961) — Scope of — Goods consigned to Railway A to be delivered at a place on Railway B — Liability for loss — Notice under Section 77 to be given to each railway.

It is clear from Section 80 of the Act that only two of the railway administrations are liable for damages or compensation i.e., the railway administration with which the consignor entered into a contract for carriage of the goods; or the railway over whose lines the loss occurred. The section treats each of the railway administration as a separate entity with separate existence and personality and unless the railway system, which is sought to be mulcted with damages has notice of it, it would not be in a position to enquire into the matter. The notice issued to another railway administration would be of no help whatsoever in regard to the matter indicated in that section, and there is no scope for creating a fiction that service of notice on one of the Railway Administrations is service on all the railway administrations. (1959) 2 Andh WR 403; AIR 1959 Andh Pra 594, Rel. on. Further, Sec. 80 is not prohibitory, but an enabling section and under it no suit will lie against a railway company to whom goods were not entrusted, unless it to be proved that the loss occurred while the goods were in their custody. Union of India v. Eastern Match Co., AIR 1964 Andh Pra 172 (182) (Pt D) (Prs 61, 62) (DB).

——Ss. 77, 80 (Before its amendment in 1961). — C. P. Code (1908), Ss. 79, 80 — Goods consigned on railway A for delivery on railway B — Goods destroyed by fire in godown of A — Notice by consignor under Section 77 to A — Consignor directed to contact Railway B — Further notice under Section 80, C. P. Code given by consignor to B and suit brought against B by both consignor and consignee — Held that there was no compliance with Section 80, C. P. Code — Suit also held bad for non-joinder, for no cause of action and dismissed — Railway A also held not estopped under Section 115, Evidence Act.

Held, on facts that when the notice under Section 80, C. P. Code was given only on behalf of the first plaintiff and the plaint was in the name of both the plaintiffs, the consignor and consignee it could not be held that Section 80, C. P. Code was complied with. (1962) 1 Andh WR (SC) 69: (1962) 1 SCJ 115: AIR 1961 SC 1449 Rel. on. (2) That as the goods were destroyed on railway A and not when on railway B, it was incumbent upon the plaintiffs to have sent the notice under Section 80 C. P. Code, and sued the Union of India represented by the General Manager of Railway A. In the instant case, the notice served under Section 80, C, P. Code even on behalf of the 1st plaintiff was served only upon the General Manager of Railway B. Under the circumstances, it must be held that the suit was not properly framed, that it was not maintainable against the defendant who was sued, and that as against him there was no cause of action. (1963) 1 SCJ 505; (1963) 1 Mad LJ (SC) 89; (1963) 1 Andh WR (SC) 89; AIR 1962 SC 1879, Distinguished. (3) that even though the objections as to the non-maintainability of the suit and the absence of a cause of action against the defendants were raised in the written statement the plaintiff had not taken any steps to rectify them. Further, the suit was barred by limitation on the date of application for amendment.

There was, therefore, no case for allowing the application for addition of party or for amendment of the cause title. (4) That even if the Railway A had directed the consignor to contact Railway B, none of the requirements of Section 115, Evidence Act, were satisfied in the case. There was no declaration, act or omission by which A caused or permitted the plaintiffs to believe that they were not liable, or that the liability was only that of the Railway B. For the sake of administrative convenience it might be that the claim was investigated and examined by the Railway B, but that cannot have the effect of abrogating the statutory provisions cited above, nor creating an estoppel. It is well known that there can be no estoppel against a statute. (5) That even on merits the plaintiff's claim was not sustainable as the fire which destroyed the goods was accidental and there was no negligence on part of Railway A. AIR 1964 Andh Pra 172 (183, 184, 185) (Pt L) (Prs 66 to 70) (DB).

——Ss. 77, 80 and 140 — Service of notice on one Railway Administration — Sufficiency — Section 80 — Effect of.

Section 80 gives an option to the aggrieved party to sue either the Railway system with which he has entered into a contract of carriage or the Railway Administration over whose lines damages were caused to the goods. There is no scope for creating a fiction that service of notice on one of the Railway Administrations is service on all the Railway Administrations. Any Railway administration against whom relief is sought must be served with notice under Section 77 of the Indian Railways Act and failure to do so will disentitle the aggrieved party to maintain a suit for any of the relief mentioned in that section. (1959) 2 Andh WR 403: 1959 Andh LT 817: ILR (1959) Andh Pra 879: AIR 1959 Andh Pra 594 (595, 596) (Prs 7, 11, 18) (DB).

——S. 77 — Consignment to be carried on two railways — Non-delivery — Letter requesting enquiry, sent to one of railways and its copy to the other for information and action — Copy is not notice to other railway.

Where a letter containing a request for an enquiry into the non-delivery of a consignment to be carried over railway administrations of Eastern Railway and North Eastern Railway, is sent to Eastern Railway, a copy of the same sent to the North Eastern Railway for information and action is not a notice under Section 77 to the North Eastern Railway. for such a copy neither carries a request for an enquiry by North Eastern Railway nor a claim for compensation from that Railway. (1965) 69 Cal WN 692.

——S. 77 — Applicability — Consignment of goods to railway in Pakistan for delivery at station on Indian Railway — Notice of claim — Necessity.

Section 77, Railways Act, requires that before making a claim on account of the loss, destruction or deterioration of his goods, the consignor must prefer a claim in writing to the Railway Administration within six months from the date of the delivery of the goods for carriage by railway. The expressions 'Railway Administration' and 'Railway' can only refer to railway systems carrying on business within Indian Union and not to any foreign railway administration or foreign railway.

Where the goods were consigned and delivered for carriage to a railway situate in Pakistan and the goods were delivered on a station on the Indian Railway.

Held, that Section 77, Railways Act, was not applicable to carriage to a railway situate in Pakistan and the goods to the forwarding railway at the border station within the meaning of Section 77, Railways Act and, therefore, it was not necessary to serve any notice of the claim under Section 77 of the Railways Act. 1960 SCJ 543; AIR 1960 SC 233. Dist. 1961 Cal LJ 61: AIR 1961 Cal 542 (544) (Prs 11, 13) (DB).

——Ss. 77 and 80 — Contract of carriage — Consignment of goods to East Bengal Railway belonging to Pakistan — Delivery to be made by East Indian Railway belonging to Union of India — Contract whether binding on latter — Claim for non-delivery against latter administration — Liability of — Onus of proof — Evidence Act (1872). Sections 106 and 114 — Contract Act (1872). Sections 152, 161 and 182.

The plaintiff, an endorsee of a railway receipt brought a suit for compensation for non-delivery of goods against the Union of India as the owner of the East Indian Railway. The consignor who had consigned certain goods to self did not pay the entire freight when he booked and delivered the goods at the Dohazari Station on the East Bengal Railway in Pakistan but some freight was to be paid at the destination station at the time of taking delivery from the E. I. Railway at the Ballygunge Station.

Held, (i) that the contract with the East Bengal Railway at Dohazari was one entire contract for carriage of the goods for the whole distance and either the Pakistan railway was acting as the agent of the East Indian Railway in making the contract or the Pakistan Railway administration acted as agent for the consignor in making the contract with East Indian Railway for carriage of the goods to the Ballygunge Station. It was reasonable to presume in the circumstances of this case that under an arrangement between the East Bengal Railway and the East Indian Railway one railway acted as agent in entering into the contract of carriage and so the act of the one was binding on the others.

(ii) That as two independent railways belonging to two different Governments were concerned, Section 80 of the Railways Act had no application. So the liability of the railway administration will be that of a bailee and the contract of carriage was a contract of bailment. The law is clear that when goods have not been delivered at the place of destination, the plaintiff need not prove how the loss occurred, but the onus is upon the bailee to prove the circumstances which exonerate him from liability for loss.

(iii) It was for the defendant to place all the materials before the Court and if the defendant failed to do so the plaintiff might ask the Court to presume that if produced, the materials would have gone against the defendant. The railway was under an obligation to satisfy the Court upon production of all relevant materials that the goods did not reach their hands at all and so they should not be made liable. The facts as to how the consignment was dealt with during transit were facts within the special knowledge of the railway administration and the railway was under a duty to disclose these facts. The fact that the goods were admittedly placed in charge of the railway and had not been returned, raised the presumption of negligence and it was for the railway to rebut the presumption. ILR (1959) Cal 450.

——S. 77 — Civil P. C. Section 80 — Single notice against Union of India as representing all Railways — Different Railways must be treated as separate legal entities — Single notice under Section 77 against Union of India as representing all railways is not sufficient. 59 Cal WN 1064: AIR 1957 Cal 202 (202) (Pt A) (Pr 1).

——Ss. 77 and 80 — Notice of claim for loss or damages to goods — Goods consigned carried over several railways — Separate notice to each of the Railway Administrations — Necessity — Section 80 — If should be read with Section 77 — Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), Section 80 — Notice under Railway carriers — Need for two notices, one under Railways Act and another under Civil P. C. — AIR 1955 Mad 151, Overruled.

In cases of through traffic where the goods consigned is carried over several railways, one notice to the General Manager of any one of the railways concerned in the route over which the through traffic passed would be sufficient compliance with Section 77 of the Railways Act. The section also does not lay down that such notice should be given to any particular railway administration such as the contracting railway or destination railway, etc. AIR 1955 Mad 151, Overruled. Section 77 of the Railways Act does not require that notice of claim for loss or damages should be given to every one of the General Managers of the different railways over which through traffic occurs. The section contemplates only one notice and such a notice could be given to the General Manager of any one railway.

The question of notice under Section 80, Civil P. C., has no bearing on liability of the Central Government in relation to the railways run by it and it could not govern the scope and application of Section 77 of the Railways Act. The amendment of Sec. 80, Civil P. C. in 1948, inserting a special provision as to notice in case of railways could not have any effect on the question of liability of the Government which now owns the several railway administrations after amalagamation. 72 Mad LW 556: (1959) 2 MLJ 479: 1959 Mad WN 578: ILR (1959) Mad 939: AIR 1960 Mad 58 (60, 62) (Prs 16, 18, 19, 20) (DB).

——Ss. 77, 80, 140 — Goods carried over two Railway Administrations — Loss of goods — Notice to whom to be sent.

The 'Railway administration' under Section 77 does not mean 'any Railway Administration over which the goods are carried'. Section 77 read with Section 80 shows that each Railway Administration is treated as a separate entity with a separate existence and separate juristic personality. It is true that the Dominion of the Government of India now own all these Railways but they are none the less separate Railway Administrations with separate Agents and General Managers.

So long as Sections 77, 80 and 140 stand as they are, before a Railway Administration can be made liable in a suit for compensation, a necessary statutory requirement is the service of a notice on it by the claimant. These notices should be sent to the principal contracting Railway who accepts the goods for carriage and whose liability cannot be questioned even though the loss takes place on another Railway on through traffic. The view that a notice to the Railway Administration who the claimant thought was directly responsible, should be considered sufficient when that notice had been somehow brought to the notice of the other Administration from whom the claimant seeks to claim the relief is not sound. AIR 1952 Mad 795; (1952) 2 MLJ 24, Dissented from. (1955) 1 MLJ 79: 67 Mad LW 1192: AIR 1955 Mad 151 (153) (Prs 6, 7).

[Overruled in AIR 1960 Mad 58.]

——S. 77 — Goods carried by the Railways — Loss of goods in transit — Notice to one of the Railways — Correspondence between the two Railways regarding loss — Claim against the second Railway — Absence of notice as prescribed to such Railway — Effect.

The object and intention of Section 77 of the Railways Act is merely to put the railway on notice so that time may be made available to the railway to investigate such claims and meet them out of Court wherever possible. It is to prevent dishonest claims for loss when owing to delay it might be impossible to trace the transaction and is intended as a weapon of defence against fraud not as a means to enable the Railway authorities to deprive the customers of their just dues.

There is sufficient compliance with Section 77 if notice had been received by the Railway and the method by which it is received is a matter which is of comparative unimportance and a deviation from the methods prescribed in the section will be only an irregularity.

Where goods have been carried by the M. & S. M. Railway and B. B. and C. I. Railway and there was a loss in the transit and the loss was due to the misconduct of the employees of the B. B. and C. I. Railway and, therefore, of the administration, and notice was given of this loss to the M. & S. M. Railway who went into correspondence with the B. B. and C. I. Railway long before the expiry of the six months period prescribed under Section 77 of the Act.

Held, that Section 77 of the Act had been complied with and that the B. B. and C. I. Railway is liable for the loss. 65 Mad LW 133: 1952 Mad WN 138: (1952) 2 Mad LJ 24: AIR 1952 Mad 795 (797) (Pr 5).

——S. 77 (as it stood prior to amending Act 39 of 1961) — Object of notice — Notice to be liberally construed — Through booked traffic — Notice to one administration and copy to another — Notice clearly bringing forth claim against both railways — Notice valid even to railway to which copy alone was sent.

In enacting Section 77, the intention of the legislature must have been to afford only a protection to the railway administration against fraud and not to provide a means for depriving the consignors of their legitimate claims for compensation for the loss of or damage caused to their consignments during the course of transit on the railway. Hence, a notice under Section 77 should be liberally construed.

Where the plaintiff, who had consigned goods to North Eastern Railway for delivery at a station in South Eastern Railway, served a notice of claim of damages for short delivery on the South Eastern Railway and sent a copy of it to North Eastern Railway, and the contents of the notice clearly brought forth a claim against both the railway administrations.

Held, that there was valid notice in law under Section 77 against North Eastern Railway also: AIR 1956 Orissa 29 and AIR 1931 Cal 585, Held no longer good law; AIR 1962 SC 1879, Applied. 29 Cut LT 106: AIR 1963 Orissa 56 (57) (Prs 8, 9).

——S. 77 (before amendment by Act 39 of 1961) — To what railway, notice should be given — Copy of notice given to railway concerned "for necessary action" — If valid notice.

Where the consignment was booked at a station on the Southern Railway and the loss of the consignment took place also at a station on that Railway, the notice under Section 77 should be sent to that Railway and not to the Eastern Railway (now South Eastern Railway) where the station of destination is situated. If a notice under Section 77 was given to the Eastern Railway while a copy of that notice was sent to the Southern Railway for favour of necessary action, there was a valid notice to the Southern Railway. The words "for favour of necessary action" would ordinarily mean that a claim was made against the Southern Railway also. AIR 1961 Cal 586, Distinguished. 28 Cut LT 331: ILR (1962) Cut 402: AIR 1963 Orissa 54 (55) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 8) (DB).

——Ss. 77, 80 — Through booked goods — Damage to — Notice of claim — Notice to one railway administration concerned is not sufficient to constitute notice to other railway administration. AIR 1960 Orissa 154 (156, 157) (Prs 6, 7).

——Ss. 77 and 80 — Goods booked by Western Railway for delivery at a station on North Eastern Railway — Notice under Section 77 issued to latter Railway — No proof that loss or damage took place within jurisdiction of North Eastern Railway — Decree for damages cannot be granted against Union of India as owner of that Railway. AIR 1949 Pat 329 and S. A. No. 1670 of 1954, dated 22-1-1959 (Pat) and S. A. No. 551 of 1957, dated 16-7-1962 (Pat), Rel. on. AIR 1964 Pat 383 (384) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Ss. 77 and 140 — Through traffic — Notice to General Manager of one of the Railway administration is sufficient.

One notice under Section 77 to a General Manager of one Government railway concerned in the route over which through traffic passed will be sufficient because all the railways over which the traffic passed, are owned by the Central Government. In the absence of any specific enactment either in Section 77 or in Section 140, indicating the particular General Manager to whom notice ought to be given in a case of through traffic carried over more than one zonal unit of the Government railways notice to any one such General Manager is sufficient compliance with provisions of Section 77. AIR 1960 Mad 58, Foll; AIR 1956 Orissa 29, Dissented from. 64 Punj LR 425: ILR (1962) 2 Punj 451: 1962 Cur LJ 189: AIR 1963 Punj 224 (224) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

9. Notice to whom to be sent.

——S. 77 — Notice — Service of — Whom to be sent.

Per Desai, J.— Though the East Indian Railway and the Oudh and Tirhut Railway are since 1st January, 1943, owned by Government, they are two distinct Railway administrations and giving notice of a claim to one will not dispense with giving a notice of it to the other if the other is ultimately found liable to pay compensation. Preferring a claim to the Government may satisfy the requirement of Section 77 but not preferring a claim to the manager of another railway. ILR 26 Bom 669 and AIR 1950 Nag 85 and AIR 1931 Cal 585, Rel. on.

Per Beg, J.— Notice under Section 77 is not a condition precedent to the filing of a suit. In fact, the word 'notice' is not used at all in the section. The use of the word 'notice' imports a certain amount of formality. Further the notice, if any, to be given is not a notice of the suit but merely a notice of the claim. It is not a condition of the maintainability of the suit. The railway administration can, therefore, waive it. Further notice can be preferred in writing by the claimant himself or it can be given by anyone 'on his behalf' to the railway administration, concerned. The whole purpose of Section 77, therefore, seems to be that knowledge of the claim is brought home to the railway company within a period of six months by the plaintiff or some one else on his behalf.

Held, on the facts that the knowledge of the claim was brought home to the Oudh and Tirhut Railway indirectly through the East Indian Railway, and the knowledge of non-delivery and loss was brought home to the Oudh and Tirhut Railway directly by the plaintiff himself. The Oudh and Tirhut Railway were informed of it within time. AIR 1958 All 234 (241, 248) (Pt D) (Prs 8, 38) (DB).

——S. 77 — Notice under, when to be given — Construction of 'loss' and 'compensation for loss'.

The language of Section 77 of the Railways Act (9 of 1890) is clear and admits of no doubt that the notice contemplated under this section should be given within six months from the date of the delivery of the goods for carriage by Railways and not within six months from the date of the delivery to the consignee, for there may not be any delivery at all; the goods might have been lost in transit. Entrustment of the goods is on a known date, while it could not be said so of the delivery of goods to the consignee. The object of a notice to the Railway is that the Railway authorities should be apprised of the loss or damage promptly in order to enable them to enquire and investigate into the matter quickly before it becomes too late to get any clue with regard to the loss or damage. It is wrong to compute the period of six months from the date when the goods were actually delivered to the plaintiff. The word "loss" in its general sense means deprivation, damage or detriment. The trend of decisions of all the Courts in India and the weight of authority is in favour of the view that there is no warrant for giving a restricted interpretation to the word 'loss' in Section 77 of the Act. Loss would include loss to the owner on account of non-delivery or misdelivery as well.

The words 'compensation for loss' have to be given their plain and natural meaning. The words imply that the claimant would be entitled to compensation for the loss sustained by him, whether such loss is occasioned by non-delivery on account of the tortious conduct of the Railway whether the cause of action is founded on contract or on tort. On a true construction of Section 77, loss means loss to the owner by whatever means. There is no warrant for making a distinction between a claim for compensation on account of loss of goods by a Railway Company and a claim for compensation on the ground of non-delivery or misdelivery.

On the facts of the instant case held: the plaintiff's suit has to be dismissed for want of notice under Section 77 of the Railways Act. (1958) 1 Andh WR 510: 1958 Andh LT 375: ILR (1958) Andh Pra 323: AIR 1958 Andh Pra 475 (476 to 478) (Prs 6, 11, 14) (DB).

——Ss. 77 and 140 — Person to whom notice has to be sent.

Under Section 140, a notice or other document required or authorised by the Act to be served on a railway administration may be served, in the case of a railway administered by the Government on the Manager. The object of the notice on the Manager is simply to give an opportunity to the railway administration to enquire immediately into the complaint. The claim may be preferred to subordinate officers also who are authorised to entertain it.

There is nothing to prevent the Manager from delegating such power to any subordinate officer. Section 140 is merely an enabling section which was enacted to help claimants, and not to assist the railway administration to put up a disingenuous defence. If the notice is served within its terms, the railway has no answer. It does not matter whether any individual officer knew about it or not. It is sufficient compliance with Section 77 if in fact, notice has been given to the railway administration.

A demand for open delivery has to be treated as a claim under Section 77 if the position that the period of limitation commenced from the date of consignment is accepted.

The mere fact that a notice more in the nature of a notice under Sec. 80, Civil P. C., than a claim under Section 77 is sent by the plaintiff subsequently to some other officer would not necessarily indicate that no other officer was authorised to entertain a claim under Section 77 of the Act. ILR (1955) 7 Assam 261: AIR 1955 Assam 221 (224, 225) (Pt C) (Prs 7, 8, 9) (DB).

——S. 77 — Service of notice on Chief Commercial Superintendent is not preferment of claim.

Notice under Section 77 has to be served on the General Manager of the Railway concerned unless an officer subordinate to him is held out as the proper authority to whom such notices are to be addressed.

A notice on the Chief Commercial Superintendent, however, does not amount to the preferment of a claim to the Railway administration. 55 Cal WN 662; 60 Cal WN 985; 65 Cal WN 876, Rel. on. (1965) 69 Cal WN 692.

——Ss. 77 and 140 — Notice — Service of — Notification by Agent of Bengal Nagpur Railway authorising claims officer to receive notice — Force of, after taking over of railway by Government — Notice on claims officer — Validity.

The General Manager can authorise a subordinate officer to receive notices under Section 77 of the Indian Railways Act. 60 Cal WN 433, Rel. on.

A notification issued by the Agent of the Bengal Nagpur Railway investing the Claims Officer with authority to receive notices under Sections 77 and 140, Railways Act, is continuing as an effective and valid notification with the tacit approval of the General Manager after that Railway was taken over by the Government inasmuch as the notification was not withdrawn or cancelled. The mere fact that the Government has taken over the administration of the railway does not mean that every office procedure prevalent during the time of the administration of that railway by the Railway company was upset or that officers who were duly invested with some particular powers were automatically divested of those powers. Such investiture of power, once lawfully made, does not automatically cease to exist with the assumption of the administration of the railway by the Government, but continues until the power is expressly cancelled or withdrawn. Consequently a notice served on the claims officer in pursuance of this notification is good and valid. (1958) 1 Cal LJ 136: 63 Cal WN 581: ILR (1959) 2 Cal 242: AIR 1959 Cal 215 (217, 219) (Pt A) (Prs 15, 32, 33) (DB).

——S. 77 — Notice served on Chief Commercial Manager, if sufficient.

Notice under Section 77 is required to be served on the Manager of the Railway in the case of Railways which are administered by the Government. Notice of a claim under Section 77 of the Act served upon the Chief Commercial Manager is not a sufficient compliance with the section. AIR 1951 Cal 512, Foll.; AIR 1930 Cal 332 and AIR 1945 Cal 412, Not followed. 59 Cal WN 1064: ILR (1957) 2 Cal 523: AIR 1957 Cal 202 (203, 204) (Pt B) (Prs 2, 3).

——Ss. 77 and 140 — Notice to Chief Commercial Manager — Validity — Waiver — Effect — (Civil P. C. (1908), Section 80) — (Evidence Act (1872), Section 115).

A notice of claim on the Chief Commercial Manager does not amount to the preferment of a claim to the railway administration. But where the Chief Commercial Superintendent in reply to the notice refused to entertain the claim on the ground that there was no negligence or misconduct on the part of the railway or its servants but he did not say that no claim could be entertained until and unless notice as required under Section 77 has been served.

Held, that it amounted to waiver by the Chief Commercial Superintendent of the protection of Section 77 and as he was dealing with the claim for compensation as an agent of the railway administration—which term included the defendant —the Union of India, the waiver by the Chief Commercial Superintendent amounted, in law, to waiver by the Union of India. 60 Cal WN 985: 98 Cal LJ 31: AIR 1957 Cal 17 (17) (Prs 8 to 10) (DB).

——S. 77 — 'Manager' — Government administering railways — Officer designated as 'General Manager' is manager within meaning of Section 3 (6) and 77 of Act — Requirements of Section 77 are satisfied if claim is preferred to any person authorised by Manager to receive the claim on his behalf — Sending of claim to Chief Commercial Manager is sufficient, if it is established that he was duly authorised by the manager to receive claims on his behalf. See Railways Act (1890), Section 3 (6). (1957) 61 Cal WN 433: ILR (1957) 3 Cal 426.

——Ss. 77 and 140 — Chief Commercial Manager authorised by Manager to receive claims — Claim sent to Chief Commercial Manager by registered post — If duly served.

Where the Chief Commercial Manager was authorised by the Manager to receive claims under Section 77 and the claim was sent to the Chief Commercial Manager by duly prepaid registered post and the letter was duly delivered to and received by the Chief Commercial Manager, the claim is duly served upon the Chief Commercial Manager in one of the modes prescribed by Section 140. Service on the Chief Commercial Manager is service on the Manager as contemplat- by Section 140. (1957) 61 Cal WN 433: ILR (1957) 3 Cal 426.

——S. 77 — Allegation that particular official was authorised by manager to receive claim — Duty to prove.

Where it is contended that a particular official has authority from the Manager to receive a claim, such authority must be proved. In the absence of such proof it is not sufficient to send the claim to an official such as the Traffic Manager or the Goods Superintendent or the Traffic Superintendent, or the Claims Superintendent. Authority must be proved from the relevant facts and the notification, if any, in force at the relevant point of time. Further, authority must be proved as a matter of fact in each case. (1957) 61 Cal WN 433: ILR (1957) 3 Cal 426.

——S. 77 — Claim against Railway for injury to goods — Notice to whom to be sent — (Limitation Act (1908), Article 30).

The notice under Section 77, Railways Act served upon the Chief Commercial Manager instead of on the General Manager is good service, as claims against the Railway are dealt with by that officer. Hence service of the notice of claim upon him must be taken to be substantial compliance with the requirements of law. The notice under Section 77 is not—as distinguished from the other statutory notice under Section 80, Civil

P. C.—a condition precedent to the institution of the suit. 59 Cal WN 278: 95 Cal LJ 119: AIR 1955 Cal 448 (450) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Ss. 77 and 140 — Notice of claim served on Chief Commercial Manager of East Indian Railway — Validity.

A notice of claim for short delivery served on the Chief Commercial Manager of the East Indian Railway is sufficient compliance with the provisions of Sections 77 and 140 of the Railways Act. 86 CLJ 308: AIR 1952 Cal 443 (445) (Pt A) (Pr 20).

——Ss. 77 and 140 — Notice served on Chief Transportation Manager — Sufficiency.

The Manager of the railway means the person who is in management of the entire railway. It does not mean the Manager of any particular department. Service of notice on the Chief Transportation Manager instead of the General Manager is not, therefore, a compliance with the mandatory provisions of Sections 77 and 140. Railways Act. AIR 1952 Cal 341 (342) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Ss. 77, 140 — Railway administered by Government — Notice to Manager means notice to General Manager or Agent and not Chief Commercial Manager.

In the case of a Railway administered by the Government, as notice has to be given to the Manager of the Railway and that term means not any sectional or departmental Manager like the Chief Commercial Manager, but the Principal or General Manager who is in over-all charge of the Railway administration concerned. The General Manager can override the views of sectional officers and he can compromise or allow or resist any claim. A notice of claim under Section 77 sent to the Chief Commercial Manager of a Railway administered by Government is not, therefore, a proper notice under Section 140 and does not confer jurisdiction on the Court, only because a subordinate office of the Railway is within the Court's territorial jurisdiction: 28 CWN 438 and unreported decision in Civ. Revn. No. 1353 of 1947, Rel. on. 55 Cal WN 662: AIR 1951 Cal 512 (513) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

——Ss. 77 and 140 — Notice of claim received and acknowledged by Chief Commercial Manager of East Indian Railway — Claim dealt by him on basis that Section 77 had been satisfied — No evidence that General Manager was at the head of affairs of that Railway — Notice to Chief Commercial Manager is sufficient. (1950) 86 Cal LJ 308 (313).

——Ss. 77 and 140 — Claim for damages caused to consignment of goods — Notice of claim issued to Chief Commercial Superintendent — Chief Commercial Superintendent held out and acting as delegate of the Manager of the Railway for receipt and disposal of claims under Section 77 — Plaintiff is not liable to be non-suited on the ground of non-compliance with Sections 77 and 140: AIR 1960 Ker 257; AIR 1922 Mad 362; AIR 1926 Lah 253; AIR 1949 Pat 347, Rel. on.—Travancore Railways Act (22 of 1115), Sections 27 and 70. ILR (1964) 1 Ker 355.

——Ss. 77, 140 — Notice — Mode of service—Section 140 not exhaustive — Claim for compensation under Section 77 — Notice served on Chief Commercial Superintendent — Valid. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), Section 140. AIR 1960 Ker 257.

——S. 77 — Civil P. C., Sections 20, 79, 80 — Goods lost after reaching destination — Suit for loss of goods — Suit is to be filed against Central Government — Court at place where goods were booked has jurisdiction to entertain suit. See Civil P. C. (1908), Section 20. AIR 1960 Ker 257.

——S. 77 — Notice served on Chief Commercial Superintendent under Section 77, Railways Act cannot be treated as notice under Section 80, Civil P. C., on General Manager of Railways. AIR 1960 Ker 135 (136) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——S. 77 — Notice — Validity — Notice under, must be in writing and should be addressed to manager or authorised agent — Provision is mandatory and its non-compliance is fatal.

Held, that under Section 77 of the Act it was necessary that the claim should be preferred by a notice in writing to the Railway Administration within six months from the date of the delivery of the goods. Under Section 140 the notice could be served on the Railway Administration by delivering the notice to the manager or agent or by leaving it at his office or by forwarding it by post to the manager or agent. It was implicit in that section that the notice must be in writing. The notice under Section 77 was mandatory. As the mandatory requirement was not complied with, the suit was liable to be dismissed. AIR 1939 Nag 141, Foll; AIR 1955 Assam 221 and C. R. No. 290/57, dated 22-9-58 (1958 MPLJ Notes 167), Dist. 1962 MPLJ (Notes) 192.

——Ss. 77 and 80 — Notice to whom to be given.

A notice under Section 77 must be separately given to each railway administration impleaded as a defendant under Section 80 of the Act. This is because each railway administration is to be treated as a separate entity with separate existence and personality for the purpose of a suit under Section 80. AIR 1950 Nag 85, Foll. Where in answer to to the notice of claim given to the administration of the S. S. Light Railway on which the goods were booked, the railway administration wrote to say that since the destination station lay on the G. I. P. Railway, the matter may be referred to the G. I. P. Railway administration for disposal of the claim, the reply cannot be regarded as a communication authorising retrospectively the G. I. P. Railway administration to receive notices under Section 77 on behalf of the S. S Light Railway so that certain earlier communications made to that administration could be treated as notices of claim served on the S. S. Light Railway. AIR 1948 Nag 17, Disting. 1959 MPC 341: 1959 MPLJ 701: 1960 Jab LJ 985: AIR 1959 Madh Pra 276 (279) (Pt D) (Prs 16, 17) (DB).

——S. 77 — Notice — Service of — Railway aware of plaintiff's claim — Effect.

The notice under Section 77 was addressed to "The Manager of both the railways" and a copy was sent to the Superintendent of Claims, of the G. I. P. Railway, Bombay. Though the plaintiff did not file the acknowledgments addressed to the managers of the two railways, there was a postal acknowledgment, dated 21st June, 1950, on record which was signed by the Chief Traffic Manager, G. I. P. Railway, Bombay. The correspondence on record showed that the railway authorities were fully aware of the plaintiff's claim. Moreover, the Suprintendent of Claims, G. I. P Railway, Bombay, who was the officer deputed by the General Manager to deal with such claims, actually received a copy of the notice.

Held, that a notice which substantially complied with Section 77 was a valid notice. In this case, the Railway administration was fully aware of the plaintiff's case and had also assessed the damages. From the correspondence on record, as also from the conduct of the railway authorities, the notice under Section 77 must have reached the proper authority. It must therefore be held that the notice was valid under the law. 1959

MPLJ 749: 1959 MPC 368: 1959 Jab LJ 718: AIR 1959 Madh Pra 232 (233) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——S. 77 — Service of notice — Suit against Railway — Notice addressed to Union of India — Validity and sufficiency. See C. P. Code (1908), Sec. 79. AIR 1959 Madh Pra 232 (232) (DB).

——S. 77 — Notice to Superintendent of Claims — Validity.

A notice under Section 77, must go either to the Agent or to the General Manager. A notice to the Superintendent of Claims will not be valid within the meaning of Section 77 of the Act. 1959 MPLJ (Notes) 26.

——S. 77 — Service of notice — Assessment of damages by officer of Railway Administration — Notice can be inferred — 'Railway Administration' includes competent officer. 1958 MPLJ (Notes) 167.

——Ss. 77 and 140 — Notice to General Traffic Manager — Validity.

The fact that notice was given by the railway administration to the consignors that details of claims must be sent forthwith to the General Traffic Manager, Bombay, coupled with the fact that he received and dealt with time in his office through the Superintendent of Claims, to whom they are passed on, even if received by the Manager, is sufficient to lead to an inference that he was authorised, either by the Manager or the Railway Administration, to receive notices under Section 77. 1957 Jab LJ 550: (1957) MPLJ 294: 1958 MPC 459: ILR (1957) Madh Pra 253: AIR 1957 Madh Pra 114 (117, 118) (Pt H) (Pr 13) (DB).

——S. 77 — Notice — Due compliance — Notice has to be sent, according to amended law, to "General Manager of the Railway" — Notice by post on 17-6-1948 and served on Secretary, Central Government, is not due compliance with requirement of the section. AIR 1953 Nag 360 (361) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——S. 77 — Notice to whom to be sent — Notice to one administration not sufficient against another — Object of notice.

Each Railway Administration is a separate entity and a different legal person capable of suing and being sued independently. Notice against the one Railway administration of the claim of the plaintiff is not therefore sufficient compliance of the provisions of Section 77 to constitute a notice against the other Railway administration.

There is no form for a notice under Section 77 and the writing in any form need not be styled as such a notice. The intention behind the provisions of the section is that the particular railway administration must be aware of the claim of the plaintiff so that they may avail of the opportunity of settling up the claim. What is essential for compliance with the section is that it must be preferred in writing by the plaintiff or on his behalf, and further, he must lay his claim as against the particular railway administration whom he is suing for obtaining a decree on the basis of the liability.

Thus where, the plaintiff, who had consigned goods from the station P. on E. I. Rly. to be delivered at the Station S. on B. N. Rly. sent a notice of claim for damages to the Claims Officer, B. N. Rly. and a copy to the General Manager, E. I. Rly.

Held, that the claim as against E.I. Rly was never brought to the notice of the said administration in any form as contemplated under Section 77 and the section was not complied with as against E. I. Rly. AIR 1931 Cal 585; 26 Bom 369, Rel. on.; AIR 1928 Lah 438, Disting. AIR 1956 Orissa 29 (30, 31) (Prs 4, 7) (DB).

——S. 77 — Notice sent to Chief Administrative Officer of East Punjab Railway instead of Secretary, Government of India, in charge of Railways — Subsequent amendment of Section 80, Civil P. C. requiring notice to be sent to General Manager of Railway — Chief Administrative Officer designated General Manager — Chief Administrative Officer, as General Manager taking cognizance of notice — He cannot afterwards contend that notice was not proper. AIR 1955 Pepsu 51 (54 to 57) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 9) (DB).

——Ss. 77 and 140 — Notice of claim addressed to Chief Commercial Superintendent Western Railway — In reply letter to notice, Superintendent asking claimant to send original beejak without prejudice to enable him to settle claim — Beejak sent but no reply was received in spite of several reminders — Suit for compensation — Plaintiff alleging that Chief Commercial Superintendent was the proper officer to deal with such notice — Allegation not denied by Railway in its written statement — Allegation must be taken to be admitted — There is sufficient compliance with Sections 77 and 140 and notice is not invalid — AIR 1947 Bom 169, 26 Bom 669 and AIR 1945 Cal 412, Rel. on., AIR 1948 Nag 17, Not foll. — Civil P. C. (1908), Order 6. (1956) 9 Sau LR 86.

10. "Six months."

——S. 77 — Object of — Claim preferred to Railway Administration — Meaning — Claim must reach within six months and not merely be posted within that period — (Words and Phrases — 'Prefer').

Clearly the Legislature intended that unless the Railway becomes aware of the claim within six months it should not be made liable to pay the compensation. The utility of a claim lies in its being received by the railway administration and not in its being merely posted by the claimant. The expression 'preferred in writing to the railway administration' therefore means that the written claim has reached the railway administration and not merely that the claim was posted, sent or dispatched within six months. AIR 1926 All 214, Rel. on; AIR 1957 MP 114, Dissented from. 1961 All WR (HC) 763: 1961 All LJ 983.

——S. 77 — 'Date of the delivery' — Meaning of.

Per Desai, J.:— The words 'from the date of the delivery of the animals or goods for carriage by railway' in Section 77 means from the date of delivery to the railway and not from the date of the delivery by the railway of the goods. The words 'for carriage by railway' govern the word 'delivery' and cannot govern the words 'animals or goods'. AIR 1955 Assam 221, Dissented from. AIR 1958 All 234 (242) (Pt F) (Pr 10) (DB).

——S. 77 — "Six months" — Computation.

It is doubtful whether the period of six months should be calculated from the date on which the goods were delivered to the consignee or his representative or from the date on which the goods were originally consigned to the Railway. The words "for carriage by railway' may be read as qualifying the term "goods" only, and not the date of delivery of the goods. It would be more reasonable to hold that the period of limitation should be counted from the day when the goods were to be delivered or delivered to the consignee or his representative, and not from the date when the goods were originally consigned.

If the latter view is adopted, it is obvious that the claim under S. 77, Railways Act, will have to be in many cases a vague and speculative claim and must a fortiori include a claim for open delivery in case the goods are suspected to have been lost or damaged in transit. (The Court, however, adopted the latter view for the purpose of this case). ILR (1955) 7 Assam 261: AIR 1955 Assam 221 (224) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——S. 77 — "Six months".

It is doubtful whether the period of six months should be calculated from the date on which the goods were delivered to the consignee or his representative or from the date on which the goods were originally consigned to the Railway. The words "for carriage by railway" may be read as qualifying the term "goods" only, and not the date of delivery of the goods. It would be more reasonable to hold that the period of limitation should be counted from the day when the goods were to be delivered or delivered to the consignee or his representative, and not from the date when the goods were originally consigned. If it is held on the contrary that the limitation period should run from the date when the goods were first consigned or delivered for carriage to the Railway an anomalous position would arise in that in certain cases the claim under Section 77 will have to be preferred even before the goods are delivered or even before the consignee is aware whether any loss or damage has been caused because cases are not unknown where goods are actually delivered long after six months from the date of consignment and it is only when delivery is taken that the consignee is made aware of any shortage in or damage to the goods. If the latter view in adopted, it is obvious that the claim under Section 77 of the Railways Act will have to be in many cases a vague and speculative claim and must a fortiori include a claim for open delivery in case the goods are suspected to have been lost or damaged in transit. AIR 1955 NUC (Assam) 2044 (Pt B).

——S. 77 — Calculation of time.

Notice under Section 77 must be served within six months from the date of the goods for carriage by railway. Time is to be calculated as from the date of the delivery of the goods for carriage and not from the date of delivery. AIR 1924 Cal 725 and AIR 1949 Cal 420, Not followed. 60 Cal WN 683: ILR (1957) 3 Cal 713: AIR 1956 Cal 390 (393) (Pt E) (Pr 30) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 SC 1879.]

——S. 77 (as it stood prior to its amendment to 1961) — Phrase 'for carriage by railway' qualifies word 'delivery'.

The wording of Section 77 is very clear and the phrase 'for carriage by railway' cannot refer to animals or goods but has necessarily to be co-related to the word 'delivery' and the limitation of six months is to be computed from the date of delivery of goods to the Railway Administration. AIR 1957 Madh Pra 114, Rel. on. AIR 1955 Assam 221, Dissented from. 1962 Jab LJ 1125: 1962 MPLJ 732: AIR 1962 Madh Pra 374 (376) (Pt B) (Pr 12).

——S. 77 — The word 'damage' — Meaning of — Claim for compensation for breakage of boiler — Controlled by Section 77 — Notice not issued within six months — Suit not maintainable.

The word 'damage' connotes a genus while "deterioration" and "destruction" connotes two species. A claim for compensation for breakage of certain parts of the boiler, and loss of certain other parts, is one for deterioration, which is a form of damage, and is controlled by Section 77 as the condition precedent. A suit filed against Railways for such a claim where the notice was issued beyond the prescribed period of six months is not, therefore, maintainable. AIR 1957 Madh Bha 111 and AIR 1954 Pat 507, Diss. from, AIR 1961 SC 725. Rel. on. 1962 Jab LJ 811: 1962 MPC 469: 1962 MPLJ 575: AIR 1962 Madh Pra 301 (303) (Pt A) (Pr 9) (DB).

——S. 77 — Limitation.

Where the consignment was delivered for carriage on 7th September, 1947 and the notice of claim under Section 77 for loss was sent more than 6 months later, the claim for compensation in so far as it related to the goods destroyed by floods and the deterioration of goods was untenable. 1959 MPC 341: 1960 Jab LJ 985: 1959 MPLJ 701: AIR 1959 Madh Pra 276 (279) (Pt E) (Pr 18) (DB).

——S. 77 — Computation of period of six months — Starting point.

The date from which the period of six months has to be computed under Section 77 is the date on which the goods were delivered to the railway company for carriage. 1957 MPLJ 294: 1957 Jab LJ 550: 1958 MPC 459: ILR (1957) Madh Pra 253: AIR 1957 Madh Pra 114 (116) (Pt D) (Pr 9) (DB).

——S. 77 — Construction and scope — Service of notice within six months, if necessary.

If it is held that Sec. 77 should be interpreted to mean that the notice must be served on the Railway Administration within the stautory period of six months, it would not be giving to the consignee full use of the statutory period of six months. Section 77 only means that the claim should be preferred within that period and not that it should also reach the Railway Administration before its expiry. AIR 1926 All 214, 8 NLR 34 & 24 NLR 1, Not followed; AIR 1927 Pat 241, Rel. on. 1957 Jab LJ 550: (1957) MPLJ 294: 1958 MPC 459: ILR (1957) Madh Pra 253: AIR 1957 Madh Pra 114 (117) (Pt F) (Pr 10) (DB).

——S. 77 — 'Six months' — Starting Point.

Under Section 77 the period of six months is to be counted 'from the date of delivery of animals or goods for carriage by the railway'. The natural meaning of these words can only be that the relevant date is the date on which goods are handed over to the railway for carriage. AIR 1955 Assam 221, Dissented from. 36 Mys LJ 655: ILR (1958) Mys 481: AIR 1959 Mys 13 (15) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——Ss. 77 and 145 — Mysore Railways Act, Sections 61 and 122 — Authority to whom notice should be sent — Notice within "six months".

Certain goods were consigned for transmission on 29th June, 1944. The plaintiff commenced correspondence with the Traffic Manager about non-delivery within six months from that date. On 9th November, 1945 a notification was issued authorising the Traffic Manager to receive notice and settle claims and the notification stated that "any notification served will be treated as equivalent to one served on the Railway administration in compliance with the provisions of Sections 61 and 122 of the Mysore Railways Act". The plaintiff served a notice for compensation on the Traffic Manager on 20th May, 1946.

Held, (1) that the notice was not defective as having been addressed to the Traffic Manager instead of the General Manager.

(2) That having regard to the terms of the notification and the fact that the Railway Administration treated the claim which was pending before it on the date of notification as sufficient to be acted upon, the objection that since the letter previous to the notification had been addressed to Traffic Manager instead of the General Manager there was no valid notice within time was untenable. AIR 1948 Nag 17. Rel. on. ILR (1953) Mys 128: AIR 1953 Mys 16 (17, 18) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

——S. 77 (old) — Non-delivery of part of consignment — Suit for compensation — Notice under Section 77 given after six months from date of delivery of part of consignment — Suit not maintainable.

Non-delivery of a part of a consignment amounts to loss of a part not delivered. Therefore, suit for the recovery of compensation for non-delivery of a part of a consignment is maintainable only if the plaintiff has given a notice under Section 77 of the Railways Act within the time mentioned in that section. Where the notice is served more than six months after the date of the delivery of goods, the suit clearly is not maintainable. AIR 1964 Pat 392 (393) (Pr 5) (DB).

——S. 77 — Computation of period required for notice — Time of six months commences from date of delivery of goods to Railway for carriage and not from delivery of goods to consignee.

The notice contemplated under Section 77 should be given within six months from the date of delivery of the goods for carriage by railway and not within six months from the date of the delivery to the consignee. The concept of delivery to railway consistently connotes 'handing over' to railway for carriage and not by railway to consignee. AIR 1949 Cal 420; AIR 1958 Cal 434; AIR 1959 Mys 13; AIR 1958 AP 475; AIR 1959 MP 276. Rel. on; AIR 1955 Assam 221 (FB). Dissented from. 1963 Raj LW 598: ILR (1964) 14 Raj 254: AIR 1965 Raj 127 (128) (Prs 4, 5).

11. Proof of notice.

——S. 77 — Notice — Absence of — Effect.

Once loss or destruction of the goods is admitted or proved, the consignor cannot maintain an action for compensation for breach of contract to deliver the goods. He can then only maintain a suit for compensation for loss or destruction of the goods upon grounds for which the railway administration can be made liable. Notice under Section 77 of the Indian Railways Act is a condition precedent, to the maintainability of such suit:

Held, that the plaintiff had failed to prove service of notice under Section 77, Railways Act and, therefore, the plaintiff's suit for compensation for loss or destruction of goods was not maintainable. (1958) 62 Cal WN 900: AIR 1959 Cal 281 (285) (Pt C) (Prs 22, 25, 26) (DB).

——S. 77 — Proof of notice — Civil P. C. (1908), Order 8, Rules 3, 4.

Where the plaint states that the plaintiff had given notices to the Governor-General and the railway administration under Section 80, Civil P. C. and there is no specific denial by the defendant of the fact that there was a notice to the railway administration, the mere fact that there is no mention of Section 77 of the Railways Act does not make the notice to the railway administration incompetent. 1951 Nag LJ 254: AIR 1952 Nag 77 (78) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 SC 1716.]

——S. 77 (before amendment in 1961) — Presumption and inference as to service of notice — Averment in plaint as to service of notice — Absence of specific denial in written statement — Effect of. See Railways Act (1890), Section 142. AIR 1963 Orissa 54 (DB).

——S. 77 — Suit against Railway — Governor-General-in-Council made defendant — Notice under Section 80, Civil P. C. addressed to Governor-General-in-Council — No denial in written statement that notice has been served, as defendant — Held, that if notice was sent in fact then it must have been delivered in the office of the Secretary to that department, namely the Railways and that upon the pleadings it was clear that notice had been served. AIR 1955 NUC (Pat) 728.

12. Waiver of notice.

——S. 77 — Waiver of protection of Section 77 — Waiver has to be made in suit for refund or compensation and cannot be prior to it. AIR 1952 Cal 35 (FB). Foll; AIR 1957 Cal 17, Not foll. (1965) 69 Cal WN 692.

——S. 77 — Waiver of notice.

Where the claims officer did entertain the claim made by the plaintiffs and did not turn it down on the ground that proper notice under Section 77 of the Indian Railways Act had not been served:

Held, that service of notice under Section 77 of the Indian Railways Act, according to the procedure prescribed in Section 140, was waived by the railway administration in this case, inasmuch as it allowed the claims officer to investigate the claim, made by the plaintiffs even without service of notice according to the statute. (1958) 1 Cal LJ 136: 63 Cal WN 581: ILR (1959) 2 Cal 242: AIR 1959 Cal 215 (219) (Pt B) (Prs 28, 30) (DB).

——S. 77 — Requirement of notice — Waiver of.

It is well settled that the requirement of the notice under Section 77 may be waived. AIR 1952 Cal 35 (FB), Rel. on. 61 Cal WN 433: ILR (1957) 3 Cal 426.

——S. 77 — Waiver — Notice under Section 77, Railways Act — No objection to claim taken — It does not amount to waiver of notice under Section 80. Civil P. C. AIR 1960 Ker 135 (137) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

13. Limitation for suit — Exclusion of period of notice.

See also Limitation Act (1908), S. 15 and Articles 30 and 31.

——Ss. 77, 72 — Object of notice under Section 77 — Liability under Section 72 — Nature and extent of — Failure to deliver in consequence of loss or destruction — Non-delivery of goods not a separate cause of action — Provisions of Articles 30 and 31, Limitation Act cannot be projected on Sections 72 and 77.

Section 77 is enacted with a view to enable the railway administration to make enquiries and if possible to recover the goods and to deliver them to the consignee. It imposes a restriction on the enforcement of liability declared by Section 72. The liability declared by Section 72 is for loss, destruction or deterioration. Failure to deliver does not furnish a cause of action on which a suit may lie against the railway administration. If because of negligence or inadvertence or even wrongful act on the part of the employees of the railway administration, goods entrusted for carriage are lost, destroyed or deteriorated, the railway administration is guilty of failing to take the degree of care which is prescribed by Section 72 of the Railways Act. AIR 1952 All 897 (FB), Reversed; ILR (1953) 1 All 64; AIR 1952 All 891 (FB) and AIR 1929 Pat 109, Overruled. Governor-General in Council v. Musaddi Lal, 1961 All LJ 345: (1961) 3 SCR 647: 1961 SCD

566: 1961 MPC 472: 1961 BLJR 380: (1961) 1 SCJ 597: (1961) 1 Mad LJ (SC) 169: (1961) 1 Andh WR (SC) 169: 1961 All WR (HC) 258: (1961) 1 Ker LR 384: AIR 1961 SC 725 (727) (Prs 5, 6, 7).

——S. 77 — Limitation — Period of correspondence with railway cannot be excluded — Hyderabad Railways Act, Section 46. See Hyderabad Limitation Act (2 of 1322-F), Section 15 (2). AIR 1960 Andh Pra 406 (DB).

——S. 77 — Time spent in pursuing claim under Section 75 — Exclusion for purpose of limitation. See Hyderabad Limitation Act, Section 15 (2). AIR 1957 Hyd 21.

——S. 77 (prior to amendment of 1960) — Railway repeatedly asked about missing goods — Suit for damages for non-delivery of goods—Time runs from date when final reply is given — Obiter. 1962 MPLJ 682: 1962 Jab LJ 869: ILR (1963) Madh Pra 926.

——S. 77 — Wrongful refusal to give delivery of goods — Suit for compensation — Limitation for suit — Limitation Act, Articles 31 and 49.

Article 31 has no application to the case. The Article applicable is Article 49, the starting point being the date of demand and refusal to deliver the goods. 38 Mys LJ 301: ILR (1959) Mys 901: AIR 1960 Mys 283 (285, 286, 287) (Prs 17, 20, 23, 25, 27, 29, 30) (DB).

——S. 77 — Suit for compensation against Railway for deterioration of goods — Limitation — Time taken for pursuing claim under Section 77, not to be excluded. See Limitation Act, Section 15. AIR 1953 Nag 10 (DB).

——S. 77 — Short delivery of goods carried by rail — Short delivery on 19-2-57 — Suit filed on 18-4-1959 — Limitation. See Limitation Act (1908), Article 31 and Section 19. AIR 1964 Orissa 198.

——S. 77 — Limitation Act (1908), Section 19 and Article 31 — Acknowledgment — Short delivery of goods carried by rail — Letter by Railways intimating the consignee that his complaint regarding short delivery was receiving notice does not amount to acknowledgment — Limitation commences from the date of short delivery — Short delivery made on 19-2-57 — Suit filed on 18-4-59 is barred. See Limitation Act (1908), Section 19. AIR 1964 Orissa 198.

——S. 77 (as it stood before amendment in 1961) — 'When the goods ought to be delivered' — Meaning — 'Reasonable time' — What is — Suit against Railway for damages for short delivery filed on 14th December, 1951 — Delivery made on 18th August, 1950 — Suit held barred. See Limitation Act (1908), Article 31. ILR (1963) Cut 387.

——S. 77 — Claim for compensation for non-delivery of goods — Claim filed after two years after reasonable date of delivery — No notice served under section — Held, claim was barred. See Limitation Act (1908), Article 30. AIR 1966 Pat 19 (DB).

——S. 77 — Starting point — Date not fixed for delivery of goods — Reasonable time should be taken — Date of refusal by Railway Administration when to be taken as date on which goods ought to be delivered — Major portion of goods delivered on certain date — Limitation for claim for remaining portion under both articles starts from such date. See Limitation Act (1908), Article 31. AIR 1962 Pat 428 (DB).

——S. 77 — Limitation — Loss or injury to goods — Suit for damages — Limitation — Exclusion of time allowed to railway. See Limitation Act (1908), Section 15 (2). AIR 1959 Pat 252 (DB).

——S. 77 — Non-delivery of consignment — Cause of action arises on date on which the goods ought to have been delivered even where they had been sent at owner's risk under risk note B — Subsequent correspondence cannot be considered where it is not material for determining time required for carrying goods. See Limitation Act (1908), Article 31. AIR 1964 Raj 235.

——S. 77 — Claim for compensation for non-delivery of goods — Limitation — Exclusion of time — (Limitation Act (1908), Section 15 (2)).

Obiter.— Section 77 of the Railways Act does not apply to claims for compensation for non-delivery of goods. Even if that section applies to a claim for compensation for non-delivery of goods still it does not enable the plaintiff to exclude the period between the date of the delivery of the goods and the date on which the claim is preferred in computing the period of limitation for the suit for compensation against the railway company. AIR 1922 Pat 549, Held, obiter. 1956 Ker LT 40: ILR (1954) Trav-Co 298: AIR 1954 Trav-Co 362 (368) (Pt F) (Prs 17, 18) (DB).

SECTION 77-C (NEW)

See Railways Act (1890), Section 74-A (old).

SECTION 78 (OLD)

——S. 78 — 'Misdescription' — Question of law and fact.

Whether the description given of a parcel sent by railway is 'materially false' is a mixed question of law and fact.

Where a parcel containing fountain pens was described as haberdashery and in a suit against the Railway for non-delivery, the objection based on the ground of misdescription was raised for the first time in second appeal the contention was disallowed. 36 Mys LJ 411: ILR (1958) Mys 245: AIR 1959 Mys 43 (44) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

SECTION 80

SYNOPSIS

(Railways Act (1890), S. 80.)

1. Scope.
2. Suits.
3. Liability of railways.
4. Non-delivery.
5. Proof of loss or damage.
6. Notice.

1. Scope.

——Ss. 80, 74-E, (Before its amendment by Act 39 of 1961) — Scope — Section 74-E does not whittle down effect of S. 80 — See Railways Act (1890), (Before its amendment by Act 39 of 1961), S. 74-E. AIR 1964 Andh Pra 172 (DB).

——S. 80 — Scope — Compliance — Consideration based on agency of partnership — Relevancy of.

S. 80 lays down a specific rule of law governing the liabilities of different railways over which goods may be carried and those specific rules must be given effect to irrespective of any other consideration based on agencies or partnership. 60 Cal WN 683: ILR (1957) 3 Cal 713: AIR 1956 Cal 390 (392) (Pt B) (Pr 19) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 SC 1879].

——S. 80 — Civil P. C., S. 20 — (Contract Act (1872), S. 2 (d)) — Principles stated — S. 80 as now in force in India cannot apply beyond its own territories, to a foreign State namely Pakistan. AIR 1953 Cal 366 (367) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——S. 80 — Applicability — [New section substituted for the old section by the Amendment Act (39 of 1961)].

In a suit to recover the value of a consignment lost in transit. S. 80, Railways Act, has no application unless the consignment was taken over by one of the Indian Railways. They are not liable on the basis of a contract which was made with a foreign railway. 1958 MPLJ 192: 1958 Jab LJ 235: (1958) 28 Com Cas (Ins) 19: 1958 MPC 156: ILR (1957) Madh Pra 434: AIR 1958 Madh Pra 297 (298) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——S. 80 — Mysore Railways Act (4 of 1894), S. 64 — Consignment of goods passing through several railways — Short delivery — Suit against delivering company — Burden of proof.

When the goods are booked to pass through several railway systems and the plaintiff sues only the delivering company, he should under Section 64 of the Mysore Railways Act, which is similar to Section 80 of the Indian Railways Act, necessarily substantiate that the loss was occasioned by the defendant-company. The plaintiff should prove that the goods were transferred to the delivering company in good condition in which case the burden of proving shifts on to the carrying company, 34 All 422 and AIR 1922 All 514, Rel. on. ILR (1951) Mys 94.

——Ss. 80 and 74-E — Before S. 74-E comes into play, loss must be proved as provided under S. 80 — See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 74-E. AIR 1960 Orissa 100.

2. Suits.

——Ss. 80, 77 (before its amendment in 1961) — Civil P. C. (1908), Ss. 79, 80 — Goods consigned on railway A for delivery on railway B — Goods destroyed by fire in godown of A — Notice by consignor under S. 77 to A — Consignor directed to contact Railway B — Further notice under S. 80, C. P. C. given by consignor to B and suit brought against B by both consignor and consignee — Held that there was no compliance with S. 80, C. P. C. — Suit also held bad for non-joinder, for no cause of action and dismissed — Railway A also held not estopped under S. 115, Evidence Act — See Railways Act (1890) (before its amendment by Act 39 of 1961), S. 77. AIR 1964 Andh Pra 172 (DB).

——S. 80 — Suit by endorsee of railway receipt — Rights of third party — If independent of rights if endorser — Endorsement — If gives cause of an action.

Under S. 80, Railways Act it would be open to a plaintiff suing for compensation for loss or damage, to sue at the place where he consigned the goods or at the place where the damage occurred or where short delivery was made. The two places viz., the place of entrustment of the goods and the place where the damages occurred or the short delivery was made, could be regarded as the places where the Courts would have jurisdiction to try the suit.

The endorsement of a railway receipt by the consignor in favour of a third party would not constitute a part of the cause of action so as to enable the endorsee to bring a suit for damages against the Railway at the place where the endorsement took place. The right to sue the Railway administration would be only governed by the contract as between the original consignor and the Railway, and if under the contract between the consignor and the Railway the places where the cause of action could be said to have arisen could only be a place where the goods were consigned or where the short delivery was made or damage occurred, that alone could furnish a cause of action. AIR 1954 Trav-Co. 362 and AIR 1960 Cal 458, Rel. on; AIR 1959 Cal 563, Not Foll. AIR 1961 Andh Pra 282 (282) (Pr 2).

——S. 80 — Suit against Government owning railway administration — Parties to Railway administration through the manager or anybody else need not be impleaded. See Railways Act (1890). S. 3 (6). AIR 1953 Assam 193 (DB).

——S. 80—Indian Independence (Rights, Property and Liabilities) Order (1947), S. 8 (1) (b).

By virtue of the terms of Cl. (b) of S. 8 (1) notwithstanding the fact that the North Western Railway on which the goods were booked was not sued and notwithstanding the fact that it was not proved that the goods were lost on the Assam Railway, the Union of India took upon itself the rights and liabilities under the contract. The liability of the Union of India was the same as the liability of a bailee under the Contract Act in the absence of any risk note, and until the Union of India had led evidence that it had discharged its duties as a bailee the question of misconduct or negligence did not arise. AIR 1952 Assam 88 (89, 90) (Pt B) (DB).

——Ss. 80 (old), 74-E — Goods destroyed by fire in transit — Destruction of goods at station on railway system belonging to Port Commissioners — Damage to goods through negligence of carrier — Calcutta Port Act (3 of 1890), S. 142 — Limitation under — Applicability of S. 15 (2) of Limitation Act to — Suit for damages brought by consignee or endorsee of goods — Suit held not maintainable in the circumstances of the case. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 74-E. AIR 1964 Cal 290 (DB).

——S. 80 — Railways receipt endorsed to endorsee — Rights of endorsee under such railway receipt.

An endorsee of a railway receipt cannot sue the railway on the contract contained in the railway receipt merely because the property or an interest in the goods has been transferred to him. He can sue in his own name only for commission or negligence. His position can be likened to the position of a consignee who has no right of property in the goods. See Sale of Goods Act (1930), S. 2 (4). AIR 1964 Cal 290 (DB).

——S. 80 — Suit against railway for compensation — Person who is entitled to bring such a suit, consignor or consignee — Principles governing such question.

The following principles have now been well established on the question as to who between the consignor and the consignee is entitled to sue the carrier, i. e., the Railway for loss or non-delivery of goods: (i) (a) Where the action is founded on contract, the right to maintain an action on the contract belongs to the person who entered into the contract. Ordinarily that person is the consignor; (b) where, however, the consignor acts as an agent of the consignee and the contract is actually entered into on behalf of the consignee, the consignee may sue in his own name; (c) thus, if the property in the goods passes to the consignee at the time of the delivery of the goods to the railway (as indeed it often can happen under S. 23 of the Sale of Goods Act), the consignee will be deemed to be the person who has entered into the contract of carriage with the railway company through his agent, the consignor. In such a case, the consignee is the proper party to sue; (d) it will be open, nonetheless to the consignor to make a special contract with the railway company whereby the railway company will, even though the property in the goods has passed to the consignee at the time of the consignment, remain liable to the consignor. (ii) Subsequent dealings with the railway receipt after the goods have been consigned will have no effect on the incidents of contract as between the consignor and the railway company. They will have a bearing on the rights and liabilities of the consignor and the consignee inter se. (iii) (a) The owner of the goods, however, is entitled as such to sue for the loss or non-delivery or injury to the goods; (b) ordinarily the consignee is presumed to be the owner of the goods. Such presumption is, however, rebuttable; (c) where the consignor has parted with his title to and ownership of the goods, the consignor cannot maintain an action against the carrier on the basis of such ownership; (d) where, however, the property has not passed out of the ownership of the consignor, the consignor must sue in his own name as, for instance, in the case of goods sent for sale on approval. 68 Cal WN 410: AIR 1964 Cal 290 (303) (Pt C) (Pr 40) (DB).

——S. 80 — Through-booking-over-several railways — Suit for compensation — Option to sue.

Section 80 lays down how compensation is to be levied when goods are booked over the line of more than one railway administration by through booking over several independent railways. The aggrieved party may sue either the railway administration with which the contract of carriage was entered into and/or the administration on whose line the injury had occurred. 60 Cal WN 683: ILR (1957) 3 Cal 713: AIR 1956 Cal 390 (392) (Pt A) (Pr 15) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 SC 1879].

——S. 80 — Suit for compensation for loss of consignment carried by more than one railway — Parties.

Although S. 80 gives the plaintiff the option to sue any one of the two companies through whose lines the goods have been carried, it by no means prohibits him from impleading both the companies in a suit. For, if the plaintiff sues one of the two Railways it may very well turn out that the loss occurred on the other railway and it was a necessary party to the suit. ILR (1952) Hyd 983: AIR 1953 Hyd 139 (140) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Ss. 80, 3 (6) — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 79 — Suit against Railway Administration must be instituted against Union of India — See Railways Act (1890), S. 3 (6). AIR 1965 Ker 277 (FB).

——S. 80 — Suit for damages for loss of goods against delivering railway — Burden is on plaintiff to prove loss on its lines — Request for production of documents relating to the goods in possession of defendant railway — Non-production — Presumption under S. 114 (g), Evidence Act arises — For ends of justice case remanded for such production — Evidence Act (1872), S. 114 (g) — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 151.

Under S. 80, a consignor can file a suit for damages for loss of goods in transfer either against a railway administration to which the goods have been consigned or against the railway administration which was carrying the goods when the loss occurred. When he sues the latter railway it is for the plaintiff to establish that the loss had occurred when the goods were on the lines of the defendant railway and the only way to prove the plaintiffs case is by the production of documents in possession of the defendant railway. When even in spite of the request by the plaintiff the documents relating to the goods concerned are not produced by the defendant railway, it is open to the Court under S. 114 (g) of the Evidence Act to draw a presumption that the documents if produced would go against the case of the defendant. AIR 1937 PC 152, Rel. on.

Held, on facts, that in view of the admission of the defendant railway that there was further loss after the goods came into their custody it was their duty to produce relevant documents and for end of justice, the case was remanded to give them the opportunity. 1963 Ker LT 444.

——S. 80 — Civil P. C. (1908), Ss. 20, 79, 80 — Through-booked goods — Goods lost after reaching destination — Suit for loss of goods — Suit is to be filed against Central Government — Court at place where goods were booked has jurisdiction to entertain suit. — See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 20. AIR 1960 Ker 257.

——S. 80 — One railway administration receiving goods and sending it over its railway and over that of other administration — Damage caused to goods in transit — Suit filed against Union of India — Either of the Railways not joined as party — Suit not maintainable. AIR 1950 Nag 85, Rel. on. 1962 MPLJ 575: 1962 Jab LJ 811: 1962 MPC 469: AIR 1962 Madh Pra 301 (303, 304) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 11) (DB).

——Ss. 80 and 74-E — Suit for damages for short delivery of consignment — Parties — Contracting Railway primarily liable for damages to consignment — Goods booked for transit over several railways — S. 74-E creating legal fiction that each of the Railways carrying goods is deemed to have contracted — S. 74-E not to control operation of S. 80 but would be subject to the same — Unless the case is within the ambit of S. 80, the Railway Administration other than the contracting Railway is not liable for any damage — Other Railway liable only if damage was done within its jurisdiction — See Railways Act (1890), S. 74-E. 1961 MPLJ (Notes) 200.

——S. 80 — Frame of suit — Suit against Dominion of India for damages — Goods carried by two railway administrations — Railway administrations need not to be impleaded. See C. P. Code (1908), S. 79. AIR 1957 Madh Pra 157 (DB).

——S. 80 — Forum of suit — Goods consigned at Cawnpore station on G. I. P. Railway for Cuddalore station on South Indian Railway — Deterioration and damage of goods at Cuddalore station as a result of negligence amounting to misconduct committed on South Indian Railway — Suit for compensation under Section 80 against South Indian Railway — South Indian Railway and not G. I. P. Railway held was prima facie liable for compensation and suit was therefore properly instituted. (1952) 2 MLJ 713: 1952 Mad WN 824: 65 Mad LW 1020: ILR (1953) Mad 916: AIR 1953 Mad 217 (218) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Ss. 80, 76 — Object and scope of S. 80 — Goods booked through two railways — Loss — Aggrieved party has option of suit against railway administration where goods were delivered for consignment or against administration on whose railway loss occurred — Latter is agent of former — Suit against latter — Burden to prove that loss occurred there is heavy on plaintiff — Case before Independence Act — Suit laid against Governor-General does not include suit against administration — Suit must be against administration which is sought to be made liable — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 79.

Under S. 80, Railways Act, each railway administration is to be treated as a separate entity with separate existence and personality. The injured party has the option to sue either the railway administration with whom the contract was made or the railway administration on whose railway the loss occurred. It is true that under S. 76 in any suit against a railway administration it is not necessary for the plaintiff to prove how the loss was caused. But since different railway administrations are to be treated as separate entities and the contract is only with the administration that received the goods, that administration is the principal, and the other railway merely acts as agent of the principal. Section 80 saves the agent unless the agent is responsible for loss.

But where a plaintiff, who having his rights against the principal, (that is to say, the railway administration with whom he enters into a contract) chooses to omit that administration and sues the agent administration, undertakes a burden to prove that the loss occurred on the agent administration, which he is required to discharge strictly: 34 All 422; AIR 1917 Nag 119 and AIR 1927 Pat 844, Rel. on.

Merely suing the Governor-General as representing the entire State owned railways (at least before the Indian Independence Act was passed), is not a proper form of suit because that would render S. 80 otiose and meaningless. Whatever may be the position after the Indian Independence Act, the suit must be against one or the other railway administration or both. Suing the Governor-General would not make the railway administration a party as it is not only contrary to the scheme of the Act but would also make S. 80 of the Act inoperative. 1950 Nag LJ 128: ILR (1950) Nag 212: AIR 1950 Nag 85 (87) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 8, 9) (DB).

3. Liability of railways.

●——Ss. 80, 72 — Applicability — Goods consigned from Quetta in Pakistan to New Delhi in India — Goods carried by Pakistan Railway and Indian Railway — No treaty between two countries — Suit by consignee for compensation for non-delivery at New Delhi against Dominion of India — Liability of Forwarding Railway under implied contract of bailment — Limitation — (Contract Act (1872), Ss. 151, 152, 161, 71, 194) — (Limitation Act (1908), Art. 30).

The plaintiff booked to himself as consignee goods per passenger train from Quetta in Pakistan to New Delhi in India. Receiving Railway (Pakistan Railway) ended at the Pakistan frontier. The goods were taken over by the Forwarding Railway (Indian Railway) and came safely upto New Delhi. There was no treaty or understanding between the two Railways or their States in the matter of liabilities of the respective railways in the case of through booked traffic. The plaintiff made a claim against the Forwarding Railway for compensation for non-delivery of goods entrusted to the said Railway and as the demand was not complied with, he instituted a suit against the Dominion of India.

Held, (1) the statutory liability under S. 80 of the Railways Act could not be invoked, as that section applied only to a case of through booked traffic involving two or more Railway Administrations in India; and not where the Receiving Railway was situated in foreign country and the Forwarding Railway in the Indian territory. In such a case by the doctrine of lex loci contractus, S. 80 could not apply beyond the territories of India. (2) In the absence of proof of any treaty arrangement between these two States governing the rights inter se in matter of through booked traffic, the plaintiff could not rely on the principle that (i) the Receiving Railway was the agent of the Forwarding Railway; or that (ii) both the Railways constituted a partnership and each acted as the agent of the other. (3) In the absence of any contract between the two Governments or the Railways, the legal basis on which the conduct of the plaintiff and the Railways could be sustained was that the plaintiff delivered the goods to the Receiving Railway with an authority to create the Forwarding Railway as his immediate bailee from the point the wagon was put on its rails. The facts clearly indicated that the plaintiff appointed the Receiving Railway as his agent to carry his goods on the railway to a place in India with whom Pakistan had no treaty arrangement in the matter of through booked traffic. In that situation the authority in the agent must necessarily be implied to appoint the Forwarding Railway to act for the consignor during that part of the journey of the goods by the Indian Railway; and, if so, by force of S. 194, Contract Act, the Forwarding Railway would be an agent of the consignor. If no such agency could be implied, a tacit agreement between the Receiving Railway and the Forwarding Railway to carry the plaintiff's goods to their destination might be implied from the facts found and the conduct of all the parties concerned. S. 71 of the Contract Act permitted the recognition of a contract of bailment implied by law under certain circumstances. If it be held that the Railway Administration in Pakistan for reasons of policy or otherwise left the wagon containing the goods within the borders of India and the Forwarding Railway Administration took them into their custody, it could not be denied that their responsibility in regard to the said goods would be that of a bailee. (4) Excluding the applicability of S. 80, Railways Act, the liability of the Forwarding Railway was governed by S. 72 of the said Act under which section the liability was, subject to the other provisions of the Act, that of a bailee under Ss. 151, 152 and 161 of the Contract Act. Therefore in the absence of any risk note the question reduced itself to an enquiry whether, on the facts, the Forwarding Railway observed the standard of diligence, required of an average prudent man. (5) On the question of limitation assuming that Art. 30 applied, the burden was upon the defendant (Forwarding Railway) who sought to non-suit the plaintiff on the ground of limitation to establish that the loss occurred beyond one year from the date of the suit. Union of India v. Amar Singh, 1960 Mad WN 122: (1961) 2 SCA 73: ILR (1960) Punj 536: (1960) 2 SCR 75: (1960) SCJ 543: AIR 1960 SC 233 (236, 237, 238, 239) (Prs 8, 11, 13, 14, 15, 16, 19).

——Ss. 80, 72 — Short delivery — Goods carried by separate railways — Proof by the claimant — One railway will not be liable unless it was proved that the other railway had delivered the entire consignment to it — Mere fact of payment of freight charges will not be enough to raise any presumption — See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1956 Ajmer 1.

——S. 80 — Through booked traffic — Loss of — Both parties giving evidence — Question of onus loses importance — Articles lost in foreign railway — Union of India cannot be made liable as a bailee. See Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101-104. AIR 1956 Assam 188 (DB).

——S. 80 — Scope — Several railways on which goods were in transit — Liability for loss.

Plaintiff leaving out the company through whom the goods were consigned — Plaintiff also not succeeding in proving that the loss or destruction occurred in any of the railways run by Union of India. Held he would not be entitled to a decree against Union of India. ILR (1956) 8 Assam 337.

——S. 80 — Suit for compensation for non-delivery of through-booked goods against Union of India without impleading various railways through which consignment had to pass — No allegation or proof that loss occurred on any particular Railway owned by defendants — Defendants cannot be made liable for loss unless plaintiff proved that loss had occurred on one of the Railways owned by defendant — (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101 to 103). AIR 1955 NUC (Assam) 2855 (DB).

——S. 80 — Suit for compensation for loss of goods — Which Railways are liable.

When certain goods are booked from a station on G. I. P. Railway and they are lost on E. I. Railway the suit for compensation for their loss must be brought under S. 80 against the G. I. P. Railway which was the Railway administration to which the goods were delivered or against the E. I. Railway on which the loss occurred. Where the suit is brought not against these Railways but against the Indian Union as owner of the B. B. and C. I. Railway and the Assam Railways, no decree can be passed against the Indian Union only because it owned these railways also. AIR 1950 Nag 85, Foll. ILR (1951) 3 Assam 144: AIR 1952 Assam 51 (51) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Ss. 80, 72 (1) — Responsibility of contracting railway for loss of goods — AIR 1946 Pat 336, Dissented from.

The proposition that the contracting railway is liable to pay compensation to the consignor and to the consignee in any event is not always correct. If there is no negligence or mis-conduct on the part of the contracting railway it having duly discharged its duties and responsibilities under S. 72 (1) that railway also will have to be absolved from all responsibilities for the loss of the goods. AIR 1946 Pat 336, Dist. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 72 (1). AIR 1956 Cal 390 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 SC 1879].

——S. 80 — Goods booked by Western Railway for delivery at a station on North Eastern Railway — Notice under S. 77 issued to latter Railway — No proof that loss or damage took place within jurisdiction of North Eastern Railway — Decree for damages cannot be granted against Union of India as owner of that Railway. See Railways Act (1890), S. 77. AIR 1964 Pat 383 (DB).

——S. 80 — Liability of different railways.

Before S. 74-E comes into play the loss must be proved as provided by in S. 80. If the loss is not proved then the only remedy to the person making the consignment is to sue the contracting Railway. See Railways Act (1890), S. 74-E. AIR 1958 Pat 575.

——S. 80 — Scope — Remedies under — If alternative — Goods consigned to A Railway for delivery on B railway — Loss occurring on A railway — B Railway's liability.

Section 80 gives the consignor the choice of claiming his remedy either against the railway administration to which the goods are consigned or against the railway administration on which the loss occurs. The remedy is alternative, and not cumulative. Where therefore the goods are consigned to A railway for delivery at a railway station on B railway and the suit for damages for short delivery is brought against the Union of India representing B railway, on which railway the loss has not taken place, B railway cannot be made liable for the loss either on the theory of agency or partnership and hence the suit is not maintainable. AIR 1956 Pat 434 (436, 437) (Pt C) (Pr 11).

——S. 80 — Liability of different railways.

While S. 80 gives option to the plaintiff to sue one or another of a number of railway administrations where the goods are booked though it does not imply much less require, that where the plaintiff has brought his suit against all the railway administrations concerned he is entitled to a decree against all or even such of them as have satisfied the Court that the loss occurring to the plaintiff was not due to their negligence. Under the law a railway company has not the liability of an insurer but only that of a bailee. If the plaintiff is unable to prove any default against the so-called contracting railway and if the latter is able to prove that it has properly discharged its statutory duty as a bailee, it must be absolved from all responsibility to the consignor for the loss of or damage to the goods. See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 4064 (DB).

——S. 80 — Loss to goods during transit on other railway — Railway to which goods are delivered is liable. AIR 1955 NUC (Sau) 5412 (DB).

4. Non-delivery.

——S. 80 (as it stood prior to its amendment in 1961) — Non-delivery of goods is covered by expression "loss, destruction or deterioration". 1962 Ker LJ 530: 1962 Ker LT 341.

——S. 80 — Applicability — Claim for non-delivery and claim for loss of goods — Difference between — Claim for non-delivery — Principles of S. 80 cannot be made applicable so as to entitle the defendant to have the suit dismissed on that ground. See Railways Act (1890), S. 77. AIR 1958 Pat 489 (DB).

——S. 80 — "Loss" — Allegation of loss due to negligence of servant of railway administration — It is a case of loss and not of non-delivery. AIR 1955 NUC (Pat) 2492.

——S. 80 — Scope and applicability — Non-delivery of part of consignment — Suit for damages.

Though S. 80 in terms does not refer to non-delivery at all however when there was provision in the agreement that the agreement shall be deemed to be made specially with all railway administrations who shall be carrier for any portion of the transit each will be liable. See Limitation Act (1908), Art. 31. AIR 1954 Pat 548 (DB).

——S. 80 — Applicability — Case of non-delivery of goods.

S. 80 of the Railways Act is inapplicable to a case of non-delivery of goods. 54 PLR 440: AIR 1953 Punj 43 (45) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

5. Proof of loss or damage.

●——S. 80 (as it stood prior to its amendment in 1961) — Through booked traffic — Consignment received in damaged condition — Suit for compensation against railway other than one which booked consignment — Burden of proof.

Under S. 80 it is for the consignor to establish, if he wants to sue a railway administration other than the one which booked the consignment, that the damage had occurred on its system. But where a consignor receives his consignment in a damaged condition from the delivering railway the burden would shift to the delivering railway to show that the damage had not occurred on its railway. The burden could be discharged by showing that the consignment was already damaged before it was received by that railway. Jetmull Bhojraj v. Darjeeling Himalayan Railway Co., Ltd., (1963) 1 SCJ 505: (1963) 1 An WR (SC) 89: (1963) 1 Mad LJ (SC) 89: 1963 SCD 509: (1963) 2 An LT 80: (1963) 2 SCR 832: AIR 1962 SC 1879 (1885) (Pt D) (Pr 24).

——Ss. 80 and 3 (6) — Suit for compensation for loss of consignment carried by two railway administrations owned by Union of India — Suit against Union of India — Notices of claim under S. 77, Railways Act and S. 80, C. P. Code, given to both railways — Suit is against both railways represented by Union of India — Burden of proving place where loss occurred is not on plaintiff.

Held, if the consignment was booked at a place within the jurisdiction of one railway administration to a place within the jurisdiction of another railway administration and the plaintiff sued the latter railway administration, then in that case the burden was on the plaintiff to show that the loss occurred within the jurisdiction of the railway administration within whose jurisdiction the place of the delivery was situate. But if the plaintiff sued the railway administration of the place where the consignment had been booked, then it was not necessary for the plaintiff to show that the loss occurred at any particular point of its transit from the place of consignment to the place of its delivery. Since the definition of railway administration in S. 3 (6), Railways Act includes the Government, in the case of railways which are owned by Government they could sufficiently be represented by the Union of India. In the present case both the railway administrations being under the Central Government, the Union of India could represent both of them and it could be said that the suit was not only against N. E. Railway but also against Western Railway. The plaintiff never attempted to fix any particular place falling within the course of the transit of the consignment as the place where the loss occurred. The mere mention of North Eastern Railway in the array of parties could not imply that the claim had not been directed as against the Western Railway as well which was properly represented by the Union of India. Hence the burden was not on the plaintiff to prove the place where the loss occurred. AIR 1960 Ker 257 and AIR 1957 Madh Pra 157, Rel. on; AIR 1962 Madh Pra 301, Not foll. 1964 All LJ 298: 1964 All WR (HC) 654: AIR 1965 All 122 (123, 124) (Prs 6, 10).

——S. 80 — Suit against other railway administration.

The only other administration that may be made liable under S. 80 of the Railways Act in case of through booking, is the administration on which loss, destruction, or deterioration occurs. Compensation from any other administration is recoverable only on proof of loss, injury, destruction or deterioration of goods on the railway of that administration. It is for the plaintiffs to allege and prove, if the consignee railway has not been made a party to the suits whether the goods were actually delivered to any particular railway administration, and whether the goods were lost while in course of transit on any particular railway administration. ILR (1957) 9 Assam 1: AIR 1959 Assam 98 (101, 102, 103) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 14, 15) (DB).

——S. 80 — Loss of goods — Presumption.

The cause of action against the Union would arise only if the loss occurred on one of its Railways. The plaintiffs have to prove this and may not shift onus by a presumption. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 114. AIR 1959 Assam 98 (DB).

——S. 80 — Burden of proof — (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101 to 104).

The onus is on the plaintiff to prove that the loss had occurred while on the railway over which the goods have passed which is attempted to be made liable. 60 Cal WN 683: ILR (1957) 3 Cal 713: AIR 1956 Cal 390 (392) (Pt C) (Pr 21) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 SC 1879].

——S. 80 — Mysore Railways Act, S. 64 — Burden of proving delivery by connecting Railway to defendant Railway.

When goods are carried by more than one railway, and the plaintiff wants to make a particular railway liable for the alleged loss of goods, the burden of proving that the goods were delivered by the connecting railway to the railway which is sought to be made liable is heavily on the plaintiff. ILR (1955) Mys 444: AIR 1955 Mys 123 (124) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

——S. 80 — Allegation of damage to goods against particular Railway administration — Onus of proof.

Where the case set up against a railway administration for damage caused to goods consigned to another railway administration is that a particular administration or administrations of the Union are responsible, it has got to be shown by the plaintiff that the loss occurred on the Railway or Railways of the Union administration. The only administration that may be made liable under S. 80 in case of through-booking is the administration on which loss, destruction or deterioration occurs. Compensation from such administration is recoverable only on proof of loss, injury, destruction or deterioration of goods on the railway of that administration. This liability being statutory, the onus of proof does not shift. And S. 106 and S. 114 of the Evidence Act have no application in a case where the onus is placed by a particular statute, namely, S. 80 of the Railways Act. AIR 1960 Orissa 100 and AIR 1956 Cal 390 and AIR 1959 Pat 335 and AIR 1959 Assam 98, Rel. on. ILR (1959) Cut 716: AIR 1960 Orissa 103 (106) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——S. 80 — Plaintiff exercising his option to sue defendant Railway administration — Failure to discharge onus under section — Plaintiff cannot take advantage of S. 106, Evidence Act — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 106), (1959) 1 OJD 299: ILR (1959) Cut 300: AIR 1960 Orissa 100 (103) (Pt B) (Pr 10).

——S. 80 (as they stood prior to admendment of 1961) — Non-delivery of goods booked on Northern Railway to be delivered on station of Eastern Railway — Cause of action in suit against Eastern Railway based on loss of goods — Plaintiff must allege or prove loss on Eastern Railway — Decree on ground of non-delivery alone, held not proper. See Railways Act (1890), S. 72. AIR 1964 Pat 486 (DB).

——S. 80 — Short delivery — Suit against non-contracting railway — Proof of loss on such railway — Onus.

Where goods are consigned to a railway for delivery at a railway station on another railway and the suit for damages for short delivery is brought against the Governor-General or the Union of India representing the latter railway where the loss does not take place the latter cannot be made liable for the loss on the theory of agency or partnership. Therefore it is necessary to allege and prove that the loss occurred while the goods were in the custody of that railway. The onus of proof is on the plaintiff before he could succeed in the claim against that railway and he could discharge that onus by asking for discovery of the documents from the defendant railway under the provisions of O. 11, R. 12 or O. 11, R. 14 of C. P. Code, with regard to the custody of the goods in the course of transit within their limits. 1959 BLJR 241: AIR 1959 Pat 335 (335) (Pr 2) (DB).

——S. 80 — Suit for loss against particular railway — Plaintiff claiming remedy against railway on which loss occurred and not against railway to which goods were consigned — Plaintiff must prove that loss occurred due to negligence of particular railway — He could have sued both railways, but having made his choice, he must stand by it. AIR 1955 NUC (Pat) 2492.

——S. 80 — Transport over several railways — Burden of proof.

Where goods are consigned for transport from one place to another over two or more railways and there is evidence to show that they reached a particular midway station from where the jurisdiction of the delivering company commences, and the goods have not reached the destination, the only conclusion is that the loss occurred on the railway of the delivering company. In such a case the consignor has the option to sue either the forwarding company with whom he had contracted for transport of the goods, or the delivering company which after having received the goods, failed to deliver them to the consignor or his assignee. The other Railway systems over which the goods are to be carried, including the delivering Railway, act as substituted agents for (and not as sub-agents of) the forwarding company and are liable to the principal for all kinds of torts committed by them. ILR (1958) Punj 467: AIR 1958 Punj 149 (151, 152) (Pt C) (Prs 6, 11) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 Punj 262].

6. Notice.

——Ss. 80, 77 (before its amendment by Act 39 of 1961) — Scope of — Goods consigned to Railway A to be delivered at a place on Railway B — Liability for loss — Notice under S. 77 to be given to each railway — See Railways Act (1890) (Before its amendment by Act 39 of 1961), S. 77. AIR 1964 Andh Pra 172 (DB).

——Ss. 80, 77 and 140 — Section 77 read with Ss. 80 and 140 treats each railway administration as separate entity — Notice of claim should be served on each — AIR 1952 Mad 795, Diss. from — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 80). — See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 77. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 594 (DB).

——S. 80 — Scope and applicability — Contract of carriage — Consignment of goods to East Bengal Railway belonging to Pakistan — Delivery to be made by East Indian Railway belonging to Union of India — Non-delivery — Notice to Governor-General through General Manager — Notice held valid — Union of India held liable. See Railways Act (1890), S. 77. ILR (1959) 1 Cal 450.

——S. 80 — Single notice against Union of India as representing all Railways — Not sufficient. See Railways Act (1890), S. 77. AIR 1957 Cal 202.

——S. 80 — Service of notice —To whom to be given.

A notice under S. 77 must be separately given to each railway administration impleaded as a dependent under S. 80. This is because each railway administration is to be treated as a separate entity with separate existence and personality for the purpose of a suit under S. 80 of the Act. See Railways Act (1890), S. 77. AIR 1959 Madhya Pradesh 276 (DB).

——Ss. 80, 77 and 140 — Through traffic — Notice under S. 77 to General Manager of one of railway administrations is sufficient — AIR 1949 Pat 329, Diss. from: (1955) 1 Mad LJ 79; AIR 1955 Mad 151, Overruled. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 77. AIR 1960 Mad 58 (DB).

——S. 80 — Goods carried over two Railway Administrations — Loss of goods — Notice under S. 77 to General Manager of one railway administration is not sufficient. See Railways Act (1890), S. 77. AIR 1955 Mad 151.

[Overruled in AIR 1960 Mad 58].

——Ss. 80, 77, 77-C, 74-D—Administration not disclosing how consignment was dealt with — Consignee not in position to know whether goods were lost or destroyed in transit — Suit for non-delivery — Notice under S. 77 is not necessary — See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 77. AIR 1961 Manipur 45.

——Ss. 80, 77-D — C. P. Code (1908), S. 80 — Suit for non-delivery — Notice under S. 80, C. P. Code, has to be sent to destination Railway only.

In a suit for non-delivery, the proper Railway against whom notice under S. 80, C. P. Code has to be sent and the claim to be made is the destination Railway who are bound to deliver the goods, as distinguished from a suit under S. 80 of the Railways Act which is for loss or destruction of the goods. In the latter case, the fact of loss or destruction is not in dispute and the fact must have been made known to the party, as required under S. 74-D (b) of the Act. In such a case the suit has to be brought either under S. 80 of the Railways Act, against the Railway to whom the goods were delivered for transit or the Railway where the loss or destruction occurred. But in the case of suit for compensation for non-delivery, which is not a suit under S. 80 of the Railways Act, it can be brought only against the destination Railway for their failure to deliver the goods and the notice under S. 80, C. P. Code sent to the destination Railway is a proper notice. AIR 1960 Mad 58, Relied on. AIR 1961 Manipur 45 (49) (Pt F) (Pr 21).

——Ss. 80, 77 — Through booked goods — Damage — Notice to one railway administration concerned — If notice to other railway administration.

In case of through booking of goods where the goods consigned are carried over several railway administrations notice of claim for the loss or damage to the goods has to be given to each of the railways concerned, and notice to one railway administration is not sufficient notice to the other railways in order that they may be made liable for the alleged loss or damage. AIR 1960 Mad 58, Dissent, from; AIR 1956 Orissa 29 and AIR 1949 Pat 329 and AIR 1959 Pat 335 and AIR 1959 Andh Pra 594 and AIR 1960 Orissa 103, Foll. (1960) 2 OJD 49: ILR (1960) Cut 110: AIR 1960 Orissa 154 (156, 157) (Prs 6, 7).

SECTION 82-A

——Ss. 82-A and 82-H — 'Compensation more than once in respect of the same accident' — Injury or death in railway accident — Compensation received under S. 82-A — Compensation cannot be claimed once again under any other Act — (Workmen's Compensation Act (1923), S. 3).

Where a person has recovered compensation under section 82-A of the Railways Act for loss occasioned by a railway accident, he or, in case of his death, his heirs are not entitled to claim compensation in respect of the same accident once again under the Workmen's Compensation Act or under any other law creating a right to such compensation. Section 82-H clearly means, and it is plain from the concluding part of the section that in respect of loss occasioned by a railway accident there should be only one claim and under only one of the laws which create a right to such compensation. (1965) 1 Mys LJ 215: (1965) 1 Law Rep 817: AIR 1965 Mys 306 (308, 309) (Pt A) (Prs 13, 16) (DB).

——Ss. 82-A, 3 (4), 3 (2) — 'Railway' includes 'steamer' — 1960 SCJ 679: AIR 1960 SC 610, Rel. on — 'Jetty' is a part of a 'steamer' which is included in the new 'Railway' — It is a ferry but jetty uncoupled with steamer is not part of steamer — Deceased standing on jetty to enboard steamer is passenger but is not a passenger in steamer — (1896) AC 57, (1882) 9 QBD 106, Disting. — Steamer of defendants dashing jetty and drowned — Defendants are not entitled to compensation — Case, however, recommended on humanitarian grounds. 1962 BLJR 354: AIR 1962 Pat 109 (112, 113, 114, 115) (Pt A) (Prs 16, 17, 21, 29, 30, 31, 32, 34, 42).

——Ss. 82-A, 66 and 68 — 'Passenger' — Person travelling without ticket or permission.

The term 'passenger' has not been defined in the Railways Act. Reading Ss. 66 and 68 together it is clear that a person desirous of travelling on a railway has to obtain a ticket under S. 66 of the Act or can travel, if he has with him no proper pass or ticket, with the permission of the railway servant under S. 68 of the Act. A person who is travelling on a train without a proper pass, ticket or permission as required by Ss. 66 and 68 of the Act is a trespasser and cannot be called a passenger within the meaning of S. 82-A of the Act.

Semble — The heirs of such a trespasser, in case where he meets with death in an accident to the train through which he happens to be travelling, are not entitled to claim compensation from the railway. 1959 BLJR 150: 1959 Pat LR 65: ILR 38 Pat 577: AIR 1959 Pat 316 (317, 318) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5, 8) (DB).

——S. 82-A — Assessment of compensation — Principles.

The liability to pay compensation under S. 82-A has no necessary relation to the liability to pay damages in an action in tort. There are no reasons why the principles relating to damages in an action in tort should be imported into S. 82-A of the Act. AIR 1952 Pat 466, Rel. on. 1959 BLJR 150: 1959 Pat LR 65: ILR 38 Pat 577: AIR 1959 Pat 316 (318) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

——S. 82-A — Compensation — Basis.

Person who suffers from temporary disablement is entitled to some compensation under the provisions of S. 82-A. The basis on which the compensation is to be fixed is not the same on which damages are allowed under the common law of torts, because the compensation payable under S. 82-A is irrespective of any wrongful act neglect or default on the part of the railway administration. See Railway Accidents (Compensation) Rules (1950), R. 6. AIR 1954 Pat 507 (DB).

——S. 82-A — Scope — Railway Accidents (Compensation) Rules, 1950 — If ultra vires or invalid.

The Railway Accidents (Compensation) Rules, 1950, made under S. 82-J of the Railways Act, clearly work out the object of S. 82, and are in no way inconsistent with the meaning of S. 82; nor do they go beyond the object of that section. They cannot therefore be held to be invalid and inoperative. AIR 1952 Pat 466 (467) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Ss. 82-A, 66, 68 — Person travelling by goods train without ticket or permission injured in collision — Trespasser — Railway administration is not liable to pay any damages — Scope of S. 82-A indicated — (Tort — Damages — Carrier — Collision — Liability of railway to trespasser). See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 66. AIR 1957 Punj 164 (DB).

——S. 82-A — Scope and applicability.

S. 82-A applies only when the death is of a passenger travelling by train and meeting with an accident. But when somebody other than a passenger is killed in the accident that section has no application. Damages payable exceeding Rs. 10,000. S. 82-A is no bar in awarding them. AIR 1954 Vind Pra 17 (23) (Pt F) (Pr 36).

SECTION 82-F

——S. 82-F — Appeal under, against order of Claims Commissioner — Covered by Sch. 2, Item 4 of Hyderabad Court-fees Act corresponding to Sch. 2, Art. 11 of Central Act — Sum of Rs. 2/- is sufficient — See Court-fees Act (1870), Sch. 2 Art. 11. ILR (1959) An Pra 194.

SECTION 82-G

——S. 82-G — Apportionment of compensation in respect of death of passenger — Claims commissioner can apportion compensation only among applicants — He has no power to apportion compensation to dependants of deceased who are not applicants before him.

It is only when there are more applicants than one for compensation in respect of the death of a single passenger that the Claims Commissioner can apportion the compensation determined to be payable by the railway administration but even in such a case the apportionment can be made only amongst the applicants and no part of the compensation can be given to those dependents of the deceased who are not the applicants before him. The Claims Commissioner has no power to inquire into the question as to who are the dependents of the deceased and whether the compensation determined to be payable by the railway administration should be apportioned amongst them. There is no provision in Ss. 82-A to 82-J or in any other part of the Railways Act which enables a dependent of the deceased to make an application for the benefit of himself and the other dependents of the deceased nor is there any provision which makes the benefit of any order which may be made by the Claims Commissioner on the application of a dependent of the deceased available to the other dependents. (1964) 5 Guj LR 1021: ILR (1964) Guj 1178: AIR 1965 Guj 156 (157) (Pr 4) (DB).

SECTION 82-H

——Ss. 82-H, 82-A — "Compensation more than once in respect of the same accident" — Injury or death in railway accident — Compensation received under S. 82-A — Compensation cannot be claimed once again under any other Act — (Workmen's Compensation Act (1923), S. 3) — See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 82-A. AIR 1965 Mys 306 (DB).

SECTION 82-J

——S. 82-J — Rules under — Railway Accidents (Compensation) Rules (1950), R. 11 (1) (i) — Rule is not ultra vires.

Rule 11 (1) (i) of the Railway Accidents (Compensation) Rules, 1950 framed under S. 82-J of the Railways Act does not go beyond the rule making power and is not inconsistent with S. 82-A (1) and is not ultra vires. 1962 BLJR 354: AIR 1962 Pat 109 (115) (Pt B) (Pr 37).

——Ss. 82-J, 82-A — Rules under S. 82-J — Railway Accidents (Compensation) Rules (1950) — Rules are not inconsistent with S. 82-A, Railways Act — See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 82-A. AIR 1952 Pat 466 (DB).

SECTION 84

——S. 84 — Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 476-A, 476, 195 (3) — Claims Commissioner appointed under Railways Act, if subordinate to High Court — Claims Commissioner upholding claim — Subsequent application by State to file complaint for prosecution of claimant for offences under Ss. 420 and 193, Penal Code for making false claim — Not maintainable — See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 476-A. 1959 Cri LJ 558: AIR 1959 Andh Pra 235.

SECTION 101

●——S. 101 — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 367 — Appreciation of evidence — Collision between two trains at station — Prosecution of Station Master for negligence — Correct approach to impute negligence on the part of the Station Master is to see whether the signals were lowered at that crucial moment — Value of oral evidence — See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 367. 1956 Cri LJ 1372: AIR 1956 SC 738.

——S. 101 (a) — Applicability — 'Endanger' — Facts to be proved for conviction.

Before a conviction can be had under S. 101 (a) of the Railways Act, the prosecution must prove that a general rule had been disobeyed; and that by reason of such disobedience, the safety of any person was endangered. Actual harm need not be caused but a possibility of harm being caused would suffice. A breach of the rules per se would not be punishable under S. 101 of the Act. While a contravention of the rules might justify departmental action, to sustain a charge under S. 101; the prosecution must prove that by the disobedience of the general rule, the safety of any person had been imperilled.

Held on facts, — There was not even a remote possibility of human life being endangered by the action of the petitioner in starting the train without taking the line clear token. 1961 Mad LJ (Cr) 494: (1961) 2 An WR 80.

——Ss. 101 (a) and 101 (c) — General and Subsidiary Rules, Rr. 52 and 52-I — Negligence is not only doing repairs negligently but also breach of rule endangering public safety — AIR 1924 Oudh 250, Disting.— Duty under General Rule 52 and Subsidiary Rule 52-I is that of person actually carrying out repairs. ILR (1961) Bom 923: 1961 Nag LJ 298: 63 Bom LR 711: 1962 (1) Cr LJ 273: AIR 1962 Bom 41 (43, 44, 45) (Prs 8, 9, 10, 11, 12).

——S. 101 — Contributory negligence is no defence. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 5910 (DB).

——S. 101 — Subsidiary Rules, Rr. 152-1 and 147-1 (a) — Supervision required of shunting master at time of loose shunting while setting points — Nature of.

Where the shunting master in charge of shunting operations, directed the pointsman to set the points for siding No. 2, for purposes of taking the wagons on that siding for loose shunting and on the pointsman shouting that the point has been accordingly set up, the shunting master signalled the engine driver to shunt the wagons, but it was found that the pointsman instead of setting the point for siding No. 2 had set it for siding No. 1 with the result that the wagons were moved on siding number 1 fatally injuring one of the labourers who were working on siding No. 1 the shunting master is not guilty of disobedience of subsidiary rules, 152-I and 147-1 (a).

The S. R. 147-1 (a) does not require that the shunting master should personally go to the spot where the levers for working the points are situated, and to verify by going there whether the points are set as per his orders.

Supervision as required by S. R. 147-1 (a) does not mean that the person supervising the work to be done under his orders, has, every time he issues orders, which have to be carried out by another, to go to that person and see that they are correctly carried out. If he issues a correct order, he cannot be said to have failed in his duty of supervision from the point of view of criminal liability, if a person who is carrying out the order commits a mistake, of which the person supervising could not have known, except by going to the spot where the order is being executed, and watching how that person is carrying out that order.

Since there was no evidence that the point-man set the point for siding No. 1 though he was directed to set it for siding No. 2, he also could not be said to be guilty of disobedience of the subsidiary rules. 1961 Jab LJ 1003: 1961 MPLJ 1157: ILR (1961) Madh Pra 403.

——S. 101 — Subsidiary rule 147-1 (b) — Applicability of.

Subsidiary rule 147-1 (b) refers to shunting connected with train at roadside stations and does not cover a case of loose shunting at main stations like Bhopal. 1961 Jab LJ 1003: 1961 MPLJ 1157: ILR (1961) Madh Pra 403.

——S. 101 — Scope — Culpable negligence of Assistant Station Master — Effect — Subsidiary Rules of Western Railway, S. R. 37 (2) — Non-compliance with — Effect.

In determining the culpability of negligence regard must always be had (i) to the nature of the employment of the accused, and (ii) to the special degree of care and caution in the discharge of his duty. The duties of an Assistant Station Master are of a highly responsible character and the most important of all his duties is to see that no collision takes place. Rules (in particular S. R. 37 (2)) require that the Assistant Station Master must keep the key in his personal custody. The clear intention of the rule is that in no circumstance should it be accessible to any one unless it is delivered by the Assistant Station Master himself. Therefore, in whatever manner the pointsman gets the key the Station Master must be held negligent and must be held to have disobeyed the rules, unless it is found that there is any force or fraud used against him. 1960 Jab LJ 308: 1959 Cr LJ 983: 1960 MPLJ 185: ILR (1959) Madh Pra 411: AIR 1959 Madh Pra 284 (288) (Pt C) (Pr 41) (DB).

——S. 101 — Crossing of trains at railway station — Omission to discharge personal responsibility cast on Assistant Station Master by rules — Act directly contributing to train collision — Conviction under S. 101 and S. 304-A, I. P. Code held proper — Single sentence passed for both offences — Particular offence for which sentence passed not indicated — Lower Court's order modified — Penal Code (1860), Ss. 304-A, 71. Conviction under S. 101 of the Railways Act and S. 304-A, I. P. Code was held proper.

When a person is convicted of two offences the Court must indicate the particular offence for which the sentence is passed. It is always open to the Court not to pass any sentence for the other allied offence. Thus, where a single sentence was passed by the trial Court for the offence under S. 101 of the Railways Act and for that under S. 304-A, I. P. Code, as their ingredients were almost the same, the order of the lower Court was modified and it was directed that the sentence on the accused by the lower Court should be for the offence under S. 101 of the Railways Act, and that no separate sentence was necessary for the offence under S. 304-A, Penal Code. AIR 1916 Nag 26; AIR 1925 Lah. 423 and AIR 1924 All 438, Rel. on. AIR 1936 All 745; ILR 32 Cal 73 and 176 ER 1319, Disting. (1961) 3 Orissa JD 313: 28 Cut LT 107: ILR (1962) Cut 60.

——S. 101 — Sentence.

In assessing the proper punishment to be imposed on the accused, the likelihood of their losing their jobs as a result of departmental action following their conviction under S. 101, Railways Act can be taken into consideration. 1959 Raj LW 577: ILR (1959) 9 Raj 589.

——S. 101 — Plea of obeying orders — If valid defence.

It is the duty of a subordinate officer to disobey an order of his superior officer if on the very face it is clearly wrong and will lead to wanton loss of life if carried out. Hence it is no defence that the accused who is a subordinate carried out the orders of his superior. (1959) Raj LW 577: ILR (1959) 9 Raj 589.

——S. 101 — Applicability — Diversion of train on wrong line — Offence.

In every case where a travelling train is actually diverted to a wrong line on which there is another train the safety of persons in the two trains is endangered within the meaning of S. 101 of the Railways Act. If the error is due to disobedience of any rule or order or due to any rash or negligent act or omission, the offence under S. 101 is committed. The fact that due to the alertness of the driver the collision was averted is no ground for holding that no life was actually endangered. (1959) Raj LW 577: ILR (1959) 9 Raj 589.

SECTION 109

——S. 109 (1) — Offence under — Ingredients not satisfied.

In a case where neither was it established that the compartment was reserved nor was it proved that the accused refused to leave the compartment when required to do so.

Held, that the conviction under Section 109 was not valid. ILR (1964) 16 Assam 196: 1965 (1) Cri LJ 545: AIR 1965 Assam 38 (39) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

SECTION 110

——S. 110 — Non-cognizable offence — Magistrate can take cognizance on police report — Omission to examine officer — Conviction cannot be set aside on the ground of that irregularity. See Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 190 (1). 1962 (1) Cr LJ 467: AIR 1962 Raj 94.

——S. 110 — Section is applicable to Railway servants also.

Section 110 of the Railways Act is in general terms and it applies to all persons and there is no reason why any distinction should be made in the application of this section to an offence committed by a railway servant. He comes equally within the definition of the word 'person' and the use of the words 'fellow passengers' does not make any difference because a railway servant is a passenger in the compartment if he happens to be travelling therein. AIR 1962 Raj 92, Rel. on. 1961 Raj LW 518: 1962 (1) Cr LJ 467: AIR 1962 Raj 94 (96) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

SECTION 112

——S. 112 — Evidence Act (1872), Sec. 106 Illustration (b) and Section 101 Illustration (a) — Scope and object — Facts especially within knowledge' — Interpretation — 'Especially', meaning of — (Interpretation of Statutes — Illustrations) — Civil P. C. (1908), Pre.) — (Words and Phrases — 'Especially') — Illustration (b) to Section 106, Evidence Act has obvious reference to a very special type of case, namely, to offences under Sections 112, 113 of Railways Act — See Evidence Act (1872), Section 106, Illus. (b). 1956 Cri LJ 794: AIR 1956 SC 404.

——S. 112 — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 4 (1) (h) — Complainant, who is — Case under Railways Act — Complaint by Asst. Commercial Officer — Whole railway administration cannot be treated as complainant — See Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 4 (1) (h). 1961 (2) Cri LJ 185: AIR 1961 All 447.

——S. 112 — Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 439 — Who can aply in revision — Third parties — Locus standi of — There is no legal bar to revision applications being entertained at instance of third parties — See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 439. 1961 (2) Cri LJ 185: AIR 1961 All 447.

——S. 112 — Conviction under, when can be sustained — Ticketless travel — No allegation of fraudulent intention in complaint — Charge not framed thereon and accused not questioned on the point — Conviction under section cannot stand. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 4430.

——Ss. 112, 113 — Applicability and scope.

No doubt a person is bound to produce a railway ticket or pass when demanded and would be liable to pay the fare and penalty if he is unable to produce the ticket when demanded. It would, however, be difficult to say that in all cases the omission to produce the ticket or pass could be referable to an intention to defraud the railway. It is possible that a person may lose his ticket or may even be unable to purchase one on account of rush at the booking office or want of sufficient time. In all such cases section 112 of the Railways Act would be inapplicable and the person in default could be held liable under section 113 of the Act. 1953 All WR (HC) 474: 1953 All LJ 474: 1953 Cri LJ 1855: AIR 1954 All 12 (13) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——S. 112 — Fraudulent intent to defraud essential. AIR 1951 All 410 (411) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——S. 112 — Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 221, 242 and 255 — Complaint under Section 113 (4), Railways Act — Conviction under Section 112 of the same Act — Conviction is illegal. See Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 221. 51 Cri LJ 1174: AIR 1950 All 441.

——S. 112 — Applicability — Burden of proof — Evidence Act (1872), Sections 101, 103.

Before a person can be convicted of an offence under Section 112 of the Act, he has to be charged and tried for that offence. In order to make out an offence under Section 112 the main ingredient of that offence namely, the intention to defraud a railway administration has to be established. In some cases, it may be possible to prove that the person concerned intended to defraud a railway administration; but there may be other cases, where no such presumption would arise. In such cases, (illustrations given) it will be necessary for the prosecution to allege and prove as a fact that the person concerned intended to defraud the railway administration. 51 Cri LJ 1174: AIR 1950 All 441 (442) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——S. 112 — Intention to defraud railway administration on part of accused — Burden of proof — S. 106, Evidence Act not applicable.

Mere travelling without pass or ticket does not attract S. 112, unless it can be inferred from the circumstances that any person travelled in contravention of S. 68 with intent to defraud the Railway administration. The intention of the accused is a matter which is to be inferred from the circumstances of each case. Undoubtedly it will be especially within the knowledge of the accused to explain as to how he was not travelling in contravention of S. 68, Railways Act without a ticket or a pass and to that extent the burden is on the accused, but the prosecution is not relieved of its responsibility to establish that the accused travelled with intent to defraud the railway administration. The question of intention is one which depends upon the circumstances of each case, and to which S. 106, Evidence Act, does not apply. 1965 (1) Cri LJ 545: ILR (1964) 16 Assam 196: AIR 1965 Assam 38 (39) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Ss. 112 and 113 (2) — Intention to defraud essential — Person having authority to travel in second class travelling in first class compartment — No offence.

The accused, a Railway guard, who had authority to travel by second class was found to be travelling in a first class compartment. The accused was tried and convicted on his own plea of guilty under S. 112, Railways Act.

Held, that the conviction of the accused under S. 112 could not be sustained. To constitute an offence under S. 112, Railways Act, the accused should enter the compartment with intent to defraud the Railway administration. When the allegations simply were that the accused was detected travelling in a first class compartment without any ticket or any authority, the allegations did not per se constitute an offence under S. 112, Railways Act, at best his liability was to make good the charges and the compensation, if any, as provided by S. 113 (5), Railways Act. 1956 Cr LJ 1393: AIR 1956 Assam 186 (186) (Pr 2).

SECTION 113

●——S. 113 — Evidence Act (1872), S. 106, Illustration (b) and S. 101, Illustration (a) — Scope and object — 'Facts especially within knowledge' — Interpretation — 'Especially', meaning of — (Interpretation of Statutes — Illustrations) — (Civil P. C. (1908), Pre.) — (Words and Phrases — 'Especially' — Illustration (b) to S. 106, Evidence Act has obvious reference to a very special type of cases namely to offences under Ss. 112, 113 of the Railways Act — See Evidence Act (1872), S. 106. Illus. (b). 1956 Cri LJ 794: AIR 1956 SC 404.

——S. 113 — Applicability and scope.

No doubt a person is bound to produce a railway ticket when demanded. It is possible that a person may lose his ticket or may even be unable to purchase one on account of rush at the booking office or want of sufficient time. In all such cases S. 112 would be inapplicable and the person in default could be held liable under S. 113. See Railways Act (1890), S. 112. 1953 Cri LJ 1855: AIR 1954 All 12.

●——S. 113 — Scope.

Section 113 only provides a procedure for the recovery of railway dues and does not define any offence. The procedure provided by S. 113 of the Act is set in motion by an application and not by a complaint.

Hence a complaint under S. 113 against an accused is alleged to have travelled without a ticket is entirely misconceived. AIR 1951 All 410 (411) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——S. 113 — Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 221, 242 and 255 — Complaint under S. 113 (4), Railways Act — Conviction under S. 112 of the same Act — Conviction is illegal.— See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 221. 51 Cri LJ 1174: AIR 1950 All 441.

——S. 113 — Section does not create offence but a statutory liability for payment of penalty for breach of statutory obligations imposed upon every passenger travelling by railway. 51 Cri LJ 1174: AIR 1950 All 441 (443) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

——Ss. 113 (2), 112 — Intention to defraud essential — Person having authority to travel in second class travelling in first class compartment — No offence — See Railways Act (1890), S. 112. 1956 Cri LJ 1393: AIR 1956 Assam 186.

——Ss. 113, 47—Applicability—Travelling with pass not in accordance with R. 39 (b) — Offence — R. 39 (b)—Not in consistent with Act or unreasonable and therefore not ultra vires — Conviction under S. 113 held was fully justified. See Railways Act (1890), S. 47. 1952 Cri LJ 1462: AIR 1952 Bom 421.

——Ss. 113, 66, 74 — Contract between railway administration and passenger purchasing ticket — Half ticket purchased by adult — Misrepresentation — Contract becomes voidable and not void — Luggage booked on such ticket — Loss of luggage in transit — Railway administration is responsible for loss — See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 66. AIR 1962 Cal 48 (DB).

——Ss. 113 and 68 — Passenger ticket lost during travel — Excess recovery — A certificate under S. 68 could be issued only on condition that ticketless traveller subsequently pays the fare for the distance to be travelled — Suit to recover single fare or excess charge not maintainable —

See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 68. 1961 MPLJ (Notes) 56.

——S. 113 — Applicability.

Section 113 does not apply to offenders against justice, but ordinarily to innocent persons, who may find themselves in the wrong by mere accident. It imputes no criminal intention or offence to person to be dealt with thereunder. ILR (1955) Nag 872: 1955 Nag LJ 617: AIR 1955 Nag 265 (267) (Pt B) (Pr 15) (DB).

——S. 113 — Travelling without a ticket — Proceedings under S. 113 (4) — Relevant matters to be considered stated — Duty of Railway pointed out. AIR 1955 NUC (Pat) 4585.

——S. 113 (4) — Travelling without ticket — Doubt existing as to the actual distance the man travelled or the station at which he boarded the train — Proper form of charge-sheet to be used pointed out. AIR 1955 NUC (Pat) 4585.

——S. 113 (4) — Order under — Jurisdiction of High Court to interfere — Magistrate acting under S. 113 (4) is an inferior criminal Court within S. 435, Cri. P. C. read with S. 6 of that Code — High Court can interfer in revision under S. 439. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 435. AIR 1955 NUC (Pat) 4585.

SECTION 118

——S. 118 — 'Passenger' — Licensed caterer in railway department is not passenger — Bearer of licensed caterer cannot be convicted under S. 118 for travelling on foot-board of train. AIR 1955 NUC (Pat) 248.

——S. 118 — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 239 — Same transaction — Petitioners tried under S. 118, Railways Act — No community of purpose being passengers travelling to various destinations, having nothing to do in common — It could not be said that there was any common transaction — See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 239. AIR 1955 NUC (Pat) 248.

SECTION 120

——S. 120 — 'Person' — Meaning — Railway servant not included — AIR 1937 Bom 357, Foll; AIR 1919 Mad 971 (2) and AIR 1934 Pat 52 (1) and AIR 1946 Nag 200, Not Foll. 1960 All LJ 445: 1960 All WR (HC) 325: 1960 All Cr R 215: 1960 Cr LJ 1532: AIR 1960 All 721 (722) (Pr 8).

——S. 120 — Applicability — Railway servant — Prosecution.

A railway servant can be prosecuted under S. 120. AIR 1919 Mad 971 (2): 19 Cr LJ 313; AIR 1934 Pat 52 (1) and AIR 1946 Nag 150, Foll.; AIR 1929 Sind 249 (1) and AIR 1937 Bom 357, Not Foll. 1957 Cr LJ 1041: AIR 1957 All 636 (636) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——S. 120 — Mens rea — Presumption of Railway servant found in state of intoxication on railway platform — Conviction — Sustainability — (Penal Code (1860), S. 40).

Absence of the word 'knowingly' from the relevant penal provision does not necessarily exclude that ingredient of mens rea. It follws therefore that neither expressly nor by necessary implication has the presumption of mens rea been excluded from the provisions of S. 120. That being so, the conviction of a railway servant could not be sunstained merely because the actus revs of the section stands established namely, that he was found in a state of intoxication on the railway platform at the alleged time. On the contrary, it will have to be established further that whatever he did was one by him with a guilty mind. Where neither the railway seravant's presence at the railway platform nor his intoxication could be said to be his acts and there is absence of guilty mind behind those acts, the railway servant cannot be held to have committed any offence under S. 120. 1957 Cr LJ 1041: AIR 1957 All 636 (637, 638) (Pt B) (Prs 5, 8).

——S. 120 — 'Person' — Meaning of — Includes railway servant.

The word 'person' in S. 120 includes a railway employee who was not on duty when the offence was committed by him. Where all the ingredients of an offence under S. 120 are satisfied a railway servant can be convicted under S. 120. Though certain provisions in Ss. 100 and 120 appear to be similar, that can be no ground for thinking that S. 120 was enacted to apply to persons not covered by S. 100. AIR 1919 Mad 971 (2) and AIR 1934 Pat 52 (1) and AIR 1950 Mad 406 and AIR 1962 Raj 92, Rel. on; AIR 1937 Bom 357, Not Foll. 1965 (2) Cri LJ 741: AIR 1965 Cal 635 (635) (Pr 5) (DB).

——S. 120 — 'Any person' includes railway servant.

Held, that the words 'any person' occurring in S. 120, Railways Act had to be construed in their ordinary plain dictionary meaning without importing reservations not appearing in the section itself. Section 120, Railways Act covers acts contemplated therein and committed even by railway servants. (1946) NLJ 78: AIR 1946 Nag 150: ILR (1946) Nag 282 and 200, Foll.; AIR 1960 All 721, Not Foll. 1962 MPLJ (Notes) 228.

——S. 120 (b) — 'Nuisance' — Meaning.

'Nuisance' within the meaning of S. 120 (b), Railways Act means that which is offensive or annoying and would apply to an incident in which there were abuse, grappling and exchange of blows between two persons on railway premises. 1959 MPLJ (Notes) 134.

——S. 120 — Railway official hurling down bundle of bangles of fellow passenger and breaking them commits offence under S. 120. 63 Mad LW 66 (2): (1950) 1 Mad LJ 82: 1950 Mad WN 302 (1): 1950 Mad WN (Cri) 82 (1): 51 Cri LJ 1003: AIR 1950 Mad 406 (406) (Pr 1).

——S. 120 — Applicability — Drunkenness by railway servant on duty — S. 120 not applicable.

S. 120 is not applicable to the acts of a railway servant while he is on duty and is acting as such. The Act treats drunkenness in the case of a railway servant to be a more serious offence than in case of any other person in any railway carriage or upon any part of a railway. AIR 1919 Mad 971 (2) and AIR 1950 Mad 406 and AIR 1934 Pat 52 (1) and AIR 1946 Nag 200, Diss. from. AIR 1937 Bom 357 and AIR 1929 Sind 249 (1) and AIR 1960 All, 721, Rel. on. 65 Pun LR 312: ILR (1963) 1 Punj 569: 1963 (2) Cri LJ 318: AIR 1963 Punj 362 (362) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Ss. 120 and 121 — Constitution of India, Art. 311 (2) — Conviction on charge under Ss. 120, 121 — If conviction on criminal charge within Art. 311 (2) proviso (a), Constitution of India.

The word charge in Art. 311 (2), Proviso (a) contemplates some accusation and not merely a charge in the technical sense of the Code of Criminal Procedure. A charge under Ss. 120 & 121, Railways Act, on which a person is convicted falls under the proviso as the offences covered by the aforesaid sections can be regarded to be criminal in the sense in which that expression is used in the proviso. AIR 1946 Mad 375, Rel. on. AIR 1959 Punj 169 (169) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——S. 120 (b) — Use of abusive language — Evidence.

A categorical statement of a witness that he was abused in the name of his mother and sister is evidence enough to warrant a finding that the accused persons used abusive language. AIR 1925 Lah 151, Not Foll. ILR (1961) 11 Raj 959: 1961 Raj LW 392: 1962 (1) Cr LJ 465: AIR 1962 Raj 92 (92) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——S. 120 (b) — Nuisance — Meaning of — Beating a person on railway platform — Offence.

Nuisance ordinarily means that which annoys or hurts or that which is offensive. If persons indulge in the act of beating on a railway platform it is bound to cause annoyance to other persons who happen to be there at that time. The case would come under clause (b) because it would amount to the committing of nuisance on the Railway platform. ILR (1961) 11 Raj 959: 1961 Raj LW 392: 1962 (1) Cr LJ 465: AIR 1962 Raj 92 (92) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

——S. 120 — Person — Meaning of — Includes railway servant — Scope of S. 120 compared with that of Ss. 99 to 105.

Section 120 applies to railway servants. It may be that the provisions of S. 120 to some extent overlap the provisions of S. 100 but all the acts described in S. 120 are not covered under S. 100 and there is no other provision in the Act which makes the acts described in S. 120 (b) and (c) committed by railway servants punishable. Because Ss. 99 to 105 deal with the offences by railway servants and S. 120 appears under the offences falling under the head 'other offences' it cannot be said that the offences mentioned after S. 106 do not apply to railway servants. Offences under Ss. 99 to 105 are of special kind relating to railway servants but the offences mentioned in Ss. 106, 120 are such which can be committed both by railway servants as well as other persons. AIR 1919 Mad 971 (2) and AIR 1934 Pat 52 (1) and AIR 1946 Nag 150 and AIR 1946 Nag 200 and AIR 1957 All 636, Rel. on; AIR 1937 Bom 357 and AIR 1929 Sind 248 (1) and AIR 1960 All 721, Diss. from. ILR (1961) 11 Raj 959: 1961 Raj LW 392: 1962 (1) Cr LJ 465: AIR 1962 Raj 92 (93) (Pt C) (Pr 4).

SECTION 121

●——S. 121 — Wilful obstruction to railway servant — Train standing on platform — Pointsman having grudge against guard threatening guard with scythe in hand — Obstruction to guard held was in discharge of his duty (Per Majority Raghubar Dayal, J. — Dissenting).

Held, (by the Majority; Raghubar Dayal, J., dissenting) (1) that the act of waving a scythe in a menacing way alleged to have been done by S the pointsman was done by him, actuated by malice by reason of the fact that C the guard had not spared him in the past; (2) that C was on duty as a guard on train, which was then standing at the platform. Thus during the time that the incident took place, viz., for about 15 minutes, he was obstructed from discharging his duty by this deliberate and wilful act on the part of S (3) that S had wilfully created obstruction in the discharge of the public duty by C as a guard within the meaning of S. 121, Railways Act, 1890.

Raghubar Dayal, J. — (dissenting) (1) that the expression "in the discharge of his duty" was not equivalent to the expression "when on duty". The obstruction or impediment, caused to the railway servant in the discharge of his duty, should result in an obstruction or impediment in the execution of the duty he was performing at the time. There was nothing on the record to show that what C was doing at the time amounted to his discharging some duty as a guard. The fact that he was on the platform about 40 minutes before the departure of the train did not necessarily lead to the inference that he must have been discharging some duty which he had to perform as a guard of that train, (2) that the intention to do a certain act, in no way directed towards the obstruction of a railway servant, would not be an act of wilful obstruction of the railway servant. The guard was not threatened in order to prevent him from carrying out his duties and therefore S could not be said to have wilfully obstructed C in the discharge of his duty: 1883 All WN 197 and AIR 1925 All 409 and (1907) 1 KB 59 and (1910) 1 KB 1, Rel. on; (3) that an offence under S. 121 of the Act is committed only when an accused commits an act with the intention of preventing the public servant from discharging his duty and the act does prevent him from doing so: (4) that conduct of S in giving threats to C, the guard, at the station did not amount to an offence under S. 121, Railways Act, 1890, but made out an offence under S. 506, Penal Code. Shyamlal v. State of U. P., 1963 All LJ 596: 1963 Cur LJ (SC) 61: 1963 (2) Cri LJ 408: (1963) 1 SCWR 617: (1964) 1 SCJ 377: 1964 Mad LJ (Cri) 249: (1964) 2 SCR 61: ILR (1963) 2 All 717: AIR 1963 SC 1511 (1513, 1514, 1515, 1516) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 11, 13, 19, 22).

●——S. 121 — Obstructing a railway servant.

Per Raghubar Dayal, J. — Threats of violence can amount to obstructing a public servant in the discharge of his duty, if the attitude of the person, holding out the threats indicated that violence would be used if the public servant persisted in performing his duty. AIR 1932 Cal 871 and AIR 1933 All 759, Rel. on. Shyamlal v. State of U. P., 1963 All LJ 596: 1963 Cur LJ (SC) 61: 1963 (2) Cri LJ 408: (1963) 1 SC WR 617: (1964) 1 SCJ 377: 1964 Mad LJ (Cri) 249: (1964) 2 SCR 61: ILR (1963) 2 All 717: AIR 1963 SC 1511 (1515) (Pt B) (Pr 20).

——S. 121 — Applicability — Refusal of passenger to show ticket when demanded — Offence — Railway Mobile Court — Procedure — Examination of accused under S. 342, Cr. P. Code.

The refusal by a passenger alighting from a train to show his ticket when demanded by the railway servant will certainly impede the railway servant in the discharge of his duty and will amount to an offence under S. 121 of the Railways Act. In cases tried by Mobile Railway Courts, the Honorary Magistrate should follow the elementary principle of Criminal P. C. of questioning the accused also, after the evidence against him is recorded, with regard to the circumstances that appear against him. Otherwise the whole proceedings will be vitiated. 1958 Mad WN 175: (1958) 1 MLJ 242: 1958 MLJ (Cr) 258: 1958 Cr LJ 903: (1958) All WR (Supp) 71: AIR 1958 Mad 333 (334) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——S. 121 (before Amendment in 1959) — Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 423 (1) (b) and 439 — Appeal against conviction — Powers of appellate Court to order retrial — Appellate Court upholding conviction — Remand for writing fresh judgment and for passing proper sentence, is illegal — See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 423 (1) (b). 1961 (1) Cri LJ 834: AIR 1961 Pat 252 (DB).

SECTION 122

——S. 122 — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 4 (1) (f) and Chapter XX — Offence under S. 122 is con-gnizable offence — Punishable by maximum fine of Rs. 50/- — But it can be tried only as a Summons Case — See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 4 (1) (f). 1964 All WR (HC) 108.

——S. 122 — Finding that accused were authorised to be in premises — No question of warning arises. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 5820.

——S. 122 — Applicability.

A was a railway employee and the route taken by him was the route he was accustomed to daily as a matter of routine. It was a route used by similarly situated employees of the railway and the railway workshop with the implied permission of the railway authorities. On the admitted facts of the case the railway authorities had by implication permitted workmen employed in the workshop to use this route.

Held that A could not be regarded as a trespasser and therefore S. 122 did not apply to him. See Workmen's Compensation Act (1923), S. 3 (1). AIR 1954 All 132.

SECTION 134

——S. 134 — Opportunity to produce evidence.

No doubt cases have to be tried by the Special Magistrate while he is on the line, but this would be no justification for refusing a proper trial if the accused wants to produce evidence to show that it was not his intention to defraud the railway. 1953 All WR (HC) 474: 1953 All LJ 474: 1953 Cri LJ 1855: AIR 1954 All 12 (13) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

SECTION 135

——S. 135 — Taxation of Railway Administration — Procedure indicated. See Municipalities — U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916). AIR 1954 All 56 (DB).

——S. 135 (2) — Applicability — Conditions.

In order to attract the provisions of sub-s. (2) of S. 135, Railways Act, not only must there be a notification of the Central Government under sub-s. (1) of S. 135, but there must be a liability upon the Railway Administration to pay a tax by virtue of the Notification. It is only where the Railway Administration is made prima facie liable to pay a tax to a local authority that it can approach the appropriate authority for determining the quantum of such liability. 61 Bom LR 1097: ILR (1959) Bom 1497: AIR 1960 Bom 141 (143) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——S. 135 (2) — Jurisdiction of tribunal.

Where a person seeks from a tribunal an adjudication of a dispute, he must allege and, where disputed, prove that the tribunal has jurisdiction to entertain the proceding in which the dispute is raised. In the absence of such an averment, the Court must reject it, unless the Court is satisfied from the other averments in the plaint that it has, prima facie, jurisdiction to entertain the plaint and that the plaintiff's omission to make the averment as to jurisdiction is a mere clercial or accidental error. But where a plaintiff lodges his claim and denies the jurisdiction of the Court to entertain it, the Court must throw it out forthwith. The position is not different where an initial averment to the Court's jurisdiction is withdrawn by the plaintiff either expressly or by necessary implication, later on.

From the language of sub-s. (2) of S. 135, Railways Act, it is clear that the existence of liability on the Railway Administration to pay a tax to the local authority is a condition precedent to the exercise of the jurisdiction to determine the quantum of liability under S. 135 (2) of the Act. In other words only a Railway Administration which accepts the position that it is liable to pay a tax that is entitled to approach the appropriate authority under sub-s. (2) of S. 135. It is, therefore, not competent to such authority to consider, in a proceeding before him under this provision, the very factum of the liability of the Railway Administration to pay the tax of which the amount if any is required to be determined by it. 61 Bom LR 1097: ILR (1959) Bom 1497: AIR 1960 Bom 141 (143, 144) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 12) (DB).

——S. 135 (2) — Scope of enquiry.

The opening words of sub-s. (2) of S. 135 are "while a notification of the Central Government under Cl. (1) of this Section is in force". Once a notification is issued under the aforesaid provision it would follow that the exemption of a Railway Administration from liability to pay a tax conferred by the opening words of sub-s. (2) of S. 135 is taken away or modified by that notification. That is a settled and indisputable fact and cannot be questioned before or by the authority approached under S. 135 (2). The authority can construe the notification or enquire into the existence of the notification. If it holds that there is no notification, it must straightway proceed to dismiss the application. It has no power to go into the question of the liability of the Railway Administration to pay a tax at all. Hence if the Railway Administration disputes the very fact of the liability then the proper course for it is to go to the ordinary Civil Court for redress and not to the authority appointed under the Railways Act. In such a case the District Judge has no jurisdiction to entertain the application, it follows that his findings on the various questions raised by the Railway Administration are inefficacious. 61 Bom LR 1097: ILR (1959) Bom 1497: AIR 1960 Bom 141 (144) (Pt D) (Prs 13, 14) (DB).

——S. 135 — Liability of Railway property to pay municipal taxes — Notification when old Municipal Act was in force — Act repealed and new Act coming into force — Notification sufficient to levy tax under new Act — Municipalities — C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act (2 of 1922), Ss. 66 (6), 2 (2). AIR 1953 Nag 297 (301) (Pt E) (Prs 23, 27).

——S. 135 — Applicability of Orissa House Rent Control Order, 1943, to godowns built by licencees on railway lands — Municipality cannot claim to levy tax on the Railway administration in view of S. 135, Railways Act and the Railways (Local Authorities' Taxation) Act. See Houses and Rents — Orissa House Rent Control Order, 1943. AIR 1955 NUC (Orissa) 5693 (DB).

——S. 135 — Railways (Local Authorities' Taxation Act) 1941, Ss. 4, 3 — Distinction between — Railway property liable to taxation before 1937 — Section 4 applies — Fresh notification not necessary—Government of India Act (1935), S. 154) — (Constitution of India, Art. 285) — See Railways (Local Authorities' Taxation) Act (1941), S. 4. AIR 1959 Pat 216 (DB).

——S. 135 — Holdings belonging to O. T. Railway — Liability to taxation by municipality — (Railways (Local Authorities' Taxation) Act (1941), S. 4) — (Government of India Act (1935), S. 154, Proviso) — (Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order (1937), S. 9).

Section 135 of the Railways Act, S. 4 of the Railways (Local Authorities' Taxation) Act and S. 154 of the Government of India Act with its proviso and S. 9 of the Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order are all in consonance with each other.

Where, therefore, a municipality brought a suit for arrears of municipal taxes in respect of holdings belonging to the O. T. Railway:

Held, that the notifications issued under S. 135, Railways Act, not having been varied or revoked by the Government the municipality was within its rights in claiming the tax. AIR 1954 Pat 568 (572) (Pt E) (Pr 7).

——S. 135 — Notification under — Right of local authority to vary amount of tax.

What the notifications issued under S. 135 authorise is a liability to certain kinds of taxes which are bound to be revised under the proper provisions of the Act governing the local authorities. All that is excluded is a new kind of tax but it does not in any way affect the right of the local authorities to vary the amount of tax in accordance with law. And no question of the amount of tax can affect the nature or class to which a particular tax belongs. AIR 1954 Pat 568 (573) (Pt F) (Pr 9).

——S. 135 — Notifications under — Property constructed after 1937 — Liability to taxation — (Railways Local Authorities' Taxation) Act (1941), S. 4 — (Government of India Act (1935), S. 154).

As the notifications issued under S. 135 do not provide any restriction upon the power of the local authorities to impose the tax specified thereunder there is no reason to restrict their operation to the properties which existed prior to 1937 as would be the case where the matter is governed only by the provisions of S. 154 of the Government of India Act. AIR 1954 Pat 568 (574) (Pt H) (Pr 12).

SECTION 137

——S. 137 (before Amendment in 1955) — Railway servant is public servant. See Prevention of Corruption Act (1947), S. 2. 1959 Cr LJ 1497: AIR 1959 SC 1310.

——S. 137 (1) (as amended by Act 17 of 1955)— Prevention of Corruption Act (1947), S. 5 (1) (d) — Offence under S. 5 (1) (d) — Railway servant — If public servant — (Penal Code (1860), S. 21).

Before the amendment of S. 137 by Act (17 of 1955) railway servants were treated as public servants only for the purposes of Chapter IX of the Indian Penal Code. But now, as the result of the amendment, all railway servants have become public servants not only for the limited purposes but also generally. In any event, they are public servants under the Prevention of Corruption Act. Ram Krishan v. State of Delhi, 1956 Pat LR (SC) 159: 1956 Mad WN 480: 1956 SCJ 432: (1957) 1 Lab LJ 4: 1956 SCA 577: 69 Mad LW 1002: (1956) All WR (Sup) 95: 1956 SCR 182: 1956 Cr LJ 837: 1956 Andh LT 512: (1956) 2 MLJ (SC) 4: ILR (1956) Punj 1163: AIR 1956 SC 476 (478) (Pt C) (Pr 9).

——S. 137 (4) — Scope — Question whether S. 137 (4) excludes all railway servants from definition of public servant except for purpose of Ch. IX, I. P. Code is a substantial question of law. See Constitution of India, Art. 134 (1) (c). AIR 1955 Ajmer 18 (1).

——S. 137 — Prevention of Corruption Act (1947), S. 2—Penal Code (1860), S. 21 — Public servant— Railway servant is a public servant within the meaning of Act of 1947 — Proceedings under taken against him under the Act — (Penal Code (1860), S. 21) — See Prevention of Corruption Act (2 of 1947), S. 2. 1956 Cri LJ 687: AIR 1956 All 358.

——S. 137 — Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 200, Proviso (aa) and 537 — Public servant — Railway ticket examiner is public servant — (Penal Code (1860), S. 21) — See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 200, Proviso (aa). 1956 Cri LJ 44: AIR 1957 Andh Pra 4.

——S. 137 (1) — Penal Code (1860), S. 161 — Public servant — Railway servant is a public servant and can be convicted under S. 161 — (Prevention of Corruption Act (1947), S. 2) — See Penal Code (1860), S. 161. 1957 Cri LJ 1127: AIR 1957 Ker 134 (DB).

——S. 137 — Before amendment of S. 137 in 1955 a railway servant was deemed to be a public servant only for certain limited purposes. After the amendment in case of State-owned railway, all its servants would be Government servant generally by virtue of the State taking over the railways. In case of employees under the private agencies however they would be public servants only for the limited purposes specified in that behalf — See Railways Act (1890), S. 3 (7). (1964) Mad LJ (Cri) 645: (1964) 2 MLJ 477.

——S. 137 (as amended in 1955) — Servant of State-owned railways is a public servant for all purposes and not merely for the purpose of Chapter IX of Penal Code.

After the amendment of S. 137 in 1955 by the deletion of sub-s. (4) therefrom, an employee of the State-owned railway is a public servant not merely for the purpose of Chapter IX of the Penal Code but even for the purpose of S. 353, Penal Code. AIR 1956 SC 476; AIR 1959 SC 1310, Rel. on. Before the amendment in 1955, as a result of the provisions of sub-s. (4) of S. 137, a railway servant was to be deemed to a public servant only for the limited purpose of Ch. IX of the Code and not for any other purpose although the railway was State-owned and the servants of that railway had automatically become Government officers and such of the provisions in S. 21, Penal Code, which refer to officers of the Government with reference to the duties they have got to discharge, were automatically attracted in their cases. But by the amendment of 1955, S. 187 (4) was deleted and S. 137 (1) had been recast using the phrase 'not being a public servant as defined in S. 21, Penal Code' in opposition to 'railway servant' which phrase has to be given an adjectival effect on the words 'railway servant'. In other words it means that only those railway servants who are not public servants as defined in S. 21 of the Penal Code shall be deemed to be public servants only for the purpose of Ch. IX of the Penal Code. The amendment of S. 137 (1) was not intended to affect the position of railway servants in the State-owned railways who had become already Government Servants. It was intended to apply to the servants of such railways as were not affected by the State taking over the railways but remained under the control of private agencies. In their case they would be public servants only for the purpose of S. 409, Penal Code or any of the sections in Ch. IX of the Penal Code. This appears to be the real effect of S. 137 (1) of the Railways Act after its amendment in 1955. 1964 Mad LJ (Cr) 645: (1964) 2 Mad LJ 477.

——S. 137 — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 197 — Prosecution of public servant — Railway servant — Offence under S. 408, I. P. C. — Accused not public servant—Sanction, not necessary—(Penal Code (1860), Ss. 405, 408, 21) — See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 197. 1958 Cri LJ 1083: AIR 1958 Pat 441.

——S. 137 — "Public Servant" — Railway servant committing offence under S. 408, Penal Code — Applicability of Act 2 of 1947.

Under S. 137, Railways Act, 1890, a railway servant is deemed to be a public servant for purposes of Ch. IX of the Penal Code. Ch. IX consists of Ss. 161 to 171 only, and it is for the purposes of these sections alone therefore that a Railway servant can be called a public servant within the meaning of S. 21, Penal Code, and he cannot otherwise be called a public servant for the purposes of the Penal Code. If, therefore, the prosecution case is that the railway servant committed offence under S. 408, Penal Code, only they cannot call the railway servants public servants and no question of the application of Prevention of Corruption Act 2 of 1947, arises as they are not public servants within meaning of S. 2 of that Act, they being not public servants within S. 21, Penal Code. If, therefore, the servants are being proceeded against in the Court of a Magistrate, there is no occasion for withdrawing these cases from that Court and transferring them to Special Judge. ILR (1955) Punj 9: 1954 Cr LJ 1290: 56 Punj LR 159: AIR 1954 Punj 189 (190) (Pr 3) (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1959 SC 1310.]

SECTION 138

——S. 138 — Remedy under — Whether dependent upon validity of discharge.

The remedy under Section 138 of the Railways Act is not dependent upon the validity or otherwise of the discharge or suspension of the Railway servant concerned. 63 Cal WN 78: 1959 Cr LJ 37: AIR 1959 Cal 64 (64) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Ss. 138 and 148 (2) — Tea-stall contractor — Whether railway servant.

A Tea-stall contractor at a railway station, and not his servant, can be regarded as a railway servant within the meaning of Section 138 and Section 148 (2) of the Railways Act. 63 Cal WN 78: 1959 Cr LJ 37: AIR 1959 Cal 64 (64) (Pt B) (Pr 2) (DB).

——S. 138 — "Discharge" — Meaning of.

The word "discharge" is generally enough to include in it discharge on retirement so that even if a railway servant has been relieved of his office on retirement, he will come within the mischief of the section; and it will be legally open to a Magistrate, provided the second condition also has been fulfilled, namely, that he, his wife, etc., refuses or neglects, after notice in writing for that purpose, to deliver up the quarters to the railway administration.

Where the only ground taken by the railway servant was that he was neither discharged nor suspended from his office but retired and that the railway not having paid his provident fund money on his retirement, he was not in a position to leave his quarters:

Held, refusal by the Magistrate to take action under Section 138 was wrong. 60 Cal WN 588: 1957 Cr LJ 175: AIR 1957 Cal 97 (97, 98) (Pr 2).

SECTION 140

——S. 140 — Service of notice — Suit by railway servant to declare his removal invalid — Notice addressed to Secretary, Central Government for Railways sent by the latter to General Manager, East Indian Railway — It must be taken to have reached the General Manager in the ordinary course of official business — Suit could not be held to be defective for want of notice under Section 80. See Civil P. C. (1908), Section 80. 1956 All LJ 730.

——Ss. 140, 77, 80 — Section 77 read with Sections 80 and 140 treats each railway administration as separate entity — Notice of claim should be served on each — AIR 1952 Mad 795, Diss. from — (Civil P. C. (1908), Section 80) — See Railways Act (9 of 1890), Section 77. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 594 (DB).

——Ss. 140, 77 — Person to whom notice has to be sent — Claim to be preferred to Railway Administration as defined in Section 3 (6) — Railway administered by Government — Notice under Section 140 should be served on manager or subordinate officer who is authorised — Demand for open delivery held should be treated as claim under Section 77 — See Railways Act (1890), Section 77. AIR 1955 Assam 221 (DB).

——S. 140 — Notice under — Scope of.

Notice is no doubt an essential preliminary step for the valid institution of a suit but that would not make such a notice part of the cause of action for the suit itself. See Civil P. C. (1908), Sec. 80. AIR 1954 Bom 129 (DB).

[Held impliedly overruled by AIR 1963 SC 1681 as interpreted in AIR 1967 Cal 205.]

——S. 140 — Service of notice — Notification by Agent of Bengal-Nagpur Railway authorising claims officer to receive notice — Notice on claims officer — Notice valid after taking over Railway by Government. See Railways Act (1890), Section 77. AIR 1959 Cal 215 (DB).

——S. 140 — Notice to Chief Commercial Manager — Does not amount to the preferment of a claim to the railway administration — Waiver — Effect stated — See Railways Act (1890), S. 77. AIR 1957 Cal 17 (DB).

——S. 140 — Service of notice — Claim may be served on Government administering railways. See Railways Act (1890), Section 3 (6). (1957) 61 Cal WN 433.

——S. 140 — Service of notice — Chief Commercial Manager authorised by Manager to receive claims under Section 77 — Claim sent to Chief Commercial Manager by registered post — Claim is duly served in one of the modes prescribed by Section 140 — See Railways Act (1890), Section 77. (1957) 61 Cal WN 433.

——Ss. 140 and 77 — Notice to Chief Commercial Manager of E. I. Railway is sufficient — See Railways Act (1890), Section 77. AIR 1952 Cal 443.

——Ss. 140 and 75 — Service of notice — If compulsory.

The word "may" in Section 140 of the Railways Act, must be construed as "must". When it is said that a person wishing to make a claim may serve a notice it means that he has the option to serve the notice or not. If he does not serve it his claim will fail. If he wants to succeed he must serve the notice. 35 C. 194, Foll.; 57 C. 1286, Diss. from. AIR 1952 Cal 341 (342) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Ss. 140 and 77 — Railway administered by Government — Notice to manager means to General Manager or Agent and not to Chief Commercial Manager — See Railways Act (1890), Sec. 77. AIR 1951 Cal 512 (DB).

——Ss. 140 and 77 — Claim for damages caused to consignment of goods — Notice of claim issued to Chief Commercial Superintendent — Chief Commercial Superintendent held out and acting as delegate of the Manager of the Railway for receipt and disposal of claims under Section 77

— Plaintiff is not liable to be non-suited on the ground of non-compliance with Ss. 77 and 140. See Railways Act (1890), Section 77. ILR (1964) 1 Ker 355.

——Ss. 140, 77 — Scope — Notice — Mode of service — Section 140 not exhaustive — Claim for compensation under Section 77 — Notice served on Chief Commercial Superintendent — Validity.

It is true that Section 140 says that a notice for other document to be served on a railway administration may be served on the manager thereof; but that section does not say that it may be served only in that manner and it is not exhaustive of the modes in which service can be effected. When a responsible officer (in this case the Chief Commercial Superintendent) of a railway administration receives a claim for compensation under Section 77 on behalf of the administration and acts upon it, it may well be presumed that he had the necessary authority to receive it on behalf of the administration. 1960 Ker LT 352: (1960) 1 Ker LR 183: 1960 Ker LJ 408: ILR (1960) Ker 435: AIR 1960 Ker 257 (257) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——S. 140 (c) — Giving of notice — Plaintiff can take advantage of — General Clauses Act, Section 10 — See Railways Act (1890), Sec. 77. AIR 1957 Madh Pra 114 (DB).

——Ss. 140 and 77 — Notice to General Traffic Manager — Notice is valid — See Railways Act (9 of 1890), Section 77. AIR 1957 Madh Pra 114 (DB).

——Ss. 140, 77, 80 — Through traffic — Notice under Section 77 to General Manager of one of railway administrations is sufficient — AIR 1949 Pat 329, Diss. from; AIR 1955 Mad 151, Overruled — See Railways Act (9 of 1890), Sec. 77. AIR 1960 Mad 58 (DB).

——S. 140 — Goods carried over two Railway Administrations — Loss of goods — Notice must be sent to both the Railway administrations — See Railways Act (1890), Section 77. AIR 1955 Mad 151.

[Overruled in AIR 1960 Mad 58.]

——S. 140 — Civil P. C. (1908), Section 80 — Suits against Railway administration.

Under the amended law, in the case of a suit against the Central Government which relates to a railway the notice has to be served on "the General Manager of that Railway" The notice sent by post on 17-6-1948 and served on a Secretary, Central Government therefore was not in due compliance with the requirements of that section— See Civil P. C. (1908), Section 80. AIR 1953 Nag 360.

——S. 140 — Service of notice of appeal — Respondent East Indian Railway — Notice sent to Chief Administrative Officer, East Punjab Railway, instead of to Manager, East Indian Railway — Information of Notice given to Chief Commercial Manager, East Indian Railway, Banares Cantt. — Information is not equivalent to the service of a notice of appeal on the manager, East Indian Railway — See Civil P. C. (1908), Order 5, Rule 12. AIR 1956 Pat 511 (DB).

——S. 140 — Notice sent to Chief Administrative Officer of East Punjab Railway instead of Secretary, Government of India, in charge of Railways — Subsequent amendment of Section 80 requiring notice to be sent to General Manager of Railway — Chief Administrative Officer designated General Manager — Chief Administrative Officer as General Manager taking cognizance of notices — He cannot afterwards contend that notice was not proper — See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 80. AIR 1955 Pepsu 51 (DB).

——Ss. 140, 77 — Through traffic Notice to General Manager of one of the Railway administrations is sufficient — See Railways Act (9 of 1890), Section 77. AIR 1963 Punj 224 (DB).

——S. 140 — Notice of claim addressed to Chief Commercial Superintendent, Western Railway — In reply letter to notice Superintendent asking claimant to send original beejak without prejudice to enable him to settle claim — Beejak sent but no reply was received in spite of several reminders — Suit for compensation — Plaintiff alleging that Chief Commercial Superintendent was the proper officer to deal with such notice — Allegation not denied by Railway in its written statement — Allegation must be taken to be admitted — There is sufficient compliance with Sections 77 and 140 and notice is not invalid — See Railways Act (1890), S. 77. (1956) 9 Sau LR 86.

SECTION 142

——Ss. 142 and 77 (before amendment by Act 39 of 1961) — Presumption and inference as to service of notice — Averment in plaint as to service of notice — Absence of specific denial in Written statement — Effect of.

Apart from presumption under Section 142, the absence of any specific denial by the Railway concerned of the averment in the plaint that registered notice under Section 77, was sent to it must lead to the inference that the notice under Section 77 was duly served by registered post and duly received. 28 Cut LT 331: ILR (1962) Cut 402: AIR 1963 Orissa 54 (55) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

SECTION 145

——S. 145 — Three persons authorised to plead and act for Governor-General — Only one of them signing memorandum of appeal — Other two allowed to sign memorandum after appeal was filed — Appeal could not be held to be filed without authority — Civil P. C. (1908), Order 41, Rule 1.

Under Section 145, authority was given to three persons to plead and act for the Governor-General in certain cases. The memorandum of appeal was, however, signed by one of them only. Subsequently, after the appeal was filed, the other two persons were allowed to sign the memorandum of appeal:

Held, that it could not be said that the appeal was filed without authority or that it was not properly presented. Even if it was held that the authority to file the appeal was given jointly the signing of the memorandum of appeal by one of the three persons was quite enough. The other two signed the memorandum after the appeal had been filed and this was a mere technical irregularity and could not be taken as fatal to the filing of the appeal: Case law referred. AIR 1950 East Punj 160 (161) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——S. 145 — Mysore Railways Act (1894), Sections 61 and 122 — Authority to whom notice should be sent — Notice within "six months" — Notice to Traffic Manager instead of General Manager held not defective. See Mysore Railways Act (4 of 1894), Section 61. AIR 1953 Mys 16.

——S. 145 — Service of notice of appeal on recognised agent — Respondent, East Indian Railway Administration — Person holding special power of attorney from General Manager under Section 145, Railways Act, is authorised agent.

See Civil P. C. (1908), Order 3, Rule 3. AIR 1956 Pat 511 (DB).

——S. 145 — Suit against East Indian Railway in the name of Dominion of India — In appeal arising out of suit name of Union of India substituted due to constitutional changes — Special power of attorney executed in favour of B by General Manager, East Indian Railway, continues to have legal effect after transfer of power from Dominion of India to Union of India — See Constitution of India, Article 294. AIR 1956 Pat 511 (DB).

SECTION 148

——Ss. 148 (2), 138 — Tea-stall contractor — Whether railway servant.

A tea stall contractor at a railway station, and not his servant can be regarded as a railway servant within the meaning of Sections 138 and 148 (2) — See Railways Act (1890), Section 138. 1959 Cri LJ 37: AIR 1959 Cal 64 (DB).

SCHEDULE 2

——Sch. 2 — Sale of Goods Act (1930), S. 39 (2) — Loss of goods in transit — Ordinary precautions namely to declare to the Railway about the goods which came under the excepted articles enumerated in the IInd Schedule not taken by seller — Buyer held not liable — See Sales of Goods Act (1930), Section 39 (2). AIR 1957 Mad 183.

SCHEDULE 2, Cl. (a)

——Sch. II, Cl. (a) — Articles mentioned in second schedule — Fountain pens merely because they have a nib or a clip or even a cap of gold cannot come within the meaning of 'gold manufactured'. See Railways Act (1890), Section 75. AIR 1955 Bom 98 (DB).

——Sch. 2, Cls. (a) and (b) and S. 75 — Fountain pens with gold caps and gold nibs not covered by clauses — See Railways Act (9 of 1890), Section 75. AIR 1959 Mys 43.

SCHEDULE 2, Cl. (c)

——Sch. II, Cls. (c) and (l) — Goods assigned to railway — Held goods did not fall under Cl. (l) but fall under Cl. (c) — See Railways Act (1890), Section 75. 59 Bom LR 117: ILR (1957) Bom 321.

SCHEDULE 2, Cl. (k)

——Sch. II, Cl. (k) — Glass bangles.

Glass bangles are one of the articles that comes within the description of the articles specified in Cl. (k) to the second schedule. AIR 1955 NUC (Mad) 85.

SCHEDULE 2, Cl. (l)

——Sch. II, Cl. (l) and Section 75 — "Silks", meaning.

Mere description of the package as a 'silk cloth parcel' in the invoice sent by the seller cannot be conclusive against the plaintiff. Where the bundle contains articles made of a mixture of cotton and silk and the cost of the silk content in the articles is a little less than 50% of the total loss of the bundle it cannot be held that the articles are silks within the meaning of Cl. (1) of Sch. 2 — See Railways Act (1890), Section 75. AIR 1953 Mys 65 (DB).

SCHEDULE 2, Cl. (m)

——Sch. 2, Cl. (m) — Mysore Railways Act (1894), Section 59 — Excepted goods — Articles of "Special nature" — 'Lohis commonly called 'shawls" priced low are not shawls within the meaning of the Clause — See Mysore Railways Act (4 of 1894), Section 59. AIR 1953 Mys 16.

——Sch. II, Cl. (m) — 'Shawls' — 'Woollen 'fardis are not shawls within the meaning of the clause — See Railways Act (1890), Section 75. AIR 1960 Pat 340 (DB).

——Sch. 2, Cl. (m) and Section 75 — Suit for damages for loss of goods in transit — Defence that goods were shawls which consignor had not declared — Question whether goods were in fact shawls — Determination of — Meaning of 'shawls' — "Shawl" covers only shawls and not any other thing same or similar to shawls — (Words and Phrases — 'Shawls') — (Carriers Act (1865), Sch.) — See Railways Act (9 of 1890), Section 75. AIR 1957 Pat 328 (DB).

RAILWAYS AND WORKS MANUAL

RULE 638

——R. 638 (f) — Reasonable opportunity — Enquiry against Railway servant — Derailment of train due to creep in railway track — Charge against Assistant Permanent Way Inspector of not repairing creep in time — Inspector denying that accident was due to creep in track — At enquiry no attempt to prove cause of accident made but fact that creep was responsible for accident taken for granted — Art. 311 (2) held not satisfied. See Constitution of India, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1960 Assam 51 (DB).

RAILWAY SERVANTS

See Constitution of India, Arts. 310 and 311.

RAILWAY SERVANTS (DISCIPLINE AND APPEAL) RULES FOR NON-GAZETTED STAFF

RULE 1707

——R. 1707 — Departmental inquiry — Procedure — Railway servant — Mention of proposed punishment in charge-sheet — Legality — Subsequent fresh charge-sheet mentioning different punishment — Not illegal. See Constitution of India, Art. 311. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 618 (DB).

RAILWAY SERVANTS ENDANGERING SAFETY OF PERSONS

See Railways Act (1890), S. 101.

RAILWAY SERVANTS (HOURS OF EMPLOYMENT) RULES (1951)

RULE 5

——R. 5 — R. 5 read along with R. 25 entitles Railway employee to overtime wages. See Minimum Wages Act (1948), S. 14. AIR 1963 Bom 54 (DB).

RAILWAY SERVICES (SAFEGUARDING OF NATIONAL SECURITY) RULES (1949)

RULE 3

●——R. 3 — Action under — Writ petition on ground that Rules were ultra vires — Judgment proceeding on ground not raised by Railway authorities—Effect stated. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1958 SC 232.

●——R. 3 — Applicability.

The Security Rules apply to a special class of employees, those who are engaged or are likely to engage in subversive activities, and in conjunction with the instructions which were issued when they were promulgated, they form a self-contained Code prescribing a special and elaborate procedure to be followed, when action is to be taken thereunder. The mention of the service agreement in R. 3 has reference only to the nature of the notice to be given. P. Balakotia v. Union of India, 1958 SCJ 451: (1958) 1 Mad LJ (SC) 162: (1958) 1 Andh WR (SC) 162: 1958 SCA 209: 1958 SCR 1052: AIR 1958 SC 232 (236) (Pt B) (Pr 12).

●——R. 3—Scope and operation of — R. 148 of Railway Establishment Code — Whether Security Rules have independent operation of their own, quite apart from Rule 148 of Railway Establishment Code (Quaere). P. Balakotiah v. Union of India, 1958 SCJ 451: (1958) 1 Mad LJ (SC) 162: (1958) 1 Andh WR (SC) 162: 1958 SCA 209: 1958 SCR 1052: AIR 1958 SC 232 (236) (Pt C) (Pr 12).

●——Rr. 3, 4, 5 and 7 — Scope — Rules are not ultra vires. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1958 SC 232.

●——R. 3 — Constitution of India, Arts. 19 (1) (c) and 311 — Notice to appellant under R. 3, Railway Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules — Reference to appellant being member of Communist Party and to his activities in trade union — No violation of Art. 311 — Order terminating service does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (c) — See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (c). AIR 1958 SC 232.

●——R. 3 — Constitution of India, Art. 311 — Applicability — Order terminating services under R. 3, Railway Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules — Order is an order of discharge and it is neither one of dismissal nor of removal within the meaning of Art. 311 — (Railway Establishment Code, R. 148). See Constitution of India, Art. 311. AIR 1958 SC 232.

●——Rr. 3, 4, 5 and 7 — Retrospective operation.

The rules are clearly prospective in that the action thereunder is to be taken in respect of subversive activities which either now exist or are likely to be indulged in in future, that is to say, which are in esse or in posse. That the materials for taking action in the latter case are drawn from the conduct of the employees prior to the enactment of the rules does not render their operation retrospective. P. Balakotiah v. Union of India, 1958 SCJ 451: (1958) 1 Mad LJ (SC) 162: (1958) 1 Andh WR (SC) 162: 1958 SCA 209: 1958 SCR 1052: AIR 1958 SC 232 (238) (Pt G) (Pr 19).

——R. 3 — Tenure of office of Government servant — Pleasure of President — No justifiable cause on dismissal under rules — Suit for declaration does not lie. See Constitution of India, Art. 310. AIR 1960 Bom 431.

——Rr. 3 and 4 — Non-compliance — Constitution of India, Arts. 310, 311 — (Railway Establishment Code, R. 148).

The rule that civil posts under the Government are held at pleasure is part of the law of this country and it involves the consequence that there can be termination of service at will. The Railway authorities have a right to terminate the services of the employee under Rule 148 of the Railway Establishment Code and there is nothing in the Constitution which restricts such a right. R. 4 does not differ from S. 240 (3) of the Government of India Act (1935) or Art. 311 (2) of the Constitution of India.

The petitioner was employed as a wireman in the Marine Department of the South Indian Railway. He was served with a notice, the contents of which were as follows: "Whereas in the opinion of the 'competent authority' as defined in R. 2 of the Railway Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules, 1949, there are reasonable grounds (which are given below) for believing that you are engaged in subversive activities and that consequently you are liable to have your services terminated under Rule 3 of the said rules; you are hereby required to state within 14 days of the receipt of this notice whether you accept or deny the accuracy of the above allegation. If you do not reply within that period, it would be assumed that you admit the allegation. In either case, you may, within the same period, submit any representation you wish to make as to why your services should not be terminated under the said rules. (Copy attached.) If after considering your representation the competent authority decides that no further action should be taken against you, you will be informed accordingly. If after considering your representation the competent authority considers that there are sufficient grounds for taking further action, the materials on record together with your representation will be referred to the Committee of Advisers set up by the Government of India for this purpose. You are further asked to state whether you wish to be heard in person by me or by the Committee of Advisers before orders are passed on your case."

Held, that when the services of an employee are terminated, he cannot be held to have been dismissed. But whether in fact it is a case of termination of services or dismissal is a question of fact. This was a case not of termination of service but of compulsory retirement falling within R. 3. The notice did not satisfy the requirements of R. 4. The statement that the petitioner was liable to have services terminated under R. 3 was not any intimation of a decision by the authorities that his services would be terminated. The notice calling upon the petitioner to give his explanation for the charges could in no manner be regarded as falling under R. 4 (b). As the proper procedure prescribed in R. 4 had not been followed, the subsequent order of compulsory retirement under R. 3 was illegal and inoperative. 1948 FCR 44; AIR 1948 PC 121, Foll.; Case-law discussed. 1952 Mad WN 253: 65 Mad LW 377: 1952-1 Mad LJ 540: ILR (1953) Mad 229: AIR 1953 Mad 54 (56, 58, 59) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 11, 12, 14, 15) (DB).

RULE 4

●——Rr. 4 and 5 — Scope — Not ultra vires. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1958 SC 232.

●——R. 4 — Retrospective operation — The rules are only prospective in operation and not retrospective. See Railways Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules (1949), R. 3. AIR 1958 SC 232.

——Rr. 4 and 3 — Non-compliance — Subsequent order of compulsory retirement under R. 3 held was illegal and inoperative — (Constitution of India, Arts. 310, 311) — (Railway Establishment Code, R. 148). See Railway Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules (1949), R. 3 AIR 1953 Mad 54 (DB).

——R. 4 (b) — Termination of service — Per Ramaswami, J.: One notice for making enquiry—Second notice indicating the punishment proposed and for showing cause against it is not required, though the rule is in terms similar to Art. 311 (2) of the Constitution—R. 4 (b) has to be read in its context — Procedure under and context of R. 4 and Art. 311 (2) indicated — Per Sarjoo Prasad, J.: There is no distinction between wording and context of Art. 311 (2) and R. 4 (b) of National Security Rules — But question of want of second notice held could not be agitated in proceedings under Art. 226, but could be taken up by way of a suit—AIR 1948 PC 121, Considered — (Constitution of India, Arts. 311 (2) and 226). 1953 BLJR 171: AIR 1953 Pat 92 (94, 95) (Pt C) (Prs 9, 10) (DB).

——R. 4 (b) — Termination of service under R. 4 (b) does not constitute disciplinary action. See also Constitution of India, Art. 320, Proviso 2. AIR 1953 Pat 92 (DB).

RULE 5

●——R. 5 — Constitution of India, Art. 14 — Rules not ultra vires — AIR 1956 Mad 220, Overruled. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1958 SC 232.

●——Rr. 5, 3, 4 and 7—Retrospective operation—Rules are prospective in operation. See Railway Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules (1949), R. 3. AIR 1958 SC 232.

RULE 7

●——R. 7 — Scope — Rule not ultra vires. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1958 SC 232.

●——R. 7 — Constitution of India, Art. 311 — Applicability — Order terminating services under R. 3, Railway Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules — Order is an order of discharge and not one of dismissal or removal — (Railway Establishment Code, R. 148). See Constitution of India, Art. 311. AIR 1958 SC 232.

●——Rr. 7, 3, 4, 5 — Retrospective operation — The rules are prospective in operation. See Railway Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules (1949), R. 3. AIR 1958 SC 232.

RAILWAY SERVICES (SAFEGUARDING OF NATIONAL SECURITY) RULES (1954)

RULE 3

——R. 3 — Constitution of India, Art. 14 — R. 3 is intended to cover infringement of law — Reasonable classification — Rule cannot be upheld. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1956 Mad 220.

[Overruled in AIR 1958 SC 232.]

——R. 3 — Essential requisites of R. 3.

Before a person can be punished by virtue of R. 3, one of the 3 things must be established: (1) he must be engaged in subversive activities which are prejudicial to national security; or (2) he must be reasonably suspected of being so engaged; or (3) he must be associated with others in such activities. This last point requires clarification. What is made punishable is not association with persons who engage in subversive activities; what is made punishable is association in their subversive activities, which must occur in some particular place and at some particular time or in particular places and at particular times. (1956) 1 Lab LJ 29: 1956 Mad WN 262: AIR 1956 Mad 220 (223) (Pt C) (Pr 12).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1958 SC 232.]

——R. 3 — Action proposed to be taken against Railway servant under R. 3 — Charge should be clear.

Where action is proposed to be taken against a Government servant under R. 3 for having been engaged in subversive activities, then the charge which he is called upon to meet must be clear, precise and accurate and should not be so vague that it is not reasonably possible to answer it. AIR 1948 Bom 334 and AIR 1950 Mad 162, Rel. on. (1956) 1 Lab LJ 29: 1956 Mad WN 262: AIR 1956 Mad 220 (224) (Pt D) (Pr 18).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1958 SC 232.]

——R. 3 — Constitution of India, Art. 311 — Railway servant charged for being engaged in subversive activity — Decision of President — Court has power to examine material on which the decision is founded. See Constitution of India, Art. 311. AIR 1956 Mad 220.

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1958 SC 232.]

RAILWAYS GENERAL AND SUBSIDIARY RULES

RULE 52

——R. 52 — Railways Act (1890), Ss. 101 (a) and 101 (c) — Negligence is not only doing repairs negligently but also breach of rule endangering public safety — Duty under General R. 52 and Subsidiary R. 52-1 is that of person actually carrying out repairs. See Railways Act (9 of 1890), S. 101 (a). 1962 (1) Cri LJ 273: AIR 1962 Bom 41.

RULE 52-I

——R. 52-I — Negligence is not only doing repairs negligently but also breach of rule endangering public safety — Duty under General Rule 52 and Subsidiary Rule 52-I is that of person actually carrying out repairs. See Railways Act (1890), S. 101 (a). 1962 (1) Cri LJ 273: AIR 1962 Bom 41.

RAILWAYS GOODS TARIFF (1950)

CHAPTER 8, RULE 6

——Chap. VIII, R. 6 (12) — Recalculation of rates — Mistake in calculating freight on consignment on actual weight of goods instead of on capacity of wagon — Consignee compelled to pay difference as per condition 6 on Railway Receipt—Railways held had right to correct mistake.

Held, on facts that assuming that the consignor could not be assumed to have constructive notice of the rules contained in the Goods Tariff, he had notice of Condition No. 6 printed on the back of the railway receipt, and if the agent of the railway receipt committed a mistake in calculating the freight, the Railway Administration was entitled to correct that mistake. AIR 1932 All 540 and AIR 1926 All 146, Dissented from; ILR 29 All 228, Disting. AIR 1917 All 424 and AIR 1944 Mad 444 and AIR 1929 All 848, Rel. on. ILR (1962) 12 Raj 591: 1962 Raj LW 220: AIR 1963 Raj 1 (2) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

RAILWAYS (LOCAL AUTHORITIES' TAXATION) ACT (25 OF 1941)

PREAMBLE

——Pre — Applicability of Orissa House Rent Control Order, 1943, to godowns built by licensees on Railway lands — Municipality cannot claim to levy tax on the Railway Administration in view of S. 135, Railways Act and the Railways (Local Authorities' Taxation) Act. See Houses and Rents — Orissa House Rent Control Order, 1943. AIR 1955 NUC (Orissa) 5693 (DB).

——Pre. — Government of India Act (1935), S. 154 — "Save in so far as any Federal law may otherwise provide" — The Railways Act, 1941, does make distinct provision for a class of cases referred in S. 154 of Act of 1935 as that section itself speaks of a saving in so far as any Federal law otherwise provides. See Government of India Act (1935), S. 154. AIR 1954 Pat 568.

——Pre. — Object of Act.

The Act is a remedial Act passed to restore the situation in respect of the liabilities of the railway properties to a local taxation as it was prior to 1-4-1937, so as to put this class of properties apart from other State properties which were governed in general by the provisions of S. 154 of the Government of India Act, 1935. AIR 1954 Pat 568 (571) (Pt D) (Pr 6).

SECTION 3

——S. 3 — Taxation of Railway Administration— Procedure indicated. See Municipalities — U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916). AIR 1954 All 56 (DB).

——S. 3 — Right to apply — Conditions of.

An application under sub-sec. (2) of S. 3 of the Railways (Local Authorities Taxation) Act, 1941, can only be made by a Railway Administration with respect to which a notification has been made by the Government under sub-sec. (1) of S. 3 of the Act. In absence of such a notification an application is incompetent. 61 Bom LR 1097: ILR (1959) Bom 1497: AIR 1960 Bom 141 (143) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Ss. 3 and 4 — Distinction between — Railway property liable to taxation before 1937 — Section 4 applies — Fresh notification not necessary — (Government of India Act (1935), S. 154) — (Constitution of India, Art. 285) — (Railways Act (1890), S. 135). See Railways (Local Authorities' Taxation) Act (25 of 1941), S. 4. AIR 1959 Pat 216 (DB).

——Ss. 3, 4 — Scope.

Where a case is in terms governed by S. 4, applicability of S. 3 does not arise. AIR 1954 Pat 568 (571) (Pt C) (Pr 6).

SECTION 4

——Ss. 4, 3 — Applicability and distinction — Railway property liable to taxation before 1937— (Government of India Act (1935), S. 154) — Constitution of India, Art. 285) — (Railways Act (1890), S. 135).

There is a contrast between the language of S. 4 and S. 3 of Act (25 of 1941). Section 4 refers to the existing liability of the Railway property to be taxed, and constitutes the Federal law contemplated by the proviso to S. 154 of the Government of India Act. On the other hand, S. 3 refers to Railway properties which are brought into existence after the crucial date, namely, after the 1st April, 1937, and in regard to such properties the main provision of S. 154 of the Government of India Act applies; these properties are exempt from all taxes imposed by any authority within the Province or Federated State "save in so far as any Federal law otherwise provides".

Where the Railway properties were in existence before 1st April, 1937, and municipal taxes were being paid by the Railway authorities from before that date for these properties under a notification issued under S. 135 of the Railways Act, 1890, the case was governed by S. 4 of Act (25 of 1941) and not by S. 3 thereof, and it followed that the liability of these properties to tax continued even after the 1st April, 1937, under the proviso to S. 154 of the Government of India Act, 1935 and also under Art. 285 of the Constitution. The liability to pay the municipal tax continued so long as the notifications issued by the Central Government under S. 135 of the Railways Act continued to exist and had not been varied or revoked by the Central Government by S. 4 of Act (25 of 1941). 1959 BLJR 141: AIR 1959 Pat 216 (218) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Ss. 4, 3 — Scope.

Where a case is in terms governed by S. 4, applicability of S. 3 does not arise. See Railways (Local Authorities Taxation) Act (25 of 1941), S. 3. AIR 1954 Pat 568.

——S. 4 — Holdings belonging to O. T. Railway — Liability to taxation by Municipality — Held, that notifications issued under S. 135 not having been varied or revoked by the Government, the municipality was within its rights of claiming the tax. See Railways Act (1890), S. 135. AIR 1954 Pat 568.

——S. 4 — Property constructed after 1937 — Property is liable to taxation. See Railways Act (1890), S. 135. AIR 1954 Pat 568.

RAILWAYS RATES TRIBUNAL RULES

RULE 17

——R. 17 (1) — Order of Railways Rates Tribunal — Right to benefit under — Intervener.

No distinction can be made between the original complainant and the intervener under R. 17 (1). See Railways Act (1890), S. 41. AIR 1958 Mad 471 (DB).

RAILWAYS REGULATIONS REGARDING DISCIPLINARY ACTION AGAINST SERVANTS

REGULATION 11

——Regn. 11 (a) — Criminal proceedings — Suspension comes to end after termination of proceedings — Acquittal by Criminal Court — Servant held entitled to full wages, for period of suspension — Fresh charge for inefficiency — Fresh proceedings held separate proceedings. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 2751.

RAILWAY STORES

See Railway Stores (Unlawful Possession) Act (1955).

RAILWAY STORES (UNLAWFUL POSSESSION) ACT (51 OF 1955)

SECTION 2

——Ss. 2, 3 — Charge under S. 3 — Ingredients to be proved — Onus — Shifting of — Stolen articles conforming to specifications of Railway standards — That they belonged to particular Railway need not be proved. See Railway Stores (Unlawful Possession) Act (1955), S. 3. 1964 All Cri R 417: 1964 All WR (Supp) 26: 30 Cut LT 275.

——S. 2 (b) — 'Railway Stores' — Definition of — Whether includes used articles.

The intention to be gathered from the words used in S. 2 (b) of the Act should be that 'railway stores' include articles which are in use, or which have been in actual use in the operation of a railway. If the articles have actually been used in the operation of a railway, and they are still the property of the Railway, the articles will fall within S. 2 (a) and will be covered by the words 'which is used in the operation of a railway' in S. 2 (b). ILR 41 Pat 672: 1964 (1) Cri LJ 694: AIR 1964 Pat 269 (270) (Pr 6) (DB).

SECTION 3

——S. 3 — Offence under — It is not only essential to prove that the property found in possession of the accused was not only property belonging to Railway Administration but also that the property was in serviceable condition — Property must be reasonably suspected of being stolen property or unlawfully obtained and also there must be failure of accused to give reasonable explanation of his possession — It is for the prosecution to prove these elements. (1962) 66 Cal WN 269.

——S. 3 — Accused must offer satisfactory explanation as to how he came to be in possession of articles, the subject-matter of the charge — The standard of proof required from accused is not the same as that required from the prosecution — Burden on accused might be discharged by evidence which makes his version probable — Proof required of accused is less rigorous than that required of prosecution. 1 KB 607, 49 Cal WN 229, 6 DLR (Cal) 97, Rel. on. (1962) 66 Cal WN 269.

——Ss. 3, 2 — Charge under S. 3 — Ingredients to be proved — Onus — Shifting of — Stolen articles conforming to specifications of Railway standards — That they belonged to particular Railway need not be proved — (Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101-104.

Before a person can be convicted under S. 3, the prosecution must affirmatively establish that (i) the incriminating articles were the property of any Railway Administration and (ii) they were used or intended to be used in the construction operation or maintenance of a railway. If these ingredients are established and the prosecution further prove that the accused persons were in possession of such articles, then by virtue of S. 3, the burden would shift on the accused persons to account satisfactorily as to how they came into possession of the same. Section 2 does not require the prosecution to prove that the incriminating articles belonged to a particular Railway. If the seized articles are found to conform to the specifications of the Railway standards, they may be reasonably held to be belonged to any of the Railways in India. Where the evidence of the Permanent Way Inspector of the Railway, who was examined as a prosecution witness, was that the stolen articles (iron sleepers and tie bars) were 'brand new' and were according to specifications of the Railway standard and that the tie bars were necessary to keep the iron sleepers firm on the ground.

Held, that the fact that the articles were 'brand new' showed that they were intended to be used in the construction, operation or maintenance of the Railway and as the accused did not give any explanation to account for their possession of these articles, their conviction was justified. 1964 All Cri R 417: 1964 All WR (Sup) 26: 30 Cut LT 275.

RAILWAY STORES (UNLAWFUL POSSESSION) ORDINANCE (19 OF 1944)

SECTION 1

——S. 1 — Period of enforcement.

The Ordinance remained in force and did not lapse till after the date of the offence on 6-5-1952 by reason of the India and Burma Emergency Provisions Act, 1940. 1956 AMLJ 85.

——S. 1 — Ordinance is still in force as a valid piece of legislation — (Government of India Act (1935), Sch IX, S. 72, as amended by India and Burma (Emergency Provisions) Act, 1940 (3 and 4 Geo 6), Ss. 1 (3) and 3) — Indian Independence Act (1947), S. 18 (3) — Constitution of India, Art. 372 — Adaptation of Laws Order, 1950.

The Railway Stores (Unlawful Possession) Ordinance was promulgated in 1944 in exercise of the powers conferred by S. 72 of Sch. IX, Government of India Act, 1935, as amended by India and Burma (Emergency Provisions) Act, 1940. Accordingly, the life of the Ordinance was without limit of time. The Ordinance did not cease to exist by reason of the expiration on 1st April, 1946, of the period specified in S. 3 of the British Act of Parliament concerned.

Then by reason of the combined effect of S. 18 (3), Indian Independence Act, Art. 372 of the Constitution and the Adaptation of Laws Order, 1950, Ordinance 19 of 1944 with but a verbal modification has continued to be and is still in force. It would follow that Ordinance 19 of 1944 has at all material times been as it still is, a valid piece of legislation. ILR (1957) 2 Cal 885: 1955 Cri LJ 1582: AIR 1955 Cal 614 (615) (Prs 4, 5, 6) (DB).

——S. 1 — Ordinance is still in force — (Government of India Act (1935), Sch IX, Cl. 72) — India and Burma Emergency Provisions Act (1940), S. 1 (3).

Railway Stores (Unlawful Possession) Ordinance (19 of 1944) was passed by the Governor-General during the period from 27-6-42 to 1-4-46 and that being so, having regard to the language of Cl. 72 of Sch. IX of the Government of India Act, 1935, and Clause (3) of S. 1 of the India and Burma Emergency Provisions Act of 1940, which took away the limitation of six months, this ordinance passed by the Governor-General will have the force and validity, as if it was an Act passed by the Legislature, and that too of a permanent character. There is nothing in the language of those sections, restricting the operation and validity of such ordinance during the period of emergency. 1956 Mad WN 185: 1956 Cri LJ 751: AIR 1956 Mad 333 (333, 334) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 7).

RAILWAY WHARFAGE RULES

See Railways Act (1890), S. 47 (1) (f).

RAIN WATER

See Easements Act (1882), Ss. 7, 8, 13, 17.

RAIPUR MUNICIPALITY OCTROI RULES

See under Municipalities.

RAIYAT

See Enactments under "Tenancy Laws".

RAJASTHAN ABOLITION OF LAGATS ORDINANCE (13 OF 1948)

PREAMBLE

——Pre., Ss. 1, 2 — Lagat, meaning of — (Kanun Maal Mewar (5 of 1947), Ss. 4 and 5)—(Rajasthan Administration Ordinance (I of 1948), S. 3) — (Words and Phrases — "Lagat").

The ordinance which is obviously intended to abolish 'lagats' in the whole of the former State of Rajasthan fails to give any definition of the term. Therefore, where in any case arising from a covenanting State, the question is whether a particular charge falls within the definition of Lagat as used in the Lagats Abolition Ordinance, then it should, unless it directly falls within the classes of Lagats named in the Ordinance itself, be determined with reference to the definition of the term 'lagat' in the laws of the State because such laws have been kept alive by the United State of Rajasthan Administration Ordinance, 1948.

So far as the former State of Mewar is concerned, the Kanun Maal Mewar which was saved by the Rajasthan Administration Ordinance contains a definition of the term 'lagat'. Therefore, where a suit arose from that State at the time when that statute was not abolished and the question was whether a particular payment claimed was a 'lagat' or not the Court would be justified in looking to the definition contained in that statute. Thus, reading Ss. 8 and 4 (1) of that statute, it is clear that the term 'lagat' means something apart from land revenue or rent payable by an agriculturist, in respect of the land held by him to the jagirdar or the State. But this definition of lagat, though it may be more or less satisfactory in the case of an agriculturist, does not give much assistance so far as the lagats on non-agriculturists are concerned. 1956 Raj LW 271: ILR (1956) 6 Raj 778.

SECTION 1

——S. 1 — Lagat, meaning of — It means something apart from land revenue or rent payable by an agriculturist, in respect of the land held by him to the jagirdar or the State. See Rajasthan Abolition of Lagats Ordinance (13 of 1948), Pre. 1956 Raj LW 271: ILR (1956) 6 Raj 778.

SECTION 2

——S. 2 — Lagat, Meaning of — It means something apart from land revenue or rent payable by an agriculturist, in respect of the land held by him to the jagirdar or the state. See Rajasthan Abolition of Lagats Ordinance (13 of 1948), Pre. 1956 Raj LW 271: ILR (1956) 6 Raj 778.

——Ss. 2 and 3 — Scope.

Literally interpreted these sections are apt to mean that once an agriculturist pays land-revenue for some land, no lagat can at all be levied against him for any other land of which he may be in possession but for which he may not be paying any land revenue to the State or to the jagirdar. This does not however appear to be the true or the probable intention of the legislature in enacting these sections. The real intention of the framers of the Ordinance in enacting these sections seems to be that no agriculturist was to be called upon to pay lagats for the land for which he in fact pays land revenue and that he was not to be exempt from payment of any lagats as to other lands held by him say in the abadi which do not carry with them the obligation to pay any land revenue. In other words, the sections as they are worded, do not clearly bring out the connection or nexus between the land and the payment of land revenue with respect to it. It is only where such a connection exists that the levy of any lagat has been prohibited under these sections. 1956 Raj LW 271: ILR (1956) 6 Raj 778.

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3 and 2 — Scope — The sections as they are worded do not clearly bring out the connection or nexus between the land and the payment of land revenue with respect to it. See Rajasthan Abolition of Lagats Ordinance (13 of 1948), S. 2. 1956 Raj LW 271: ILR (1956) 6 Raj 778.

SECTION 4

——S. 4 —Applicability — Jumpi Bhara in the nature of rent for occupation of residential land.

Giving every word in Section 4 its intended meaning, it seems that what the framers of this piece of legislation wanted to abolish was certain harrassing exactions which were made by the jagirdars from their people in connection with the enjoyment of water, grazing, fuel or other similar facil-lities out of common village resources for which in common justice or fairness, he was not entitled to levy any charge whatever. The charging of Jhumpi Bhara which is in the nature of rent for occupation of residential land, apart from lease money, does not and cannot be considered to fall within the ambit of other amenities envisaged in the section. Even if it were a tax it would not be hit by the terms of Sec. 4 of the Ordinance because such a charge is obviously not made by the jagirdar from the tenant for enjoyment of water, grazing, lakd or other similar amenities. If Jhumpi bhara is a tax and it is sought to be realised by the jagirdar after the Constitution came into force on the 26th January 1950, different considerations would obviously arise and such a tax could not be recovered unless it is supported by the authority of law. 1956 Raj LW 271: ILR (1956) 6 Raj 778.

——S. 4 — Jhumpi Bhara whether tax or lagat indicated. See Kanun Maal Mewar (5 of 1947) S. 100. 1956 Raj LW 271: ILR (1956) 6 Raj 778.

RAJASTHAN ADAPTATION OF CENTRAL LAWS ORDINANCE (4 OF 1950)

SECTION 4

——S. 4 — Enforcement of Police Act in Rajasthan — Enforcement held valid. See Constitution of India Art. 372 (1). AIR 1957 Raj 28 (DB).

——S. 4 — Permanent sanad acquired under Ss. 4 and 7, Legal Practitioners Act as adapted in Rajasthan by Rajasthan Adaptation of Central Laws Ordinance (4 of 1950), has to be renewed every year under extended Act. See Legal Practitioners Act (1879), S. 7. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 363 (DB).

SECTION 5

●——S. 5 — Qualification of industrial tribunal. Sec. 5 of Ordinance is not applicable. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 7. AIR 1954 SC 390.

——S. 5 (7) — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 7 (3) (a) — A 'Judge of a High Court' does not include Judge of High Court of former State of Jodhpur. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 7 (3) (a). AIR 1951 Raj 161 (DB).

SECTION 7

——S. 7 — Permanent sanad acqiured under Ss. 4 and 7, Legal Practitioners Act as adapted in Rajasthan by Rajasthan Adaptation of Central Laws Ordinance (IV of 1950), has to be renewed every year under extended Act. See Legal Practitioners Act (1879), S. 7. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 363 (DB).

SECTION 10

——S. 10 — Usurious Loans Act (1918), S. 3 — Marwar Relief of Indebtedness Act (1951), Ss. 5, 6 — Repeal of by Ordinance — Extent of — Test — Transaction prior to 1950 — Indian Act does not apply. ILR (1956) 6 Raj 1070: 1957 Raj LW 61: AIR 1957 Raj 120 (121, 122) (Pt B) (Prs 8, 12 to 14) (DB).

RAJASTHAN ADMINISTRATION ORDINANCE (1 OF 1948)

See also Rajasthan Administration Ordinance (1 of 1949).

——Integration of Mewar — End of the Constitution of Mewar — Not kept alive by Ordinance. See Constitution of Mewar (1947). AIR 1953 Raj 22 (DB).

SECTION 3

——S. 3 — 'Person' — Meaning — Includes Government — Suit against Rajasthan State Government for tortious act of Commissioner — Government has right to claim protection under Sec. 44. See Public Safety — Rajasthan Public Safety Ordinance, Sec. 44. AIR 1961 Raj 64 (DB).

——S. 3 — Kanun Maal Mewar — Reference to for ascertaining meaning of 'Lagat' not defined in Rajasthan Abolition of Lagat Ordinance — Lagat, meaning of — It means something apart from land revenue or rent payable by an agriculturist, in respect of the land held by him to the jagirdar or the State. See United State of Rajasthan Abolition of Lagats Ordinance (13 of 1948), Pre. 1956 Raj LW 271: ILR (1956) 6 Raj 778.

SECTION 17

——S. 17 — Suits against Government — Suit maintainable — Part B States — Position in United State of Rajasthan including Kotah State indicated. See Constitution of India, Art. 300. AIR 1961 Raj 64 (DB).

RAJASTHAN ADMINISTRATION ORDINANCE (1 OF 1949)

See also Rajasthan Administration Ordinance (1 of 1948).

SECTION 3

●——S. 3 (1) — Merger of several sovereign States by stages to form a new State — At each stage covenants keeping old laws in force and new State taking over assets and liabilities of component States — New State not repealing old laws by its legislation — Liabilities of component States continue to be enforceable — A subject thereof can enforce his rights by a suit against the new State. See Constitution of India, Art. 295 (2). AIR 1964 SC 1495.

●——S. 3 — Scope and effect of — Contractual liabilities of covenanting Dholpur State — Liabilities enforceable in present State of Rajasthan. See Constitution of India, Art. 295. AIR 1960 Raj 256 (FB).

——S. 3 — Power to recognise succession to jagirs in former State of Alwar — Petition for recognition pending at the time of merger of Matsya Union into Rajasthan — Order by Rajpramukh in his executive capacity recognising succession under Art. 7 (3) of Covenant — Decision held was without jurisdiction. See Rajsthan Jagir Decisions and Proceedings (Validation) Act (18 of 1955), S. 3. AIR 1957 Raj 372 (DB).

——S. 3 — Scope.

Section 6 of the Jaipur General Clauses Act which remained in force by virtue of Sec. 3 of the Ordinance saved the rights of the defendant to pay the reduced rent during the continuance of the Jaipur Rent Control Order. See Houses and Rents — Jaipur Rent Control Order (1947), Cl. 2 (d). AIR 1957 Raj 220.

●——S. 3 (1) — "Laws" — If include judge-made law.

The term "law" in Sec. 3 (1) of the Rajasthan Administration Ordinance does not include the Judge-made law or the law deducible from the decisions of the High Courts of the covenanting States. ILR (1951) 1 Raj 297: 1951 Raj LW 295: AIR 1952 Raj 7 (8) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (FB).

RAJASTHAN ADMINISTRATION (AMEND-MENT) ORDINANCE (5 OF 1949)

SECTION 8

●——S. 8 (2) — Excise Rules framed—Ordinance — Publication and authorisation held valid. See Rajasthan Excise Duties Ordinance (25 of 1949), S. 5. AIR 1961 SC 683.

——Ss. 8, 9 and 30 — Agreement between Government of former Jodhpur State and plaintiff for setting up mill by latter — State agreeing to exempt plaintiff from payment of excise duty — Agreement not enforceable against State of Rajasthan or Union of India — Contract not void under Art. 14 — Constitution of India, Art. 14. See Constitution of India, Art. 294. AIR 1960 Raj 92 (DB).

●——S. 8 (2) — Evidence Act (1872), S. 78 — Presumption as to authentication of rules published in Gazette.

Authentication of publication of Act or Ordinance is not an authentication of the publication of Rules made thereunder — Presumption under S. 8 (2) does not apply. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 78. AIR 1953 Raj 145 (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 SC 683.]

——S. 8 — Order authenticated by secretary — Absence of words "By order of his Highness the Raj Pramukh" — Effect.

Where an order published in the Government Gazette itself shows that it has been passed by the Government of Rajasthan and is authenticated by a secretary to Government, it cannot be challenged because of a technical defect, viz., the absence of the words "By order of his Highness the Raj Pramukh". 1951 Raj LW 370: ILR (1951) 1 Raj 405: AIR 1952 Raj 17 (18) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

RAJASTHAN (ADMINISTRATION OF EVACUEE PROPERTY) ORDINANCE (14 OF 1949)

SECTION 6

——S. 6 and 7.

Writ of certiorari or prohibition cannot be directed against person to purports to act under Ss. 6 and 7 of the Ordinance. See Constitution of India (1950), Art. 226. AIR 1950 Raj 58.

RAJASTHAN AGRICULTURAL INCOME-TAX ACT (23 OF 1953)

SECTION 2

——S. 2 (1) — Scope — Assessee, a jagirdar — Recovering 'Patwar' income along with rent from tenants — Nature of 'Patwar' income — Such income is not an agricultural income within the section — Rightly excluded from assessment.

The distinction between the words 'rent' and 'Land revenue' has always been well defined. The former is paid by a tenant to a landlord, whereas the land revenue is paid to the State. The charges made by the assessee Jagirdar for 'Patwar' may be called revenue in the wider sense of the term, but every revenue does not come within the ambit of the "Agricultural income" as defined in Sec. 2 (1) of the Rajasthan Agricultural Income-tax Act (1953) It is only revenue derived from land which is used for agricultural purposes and is either assessed to land revenue in the taxable territories or subject to a local rate assessed and collected by officers of the Government as such, which can be termed as "agri cultural income".

'Patwar' received by the assessee is clearly not rent because it is not payable in respect of the grant of a right to use the land as such. It may be called revenue in its wider sense, but it is not revenue derived from land. It is a charge made by the landlord for purposes of administration, that is, for emoluments to be paid to the patwari for maintenance of the records and management of the Jagir land. It was charged apart from rent and land revenue and the mere fact that the revenue of seven pies per rupees was fixed on the amount of the rent did not make it a part of rent or land revenue.

Therefore the 'Patwar' income recovered by the assessee is not "agricultural income" within the meaning of Sec. 2 (1) (i) of the Act and it was rightly excluded from his assessment. I. T. Ref. No. 20 of 1963, D/-30-7-65 (Raj), (DB); AIR 1949 PC 1, AIR 1950 Pat 86, AIR 1936 Lah 595, Foll. ILR 48 Cal 766, ILR 53 Cal 34, ILR 7 Pat 550, ILR 9 Pat 1, Dist. 1966 Raj LW 15: (1966) 1 ITJ 243: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 1148.

——Ss. 2 (20), 5, 6 — Assessment of jagirdars — Amount withheld by State out of collections — Not to be included in total agricultural income — Assessee to be assessed on that amount which was actually paid to them by the State in the relevant year under S. 6 (a) a sum equal to 15 per cent. of the total amount of rent or other dues which accrued to the assessee in the previous year was allowed by law in those cases in which the assessee were to make collections themselves — Further fifteen per cent. deduction under Sec. 6 held not available to assessee since the collections were made by the State. 1963 Raj LW 348: ILR (1963) 13 Raj 520.

——Ss. 2 (17), 3 and 4 — 'Previous year' — Meaning of — Choice of year given to assessee — Method of computation of tax.

Held, on facts, that Sec. 2 (17) of the Act gave an option to the assessee to choose his previous year. Where, therefore, the year of choice of the assessee was different from the financial year, the income of the assessee was to be taxed according to his year as provided by S. 4. The first proviso to that section was enacted for the purpose of making assessments, where no rate or rates were laid down for any year by the Finance Act. The proviso thus was in the nature of a supplementary provision for recovering tax for the assessment year 1954-55, on income accruing to the assessee from 1-4-1953 and did not therefore, override the main section.

The word 'during' in the expression 'total agricultural income accruing to a person during the year commencing from 1st April 1953' in the proviso did not convey the whole year from 1-4-1953 to 31-3-1954 necessarily but included part of the year as well where the previous year of the assessee ended on a date prior to 31-3-1954 and in such a contingency the assessee could only be charged with tax for or the period of his year of choice beginning from 1-4-1953 when the Act came into operation. 1961 Raj LW 371: ILR (1961) 11 Raj 555.

——S. 2 (1) — 'Agricultural income' — Meaning of.

Agriculture in its strict sense is restricted to the basic operations on the land itself that is, the cultivation and tilling of the soil, sowing, planting, hoeing and similar operations which require expenditure of human skill and labour on the land itself. Where the products on the land have not been raised by the performance of those basic operations, the other subsequent operations cannot by themselves be regarded as agricultural operations, so as to make the income derived from such produce agricultural income under the law.

Where the trees in the forest of Jagirs were all of natural growth but the Jagirs were under the management of the Forest Department of the State.

Held, that the income derived from the forest was not an agricultural income. AIR 1957 SC 768, Relied on. 1960 Raj LW 628: ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1636.

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3, 4 and 2 (17) — "Previous year" — Meaning of — Choice of year given to assessee — Method of computation of tax. See Rajasthan Agricultural Income-Tax Act (23 of 1953), S. 2 (17). ILR (1961) 11 Raj 555.

SECTION 4

——S. 4 — Act not retrospective — Previous year commencing 8-7-52 and ending 26-7-53 — Rate of tax in first schedule applies to income for period 1-4-53 to 26-7-53 and not to total income of twelve months ending 26-7-53. 1965 Raj LW 472: ILR (1966) 16 Raj 24.

——Ss. 4, 3 and 2 (17) — "Previous year" — Meaning of — Choice of year given to assessee — Method of computation of tax. See Rajasthan Agricultural Income-Tax Act (23 of 1953), S. 2 (17). ILR (1961) 11 Raj 555.

SECTION 5

——Ss. 5, 6 and 2 (20) — Assessment of Jagirdars —Amount withheld by State out of the collections — Note to be included in total agricultural income. See Rajasthan Agricultural Income-Tax Act (23 of 1953), S. 2 (20). 1963 Raj LW 348: ILR (1963) 13 Raj 520.

SECTION 6

——Ss. 6, 5 and 2 (20) — Assessment of Jagirdars —Amount withheld by State out of the collections— Not to be included in total agricultural income. See Rajasthan Agricultural Income-Tax Act (23 of 1953), S. 2 (20). 1963 Raj LW 348: ILR (1963) 13 Raj 520.

SECTION 13

——Ss. 13 (a) (iii), 22, third proviso — Assignment by a jagirdar in favour of wife and other relatives entitled to cash grants from jagir land — Income from such assigned land — Not includible in the income of the jagirdar assessee.

Where the assessee jagirdar had assigned lands from his jagir to his wife, grand-mother and other near relatives who were entitled to cash grants from the jagir by way of maintenance and other rights, on the question whether the income derived from these assigned lands could be deemed to be the "agricultural income" of the assessee:

Held, that though it was true that according to the provisions of the Sec. 13 (a) (iii) all the agricultural income of a wife or a minor child of an individual arising directly or indirectly from assets transferred directly or indirectly to them by the husband or the father as the case may be, could be included in the total agricultural income of the husband or the father, it can only be done if the assets transferred to the wife or the minor child are alienated otherwise than for adequate consideration. Where such assets were transferred to the assessee's wife and other relatives for adequate consideration, the income received by the wife of the assessee from the sub-grant could not be included in the income of the assessee, because it could not be said that the assessee derived any benefit out of the sub-grants. ILR (1965) 15 Raj 1148.

SECTION 22

——S. 22, third proviso — Assignment by a jagirdar in favour of wife and other relatives entitled to cash grants from jagir land — Income from such assigned land — Not includible in the income of the jagirdar assessee. See Rajasthan Agricultural Income-tax Act (1953), S. 13 (a) (iii). ILR (1965) 15 Raj 1148.

——S. 22 — Assessee, jagirdar of Scheduled Jagir of erstwhile Jodhpur State — Income of assessee's brother and assessee's younger son derived from land assigned to them under Sec. 195 of Marwar Agricultural Land Act (40 of 1949) — Income not includible in assessee's income — Assignment of land in favour of wife and younger son — Assignments held were dispositions covered by third proviso to Sec. 22 of Act.

The assessee was a jagirdar of a Scheduled Jagir of the erstwhile Jodhpur State. The revenue authorities sought to club with the assessee's income (1) the income of assessee's brother derived from the land assigned to him by their grandfather under S. 195 of the Marwar Land Revenue Act (40 of 1949), (2) the income derived by assessee's younger son from the land assigned to him by the assessee under Sec. 195 of the Marwar Act (40 of 1949) and (3) the income derived by the assessee's wife from the land assigned to her by the assessee. The question was whether the income derived from the land assigned to the assessee's brother was irrevocable for purpose of Sec. 22 of the Agricultural Income-tax Act, 1953 and could not be included in the income of the assessee and whether the assignments in favour of the assessee's wife and his son were dispositions covered by the third proviso to S. 22 of the Act.

Held, that, (1) as the assessee's brother became a sub-proprietor under Sec. 196 of the Marwar Act (40 of 1949) and was under Sec. 197 of that Act liable to pay to the landlord only land revenue and other public demands and expenses relating to the part of jagir held by him, the grant was irrevocable so far as the assessee was concerned and the income derived from the land was irrevocable for the purpose of Sec. 22 of the Act of 1953 and could not be included in the income of the assessee, (2) The position of the assessee's younger son became similar to that of the assessee's brother, (3) As the grant in favour of the assessee's wife was treated as a sub-jagir by the Jagir Commissioner and the assignment of land was made to her in lieu of cash maintenance, the income derived therefrom could not be clubbed with the income of the assessee in view of Sec. 13 of the Act of 1953 and (4) The assignments made by the assessee in favour of his wife and his son were dispositions covered by third proviso to S. 22 of the Act. 1965 Raj LW 472: ILR (1966) 16 Raj 24.

SECTION 61

——S. 61 (2), Proviso I — Proviso applies only if assessee wishes to take advantage of permission to pay by instalments.

An assessee who makes an application for being allowed to pay the tax by instalments can change his mind when he comes to know that the result of being permitted to pay by instalments would be that he will have no right to file an appeal. The proviso would come into play if the assessee wishes to take advantage of the permission to pay by instalments. If he wishes to change his mind and informs of it to A. I. T. O. within the original period allowed in the demand notice there is nothing in the section which may force him to pay by instalments only. ILR (1958) 8 Raj 599: 1959 Raj LW 313.

——S. 61 (2), Proviso — Department bringing to notice of assessee provisions of Sec. 61 (2) must also bring to his notice consequences of proviso.

It is up to the department that if it is thought necessary to bring to the notice of the assessee the provisions of sub-sec. (2), it is also incumbent upon it to bring to his notice the consequences which would follow, as laid down in the proviso. The omission to draw the attention to the proviso gave a fasle impression to the assessee and as soon as the assessee came to know what the consequences of allowing his application to pay by instalments would be, he immediately asked that he should be permitted to withdraw his application. As the application which was made to the Agricultural Income-tax Officer by the assessees was based on a misrepresentation the assessee, was at liberty to withdraw his application when he came to know what would be the consequences. ILR (1958) 8 Raj 599: 1959 Raj LW 313.

RAJASTHAN AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE MARKETS ACT (38 OF 1961)

SECTION 1

——S. 1 — Constitutional validity — Act does not contravene Art. 19 (1) (g) of Constitution. See Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g). 1965 Raj LW 358: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 897: AIR 1966 Raj 142 (DB).

SECTION 3

——S. 3 (2) — Expression 'within a period of not less than one month' — Meaning — Notification under Sec. 3, permitting filing of objections within one month — Expressions 'not less than one month' and 'within one month' mean same thing — Requirement under Sec. 3 is amply met if period for filing objection is exactly one month — Expression 'within a period of not less than one month' — Meaning. AIR 1957 SC 271 and AIR 1957 Pepsu 14 and AIR 1964 All 416, Rel. on. Civil Writ Petn. No. 893 of 1964, D/-18-8-1964 (Raj) and AIR 1957 Raj 388, Disting. 1965 Raj LW 358: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 897: AIR 1966 Raj 142 (150) (Pt D) (Pr 45) (DB).

SECTION 4

——S. 4 (2) — Licences for operating in market — Market committee's bye-laws not valid — Market committee cannot be asked to issue licences — Machinery envisaged by Act for issue of licences not completed—It is mandatory for State Government to make suitable arrangement for issue of licence for interim period. See Rajasthan Agricultural Produce Markets Act (38 of 1961), S. 14. 1965 Raj LW 358: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 897: AIR 1966 Raj 142 (DB).

SECTION 7

——S. 7 (2) (b) and 7 (1) (i) — Constitution of market committee for first time — Nomination of members by Government — No particular limitation as to qualification of members is laid down —S. 7 (2) is exception to S. 7 (1) (i). 1965 Raj LW 358: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 897: AIR 1966 Raj 142 (152) (Pt H) (Pr 56) (DB).

——S. 7 (2) (b) — Constitution of market committee for first time — Nomination of certain members by Government — Grievance of writ petitioners that members were not properly qualified — Members not impleaded as parties to writ petition — Decree about validity of their nomination would not be justified — Constitution of India, Art. 226 — Natural Justice. 1965 Raj LW 358: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 897: AIR 1966 Raj 142 (152) (Pt I) (Pr 56) (DB).

SECTION 14

——Ss. 14, 4 (2) and 37 — Licences for operating in market — Market committee's bye-laws not valid — Market committee cannot be asked to issue licences — Machinery envisaged by Act for issue of licences not completed — It is mandatory for State Government to make suitable arrangements for issue of licences for interim period. 1965 Raj LW 358: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 897: AIR 1966 Raj 142 (152) (Pt G) (Pr 54) (DB).

SECTION 36

——S. 36 (2) (f) — Levy of licence fee by market committee by its bye-law — Bye-law is not ultra vires market committee — Rule-making authority fixing maximum fee and leaving each market committee with discretion to fix fees below that maximum— No case of excessive delegation: Obiter. See Rajasthan Agricultural Produce Markets Act (38 of 1961), S. 37. 1965 Raj LW 358: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 897: AIR 1966 Raj 142 (DB).

SECTION 37

——S. 37 — Bye-laws under, made by market committees — Requirement of previous sanction of Director — Director sending approved Model Bye-laws to market committees — Requirement of previous sanction is not fulfilled — Each committee must consider model bye-laws in the light of its requirements, seek sanction of Director before passing them, and again when they are passed — AIR 1959 Raj 75 and 1955 Raj LW 454, Rel. on. 1965 Raj LW 358: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 897: AIR 1966 Raj 142 (151) (Pt E) (Pr 52) (DB).

——Ss. 37 and 36 (2) (f) — Rajasthan Agricultural Produce Markets Rules (1963), R. 69 — Levy of licence fee by market committee by its bye-law — Bye-law is not ultra vires market committee — Rule-making authority fixing maximum fee and leaving each market committee with discretion to fix fees below that maximum — No case of excessive delegation (Obiter). 1965 Raj LW 358: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 897: AIR 1966 Raj 142 (152) (Pt F) (Pr 53) (DB).

——S. 37 — Licences for operating in market — Market committee's bye-laws not valid — Market committee cannot be asked to issue licences — Machinery envisaged by Act for issue of licences not completed — It is mandatory for State Government to make suitable arrangement for issue of licence for interim period. See Rajasthan Agricultural Produce Markets Act (38 of 1961), S. 14. 1965 Raj LW 358: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 897: AIR 1966 Raj 142 (DB).

RAJASTHAN AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE MARKET RULES (1963)

RULE 69

——R. 69 — Levy of licence fee by Market committee by its bye-law—Bye-law is not ultra vires market committee — Rule-making authority fixing maximum fee and leaving each market committee with discretion to fix fees below that maximum — No case of excessive delegation (Obiter). See Rajas-Agricultural Produce Markets Act (38 of 1961), S. 37. 1965 Raj LW 358: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 897: AIR 1966 Raj 142 (DB).

RAJASTHAN AGRICULTURAL RENTS CONTROL ACT (19 OF 1952)

SECTION 1

——S. 1 (3) — Act violates Article 14 of the Constitution and is wholly void — (Constitution of India, Art. 14).

Section 1 (3) of the Rajasthan Agricultural Rents Control Act, 1952, violates Art. 14 of the Constitution and as such is ultra vires. There is no guiding principle anywhere in the Act controlling the discretion of the State Government as to the application of the Act to particular areas in Rajasthan, and the discretion, which is vested by S. 1 (3), in the State Government is absolute and unfettered. AIR 1952 SC 75, Applied.

As S. 1 (3) falls, and as that is the only section which provides for the enforcement of the Act, the whole Act falls. ILR (1954) Raj 518: 1954 Raj LW 601: AIR 1954 Raj 197 (199, 200) (Pt A) (Prs 10, 12, 14) (DB).

RAJASTHAN APPEALS AND PETITIONS (DISCONTINUANCE) ORDINANCE (40 OF 1949)

●——Constitution of India, Art. 374 (4) — Appeals authorised to be heard by High Court by the Rajasthan Appeals and Petitions (Discontinuance) Ordinance — If should be transferred to Supreme Court after the new Constitution came into force.

Appeals which could have been heard and disposed of by the Ijlas-i-Khas, Jodhpur, but which have been authorised to be heard by the High Court of Rajasthan by the Rajasthan Appeals and Petitions (Discontinuance) Ordinance, 1949, can be heard and disposed of by the High Court even after the Constitution has come into force because the High Court is not functioning as the Privy Council in respect of such appeals and so need not be transferred to the Supreme Court under Art. 374 (4) of the Constitution. Kishan Lal v. Bhanwar Lal, 1950 Raj LW 299: AIR 1951 Raj 1 (1, 11) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 38) (FB).

——Rajasthan High Court Ordinance (dated 12-8-1949), Ss. 49 and 40 — Existing petitions for leave to appeal or appeals against decisions of former High Court — How far affected by Ss. 49 and 40 — The Rajasthan High Court Ordinance in the first place, does not touch the existing petitions for leave to appeal or appeals already presented against the decisions of any of the former High Courts of the covenanting States. Secondly, S. 49 of the High Court Ordinance seems to refer to cases pending in the former High Courts, which are directed to be transferred to the Rajasthan High Court for disposal. The judgments already passed by the former High Courts are not included in S. 40. See Rajasthan High Court Ordinance (dated 12-8-1949), Ss. 49 and 40. AIR 1950 Raj 37 (DB).

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3 and 4 (1) — Law in force in covenanting State — Statement of Power (Bikaner), Appendix A, Head 1, Item 1; Head 2, Item 17 — Reopening of jagir succession in Bikaner — Case pending till merger of Bikaner State in Rajasthan — Power of State of Rajasthan to pass orders — The State of Rajasthan had power under S. 4 (1), Clause (c) of Ordinance No. 40 of 1949 to deal with the case as it was neither a judicial nor a revenue matter, but a case of executive nature. See Rajasthan Appeals and Petitions (Discontinuance) Ordinance (40 of 1949), S. 4 (1). AIR 1958 Raj 12 (DB).

——Ss. 3 and 4 — Ijlas-I-Khas Rules, 1945, Rr. 3 and 36 — Scope and applicability indicated. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 1642 (DB).

——Ss. 3 and 4 — Civil P. C. (1908), O. 47, R. 2 — "Disposed of" — Meaning of — Abrogation of rule by Ordinance 40 of 1949 — Review of order of Ijlas-i-Khas — No notice issued — Disposal by High Court — The High Court, as successor to Ijlas-i-Khas, could not dispose of the application as no notice was issued. See Civil P. C. (1908), O. 47, R. 2. AIR 1952 Raj 178 (DB).

——S. 3 — Constitution of India, Art. 133 — Leave to appeal from decision of Rajasthan High Court — Conditions for — Ijlas-i-Khas Rules, 1939, if applicable — The Ijlas-i-Khas Rules of 1939 are no longer in force and no leave to appeal can be granted in pursuance thereof. See Constitution of India, Art. 133. AIR 1951 Raj 55 (DB).

SECTION 4

——S. 4 (1) (b) — Constitution of Special Board of Revenue — Board duly notified in Gazette —

Failure to notify the appointment of one member or an ad hoc member to the Board is mere irregularity.

Where the Special Board of Revenue is duly constituted and the Board is duly notified in the Gazette, failure to notify a change of personnel or appointment of an ad hoc member in the Gazette is merely an irregularity. Omission to notify such a change of personnel does not affect the validity of the appointment so as to make the officer appointed functus officio to hear and decide the appeal. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1520.

——Ss. 4 (1) and 3 — Law in force in covenanting State — Statement of Powers (Bikaner), Appendix A, Head 1, Item 1; Head 2, Item 17—Reopening of jagir succession in Bikaner — Case pending till merger of Bikaner State in Rajasthan — Power of State of Rajasthan to decide — State of Rajasthan had power under S. 4 (1), Clause (c) of the Ordinance No. 40 of 1949 to deal with the case as it was neither a judicial nor a revenue matter, but a case of executive nature. 1957 Raj LW 338: ILR (1957) 7 Raj 349: AIR 1958 Raj 12 (14) (Pt A) (Prs 12, 14, 15, 16) (DB).

——S. 4 — Scope and applicability — The representation made on 29-1-1949 was not one which was required to be heard, determined and disposed of according to S. 4 of the Ordinance. See Rajasthan Appeals and Petitions (Discontinuance) Ordinance (40 of 1949), S. 3. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 1642 (DB).

——S. 4 (1) (b) — 'Judicial revenue matter'—Expression should be given ordinary meaning according to purpose of Ordinance. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 1049 (DB).

——S. 4 — Civil P. C. (1908), O. 47, R. 2 — "Disposed of" — Meaning of — Abrogation of rule by Ordinance 40 of 1949 — Review of order of Ijlas-i-Khas — No notice issued — Disposal by High Court — The High Court, as the successor to Ijlas-i-Khas, could not dispose of the application as no notice was issued. See Civil P. C. (1908), O. 47, R. 2. AIR 1952 Raj 178 (DB).

●——S. 4 — Appeals transferred to High Court—High Court does not function as Privy Council — Constitution of India, Art. 374 (4).

Per Full Bench:—The High Court of Rajasthan is not functioning as Privy Council in respect of appeals and petitions which it has been authorised to entertain and dispose of under S. 4 of the Rajasthan Appeals and Petitions (Discontinuance) Ordinance, 1949, as amended by Ordinance 12 of 1950 and they need not be transferred to the Supreme Court under Art. 374 (4) of the Constitution. Kishen Lal v. Bhanwarlal, 1950 Raj LW 299: AIR 1951 Raj 1 (1, 11) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 38) (FB).

SECTION 19

——S. 19 — Interpretation of, indicated — Section 19 of the Ordinance abolishes all Boards or other tribunals discharging functions similar to those of a Board prescribed by this Ordinance or any other law for the time being in force in the whole or any part of Rajasthan. The language is wide enough to cover any Board of Revenue or any other Revenue Tribunal discharging functions similar to those of a Board of Revenue.

Both the old Board of Revenue and the new Board constituted by the Maharaja of Bikaner came to be abolished by this Ordinance and under the second part of S. 19 cases pending before those Boards could be transferred to, heard and disposed of by the Rajasthan Board of Revenue. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 5035 (DB).

——S. 19 — Judgment delivered by Additional Commissioner — Power to review — An Additional Commissioner who delivers a judgment under S. 10 (2) of the Protection of Tenants Ordinance cannot subsequently review his own decision. See Tenancy Laws — Rajasthan (Protection of Tenants) Ordinance (9 of 1949), S. 10 (2). AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 764 (DB).

RAJASTHAN APPEALS AND PETITIONS DISCONTINUANCE (AMENDMENT) ORDINANCE (12 OF 1950)

——Judgment of Ijlas-i-Khas cannot become judgment of High Court.

It is by virtue of the special provisions of Ordinance No. 12 of 1950 that the High Court hears appeals, petitions, etc., which were pending before the Ijlas-i-Khas, and by no amount of legal fiction can the judgment of the Ijlas-i-Khas become the judgment of the High Court. 1952 Raj LW 172: ILR (1952) 2 Raj 314: AIR 1952 Raj 178 (179) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

RAJASTHAN ARMED CONSTABULARY ACT (12 OF 1950)

SECTION 6

——S. 6 (e) — 'Desertion' — Meaning.

The word 'desertion' does not simply mean leaving the post or mere departure from the post without permission. It means something more, and that something more is the intention never to return to the post, or to go away with the idea of avoiding hazardous duty, or shirking any important service. Where a person serving in the armed Constabulary simply leaves his post without leave, he is not guilty under S. 6 (e). ILR (1956) 6 Raj 996: 1957 Cri LJ 103: 1957 Raj LW 139: AIR 1957 Raj 26 (26) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

SECTION 7

——S. 7 (g) — Minor offence — Offence under S. 7 (g), Rajasthan Armed Constabulary Act — The offence under S. 7 (g), Rajasthan Armed Constabulary Act, is a minor offence as compared to the offence under S. 6 (e) of that Act and, therefore, it is open to a Court under S. 238, Criminal P. C., to convict the accused of the offence under S. 7 (g) even though he was not charged with it. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 238. 1957 Cri LJ 103: AIR 1957 Raj 26 (DB).

——S. 7 (g) — Leaving post without leave — Offence.

Where a person serving in the Armed Constabulary leaves his post without leave, he is guilty under S. 7 (g) and the fact that some immediate superior officer of his knew of his intention to go away without leave would not be of any help to him. ILR (1956) 6 Raj 996: 1957 Cri LJ 103: 1957 Raj LW 139: AIR 1957 Raj 26 (27) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

RAJASTHAN BOARD OF REVENUE ORDINANCE (22 OF 1949)

SECTION 12

——S. 12 — Power of Revenue Board to revise orders under S. 4-A — The Board has the power of general superintendence and control over all other revenue courts and offences under S. 12 of the Rajasthan Board of Revenue Ordinance 22 of 1949. Whether the Tehsildar acting under S. 4-A of Act 22 of 1953 is a Court or an officer, the Board has power of superintendence over him under S. 12 and can interfere with his orders in appropriate cases, though there may be no power of revision as such under the Rajasthan Revenue Courts (Procedure and Jurisdiction) Act. See Tenancy Laws — Rajasthan Produce Rents Regulating (Second Amendment) Act (22 of 1953), S. 4-A. AIR 1957 Raj 343 (DB).

——S. 12 — Rajasthan (Protection of Tenants) Ordinance, S. 4 — Order of ejectment made in contravention of Sec. 4 — No power of revision under Rajasthan Revenue Courts (Procedure and Jurisdiction) Act, S. 26 — But power of superintendence is given by Rajasthan Board of Revenue Ordinance (22 of 1949), S. 12, under which ejectment order can be set aside. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 1447 (DB).

SECTION 13

●——S. 13 (2) — Rules framed under R. 4 — Revisions before Bench of Board — Parties heard only by one Member — Another Member concurring in decisions — Legality of decision.

According to R. 4 of the Rules framed under S. 13 (2) of the Board of Revenue Ordinance, no decree or order coming under the consideration of the Board on appeal, revision or reference, can be modified or reversed without the concurrent judgment of two members. Section 13 only provides two modes of hearing either by a member singly or by a Bench of two or more members. The compliance with R. 4, therefore, requires that the two members should sit as a Bench and not separately. Hence, a decision given by one member of the Board of Revenue after hearing parties and concurred by another member of the Board of Revenue without hearing the parties is not valid even in the case of revision, when the decision is one allowing the revision and reversing the decision of the lower Court. Shri Bishveshwar v. Board of Revenue, Rajasthan, ILR (1955) 5 Raj 979: 1955 Raj LW 422: AIR 1956 Raj 101 (102) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 7) (FB).

●——S. 13 — Rules under — Inconsistency between Rules and Act — Act prevails.

The rules to be framed under any provision of the Act cannot be inconsistent with the provisions of the Act and, therefore, any mode of hearing provided by the Rules which may be inconsistent with Cls. (a) and (b) of S. 13 cannot be a valid one. Shri Bishveshwar v. Board of Revenue, Rajasthan, ILR (1955) 5 Raj 979: 1955 Raj LW 422: AIR 1956 Raj 101 (102) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (FB).

——S. 13 (2) — Rules framed under, R. 6 — Validity — Procedure to be followed by single member.

Rule 6 of the Rules framed under S. 13 (2) of the Board of Revenue Ordinance says that a single member shall record his judgment or order, as the case may be, and send it to the other member for expression of his opinion. If the other member concurs, the judgment or order shall be deemed to be judgment or order of the Board. Rule 6, thus, purports to authorise two members to hear a case without forming a Bench. This rule is contrary to the provisions of S. 13 (1) of the Ordinance which provides only two modes of hearing: (i) either by a member of the Board sitting singly, or (ii) by a Bench of the Board consisting of two or more members, and is, therefore, invalid.

Rule 6 does not say that the second member can express his opinion without giving a notice of hearing to the parties or hearing them. If he does so, the procedure adopted is not authorised even according to the rules as they are. ILR (1951) 1 Raj 512: 1951 Raj LW 478: AIR 1952 Raj 46 (47, 48, 49, 50) (Prs 6, 8, 10, 11, 19, 23) (DB).

SECTION 19

——S. 19 — Notification No. 907 VIII/49, dated 26-10-1949 — Additional Commissioner deciding cases under S. 19 — No revision lies to the Board of Revenue — (Rajasthan Revenue Courts (Procedure and Jurisdiction) Act (1 of 1951), Ss. 26 and 36). 1953 Raj LW 21: ILR (1952) 2 Raj 647: AIR 1953 Raj 37 (39, 40) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 9) (DB).

RAJASTHAN BUILDINGS (LEASE AND RENT CONTROL) ORDINANCE (22 OF 1948)

See under Houses and Rents.

RAJASTHAN CASH JAGIRS ABOLITION ACT (29 OF 1958)

SECTION 2

——Ss. 2, 3 — Cash jagir — What is — Cash allowance granted by ex-Ruler under rules framed by him is included in the definition — Compensation has to be paid for discontinuance and abolition of such allowance — Words and Phrases — 'Jagir'. 1961 Raj LW 386: ILR (1961) 11 Raj 596.

SECTION 3

——S. 3 — Existing law — Meaning of — Rules framed by erstwhile Nawab of Tonk — Not mere executive orders or domestic instructions—Amount to existing law within Art. 366 (10) — Right to receive cash allowance under such rules cannot be determined by an executive order. See Constitution of India, Art. 372. 1961 Raj LW 386: ILR (1961) 11 Raj 596.

——Ss. 3 and 2 — Cash jagir — What is — Cash allowance granted by ex-Ruler under rules framed by him is included in the definition — Compensation has to be paid for discontinuance and abolition of such allowance — Words and Phrases—"Jagir". See Rajasthan Cash Jagirs Abolition Act (1958), S. 2. 1961 Raj LW 386: ILR (1961) 11 Raj 596.

RAJASTHAN CINEMAS REGULATION ACT (3 OF 1952)

SECTION 5

——S. 5 (3) — Grant of temporary licence by State Government — Power is administrative and not judicial or quasi-judicial — Government not bound to give hearing or reasons while granting licence. 1962 Raj LW 222: ILR (1962) 12 Raj 44.

——S. 5 (2) and (3) — Grant of licence under Act — Subject to control of State Government — State Government can direct licensing authority to grant a licence in a particular case — Cinematograph Act (1918), S. 5 (3).

Sub-sections (2) and (3) of S. 5 of the Act show that the State Government has been given the power to control the grant of licences under the Act and this power extends to the issue of a direction to the licensing authority for the grant of licence in a specific case and once that control has been exercised, it is obligatory on the part of the licensing authority to carry it out. AIR 1956 All 99; AIR 1957 Andh Pra 513, Ref. 1962 Raj LW 222: ILR (1962) 12 Raj 44.

[Overruled in AIR 1966 SC 1081.]

RAJASTHAN CINEMAS (REGULATION) RULES (1959)

RULE 3

——Rr. 3 (3), 63 and 74 (xii) — Power to issue temporary licence under R. 3 (3) — Extent of.

The power to issue a temporary licence is not restricted to a touring cinematograph or special cinematograph exhibition. Rule 2 contains definitions of 'temporary building', 'temporary enclosure', 'temporary cinematograph' and 'open air cinema', and according to sub-rule (3) of Rule 3, a temporary licence can be granted in respect of (i) a temporary building or (ii) any place. Temporary building is a building which is not a permanent building and may consist of a booth or tent or other similar structure; so a temporary licence can be granted for a temporary building. A temporary licence can, therefore, be granted for exhibition at these places also. This interpretation of the provisions of R. 3 (3) is further borne out by reference to Rr. 63 and 74 (xii). The provisos to these rules authorise the State Government to permit the exhibition of films for trade purposes by temporary touring or open air cinemas within five miles' radius of a permanent cinema and thus it becomes all the more clear that the intention is to permit the grant of licences not only in respect of touring and open air cinemas but also for temporary buildings. 1962 Raj LW 222: ILR (1962) 12 Raj 44.

RULE 63

——Rr. 63 and 74 (xii) — Validity — Provisos are not invalid.

The validity of the provisos to Rules 63 and 74 (xii) of the rules cannot be challenged on the ground that the effect of the provisos is to give unfettered and arbitrary power to the State Government in the matter of granting licences. 1962 Raj LW 222: ILR (1962) 12 Raj 44.

——Rr. 63, 74 (xii) and 3 (3) — Power to issue temporary licence under R. 3 (3) — Extent of. See Rajasthan Cinemas (Regulation) Rules (1959), R. 3 (3). 1962 Raj LW 222: ILR (1962) 12 Raj 44.

RULE 74

——Rr. 74 (xii), 3 (3) — Power to issue temporary licence under R. 3 (3) — Extent of. See Rajasthan Cinemas (Regulation) Rules (1959), R. 3 (3). 1962 Raj LW 222: ILR (1962) 12 Raj 44

——Rr. 74 (xii) and 63 — Validity — Provisos are not invalid. See Rajasthan Cinemas (Regulation) Rules (1959), R. 63. 1962 Raj LW 222: ILR (1962) 12 Raj 44.

RAJASTHAN CITY MUNICIPAL APPEALS (REGULATION) ACT (3 OF 1950).

See under Municipalities.

RAJASTHAN CIVIL COURTS (AMENDMENT) ACT (6 OF 1956)

SECTION 21

●——S. 21 — Applicability — Applicability to suits decided before amendment but from which appeals were filed after amendment — Law governing. See Rajasthan Civil Courts Ordinance (7 of 1950), S. 21. AIR 1958 Raj 62 (FB).

RAJASTHAN CIVIL COURTS LAWS EXTENSION ACT (2 OF 1957).

PREAMBLE

——Pre. — Conflict between existing law made by State Legislature — Rajasthan Civil Courts Laws (Extension) Act (2 of 1957) falls under List II, Item 3 of Sch. VII and not under List III, Item 13 — Does not conflict with Ajmer Courts Regulation (9 of 1926) — Is intra vires. See Constitution of India, Art. 254 (1). ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1678.

——Pre. — Decree of Jaipur Court passed in 1944 — Execution in Ajmer in 1953.

A decree was obtained from the Civil Court at Jaipur in 1944. Before the 1st of November, 1956, the decree was not executable at Ajmer, but since that date it has become executable on account of the Civil Courts Extension Act (No. 2 of 1957). However, execution cannot be proceeded with on the execution petition that was filed in the year 1953, in the Ajmer Court. At the time that petition was presented, the decree was not executable at Ajmer and the petition, therefore, cannot be regarded to be a proper one. The Court would, therefore, not be justified in ordering execution of the decree on the execution petition already filed by the decree-holder in the Court of the Civil Judge at Ajmer. ILR (1958) 8 Raj 591: 1959 Raj LW 291.

[Overruled in AIR 1962 Raj 41 (FB).]

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3, 5 — Effect of — Was to repeal Ss. 12 to 15 of Ajmer Courts Regulation (9 of 1926) — Period of limitation for appeal from decision of Munsiff to District Judge under Rajasthan Civil Courts Ordinance (7 of 1950) would be period prescribed by Art. 152, Limitation Act — Limitation Act (1908), Art. 152 — Ajmer Courts Regulation (9 of 1926), Ss. 12 to 15 — Rajasthan Civil Courts Ordinance (7 of 1950).

The combined effect of Ss. 3 and 5 of the Rajasthan Act (2 of 1957), is that the provisions contained in the Ajmer Courts Regulation, as regards the constitution of the various Courts as also the provisions governing the matter of appeal from the Courts of one grade to that of anther from the Courts of one grade to that of another stood entirely repealed. Until some other provision was made, the Courts already constituted and the jurisdiction and powers conferred upon them was to be deemed to have been respectively constituted and conferred under the Ordinance 7 of 1950. Sections 12 to 15 of the Ajmer Courts Regulation could be of no avail. The Courts as constituted by and under the Act of 1957 read with the Ordinance of 1950 alone held the field, and the period of limitation which would govern an appeal from the decision of a Munsiff to a District Judge under the Ordinance of 1950 read with the Act of 1957 would be the period prescribed by Art. 152 of the Limitation Act. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1678.

SECTION 5

——Ss. 5 and 3 — Effect of — Was to repeal Ss. 12 to 15 of Ajmer Courts Regulation (9 of 1926) — Period of limitation for appeal from decision of Munsiff to District Judge under Rajasthan Civil Courts Ordinance (7 of 1950) would be period prescribed by Art. 152, Limitation Act — Limitation Act (1908), Art. 152 — Ajmer Courts Regulation (9 of 1926), Ss. 12 to 15 — Rajasthan Civil Courts Ordinance (7 of 1950). See Rajasthan Civil Courts Laws (Extension) Act (2 of 1957), S. 3. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1678.

RAJASTHAN CIVIL COURTS ORDINANCE (31 OF 1949)

SECTION 17

——S. 17 — Suit against State by person claiming to be umrao is not maintainable either in High Court or any Civil Court in view of Mewar Revenue Act (5 of 1947), S. 123 (2), which is not repealed but saved by Ordinance 31 of 1949 — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9) — (Mewar Revenue Act (5 of 1947), S. 123 (2)). 1952 Raj LW 37: ILR (1951) 1 Raj 741.

RAJASTHAN CIVIL COURTS ORDINANCE (7 OF 1950)

——Rajasthan Civil Courts Laws (Extension) Act (2 of 1957), Ss. 3, 5 — Effect of — Was to repeal Ss. 12 to 15 of Ajmer Courts Regulation (9 of 1926) — Period of limitation for appeal from decision of Munsiff to District Judge under Rajasthan Civil Courts Ordinance (7 of 1950) would be period prescribed by Art. 152, Limitation Act. See Rajasthan Civil Courts Laws (Extension) Act (2 of 1957), S. 3. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1678.

SECTION 5

●——S. 5 — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 13 — Decree passed by Ajmer Court and transferred for execution to Court in Rajasthan before integration — Pending execution Ajmer integrated with Rajasthan — Decree can be executed in Courts in Rajasthan — ILR (1958) 8 Raj 591: 1959 Raj Lw 291, Overruled. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 13. AIR 1962 Raj 41 (FB).

SECTION 7

——S. 7 — Jurisdiction of Civil Courts — Change of — Procedure — Notification under Rajasthan Territorial Divisions Ordinance — Effect of — (Rajasthan Territorial Divisions Ordinance (1949)) — (Civil P. C. (1908), Ss. 15 and 16).

The jurisdiction of Civil Courts in Rajasthan is fixed by the Government by notification of 2nd June, 1950, under S. 7 of the Rajasthan Civil Courts Ordinance (7 of 1950). The jurisdiction having once been fixed by the Government under S. 7 can only be altered by another notification under that section, and it cannot be altered by any notification issued under the Rajasthan Territorial Divisions Ordinance, 1949, as the latter Ordinance has nothing to do with the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts. ILR (1957) 7 Raj 702: 1957 Raj LW 190: AIR 1957 Raj 241 (243) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

SECTION 21

——S. 21 — Scope — High Court — Power to entertain appeal which lies to District Court — Under S. 24 of the Civil P. C., the High Court has power to transfer the appeal to itself even though no such application is presented, and there is no lack of jurisdiction in the High Court to hear the appear which is filed before it, even though the appeal lies to the District Court under S. 21 of the Rajasthan Civil Courts Ordinance. 1905 AC 369 and AIR 1957 SC 540, Ref. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 24. AIR 1961 Raj 186 (DB).

——S. 21 — Scope and effect of — Right of appeal — If taken away — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 96).

There is a distinction between the right of appeal as such and the forum of appeal. It cannot be an invariable rule that a party should have a right of appeal to the identical forum in every case, to which at the date of institution of the suit he had a right of appeal, if in the meantime that forum has been abolished and some other forum has been substituted so long as the right of appeal itself has not been taken away or otherwise prejudicially affected. The Rajasthan Civil Courts Ordinance, 1941, has not taken away the right of appeal. It has merely provided that in the given case instead of the appeal being filed before the District Judge, as it was under the earlier Ordinance (5 of 1948), it should now be presented before the High Court. That is not deprivation of the right of appeal. AIR 1959 Raj 45: ILR (1959) 9 Raj 71: 1959 Raj LW 172, Overruled. 1959 Raj LW 391: ILR (1959) 9 Raj 734: AIR 1959 Raj 246 (247) (Pr 4) (DB).

——S. 21 — Forum of appeal — An appeal against an order in execution proceedings lies to the Court to which an appeal would lie against the decree in the original suit. See Suits Valuation Act (1887), S. 8. AIR 1959 Raj 101 (DB).

——S. 21 — Venue of appeal — Law applicable — Amendment in — Effect — Held, (i) that the right of appeal under S. 21 of the Rajasthan Ordinance before its amendment had accrued on the commencement of the suit and had become vested in the plaintiff and the subsequent amendment in that section did not affect that right;

(ii) that there is nothing in the Amendment Act of 1951 which can give it such retrospective effect;

(iii) that the appeal was properly filed in the Court of the District Judge and his order of returning it for presentation to the High Court was unsustainable in law, and must be set aside. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 96. AIR 1959 Raj 45.

[Overruled in AIR 1959 Raj 246.]

●——S. 21 — Retrospective operation — (Interpretation of Statutes) — (Rajasthan Civil Courts (Amendment) Act (6 of 1956), S. 21) — Rajasthan Civil Courts (Amendment) Ordinance (7 of 1957), S. 21-A).

Statutes, other than those relating to matters of procedure, do not and cannot have retrospective operation so as to destroy or impair existing vested rights. As a general rule, when law is altered during the pendency of an action, the law which is properly applicable to it is the law which existed at the commencement of the action. It is further well established that the right of appeal is a vested right and cannot be taken away retrospectively, unless such a right is so taken away by an express provision to that effect or by a distinct and necessary intendment. It is also equally well established and unquestionable that where a statute governing a right of appeal or for that matter any vested right is in its dominant intention and effect plainly retrospective, then it has to be accorded a retrospective effect, and the objection that such operation takes away a vested right is of little consequence. Judged by these principles, Ordinance No. (7 of 1957) is unquestionably retrospective inasmuch as the provisions of S. 21 of the Civil Courts Ordinance as amended in 1956 have been made expressly applicable to suits which were instituted before the Amendment Act of 1956 came into force but which were pending at the time of the commencement of that Act. Samdukhan v. Mandanlal, ILR (1958) 8 Raj 5: 1957 Raj LW 464: AIR 1958 Raj 62 (64, 65) (Prs 12, 13) (FB).

——S. 21 — Appeal from execution proceedings — Forum.

The word 'proceeding' in S. 21 relates to the original proceeding and not to the execution proceedings. In respect of appeals in execution proceedings the order in execution proceedings is either an order or a decree. If it is a decree, a provision is clearly made in S. 21 that it shall lie to the Court of the District Judge in case the value of the original suit was less than Rs. 5,000 and in any other case to the High Court. It is the value of the original suit which determines the forum of appeal against the decree. 1958 Raj LW 338: ILR (1958) 8 Raj 429.

——S. 21 (as amended by Rajasthan Act (6 of 1956)) — Applicability to suits decided before amendment but from which appeals were filed after amendment — Law governing.

Section 21 of the Rajasthan Civil Courts Ordinance, 1950, as amended by Rajasthan Act (6 of 1956), which came into force on 11-4-1956, can have no application to suits decided before the amendment was brought into force though appeals therefrom were actually filed after the amendment. No doubt a right of appeal is not a mere procedural matter and it pertains to the domain of substantive rights. Such a right cannot be allowed to be taken away retrospectively unless an express provision to that effect has been made by the Legislature or the same result is deducible on the principle of necessary intendment.

Where a judgment from which an appeal lies is pronounced, a right of appeal at once arises to aggrieved party to appeal from decision given, to a Court which would be authorised to receive it at that time. The aggrieved party would be within his right on that very day to prefer an appeal from the decision by which he was feeling aggrieved, and in consonance with the law which was in force then, he would be well within his right to institute his first appeal in the High Court. This right cannot in any way be affected simply because he filed his appeal not immediately after the judgment sought to be appealed against was delivered, but he presented the appeal later within the period of limitation permitted to him under the law. It follows that this right cannot be allowed to be affected by any amendment of the law which may have been brought into force in between the pronouncement of the judgment and the presentation of the appeal. AIR 1927 PC 242, Applied.

It cannot be held that the intention of the Legislature in enacting S. 21 (5) was that appeals in suits decided before the amended section had come into force were necessarily to be filed in the District Court and not in the High Court after the amended section had come into operation. Indeed this provision is of too nebulous a character to admit of the necessary inference and was merely a provision intended to govern appeals pending in the High Court at the commencement of the amending Act of 1956. 1957 Raj LW 468: ILR (1957) 7 Raj 858: AIR 1957 Raj 336 (337, 338, 339) (Prs 5, 8, 9, 12, 13) (DB).

——S. 21 (as amended by Act 14 of 1951) — "Proceedings arising out of" — Proceedings to set aside ex parte decree arise out of original suit— Appeal lies from order dismissing application to set aside ex parte decree in suit of value of Rs. 8,000. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 1125 (DB).

——S. 21 (1) (as amended by Rajasthan Civil Courts Ordinance (Amendment) Act (14 of 1951)) — Jurisdiction to entertain appeal — Value of original suit.

The jurisdiction of a District Judge to entertain an appeal depends upon the value of the original suit and it does not matter what the valuation of the appeal is. ILR (1954) 4 Raj 613: 1955 Raj LW 138: AIR 1954 Raj 191 (192) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

SECTION 22

——S. 22 — District Judge — Persona designata — Power to transfer appeal — The District Judge under the Rajasthan Premises Act acts as an ordinary Civil Court of the State and is not a persona designata, and has the authority to transfer to any Civil Judge under his administrative control any appeal pending before him from the decrees or orders of Munsiffs. Principle laid down in 1913 AC 546, Applied. See Houses and Rents — Rajasthan Premises (Control of Rent and Eviction) Act (17 of 1950), S. 22. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 2197.

SECTION 26

——S. 26 — General Rules (Civil), Ch. 1, R. 11— Work on holidays — Jurisdiction of Civil Court is not taken away. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 2553.

SECTION 27

——S. 27 (1) — Suit validly commenced in particular Court — Subsequent change in jurisdiction — Effect.

Once a suit is validly commenced in any Court, a subsequent change in the matter of jurisdiction does not affect the jurisdiction of the Court trying it, unless of course there is a clear provision of law, which robs the Court of its jurisdiction to decide such a case expressly or by necessary implication. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 150. AIR 1957 Raj 241.

RAJASTHAN CIVIL COURTS ORDINANCE (AMENDMENT) ACT (14 OF 1951)

SECTION 2

——S. 2 — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 96 — Venue of appeal — Law applicable — Amendment in — Effect — (Rajasthan Civil Courts Ordinance (7 of 1950), S. 21).

The right of appeal is not a matter of procedure but a vested right and it is to be governed by the law which was in force at the time the suit in question was commenced, and not by the law which came into force at the date of decision or at the date of filing of the appeal. AIR 1957 SC 540, Rel. on. AIR 1959 Raj 45.

[Overruled in AIR 1959 Raj 246.]

RAJASTHAN CIVIL COURTS (SECOND AMENDMENT) ORDINANCE (7 OF 1957)

SECTION 21-A

●——S. 21-A — Retrospective operation — Ordinance No. (7 of 1957) is retrospective inasmuch as the provisions of S. 21 of the Civil Courts Ordinance as amended in 1956 have been made expressly applicable to suits which were instituted before the Amendment Act of 1956 came into force but which were pending at the time of the commencement of that Act. See Rajasthan Civil Courts Ordinance (7 of 1950), S. 21. AIR 1958 Raj 62 (FB).

RAJASTHAN CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE ADAPTATION ORDINANCE (5 OF 1950)

SECTION 14

——S. 14 — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 133 — Notification issued under S. 133, Marwar Civil P. C. — Notification is still in force. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 133. AIR 1953 Raj 57.

RAJASTHAN CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE ADAPTATION ORDINANCE (AMENDMENT) ACT (14 OF 1950)

SECTION 43

——S. 43 — Scope — Ex parte foreign decree against non-resident foreigner who has not submitted to jurisdiction — Executability — Effect of merger of State — An ex parte decree of a foreign Court against a non-resident foreigner who had not submitted to its jurisdiction is an absolute nullity by International Law and it must be regarded as a mere nullity by the Courts of every State except those authorised by special legislation in the country of the forum by which it was pronounced. If a decree was a nullity when it was passed except in the State which passed it, it cannot become a living and executable decree in the areas of other States which happened to be merged with the State which passed the decree on account of political changes. Thus, a foreign decree of the type, remains a nullity in the Rajasthan State in spite of the changes which had come about in 1947 or on the 26th January 1950, by the Constitution. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 13. AIR 1958 Raj 189 (DB).

——S. 43 — Foreign decree transferred for execution — Defence open to judgment-debtor. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 13. AIR 1954 Raj 4 (DB).

RAJASTHAN CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE (AMENDMENT) ACT (2 OF 1951)

SECTION 20

——S. 20 — Decision in 1948 of Jaipur High Court under Bachat Rules was final — Civil Judge cannot refuse to accept deposit — (Civil P. C. (1908), Ss. 51 and 115). AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 358 (DB).

RAJASTHAN CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE ORDINANCE (61 OF 1948)

SECTION 4

——S. 4 — Civil P. C. (1908), Ss. 48 and 48-A (as inserted by Rajasthan Act 20 of 1952) — Mewar Civil P. C. (1940), S. 48 (1) (c) — S. 4 of Ordinance wiped out all laws in force in covenanting States, with respect to which similar provision existed in new Code — Decree passed in 1922 — Execution application in 1951 is barred under S. 48 — S. 48-A inserted by Rajasthan Amendment Act 20 of 1952 did not save from bar of limitation. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 48 AIR 1955 Raj 33 (DB).

RAJASTHAN CIVIL SERVICE RULES (1951)

RULE 244

——R. 244 (2) — Compulsory retirement — Rules vesting absolute authority in Government — Only Governor and Chief Minister competent to exercise power—Order not in conformity with rules— Invalid — Rajasthan Business Rules (1955), R. 31 (vii). See Constitution of India, Art. 166. ILR (1961) 11 Raj 536.

[Reversed in AIR 1963 SC 1323.]

RAJASTHAN CIVIL SERVICES (CLASSIFICATION, CONTROL AND APPEAL) RULES (1950)

——Force of — Rajasthan Police Regulations have no statutory force and cannot prevail over rules of 1950. See Rajasthan Police Regulations (1948), Regn. 100. AIR 1960 Raj 56 (DB).

——Police head constable reduced to rank of constable by order of Deputy Inspector-General of Police — Inspector-General of Police enhancing punishment one of removal in appeal — Order is without jurisdiction. See Constitution of India, Art. 309. AIR 1960 Raj 56 (DB).

——Applicability — Ministerial officers — These rules have no provision for enhancement of punishment awarded to ministerial officer. See Rajasthan Police Regulations (1948), Regn. 100. AIR 1958 Raj 284 (DB).

RULE 14

——R. 14 (2) — Integration of former State of Rajasthan — Servant of integrating State continuing in service of integrated State of Rajasthan— Appointing authority in such case — Before dismissal, servant already suspended before integration — Authority which can dismiss him after integration. See Constitution of India, Art. 311 (1). AIR 1954 Raj 207 (DB).

RULE 15

——R. 15 — Constitution of India, Art. 311 — Dismissal of Government servant — Scrutiny of reasons for — Generally speaking, the High Court will not scrutinise the reasons for dismissal, if they appear prima facie good and sufficient. It is only in an extreme case where, on the face of it, the reasons are not good and sufficient that the High Court may interfere on the ground that dismissal is not in accordance with R. 15. See Constitution of India, Art. 311. AIR 1956 Raj 28 (DB).

——R. 15 — Constitution of India, Art. 311 (2)— Government Servants' Conduct Rules, R. 22-A — Government servant going on strike prior to insertion of R. 22-A, Government Servants' Conduct Rules — Power of Government to dismiss such servant. See Constitution of India, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1956 Raj 28 (DB).

——R. 15 — Constitution of India, Art. 311 (2) and Art. 14 — Apology for misconduct tendered by Government servant — Discretion of Government to accept — No discrimination. See Constitution of India, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1956 Raj 28 (DB).

RULE 16

——R. 16 — Departmental enquiry — Procedure — Enquiring authority delegating its power to record evidence — Validity — Although in a case of departmental enquiry if the enquiring authority has the duty to come to a conclusion as to the guilt of the delinquent upon an evaluation or assessment of the evidence, it is entirely necessary that he should be the person who should hear the evidence of the witness but the correct test to be adopted is whether the procedure adopted by the Inquiring Officer has led to any prejudice or not. AIR 1958 Cal 470, Ref. See Constitution of India, Art. 311. AIR 1963 Raj 203.

——R. 16 — Departmental enquiry — Scope of— Rules of Evidence Act or Civil Procedure Code not applicable — Case resting wholly on documentary evidence — Oral evidence held not necessary — Constitution of India, Art. 311.

A departmental enquiry is not governed by the provisions either of the Evidence Act or of the Code of Civil Procedure. The enquiry should be in accordance with the rules of natural justice, and if such rules are substantially followed in the conduct of an enquiry and no prejudice is caused to the officer concerned, a mere failure to observe a particular rule should not be enough to quash the enquiry. AIR 1957 SC 882, Rel. on.

The provisions contained in R. 16 are, after all, matters of procedure and any and every breach of these provisions would not be enough to destroy the value of an enquiry where no real prejudice had been caused to the officer concerned on account of the alleged breach.

Held, that in the circumstances of the present case it was hardly necessary to produce any oral evidence, because the charges against the petitioner were all founded on documentary material which had been produced before the Enquiry Officer. 1961 Raj LW 104: ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1419.

——R. 16 — State Government and its servants — Relation governed by Civil Service Rules — Departmental enquiry against servant — Rules not giving right to be defended by legal practitioner — No breach of rule in refusing such right. See Constitution of India, Art. 309. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1419.

——R. 16 — Departmental enquiry resulting in exoneration — Second departmental enquiry on same facts — Maintainability — (Constitution of India, Arts. 226, 309, 310, 311) — (Justice, Equity and Good Conscience).

Once a departmental enquiry is over and a public servant has been exonerated, no second departmental enquiry on the same facts can be ordered unless there is a specific provision for reviewing an order of exoneration in the Service Rules or any law. On principles of justice, equity and good conscience it is wrong in the absence of provision in the Service Rules to permit such a second departmental enquiry.

It is true that a public servant holds office during the pleasure of the Governor, vide Art. 310 of the Constitution. But the "pleasure" mentioned in Art. 310 has to be exercised according to law or rules framed under Art. 309 or analogous law. It is not open to the State to assume such a power on the ground that Art. 310 provides that tenure of public service is at the pleasure of the President or the Governor or on the ground that the State is the master and the public servant is the employee and the master can do anything to his employee.

If a superior officer holds a departmental enquiry in that way, the State can take action against that superior officer. It is open to the State to prosecute a person once exonerated in a Court of law in spite of what a departmental officer might have decided in the departmental enquiry; for a Court of law is not bound by the results of a departmental enquiry one way or the other. On the other hand, if a second departmental enquiry could be ordered the danger of harassment to the public servant would be immense. 1957 Raj LW 587: ILR (1957) 7 Raj 1029: AIR 1958 Raj 38 (39, 40, 41) (Prs 5, 6, 7, 9, 10) (DB).

——R. 16 — Scope if binding on Government.

The Rajasthan Civil Services (Classification, Contorl and Appeal) Rules, 1950, have been made in exercise of the powers conferred by Art. 309 of the Constitution of India, and therefore, it cannot be said that they are only made for the guidance of the Officers. They are as much binding on the Government as on the Civil Servants. A civil servant is entitled under R. 16 to be informed in writing of the grounds on which it is proposed to take action, and to be afforded an adequate opportunity to defend himself. It is not left to the whim and caprice of the officer conducting the enquiry to hold it in the manner it pleases him. It is in order to set up a uniform standard that this rule has been provided and therefore, the officer conducting the enquiry must adhere to it. AIR 1954 Raj 207, Foll. ILR (1957) 7 Raj 823: 1958 Raj LW 1: AIR 1958 Raj I (3, 4) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 11) (DB).

——R. 16 — Scope — Non-compliance — Failure to give statement of allegations — Effect.

The provisions for giving a statement of the allegations is not redundant and it should not be lightly ignored. The failure on the part of the enquiring officer to provide the person charged with a statement of allegations and of the circumstances may, in particular cases be considered as a good ground for quashing the decision :

Held, in the instant case, that the charge was quite elaborate and contained all the allegations on which it was based. The enquiring officer did not take into consideration against the petitioner any other circumstances in finding him guilty and therefore, the failure in providing the petitioner with the statement of allegations was a mere irregularity which did not affect the merits of the case. ILR (1957) 7 Raj 823: 1958 Raj LW 1: AIR 1958 Raj 1 (4) (Pt C) (Pr 15) (DB).

——R. 16 — Non-compliance — Effect — Natural justice — (Justice, Equity and Good Conscience) — (Constitution of India, Art. 226) — Witnesses examined in absence of person charged — Opportunity only to cross-examine afforded — Violation held was not only of the rule but also of principles of natural justice. ILR (1957) 7 Raj 823: 1958 Raj LW 1: AIR 1958 Raj 1 (5) (Pt D) (Pr 16) (DB).

——R. 16 — Scope — Non-compliance with — Effect — (Constitution of India, Art. 311).

When the person charged denies the charge and says that he wants to be heard in person, then it means that he wants that an oral enquiry should be held. Where the person charged was not even asked to state if he wanted to be heard in person and further he was asked to give his reply on the same day, i. e., he was not given reasonable time to put in a written statement of his defence, and further, although the Commissioner had given notice to the petitioner at the second stage for showing cause against the action proposed to be taken he did not seem to have applied his mind to the evidence against the petitioner and imposed punishment on the petitioner by simply saying that he had not led any evidence in defence :

Held, that the petitioner was not given reasonable opportunity of meeting the charge and the order of his removal was liable to be set aside. 1958 Raj LW 1: ILR (1957) 7 Raj 823: AIR 1958 Raj 1 (5) (Pt E) (Pr 18) (DB).

——R. 16 — Constitution of India, Art. 311 — Unconditional apology tendered by Government servant — Effect on enquiry. See Constitution of India, Art. 311. AIR 1956 Raj 28 (DB).

——R. 16 — Applicant is entitled to two opportunities, when charges are framed and the other when particular punishment is proposed on proof of charges. See Constitution of India, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1954 Raj 207 (DB).

SCHEDULE 2

——Sch. 2 — Applicant is entitled to two opportunities, when charges are framed and the other when particular punishment is proposed on proof of charges. See Constitution of India, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1954 Raj 207 (DB).

——Sch. 2 — Integration of former State of Rajasthan — Servant of integrating State continuing in service of integrated State of Rajasthan — Appointing authority in such case — Before dismissal, servant already suspended before integration — Authority which can dismiss him after integration. See Constitution of India, Art. 311 (1). AIR 1954 Raj 207 (DB).

RAJASTHAN CIVIL SERVICES (CLASSIFICATION, CONTROL AND APPEAL) RULES (1958)

RULE 14

——Rr. 14, Expl. VI, 16 (2) — Rajasthan Service Rules (1950), R. 244 (2) — Government Servant completing 25 years of service — Order of compulsory retirement without enquiry — Does not amount to penalty — Order not invalid. See Rajasthan Services Rules (1950), R. 244 (2). 1961 Raj LW 298.

RULE 16

——Rr. 16 and 17 — Disciplinary action against Government servant — Charges initially levelled under R. 16 — Proceedings suddenly changed to R. 17 without notice — Chance to rebut charges not given — Held, punishment was in violation of principles of natural justice. (1965) 2 Lab LJ 335: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 569: 1965 Raj LW 153: AIR 1966 Raj 55 (56) (Prs 8, 9) (DB).

——R. 16 (2) and R. 14, Expl. VI — Rajasthan Service Rules (1950), R. 244 (2) — Government Servant completing 25 years of service — Order of compulsory retirement without enquiry — Does not amount to penalty — Order not invalid. See Rajasthan Services Rules (1950), 244 (2). 1961 Raj LW 298.

RULE 17

——Rr. 17 and 16 — Disciplinary action against Government servant — Charges initially levelled under R. 16 — Proceedings suddenly changed to R. 17 without notice — Chance to rebut charges not given — Held, punishment was in violation of principles of natural justice. See Rajasthan Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules (1958), R. 16. (1965) 2 Lab LJ 335: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 569: 1965 Raj LW 98: AIR 1966 Raj 55 (DB).

RULE 30

——Rr. 30, 35 (3) — Constitution of India, Art. 309 — Retrospective effect — Applicability to pending appeal against order reducing Government servant in rank — Appellate authority cannot enhance punishment awarded under Rules of 1950. See Constitution of India, Art. 309. 1962 Raj LW 613.

RULE 35

——Rr. 35 (3), 30 — Constitution of India, Art. 309 —Retrospective effect — Applicability to pending appeal against order reducing Government servant in rank — Appellate authority cannot enhance punishment awarded under Rules of 1950. See Constitution of India, Art. 309. 1962 Raj LW 613.

RAJASTHAN CIVIL SERVICES (CLASSIFICATION, CONTROL AND APPEAL) RULES (1959)

RULE 14

——R. 14 (v) — Compulsory retirement — Rules vesting absolute authority in Government — Only Governor and Chief Minister competent to exercise power — Order not in conformity with Rules — Invalid — Rajasthan Services Rules (1951) — R. 244 (2) — Rajasthan Business Rules 1955, R. 31 (vii). See Constitution of India, Art. 166. ILR (1961) 11 Raj 536.

[Reversed in AIR 1963 SC 1323.]

RAJASTHAN COLONISATION ACT (27 OF 1954)

——Applicability — Notification applying the provisions of the Act containing names of towns and areas in schedule — Act does not apply to towns and areas not specifically mentioned in it. 1962 Raj LW 29: ILR (1962) 12 Raj 39.

SECTION 2

——Ss. 2 (v) (ix), 7 (1) and (2) — Rajasthan Project Areas Brick-kilns (Leases) Conditions (1959) (issued under Notification No. F. 6 (123)/Rev/B/56 dated 21st March, 1959) — Scope — Section 7 does not give power to the Government to control mining leases in land in project areas — Notification No. F. 6 (123)/Rev./B/56 issued under — The section in that respect is ultra vires — No restriction on the right to carry on business for which valid leases have already been granted under relevant provisions, can be imposed under the section. Constitution of India, Art. 19 (5) (g) — Rajasthan Minor Mineral Concession Rules (1959), R. 1 (2). 1963 Raj LW 423.

——Ss. 2 (1) and 22 — Power of re-entry — Power could be exercised only be Collector as defined in Sec. 2 (1) — Deputy Commissioner, Colonisation, not a 'collector' as defined — Notices to vacate given by him are without authority. 1962 Raj LW 29: ILR (1962) 12 Raj 39.

SECTION 7

——Ss. 7 (1) and (2), 2 (v) (ix) — Rajasthan Project Areas Brick-kilns (Leases) Conditions (1959) (issued under Notification No. F. 6 (123)/Rev/B/56 dated 21st March, 1959) — Scope — Section 7 does not give power to the Government to control mining leases in land in project areas — Notification No. F. 6 (123)/Rev./B/56 issued under — The section in that respect is ultra vires — No restriction on the right to carry on business for which valid leases have already been granted under relevant provisions, can be imposed under the section. Constitution of India, Art. 19 (5) (g) — Rajasthan Minor Mineral Concession Rules (1959), R. 1 (2). 1963 Raj LW 423: ILR (1963) 13 Raj 895.

SECTION 22

——S. 22 and S. 2 (1) — Power of re-entry — Power could be exercised only by Collector as defined in Sec. 2 (1) — Deputy Commissioner, Colonisation, not a 'collector' as defined — Notices to vacate given by him are without authority. 1962 Raj LW 29: ILR (1962) 12 Raj 39.

RAJASTHAN CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES ACT (4 OF 1953)

See under Co-operative Societies.

RAJASTHAN COTTON CLOTH AND YARN DEALERS LICENSING ORDER (1943)

RULE 3

——R. 3 — Validity — No such order in force on 4-4-1950 — Accused held cannot be convicted for its breach on that date. See Rajasthan Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Ordinance (13 of 1949), S. 6. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 294.

RULE 6

——R. 6 — Ordinance of 13 of 1949, repealed by Act 24 of 1946 which came into force on 17-8-1950 — Case decided on 3-3-1951 on which date Sec. 12 (2) of Ordinance was not in force — Offence punishable with 3 years imprisonment — No provision in Act corresponding to S. 12 (2) of the Ordinance — Offence held should have been tried as a warrant case under Criminal P. C. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 4 (1) (w). ILR (1953) 3 Raj 353.

RAJASTHAN COURT-FEE AND STAMP DUTY LAWS (EXTENSION) ACT (11 OF 1958)

SECTION 8

——S. 8 (b) — Promissory note for Rs. 5,000 executed on 26-1-1961 stamped with four one anna stamps instead of 0.25 nP. stamps — Receipt below the pronote stamped with two anna stamps instead of one ten naya paisa stamp — Held, (i) promissory note was insufficiently stamped and was inadmissible in evidence. (ii) Receipt was insufficiently stamped but however admissible in evidence on payment of penalty — The receipt is to be treated as a separate document altogether despite the fact that it is contained on the same sheet of paper as the pronote — Stamp Act (1899), Ss. 35, 14. 1964 Raj LW 470: ILR (1964) 14 Raj 923.

RAJASTHAN COURT-FEES ACT (ADAPTATION) ORDINANCE (9 OF 1950)

PREAMBLE

——Pre. — Retrospective effect. See Court-Fees Act (1870), S. 1. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 85.

RAJASTHAN COURT-FEES AND SUITS VALUATION ACT (23 OF 1961)

SECTION 40

——Ss. 40 (a) and 48 (1) — Suit by vendor for recovery of unpaid purchase money under executory contract for sale — Suit is for specific performance of contract for sale — Court-fee payable will be under Sec. 40 (a), i. e. on full consideration of the sale and not merely on the amount of unpaid purchase money. 1963 Raj LW 653: ILR (1963) 13 Raj 1183.

RAJASTHAN COURT OF WARDS ACT (28 OF 1951)

SECTION 2

——Ss. 2 (2), 17 and 53 — Notice under earlier Act — Benefit of S. 53 can be availed of.

By virtue of Sec. 2 (2) notice issued under the corresponding provisions of the earlier Acts shall be deemed to be notices under S. 17 of the present Rajasthan Act 28 of 1951 and the claimants cannot be debarred from availing of the benefit of S. 53 of the Act on this ground. 1961 Raj LW 280: ILR (1961) 11 Raj 508.

SECTION 4

——S. 4 (iii) — Idol is not a minor. See Rajasthan Court of Wards Act (28 of 1951), S. 8 (1). AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 2193 (DB).

SECTION 8

——Ss. 8 (1), 4 (iii) and 12 — Applicability and scope — Landholder not suffering from disqualification mentioned in Sec. 8 — Action under S. 12 is unjustified — Idol is not minor within S. 4 (iii) — S. 8 (a) does not apply to temple — S. 8 (b) and (c) do not contemplate juristic persons. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 2193 (DB).

——Ss. 8 (1) (c) (ii), (iii) and (iv), 8 (2) and 9 (1) — Validity — Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5).

It is well settled that the Court has to look at both the substantive and the procedural aspects of the impugned restrictions in order to Judge the reasonableness of the provisions.

Looking at the substantive part of the law, Clauses (ii), (iii) and (iv) of Sec. 8 (1) (c) of the Rajasthan Court of Wards Act provide the criteria on which the Government makes a declaration as to the unfitness of a landholder to manage his estate and deprive him of the possession of the property. This declaration is a subjective determination by the executive in spite of the provisions made by S. 9 (1) and S. 8 (2). Further, the criteria provided by these clauses for making a declaration are so vague and elusive and liable to such different interpretations that it is merely left at the pleasure of the executive Government to decide in a particular case whether the criteria are satisfied. A law which makes such vague provisions, the application of which depends entirely on the subjective determination of the executive, cannot be called a reasonable restriction on the fundamental right of the applicant to hold property under Art. 19 (1) (f).

Nor is it correct to say that the object of the Court of Wards Act is to prevent the dissipation of property and to enable land-revenue to be more easily collected; for in Rajasthan State grants are inalienable, and the revenue would, in any case, be collected and there can be no dissipation or splitting up of the property. So also in the context of things as they are today when the Jagirdari Resumption Act is already on the statute book, it is not possible to say that the provisions contained in the impugned clauses are in the interests of the general public.

Turning to the procedural part of the provisions the declaration under Sec. 8 (1) (c) also is a mere subjective determination. The fact that the jagirdar is furnished with a detailed statement of the grounds, and given an opportunity of showing cause, does not take away the mere subjective nature of the determination by the executive Government resulting in depriving him of the possession of his property. Thus the procedural part of the law with respect to these three clauses is also not reasonable, and therefore these three clauses are ultra vires of Art. 19 (1) (f), and are not saved by Art. 19 (5). AIR 1952 SC 196, AIR 1953 SC 373, AIR 1952 Sau 59. Foll. Rao Bhagwat Singh v. State of Rajasthan, ILR (1954) 4 Raj 542: 1954 RLW 411: AIR 1954 Raj 131 (132, 133, 134) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 9, 13, 15, 17, 18) (FB).

SECTION 9

●——S. 9 (1) — Effect of on S. 8 (1) (c) (ii), (iii) and (iv). See Rajasthan Court of Wards Act (28 of 1951), S. 8 (1) (c) (ii), (iii) and (iv). AIR 1954 Raj 131 (FB).

●——S. 9 (1) — Validity — [Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (f) and (5)].

Simply because a time limit has not been provided within which an enquiry under S. 9 (1), shall be completed it cannot be said that S. 9 (3) is also hit by Art. 19 (1) (f), and is not saved by Art. 19 (5). S. 9 (3), as it stands, is a reasonable provision, and is saved by Art. 19 (5). Rao Bhagwat Singh v. State of Rajasthan, ILR (1954) 4 Raj 542: 1954 RLW 411: AIR 1954 Raj 131 (134) (Pt B) (Pr 19) (FB).

SECTION 12

——S. 12 — Superintendence over estate of temple — Position of manager — Application by manager under Art. 226 — He cannot be asked to file suit to establish his title as owner — He is entitled to remain in possession unless he is removed in due course of law — (Constitution of India (1950), Art. 226). AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 2193 (DB).

——S. 12 — Applicability and scope — Landholder not suffering from disqualifications mentioned in S. 8 — Action under S. 12 is unjustified — Idol is not minor within S. 4 (iii) — S. 8 (a) does not apply to temple — S. 8 (b) and (c) do not contemplate juristic persons. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 2193 (DB).

SECTION 17

——Ss. 17, 53, 2 (2) — Notice under earlier Act — Benefit of S. 53 can be availed of.

By virtue of Sec. 2 (2) notices issued under the corresponding provisions of the earlier Acts shall be deemed to be notices under Sec. 17 of the present Rajasthan Act 28 of 1951 and the claimants cannot be debarred from availing of the benefit of S. 53 of the Act on this ground. 1961 Raj LW 280: ILR (1961) 11 Raj 508.

SECTION 21

——Ss. 21 and 53 — S. 21 does not control Section 53.

Per Modi, J. — The two sections, namely S. 21 and S. 53 are designed to cover distinctly different situations, and Section 21 should not be so interpreted as to control Sec. 53 as such a course would perhaps defeat the entire object underlying the Act. That object, speaking broadly, is to ascertain all the liabilities of the ward and to liquidate them by an efficient and prudent management under the Court of Wards and to that end compel creditors to notify their claims on pain of extinguishment and encourage them to abide by their remedies under the Act, but at the same time to leave them free to file suits or execution application even during the continuance of the management if they should desire to do so, and, in any case, to remit them to their original or ordinary rights of actions or remedies if the liabilities of the ward as ascertained by the Court of Wards or the civil Court, as the case may be, have not been fully discharged and the estate is released from the Court of Wards without such discharge. Looked at from this perspective, Ss. 18, 21 and 53 of the Act need present no disharmony and can be properly given effect to in their proper sphere. 1961 Raj LW 280: ILR (1961) 11 Raj 508.

SECTION 53

——S. 53 — The phrase 'applications for the recovery of all claims outstanding against the ward at the date of such notice' occurring at the end of Sec. 53, would seem to cover an execution application also. 1961 Raj LW 280: ILR (1961) 11 Raj 508.

——S. 53 — Notice under earlier Act — Benefit of Sec. 53 can be availed of. See Rajasthan Court of Wards Act (28 of 1951), S. 17. ILR (1961) 11 Raj 508.

——Ss. 53 and 21 — Sec. 21 does not control S. 53. See Rajasthan Court of Wards Act (28 of 1951), S. 21. 1961 Raj LW 280: ILR (1961) 11 Raj 508.

——S. 53 — The words 'without discharging the liabilities thereof in the manner provided in Chapter IV' used in Sec. 53 should be given their plain and ordinary meaning. They do not mean 'without ascertaining the liabilities thereof in the manner provided in Chapter IV'. AIR 1947 Oudh 195 (FB), Overruling; AIR 1940 Oudh 107, Foll. 1961 Raj LW 280: ILR (1961) 11 Raj 508.

SECTION 55

——S. 55 — Notice to Court of Wards — Necessity.

A suit was brought for recovery of money due on bonds against the representatives of the deceased debtor. Two minors, who were claiming as rival claimants to the estate of the deceased debtor on the basis of adoption were joined as defendants in the suit. No notice of the suit was given to the Court of Wards, although the properties of the minor were under the management of the Court of Wards.

Held, that it was true that at the time when the suit was filed by the plaintiff, there was dispute as to which of the minors was entitled to the estate of the deceased debtor. But that would make one or the other minor the holder of the estate of the deceased debtor even on the date of the suit, for as soon as the proper authority recognised the adoption of one of the minors, he immediately became the holder of the estate of the deceased debtor from the date of latter's death. No suit relating to the estate could therefore be commenced without notice under S. 55 as both the minors' estates were then under the superintendence of the Court of Wards. ILR (1957) 7 Raj 229: 1956 Raj LW 483: AIR 1957 Raj 73 (74) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——S. 55 — Scope — 'In charge of estate'.

There is no warrant for holding that Section 53 requires that all the estate should be actually under the charge of the Court of Wards, and that if any part of the estate is not under the charge of Court of Wards the suit with respect to that part of the estate can be brought without notice under S. 55. A notice has been made obligatory as soon as the Court of Wards assumes superintendence of the estate, and it is immaterial if some part of the estate is not under the actual superintendence of the Court of Wards. The words 'in charge of estate' have been used in order to denote the particular officer to whom the notice should be given. It has nothing to do with the actual possession of the entire estate by Collector. AIR 1930 All 602 and AIR 1924 Oudh 438, Relied on. ILR (1957) 7 Raj 229: 1956 Raj LW 483: AIR 1957 Raj 73 (74) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——S. 55 — Scope — If ultra vires — S. 55 of Rajasthan Court of Wards Act not ultra vires. See Constitution of India, Art. 14. AIR 1957 Raj 73 (DB).

RAJASTHAN COVENANT

See Rajasthan State Covenant.

RAJASTHAN DISPLACED PERSONS (INSTITUTION OF SUITS) ORDINANCE (28 OF 1949)

SECTION 3

——S. 3 — Onus — The burden of proving that the defendant was not a displaced person is on the plaintiff who wants to invoke the special jurisdiction under Section 4. See Displaced Persons (Institution of Suits) Act (1948), Section 4. AIR 1960 Raj 13.

RAJASTHAN DISTRICT BOARDS ACT (2 of 1954)

SECTION 5

——S. 5 — Member elected for constituency which on date of election was not municipal area — Subsequent constitution of municipality for area does not disqualify member for continuing as member during period for which he was elected. 1958 Raj LW 328: ILR (1958) 8 Raj 555.

——Ss. 5 (2) and 7 — Co-opted member — Right to take part in meetings and to vote — Election of Vice-chairman at the same meeting in which co-option takes place — Co-opted members not taking part in meeting — Validity of election.

The fact that the Board consists of elected members and co-opted members under Section 5 (2) does not mean that a co-opted member becomes a member in the sense that he can take part in the meetings of the Board from the very minute that he is co-opted. So far as taking part in the meetings of the Board is concerned, a member, whether elected or co-opted, can only do so after he has taken the oath prescribed under the rules framed under Section 176. Where at the meeting in which the co-option was made that item being the first on the agenda was gone through first and then the election of the Vice-chairman took place by means of a special resolution and there was also the requisite quorum, the election cannot be held to be invalid on the ground that the new members having already been co-opted the further proceedings without their presence as they had not taken the oath was invalid. 1958 Raj LW 328: ILR (1958) 8 Raj 555.

SECTION 94

——S. 94 — 'Officer' — Meaning of — The word 'Officer' as used in Section 94 cannot rightly be interpreted so as to include a member of the Board. 1962 (2) Cr LJ 786: ILR (1962) 12 Raj 327: 1962 Raj LW 307: AIR 1962 Raj 250 (256) (Pt D) (Pr 13) (DB).

SECTION 203

——S. 203 — Public servant — Member of District Board under Rajasthan District Boards Act (1954) is public servant. See Prevention of Corruption Act (1947), Section 6. 1962 (2) Cri LJ 786: AIR 1962 Raj 250 (DB).

RAJASTHAN DRAMATIC PERFORMANCES AND ENTERTAINMENTS ORDINANCE (29 of 1949)

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3, 4, 6 and 8 — Not enforceable — (Constitution of India, Article 19 (6)).

So long as no procedure is prescribed by rules under Section 11 of the Ordinance regarding issue of notice, an opportunity of making a representation and an authority or a tribunal to consider it, the provisions of Sections 3, 4, 6 and 8 of the Ordinance cannot be regarded as enforceable, because they do not come within the limits of reasonableness, of Clause (6) of Article 19 of the Constitution. Section 3 of the Ordinance, as it now stands, imposes an unreasonable restriction on the right of a citizen guaranteed by Article 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution, not because it differs with any unreasonableness relating to its substantive provisions, but because no reasonable procedure has yet been made by the Government under its rule-making powers. ILR (1952) 2 Raj 993: 1953 Raj LW 311: 1953 Cri LJ 1283: AIR 1953 Raj 162 (167) (Pt B) (Pr 20) (DB).

——S. 3 (c) — "Deprave" and 'Corrupt' — (Words and Phrases).

The words "deprave" and "corrupt" in Section 3 (c) should be understood having regard to the ordinary moral standards of the society. Taking this view as the basis for understanding these terms, it cannot be said that these terms are incapable of correctly laying down the idea which is behind the objects of the impugned Act. These terms are, therefore, clear and they cannot be said to be vague. ILR (1952) 2 Raj 993: 1953 Raj LW 311: 1953 Cri LJ 1283: AIR 1953 Raj 162 (164) (Pt C) (Pr 10) (DB).

——S. 3 (c) — District Magistrate prohibiting performance or entertainment under Section 3 (c) — Necessity to record opinion — (Constitution of India, Article 19 (1) (g) and (6)).

It is necessary for the District Magistrate before issuing prohibitory order, to record an opinion that the performance or entertainment was likely to deprave and corrupt persons present at the performance or entertainment. 1952 Raj LW 369: ILR (1952) 2 Raj 364: AIR 1953 Raj 101 (102) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——S. 3 (c) — Constitution of India, Article 226 — Another remedy open — District Magistrate by order prohibiting pistol shooting game at applicants' variety show — Application for writ under Article 226 — To continue pistol shooting game, invite prosecution and then to plead in criminal case that order was illegal and, therefore, unenforceable held was not effective remedy and application could not be thrown out on that ground. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1953 Raj 101 (DB).

SECTION 4

——Ss. 4, 3, 6 and 8 — Not enforceable — So long as no procedure is prescribed by rules under Section 11 of the Ordinance regarding issue of notice, an opportunity of making a representation and an authority or tribunal to consider it, the provisions of Sections 3, 4, 6 and 8 of the Ordinance cannot be regarded as enforceable, because they do not come within the limit of reasonableness, of Clause (6) of Article 19 of the Constitution. See Rajasthan Dramatic Performances and Entertainments Ordinance (29 of 1949), Section 3. 1953 Cri LJ 1283: AIR 1953 Raj 162 (DB).

SECTION 6

——Ss. 6, 8, 3 and 4 — Not enforceable. See Rajasthan Dramatic Performances Entertainments Ordinance (29 of 1949), Section 3. 1953 Cri LJ 1283: AIR 1953 Raj 162 (DB).

SECTION 8

——Ss. 8, 3, 4 and 6 — Not enforceable. See Rajasthan Dramatic Performances and Entertainments Ordinance (29 of 1949), Section 3. 1953 Cri LJ 1283: AIR 1953 Raj 162 (DB).

RAJASTHAN EDUCATION CODE (1957)

CHAPTER 8, RULE 3

——Chap. 8, R. 3 — Applicability to High School examinations.

Rule 3 in Chapater 8 is not applicable to high school examinations. Its application is confined to home examinations conducted by the school authorities upto Class IX. 1960 Raj LW 390: ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1078.

RAJASTHAN ENTERTAINMENT TAX ACT (24 of 1957)

SECTION 6-A

——S. 6-A (as amended by Act 8 of 1960) — Power for levy of entertainment tax — Section not invalid for excessive delegation. ILR (1964) 14 Raj 6: 1964 Raj LW 203: AIR 1964 Raj 106 (DB).

——S. 6-A — Classification for levy of tax — Classification held reasonable — Does not offend Article 14 of Constitution. ILR (1964) 14 Raj 6: 1964 Raj LW 203: AIR 1964 Raj 106 (109, 110) (Pt B) (Prs 12, 15) (DB).

——S. 6-A — Entertainment tax under — Not a tax on calling or trade of proprietor — Article 276 (2) of Constitution not attracted.

The use of the word 'entertainments' in Entry 62 in List II of the seventh schedule in plural clearly denotes that the word is employed as a common noun and not as an abstract noun. Accordingly in the case of a cinema it means a tax on a show. Merely because the proprietor or exhibitor of a cinema house is called upon to pay the tax it does not acquire the character of a tax on the calling or the trade. The additional entertainment tax levied by Section 6-A is in the nature of an entertainment tax and not a tax on the calling or trade of the proprietor and the provisions of Article 276 (2) of the Constitution are, therefore, not attracted. AIR 1954 Bom 261, Rel. on; AIR 1953 Madh Bha 145, Dissented from. ILR (1964) 14 Raj 6: 1964 Raj LW 203: AIR 1964 Raj 106 (111) (Pt C) (Pr 17) (DB).

RAJASTHAN ESSENTIAL SUPPLIES (TEMPORARY POWERS) ORDINANCE (13 of 1949)

PREAMBLE

——Pre. — Register of sales — Retail licensee — It is his duty to enter in register retail sale made by him as arhatiya (agent) on behalf of another. 1952 Raj LW 67: ILR (1951) 1 Raj 734 (DB).

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3, 6 — Rajasthan Foodgrains (Movement) Control Order (1949), Section 5 — Offence under is complete as soon as accused obtains "Rawana" — Entering into other division is not necessary. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 4656.

SECTION 6

——Ss. 6 and 3 — Rajasthan Foodgrains (Movement) Control Order (1949), Section 5 — Offence under is complete as soon as accused obtains "Rawana" —Entering into other division is not necessary. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 4656.

——S. 6 — Rajasthan Cotton Cloth and Yarn Dealers Licensing Order, 1943, Rule 3 — No such order in force on 4-4-1950 — Accused held cannot be convicted for its breach on that date. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 294.

——S. 6 — Warrant case — Ordinance 13 of 1949, repealed by Act 24 of 1946 which came into force on 17-8-1950 — Case decided on 3-3-1951 on which date Section 12 (2) of Ordinance was not in force — Offence punishable with 3 years' imprisonment — No provision in Act corresponding to Section 12 (2) of the Ordinance — Offence held should have been tried as a warrant case under Criminal P. C. See Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 4 (1) (w). AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 294.

——Ss. 6 (1), 10 (ii) — Entries of receipt of quantities of Bajra, made in private accounts — No sale made till the time of raid — Entries found not made in required registers — Plea that they would have been so made at the end of day — Acquittal on charge of not making entry of receipt in register, held not incorrect. 1952 Raj LW 67: ILR (1951) 1 Raj 734 (DB).

SECTION 11

——S. 11 — Compliance with — Non-mention of rule contravened does not render conviction invalid when report states all facts of offence under charge and accused had notice of the case against him. AIR 1946 All 416, Dissented. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 4656.

——S. 11 — First report accompanying the police charge — Held sufficient compliance.

Where the first report or an order of the appropriate Civil Supplies authority accompanies the charge sheet of the police, and is referred to therein, there is sufficient compliance with the provisions of Sction 11 of the Ordinance. In such case the facts are there for the Magistrate to see, and the mere fact that they are not repeated in a particular column will make no difference. AIR 1947 Sind 68 and AIR 1949 Oudh 66 Disting. 1952 Raj LW 67: ILR (1951) 1 Raj 734 (DB).

SECTION 12

——S. 12 (2) — Warrant case. See Criminal P. C. 1898, Section 4 (1) (W). AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 294.

SECTION 20

——S. 20 — Effect on pending prosecutions under repealed laws — (Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946), S. 17 (2)).

By the Rajasthan Ordinance a unified Act was given to the whole of Rajasthan and it was not intended that subjects of different parts of Rajasthan should be treated differently in the matter of prosecutions arising under the repealed laws. If it were the intention of the law-making authority that prosecutions launched under the different Acts repealed by the Rajasthan Ordinance should survive after its enactment they would have, while enacting the saving Clause (2) of Section 20, said that things done or action taken under any of the repealed laws and in force immediately before the commencement of the Ordinance would also continue in force. In the face of the facts that there was no unified General Clauses Act for the whole of Rajasthan at the time when the Rajasthan Ordinance came into being and that the Central General Clauses Act was not adopted in Rajasthan and that the legislature clearly made a saving in favour of the things it wanted to save, the only inference that can follow is that the legislature did not intend that prosecutions under the different repealed law should continue in spite of the repeal of the laws themselves.

Therefore a prosecution, launched under Sections 6 and 8, Jaipur Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act, 1947, will not survive after the coming into force of the Rajasthan Ordinance and even if it be held that Sec. 6, Jaipur General Clauses Act applied the prosecution will not be saved in view of the different intention which appears from Section 20, of the Ordinance. 1952 Raj LW 480: ILR(1952) 2 Raj 374: 1953 Cri LJ 1890: AIR 1954 Raj 10 (12) (Pr 9) (DB).

RAJASTHAN EXCISE ACT (2 of 1950)

SECTION 1

●——S. 1 (3) — Notification bringing into force Act at future date when notification is published in Gazette.

It cannot be said that the Rajasthan Excise Act (2 of 1950) failed to have effect or was prevented from coming into force merely because the State instead of itself fixing a definite date for its enforcement specified such date with reference to a future point of time, viz., the date of the publication of the notification (No. F. 49 (1), S. R. 150 dated 20-6-1950), in the Gazette which was in fact made on 1-7-1950.

The mention of Section 1 (13) as the provision under which the Notification was said to have been issued held was a printing mistake for Section 1 (3). Manohar Singh v. State of Rajasthan, ILR (1954) 4 Raj 113: 1955 Raj LW 98: AIR 1954 Raj 85 (89) (Pt A) (Pr 11) (FB).

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3 (4) (iii), 16 (g) and 54 (d) — Excisable article — Word "and" in Section 3(4)(iii) — Meaning — 'Fermented wash", Possession of by itself — Whether an offence.

Having regard to the object of the Rajasthan Excise Act and the provisions of Section 16 (g) and Section 54 (d) of the Act the word "and" appearing in Section 3 (4) (iii) of the Act has to be read as "or" so that the possession of a still or any other appliance for distillation as well as the possession of fermented wash or similar other material for distillation would fall within the mischief of Clause (d) of Section 54 of the Act and would be an offence. 1937-1 KB 305, Rel. on.

Provisions of Sections 54 (d) and 16 (g) indicate that it is not the combined possession of the appliances for distillation 'and' of the materials therefore which is sought to be punished, but an embargo has been put on the use or possession of each one of them taken individually, such as materials, still, utensil, implement, instrument or apparatus whatsoever, the pre-requisite condition being that such materials or appliances are intended to be used for the purposes of manufacturing any excisable article in the sense of an intoxicant for human consumption. 1937-1 KB 305, Rel. on.

The expression "excisable article" as used in the last part of Section 54 (d) as also in Cl. (a) carries the narrower meaning as provided for in sub-clauses (i) and (ii) of Clause (4) of Section 3. 1962 Raj LW 283: ILR (1962) 12 Raj 351.

——Ss. 3 (4), 54 and 54 (a) — Seizure of several tins of illicit liquor from house of accused — No contention that article seized was medical preparation — Article seized found fit for human consumption as an intoxicating liquor — Held, that it was excisable article within Section 3 (4) — Premises from which liquor was recovered rented by accused who was head of joint family — Accused held in possession and was rightly convicted. See Rajasthan Excise Act, 1950, Section 54 (a). 1960 Raj LW 600.

——Ss. 3 (4) (i), 57 — For offence under Section 57 — Spirit need not be fit for human consumption.

Whether spirit is for human consumption or otherwise it is included in Section 3 (4) (i). Even if the stuff is 'spirit' unfit for human consumption, a case under Section 57 can be made out against the accused persons. 1960 Raj LW 215: ILR (1960) 10 Raj 738.

——Ss. 3 (14) and 54 (a) — Scope — Possession of Sulfa — Offence.

The definition of an intoxicating drug in sub-section (4) of Section 3 does not show that it means Sulfa also. Where there is nothing in the evidence to show that Sulfa is charas that is the resin obtained from the Indian hemp plant which has not been submitted to any manipulations other than those necessary for packing and transport, it cannot be held that Sulfa is an excisable article within the meaning of sub-section (4) of Section 3 of the Act. Hence a person possessing Sulfa cannot be convicted under Section 54 (a) of the Act. 1957 Raj LW 625: ILR (1957) 7 Raj 1082.

SECTION 16

——S. 16 (g) — Excisable article — Word "and" in Section 3 (4) (iii) — Meaning — "Fermented wash", Possession of by itself — Whether an offence. See Rajasthan Excise Act (2 of 1950), Section 3 (4) (iii). 1962 Raj LW 283.

●——S. 16 (2) — Notification by Rajasthan State withdrawing privileges granted by Ruler of Udaipur to Jamindars, to manufacture liquor for private consumption — Privilege held not right to property — No infringement of fundamental right. See Constitution of India, Article 31. AIR 1954 Raj 85 (FB).

SECTION 44

——Ss. 44 (2), 54 and 67 — Report of Excise Officer under Section 67 — If police report — Cr. P. Code, Sections 251-A and 252 — Applicability. Report of Excise Officer under Section 67 is not a police report — Procedure under Section 252 and not under Section 251-A is applicable. See Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 251-A. 1959 Cr LJ 1214: AIR 1959 Raj 248.

——S. 44 (2) — Report of Excise Officer is not report of Police Officer within meaning of Section 251-A, Cr. P. C. — (Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 251-A).

Section 44 (2) of the Rajasthan Excise Act, 1950, enables an Officer referred in sub-section (1) to exercise the same powers in respect of any investigation mentioned therein as an Officer-in-charge of the police station may exercise in a cognizable case under the provisions of Chapter 14 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. But this does not mean that the report of an excise officer would be turned into the report of a police officer. ILR (1958) 8 Raj 1206: 1959 Raj LW 1.

SECTION 47

——Ss. 47 and 54 — Conviction under Section 54 — Irregularity in search — Effect on conviction — Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 103.

A conviction of a person under Sec. 54 of the Rajasthan Excise Act for being in possession illicit liquor would not be affected by the fact that an irregularity had been committed in a search conducted under Section 47 of the Act unless he has been prejudiced by such irregularity. Nor would such irregularity render the recovery of article illegal. AIR 1929 All 937, Rel. on; AIR 1960 SC 210, Dist. 1962 Raj LW 628: ILR (1962) 12 Raj 815.

SECTION 54

——S. 54 — Conviction under Section 54 — Irreguarity in search — Effect on conviction. See Rajasthan Excise Act (2 of 1950), Section 47. 1962 Raj LW 628.

——S. 54 (d) — Excisable article — Word "and" in Section 3 (4) (iii) — Meaning — "Fermented wash", Possession of by itself — Whether an offence — The word "and" appearing in Section 3 (4) (iii) has to be read as "or" so that the possession of a still or any other appliance for distillation as well as the possession of fermented wash or similar other material for distillation would fall within the mischief of Clause (d) of Section 54 and would be an offence. See Rajasthan Excise Act (2 of 1950), Section 3 (4) (iii). 1962 Raj LW 283.

——S. 54 — Seizure of several tins of illicit liquor from house of accused — No contention that article seized was medical preparation — Article seized found fit for human consumption as an intoxicating liquor — Held, that it was excisable article within Section 3 (4) — Premises from which liquor was recovered rented by accused who was head of joint family — Accused held in possession and was rightly convicted. 1960 Raj LW 600.

——S. 54 (Proviso) — Applicability of — Does not apply in case of conviction under Section 54 (c).

Possession of a workable still is not an ingredient of an offence under Section 54 (c) and this circumstance is an ingredient of an offence under Section 54 (d). The proviso to Section 54 has reference to an offence under Section 54 (d) and it cannot be said as laying down minimum penalty for an offence under Section 54 (c). The proviso only comes into play when a person is convicted under Section 54 (d) and, therefore, a person convicted under Section 54 (c) cannot be sentenced under the proviso. 1960 Raj LW 446: ILR (1960) 10 Raj 936.

——Ss. 54, 44 (2) and 67 — Criminal P. C. (1898), Sections 251-A and 252 — Scope — 'Instituted on police report' — Report of excise officer under Section 67, Rajasthan Excise Act not a police report — Procedure under Section 252 and not under Section 251-A is applicable. See Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 251-A. 1959 Cri LJ 1214: AIR 1959 Raj 248.

——S. 54 — Offence under Section 54 is triable as warrant case — Procedure in Section 252, Cr. P. C. is to be followed — (Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 4 (1) (w) and Section 5 (2)).

The offence under Section 54 of the Rajasthan Excise Act is punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years and therefore it is triable as a warrant case. And the procedure which is to be followed by a Magistrate in trying a warrant case which is instituted otherwise than on a police report is the one that is laid down in S. 252, Criminal P. C. ILR (1958) 8 Raj 1206: 1959 Raj LW 1.

——S. 54 (a) — Sulfa, if charas — Possession of Sulfa — Offence — Conviction — Sustainability.

The definition of an intoxicating drug in sub-section (4) of Section 3 does not show that it means Sulfa also. Where there is nothing in the evidence to show that Sulfa is Charas that is the resin obtained from the Indian hemp plant which has not submitted to any manipulations other than those necessary for packing and transport, it cannot be held that Sulfa is an excisable article within the meaning of sub-section (4) of Section 3 of the Rajasthan Excise Act. Hence a person possessing sulfa cannot be convicted under Section 54 (a) of that Act. 1957 Raj LW 625: ILR (1957) 7 Raj 1082.

SECTION 54-A

——S. 54-A — Possession of liquor of different strength from what is sold.

What is an offence under the Act is the possession of any liquor in contravention of any rule which may have been made by the Excise Commissioner fixing the strength of quantity in excess of or below which the liquor shall not be possessed by any person. Unless, therefore, the Excise Commissioner has fixed the strength or the quantity of liquor by any notification with the previous sanction of the Government, the possession of liquor of a strength different from what is sold does not amount to an offence. Notification No. 4163 obviously only purports to fix the price of liquor of particular variety which can be charged by a licensee. It does not lay down the strength or quantity in excess of or below which any liquor shall not be possessed by any person. Therefore it cannot be said that the possession of the liquor is a transgression of the rule promulgated by the notification. 1957 Raj LW 438.

SECTION 57

——Ss. 57, 3 (4) (i) — For offence under Section 57 — Spirit need not be fit for human consumption.

Whether spirit is for human consumption or otherwise it is included in Section 3 (4) (i). Even if the stuff is "spirit" unfit for human consumption, a case under Section 57 can be made out against the accused person. 1960 Raj LW 215: ILR (1960) 10 Raj 738.

SECTION 67

——S. 67 (as amended in 1958) — Scope and effect of. Having regard to the amendment of Section 67 no useful purpose would be served by setting aside the conviction of the accused, on account of the fact that the procedure under Section 251-A was followed instead of procedure laid down in Section 252, Cr. P. C., for a retrial would have to be made in accordance with the same procedure as was adopted at the trial already held. It was discretionary on the High Court to exercise its revisional jurisdiction and under the circumstances of the case, when substantial justice had been done, it would not interfere with the judgment of the lower Court on a highly technical point not resulting in prejudice or injustice to the accused. See Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 251-A. 1962 (2) Cr LJ 414 (Raj).

——S. 67 — Offence under — Trial — Procedure — The procedure followed under Sec. 251-A instead of Section 252 of Criminal P. C. (1898) is illegal. See Criminal P. C. (1898), Sec. 251-A. 1959 Cr LJ 1359: AIR 1959 Raj 266 (DB).

SECTION 71

● ——S. 71 (2) — Validity — (Constitution of India, Art. 14).

Section 71 (2) of the Act is discriminatory and is therefore void. As sub-section (2) is worded, it does not contain any basis of classification itself although that it not an indispensable requirement for upholding a classification. There is nothing in the entire Act either in the preamble or elsewhere therein to show whether and if so on what basis an exemption from the operation of the provisions of the Act could be granted to any class of persons, and in respect of any excisable articles or with reference to any specified area or any specified period or occasion. It is further remarkable that the section pemits exemptions in the case of a single person as well. Section 71 (2) therefore, is clearly of character which would place unregulated and unbridled power in the hands of the Government by which it would be open to it to exempt any person whatsoever from the operation of the Act as contradistinguished from any other person without any rhyme or reason.

It follows as a necessary corollary from this that the Notification issued by the State of Rajasthan under Section 71 (2) of the Rajasthan Act must be held to be void and of no effect. Manohar Singh v. State of Rajasthan, ILR (1954) 4 Raj 113: 1955 Raj LW 98: AIR 1954 Raj 85 (93, 94) (Pt C) (Pra 24, 28) (FB).

SECTION 73

● ——S. 73 (2) — Notification by Rajasthan State withdrawing cash grants granted by Ruler of Udaipur to Jamindars, for taking away Jamindars' right to manufacture liquor for general consumption — Question, whether cessation of grant amounts to deprivation of — Suit challenging notifications would not be barred by Section 73 (2). See Constitution of India, Article 31. AIR 1954 Raj 85 (FB).

RAJASTHAN EXCISE DUTIES ORDINANCE (25 of 1949)

SECTION 5

● ——Ss. 5, 26, 28 — Rajasthan Administration (Amendment) Ordinance (5 of 1949), Section 8 (2) — Excise Rules framed under Ordinance (25 of 1949) — Publication and authentication held valid.

Held, on facts that the authentication by the Law Secretary appearing on the first page of the Gazette was intended to govern the entire notification including both the Ordinance proper and the Rules framed thereunder which became parts of the statute. Section 28 of the Ordinance authorised such a mode of promulgation and authentication. The authority that promulgated the rules having intended the signature of the Law Secretary appearing at the beginning of the publication as an authentication of the rules, the formal requirements of Section 8 (2) of the Rajasthan Administration (Amendment) Ordinance, 5 of 1949, were satisfied. Whether the authentication appeared in the beginning of the notification or at the end of it was not material. AIR 1953 Raj 145 (FB), Reversed. Union of India v. Maharaja Kishangarh Mills, Ltd., (1961) 3 SCR 524: (1961) 2 SCJ 202: AIR 1961 SC 683 (686) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

● ——Ss. 5 and 26 — Invalidity of Jaipur Excise Duties Rules 1945— (Jaipur Excise Duties Rules, 1945).

The Jaipur Excise Duties Rules of 1945, which appear at page 170 of the Hindi Gazette of Rajasthan, dated 12-11-1949 not having been proved to have been framed by the authority entitled to frame them, are invalid and of no effect. Maharaja Kishangarh Mills, Ltd. v. Union of India, ILR (1953) 3 Raj 128: 1953 Raj LW 381: AIR 1953 Raj 145 (146) (Pt E) (Pr 5) (FB).

[Reversed in AIR 1961 SC 683.]

SECTION 26

● ——Ss. 26 and 28 — Rajasthan Administration (Amendment) Ordinance (5 of 1949), Section 8 (2) — Excise Rules framed under Ordinance (25 of 1949) — Publication and authentication held valid. AIR 1953 Raj 145 (FB), Reversed. See Rajasthan Excise Duties Ordinance (25 of 1949), Section 5. AIR 1961 SC 683.

● ——Ss. 26 and 5 — Invalidity of Jaipur Excise Duties Rules (1945) — Jaipur Excise Duties Rules (1945).

The Jaipur Excise Duties Rules of 1945, which appear at page 170 of the Hindi Gazette of Rajasthan, dated 12-11-1949 not having been proved to have been framed by the authority entitled to frame them, are invalid and of no effect. Maharaja Kishangarh Mills Ltd. v. Union of India, ILR (1953) 3 Raj 128: 1953 Raj LW 381: AIR 1953 Raj 145 (146) (Pt E) (Pr 5) (FB).

[Reversed in AIR 1961 SC 683.]

SECTION 28

● ——Ss. 28, 26, 5 — Rajasthan Administration (Amendment) Ordinance (5 of 1949), Section 8 (2) — Excise Rules framed under Ordinance (25 of 1949) — Publication and authentication held valid. AIR 1953 Raj 145 (FB), Reversed. See Rajasthan Excise Duties Ordinance (25 of 1949), Section 5. AIR 1961 SC 683.

SECTION 30

——S. 30 — Constitution of India, Articles 294, 295 and 14 — Agreement between Government of former Jodhpur State and plaintiff for setting up mill by latter — State agreeing to exempt plaintiff from payment of excise duty — Agreement not enforceable against State of Rajasthan or Union of India — Contract not void under Article 14. See Constitution of India, Article 294. AIR 1960 Raj 92 (DB).

RAJASTHAN FACTORIES RULES (1951)

RULE 4

——R. 4 — Conducting business without licence — It is a continuing offence. See Factories Act

(1948), Section 6. 1955 (1) Cr LJ 333: AIR 1965 Raj 65.

RAJASTHAN FINANCE ACT (14 of 1961)

SECTION 8

——S. 8 — Rajasthan Passengers and Goods Taxation Act (18 of 1959), Section 3 — Rajasthan Finance Acts amending Section 3 of the Act of 1959 without obtaining assent of the President — Taxes imposed by the amending Act during 1961 and 1962 not valid — Effect of validating Act of 1964 — Held, that Section 4 not only validated the impugned provisions of the Finance Acts but also re-enacted them with retrospective effect — Taxes collected during the period held legal. See Constitution of India, Article 304 (b), Proviso. 1965 Raj LW 118.

RAJASTHAN FINANCE ACT (11 of 1962)

SECTION 9

——S. 9 — Rajasthan Passengers and Goods Taxation Act (18 of 1959), Section 3 — Rajasthan Finance Acts amending Section 3 of the Act of 1959 without obtaining assent of the President — Taxes imposed by the amending Act during 1961 and 1962 not valid — Effect of validating Act of 1964 — Held, that Section 4 not only validated the impugned provisions of the Finance Acts but also re-enacted them with retrospective effect — Taxes collected during the period held legal. See Constitution of India, Article 304 (b), Proviso. 1965 Raj LW 118.

RAJASTHAN FOOD GRAINS CONTROL ORDER (1949)

CLAUSE 1

——Cl. 1 — Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Amendment Act (1950), Section 10 — Rajasthan Food Grains Control Order (1949) kept in force — Notification of Rajasthan Government dated 9-6-1951, No. F. 3 (a) (iv) C. S. (F) prohibiting export of grain outside Rajasthan is valid in spite of Government of India, S. R. O. 393. See Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946) (As Extended to Rajasthan). AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 1890 (DB).

CLAUSE 4

——Cl. 4 — Scope of — Possession of grain by non-licensed person for a week is not unlawful See Rajasthan Food Grains Control Order (1949), Clause 17. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 1054.

CLAUSE 17

——Cl. 17 (1) and (2) — Relative scope — Clause 17 (1), if exception to Clause 17 (2).

Sub-clause 17 (1) cannot be treated as an exception to sub-clause 17 (2). Sub-clause 17 (1) by itself does not create any offence, it merely defines the scale of the quantity of food grains for the purposes of sub-clause (2). 1952 Raj LW 280, Dissented from. ILR (1956) 6 Raj 316: 1956 Raj LW 378: 1957 Cr LJ 665: AIR 1957 Raj 178 (179) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Cl. 17 (1) — Burden to prove that food grains in excess of that prescribed under Cl. 17 (1) had been in possession on accused for more than a week — Duty of prosecution stated. See Evidence Act (1872), Section 105. 1957 Cri LJ 665: AIR 1957 Raj 178 (DB).

——Cls. 17 and 4 — Scope of — Possession of grain by non-licensed person for a week is not unlawful. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 1054.

——Cl. 17 (1) and (2) — Scope.

Sub-rule (2) is an exception to sub-rule (1) of Rule 17. Sub-rule (1) clearly prohibits any person who is not a licensed grain dealer from retaining in his possession at any time more than 50 maunds of foodgrains. Sub-rule (2) establishes an exception for the benefit obviously of those who grow foodgrains. If, therefore, any person who is charged for contravention of Rule 17 (1) wants to take advantage of the exception provided under Rule 17 (2), it is for him to plead and prove that his case is covered by Rule 17 (2). If that were not so, it would generally be impossible to prosecute anyone for the breach of Rule 17 (1). 1952 Raj LW 280: ILR (1952) 2 Raj 286.

——Cl. 17 (1) — Mens rea.

The manner in which Rule 17 (1) is worded rules out by necessary implication the requirement of mens rea and the mere fact of possession is sufficient to establish guilt. AIR 1947 PC 135, AIR 1949 Cal 348, Disting. 1952 Raj LW 280: ILR (1952) 2 Raj 286.

——Cl. 17 — Ignorance.

Everyone is presumed to know the law. There is not even a provision corresponding to R. 119 of the Defence of India Rules in the Essential Supplies Ordinance or in the Foodgrains Control Order and, therefore, every one must be presumed to know the law as soon as it has been made. 1952 Raj LW 280: ILR (1952) 2 Raj 286.

CLAUSE 25

● ——Cl. 25 — Validity — (Constitution of India, Articles 19 (1) (g), 31 (2)).

The freezing of the stocks of foodgrains under Clause 25 of the Rajasthan Foodgrains Control Order, 1949, is reasonably related to the object, which the Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act, 1946, was intended to achieve, namely, to secure the equitable distribution and availability at fair prices and to regulate transport, distribution, disposal and acquisition of an essential commodity such as foodgrains. The first portion of the clause cannot, therefore, be held as void under Article 19 (1) (g).

The last portion of the clause, however, places an unreasonable restriction upon the carrying on of trade or business and is thus an infringement of the dealers' right under Article 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution and is therefore to that extent void.

The same result follows if the impugned clause is examined in the light of Article 31 (2) The clause by vesting the power in the authority to acquire the stocks at any price fails to fix the amount of the compensation or specify the principles on which the compensation is to be determined. The clause leaves it entirely to the discretion of the executive authority to fix any compensation it likes and thus offends against Article 31 (2). State of Rajasthan v. Nath Mal. 1954 SCJ 404: 1954 SCA 347: 1954 RLW 253: 1954 SCR 982: AIR 1954 SC 307 (308) (Prs 5, 6).

——Cl. 25 — Validity — Order directing sale of freezed stock made under — Freezing order passed under Marwar Food Grains Release Order, 1946 — If can be challenged under Constitution of India.

Clause 25 of the Rajasthan Food Grains Control Order, which provides that freezed stocks shall be liable to be requisitioned or disposed of under order of the appropriate authority at the rate fixed for purposes of Government procurement, is void both under Article 19 (1) (g) and under Article 31 (2) of the Constitution. AIR 1952 Raj 74, Foll.

Where a freezing order was made under the Marwar Food Grains Release Order, 1946, and an order directing the sale of the freezed stock was made under Clause 25 of the Rajasthan Food Grains Control Order, the former order could not be challegned under the Constitution having been made before it came into force, while the latter order is liable to be set aside. ILR (1951) 1 Raj 692: 1952 RLW 478: AIR 1952 Raj 79 (60) (Pt C) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Cl. 25 — Not void as contravening Article 14 of the Constitution — Constitution of India, Article 14.

Clause 25 of the Rajasthan Food Grains Control Order is equally applicable to all persons who come within the purview of the Order and therefore there is no discrimination in the law itself. It may be that an individual officer may exercise his discretion dishonestly, arbitrarily or capriciously and in contravention of Article 14 of the Constitution but then the officer would be going contrary to law.

The Court may not in such a case be powerless to give the subject protection against a dishonest officer, but that protection cannot be sought under Article 14 or under Article 226 of the Constitution. Clause 25, therefore, of the Rajasthan Foodgrains Control Order is not hit by Article 14 of the Constitution, and cannot be declared void on that ground. AIR 1951 Bom 132, Rel. on. (1886) 118 US 356, Dist. 1952 Cri LJ 732: 1951 Raj LW 467: ILR (1951) 1 Raj 674: AIR 1952 Raj 74 (75) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——Cl. 25 — Validity — Constitution of India, Articles 13, 19 (1) (g) and (6).

Clause 25 of the Rajasthan Food Grains Control Order gives powers to various officers mentioned therein to freeze any stocks of foodgrains held by any person. The clause does not say that no reasons need be assigned; but it gives this power without the necessity of assigning any reasons for such action. It is thus possible for any of the officers named in the clause to freeze the stock of any dealer without assigning any reason, and thus completely paralyse his trade or business. Such power is an arbitrary power, and cannot be said to be a reasonable restriction on the fundamental right conferred by Article 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution.

The provision of requisitioning foodgrains or directing their disposal under the last portion of Clause 25 at Government procurement rate, which is bound to be much lower than the ceiling price, would prevent people from carrying on trade or business which could be lawfully done at ceiling price. The last portion of Clause 25 is thus a restriction on carrying on trade or business which is a fundamental right under Article 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution of India, and the said restriction is not at all reasonable. Hence clause 25 is not saved by Article 19 (6), and, therefore, it being not in conformity with Part III of the Constitution is void. AIR 1951 Cal 90 and AIR 1951 SC 118. Applied. 1952 Cri LJ 732: 1951 Raj LW 467: ILR (1951) 1 Raj 674: AIR 1952 Raj 74 (76, 77) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 11) (DB).

——Cl. 25 — Order was not in existence prior to 26-7-1948 — Clause 25 is not saved by Article 31 (5) of the Constitution — Constitution of India, Art. 31 (5).

Even though the Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act might have been passed in 1946 orders passed thereunder must be held to have been passed on the day on which they were passed. Even, therefore, when the Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act, 1946, became applicable to Rajasthan from the 17th of August, 1950, and the Rajasthan Foodgrains Control Order, 1949, became an order under the Act of 1946, after its application to Rajasthan, the date of the Rajasthan Foodgrains Control Order could not be changed from what is actually is, namely the 12th of August, 1949. Therefore, any provision in the Rajasthan Foodgrains Control Order, 1949, as to compensation would not be saved by Article 31 (5), as that Order came into force long after the 26th of July, 1948. 1952 Cri LJ 732: 1951 Raj LJ 467: ILR (1951) 1 Raj 674: AIR 1952 Raj 74 (78) (Pt E) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Cl. 25 — Offends Article 31 (2) of the Constitution and is void — Constitution of India, Article 31 (2).

Clause 25, of the Rajasthan Food Grains Control Order which provides for requisitioning of stocks at the rate fixed for purposes of Government procurement, is void, as it offends Article 31 (2) of the Constitution, as fair compensation has not been fixed in the law for acquiring the food grains. 1952 Cri LJ 732: 1951 Raj LW 467: ILR (1951) 1 Raj 674: AIR 1952 Raj 74 (78) (Pt F) (Pr 17) (DB).

RAJASTHAN FOOD GRAINS (MOVEMENT) CONTROL ORDER (1949)

CLAUSE 5

——Cl. 5 — Offence under is complete as soon as accused obtains "Rawana" — Entering into other division is not necessary. See Rajasthan Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Ordinance (13 of 1949), S. 3. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 4656.

RAJASTHAN FOOD GRAINS (RABI) MONOPOLY PROCUREMENT ORDER (1952)

CLAUSE 6

——Cl. 6 — Validity — (Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act (1946), S. 3).

The words used in Section 3 (1) of the Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act are wide enough to include acquisition by Government of an essential commodity for the purposes of its equitable distribution and availability at fair price. Clause 6 of the Order, in so far as it provides for acquisition of property, is not ultra vires of the provisions of the Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act of 1946. Ramjidas v. State of Rajasthan, ILR (1953) 3 Raj 921: 1954 Raj LW 357: AIR 1954 Raj 97 (99) (Pt C) (Prs 12, 13) (FB).

RAJASTHAN FOOD GRAINS (RESTRICTION ON BORDER MOVEMENT) ORDER (1959)

CLAUSE 3

——Cls. 3, 4 and 5 (iv) — Charge that wheat was moved from internal border area within Rajasthan to a place outside territory of that State without necessary permit — Contention that wheat was being moved to nearest grain market within the State of Rajasthan itself — Moving of wheat without permit — Offence held technical offence — Moreover some of accused persons found only as carriers employed by another — Sentence of one year's R. I. and fine of Rs. 1,000 held excessive — Sentence of fine held alone would meet ends of justice. See Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 32. 1962 Raj LW 608: ILR (1962) 12 Raj 579.

CLAUSE 4

——Cl. 4 — Sentence — Case under Essential Commodities Act (1955), Sections 7, 8 — Moving of wheat without permit — Offence held technical offence — Some accused employed as carriers by another — Sentence of one year's R. I. and fine of Rs. 1,000 held excessive — Sentence of fine held alone would meet ends of justice. See Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 32. ILR (1962) 12 Raj 579: 1962 Raj LW 608.

CLAUSE 5

——Cl. 5 (iv) — Sentence — Case under Sections 7 and 8 of Essential Commodities Act (1955) — Moving of wheat without permit — Some accused employed as carriers by another — Sentence of one year's R. I. and fine of Rs. 1,000 held excessive — Sentence of fine held alone would meet ends of justice. See Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 32. ILR (1962) 12 Raj 579: 1962 Raj LW 608.

RAJASTHAN FOREST ACT (13 of 1953)

SECTION 35

——S. 35 — Power of Government under Section 35 to exercise control over private forests and lands — Absence of prior notice — Effect.

Section 35 no doubt gives to the Government, control even over those forests which are not its property and it can pass regulatory and prohibitory orders for certain purposes detailed therein. But it is clear at the same time before exercising such power, the Government has got to issue a notification. Then sub-section (3) clearly provides that no notification shall be made under sub-section (1) nor shall any work be commenced under sub-section (2) so long as a notice is not issued to the owner of the forest concerned requiring him to show cause within a reasonable period not exceeding one month, which has to be specified in the said notice, as to why such notification should not be made or work constructed as the case may be. It further enjoins that before making a notification, the objection of the person against whom notice has been issued must be considered by an officer duly appointed in that behalf by the Government. That officer must give to the said person an opportunity to produce evidence in support of his objection and then he should be given a hearing before it is decided. Where this procedure is not followed, the action of the Government authorities in interfering with the control of private forests cannot be justified on the basis of S. 35. 1959 Raj LW 476.

RAJASTHAN FOREST SERVICE RULES (1962)

RULE 7

——R. 7 (b) — Proviso and schedule — Officiating Sub-Divisional Forest Officer promoted as Assistant Conservator of Forests and subsequently reverted as Ranger Grade II — His juniors allowed to hold post of Sub-Divisional Forest Officers — Rule is infringed. See Constitution of India, Article 16. 1965 Raj LW 272: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 578: AIR 1966 Raj 8 (DB).

——R. 7 (ii) — Scope of — Does not deal with permanent appointment. See Constitution of India, Article 309. ILR (1965) 15 Raj 664.

SCHEDULE

——Sch. — Officiating Sub-Divisional Forest Officer promoted on ad hoc basis as Assistant Conservator of Forests and subsequently reverted as Ranger Grade II — His juniors allowed to hold post of Sub-Divisional Forest Officers — Article 16 held was violated. See Constitution of India, Article 16. 1965 Raj LW 272: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 578: AIR 1966 Raj 8 (DB).

RAJASTHAN (FORMER STATE) ORDINANCE (10 of 1949)

PREAMBLE

——Pre. — Provisions for State taking management of collection of revenue are not void — (Constitution of India, Articles 31 (1) and (2), 19 (1) (f)) (Rajasthan (Former State) Ordinance 15 of 1949).

A mere right to collect revenue is not property. Taking possession of the management of Jagir in so far as it relates to the collection of revenue and also the management of forests for which provisionally 35 per cent. of the forest income is being deducted on an ad hoc basis for supervision and administrative charges, does not amount to taking possession within the meaning of Article 31 (2), when the various right that go with the possession of the Jagir like the granting of pattas, control over unoccupied lands fall vacant to Chhutbhais, etc., all remain in the Jagirdar. The position of the State is somewhat analogous to that of an agent. If, for example, the Jagirdar appointed an agent to collect rents, there would be no transfer of possession from the Jagirdar to the agent. Under the Ordinance therefore, the Government has in a sense become statutory agent of the Jagirdar for the purposes of collection. Civil Misc. Petn. No. 894 of 1951 (Mad). AIR 1951 SC 41, Rel. on.

Therefore the two provisions taking over the management of jagir in Ordinance Nos. 10 and 15 of 1949 are not void under Article 13 (1) of the Constitution read with Article 31 (2) or under Article 19 (1) (f). 1952 Raj LW 81: ILR (1951) 1 Raj 888: AIR 1953 Raj 22 (26) (Pt D) (Pr 17) (DB).

SECTION 3

——S. 3 — Amendment to Section 8-A of Rajasthan Jagirdars (Abolition of Powers) Ordinance (27 of 1948) by Sec. 3 held had become void in view of Article 13 (1) read with Article 14 of the Constitution. 1952 Raj LW 81: ILR (1951) 1 Raj 888: AIR 1953 Raj 22 (DB).

SECTION 4

——S. 4 — Rajasthan (Former State) Ordinance (15 of 1949), Section 3 and Rajasthan Jagirdars (Abolition of Powers) Ordinance (27 of 1948), Section 8-A — Discrimination — No discrimination in Ordinances themselves but arising afterwards due to extraneous circumstances, such as subsequent integration of Rajasthan in April and May 1949, in present Rajasthan, other States having no such Law — Inequality arising between jagirdars of one part of Rajasthan with those of other parts after integration — On 26-1-1950, when Constitution of India came into force, any law which was in force in Rajasthan and which denied to any person equality before law or equal portection of Law became void to that extent — The discrimination could not be justified on the ground of classification Section 8-A, which was introduced in Rajasthan Jagirdars (Abolition of Powers) Ordinance No. 27 of 1948 by Section 4 of Rajasthan (Former State) Ordinance No. 10 of 1949, and the amendment to Section 8-A by Section 3 of Rajasthan (Former State) Ordinance No. 15 of 1949 have now become void under Article 13 (1) of the Constitution of India, read with Article 14 — (Constitution of India, Articles 13 (1) and 14). AIR 1951 SC 41, Rel. on. American case Law reviewed, 1952 Raj LW 81: ILR (1951) 1 Raj 888: AIR 1953 Raj 22 (27, 31) (Pt E) (Prs 20, 40) (DB).

RAJASTHAN GENERAL CLAUSES ACT (8 of 1955)

SECTION 14

——S. 14 — Postponement of elections by Chief Panchayat Officer — Reasons not stated — Action held illegal — Publication of result of election in Gazette — Amounts to implied cancellation of postponement order. See Panchayats — Rajasthan Panchayat Election Rules, 1954, Rule 3. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 322.

SECTION 23

——S. 23 — Power to make rules — Amendment of — Rules cannot be so amended as to have retrospective operation.

A rule, as such, cannot be so amended as to make it applicable with retrospective force by an agency which is a delegate of the sovereign statutory authority, which is the Legislature. AIR 1954 Raj 274 and AIR 1953 SC 95, Relied on. 1961 Raj LW 599: ILR (1962) 12 Raj 195.

SECTION 27

——S. 27 — Office of profit under Government — Patel appointed under Jaipur Land Revenue Act — Patel is holder of an office of profit under Government — Jaipur Land Revenue Act held to be continuing by virtue of Section 27 Rajasthan General Classes Act. See Constitution of India, Article 191. ILR (1959) 9 Raj 389.

SECTION 32

——S. 32 (48) — Government order when becomes notification.

The term 'notification' has to be considered in the light of the statutory dictionary of words provided by the Rajasthan General Clauses Act and a Government order will, in law, become a notification when it fulfills the two requisite conditions, namely: (i) its publication in the gazette, and (ii) its publication under proper authority. These conditions can be fulfilled only when the notification is published and not when it is drafted and approved in the Secretariat, hidden from public gazette and when the date is put by some officer of Government. 1965 Raj LW 358: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 897: AIR 1966 Raj 142 (149) (Pt C) (Pr 39) (DB).

——S. 32 (48) — Word "notification" in Rule 14 of Rajasthan Panchayat and Nyaya Panchayat Election Rules — Word is used in popular sense and not technical sense as in Section 32 (48) of Rajasthan General Clauses Act (1955). See Panchayats — Rajasthan Panchayat and Nyaya Panchayat Election Rules (1960), Rule 14. 1962 Raj LW 32.

RAJASTHAN GOVERNMENT BUSINESS RULES (1955)

See also Government of Rajasthan Rules of Business.

RULE 31

——R. 31 (vii) — Compulsory retirement — Rules vesting absolute authority in Government — Only Governor and Chief Minister competent to exercise power — Order not in conformity with Rules — Invalid — Rajasthan Services Rules 1951), Rule 244 (2). See Constitution of India, Article 166. ILR (1961) 11 Raj 536.

[Reversed in AIR 1963 SC 1323.]

RAJASTHAN GOVERNMENT SERVANTS AND PENSIONERS CONDUCT RULES

RULE 6

——R. 6 — Police Act (1861), Section 29 — Proceedings under, for contravention of Rule 6 of Rajasthan Government Servants and Pensioners Conduct Rules, can be taken. See Police Act (1861), Section 29. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1407.

RULE 23

——Rr. 23 and 23-A — Constitutional validity — Rules prohibiting Government Servants from becoming members of association not recognised by Government — Question of recognition left to arbitrary discretion of Executive — Rules are ultra vires the Constitution as denying fundamental rights of Government servants (including members of the police force) as a class. See Constitution of India, Article 309. 1963 (2) Cr LJ 50: AIR 1963 Raj 136 (DB).

RULE 23-A

——Rr. 23-A, 23 — Rules prohibiting Government servants from becoming members of association not recognized by Government — Question of recognition left to arbitrary discretion of Executive — Rules are ultra vires the Constitution as denying fundamental rights of Government servants (including members of the police force) as a class. See Constitution of India, Article 309. 1963 (2) Cri LJ 50: AIR 1963 Raj 136 (DB).

RAJASTHAN GRAM AND BARLEY (REGULATION OF DISTRIBUTION) ORDER (1964)

CLAUSE 1

——Cl. 1 — Rajasthan Gram and Barley (Regulation of Distribtion) Order, 1964 is issued by State Government as delegate of Central Government — Order falls under Section 3 (2) (d) of Essential Commodities Act — Order is within ambit of authority delegated to State Government. See Constitution of India, Article 245. ILR (1965) 15 Raj 684: AIR 1966 Raj 105 (DB).

——Cl. 1 — Validity — Order does not contravene Articles 303 and 304 of the Constitution See Constitution of India, Article 302. ILR (1965) 15 Raj 684: AIR 1966 Raj 105 (DB).

——Cl. 1 — Order does not contravene Articles 14 and 19 of Constitution. See Constitution of India, Article 14. ILR (1965) 15 Raj 684: AIR 1966 Raj 105 (DB).

RAJASTHAN GRAM PANCHAYAT ORDINANCE (79 of 1948)

See under Panchayats.

RAJASTHAN HIGH COURT CONDITIONS OF SERVICE OF STAFF RULES

RULE 10

——R. 10 — Appointment of Staff — Powers of Chief Justice — Extent and nature of — Appointment made on recommendations of Registrar — Article 16 of Constitution of India, not violated. See Constitution of India, Article 16. AIR 1964 Raj 13 (DB).

RAJASTHAN HIGH COURT GENERAL RULES (Civil) (1952)

See under High Court Rules and Orders.

RAJASTHAN HIGH COURT GENERAL RULES (Criminal) (1952)

See under High Court Rules and Orders.

RAJASTHAN HIGH COURT JUDGES SALARIES ORDER (1951)

CLAUSE 2

——Cl. 2 — Appointment of High Court Judge as Chairman of Election Tribunal — Performance of duties not covered by the order — Yet it would not invalidate appointment. See Representation of the People Act (1951), Section 86. AIR 1954 Raj 158 (DB).

CLAUSE 3

——Cl. 3 — Appointment of High Court Judge as Chairman of Election Tribunal — Performance of duties not covered by order — Yet it would not invalidate appointment. See Representation of the People Act (1951), Section 86. AIR 1954 Raj 158 (DB).

RAJASTHAN HIGH COURT ORDINANCE (3 of 1948)

SECTION 1

——S. 1 — High Court (of former Rajasthan) had not inherited powers of High Court of Mewar upon merger of Merwar with former State of Rajasthan.

On the merging of former State of Mewar into United States of former Rajasthan, the High Court of the former State of Rajasthan did not inherit the powers of the former High Court of Mewar. Upon the merger, the constitution of the former State of Mewar must be held to have come to an end. 1952 Raj LW 37: ILR (1951) 1 Raj 741 (DB).

RAJASTHAN HIGH COURT ORDINANCE (15 of 1949)

SECTION 15

——S. 15 — Person holding general power of attorney from party — He has no right to plead in High Court. See Civil P. C. (1908), Order 3, Rule 1. AIR 1959 Raj 35.

SECTION 17

——S. 17 — Companies Act (1913), Section 3, Proviso 3 (3) — Notification dated 9-8-1950 by Rajasthan Government empowering District Courts — Notification is intra vires, after application of Act to Rajasthan — High Court has power to entertain proceedings. See Companies Act (1913), Section 3, Proviso. AIR 1956 Raj 61 (DB).

SECTION 18

——S. 18 — Appeal against Election Tribunal's judgment under Sec. 46 Rajasthan Municipalities Act (38 of 1959) heard and decided by Single Judge of High Court — Further appeal to Division Bench though permissible under general provision of Section 18, Rajasthan High Court Ordinance (15 of 1949) — Words 'shall be final and conclusive' in special provision of Section 48 of Act 38 of 1959 imply that it is barred. See Municipalities — Rajasthan Municipalities Act (38 of 1959), Section 48. 1965 Raj LW 458: ILR (1966) 16 Raj 1159.

——S. 18 (1) — Appeal from Single Judge of High Court — Findings of fact can be interfered with.

In an appeal under Section 18 (1) from the appellate decree and judgment of a Single Judge of the High Court the findings of fact arrived by the Single Judge can be interfered with. AIR 1949 Nag 31, Distinguished; AIR 1916 Cal 843 (FB) and AIR 1949 EP 342, Rel. on. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1304: AIR 1961 Raj 52 (54) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——S. 18 — Application under Section 235 against promoter, etc., of banking company — Value of claim less than Rs. 5,000 — Sections 45-H and 45-N apply — Appeal to High Court not maintainable — Section 202 does not apply — Material time for determining right of appeal is when application under Section 235 is filed. See Companies Act (1913), Section 235. ILR (1961) 11 Raj 16.

——S. 18 — Winding-up proceedings against insurance Company — Order by single Judge dismissing application under Section 106, Insurance Act — Appeal lies to Division Bench in view of Section 110 of Insurance Act read with Section 18 (1) of Ordinance. 1960 Raj LW 158: ILR (1960) 10 Raj 775: AIR 1960 Raj 294 (295) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——S. 18 — Appeal from Single Judge to Division Bench — Limitation is governed by Rule 134 and not by Article 156 of the Limitation Act. See Rajasthan High Court Ordinance (15 of 1949), Section 46. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 629.

——S. 18 — Appeal — Scope of — Question of fact — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 100.

A special appeal under Section 18 cannot fall within the four walls of Section 100, Civil P. C. Therefore, the limitations to which an appeal under Section 100 is subject cannot be imported for the purposes of dealing with special appeals under Section 18. The word 'judgment' as used in Section 18 does not bear the meaning which has been assigned to it under Section 2 (9) of the Code of Civil Procedure; but it has been used in the sense of a sentence of the law pronounced by Court and not in the sense of the reasons which have led to that pronouncement. In such appeal it would be open to the Court of Appeal to consider all the points necessary to be investigated for the determination of the question of the correctness of the decree under appeal, and the consideration is not limited to any particular, question of fact or law. AIR 1916 Cal 843; AIR 1949 East Punjab 342, Rel. on. 1960 Raj LW 328: ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1259.

——S. 18 (1) — Appeal from Appellate decree dismissed for default — Application for restoration of appeal rejected by single Judge — No appeal lies from order of single Judge rejecting application — Held, on facts, that the order against which the appeal was presented was clearly hit by the provision in Section 18 (1) against such order. AIR 1942 Lah 95, Disting. 1960 Raj LW 256: ILR (1960) 10 Raj 379.

——S. 18 (1) — Appeal to division bench — Limitation — (Municipalities — Rajasthan Town Municipalities Act (16 of 1949), Section 19 (2)) — Elections.

Section 18 (1) of the Rajasthan High Court Ordinance is a special provision which allows an appeal from the decision of a single Judge to the High Court. There is nothing in Section 19 of the Municipalities Act (23 of 1951) which can control that provision. Therefore, where an election appeal under Section 19 (2) of the Municipalities Act is heard by a single Judge of the High Court, an appeal will lie to the High Court under Section 18 (1) of the Rajasthan High Court Ordinance (15 of 1949).

Rule 134 of the High Court Rules clearly applies to an appeal whether it be under Section 18 (1) or Section 18 (2) of the High Court Ordinance and the period of limitation in either case is 60 days. Section 19 (2) of the Municipalities Act has nothing to do with the limitation for an appeal of this kind. 1959 Raj LW 515: ILR (1958) 8 Raj 764.

——S. 18 — Order in revisional jurisdiction by single Judge of High Court is not appealable. 1956 Raj LW 158.

——S. 18 — "Judgment" — Petition for liquidation of company by creditor — Decision stayed till decision of suit instituted by creditor on his claim — Stay order is not a "judgment" and no appeal lay under Ordinance — (Letters Patent (Cal) Clause 15) — (Companies Act (1913), Section 202). AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 1628 (DB).

——S. 18 (2) — Appeal under — Case certified as fit one by single Judge for Letters Patent Appeal — Respondent cannot question fitness — (Letters Patent (Cal) Clause 15). AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 1628 (DB).

——S. 18 (2) — Letters Patent Appeal — Leave should be granted only when single Judge is of opinion that his view of law requires confirmation by large tribunal or is under misapprehension that his view might be wrong — Similarly when point in dispute is of great public or private importance or when case may form precedent — Principle is similar to that under Section 109 (c) Civil P. C. (Letters Patent (Cal), Clause 15). AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 1628 (DB).

——S. 18 — Letters Patent Appeal — New Case — Question of abatement depending on facts cannot be decided. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 1628 (DB).

——S. 18 (2) — Every mistake of law is not sufficient for certificate of fitness for appeal to Division Bench — Civil P. C. (1908), Section 109 (c). AIR 1949 Mad 741; AIR 1934 Pat 466; AIR 1932 Bom 218, Ref. 1952 Raj LW 133: ILR (1951) 1 Raj 705.

SECTION 28

——S. 28 — Dismissal of appeal under Section 12 (2), Jaipur Rent Control Order (1947) for default without perusing record — Order is without jurisdiction and can be quashed by writ of certiorari — Constitution of India, Article 226. See Houses and Rents — Jaipur Rent Control Order, 1947, Section 12 (2). AIR 1952 Raj 130 (DB).

——S. 28 — Assessment Officer of Jaipur Municipality depriving owners or occupiers of opportunity of filing objections relating to assessment list — He acts without jurisdiction and contrary to Jaipur Municipal Act (1943) — Writ of prohibition can be issued against him. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1951 Raj 139 (DB).

SECTION 30

——S. 30 — "Subject to the provisions of any law for the time being in force" — (Guardians and Wards Act (1890), Sections 9 and 25).

The words "subject to . . . . . in force" in Section 30 only imply one restriction namely that if it is possible under any law for the time being in force to apply to any other Court in India for guardianship or custody of the minor, the jurisdiction of the High Court under Section 30 is ousted. All applications for guardianship or custody of the minor which can be made to a District Court under Section 9 or Section 25 of the Guardians and Wards Act must be made to the District Court and the High Court would have no jurisdiction to entertain such an application. But where no District Court in India can entertain an application under Section 9 or Section 25, the power resides in the High Court to entertain such an application under Section 30 if the minor is within the State. ILR (1958) 8 Raj 299: 1958 Raj LW 228: AIR 1958 Raj 221 (222) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

SECTION 34

●——S. 34 — 'Law', meaning of — Rajasthan Administration Ordinance (1 of 1949), Section 3.

The term 'law' in Section 34 Rajasthan High Court Ordinance would obviously mean the law as described in Sec. 3 (2) of Rajasthan Administration Ordinance which does not include within its purview judge—made law or law deducible from decisions. Hasti Mal v. Shanker Dan, ILR (1951) 1 Raj 448: AIR 1952 Raj 7 (8) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (FB).

SECTION 40

——S. 40 — Constitution of India, Article 133 — Leave to appeal from decision of Rajasthan High Court — Conditions for — Ijlas-i-Khas Rules, 1939, held no longer in force — Leave to appeal in pursuance thereof not granted. See Constitution of India, Article 133. AIR 1951 Raj 55 (DB).

——S. 40 — Existing petition for leave to appeal or appeals against decisions of former High Court — Judgments already passed by former High Courts are not included in Section 40. See Rajasthan High Court Ordinance (15 of 1949), Section 49. AIR 1950 Raj 37 (DB).

SECTION 46

——S. 46 — Rajasthan High Court Rules are not in violation of Article 329, Constitution — Rules are mandatory — Election appeal filed without complying with rules — Appeal should be dismissed. See Representation of the People Act (1951), Section 116 (2). AIR 1965 Raj 58 (DB).

——Ss. 46, 18 — High Court Rules under, R. 134 — Rule is not ultra vires — Appeal from Single Judge to Division Bench — Limitation is governed by Rule 134 and not by Article 156 of the Limitation Act — (Limitation Act (1908), Article 156) — (High Court Rules — Rajasthan High Court Rules, Rule 134).

It is the Rule 134 of the High Court Rules, which will govern the limitation for an appeal from the decision of a single judge of the High Court to the Bench and the memorandum of appeal should be presented within 60 days.

It was fully competent for the Court under Section 46 of the Rajasthan High Court Ordinance to enact Rule 134 providing a period of limitation for presentation of such special appeals. Article 156 of the Limitation Act applies to those cases where appeals are preferred to the High Court from the decisions of the subordinate Courts.

Observation to contrary in Civil Special Appeal No. 21 of 1959, dated 15th October, 1959 (Raj) Explained and Not foll. 1960 Raj LW 250: ILR (1960) 10 Raj 629.

SECTION 49

——S. 49 — Transfer of suit by High Court to District Judge for dispossal according to law — This does not give jurisdiction to trial Court to whom the suit was transferred by District Judge — It is the duty of trial Court to consider whether suit is maintainable in any Civil Court — Civil P. C. (1908), Section 15.

When a suit was transferred under Section 49 of the Rajasthan High Court Ordinance (No. 15 of 1949) to the District Judge of Udaipur for dispossal and from that Court, it was transferred to the Additional District Judge's Court, it does not mean that the trial Court gets jurisdiction. It is the duty of the trial Court to consider whether under the law in force at the time when the suit was filed, the suit was maintainable in any Civil Court. 1952 Raj LW 37: ILR (1951) 1 Raj 741.

——Ss. 49, 40 — Existing petitions for leave to appeal or appeals against decisions of former High Court — How far affected by Sections 49 and 40 — Rajasthan Appeals and Petitions (Discontinuance) Ordinance (40 of 1949).

The Rajasthan High Court Ordinance in the first place, does not touch the existing petitions for leave to appeal or appeals already presented against the decisions of any of the former High Courts of the covenanting State. Secondly, Section 49 of the High Court Ordinance seems to refer to cases pending in the former High Courts, which are directed to be transferred to the Rajasthan High Court for disposal.

The language of the section seems to indicate that it is with respect to the pending cases that the records and documents of the former High Courts of the Covenanting States are to become the documents of the Rajasthan High Court.

Assuming, however, that it refers to all documents including those of the cases already decided, the judgments already passed by the former High Courts are not included in Section 40.

This is also made clear by the Rajasthan Appeals and Petitions (Discontinuance) Ordinance

(40 of 1949) as amended by amending Ordinance (12 of 1950). 1950 Raj LW 66: AIR 1950 Raj 37 (39) (Pt B) (Prs 7, 8) (DB).

RAJASTHAN HIGH COURT RULES (1952)

See under High Court Rules and Orders.

RAJASTHAN HIGHER JUDICIAL SERVICE RULES (1955)

RULE 1

——R. 1 — Validity — Rules framed under Article 309, but in consultation with High Court under Article 233 — Rules do not contravene Article 233 — Constitution of India, Articles 233 and 309 1965 Raj LW 14: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 390: AIR 1966 Raj 26 (31, 32) (Pt A) (Prs 10, 11) (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1967 SC 1599.]

RULE 4

——R. 4 (c) — 'Member of the service' — Officiating appointments against substantive vacancies cannot be considered as substantive appointments so as to make appointees members of the service. AIR 1958 SC 36 and AIR 1962 SC 794, Foll. 1965 Raj LW 14: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 390: AIR 1966 Raj 26 (34) (Pt F) (Pr 22) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1967 SC 1599.]

RULE 10

——R. 10 — Provision fixing proportion of vacancies to be filled by direct recruitment and by promotion — There is no curtailment of power under Article 233 (2) of the Constitution but only its regulation. See Constituion of India, Article 233 (2). 1965 Raj LW 14: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 390: AIR 1966 Raj 26 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1967 SC 1599.]

——R. 10 — Number of appointments to be made — Fixation of number and period of such appointment — Scope.

In fixing the number of vacancies all unfilled vacancies after the last recruitment can be taken into account by the Governor. Though the period mentioned in the rule may be future period only though not exceeding three years. The Governor is not however bound to determine the period as provided in Rule 10. He may decide to make appointments to the existing vacancies only and may not have any list prepared in advance for filling the vacancies occurring in future. Thus recruitment can be validly made for filling up the existing vacancies only. 1965 Raj LW 14: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 390: AIR 1966 Raj 26 (34) (Pt H) (Pr 22) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1967 SC 1599.]

RULE 13

——Rr. 13, 22 and 23 — Constitution of India, Article 233 — Consultation under rules amounts to consultation with High Court — No contravention of Article 233.

Consultation with the High Court under Article 233 means consultation with the full Court and not with a Committee consisting of the Chief Justice and a few Judges. Under Rules 13 and 22 of the Rajasthan Higher Judicial Service Rules, the selection for the post of District Judges is made by a Selection Committee consisting of the Chief Justice and two other Judges of the High Court. But it is not the Committee but the High Court which finally submits the list of suitable candidates to the Governor under Rule 23 The 'Court' can modify the list prepared by the Selection Committee. To say that consultation under the rules is consultation with the Selection Committee and not with the Court would not therefore be correct. There is thus no contravention of Article 233. 1965 Raj LW 14: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 390: AIR 1966 Raj 26 (32, 33) (Pt C) (Pr 15) (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1967 SC 1599.]

RULE 22

——Rr. 22, 13, 23 — Constitution of India, Article 233 — Consultation under rules amounts to consultation with High Court — No contravention of Article 233. See Rajasthan Higher Judicial Service Rules (1955), Rule 13. AIR 1966 Raj 26 (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1967 SC 1599.]

RULE 23

——Rr. 23, 13, 22 — Constitution of India, Article 233 — Consultation under rules amounts to consultation with High Court — No contravention of Article 233. See Rajasthan Higher Judicial Service Rules (1955), Rule 13. AIR 1966 Raj 26 (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1967 SC 1599.]

RULE 24

——R. 24 — Appointments to posts in service — Decision for appointments rests with Governor — But he has to act according to the list sent by the High Court under Rule 23 —Article 233 of the Constitution not violated — Constitution of India, Aricle 233. 1965 Raj LW 14: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 390: AIR 1966 Raj 26 (33) (Pt G) (Pr 17) (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1967 SC 1599.]

RAJASTHAN INDIAN MEDICINE ACT (5 of 1953)

SECTION 36

——S. 36 (1) — Prosecution under Section 337, Penal Code, of medical practitioner registered under Section 36 (2), Rajasthan Indian Medicine Act, 1953, for performing surgery with gross negligence — Controversy whether certificate entitled accused to practice surgery or medicine only — Court should summon Registrar, Board of Indian Medicine, Rajasthan, as a witness under Section 252 (2) Cr. P. C. See Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 252 (2). 1964 (2) Cri LJ 583: AIR 1964 Raj 242.

RAJASTHAN INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL (CONSTITUTION AND PROCEEDINGS) VALIDATING ACT (31 of 1959)

SECTION 2

——S. 2 — Tribunal originally constituted under Section 7 of Industrial Disputes Act, before its amendment in 1956 — Reference made between 10-3-1957 and 15-4-1959 — Effect of passing of validating Act — Constitution of Tribunal and reference validated by Section 2 — Act if validly prevails in Rajasthan — Constitution of India, Article 254, Schedule 7, List 3, Item 22 — Industrial Disputes Act (1947) (as amended in 1956), Section 7-A.

It is clear from the validating provisions contained in Section 2 of the Validating Act of 1959 that the Tribunal originally constituted under Section 7 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, before it was amended by Act 36 of 1956. is to be deemed to have been duly constituted under Section 7-A. and any reference made between the period of 10-3-1957 and 15-4-1959 (reference in this case was made on 18-12-1957) is to be deemed to have been made as if the Tribunal were constituted under Section 7-A of the amended Act. The Validating Act is. because of Item 22 of List III of the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution, within the competence of the State Legislature, and it was reserved for the consideration of the President and has received his assent. It must by virtue of Art. 254 (2) prevail in the State of Rajasthan. AIR 1963 Raj 22, Affirmed. H. H. The Maharana Sahib Shri Bhagwal Singh Bahadur of Udaipur v. State of Rajasthan. (1964) 5 SCR 1: (1963-64) 25 FJR 171: (1964) 1 Lab LJ 33: (1964) 1 SCWR 238: AIR 1964 SC 444 (448) (Pt B) (Pr 14).

RAJASTHAN JAGIRDARS (ABOLITION OF POWERS) ORDINANCE (27 of 1948)

See under Tenancy Laws.

RAJASTHAN JAGIRDARS' DEBT REDUCTION ACT (9 of 1957)

See under Debt Laws.

RAJASTHAN JAGIR DECISIONS AND PROCEEDINGS (VALIDATION) ACT (18 of 1955)

SECTION 1

●——S. 1 — Jaipur Matmi Rules having no statutory force cannot be treated as existing jagir law. See Tenancy Laws — Rajasthan Land Reforms and Resumption of Jagirs Act (6 of 1952). Section 2 (d). AIR 1961 Raj 146 (FB).

SECTION 3

■——S. 3 — After coming into force of Constitution Rajpramukh had no power to decide question of succession to jagirs — Rule 14 (2) of Jaipur Matmi Rules (1945) became void after Constitution. See Constitution of India, Article 154. AIR 1961 Raj 146 (FB).

——S. 3 — Power to recognise succession to jagirs in former State of Alwar — Petition for recognition pending at the time of merger of Matsya Union into Rajasthan — Order by Rajpramukh in his executive capacity recognising succession under Article 7 (3) of Covenant — If within jurisdiction — (Alwar State Jagir Rules, Rules 4, 5 and 29 (d)) — (Rajasthan Administration Ordinance (1 of 1949), Sec. 3) — (Covenant of State of Rajasthan, Article 7 (3)) — (Constitution of India, Article 226).

Held, (i) that the previous decision of the Council of Ministers of the Matsya State was a decision of the Government of that State, and by virtue of Section 3 of the Rajasthan Administration Ordinance by which all the laws in force in the former State of Alwar were continued to remain in force, the review petition could only be dealt with by the Government of Rajasthan State, vide Rule 29 (d), Alwar State Jagir Rules. The decision could no doubt be announced in the name of the Rajpramukh, but would not be one taken by the Rajpramukh in his discretion. (ii) The decision which was conveyed by the Revenue Secretary, Government of Rajasthan was not by the Government but by the Rajpramukh under Article 7 (3) of Covenant. This was without jurisdiction. (iii) As the decision was taken by the Rajpramukh in his executive capacity, it would still not be validated by Act (18 of 1955). The decision not being by the Government of Rajasthan, which takes the place of the Government of H. H. the Maharaja of Alwar referred to in R. 5 of the Alwar State Jagir Rules, it must be held to be without jurisdiction; AIR 1955 Raj 203. Foll. (iv) Even if the Rajpramukh might have the authority according to the Alwar State Jagir Rules read with the Rajasthan Administration Ordinance, who could finally decide the question of succession of a Jagir in areas to which those Rules were applicable, the decision was clearly against Rule 4 of the Alwar State Jagir Rules. There must be a finding that a certain person was the legally adopted son before he could be held to be the rightful successor under Rule 4 of the Alwar State Jagir Rules and anything short of that finding did not vest any right in the person claiming to succeed as the adopted son. 1957 Raj LW 620: ILR (1957) 7 Raj 670: AIR 1957 Raj 372 (374, 375) (Prs 13, 14) (DB).

——S. 3 — Talwarbandi dues — Recovery — Demand by State for recovery of such dues is legal — Levy held could not be struck down under Article 265 of Constitution. See Constitution of India, Article 265. AIR 1957 Raj 151 (DB).

SECTION 4

——Ss. 4, 5 and 6 — Jurisdiction of Jagir Commissioner — Cases after resumption of Jagir must be taken to Jagir Commissioner if they relate to title, right, interest in any jagir other than cases of succession or resumption of jagirs under laws of covenanting States. See Tenancy Laws — Rajasthan Land Reforms and Resumption of Jagirs Act (6 of 1952), Section 37 (as amended by Act 17 of 1955). AIR 1958 Raj 12 (DB).

SECTION 37

●——S. 37 — After coming into force of Constitution, Rajpramukh had no power to decide question of succession to Jagirs — Rules 14 (2) of Jaipur Matmi Rules (1945) became void after Constitution. See Constitution of India, Article 154. AIR 1961 Raj 146 (FB).

RAJASTHAN JAGIR DECISIONS AND PROCEEDINGS (VALIDATION) ORDINANCE (6 of 1955)

SECTION 3

——S. 3 — Effect of.

By virtue of Section 3 of the Ordinance, the various grades of revenue Courts or officers of the Rajpramukh must be deemed to have been created the forum for decision of cases relating to recognition of succession to jagirs in cases arising out of the laws of the covenanting States, and these decisions have further been validated by the same section, and prevented from being questioned in Civil Courts, as they could have been questioned in view of the decision in AIR 1955 Raj 135 (FB). ILR (1955) 5 Raj 995: AIR 1955 Raj 203 (207) (Pt G) (Pr 13) (DB).

——S. 3 — Applicability.

Succession is certainly one of the most important matters relating to jagirdars, and under item (35) of Appendix B of the notification issued by the Government of Mewar on 6-12-1940 previous sanction of His Highness would be required in this connection. Therefore, proceedings for sanction to recognise one of the disputants as jagirdar of Jilola arose under the law which required that such matters required the previous sanction of His Highness. Section 3 of the Ordinance therefore applied to these proceedings also as they arose under a law of the covenanting State. ILR (1955) 5 Raj 995: AIR 1955 Raj 203 (206) (Pt F) (Pr 12) (DB).

——S. 3 — Nature of forum.

Nature of the forum (i.e., the Rajpramukh) which has been created, and whose decisions given from 26-1-1950, have been validated by Section 3, cannot be an executive authority, for the Rajpramukh's executive authority is to be exercised in accordance with Article 154. As such the Rajpramukh can only be treated as a quasi-judicial tribunal which has been specifically created by Section 3 and whose decisions as such tribunal have been validated. ILR (1955) 5 Raj 995: AIR 1955 Raj 203 (207) (Pt H) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Ss. 3, 4 (d) — Rajpramukh exercising quasi-judicial function under Section 3 of Ordinance 3 of 1955 — Minimum requirement is that he must give hearing to parties before it — If any evidence has to be taken it should be taken by authority designated by Rajpramukh — Hearing by Minister is not same thing as hearing by Rajpramukh — AIR 1948 Bom 48, Diss. from. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1955 Raj 203 (DB).

SECTION 4

——Ss. 4 (d), 3 — Rajpramukh exercising quasi-judicial function under Section 3 of Ordinance 3 of 1955 — Minimum requirement is that he must give hearing to parties before it — If any evidence has to be taken it should be taken by authority designated by Rajpramukh — Hearing by Minister is not same thing as hearing by Rajpramukh. See Constitution of India, Article 226. AIR 1955 Raj 203 (DB).

RAJASTHAN JAIL MANUAL (1952)

CHAPTER 3

——Chap. 3 — Imprisonment for life — Sentence is to be calculated as equivalent to 25 years. See Penal Code (1860), Section 57. 1959 Cri LJ 1365: AIR 1959 Raj 273 (DB).

CHAPTER 3, PARAGRAPH 1

——Chap. 3, Para. 1 — Classification of prisoners — Government alone can do — Trial Courts are not authorised to do it — Right of prisoner to move High Court for direction. See Criminal P. C. (1898), Section 401. ILR (1959) 9 Raj 1212.

RAJASTHAN LAND ACQUISITION ACT (24 of 1953)

SECTION 3

——S. 3 (e) — Company — Essence of — Mutual agreement or contract is essence of composition of company — Khadi Gram Udyog Board in Rajasthan is not 'company' within Section 3 (e). See Land Acquisition Act (1894), Section 3 (e). ILR (1961) 11 Raj 486.

SECTION 4

——S. 4 (1) — Public notice of notification — Absence of — Effect.

The language of Section 4 (1) shows that it casts a duty on the Collector to cause public notice of substance of the Government Notification to be given at convenient places in the locality where the land, which is sought to be acquired, is situated. Issue of the public notice is very necessary, so that those persons, who are interested in the land which is sought to be acquired, may be able to file their objections under Section 5-A. It is also necessary to enable the employees of the Government to enter upon the land, make necessary survey and find out if it is suitable for the purpose for which it is sought to be acquired. It is only after such a public notice is issued that it becomes lawful for the officers to proceed under Section 4 (2). In the absence of such a notice, they are likely to find themselves in difficult situation if their entry on the land is resisted by persons who are owners or occupiers of the land. In a case where persons interested in the land come to know of the notification and they file their objections within time and the objections are decided by the Government under Section 5-A, absence of a public notice may not be considered a fatal defect for vitiating further proceedings, but the same view cannot be taken in a case where persons interested in the land are unable to file their objections under Section 5-A on account of the absence of a public notice. 1964 Raj LW 346: ILR (1964) 14 Raj 748: AIR 1964 Raj 270 (273) (Pt A) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Ss. 4, 5-A, 6 — Non-compliance with provisions of Sections 4 (1) and 5-A — Declaration under Section 6 is invalid — AIR 1952 All 752. Rel. on. 1964 Raj LW 346: ILR (1964) 14 Raj 748: AIR 1964 Raj 270 (273) (Pt B) (Pr 16) (DB).

SECTION 5-A

——Ss. 5-A, 4, 6 — Non-compliance with provisions of Sections 4 (1) and 5-A — Declaration under Section 6 is invalid. See Rajasthan Land Acquisition Act (24 of 1953), Section 4. AIR 1964 Raj 270 (DB).

SECTION 6

——Ss. 6, 5-A, 4 — Non-compliance with provisions of Sections 4 (1) and 5-A — Declaration under Section 6 is invalid. See Rajasthan Land Acquisition Act (24 of 1953), Section 4. AIR 1964 Raj 270 (DB).

——Ss. 6, 17, 9 — Notification under Section 17 not followed by notification under Section 6 — Further proceedings under Section 9 are invalid See Rajasthan Land Acquisition Act (24 of 1953), Section 17. AIR 1964 Raj 270 (DB).

——S. 6 — Arable Land — Direction under Section 17 (4) — Effect is to dispense with proceedings under Sections 5 and 5-A before making declaration under Section 6-A. See Rajasthan Land Acquisition Act (24 of 1953), Section 17 (4). AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 4673 (DB).

SECTION 9

——Ss. 9, 17, 6 — Notification under Section 17 not followed by notification under Section 6 — Further proceedings under Section 9 are invalid See Rajasthan Land Acquisition Act (24 of 1953), Sec. 17. AIR 1964 Raj 270 (DB).

——S. 9 — Arable Land — Direction under Section 17 (4) — Effect is to dispense with proceedings under Sections 5 and 5-A before making declaration under Section 6. See Rajasthan Land Acquisition Act (24 of 1953), Section 17 (4). AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 4673 (DB).

SECTION 12

——S. 12 — Collector making award under — He is not agent of State but judicial authority. See Rajasthan Land Acquisition Act (24 of 1953), Section 18. 1965 Raj LW 495: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 1192: AIR 1966 Raj 118 (DB).

——S. 12 (2) — Application for reference made beyond six weeks from date of award — Plea that applicant was not present when award was made — Plea not raised before Land Acquisition Officer or before District Judge — Held, circumstances indicated that applicant was present and affidavit filed by him that he was not present was not of much value. See Rajasthan Land Acquisition Act (24 of 1953), Section 18 (2), Proviso (a). 1965 Raj LW 495: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 1192: AIR 1966 Raj 118 (DB).

SECTION 17

——S. 17 — Urgency — It cannot be said that the words अत्यंत आव यक in Hindi could never have been used in the sense of urgency. 1964 Raj LW 346: ILR (1964) 14 Raj 748: AIR 1964 Raj 270 (274) (Pt C) (Pr 20) (DB).

——Ss. 17, 6, 9 — Notification under Section 17 not followed by notification under Section 6 — Further proceedings under Section 9 are invalid. 1964 Raj LW 346: ILR (1964) 14 Raj 748: AIR 1964 Raj 270 (274) (Pt D) (Pr 20) (DB).

——S. 17 — Question regarding urgency — Not open for judicial review — Power of High Court under Constitution of India, Article 226.

A question whether an urgency exists or not is a matter for the determination of the Government and it is not a matter for judicial review AIR 1954 Mad 481 and AIR 1955 Andhra 184 and AIR 1961 Madh Pra 140, Rel. on. The Land Acquisition Act enable the Government to acquire their property if it is needed for purposes mentioned therein, but it is extremely necessary that the provisions of this Act should be strictly followed. The question of urgency may not be justiciable, but the powers must be used only when there is urgency and they should not be used just to cover up the deficiencies, if any, left out by officers concerned under Section 4 (1) or Section 5-A. 1964 Raj LW 346: ILR (1964) 14 Raj 748: AIR 1964 Raj 270 (274) (Pt E) (Prs 20, 21) (DB).

——S. 17 (1) — "Waste or arable land" — Land in town area intended for building site, can come under either waste or arable land. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), Section 17 (1). ILR (1961) 11 Raj 486.

——S. 17 (1) — Waste or arable land — Meaning of, stated — Grass farm is waste land — (Words and Phrases). AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 4673 (DB).

——Ss. 17 (4), 6, 9 — Arable land — Direction under Section 17 (4) — Effect is to dispense with proceedings under Sections 5 and 5-A before making declaration under Section 6. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 4673 (DB).

——S. 17 (1) — Intention of Legislature —Emergency powers only are to be used in connection with open land. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 4673 (DB).

SECTION 18

——S. 18 — Reference under Section 18 rejected as time-barred — No appeal lies — Revision is entertainable. See Rajasthan Land Acquisition Act (24 of 1953), Section 54. 1965 Raj LW 495: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 1192: AIR 1966 Raj 118.

——Ss. 18 and 12 — Reference to District Judge by Collector under Section 18 (1) — Collector making award under Section 12 is not agent of State but judicial authority — Collector authorized to make reference only if application is within limitation — District Judge can go into question whether reference is valid or not.

There is a conflict of judicial opinion on the question as to whether it is open to the District Judge to go into the question as to whether the reference made under Section 18 (1) of Land Acquisition Act, 1894, by the Collector is valid or not. The Allahabad view is that the District Judge cannot go into the question of the invalidity of the reference while the Bombay view is just to the contrary. The question as to which view is preferable came up for consideration before a Division Bench of the Rajasthan High Court in AIR 1957 Raj 44 and it followed the Bombay view. In any case so far as the Rajasthan Land Acquisition Act is concerned, there is slight difference between its provisions and those of the Indian Land Acquisition Act. Under the Rajasthan Act a Government Department on whose behalf acquisition is being made can also apply for reference under Section 18 (1) and under Section 18 (3) a revision lies to the High Court under Section 115, C. P. C. against any order made by the Collector on an application for reference. That shows that the Collector making an award under Section 12 is not regarded as an agent of the State as has been held to be the case under the Indian Land Acquisition Act, but is regarded as a judicial authority. Further, even if the Collector is regarded as an agent of the State, he is a public agent and the scope of his authority is defined by the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act and an act of the Collector cannot be regarded to be on behalf of the State if he exceeds the authority given to him. The Collector can only make a reference if the application for making it is filed within the limitation prescribed under Section 18 (2). It is true that there is no express provision prohibiting him from making a reference on an application made beyond the period of limitation, but the Act confers on him authority to make a reference only if the application is made within the time so prescribed. Therefore, so far as the Rajasthan Land Acquisition Act is concerned, the Bombay view is preferable and it must be held that the District Judge has jurisdiction to go into the question as to whether the reference made by the Collector is valid or not. 1965 Raj LW 495: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 1192: AIR 1966 Raj 118 (120) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 7, 8).

——S. 18 (1) — No estoppel on a question of law — Held, State was not estopped from urging before District Judge that reference under Section 18 (1), Rajasthan Land Acquisition Act, 24 of 1953, was made on time-barred application See Evidence Act (1872), Section 115. 1965 Raj LW 495: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 1192: AIR 1966 Raj 118.

——S. 18 (2), Proviso (a) and Section 12 (2) — Application for reference made beyond six weeks from date of award — Plea that applicant was not present when award was made — Plea not raised before Land Acquisition Officer or before District Judge — Held, cicumstances indicated that applicant was present and affidavit filed by him that he was not present was not of much value — Evidence Act (1872), Section 114. 1965 Raj LW 495: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 1192: AIR 1966 Raj 118 (121) (Pt D) (Prs 10, 11).

——S. 18 (1) — Proceedings under the Act — Applicability of Sections 4, 9 to 18 and 22 of Limitation Act — Application for reference under Section 18 (1) of Act 24 of 1953 — Section 12 (2) of Limitation Act does not apply — Time taken in obtaining copy of award cannot be excluded. See Limitation Act (1963), Section 12

(2). 1965 Raj LW 495: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 1192: AIR 1966 Raj 118.

——Ss. 18 (1) and 18 (3) — Reference to Court made by Collector on time-barred application — Court competent to go into question whether reference is valid or not — Objection that application was time-barred can be raised at that time — Failure to file revision-application under Section 18 (3), against Collector's order making reference does not make the order final. 1965 Raj LW 495: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 1192: AIR 1966 Raj 118 (121, 122) (Pt F) (Pr 15).

——S. 18 (1) — Scope — Person claiming interest in land but whose claim not recognised by Collector — Section covers case of such person. 1962 Raj LW 128.

SECTION 30

——Ss. 30 and 54 — Appeal relating to apportionment of compensation under — Court-fee — Sch. II, Article 17 (iii) of Court-fees Act held applicable and not Section 8 thereof. See Court-fees Act (1870), Section 8. AIR 1957 Raj 275 (DB).

SECTION 54

——Ss. 54 and 18 — Only award by Court is appealable — Reference under Section 18, rejected as time-barred — No appeal lies — Revision is entertainable. AIR 1918 Cal 445 (2) and AIR 1914 Lah 394 and AIR 1927 Lah 858 (2), Rel. on. 1965 Raj LW 495: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 1192: AIR 1966 Raj 118 (120) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——S. 54 — Court-fees Act (1870), Section 8 and Schedule 2, Article 17, Clause (iii) — Court-fee in appeal relating to apportionment of compensation under Land Acquisition Act — Schedule II, Article 17, Clause (iii) of Court-fees Act held applicable and not Section 8 thereof. See Court-fees Act (1870), Section 8. AIR 1957 Raj 275 (DB).

RAJASTHAN LAND REFORMS AND RESUMPTION OF JAGIRS ACT (6 of 1952)

See under Tenancy Laws.

RAJASTHAN LAND REFORMS AND RESUMPTION OF JAGIRS RULES (1954)

See under Tenancy Laws.

RAJASTHAN LAND REFORMS AND RESUMPTION OF JAGIRS RULES (1957)

See under Tenancy Laws.

RAJASTHAN LAND REVENUE ACT (15 of 1956)

PREAMBLE

——Pre. — Suit for declaration that decree of revenue Court was void against plaintiff — No provision in Rajasthan Tenancy Act or Rajasthan Land Revenue Act for bringing such suit — Held, suit could be tried by Civil Court. See Civil P. C. (1908), Section 9. 1963 Raj LW 516.

SECTION 9

——S. 9 — Powers of Superintendence of Revenue Board under — Cannot be exercised where appeal lies to the Board. See Tenancy Laws — Rajasthan Tenancy Act (1955), Section 224. ILR (1961) 11 Raj 708.

SECTION 21

——Ss. 21 (a) and 125 (3) — Mutation proceedings — Nature of proceedings not contemplated — No question of proprietary rights is involved. See Tenancy Laws — Rajasthan Tenancy Act (3 of 1955), Section 293. 1963 Raj LW 186.

SECTION 35

——S. 35 — Office of profit under Government — Patel in state of Rajasthan holds office of profit. See Constitution of India, Article 191. ILR (1959) 9 Raj 389.

SECTION 83

——S. 83 — Deputy Secretary putting words "By Order" before signing order — Order is of Government and not of Deputy Secretary as such.

Where at the end of the order the Deputy Secretary has put the words "By Order" before signing the order, the order is ex facie an order of the Government passed by the Government in exercise of their revisional jurisdiction under Section 83 and not that of the Deputy Secretary as such. ILR (1965) 15 Raj 880 (DB).

SECTION 84

——S. 84 — Revisional powers of Board of Revenue — Extent of.

Section 84 confers very wide powers on the Board of Revenue to call for the record of any case of a judicial nature or connected with Settlement proceedings and pass any order that it considered appropriate. The only limitation is that this power can be exercised only where no appeal lies to the Board. An order by the Additional Collector entertaining the appeal and condoning the delay fall under Section 77 (a) of the Act and no appeal lies against any such order. That being so, it is open to the Board to exercise its jurisdiction under Section 84 of the Act and in revising the order make any order that it thinks fit. The Board is not in any manner hampered by the fact that an appeal may in due course lie either to the Settlement Commissioner or to some other authority subordinate to the Board. 1961 Raj LW 250: ILR (1961) 11 Raj 131.

SECTION 91

——S. 91 — Person granted tenancy rights by order of Bharatpur Government for term — Term expiring after Rajasthan Tenancy Act came into force — Ejectment as trespasser — Permissibility. See Tenancy Laws — Rajasthan Tenancy Act (3 of 1955), Section 15. ILR (1958) 8 Raj 825.

SECTION 114

——Ss. 114, 132 and 140 — Scope — Record of rights — Entries in Khasra Girdawari — They are to be presumed to be true until there is proof to contrary. See Evidence Act (1872), Section 35. 1959 Raj LW 381.

SECTION 125

——S. 125 (3) — Mutation proceedings — Nature of proceedings — No question of proprietary right is involved. See Tenancy Laws — Rajasthan Tenancy Act (3 of 1955), S. 293. 1963 Raj LW 186.

SECTION 184

——Ss. 184 and 193 — Partition of estate — Procedure — Application to Revenue Authorities or by Civil suit.

Under Section 184 and the subsequent section of the Rajasthan Land Revenue Act, the proceedings for partition of the estates have to be initiated by means of an application to the Collector. Of course under Section 193, the Collector can direct any party to institute a suit if the case involves a question of proprietary title, which has not been already determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction. The right to file such a suit accrues only when the Collector issues a direction requiring a party to file a civil suit. 1960 Raj LW 158: ILR (1960) 10 Raj 833.

SECTION 193

——S. 193 — Partition of estate — Proceedings thereof has to be initiated by means of application to Collector — Right to file suit accrues on Collector issuing direction to that effect. See Rajasthan Land Revenue Act (1956), Section 184. 1960 Raj LW 158: ILR (1960) 10 Raj 833.

SECTION 230

——S. 230 — Prosecution under — Warrant under — Endorsement — Extension — Procedure — Attachment of cows of B by Revenue Inspector, void — Assault on Revenue Inspector by sons of B — Latter, has not committed any offence. See Penal Code (1860), Section 392. 1964 Raj LW 617: ILR (1965) 15 Raj 166.

RAJASTHAN LAND REVENUE (ALLOTMENT OF LAND FOR AGRICULTURAL PURPOSES) RULES (1957)

RULE 15

——R. 15 — Matter relating to allotment of land for agricultural purposes — No appeal filed within prescribed period — Government is competent to call for record and pass orders thereon.

Even if no appeal is filed under Rule 15 by any party within the prescribed period against the order of allotment, this will not affect the jurisdiction of the Government to deal with the matter. The matter relating to allotment of land for agricultural purposes is nothing but a non-judicial proceeding and as the same is not connected with settlement, the State Government will be competent to call for the record of such proceedings and pass in relation thereto such orders as it thought fit. ILR (1965) 15 Raj 880 (DB).

RAJASTHAN LAWS (EXTENSION) ACT (27 of 1957)

SECTION 7

——S. 7 — Rajasthan Public Gambling Ordinance (48 of 1949), Sec. 3/4 — Ajmer Public Gambling Act (1953), Sections 3, 4 — Offence under Section 3/4 of Rajasthan Gambling Ordinance — Ordinance not extended to Ajmer Area — No offence committed.

The accused, who were residents of Ajmer City which became a part of Rajasthen State only in November, 1956, were charged under Sections 3, 4 of the Rajasthan Public Gambling Ordinance, 1949. The Magistrate acquitted them on the view that when the offences were alleged to have been committed by the accused, provisions in Sections 3, 4 of the Gambling Ordinance were not extended to Ajmer City by necessary notification under Section 1 (2) of the Ordinance and hence it could not be said that the accused committed the offences charged against them. In acquittal appeal by the State it was argued that since provisions of Sections 3, 4 of Ajmer Public Gambling Act were similar to Sections 3, 4 of the Gambling Ordinance (1949), these sections should be deemed to have remained in force in Ajmer City, till Sections 3 and 4 of the Gambling Ordinance 1949 were made applicable thereto in spite of the provisions of Section 7 of the Extension Act (1957).

Held, that Section 7 of the Extension Act repealed in toto all laws in force in Ajmer area, as were corresponding to Rajasthan Laws and, therefore, as Rajasthan Public Gambling Ordinance (1949) embodied the laws on the subject of public gambling, Ajmer Public Gambling Act (1953) must be deemed to have been repealed in toto by the Ordinance, in spite of the fact that some of the sections of the Ordinance were not brought in force in some parts of the former Ajmer State area;

As the Ajmer Gambling Act applied to whole of that former state, no separate notification for applying it to Ajmer city was necessary thereunder; but if one such were there it would have been saved under Section 7 (2) of the Extension Act. In the absence of such notification Ajmer Gambling Act must be deemed to have been repealed on all matters covered by the Rajasthan Public Gambling Ordinance (1949) and there is no room for holding that part of that law alone was repealed and part remained in force. 1962 Raj LW 208: ILR (1961) 11 Raj 779.

RAJASTHAN LIMITATION ACT (ADAPTATION) ORDINANCE (6 of 1950)

SECTION 1

——S. 1 — Retrospective operation.

The Rajasthan Ordinance No. VI of 1950 which is a law of procedure came into operation immediately on its promulgation and there was no interregnum within which litigants could avail themselves of their remedies under the old law. (In this case Dholpur Limitation Act, 1942). The new law could not have defeated pre-existing rights, if applied retrospectively, and those rights would have continued to be governed by the old law. But the Ordinance contains saving provisions and has therefore, retrospective effect. AIR 1955 Raj 97, Rel. on. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 913.

SECTION 3

——Ss. 3, 9, 11 — Bikaner State Limitation Act (2 of 1920), Article 165 — Decree by former Bikaner High Court — Execution — Repeal of Bikaner Act — Limitation applicable — Coming into force of Part B States (Laws) Act, 1951 — Effect — Limitation Act (1908), Articles 182, 183.

Bikaner State Limitation Act was repealed by the Rajasthtan Limitation Act (Adaptation) Ordinance and the Indian Limitation Act was brought into force in the whole of Rajasthan with effect from the date on which the Ordinance came into force. But in its applicability Article 182 of the Indian Act was omitted. Therefore, in spite of the repeal of the Bikaner Act, Article 165 of the Bikaner Act continued to govern an application for the enforcement of a decree passed by the former Bikaner High Court and was not governed by Article 182 of the Indian Act which was brought into force with modification by the Ordinance. After the enactment of Part B States (Laws) Act, 1951, Article 183, would apply to an application for enforcement of decree passed by the former Bikaner High Court. Government of Rajasthan v. Sangram Singh, ILR (1961) 11 Raj 984: 1961 Raj LW 664: AIR 1962 Raj 43 (49, 51) (Pt B) (Pa. 15, 16, 23, 25, 26) (FB).

SECTION 9

●——Ss. 9, 3, 11 — Bikaner State Limitation Act (2 of 1920), Article 165 — Decree by former Bikaner High Court — Execution — Repeal of Bikaner Act — Limitation applicable — Coming into force of Part B States (Laws) Act, 1951 — Article 183 of Limitation Act (1908), held applicable. See Rajasthan Limitation Act (Adaptation) Ordinance (6 of 1950), Section 3. AIR 1962 Raj 43 (FB).

——S. 9 (a) — "Suit" — Meaning of — The word suit does not include an application for execution. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 913.

——S. 9 — Construction and scope — Changes in period of limitation — Retrospective effect — Saving clauses in subsequent repealing Acts — Interpretation — Acknowledgment under prior law — Expression "period prescribed" means period prescribed not only by Articles but also by section in Act. See Limitation Act (1908) (as applied to Rajasthan by Part B States Laws Act, 1951), Section 19. AIR 1958 Raj 318 (DB).

——S. 9 — Scope of — Suit for money lent — Provision in Article 57 of Bharatpur Limitation Act prevails over Article 57 of Indian Limitation Act. See Limitation Act (1908), Section 29. AIR 1958 Raj 260.

——S. 9 — Applicability.

In order to apply Section 9, it becomes necessary to determine two points. The first question to be considered is wether the period of limitation prescribed by the Ordinance is shorter than the period of limitation prescribed by the previous law of limitation. And the next question for determination is which of the two periods expires first. ILR (1955) 5 Raj 939: 1955 Raj LW 413: AIR 1956 Raj 6 (7) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

——S. 9 — Suit to recover debt — Period of limitation is to be calculated according to Vikrami year and not Gregorian Calendar. See Limitation Act (1908), Section 25. AIR 1956 Raj 6 (DB).

●——S. 9 — Cause of action arising on 15-12-1947 — Suit instituted on 23-1-1952 — Not barred. See Marwar Limitation Act (1945), Article 64. AIR 1955 Raj 97 (FB).

SECTION 11

●——Ss. 11, 3, 9 — Bikaner State Limitation Act (2 of 1920), Article 165 — Decree by former Bikaner High Court — Execution — Repeal of Bikaner Act — Limitation applicable — Coming into force of Part B States (Laws) Act, 1951 — Article 183 of Limitation Act (1908) held applicable. See Rajasthan Limitation Act (Adaptation) Ordinance (6 of 1950), Section 3. AIR 1962 Raj 43 (FB).

——S. 11 — Scope.

Section 11 should be construed generally so as to provide for all types of applications for executing decrees passed before the promulgation of the Ordinance. While determining the period of limitation for such applications, it is desirable and necessary to invoke and adapt the principle of Section 9 (a) and to extend it to such cases. The applications for execution of which the Ordinance read with the Indian Limitation Act prescribed a shorter period can be filed within the period of 2 years next after the promulgation of the Ordinances or within the period prescribed for such applications by the old law whichever period expires first. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 913.

——S. 11 — Section 11 cannot be held to be invalid on grounds of any excessive delegation of power or on account of abrogation of any essential legislative function by the legislature. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 913.

RAJASTHAN LIMITATION ORDINANCE (33 of 1948)

SECTION 5

——S. 5 — Applicability — Suit filed within period of limitation as reduced by Ordinance — Proviso to Section 5 held not applicable and regarded as within time. See Limitation Act (1908), Pre. and Article 49. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 1634 (DB).

33

Printed by D. V. Chitaley at the All India Reporter Rotary Printing Press and by Laxmanrao Mahale — Promoter, Press Workers Auodyogic Sahkari Sanstha Ltd. at the All India Reporter Press, and published by D. V. Chitaley on behalf and in the name of the AIR Ltd., at Congress Nagar, Nagpur.

A. I. R. Commentaries Judicially Appreciated

A.I.R. 1948 Patna 460 (462) (Pr. 9) [V 35 C 161] (D.B.)—Per Meredith J.—"I will make two quotations from Chitaley and Annaji Rao's annotated edition of the Civil Procedure Code, 4th Edn. Vol. III, because those learned commentators have, in my opinion, correctly summed up the position in language which cannot be bettered."

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA.

1961 Manipur 1 (4) (Pr. 11) [A.I.R. V 48 C 1]—Tirumalpad J. C.—"What is prohibited (in Art. 23 (1)) is begar and other similar forms of forced labour. The A. I. R. Commentaries on the Constitution of India at page 635 define 'begar' as a system under which persons are pressed to carry burdens for individuals or public or to perform other forms of menial service under compulsion".

1961 All. 341 (345) (Pr. 33) [(S) A.I.R. V 43 C 126] (DB).—Desai J.—"Shri Jagdish Sahal could not cite any authority in support of his contention that the right given to the Court to draw an adverse inference is equal to compelling the accused to be a witness against himself. We notice that Chitaley in his Commentary on Constitution, Vol. I, pp. 497.498, does not see any conflict between the provisions of Art. 20 (3) and those of S. 342, Cr. P. C."

1956 J. & K. 1 (10) (Pr. 34) [(S) A.I.R. V 43 C 1] (F.B.)—Kilam J.—"The learned author Chitaley in his luminous commentary on the Constitution has, after discussing almost the whole case law on the subject, enunciated some principles which I might give more or less in his own language. According to the learned author . . . ." (Points from Note 8 (g) under Art. 21, p. 588 quoted.)

CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908.

1953 S.C. 23 (27) [A.I.R. V 40 C 7]—[Touching the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court set out in S. 115, Civil P. C.] "A large number of cases have been collected in Edn. 4 of Chitaley & Rao's Code of Civil Procedure (Vol. I) which only serve to show that the High Courts have not always appreciated the limits of the jurisdiction conferred by this section."

P. L. D. 1965 (W. P.) Lahore 590 (594, 595) (DB). — Sajjad Ahmad J.—"There has been a conflict of judicial opinion on the question of the applicability of this section to decrees in appeals under the Letters Patent. The High Courts of Bombay, Punjab, Madhya Pradesh and Madras have held that the section applies. The High Court of Patna took a contrary view (See Chitaley's Commentary on S. 114 of the Civil P. C.—headnote 1, at page 1507, Vol. II, 1963, Edition.) In a recent Full Bench decision reported in Jwala Prasad v. Jwala Bank Ltd., A. I. R. 1961 All. 881, the Allahabad High Court has held that . . . . and has overruled an earlier decision to the contrary given by another Full Bench of the same Court reported in Mst. Abhilakhi v. Sada Nand, A. I. R. 1931 All. 244."

1968 J. & K. 13 (14) (Pr. 7) [A. I. R. V 55 C 4] — J. N. Bhat J. — "The principle as laid down in certain authorities as summarized in the Commentary on Chitaley's Civil P. C. (7th Edn., Vol. 2, Page 1927) is that the Court has to see whether the suit cannot be determined in the absence of the person who applies to be made party or whether his interests will not be prejudiced by not being joined as a party".

1968 Mad. 1 (21) (Pr. 59) [A. I. R. V 55 C 1] (FB) — Venkataraman J.—"Pointing out that S. 105, C. P. C. must be read harmoniously with S. 99, C. P. C., the decisions have held that the phrase 'affecting the decision of the case' in S. 105 must be interpreted to mean 'affecting the decision of the case on merits'. The decisions will be found collected in any text book, for example, in the Commentary of A. I. R. Section 105, Note 6. . . . . "

1965 All. 527 (531) (Pr. 28) [A. I. R. V 52 C 148] — Oak J. — "Mr. Brij Lal Gupta pointed out that the Court dealing with the matter in April 1947 was a Munsif. The present suit was tried by a Civil Judge. The valuation of the suit was Rs. 85,000. The Munsif had no jurisdiction to try the present suit. Under S. 11, C. P. C., the Court trying the former suit should have been competent to try the subsequent suit itself. (See Chitaley's Commentary on the Code of Civil Procedure Volume I, Page 415). (Now see 1968 (7th Edn.) pp. 878.880)."

1965 Punj. 494 (496) [A.I.R. V 52 C 157 Pr. 7]—Shamsher Bahadur J.—"The words 'for any other substantial cause' (in O. 41, R. 27 (b)) must be read with the word 'requires' in the beginning of the sentence and need not be construed in the narrow sense suggested by the doctrine of ejusdem generis . . . . . Reference may be made to Chitaley's Commentary on the Code of Civil Procedure, Vol. IV, at page 4319".

1965 Punj. 166 (168) (Pr. 7) [A. I. R. V 52 C 55] – Shamsher Bahadur J.—"Mr. S. L. Puri has further contended that O. 21, R. 15 is not concerned with disputes inter se the decree-holders and has relied on a passage in Chitaley's Code of Civil Procedure Vol. III, 7th edition, at page 2820. It is thus stated that . . . . . ." (Contention accepted.)

1965 Kerala 104 (105) (Pr. 3) — S. Velu Pillai J. — "The rights inter se of rival purchasers in sales in execution of decrees on mortgages, have been the subject of consideration in several decided cases. The result of these has been summarised as follows in A. I. R Commentaries on Civil Procedure Code, Vol. 3, 1957 (6th) Edn., pp. 3791 and 3792. (Now see 1968 (7th Edn.), pp. 3807, 3808, O. 34, R. 1, N. 39, Pts. 26 to 34) . . . . . ."

('64) I. L. R. (1964) 1 Ker. 320 (322) — Madhavan Nair J. — "The A. I. R. Commentaries on the Code of Civil Procedure in Note No. 4 to O. 34, R. 7 put the position succinctly thus . . . . . ."

COURT-FEES ACT, 1870 & SUITS VALUATION ACT, 1887.

1968 Manipur 52 (53, 54) (Prs. 5, 12) [A. I. R. V 55 C 18]—C. Jagannadha. charyulu J. C. — "There is consensus of opinion in most of the High Courts that S. 7 (iv) (b) of the Court-fees Act does not apply to a suit for partition by a person in joint possession for partition of his share but that Art. 17 (vi) of Sch. II of the Court-fees Act applies. Vide pages 111, 112, 113, 114 and 115 of the Court-fees and Suits Valuation Act (A. I. R. Commentaries) Second Edition. . . . ."

1965 Punj. 1 (11) (Pr. 25) [A. I. R. V 52 C 1] (FB) — P. C. Pandit J. — "With regard to this definition (of 'consequential relief'), Chitaley in his Commentaries on the 'Court-fees Act and the Suits Valuation Act (Second Edition)', on page 135 has observed thus—".

CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE, 1898.

1967 Current L. J. 717 (719) — Shamsher Bahadur J.—"Prior to the enactment of this amendment (S. 139-A), the Court had by judicial decisions engrafted a law which, according to Chitaley's Commentary on the Code of Criminal Procedure, Vol. I, Page 590, was this . . . . . ."

('62) 1962 (1) Cr. L. J. 96 (98) (Pr. 13)—T. N. R. Tirumalpad J. C.—"This is the view which I find has been accepted as correct in the A. I. R. Commentaries to the Code of Criminal Procedure at Pages 830 and 831. It is seen from the said Commentaries that there is a conflict of decisions on the question . . . . . The Commentators are of the opinion that the view expressed in the Calcutta Case is not the correct view. I certainly agree with the A. I. R. Commentaries on this point."

LIMITATION ACT, 1908.

1968 Mad. 226 (229) (Pr. 5) [A. I. R. V 55 C 50] — Natesan J.—"Quoting from Chitaley and K. N. Annaji Rao on Limitation Act, it is observed therein. . . . ."

1963 Punj. 457 (459) (Pr. 7) [A. I. R. V 50 C 127] – Grover J. — "As stated in Chitaley's Limitation Act, (3rd Edition), Volume 1, Page 524, the words 'Stayed by an injunction or order' have reference to an order of a Court and not to a disability to sue or to apply arising from other causes."

1961 Pat. 134 (137) (Pr. 18) [A.I.R. V 48 C 36] – Raj Kishore Prasad J.—"The question under consideration has been thoroughly and clearly dealt with in A.I.R. Commentaries on the Indian Limitation Act, 3rd Edition, Vol. I, Note 11, page 595, Note 18, pages 601-604 and Note 32, page 688."

K. DIVISION
Acc No. 76108
24.2.70

A. I. R. COMMENTARIES JUDICIALLY APPRECIATED

1960 Kerala 306 (308) (Pr. 17) [A.I.R. V 47 C 144]—M. S. Menon and T. Joseph JJ. — "As pointed out by Chitaley : 'Where no time is fixed for delivery, if the correspondence between the parties shows that the matter was being enquired into and that there was no refusal to deliver up to well within a year of the suit, this article (Art. 31) cannot be pleaded as a bar . . . . . .' (Limitation Act, Vol. 2, Page 1137)."

REGISTRATION ACT, 1908.

1960 Madh. Pra. 3 (Pr. 8) [A. I. R. V 47 C 2] — Dixit J.—"The principle laid down in I. L. R. 4 Bom. 126 has been followed in many cases which have been noted in Chitaley's Registration Act (Second Edition) at page 867. . . . ."

1960 Mad. 244 (Pr. 9) [A.I.R. V 47 C 77] — Ramaswami J.—"It is interesting in this connection to note that the A. I. R. Commentaries on the Registration Act (Second Edition) at pages 526 to 530, after an elaborate discussion of the entire case-law and the principles of S. 77 of the Registration Act, mention at p. 530 that the view expressed by Abdur Rahman J. is correct."

STAMP ACT, 1899.

1967 Him. Pra. 29 (31) (Pr. 11) [A. I. R. V 54 C 9]—Om Prakash J. C.— "From the language, used in the document, it is capable of falling within the definition of a bond, as defined in sub.s. (5) (b) of S. 2, Stamp Act, and also within the definition of a promissory note, under sub.s. (22) of that section. The maxim being, specialia generalibus derogant, an instrument which satisfies the definition under sub.s. (5) (b) must be held to be taken out of the more general definition in sub-s. (22), vide A. I. R. Commentaries on the Stamp Act, p. 70."

TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, 1882.

1964 Punj. 210 (211) (Pr. 4) [A.I.R. V 51 C 52]—S. S. Dulat Actg. C. J. and D. K. Mahajan J. — "It is significant that the provisions of this section (S. 111, T. P. Act) have never been applied as a rule of equity, justice or good conscience by any of the High Courts in the territories to which this provision is not made applicable under S. 1 of the T. P. Act, whereas a number of cases will be found at page 173, Note 4, of Chitaley's Transfer of Property Act, Vol. I, where principles underlying the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act have been so applied . . . . . ."

1961 Mad. 28 (30) (Pr 7) [A. I. R. V 48 C 7] — Ramaswami J. — "In this connection the learned District Munsif has pertinently pointed out the implications of the decision in Gopal Chandra Das v. Harendra Nath Datta, 63 Ind. Cas. 483 (Cal.) . . . . This decision has been cited with approval in the well-known commentaries on the Transfer of Property Act by Chitaley and Annaji Rao, Third Edition (1950) page 1861".

A. I. R. MANUAL (2ND EDN.) JUDICIALLY APPRECIATED

JAGANNADHACHARYULU J. C.—"Article 14 (of the Constitution) protects all persons from discrimination by the legislative as well as executive organs of the State. Vide Note 8, Page 2673 of A. I. R. Manual Vol. 3, 2nd Edn. . . . . ."—1968 Manipur 58 (63) (Pr. 16) [A. I. R. V 55 C 21].

P. N. RAMASWAMI J. :—"For an exhaustive citation of the relevant cases (on S. 10, Cattle Trespass Act, 1871), see the most welcome 2nd (1960) Edn. of the A. I. R. Manual Vol. I referring to A. I. R. 1947 Pat. 172 = 47 Cri. L. J. 986 ; A. I. R. 1943 Sind 152 = 44 Cri. L. J. 761 ; A. I. R. 1916 Lah. 281=17 Cri. L. J. 63 ; A. I. R. 1919 Cal. 93=20 Cri. L. J. 398."—A. I. R. 1960 Mad. 331 (332)=1960 Cri. L. J. 932 (933)

—See also A. I. R. 1960 Mad. 443 (446) = 1960 Cri. L. J. 1340 (1344) (Vol. 4 of the A. I. R. Manual (2nd Edn.) referred to.]